Canoe Landing wrestling title up for grabs

HAMMONDSPORT — The sixth annual Canoe Landing wrestling tournament begins tomorrow at Hammondsport High School with 12 teams battling it out for the coveted title in Steuben County wrestling. 1-18-85

Weigh-ins for the tourney begin at 7:30 a.m. with wrestling set to start at 10:15 on three mats. Consolation finals will begin at 6:30 p.m. and the finals start at 8.

Addison, Avoca, Bolivar, Campbell, Candor, Corning, Hammondsport, Penn Yan, South Seneca, Watkins Glen, Wellsville and Windsor are the 12 teams in the tournament. Brighton, last year's champ, was unable to fit the tourney in its schedule. 1-18-85

"I bill this as the best wrestling tournament in the county," Hammondsport coach Tom Kressly said. "Last year Brighton won the title with 145 points. Watkins Glen was second with 121 and the next nine or 10 teams were all in the 90s. One or two kids either way could have changed team positions."

The tourney has four returning champions. Dana Wright and Maynard Aungst of Corning return as does Gary Hively and Curt Rice of Addison.

As for a prediction on this year's winner, Kressly thinks Penn Yan has a good squad with Watkins Glen and Corning much improved from last year.

"Corning finished sixth last year and with two returning champs, they could be in the top three," Kressly said.

The tournament is open to 14 weight classes from 91 pounds up to unlimited. Although the tournament takes all day, wrestlers are limited to three bouts by the New York State Public High School Athletic Association. 1-18-85

Wrestlers are awared two team points for advancing along the championship bracket and one point for advancing in the consolation. A wrestler can pick up two more points for a pin, one point for a superior decision and ½ point for a major decision.

"As I tell my kids: 'The first thing you have to do is win, but strive for the extra points.' Those extra points can make all the difference as some teams may not have as many wrestlers but still can finish at the top because of pins or big decisions," Kressly said.

Medals will be awarded to the first three places in each weight class and a team trophy will be given to the first-place team.

A Real Beauty

A huge rack

Harold Nye is shown with a 14 point buck deer he bagged near Tupper Lake in late November. The buck had a 26 inch span between the racks and dressed out about 200 pounds.

Penn Yan grapples title in Canoe Landing Tournament

HAMMONDSPORT — The list of wrestlers at the sixth annual Canoe Landing Tournament could have been listed in a Who's who book. Several of the grapplers were undefeated and many more had impressive credentials from other tourneys.

Penn Yan would turn out to be the most impressive as they won the team competition with 140 points. The Mustangs were led to victory by Ron Thompson's finals' win in the 91-pound class as he pinned Windsor's John Nabinger in 58 seconds. At the 98-pound class, Penn Yan's Bruce Lafler pinned Kurt Rice of Addison at the 3:32 mark. 1-21-85

Windsor came in second with a total of 124 while Campbell (114.5), Bolivar (112), and Corning (111.5) were separated by two points for the third, fourth, and fifth spots.

Campbell coach Kevin Rosko was surprised by his third-place finish though he had three titlists. Dale Chapin dominated Penn Yan's Steve Payne 9-0 in the 105-pound finals.

Chapin also placed first in the Steuben County, Section V, and Campbell tournaments last year and lived up to his No. 1 seeding. Several times Chapin was close to pinning Payne, but he settled for the major decision and kept his record spotless at 12-0.

Rosko's other winners were Terry Herrick, who blanked Jim Lamoreaux of Windser, 10-0, and Matt LeBarron in the 250-pound class who outpointed Mike Townsend of Windser, 7-5. Campbell had one other wrestler in the finals but Joe Guiles was pinned by Dana Wright of Corning at 1:04.

"I didn't expect to finish in the top five," Rosko said. "But I'm pleasantly surprised at the results. All the wrestlers were just super. This was a better quality tournament than the county tournament." 1-21-85

The host team, Hammondsport, had one champion in Ed Young at 132. Young pinned Gary Hammond of Avoca at 3:58. Young, who was the champion of the Campbell Christmas tourney, brought the home crowd to its feet as he claimed first place and remained undefeated with a 14-0 mark.

The Lakers had a brief scare later on in the finals. Bob Kennedy, Hammondsport's 167-pound entrant, was flipped onto the mat by Bolivar's Larry Smith and knocked unconcious. Smith was declared the winner by an injury default.

"Bob (Kennedy) was out for about 15 seconds," Hammondsport coach Tom Kressly said. "He wanted to continue wrestling, but I didn't think he should."

The Corning team had its ups and downs. The squad had two champions and two runners-up. Besides Wright's win at 112, Doug Gulick outpointed Mike Payne of Penn Yan, 11-8 in the 155-pound weight class. With Wright's win, he becomes a four-time champion of the tournament.

Gulick went from a near disaster to a close win. Payne had taken a 6-0 lead and was inches from pinning Gulick. Gulick reversed the situation almost pinning Payne but still tied the match at six. In the final period, Payne regained the lead at 8-6 but Gulick again came back to record an 11-8 win. 1-21-85

"I'm real proud of Doug," Corning coach Lou Fiorillo said. "It was a super comeback. For Dana, it was the best he's wrestled all year. Even though he's had a good year, his technique was just great tonight."

Corning's second place finishers were Steve Elliott (138), who was pinned by Bolivar's Mike Dunsmore at the 3:32 mark, and Maynard Aungst (126) who lost in overtime, 6-0.

In two other matches, Tim Stives of Bolivar pinned Mike Upham of Watkins Glen at 2:38, while Gary Hively (177) of Addison outpointed Ike Fanton of Wellsville, 8-2. Hively increases his overall record to 60-6. He has captured the tourney the past two seasons and has been the Steuben County champion three years running.

"The tournament ran exceptionally well," Kressly said. "We had a good cluster of teams and everyone wrestled well."

SOUTHERN TIER DIVISION II

Gowanda: "We'll be pretty much relying on guys that have been with us," said sixth-year coach Chuck Newton, who has letterman back from last year's 10-4 team. "We probably have more balanced scoring this year than last and our veterans will do the bulk of the work."

Division II tourney champ Ray Logan at 126, runnerup John Whalen (22-7) at 138, senior Craig Loomis (15 wins) at 145 and sophomore Dan Kusionski (15 wins) at 112 are the top returnees. Gone is Joe Kusionski (25-3 with 21 pins).

Randolph: Tenth-year coach Doug Seamons has eight starters back off a 9-4 team that finished second to Frewsburg at 7-1 in league matches. 12-11-84

Giving Randolph a strong opening punch is freshman Bill Young (28-5), while Ron Sample (14-4), Dan Hoxie (12-12), Brad Howard (13-13), Tim Neal (20-12) and Bunky Zollinger (12 wins) provide strength through the middle.

OTHERS

Pioneer: Five seniors starters, all in their third year of varsity and all ECIC South Division Tournament placewinners, will carry the load for Pioneer, 11-2 last year after back-to-back 13-0 seasons.

Heading the list are tourney champs Troy Almeter and Eric Romesser, runnersup Dan Benjamin and Sean Murray and fourth-place finisher Mike Carter. Also returning are Tim and Pat Barnes at 98 and 105, repectively.

Alfred-Almond: "There is a lot of potential on this team," said head coach Gary Lloyd. "If we have any weakness, it's in the middle."

Twenty-match winners Scott Weeks and Butch Hadsell give A-A a solid one-two punch at heavyweight and unlimited, while sophomore Ace Wood, fifth in the Section 5 Class D tournament, is one of the area's top returning lightweights. Five senior starters are gone from last year's 6-4 team, including sectional finalists Roy Doane and Lynn Herrick.

Other returnees are juniors John Bouchard and Dave Decker and sophomores Gary Moore and Dan Cornell.

Fillmore: This is the second year of a four-year building plan for coach Vic Sylor. Wrestling for the first time last year, Fillmore was 1-10-1, but Sylor hopes for steady improvement.

"We're shooting for .500 in four years," said Sylor, whose team is off to an 0-3 start. "This year, there's not a big improvement in the team overall, but I think some of our individuals could do well."

Big 30 Wrestling

FRANKLINVILLE — Ten weeks ago, Dave Lacy's high school wrestling career appeared to be over when he broke a leg in a quadrangular meet at Franklinville.

But today, the Cattaraugus senior is gearing for his first Section 6 (five WNY counties) championship in the 155-pound class.

On Friday, Lacy returned from his injury to win the 155-pound title in the Tri-County League Tournament, qualifying him for next weekend's sectional event at Niagara Community College.

Lacy (3-1) was one of five Cattaraugus wrestlers to advance, joining eighth-grader Sam Grey (13-10), freshman Shawn Booth (20-6), and seniors Paul Bryant (15-8-1) and Gene Story (13-9).

Other champions were ninth-grader Terry Shaw (12-5), junior Tim Skroback (9-6) and junior Andy Wheeler (8-7) of Portville, eighth-grader Ray Ryan (22-6), junior Dan Norton (20-4-1) and senior Jack Peck (21-5-1) of Allegany, and sophomore Brett Riethmiller (13-11), senior Craig Johnson (16-9) and senior Bob Friedrick (3-3) of Franklinville.

Franklinville's Matt Clark (16-9), a runner-up at 132, was the coaches' wild-card selection to advance to sectionals.

Rankings Become Easier

By TOM ROOF
Times Herald Sports Writer

The best thing Big 30 wrestling fans could do now would be to send Southwestern Central School wrestling coach Walt Thurnau a greetings card.

The card should wish him the best after he gave area mat buffs the perfect holiday gift last weekend — a 14-team tournament that attracted eight area schools, including the top four teams in the Times Herald poll.

The tournament proved to be the perfect barometer in realigning this week's top ten. New York powers Olean High, ranked No. 1, and Bolivar will not meet Pennsylvania powers Ridgway and Kane again this year. It was the first and last chance for each of these teams to show its strength against the other.

And for the most part, the results weren't that surprising.

Olean solidified its top billing by not only winning the tournament title, but by outdistancing its closest Big 30 challenger, Ridgway, which placed fifth, 198-162½. Kane, meanwhile, placed sixth with 149½ points and Bolivar a distant seventh with 86.

The finish caused some reshuffling of this week's Top Ten. Olean remained No. 1 for the third straight week, while Ridgway (No. 2) and Kane (No. 3) switched spots. Bolivar, meanwhile, dropped a notch to No. 5, and Coudersport, which placed third in the Troy Tournament, went from fifth to fourth.

TH HIGH SCHOOL WRESTLING POLL

The Times Herald weekly Big 30 high school wrestling poll:

	W	L	T		W	L	T
1. Olean High	2	0	0	6. St.Marys Pub.	3	0	0
2. Ridgway	2	0	0	7. Pioneer	2	0	0
3. Kane	1	0	0	8. Gowanda	1	0	1
4. Coudersport	3	0	0	9. Brockway	1	0	0
5. Bolivar	1	0	0	10. Port Allegany	2	0	0

The remaining Top 10 teams retained their same rankings from the previous week — St. Marys Public (No. 6), Pioneer (No. 7), Gowanda (No. 8), Brockway (No. 9) and Port Allegany (No. 10).

FOUR TOURNAMENTS are scheduled this weekend that involve area teams, the biggest of which is in Warren. Sixteen teams will gather in that school's biggest tournament ever.

The Friday-Saturday tourney will have a 10 a.m. start each day, with the consolation finals getting underway at 6 p.m. Saturday with the championship finals set for 8 p.m.

The event should prove to be another measuring devise for the TH Poll, as Pioneer will make the trip south for its only meeting this year with Kane and St. Marys Public.

Emporium, Johnsonburg, Sheffield and Bradford High are the other Big 30 teams entered.

Elsewhere, Ridgway is at the Top Hat Tournament in Williamsport, Brockway at the Redbank Tournament, and Randolph and Portville at the Dunkirk Tournament.

Thirteen varsity and 27 junior varsity teams will be at Dunkirk, which runs Friday only. Five mats will be used, with wrestling getting started around 9 a.m. Dunkirk coach Jim Leamon says the Southern Tier Wrestling Officials will be donating their services to the second-year tournament "to promote wrestling." Frewsburg is the defending tourney champions.

12-27-84

THREE BIG 30 wrestlers, Olean High's 98-pounder Jeff Prescott, Salamanca's 105-pounder Mark Swiech, and Portille's 145-pounder Sean Konert, boast the best individual records thus far this season with 9-0 marks. The trio head this week's listing of the winningest wrestlers (three or more decisions) in the Big 30 region.

The compilation will be included each week with this column along with the won-loss records of each of the 27 teams in the Big 30.

A total of 25 wrestlers have 3-0 records or better while 14 have posted records of 5-0 or better. Also among the winningest matmen are Smethport's T.J. Reap (7-0) and Bolivar's Larry Smith (8-0).

JAMESTOWN — Salamanca's Marc Swiech was named the outstanding wrestler, and Ridgway led with three champions, but it was Olean High School that carted off the biggest prize Saturday at the Southwestern tournament.

Led by champions Jeff Prescott and Steve Irving, Olean topped a 14-team field with 198 points and showed its depth with 11 of its 14 wrestlers finishing in the top six.

"Even though we had only three guys in the finals, the kids came through in the wrestlebacks and got the points for us," said Olean coach Jim Myers. "We got a lot of points from a lot of different people."

Prescott (9-0, all pins) pinned his way to the 98-pound title and picked up another award for having the tourney's fastest fall. Irving, meanwhile, captured the 126-pound title with a 7-0 decision over Falconer's Joel Sopak. The win boosted Irving's mark to 8-1 on the year.

The team title was Olean's first since winning the Williamsville North Tournament at the beginning of last season.

"It was nice to get this one," Myers said, "after having last week's tournament slip through our fingers."

Swiech's 105-pound title, earning him the tourney's first outstanding wrestlers award, came at the expense of Maple Grove's Jim Nalbone, who was 33-3 a year ago and placed second in the Section 6 championships. Salamanca's only other placewinners were Eric Swiech (fifth at 98), Chris Printup (sixth at 132) and Jess Wilson (sixth at 215).

Ridgway was the second-highest Big 30 finisher, placing fifth, and its eight placewinners (top four) matched Olean for tourney best. Winning titles for Ridgway were Steve Davido (112), Jeff Stenta (155) and Ed Parker (215), while Don Hoffman and Bill Lyle placed second.

Other Big 30 champs were Jack Bell (132) of Kane, Robb Klucik (145) of Olean Walsh and Larry Smith (167) of Bolivar.

Mat Powers In Tourney

By TOM ROOF
Times Herald Sports Writer

With the season only a week old, there has been little change in the Times Herald Big 30 Wrestling Poll. In fact, the top five teams all retained their pre-season rankings. 12-20-84

All of which could change, however, after this weekend as four of those teams, No. 1 Olean High, No. 2 Kane, No. 3 Ridgway and No. 4 Bolivar, will meet in the first Southwestern Tournament — booked for Friday and Saturday at Southwestern High School in Jamestown.

The invitational, sprouting out of the demise of the St. Bonaventure tourney, has a 14-team field and the makings of a top-notch event.

Besides the above-mentioned foursome, also making the trip will be Portville, Salamanca, Olean Walsh, Jamestown, Falconer, Maple Grove, Wellsville and Youngsville.

Kane enters the tourney as reigning District 9 Class AA team champion and on a 16-match win streak, while Iroquois already has one tourney title under its belt this season — winning its own eight-team tournament last weekend..

Seeding for the two-day event was done Wednesday night with 11 Big 30 wrestlers grabbing the top spot. They are: Tom Worth (91 pounds), Jeff Prescott (98), Steve Irving (126), Jeff Gabler (155) and Matt Martin (250) from Olean High; Jack Bell (132) of Kane; Steve Davido (112) and Ed Parker (215) of Ridgway; Sean Konert (145) of Portville; and Jeff McDonald (119) and Larry Smith (167) of Bolivar.

Also seeded first are Maple Grove's Jim Nalbone at 105, Southwestern's Ken Trimmer at 138, and Iroquois' Ron Kustrzebski at 177.

McDonald and Irving find themselves in two of the tougher weight classes. McDonald is in a group that includes two state qualifiers, Falconer's Rod Waddington and Kane's Seth Bloomquist. Irving, meanwhile, was seeded ahead of Kane's Duane Blankenship, a former district champ and state qualifier, and Falconer's Joel Sopak.

Wrestling will get underway at 5 p.m. Friday and is scheduled to end at 10:30 p.m. Saturday's action starts at 10 a.m., with the consolation finals set for 6:30 p.m. and the championship finals at 8.

WHILE THE TOP five poll teams remain unchanged this week, there was some juggling among the second five. St. Marys Public (2-0) jumped two notches from No. 8 to No. 6 as did Pioneer (2-0), going from No. 9 to No. 7.

Smethport, formerly sixth, was dropped after losing its first two duals and placing seventh in the Portville Tournament. Gowanda, tied by Salamanca, 26-26, in its only appearance since last Thursday, landed in the eighth spot, and Brockway went from No. 10 to No. 9.

With a 63-6 win over St. Marys Elk and a strong fourth-place finish at Portville, Port Allegany moved into the No. 10 slot.

5. Coudersport	2	0	0	10. Port Allegany	1	0	0

THE NEW YORK STATE Sports Writers Association state wrestling rankings this week puts Olean High at No. 19, Huntington (Section 11, Long Island) No. 1, and Clarence, which Olean barely lost to in last weekend's Williamsville North tourney, No. 11.

Section 5 teams ranked were East Rochester (3rd), Brockport (10th), Canandaigua (12th) and Webster (20th).

THE MUCH sought-after two-division New York State wrestling championships — for large and small schools — has been voted down.

According to state mat chairman Reid Hawk of Syracuse, the state's athletic council thought the increase in cost would be too much of a burden on the sections.

Hawk, however, doesn't believe the large-school, small-school tournament is a dead issue.

"I think what happened is that it just came at the wrong time," he said. "But it's something we still want to push for. It's just going to take a lot of effort on everybody's part to get it through."

Also defeated in a recent vote of the executive council was a proposal for a state dual meet.

This year's state championships again will be held at the War Memorial in Syracuse, March 1-2. The chances of changing the site to the Carrier Dome are unlikely, according to Hawk.

"We have a good arrangement where we're at, and we haven't outgrown the building yet," he said.

DUNKIRK — Portville Central School had six placewinners, including four champions, to finish fifth in the 12-team Dunkirk Tournament here Friday.

Although winless in its only two dual meets, Portville is proving to be a much better tournament team, having placed third earlier this season in its own tournament. 12-29-84

Leading Portville were champions Sean Konert (11-0) at 145, Brian Bowen at 105, Brendan Martin at 119 and Matt Milne (8-4) at 167.

Konert was named the tournament's Most Outstanding Wrestler with three pin wins, including a fall in 1:36 over Gowanda standout John Whalen in the championship bout. The tourney title was the second for Konert this season.

Dunkirk, which also had four champs, won the tournament title while defending champ Frewsburg placed second.

Two other Big 30 teams entered, Randolph and Gowanda, placed sixth and eighth, respectively.

Billy Young was Randolph's top finisher, losing 3-2 in the championship finals to Chido Fred of Dunkirk. Whalen's second was best for Gowanda, which got thirds from Bob Cygan, Craig Loomis, Mark Ingersoll and Steve Smith.

Hamburg's Bill Kowaleski, who recorded three falls, won the tournament's pin trophy for most falls in the least amount of time.

A number of consolation final matches went uncontested and were announced as ties due to a Section 6 regulation limiting wrestlers to four matches in one day.

WARREN — The 15-team Warren Tournament is shaping up as a heavyweight tussle as only 10½ points separate the top five teams heading into today's action.

With two rounds completed, St. Marys Public, ranked No. 6 in this week's Times Herald Wrestling Poll, heads the field with 48½ points. Advancing to the semifinals for St. Marys, unbeaten in three dual meets, are Tim Wurm (126), John Anderson (145) and Scott Taylor (heavyweight).

Wrestling resumed this morning with the semifinals having begun at 2 p.m., the consolation finals coming at 6 and the championship finals at 8.

Other Big 30 wrestlers advancing to the semis with two wins each were: Scott Rimer (112) and Scott Strum (119) of Johnsonburg, which has nine wrestlers alive; Rob Breast (105) and Paul Webster (heavyweight) of Bradford, eight remaining in all; Troy Almeter (126), Eric Romesser (138) and Dan Benjamin (145) of Pioneer, nine wrestlers left; and Tim McMeans (138), Joe Posten (167) and Don Posten (185) of Sheffield. Also advancing to the semis were Jack Bell (132) and Rich Geer (185) of Kane.

"A lot in the team scoring will change Saturday," said Pioneer coach Ron Brunner. "We'll be in a much better position then to pick up some team points. But I'd have to say this is a very good tournament. It's good for us to get down this way and see some of these Pennsylvania teams. There's a lot of good wrestling here."

The tournament, which was expanded from just a county tournament, orginially had 16 teams entered until Falconer dropped out. 12-29-84

WILLIAMSPORT TOURNAMENT
Ridgway In 11th Place

WILLIAMSPORT — Only four Ridgway wrestlers survived first-day action here Friday in the 16-team Top Hat Tournament, and all find themselves in the consolation quarterfinals.

Still remaining for Ridgway are Jerry Roosenhoover at 132, Don Hoffman (7-2) at 138, Jeff Stenta (8-1) at 155 and Bill Lyle at heavyweight.

Steve Davido, who last week won the Southwestern Tournament, and previously undefeated Ed Parker, another champ from that tourney, were among those Ridgway wrestlers eliminated.

PORTVILLE — Either first-year Portville Central School wrestling coach Jerry Bowen was trying to be discreet, or he's just naturally a quiet guy.

Whatever the reason, during pre-season drills Bowen let few secrets escape about his wrestling team. Saturday, however, enough was heard from Portville on the mat to make up for Bowen's restrained demeanor. 12-17-84

Led by 145-pound champion Sean Konert, Portville had six placewinners and finished a strong third in the 14-team Portville Invitational, a marked improvement from its last-place finish in a 10-team field a year ago.

Even afterwards, though, Bowen never swayed from character.

"The season has just begun," he said. "I have no idea how we'll do. But I'm not surprised how we did. I honestly thought we'd be good."

Despite not having an individual champ, Grove City, Pa., won its second team title in three years with 118 points — the lowest point total for a winning team in the six-year history of the event. Bolivar, meanwhile, recorded its best finish since 1979 by placing second, edging out Portville, 95½ to 95.

The battle for second place in the team standings boiled down to the 215-pound title bout, in which Bolivar senior and former basketball player Tim Stives met Portville sophomore Jack Holcomb, both of whom had pinned their way to the finals.

The match, however, ended abruptly as Stives won by default in 2:35 when Holcomb crashed the mat hard, dislocating his shoulder. Holcomb is expected to be out at least six weeks.

Konert, who wrestled for Olean High last season, was named the tournament's Most Outstanding Wrestler after registering three falls and stopping Olean Walsh's Ron Klucik, 10-2, in the finals.

Klucik was one of seven former champions wrestling, but just four retained their titles — Jamestown junior Steve Minarovich, Smethport senior Todd Rice, Bolivar senior Jim McDonald and Emporium senior Nick Guisto.

McDonald (5-0) won his third Portville title by pinning 1982 champ Bob Grace of Grove City in a rematch of last year's 119-pound final. Larry Smith then won the 167-pound class to give Bolivar, ranked No. 4 in the Times Herald Wrestling Poll, three champions.

Emporium 155-pounder Bob Lamont was the only other wrestler not to retain his title, losing in the finals by default to Oswayo Valley's lone champion, Khris Fuller.

Also collecting championships were Allegany freshman Mike Benca, Port Allegany's Troy Shall and Jim Buchsenschultz, Fredonia's Mike Leone, and Smethport's T.J. Reap.

Was Fuller's 1st Loss A 'Fluke?'

By TOM ROOF
Times Herald Sports Writer

On Kris Fuller's matchup with Bolivar's Larry Smith on Monday, you can't help but side with Oswayo Valley High School second-year coach Mark Bowman, even though he may have overplayed his wrestler and the match a bit too much.

Fuller of OV dropped his first match of the season after 16 wins, 11-6, to the once-beaten Smith. 2-7-85

What wasn't nice, however, was his saying Fuller's loss to Sheffield's Joe Posten on Tuesday was "a fluke" in Wednesday's Times Herald.

"The pin was a fluke, not the loss," Bowman clarified.

Posten is a quality wrestler that has proven himself over a four-year varsity career. Posten won 34 matches over the last two years, and presently is 17-4 in his senior season.

Fuller, meanwhile, IS the cream of the North Tier crop. But how far that takes one is a wild guess.

Last year for the first time, NT teams had the best showing in the District 9 championships of any area in the seven-county Pa. region. This year, the five North Tier schools have taken it on the chin against other district opponents.

In dual meet results, Smethport, Oswayo Valley, Port Allegany, Emporium and Coudersport have a combined 5-11 record outside their area. Three of those victories have come over winless St. Marys Elk, and the other two against Bradford High (4-9). The point is, is the best of the North Tier comparable to the best of the southern section of District 9?

Individually, there are exceptions—i.e., Emporium's Don Horning, who won a state title a year ago. But Emporium long has had a tradition of facing a more difficult schedule than other NT teams.

Bowman should be lauded for his part in getting Fuller and Smith head-to-head, especially since Fuller is a 155-pounder and moved up a class to face Smith, who weighed in at 170 and carrys a 23-1 record.

It's that kind of preperation that gets a kid through districts and into post-district competition. But remarking that Fuller's loss to Posten "would never happen again in a million years" is an inexcusable assessment of what wrestling is like away from home.

Bolivar wins Section V

GENESEO — The Bolivar Bulldog Wrestling team came home Saturday with a strong win of the Class D Section V wrestling tournament. The new Section V champions had five members of its team compete in the final championship round. Last year, Bolivar lost by two points to Lyndonville at the championships.

Cattaraugus Central School grabbed sole possession of first place in the Tri-County Wrestling League by scoring a 31-21 victory over Olean Walsh, one of five dual-meet matches dotting the six-county Big 30 area Wednesday night.

Despite sporting the best mat record in the Big 30 to date at 7-0, Cattaraugus coach Don Walter warns, "We still make mistakes. We have a lot of young kids (Darrin Pound, Kyle Wilkins and Chris Wells are the only senior starters). Friday night we go against Pine Valley. Even though they lost two of their better boys, they're still decidedly balanced and that will be a big test for us."

Allegany 36, Wellsville 33

For the second straight match, undermanned Wellsville dominated the individual action — winning five of six bouts — yet lost, because it forfeited five other bouts.

Coach Doug Seamons "took a chance and lucked out," bumping his wrestlers from 112 on up to the next weight class, and the move paid off handsomely for Randolph (3-1 overall).

"I knew Pine Valley's strength was in the upper weights," Seamons admitted. Bill Young (6-1 record, fourth straight pin win) and Ron Sample each came through with key victories, while Tim Neal and Brad Howard each improved to 6-1 for the winners.

Whistle Didn't Play Sweet Music To Ridgway's Mat Coach

JR.

Somebody blew the whistle Thursday night on Ridgway High School, but it's head coach Gary Gerber crying foul. 1-4-85

In a bizzare development during a Big 30 wrestling clash between second-ranked ranked Ridgway and No. 6 rated St. Marys Public, an untimely whistle from the stands possibly cost Ridgway a win in the 112-pound match and helped undefeated St. Marys to a 33-30 victory, its first ever against Ridgway in 17 meetings.

"I'm really ticked off about this," said Gerber, "not at St. Marys or the official, but some jerk in the stands who blew a whistle and decided this match. Our kid (freshman Doug Young) thought the period had ended (there was actually 10 seconds left); turned his back, and was then tackled by the St. Marys boy for a takedown. Doug was ahead at the time and the match ended in an 8-8 tie.

"Figuring we would have won that match, you take two points away from St. Marys' score, give us one, and this match would have ended in a tie (31-31). It's just a shame it had to be this way. St. Marys has a really nice, strong team, but we shouldn't have lost."

In suffering its first defeat, Ridgway (2-1) gave up a forfeit at 105 and had starting 145-pounder Lee Weber out with an injury.

For St. Marys, Tim Wittman improved to 8-0. 1-4-85

ELSEWHERE ON THE Pennsylvania side of the Big 30 region, Emporiun edged Bucktail, 31-27, Coudersport topped Port Allegany, 28-23, Smethport defeated Oswayo Valley, 40-18, Bradford High dropped St. Marys Elk, 45-24, and Titusville decked Sheffield, 47-14.

Coudersport 28, Port Allegany 23

Fourth-ranked Coudersport (4-0) got a first-period pin by heavyweight Joe Ayers (5-2) to overcome a 23-22 deficit and hand No. 10 Port Allegany its first loss.

The match's biggest decision was earlier, however, as unbeaten Phil Dewey (7-0) beat previously undefeated Jim Buchenschultz (6-1) with five-point move in the final six seconds of their bout for an 8-5 decision.

Smethport 40, Oswayo Valley 18

Smethport (2-2) broke open a 24-18 match with a pin, forfeit and major decision in the last three weight classes to drop OV to 1-2.

Todd Rice (7-0) and Steve Valenti (4-0) remained undefeated for Smethport as did Kris Fuller (7-0) for Oswayo Valley.

Emporium 31, Bucktail 27

"We very easily could have lost this match," said Emporium coach Larry McGraw, whose team improved to 2-0. "We got a big forfeit win at 98 when their kid couldn't make weight."

Among Emporium's six winners were Nick Guisto (9-2) and Bob Lamont (5-1). 1-4-85

Bradford High 45, St. Marys Elk 24

Rob Brest, Todd Moonan, Jeff Coles and Mark Shaded record first-period pins to lead Bradford (1-3), while Randy Weisner (3-0) was one of three wrestlers to notch falls for Elk (0-3).

Titusville 47, Sheffield 14

Joe Posten remained undefeated in dual meets and improved to 7-1 overall for Sheffield (2-2), which lost its second straight. 1-4-85

Kane matmen come from behind to beat St. Marys

JR.

KANE — St. Marys High School jumped out to an 18-6 lead and was ready to celebrate the upset, but the Kane Wolves regrouped to pull out a 36-27 victory over the Dutch Thursday night and remain unbeaten.

Kane is now 4-0 on the season.

"I was surprised we won," Kane coach Barry Johnson admitted. "We lost five matches out of the 12 and four of those were by pins, but the kids came back and worked hard and it helped us." 1-11-85

Highlighting the match was Jack Bell's decision over Tim Wittman at 132 pounds. For Bell, 11-1 on the season, it avenged an earlier loss to the Dutch wrestler. Teammate Duane Blankenship upped his record to 12-1 with a pin at 126 pounds.

Other Wolves with winning records are Seth Bloomquist 6-1, Rich Geer 10-3, John Lorenzo 10-4, Dan Rook 8-4-1 and Roger Blankenship 5-2.

SMETHPORT — Todd Rice, Steve Valenti and T.J. Reap continued their unbeaten ways but it wasn't enough to prevent the visiting Coudersport Falcons from notching a 39-25 high school wrestling triumph Thursday night.

The win kept the Falcons unbeaten on the season at 6-0, while the Hubbers dropped to 2-3.

"We just gave up a lot of pins late in the matches," explained Smethport coach Bill Stephens. The Hubbers lost at 5:59 of the 98 pound bout, 3:32 of the 145 pound match, 3:53 of the 155 pound battle and 3:59 of the 167 pound match.

Wrestling

The bright spots in the loss, however, were Rice at 112 who pushed his record to 8-0 with a decision, Valenti who went to 5-0 with a pin at 132 and Reap who is now 7-0 following at pin a 185. 1-11-85

Coudersport actually pulled away to nail down the team win by claiming victories in four of the last five weights. All four Falcon wins — Cowburn at 145, Carey at 155, Lambert at 167 and Ayers at heavyweight — came via pins.

Smethport will return to action next Thursday at home with Port Allegany.

Big 30's Top Four

Olean High, Ridgway, Kane and Coudersport — the top four teams in the Times Herald Wrestling Poll — all won matches Tuesday night, as did No. 8 Brockway and No. 9 Gowanda, while No. 6 St. Marys Public and 10th-ranked Port Allegany were among the Big 30 losers. 1-9-85

Olean High 50, Salamanca 9

Jeff Prescott (13-0, 10 pins), Steve Irving (12-1) and Jeff Gabler (13-2) each won for top-ranked Olean High (4-2 overall), which captured 10 of 12 bouts in the Southern Tier Division I match. Salamanca fell to 1-4-1.

Gowanda 41, Fredonia 15

Gowanda (2-1-1 overall) got wins from 5-2 Dan Kusiowski, 6-2 Bob Cygan, 5-1-1 John Whalen and 7-1 Mark Ingersoll in the Southern Tier Division II match.

Ridgway 39, Youngsville 24

Six of Ridgway's seven wins came by falls as Jeff Stenta (11-2), Ed Parker (8-2), Don Hoffman (8-3) and Bill Lyle (8-3-1) improved their records for the winners, now 3-1.

Kane 48, Clarion High 8

Kane (3-0), led by winners Duane Blankenship (11-1), Jack Bell (10-1), Rich Geer (9-3) and John Lorenzo (9-4), won its 18th straight dual meet.

Coudersport 51, Oswayo Valley 13

Phil Dewey went to 9-0 and heavyweight Joe Ayers recorded his sixth fall for Coudy (6-0). Kris Fuller is now 8-0 for OV (1-3), but for the first time this year didn't win by a pin.

Sheffield 30, Port Allegany 29

Heavyweight David Fitch's pin victory gave Sheffield (3-2) the one-point team win. Earlier, Port A (2-2) had lost one team point when coach Terry Daniels protested the referee's failure to call a slam against a Sheffield matman.

Brockway 33, Emporium 21

Chris Miller (10-0), Dave Azana (8-2) and Kelly Taylor (8-2) each won for 3-1 Brockway, as did Mike Pisarchick, who upended defending District 9 tourney finalist, Butch Gennocro. Nick Guisto is 10-2 for Emporium (2-1). 1-9-85

DuBois High 34, St. Marys Public 23

St. Marys coach Wayne Fordoski said 126, 138 and 155 "were the toss-up matches, and they won all three of them." Tim Wittman (9-0) and Dan Weisner (8-1) won for Public, now 4-1. DuBois High is 2-2.

Johnsonburg 58, St. Marys Elk 12

Oneonta St. wins on mat

Oneonta State captured its first wrestling match of the new semester in impressive fashion yesterday by handing host Farleigh-Dickinson University a 45-9 drubbing.

The Red Dragons lost only two matches in raising their record to 4-5. One of those losses came in the heavyweight class where FDU's 300-pound Bob White won by default as Mark Hinman was forced to stop because of a hyperextended elbow.

Oneonta State's John Blasch won his 190-pound match over Rick Latournous with a pin in 1:36.

The Red Dragons next wrestle on Saturday when they host Albany State, Kings College and Oswego State.

Saturday's Result
Olean Walsh 38, Portville 22

It's been a long time since Olean Walsh has bested Portville on the wrestling mat, but thanks to three forfeit wins and a big decision by 145-pounder Robb Klucik in the night's top match, Walsh beat Portville for the first time since 1964, 38-22, Saturday. 1-14-85

"This was a good win for us," said Walsh coach Paul Abdo of the Tri-County League clash. "It's been a long time coming."

Portville (1-4 overall) jumped to a 16-11 lead before forfeiting its first of three matches at 138. Klucik (12-1), who had lost to Portville's Sean Konert, 10-2, at the start of the season, then gave Walsh a 20-16 lead with a big 4-2 win over Konert (14-2).

"It was quite an emotional match," Abdo said. "Robb had been preparing for this match ever since the forfeit win at Southwestern (when he couldn't wrestle Konert in the tourney due to an injury). He wanted this for a long time."

Walsh (3-3) won just three other matches, with Eric D'Arcy (9-2) winning by a superior decision.

In other matches involving Big 30 teams, Bolivar won twice in a double dual with Avoca and Hammondsport, while Oswayo Valley split with the same two teams. Salamanca placed 10th in the Niagara Officials Tournament, Bradford High split in a tri-meet with Eisenhower and Youngsville, and Olean High placed fifth in the Canandaigua Tournament (see separate story).

Bolivar 37, Hammondsport 19
Bolivar 48, Avoca 22

Larry Smith (15-0), Jim McDonald (13-3), Tim Stives (13-4) and Brad Schiralli (14-5) had pins in both matches to lead 3-1 Bolivar over previously unbeaten Hammondsport and Avoca.

Also winning twice for Bolivar were Ned Gould (4-3) and Mike Dunsmore (11-4).

Oswayo Valley 34, Avoca 24
Hammondsport 33, Oswayo Valley 28

Oswayo Valley (2-5) overcame a 24-3 Avoca lead with wins in the last six weight classes, including falls from 167 on up by Kris Fuller (11-0), Todd Wheaton and Mark Wilson.

Fuller, who now has nine pins, knocked off previously unbeaten Bob Kennedy of Hammondsport, 12-4, for his other win. Glen Drake (9-2), Wheaton (5-5), Wilson (4-3) and Bill Hillard also won twice for OV.

NIAGARA OFFICIALS TOURNAMENT
Salamanca Places 10th

SANBORN — After winning the Niagara County Officials Tournament the past two years, Salamanca dipped to 10th when the two-day event concluded at Niagara County Community College here Saturday.

But for head coach Rich Morton, the finish was just fine.

"Our number one goal going into this tournament was to finish in the top 10, and that we did," said Morton, whose team includes eight sophomore starters. "Considering our youth and inexperience, I'd say we didn't do too bad."

Leading Salamanca was 105-pounder Mark Sweich (15-2), who placed second after losing 17-2 to Maple Grove's Gary Malbone in the championship finals. Others were Eric Sweich (14-7), third at 98 pounds, Jess Wilson (10-6), fourth at heavyweight, and Frank Miller (2-7), sixth at unlimited. 1-14-85

Sweet Home hoisted the team title with 192 points, while Iroquois (189½), Niagara-Wheatfield (170½), Royalton-Hartland (162½) and Maple Grove (141) rounded out the top five. Salamanca finished with 100½.

RUSSELL, Pa. — Bradford High (2-4) recorded four first-period pins against Youngsville, including an 18-second fall by Mike Angelo, to earn a split in a tri-meet with Eisenhower.

Gabler, Klucik Near 100 Wins

By TOM ROOF
Times Herald Sports Writer

That magic 100-career win figure, eclipsed once already this season by one Big 30 wrestler, is fast approaching for two others.

Olean High's 126-pound senior Steve Irving was the first of this year's crop to reach the milestone and now boasts a Big 30-best 106-22-1 career log. Two other area wrestlers, however, appear ready to join Irving — Olean High's Jeff Gabler and Olean Walsh's Robb Klucik.

Gabler's chances appear excellent as he takes a 95-38-1 mark into Friday's match against Cassadaga Valley, followed by three other duals, the Sweet Home Tournament, and the Southern Tier League tournament. 1-31-85

Klucik, though, faces a more difficult task. The Walsh senior, 21-1 this year with 19 straight wins since losing to Portville's Sean Konert in the finals of the Portville Tournament, is 10 wins shy. He'll need to win his five remaining duals, then win five matches in the National Prep School Tournament at Lehigh, Pa., an event in which he placed fifth last year to cap a 30-4 season.

No other area wrestlers are close to the "100 Club" at the moment, although four are headed in the right direction — Kane junior Jack Bell (73-12), Randolph freshman Billy Young (42-7), Smethport junior T.J. Reap (60-12) and Kane junior Duane Blankenship (57-10).

EAST ROCHESTER coach Don Quinn and Webster coach Joe Alessi have been quoted as saying ER would have beaten Olean High "easily" if East Rochester would have had its regular lineup for its Jan. 19 double-dual with Olean High and Salamanca.

Although the remarks seemingly were made to cover up what Quinn and Alessi thought was a fluke 28-27 Olean win over ER, snapping a 28-match ER win streak, chances are if both teams were at full strength, Olean still would have got the win.

Out for East Rochester, which was ranked No. 3 in the New York State Sports Writers Association state poll at the time, were junior Mike Rossi (16-3) and 119-pounder Bill Herko.

"They would have handled Olean with those two kids in the there. No doubt," Alessi was quoted as saying in last Friday's Rochester Democrat & Chronicle after ER beat Webster, 32-18. "We would have beaten Olean easy," echoed Quinn, who boasts a 313-45-7 record since 1958.

Olean, however, also was without two regulars, 105-pounder Barry Mushaweck (10-7) and Mike Molenda (4-3), who's been out since early in the season with an injury.

"Hey, they were without two guys and we were without two," Olean coach Jim Myers said. "You can make all kinds of alibis you want, but the final score stands. Who knows, maybe we wouldn't have won, but maybe we would have."

What difference would there have been if both teams were at full strength? Probably not much. In last year's dual, Molenda was a 9-3 winner over Rossi, while Herko was a 5-2 loser to Ray Mikolajczyk, a junior who's not even on the team this year and has been replaced by Don Thierman (16-8).

Cleveland area still dominates

By PAT GALBINCEA
STAFF WRITER

COLUMBUS — Anyone who doubts that the Cleveland area is the king of wrestling in Ohio need only examine Saturday's final results at the 48th state wrestling tournament.

In the Class AAA alone, nine area matmen won individual titles, and 36 others earned awards for placing among the top six in their weights.

St. Edward had two champs in Jack Macko (112) and Jeff (Bubba) Strauss (132), as did St. Ignatius in Ricky Hartman (119) and Mark Buddie (145). 3-18-85

Other area Class AAA champs were Carlos Martin (98) of Midview, Mark Sanfilippo (105) of North Olmsted, Greg Saxton (126) of Elyria, Hank Inderlied (185) of Chardon and heavyweight Mike Sullivan of Lake Catholic.

Because of two controversial calls, Dan St. John of St. Joseph was denied a title at 138. St. John was beating Monty Dagley of Xenia, 4-2, with 10 seconds left, when he grabbed Dagley's leg in an attempted takedown.

St. John, however, was penalized for stalling to make the score 4-3. At the buzzer, Dagley was awarded a takedown although no control was clearly established, and the crowd of 10,843 booed vociferously.

Those boos seemed mild in comparison to the ones given in the Class AA final at 145 pounds. Defending state champion Pat Hoy of Fairview was in the process of taking down Matt Peters of Uhrichville Claymont when he was penalized for alleged illegal twisting of Peters' knee. Peters was allegedly unable to continue, and was awarded the match by disqualification. 3-18-85

"I've used that takedown a million times," said Hoy. "I was not aware I did anything wrong, and if I did, the official should have stopped the move for being potentially dangerous. I would never want to hurt an opponent, and I feel I lost the title because the official wasn't doing his job."

On the victory stand, Peters was booed and pelted with papers by a dissatisfied crowd. 3-18-85

"The official could have handled that situation a lot better than he did," said veteran referee Al Carroll. "No boy should be booed like that, but the crowd was angry at the officiating."

In Class AA, the area had a trio of champions in Erik Burnett (105) of Oberlin, Dan Donovan (112) of Chanel and Brian Bartos (132) of Buckeye. Area champs in Class A were Dan Hanson (105) and Bob Potokar (185) of Richmond Heights, and Ken Grogan (119) of Ledgemont.

In addition to the 15 area state champs, Ron Alexander of Collinwood was selected as Class AAA coach of the year in Ohio, as was Cliff Radie of Newbury in Class A. Once again, Howard Ferguson of St. Edward was snubbed in the Class AAA voting, despite the fact he has guided the Eagles to eight straight state titles.

Ferguson appeared dejected because several of his wrestlers lost championship-round matches. However, four of his state placers — Kevin Biggs (second at 105), Guy Palker (third at 126), Mike Carpenter (fourth at 138) and Dan Mitchell (sixth at 185), are back next season.

"Can you imagine how tough these guys will be next season?" said Ferguson. "Especially a guy like Palker, who'll only be a junior. He already wrestles like a veteran."

DeBarbieri: Top Section 5 Coach

BOLIVAR — Bolivar Central School wrestling coach Mike DeBarbieri, whose team won its first ever Section 5 Class D tournament title this season, has been named the Section 5 Class D Coach of the Year. 3-26-85

Bolivar, which advanced 11 wrestlers to the sectional tournament, including six seniors, finished the year with an 11-2 dual-meet record. It also won the Tri-County League championship, placed third at the Geneseo Tournament and fourth at the Hammondsport Tournament.

DeBarbieri was chosen over 21 other Class D coaches in Section 5, becoming the first Bolivar coach ever selected for the award.

DeBarbieri, who has a six-year career mark of 42-36-1, has guided Bolivar to records of 8-5, 7-7, 9-3-1 and 11-2 the last four years. His second year at Bolivar, DeBarbieri had just six wrestlers and the team finished 1-12.

"I'm just really tickled now to see how things have changed," he said. "This year we ended the season with over 20 kids, and ususally you lose some along the way."

NOT A DYNASTY YET BUT ONLY ONE COACH EVER HAS a (2 year) DYNASTY AT Bolivar

Memories of Iwo

Americans and Japanese Mark 40th Anniversary of Historic Battle

IWO JIMA, Japan (AP) — On a windswept hill above the black ash beaches where thousands of U.S. Marines landed 40 years ago, American and Japanese survivors dedicated a memorial Tuesday to those who fought over this speck of volcanic rock, and the nearly 30,000 who died.

It was at least the third time survivors from both sides had met on the former Pacific battlefield. It may well be the last, for they are gray now — the youngest in their late 50s, and some past 80.

For most of the Americans, it was the first return to the island where 6,800 of their 30,000 comrades died in the five-week battle, along with nearly all the 21,000 Japanese defenders.

About 280 Americans came — ex-Marines, wives and a few children. There were 110 Japanese, including 50 of the 1,000 or so who did survive the carnage that began Feb. 19, 1945, when the first wave of young Americans stormed ashore.

The memories, distant now but not dim, stirred deeply in many, like Joseph Selby of Maple Shade, N.J., who lost all but one of his eight-man machine-gun squad in the first few minutes.

John Pfeiler of Camarillo, Calif., a corporal then, gazed out at Yellow Beach, where part of the 4th Division came ashore. "I never thought I'd see this...again," he said. 2-20-85

Jack Manning of Dayton, Texas, glided gracefully with his wife, Connie, to "Moonlight Serenade" at a reception that ended the day. "The last time I was here I was dancing because there were bullets at my feet," he said.

The American commanders had wanted Iwo as a base for fighters escorting B-29s bombing Japan, and as a haven for wounded Superforts limping home.

Endless Hell of Fire

It was softened up with a heavy air and naval artillery bombardment, and the first Marines who swept across the gritty beach met little resistance. Then the barrage was lifted, and suddenly an endless hell of fire poured down on the beachhead from the Japanese defenders.

At the dedication ceremony Tuesday, the former enemies embraced, sometimes tearfully, and traded souvenirs.

Retired Col. Joseph McCarthy, 72, of Chicago, was a company commander at Iwo. He won the Medal of Honor for knocking out several pillboxes and killing 70 Japanese.

He was given a lanyard with a Japanese naval insignia, which he wore around his neck the rest of the day. "I'm an Irishman, I'm sentimental," McCarthy said. "I came because I felt I owed it to my men. It's a sentimental journey for them."

Many old Marines shook hands with Taro Kuribayashi, whose father, Lt. Gen. Tadaichi Kuribayashi, commanded the Japanese forces and died on Iwo Jima.

Kuribayashi, 60, said he holds "no bitterness, no recrimination at all" for what happened. "All the people who came here did it for their countries," he said.

The ceremony included Marine Corps and Japanese naval bands, Buddhist and Christian prayers.

The visitors toured the island afterward, including the 3,500-yard invasion beach. The Marines scooped handfuls of the black volcanic ash into plastic bags and envelopes to be postmarked at the island's U.S. Coast Guard station.

Atop 550-foot Mount Suribachi, the Marines posed for each other's cameras before the permanent memorial marking the spot where 3rd Division Marines raised the American flag on the fifth day of the battle.

They clambered onto weather-worn Japanese pillboxes and poked into obscure places, searching their memories for the look of the spot where they had been wounded.

Jacklyn Lucas, of Bowie, Md., borrowed a flashlight and led the way through a tunnel network near the air base, not far from where he — a 17-year-old private then — won the Medal of Honor by throwing himself on two grenades to protect his buddies.

Few others were as successful, because Iwo has changed. The volcanic fissures still belch clouds of sulphurous steam, but the U.S. Air Force planted seeds that long ago turned the barren gray ash into grassland and tangled jungle growth, even with a few wildflowers.

Change Amazes Vets

Almost every veteran expressed amazement at the change. Some appeared disappointed, as if the island's reputation for horror had been softened.

"Back then, there wasn't a blade, a leaf, nothing green," said Joe Buck, a rancher and wheat farmer from Cherokee, Okla.

The greatest kindler of memory was the Suribachi flag-raising. "We could all see it," said Buck, "and when it went up, there was a great big cheer, right down the beach."

The first flag was replaced by a larger one, which became the subject of the famous flag-raising photograph by Joe Rosenthal of The Associated Press.

Olean High Sends Three To State Wrestling

By TOM ROOF
Times Herald Sports Writer

FREDONIA — After coming close on three previous occasions, Olean High School senior Steve Irving will finally get his shot at a New York State wrestling title. 2-25-85

And while doing so, he will be joined by teammates Jeff Prescott and Jeff Gabler. Those three brought Olean three individual championships Saturday in the Section 6 state qualifying meet at Fredonia State College — the most of any team.

The title was the second for the 98-pound Prescott, a sophomore who boasts a 33-0 record and is one of only three Section 6 wrestlers carrying undefeated ledgers into the state tournament, to be held Friday and Saturday at the Syracuse's Onondaga County War Memorial.

UNTIL NOW, A SECTIONAL title somehow had eluded Irving, who has an impressive 120-22-1 career record. Twice he has been a loser in the finals — in overtime last year — and as a sophomore he was upset in the semis.

Ironically, Irving (35-2) nearly experienced the same fate Saturday before winning the 119-pound crown.

After breezing to 15-0, 3-0 and 15-1 decisions in the first three rounds, the last over Allegany's Ray Ryan in the semifinals, Irving needed a penalty point in the closing seconds of his championship match with Albion's Rawn Mitchell to pull out a 4-3 win.

The match was tied at three when Mitchell, who was seeded second and entered the bout with a 24-0 record, was called for stalling with eight seconds left.

"Steve had made three takedown attempts in the final period," Olean coach Jim Myers said, "and when Mitchell backed away on the last one, he got called. "I thought it was a good call."

Gabler (35-2) and Prescott, who placed third at last year's state meet, had easier times in their title matches. In winning his first sectional title, Gabler won 14-7 over second-seeded Bill Kopera (30-3) of Niagara-Wheatfield.

Prescott pinned his way through, decking previously unbeaten Kevin Day (now 34-1) in 2:18.

"I couldn't be happier," Myers said. "All three of these kids are wrestling at their best right now. Irving might have been a little tight in the finals, but he did what he had to do to win.

"I thought we could get three through and I think all three are capable of placing in the state tournament."

Jim Myers

Three other Olean wrestlers advanced to the semifinals before losing to eventual champs — 126-pounder Ron Prescott (fourth), 215-pounder Darrin Cowher (fourth) and 250-pounder Matt Martin.

AFTER LOSING TO IRVING, Ryan (25-4) was beaten 1-0 to Mark Dickerson of Kenmore East in the consolation finals. It was the second sectional appearance for Ryan, who was eliminated in the quarterfinals as an eighth-grader last year.

"Ray increased his goal this year, and realistically he figured on fourth place," said Allegany coach Chuck Curley. "And he didn't do bad for a freshman."

The only other are placewinner was Pioneer's 145-pounder Ray Benjamin (107-30-2 career), who lost in the semis to top-seeded Kevin Bos (33-1) of Sweet Home, then won by default over Lancaster's John Wolf (29-2).

TOURNEY NOTES: Depew senior Daryl Gattuso (21-2-1) won the outstanding wrestler award after beating Falconer's Joel Sopack in the 126-pound finals. . . . Bos won the Sportsman Award. . . . The 112-pound champ Rod Waddington (25-0) of Falconer won his fifth sectional title. . . . Only four classes were won by wrestlers not seeded first: 105, where Maple Grove's Jim Nalbone (28-4) handed Maryvale's Matt Haberl (31-1-1) his first loss; Gattuso at 126; at 132, where Clarance's Jim Vesper (25-1) beat Cass Valley's Marty Nichols (28-3); and at 138, where top-seeded John Richardson (27-1-1) of Williamsville North lost in the first round. . . . Tony Milliner's loss in the 250-pound finals was his first after 28 wins. . . . Gabler now has a career mark of 180-30 and Jeff Prescott is up to 82 career wins.

Olean's Gabler Hikes Rank After Stepping Up the Scales

By MARK GAUGHAN

It's a popular belief losing weight will make for a stronger wrestler, but it doesn't always work, as Olean's Jeff Gabler can attest. 2-12-85

Gabler has emerged as the class of the 167-pound wrestlers in Western New York, but not before making a few unsuccessful trips down the weight scale.

In an early season match last year, Gabler upset Kenmore East's Mike Tucker, 6-4, at 145 pounds. Tucker went on to place third in the state championships. Gabler later cut weight to 138 and lost in the sectional quarterfinals.

This year, Gabler dropped from about 182 to 155 after the football season ended. After losing to unranked Jim Murray of Williamsville North and Ray Norton of Falconer, Gabler stepped back up to 167, where he has been a terror.

At last weekend's Sweet Home Invitational, Gabler easily handled favored Tom Chirayth of Williamsville North, 17-10. Chirayth had been No. 1 in the Western New York Wrestling News Rankings.

The victory also put Gabler in the elite, 100-victory club for his career. Matt Haberl of Maryvale also recorded his 100th career triumph at the tournament.

Olean won the event, outpointing second-place Williamsville North, 217-202. Williamsville South was third, Sweet Home fourth and Salamanca fifth.

Olean, which many think wrestles the toughest schedule in Section VI, is in a strong position to send three wrestlers to the state tournament. Along with Gabler, Steve Irving at 126 and Jeff Prescott at 98 are No. 1 in the Wrestling News rankings. Prescott, who placed third in the states last year, defeated Williamsville North's Brian Doyle, 35-9, at the Sweet Home event.

In other big matches, Mike Bucilli of Rochester's Bishop Kearney got a two-point escape in the last five seconds to defeat No. 1-ranked Joe Zito of Lancaster at 177; Williamsville North's John Richardson, No. 1 at 138, could manage only an escape against surprisingly tough Craig Gallaway of Williamsville South and won, 1-0, and Sweet Home's Kevin Bos won a come-from-behind, 6-3 decision over Williamsville North's Joe Daigler.

The home-mat advantage, in some ways, was almost a disadvantage for the Olean High School wrestling team in its showdown against visiting Falconer for the Southern Tier Division I championship.

But then, the support of a few hundred mostly partisan fans may have provided the necessary boost in a few key bouts that carried Olean (11-2) to a narrow 28-27 victory over the two-time defending champs Friday night.

"We came up short last year, losing by two points (29-27) down there," Olean coach Jim Myers recollected. "But the kids wrestled really well tonight."

Still, there were times when Myers admitted he was concerned.

"It's a disadvantage wrestling at home," the Olean coach observed, "because you've got to put your kid on the mat first, and that helped them (adjust). They got some good matchups and kept it close."

As an example, Myers cited Falconer coach Bill Davenport's decision to bump 126-pounder Joel Sopak (24-1) up a weight class to avoid meeting Olean's Steve Irving, (22-2), who already had beaten Sopak this season. 2-9-85

Irving got five points for a superior decision over jayvee matman Trey Hawkins at 126, but Sopak got three key team points back for Falconer in a 7-2 victory over Ron Prescott (18-8) at 132.

But a similar move at 177 backfired when Davenport decided to forfeit the 167-pound bout to Olean's Jeff Gabler (24-2) in order to send Kevin Wikstrom up against Olean's 177-pounder Mike Molenda, sidelined most of the season by a broken hand.

Instead, Molenda (7-4), in only his second match back since the injury, took a 4-2 decision that proved to be the match-clinching bout.

Still, Falconer (11-3) had a chance to win it in the heavyweight bout with unbeaten Tony Milliner (22-0) in action.

Though Olean's Darrin Cowher (17-7), who led 3-1 after two periods, dropped a 7-3 decision, which included a two-point penalty for stalling in the final period, he avoided losing by a major decision (eight points or more) that would've left the final team score, 28-28.

Myers cited a big victory at 112 by junior Don Thierman (18-7) over Falconer senior Troy Lefford (17-5) as a turning point in the match.

Falconer's Div. 1 Wrestling Reign Ends At Olean

OLEAN — Falconer's Southern Tier Wrestling Conference Division 1 reign ended at Olean Friday night with a 28-1 loss. It all came down to the heavyweight match to give the host Huskies the title after Falconer had won it for two straight years.

"We wrestled real well," said Falconer Coach Bill Davenport. "(Olean Coach) Jim Meyers made some great moves. It was the difference in the meet." 2-9-85

What Meyers did was move Jeff Prescott from 105 to 112 and Billy Buckner from 119 to 112 and they both picked up wins with a pin and a decision. Don Thierman came through with another Olean win at 112.

After a Rob Waddington pinned for Falconer, Steve Irving came back for a 15-0 decision for Olean. Then Falconer won the next four matches with two decisions by Joel Sopak and Cliff Green and two pins by Brad Stimson and Ray Norton to put Falconer in front 24-19.

"At that point we felt we had to take a chance," Davenport said. That chance was taking a forfeit at 167 to move Kevin Wickstrom up to 177. The forfeit put Olean in front 25-24.

Mike Molenda took a 4-0 lead in the 177 match and held on for a 4-2 win over Wickstrom to increase the Huskies' lead. That left it up to Falconer heavyweight Tony Milliner.

If Milliner got a major decision it would have tied the meet. A superior decision or a pin would have given the Golden Falcons the win. But Darren Cowher had a 3-1 leaed after two periods and Milliner came back for a 7-win.

"He couldn't get the big moves to put him (Cowher) on his back," Davenport said.

Olean ends the dual meet season at 11-2-0 and Falconer was 11-3.

Jeff Prescott is now 24-0, with 19 pins, for Olean and Gabler is 24-2.

For Falconer, Milliner is 22-0, Rob Waddington is 18-0, Sopak is 24-1, Norton is 21-3-1 and Lefford is 17-5.

2-9-85

Davenport added that he appreciated the support of the nearly 300 Falconer fans who attended the meet.

The Trojans were down at the start with three falls and came back to win seven and draw two of the next nine matches.

John Guarnieri had the first draw for Southwestern against Jose Pegan at 119.

"I was very pleased at 119 because Jose has beaten John four other times," said winning Coach Walt Thurnau.

He added, "I was pleased at 167 also, (the second draw) because Roger (Baungartner) has beaten Mark (Stenander) three other times."

Registering the pins were John Proctor at 132, Ken Trimmer at 138 and Paul Wendel at 177.

At the time, Randolph Central School wrestling coach Doug Seamons thought nothing could be better than winning last Saturday's Southern Tier Division II tournament. 2-13-85

Now, his thinking has changed.

In a dual-meet matchup Tuesday to determine the Southern Tier Division II League winner, Frewsburg handed Randolph its first league loss, 34-27, to snatch away the title Seamons' team seemingly had all to itself just a few days earlier.

"I think they had more of a reason to win," Seamons lamented. "They were more mentally prepared."

The title was the second straight for Frewsburg (12-2 overall), which holds a 3-2 edge in league championships over Randolph since the 1980-81 season.

Among the winners for Randolph (11-3 overall) were freshman Billy Young (21-2), Ron Sample (17-2) and Troy Nelson (19-5).

Gowanda 52, Westfield 17

Gowanda (10-4-1) got pins from Mark Ingersoll (22-3), Craig Loomis (18-8), Dan Kusiowski (15-6-1) and Ray Logan to win for the eighth time in its last nine meets.

The Cardinals, who had eight wrestlers reach the finals, ended up the seven champions as Troy Barber (91), Bill Young (105), Ron Sample (112), Troy Nelson (119), Dan Hoxie (138), Brad Howard (145), and Doug Morley (unlimited), all won individual titles.

Randolph rolled up 185 points while Frewsburg was surprisingly a distant second with 158. Silver Creek wrestled an excellent tournament and finished third with 99 points followed by Pine Valley with 96½, Fredonia 85½, Gowanda 55½, Westfield 51, Panama 40, and Ripley 23. 2-11-85

The Bears had three champions with Bob Verga (98), Steve Hazzard (126), and Larry Tompkins (177) all taking crowns.

Pine Valley claimed two championships with Ken Austin (155) and Keith Fish (heavyweight).

Tom Brennan (132) of Silver Creek was named the tournament's Outstanding Wrestler after posting a convincing 9-0 victory over top-seeded Tim Neal of Randolph in the finals.

"I thought one or two points would separate Frewsburg and us for the team title," Cardinals' Coach Doug Seamans said. "I knew we were strong in the middle weights, but I didn't expect us to have seven champions or to be that far ahead of Frewsburg."

Beating the Bears in the tournament is one thing, but now Randolph has to travel to Frewsburg Tuesday for a dual meet that will decide the Division 2 championship.

Seamans said, "I think we have a little psychological edge over Frewsburg. But I really think the team that is mentally prepared and ready to win is going to win Tuesday night. I know one thing — it's going to be a barn-burner."

The Cardinals and Frewsburg went head-to-head in finals three times with Randolph victorious in all three.

In the 91-pound final, Randolph's Troy Barber scored a reversal with a minute left in the match and beat Silver Creek's Vincent DeJohn 4-2.

Frewsburg's Bob Verga needed 2:23 to stop Westfield's Alan Bowen in the 98-pound bout. Verga turned Bowen over twice in the first period for three-point near-falls then pinned him in the second period with a solid half-nelson.

At 105, Bill Young of Randolph used a body press to flatten Silver Creek's Billy Jones in 3:09. Young, who led 7-0 before the fall, nearly pinned Jones in the first period, but had to settle for a three-point near-fall.

Ron Sample of Randolph raced to a 10-0 lead after two periods and decisioned Keith Johnson of Frewsburg 12-4. Sample had Johnson "counting the lights" twice in the first two periods which sparked the win.

The Cardinals won their third straight title when Troy Nelson pinned Frewsburg's Rick Verga in 1:17 at 119. Nelson scored the initial takedown and wasted little time in putting Verga on his back.

At 126, the Bears' Steve Hazzard scored five points in the last 18 seconds of the match and beat Panama's Brian Jantzi 6-0. After a scoreless opening two periods, Hazzard scored an escape with 1:33 left in the bout to take a 1-0 lead. He then registered a takedown and immediately put Jantzi on his back to complete the five-point move late in the match.

Tom Brennan of Silver Creek turned in a sterling performance at 132 and claimed a solid 9-0 victory over Cardinals' Neal. Brennan led 3-0 after two periods, but added a stalling point, reversal, and three-point near-fall in the last two minutes to ice the victory.

Randolph's Dan Hoxie beat Fredonia's Mike Leone 7-0 in the 138-pound encounter. Hoxie, who led 2-0 after two periods, put together a five-point move (reversal, three-point near-fall) in the last 50 seconds to take the championship. 2-11-85

Brad Howard of Randolph used a first period takedown and three-point near-fall to decision Frewsburg's Brad Long 6-2 in the 145-pound bout.

Pine Valley's Ken Austin turned over Gowanda's Mark Ingersoll three times for back points en route to a 9-1 victory in the 155-pound contest. Austin did all of his scoring in the opening two periods.

At 167, Fredonia's Rod Larson scored three third period points and topped Pine Valley's Mike Giambrone 5-0. Larson took a 2-0 lead into the third period. He received one point for stalling and recorded a two-point near-fall in the third period to seal the victory.

Frewsburg's Larry Tompkins, wrestling at 177, needed 3:16 to stop Pine Valley's John Ellis. In the opening period, Tompkins turned Ellis over three times for back points in the first period and pinned him in the second period with a headlock.

Pine Valley's Keith Fish used an escape, a pair of takedowns, and a two-point near-fall to beat Silver Creek's Dave DeVito in the heavyweight battle.

The story of the meet was Randolph's unlimited Doug Morley. The eighth-grader won the championship by pinning Westfield's Paul Black with a body press in 1:31.

Morley entered the finals with a career record of 1-0 (he won in the semifinals by a pin for his first career victory). Trailing 2-0, Morley reversed Black and immediately put him on his back and just waited to hear the slap of the mat from referee Bob Sisley.

Port Allegany Puts Kane Skein To Test

If giving Kane High School's powerful wrestling team its second toughest tussle of the season isn't enough of a consolation prize in defeat, consider the philosophy adopted by Port Allegany coach Terry Daniels after his team's 33-21 setback Friday night.

"They (Kane) used to whale the hell out of us," Daniels recalled. "Now we're coming close. The Port A boys actually were in better shape than Kane."

Daniels noted if Port A (8-3) had won at 145 and 155, "we would've handed Kane its first loss."

Instead, Kane is now 11-0 on the season and has won 26 straight. Troy Shall improved to 10-5 for Port A.

Thomas Will Officiate At State Wrestling Meet

Norm Thomas of Jamestown was named as one of the 12 wrestling officials who will be working the New York State High School Wrestling Championships March 1-2 at the Onondaga War Memorial in Syracuse.

Thomas, who started his officiating career in 1964, will be making his fourth appearance at the State Tournament. His last assignment in Syracuse was back in 1983. 2-11-85

"I'm really honored to be selected," Thomas said. "It's a real challenge for me. I'll be working with 11 of the best officials New York State has to offer."

Working the State Tournament, however, is quite a bit different than officiating the local high school dual meets, Thomas said. "There's more pressure on you in Syracuse. You know you have to do the best job possible. If you don't, a kids' future can be affected. It's just not another meet.

"There are excellent fans here, but in Syracuse, you have the most knowledgable fans from all around the state. They'll let you know if you've made a mistake."

Thomas, who is President of the Southern Tier Wrestling Officials Association, was elected Vice-President of the New York State Wrestling Officials Association at the State Tournament in 1984. It is expected that he'll be named President of the NYSWOA at the State Tournament in 1986.

NORM THOMAS

With the State Tournaments more than two weeks away, Thomas still has a busy schedule in front of him. He'll be officiating the Southern Tier Conference Championships this weekend in Falconer and will be one of the officials working at the Section 6 Tournament at Fredonia State College Feb. 22-23.

Oklahoma appears set to challenge Iowa

COLLEGE WRESTLING

By Gary Mihoces
USA TODAY

OKLAHOMA CITY — When asked for an interview at the NCAA wrestling tournament, Oklahoma coach Stan Abel feigned surprise.

"You do realize this is Stan, not Dan, and Abel, not Gable," he said. 3-18-85

Clearly, coach Dan Gable and his Iowa Hawkeyes were the focus of attention as they won their eighth consecutive team title with 145.25 points.

However, Oklahoma emerged as a potentially serious threat to Iowa for 1985-86.

Though a distant second in the team standings this year with 98.5 points, Oklahoma loses one senior. Returnees include two of Saturday night's individual champs: Melvin Douglas (177 pounds) and Dan Chaid (190).

"It would be good for somebody to knock Iowa off and we've got a team that is capable of doing it — barring injury," said Abel. "Gable will be worrying about us next year. He will use Oklahoma as Iowa's motivation." 3-18-85

Gable, who will lose only three seniors, wouldn't go that far. "I don't need any more motivation," he said.

But Iowa's seniors include 126-pounder Barry Davis, named Outstanding Wrestler after winning his third NCAA title.

Gable also acknowledged Iowa is not as deep in reserves as in recent years. "We need some recruits," he said.

Iowa had two individual champions, Davis and 158-pound junior Marty Kistler.

Three Hawkeyes placed second. The big disappointment was top-seeded 190-pounder Duane Goldman, beaten by Oklahoma's Chaid 5-3.

A junior, he'll get another chance next year when Iowa hosts the NCAA tournament.

"He could end up on a high note," said Gable.

Though cheered by more than 500 black and gold clad Iowa partisans at the Myriad convention center, Gable also heard some boos and catcalls.

Some were a product of Gable's role in a dispute that resulted in Lee Roy Smith (now an Oklahoma State assistant coach) being removed from the 1984 Olympic team and replaced by Iowa's Randy Lewis.

Iowa's success also hasn't endeared opponents. "I guess I won't be a good guy until we start losing," said Gable.

"I thank God this wasn't professional wrestling because, if it was, I would probably get chairs cracked over my head from people coming out of the stands."

Eagles Clobber Blue Devils

For the most part, the pins have been going against Youngsville this season. So Eagle coach Tony Fera felt it was time his team began evening the score.

"It's nice to have the pins go for us instead of against us," he said after his team scored seven pins en route to a 45-18 win over visiting Cambridge Springs Saturday afternoon. "We knew we'd do well if we wrestled strong, and that's what we did." 1-4-85

Bill Lachner started the action by flattening Duane Jones 45 seconds into their opening 98-pound bout. It was one of five first-period pins by the Eagles.

Cambridge Springs' Bill Boylan evened the score with a pin at 105, but David Fehlman gave the Eagles the lead for good with a 13-7 decision at 112 over Mark Crays. Three straight first-period pins by Bob Slocum, Curt Hansen and Jim Fehlman (19-1 on the season) gave Youngsville a 27-6 lead midway through the match.

Todd Steuart, Mike McChesney and Frank DeSimone closed out the Eagle scoring with pins, DeSimone getting his ninth. McChesney's came after he had racked up a 16-0 advantage over Paul Hoder.

"McChesney was really trying things, more so than in the past," Fera said. "He was doing a lot of different things.

"We were real aggressive, sometimes overly so," he continued. "I feel real sorry for (105-pounder) Kyle Engstrom. He tried to force something, got caught and got pinned. It's the second time in a row that overaggressiveness cost him a pin."

The win boosted Youngsville to a 4-5 mark, and Fera believes his team is improving.

"The way we wrestled against Sheffield, even in a losing cause, helped us," he said. "We got a few tough teams coming up next week, so then I'll know just how much it's helped us. I'm looking for improvement and aggressiveness from my kids. If they keep doing that, the wins will come."

The Eagles visit Smethport Tuesday before hosting Union City and Franklin later in the week.

Dragon Matmen Take Third In Tourney

GROVE CITY — Jerry Graziano, Todd Reynolds and Chris Nuhfer won individual titles Saturday to spark Warren to a third-place finish in the Grove City Wrestling Tournament.

The Dragons, who had eight placewinners, finished with 126 points, just 2½ points behind second-place Sharon Kennedy Christian. Redbank Valley finished far in front of the 11-team field with 149 points.

Graziano and Reynolds each dropped down a weight from their usual dual-meet spots, and the change had little effect on the unbeaten duo. Graziano moved to 105 and won the title with a 4-0 win over Matt Van Wagenen of Kennedy Christian. Graziano had advanced to the finals with pins over Franklin's Rich Adams and Grove City's Doug Thompson.

Reynolds moved from 119 to 112, and he beat Erie Tech's Dan McKinnen 4-0 for the crown. Reynolds advanced with a 7-1 win over Franklin's Troy Bauder and a 7-1 decision over Steve Gunter of Redbank Valley. 1-4-85

"Jerry was his usual strong self," Dragon coach Tony Scordo said. "He looked real good for dropping. And Todd had a very good tournament; he only gave up one point."

Nuhfer joined his two more-publicized teammates on the victory stand with a 17-16 win over Redbank's Bryan Shirey. He had earlier beaten Franklin's Eric Ewing, 12-8, and had a one-point decision over Kennedy's Chris Slingluff.

"He was in one of the tougher weight classes," Scordo said. "He had some nice takedowns. All three of his matches were entertaining to watch."

The Dragons nearly had four champions, but Brian Swanson "made a mistake" and got pinned in the third period of his 132-pound final. Swanson led Redbank's John Colwell 4-0 entering the third period.

"He left the guy tie his arms up," said Scordo, "and he rolled him over and pinned him." Swanson had a pin and a 10-1 win over Dave Rahtey to get to the finals.

Shawn Williams and John Swanson each lost early but both battled back to take third. Williams, wrestling at 119, lost in the quarterfinals but then beat Grove City's Jamie Young, 6-3, and Terry Crawford of Redbank, 8-6, to take third.

Swanson also lost in the quarerfinals at 126, but came back with a pin over Rocky Grove's Jay Haggerty and a 1-0 decision over Grove City's Jeff Eaker for third place.

Shawn Curren and Scott Baldensperger each picked up a fourth-place finish after losing in the consolation finals. Baldensperger lost to Franklin's Bret Martz in the quarterfinals, then dropped a decision to Darrin Miller of Sharpsville for third at 167.

Curren dropped a tough 4-4, 5-1 overtime decision to Franklin's Jim Hovis in their consolation final at 155.

"I'm very pleased with our showing," Scordo said. "We could've placed second with one more win. We've got about three weeks now to get ready for the tournaments, and one of the things we wanted to do here is start gearing up for them."

The Dragons return to dual meet action Tuesday night, traveling to Union City. The match will begin at 6:30 p.m with no junior varsity action.

Big Year For D-9 Matmen

By TOM ROOF
Times Herald Sports Writer

Glancing back and looking ahead at this year's Big 30 high school wrestling season: 2-23-85

Seedings for next weekend's District 9 Class AA and AAA tournament at Clarion University of Pennsylvania will be held Tuesday, and undefeated Kane (16-0), ranked second in the Times Herald poll, could come away with as many as eight seeded wrestlers in the 'AA' showcase.

Leading Kane, which has won 31 straight and 46 of its last 50 duals, are former district champ Duane Blankenship (29-1) at 126, two-time runnerup Jack Bell (20-1) at 132 and defending champion Seth Bloomquist (13-3-1) at 112, who placed fourth at last year's state championships.

Blankenship's only loss was to Olean High's Steve Irving (32-2) in overtime, while Bell's single defeat was to St. Marys Public's Tim Wittman (18-1) by a pin in the finals of the Warren Tournament. Bell, a junior with a 77-12 career record, avenged the loss in a dual meet later in the season — marring Wittman's otherwise perfect record.

Kane coach Barry Johnson, who boasts a six-year record of 66-23, said Thursday most of his lineup will drop a weight and expects to put out his best lineup of the year.

Two Kane matmen who won't change classes are 185-pounder Rich Geer (21-4) and heavyweight John Lorenzo (20-4, 15 pins), the teams only seniors. Eight times this season the Geer-Lorenzo closing punch has resulted in back-to-back pins. Both should be seeded high, but Johnson will have to do some sweet talking to get either a top seed.

The 185-pound class belongs to Smethport's T.J. Reap (19-0), who won last year's 155-pound title, while Ridgway's Ed Parker (19-2), who defeated Geer earlier this season, is also there.

Johnson may have a better chance with Lorenzo, who split with Ridgway's Bill Lyle (15-5-1) and lost 4-3 to Brockway's Kelly Taylor (18-3-1). But also around is Redbank Valley's Darren Burdford, third in last year's tournamet and a 20-match winner.

Kane, ranked seventh in Pennsylvania's statewide poll, is the only undefeated Class AA team in District 9 and has logged 10 straight winning seasons. Kane won its first D-9 title last year by besting Redbank by 20½ points and the same two teams are again expected to challenge for this year's team championship.

2-23-85

OVERALL, BIG 30 area teams should do well during Tuesday's seeding marathon. Probable first seeds, in addition to Blankenship, Bell and Bloomquist, are Reap and two-time champion Steve Valenti (16-1 at 138) of Smethport, Jeff Stenta (21-2) of Ridgway at 155 — with an argument from Oswayo Valley for Kris Fuller (20-2) — Chris Miller (21-1) of Brockway at 167, and possibly Randy Weisner (15-0) of St. Marys Elk at 98.

TURNING TO THE college scene, three Alfred Tech wrestlers, including Pioneer Central graduate Ron Dabolt, have advanced to the junior college national championships at Glen Ellen, Illinois. 2-23-85

Ange DeAngelis (15-3) at 134 pounds and Dabolt (27-1) at 177 advanced by winning titles in the Region III tournament Thursday's, while Tom Opdenhoff (14-7) at 118 advanced with a second-place finish.

Dabolt became the third wrestler in Tech history to win back-to-back Region III titles and the second to go undefeated in two-straight seasons in regional competition.

Delhi Community College, with three champions, won the team title with 75½ points, followed by Morrisville with 67¼ and Tech with 44½.

ALFRED UNIVERSITY'S men's basketball team, tied with St. Lawrence for the Intercollegiate Athletic Conference lead with a 9-2 record, will host the league's playoff game if both finish with identical records.

Alfred travels to Ithaca today, while St. Lawrence hosts Clarkson Monday.

Alfred earned the right to host the possible league tiebreaker by winning a coin flip at a conference meeting Friday afternoon. The game, if needed, will begin Wednesday at 5 p.m., the early start dictated because of the Class D Section 5 semi-final high school playoff games being held at McClain Center that night.

The ICAC champion gets an automatic berth in the National Collegiate Athletic Association Division III tournament.

St. Marys' Wittman Makes 'AAA' States

ALTOONA, Pa. — St. Marys Public High School sophomore Tim Wittman placed second here Saturday at the Northwest Regional Class AAA Wrestling Tournament to advance to the Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association state championships for the second time.

Wittman (22-3), who placed third here last year, advanced to the 119-pound finals with wins over District 10 champ Sean Haight (who was 27-0) of Erie McDowell and District 6 titlist Curtis Wiley (23-1) of Huntingdon. He then lost 9-0 to Clearfield's Scott Collins (25-0) in a rematch of last weekend's District 9 finals.

St. Marys' senior John Anderson (23-4) placed fourth at 138, but Public's other two qualifiers, Dan Weisner at 105 and Tim Wurm at 126, were first-round losers.

The top three finishers advanced to the state meet, which begins Thursday in Hershey.

BETHLEHEM, Pa. — Oswayo Valley High School failed to defend its team title, but still placed among the top 10 for the fourth straight year at the Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association Class A-AA boys' cross country state championships Saturday at Lehigh University.

After placing 10th, second and first the last three years, OV finished eighth this time around with 450 points. District 3 powerhouse York Catholic, which captured the Class A-AA championship two years ago then placed 14th last year, won the team title with 209 points.

Twenty-four teams and 276 runners were entered in the 3.1-mile state race.

Pa. Cross Country

Five teams that placed in last year's championships, York, Greencastle-Antrim (4th), Chief Logan (3rd), Richland (17th), Lansdale Catholic (8th) and Central Cambria (22nd), were amond the seven teams to finish in front of Oswayo Valley. 11-4-85

"I thought we could do just a little bit better," said OV coach Kevin Hanley. "I thought we'd end up with 375 points, but a couple boys just didn't have their best days.

"With the caliber of teams we had to go against, we knew it'd be tough. I didn't think York would be that tough to take first place, but they certainly did an impressive job."

OV'S TOP finisher was junior Todd Vincent, who placed eighth in 16:25.5. Vincent, the District 9 champion, placed 39th here last year. Senior Scott Reynolds, 18th a year ago and second to Vincent in the district meet, placed 17th in 16:36.9 to give the Shinglehouse, Pa., school the only team with two runners in the top 20.

The individual title went to Paul Vandegrift of Conshohocken Archbishop Kennedy (Dist. 1) with a time of 15:51.8.

Although Hanley was pleased with OV's finish, he thought some people might view it as a disappointment.

"Coming out eighth is sort of like painting yourself into a corner," he said. "You go 10th, second and first and people look at it and say, 'Gee, you only finished eighth this year.' But eighth place is a very respectable finish. There was a lot of pressure on this team coming back as the defending No. 1 team."

OV, which lost only two duals during the regular season, both to undefeated Allegany, was an improved team, according to Hanley.

"North East and Blue Mountain beat us at the McQuaid Invitational earlier in the year, and North East finished 10th and Blue Mountain didn't even make states," he said. "So we improved from when we ran against them at mid-season."

Rounding out OV's finishers were junior John Mertsock, who improved from 123rd last year to 88th, senior Dane Johnston (161st), senior John Harvey (176th), junior Keith Hoffman (193rd) and junior Bill Howard (202).

Bradford's Tom Pfaff, meanwhile, finished 155th (17:37) among 250 runners in the Class AAA boys' race.

IN THE GIRLS' Class A-AA meet, Oswayo Valley junior Shelly Keyser, undefeated in duals this year, was OV's only entry, placed 30th in 20:05.5.

"That was a tremendous accomplishment," said Hanley. "We set up how she should run beforehand, the mile splits we wanted, and she came within six seconds of our projected time for her. It was the most disciplined race she had ever run."

Ridgway's Kim Oldland, who won her second District 9 title a week earlier, placed 23rd among the 177 runners with a time 19:52.5. Tracy Bauers of Greencastle-Antrim placed first in 18:16.2.

In the Class AAA girls' race, Bradford finished 18th among 22 teams entered, led by Kelly Krouse (130th, 21:36), Amy Johnson (136th, 21:42), Laura Russell (142nd, 21:47), Sara Moss (156th, 22:08), Kim Fotch (159th, 22:10), Dawn Smith (163rd, 22:35) and Kristen Potter (168th, 22:38). There were 225 runners.

Three-sport collegiate star

SLU's Lelan Rogers wants to be No. 1 in football, wrestling, lacrosse

By Scott Conroe
Staff Writer

CANTON

To John Clark, it was almost as if a Tyrannosaurus Rex had wandered into St. Lawrence University's Augsbury Center.

"He's an anachronism, a throwback to the 1960s," SLU's wrestling coach said, watching Lelan Rogers work out. 3-24-85

This would be the last workout for the SLU junior from Fulton. The next morning, he would leave for Oklahoma City and the NCAA Division I tournament where — as the 1985 Division III champion at 190 pounds — he'd seek a higher level of All-American.

The next week, he would fly to Tampa with his SLU lacrosse teammates. And in five months, he would begin practicing for football season.

If nothing else, the life of a collegiate three-sport athlete isn't boring.

"The tragedy," Clark said, "is there are many more like him out there who could play three sports but won't. It's the mentality of our society to specialize.

"Football coaches want their players to lift weights in the winter instead of playing another sport. In five years, athletes like Lelan will be extinct."

SLU's last three-sport athlete was Mitch Brown, Class of 1978, an All-American in football and wrestling and a baseball player for two years. Rogers wants to surpass him, to be an All-American in three sports.

Rogers has achieved All-America honors in wrestling twice; he finished second at 177 in the national championships as a freshman.

But his football career has been slowed by injuries to his right knee and his ankles, which cost him most of football season and all of wrestling season as a sophomore and hampered him in football last fall.

In his freshman football season, he set a school record for scoring: 84 points.

He was the Saints' designated scorer; although he had just 180 yards rushing the whole season, he scored 14 touchdowns, most of them from within the five-yard line. 3-24-85

But last fall, after a one-year absence from the gridiron, he was either hurt much of the time or tentative when he carried the ball.

"Once he got hurt, he never got back on track," says SLU football coach Joe Kimball. "And he lifted weights too much over the summer (to 205 pounds). He lost flexibility. But when he uses what he's gifted with, he's one of the best backs in Division III. He could play at a higher level, like Division I-A."

In lacrosse last year, Rogers was the face-off man on SLU's third midfield line. The idea of being on the third line in anything irritated him so much that he poured his energy into being on the first line. By the end of the season, he was. 3-24-85

LELAN ROGERS
... a throwback to the '60s

He finished with six goals and five assists, a total he intends to improve upon.

This theme of always wanting to be better, to always be number one, runs through everything he does.

Before the NCAA Division I meet, he said, "Half of the guys there will just want to get it over with. I'm going out there to win. If I go out for any other reason, I'm just kidding myself."

He didn't place, but he beat his first opponent. He then lost to the third seed, Clarion's Jim Beichner, and was eliminated from the wrestle-backs when Beichner lost in the next round.

In a way, it's surprising St. Lawrence doesn't have more athletes like Brown and Rogers; a liberal arts college, it stresses diversity and seeks students who want to stretch their intellectual and cultural horizons.

Maybe the mental and physical challenges of three sports seasons are too great. When his wrestling teammates begin preparing for the season in September, Rogers is lugging a football. When his lacrosse teammates are first strapping on their gear, he's just beginning to wrestle at his best.

"Football conditions me to a certain level and then maintains it, but that isn't nearly the shape I need for wrestling," he says. "No sport demands as much endurance as wrestling."

"The conditioning regimens for wrestling and lacrosse aren't that different," Clark says. "But going from football to wrestling is a nightmare. That's why he doesn't surface until late in the wrestling season."

Rogers was one of the most highly-recruited wrestlers in New York as a Fulton High School senior in 1981-82. Even before he won the state title at 167, Syracuse University and North Carolina were after him. But he wanted the chance to play two sports, maybe three.

"I didn't know if I could," he says, "but I at least wanted the opportunity. In Division I, you can usually play only one sport. I also liked Division III because the atmosphere was more relaxed. In Division I, if you don't produce you lose your scholarship."

Still, he was so impressed with North Carolina that he almost went there. He kept Clark and then-football coach Andy Talley dangling until the last minute. Then he called Clark and said, "Coach, I've decided to attend the University of North ... St. Lawrence."

"He's gotten back at me ever since," says Rogers, laughing.

Rogers doesn't dwell much either on his crowded workout schedule or on the talents which have allowed him to play three sports on the college level.

"I just do my work at night," he says. "I don't go out that much. I don't really know what a good social life is." He laughs. "I guess I'll have the rest of my life to find out."

Nor can he explain his ability to find holes in opposing defensive lines in football, or his love for faceoffs in lacrosse, which is his favorite sport. Clark takes a crack at it.

"He hates to lose and he loves the stage," Clark says. "He's a pressure athlete. The time to watch Lelan is when it's fourth-and-one, or when a wrestling match is in overtime or in the one-on-oneof a faceoff. That's when he performs.

"He really doesn't know how he does it. His ability is God-given. He was a state swimming champion in junior high. He'd be a great hockey player. It was just a matter of what he was exposed to. We're just thankful someone showed him a wrestling mat."

Nine Undefeated Wrestlers To Try for Sectional Titles

Scholastic Spotlight

By Neil Kerr

Talented Chris Labbate (29-0) of East Syracuse-Minoa and eight other undefeated wrestlers head the field for Saturday's Section Three wrestling finals at Cicero High School.

Labbate, with 121 career wins, is the defending 112-pound champion who is top-seeded at the same weight. (see seedings).

Labbate is joined in the 112 class by unbeaten David McCarthy (27-0) of Solvay, the No. 2 seed. Those two, members of the sectional "100-Wins Club" are expected to collide in the Saturday night championship match.

Other unbeaten athletes tuning up for the sectional meet are: Brian Darling (23-0) of Jordan-Elbridge at 91 pounds, Steve Bradish (29-0) of Mexico at 126, top-seeded Rob Price (24-0) of Cortland at 132, Doug Nagy (28-0) of Beaver River at 145, Kevin Carroll (18-0) of LaFayette at 167, George Korthas (24-0-1) of Central Square at 250 and Rich Rathbun (23-0-1) of Dolgeville, also at 250.

Of the unbeatens, Cortland's [illegible]e is perhaps the biggest surprise. His prowess has been a well-kept secret, partly because the undermanned Purple Tigers have lost 17 straight duals over the past two seasons and their meet results are seldom reported.

Korthas, an All-State football player recently-recovered from illness, posted his 100th career win while taking the Section Three Class A finals in his home gymnasium last Saturday when he defeated Mike Capone of Fowler 9-4. Also reaching the century figure Saturday was Fulton's top-seeded 119-pound John Howard (101 wins). 2-13-85

Four champions back to defend their 1984 crowns are 98-pound Chip Pettitt (now at 105) of Baldwinsville, 105-pound Dave Coon (now at 112) of Madison, 112-pound Labbate and 119-pound Bradish (now at 126).

Although Baldwinsville is the defending team champion, co-favorites for team laurels Saturday are perennial powers Fulton and Canastota, both of which possess more highly seeded wrestlers than do the Bees. Fulton (14-4 in dual meets) boasts No. 1 seeds in Kurt Miner (25-1) at 91, John Howard (25-1) at 119 and heavyweight Randy Cotton (25-1-1). Canastota (13-0) owns a pair of top seeds in Bob Duffy (28-3) at 105 and Nick Zupan (29-2) at 138. Also, those two teams have more athletes among the top five seeds than any other school.

Says Fulton coach Wayne Bleau, "It looks to me like a two-team race involving Canastota and us, with East Syracuse-Minoa, Baldwinsville and Beaver River the other top contenders."

In the final Section Three team rankings, Tri-Valley League champion Canastota finished No. 1-rated ahead of Fulton and Baldwinsville. Canastota toppled Fulton 26-21 in December. Canastota and B'ville no longer compete against each other, largely due to the animosity built up in recent years between the respective followings of the two teams.

Tuesday, Oneida High School junior Cody Button, who is third-seeded at 119 pounds, earned his 101st career victory as Oneida thrashed Cazenovia 58-6.

LAST LAP

Recently hired as varsity soccer coach at West Genesee is former CBA coach Augie Rotunno, a 1975 Le Moyne graduate who is a well-known figure on area soccer fields. Rotunno, also a Central Region scholastic coach for the Empire State Games, compiled a 38-16-3 record in three seasons at CBA with one league title and the 1982 Section Three Class B championship ... Boasting the longest winning streak of any athletic team in the state is Central Square's rifle team. Tuesday, the "Square shooters" defeated McGraw 1,425-1,284 for their 245th consecutive win over the last 13 years. John Paul, with a score of 292 (out of 300) led the winners.

Eleven state high school wrestling champions will be competing in the 17th East-West All-Star match Saturday, 8 p.m., at Cleveland State University. 3-21-85

Because of an overabundance of talent, there will be 16 matches instead of 13. The East team has two 185-pounders in three-time Class A state champion Bob Potokar of Richmond Heights and Class AAA state champ Hank Inderlied of Chardon. Coaches felt it would be an injustice to leave either wrestler off the all-star team.

Likewise the West has multiple state champs in Jeff Strauss of St. Edward (Class AAA) and Brian Bartos of Buckeye (Class AA) at 132, and Mark Buddie of St. Ignatius (Class AAA) and Pat Hoy of Fairview (Class AA) at 145.

"I've never seen an all-star wrestling match with so much talent like this one," said Al Carroll, secretary of the Greater Cleveland Wrestling Coaches and Officials Association the last 38 years. Proceeds will go towards scholarships for area wrestlers.

Other state champs on the West squad are Carlos Martin (98) of Midview, Mark Sanfilippo (105) of North Olmsted, Jack Macko (112) of St. Edward, Ricky Hartman (119) of St. Ignatius and Greg Saxton (126) of Elyria. The other state champ on the East squad is heavyweight Mike Sullivan of Lake Catholic.

Preceeding the East-West match at 6 p.m., grade school wrestlers will perform when the Summit County All-Stars oppose the Greater Cleveland Catholic All-Stars.

victories taught wrestlers 'we're better than we thought'

Trouble at the home of the champions.

Quinn was "ready to go to a basketball game somewhere."

"We had Webster coming up," he recalled yesterday, "and the athletic director had done a nice job of scheduling Le Roy and Canandaigua on the same day." 2-18-85

Quinn is East Rochester's AD. He also is the coach responsible for building one of this state's best wrestling programs. Indeed, one of the best this side of the Mississippi.

ER responded to its tough schedule in true Bombers' fashion, however. They defeated Webster (32-18), Le Roy (36-15) and Canandaigua (28-22) and went on to finish their dual-meet schedule with a 12-2 record.

"That was the turning point of our season," said Quinn, whose 27-year record at ER (318-45-7) is third-best in the nation. "The kids and I both stopped and said, 'Hey, we're better than we thought.' "

ER went on to win its ninth consecutive Section 5 championship Saturday when it easily outdistanced 21 other Class B teams at Geneva.

The Bombers also earned the title of wrestling Team of the Year for the third consecutive season by finishing as a unanimous No. 1 pick in the Democrat and Chronicle's final poll.

"I'm a believer that until you get beat you're the best," said Quinn, "but I really didn't think we'd be the Team of the Year at the beginning of the year. We lost seven good seniors last year (to graduation). I didn't know if we had the leadership coming back."

However, seniors Chris Schojan and Frank Rossi provided the necessary leadership, Quinn said.

"And," he added, "some of the young kids that filled in did a great job.

"Steve Marcoccia came in from junior high wrestling to the varsity," he said. "He wasn't even seeded in this (sectional) tournament and he made the finals."

Marcoccia was defeated in the 98-pound title bout by Penn Yan's Bruce Lafler, 7-1. He was one of six individuals to reach the finals for ER, which outscored runner-up and eighth-ranked Le Roy, 184½-124. Palmyra-Macedon was third with 117 points.

Schojan (177 pounds) and junior Mike Condello (132) won titles. It was Schojan's third straight sectional crown. A two-time state runner-up, he is 30-0 on the season and 129-10 as a varsity competitor. He is the school's all-time winningest wrestler.

In all, nine Bombers will advance to the Super Sectionals, the Rochester area's state qualifying meet Saturday at Brockport State.

Canandaigua, the area's second-ranked team, will send eight to that qualifier. Three Braves — Mike Lacognato (98), Paul Lamphier (112) and Butch Hibbard (119) — won individual championships as the team easily claimed the Class A title Saturday at Monroe Community College. 2-18-85

It was Canandaigua's 10th sectional championship in 11 years.

"We got a lot of help from a lot of people," said Coach Larry Reynolds, who had 12 of 13 individuals score points for his team.

Reynolds called it his team's best performance of the season.

But Spencerport Coach Bill Jacoutot said, "That is the best I've seen Canandaigua wrestle in my four years."

Canandaigua finished 44½ points ahead of third-ranked Brockport and 19 other teams. Included in the long list of runners-up were fourth-ranked Spencerport in third place, No. 5 Brighton in fourth, No. 6 Webster in fifth, No. 7 McQuaid in sixth, and No. 9 Hilton in seventh.

Marion, which shares the No. 10 spot with Palmyra-Macedon, was the Class C champion. The Knights did not win their third title by a huge margin, however.

Jeff Marchionda (126), Jim Newby (145) and Tim Habecker (155) claimed individual titles as Marion edged Williamson, 159-154. Habecker, the son of 19th-year Coach Steve Habecker, is 32-0 on the year. It was his first sectional crown.

"It was the best sectional win for me because my son is involved," said Steve, who coached Marion to team titles in 1977 and '78.

"Williamson was stronger all the way through," he said. "They had a more solid team. I thought they had the power to take it."

Perry's Emery Uveino helped Marion clinch the title with a 5-0 overtime decision over Williamson's Jody Pieters at 167 pounds.

"To me," Coach Habecker said, "that match went on for about an hour."

Bolivar enjoyed its finest hour in the history of that school's wrestling program Saturday night at Geneseo. The Bulldogs won their first sectional championship over 19 other Class D teams.

"I told them at the beginning of the year, I thought we had a good chance at taking it," said sixth-year Coach Mike DeBarbieri. "This is the best team I've ever had."

Brad Schiralli (112) and Larry Smith (167) won individual titles and six wrestlers, in all, earned a trip to the state qualifier.

Bolivar got off to a fast start Friday night when nine of its 11 competitors won first-round bouts with pins.

SU wrestlers upset Lehigh

Pulling off six decision victories, Syracuse University's wrestling team upended fifth-ranked Lehigh Saturday, 27-20, in Bethlehem, Pa. 2-17-85

Neither team scored a pin in 11th-ranked SU's victory. SU (10-3) got wins from Tony Cotroneo (118-pound class), Sal LaCorte (126), Mike Catania (134), Marty Lynch (150), Wayne Catan (177) and Andy Schwab (heavyweight).

In hockey, Pete Schippal scored 4:05 into overtime to give Cornell a 5-4 upset of sixth-ranked Harvard in Cambridge, Mass.

Cornell is now in the lead in the Ivy League at 7-0-1. Harvard is 7-1-1 in the conference. The Big Red is now riding a 10-game winning streak.

Elsewhere in hockey, Colgate broke a six-game losing streak with a 4-1 victory over Dartmouth, St. Lawrence held off Brown, 3-2, and Clarkson stopped Yale, 6-3.

Fulton Class A wrestling titlist

Foul shots were the West Genesee High School boys basketball team's undoing Saturday.

Visiting Corcoran was successful on 11 of 13 free throws in overtime, which was why it beat the Wildcats, 51-45. 2-10-85

The victory put the Cougars in a tie with Bishop Ludden for second place in the Onondaga North A Division, behind Henninger. West Genesee fell to third.

"Poor foul shooting cost us the game," West Genesee coach John Zagata said.

Dave Donerlson tied the game for the Cougars, 37-37, with 2:15 left by sinking two free throws. Julius Edwards led Corcoran with 20 points and Brian Branch added 15.

Mike Sylvia had 17 and Mike Smith had 14 for the Wildcats.

At Cicero-North Syracuse, Auburn's Don Love hit a 12-foot jump shot with 47 seconds left to give his team a 63-61 victory over the Northstars.

The lead changed 16 times during the OHSL North A Division game, and the score was tied 11 times. Love finished with 13 points. Junior center Kevin Friedel led Auburn with 21.

Mike Burek paced the host Northstars with 23 points.

In wrestling, Fulton, Canastota, Jordan-Elbridge and Beaver River won Section Three class tournaments.

Fulton outdistanced Baldwinsville by 70 points for the Class A title, with six champions: Kurt Minor (91 pounds), John Howard (119), Dave Williams (126), Dave Burridge (132), Mike Maxam (155) and Randy Cotton (215).

Howard and Central Square's George Korthas, the champ at 250, both got their 100th career wins during the tournament. Chris Labbate of East Syracuse-Minoa (112) now has 121.

Williams was the Most Outstanding Wrestler.

At Chittenango, Canastota captured the Class B title with six champions, including Nick Zuppan (138), who shared the MOW award with Oneida's Cody Button (119).

Solvay's Dave McCarthy (112) brought his career win total to 116 and Mexico's Steve Bradish (126) brought his to 97.

J-E's Class C title at Ilión was marred somewhat by 167-pounder Rob Spearing's first defeat of the year. Spearing lost to John Pluff of Almar-Parish-Williamstown, 10-5, in the final bout. 2-10-85

Pluff was selected the meet's most outstanding wrestler.

J-E junior Brian Darling (91 pounds) remained unbeaten on the season. Other J-E chamions were Greg Hamm (119), Steve Blair (126), Pat Schill (98). South Jefferson's Eric Campany won at 155.

At Cato-Meridian, Onondaga's Bill Conway was selected MOW after he handed C-M's Mark Smelski his second loss of the season en route to the title at 138. Beaver River had two champions — Jim Everard (105) and Doug Nagy (145) — to edge Morrisville-Eaton for Class D honors. Madison's Dave Coon (112) and M-E's Doug Youngs (119), both former sectional champs, also won.

ICAC wrestlers now compete in NCAA regional tourney

JOHN CLARK
. . . St. Lawrence coach

The Independent College Athletic Conference wrestling tournament is no more.

Despite having No. 1 ranked Ithaca College and perennial power St. Lawrence numbered in its ranks, the ICAC meet lost its automatic qualifying status for the NCAA Division III tournament. 2-17-85

With no post-season connotations, the tourney's been scrapped. Instead, wrestlers from Ithaca, St. Lawrence, Clarkson and RIT are at an NCAA regional tournament this weekend at Trenton State in New Jersey, one of five around the country. Though three grapplers from each weight class will emerge from the Trenton test, the road to the nationals — March 1-2 at Rock Island, Ill. — will be tougher.

"I think we have some people who could get to the nationals," said SLU coach John Clark before the regional meet. "We have some proven people."

Clark should know what it takes on a national level. In his 13 years, he has produced five national champions — heavyweight Mike Conners (from Baldwinsville) in 1984, 190-pounder Todd Northrup in 1983, 190-pounder Phil Lanzetella in 1982, 158-pounder Mitch Brown in 1977 and heavyweight Ron Pelligra (CBA) in 1976.

The top SLU contenders this time appear to be Fulton product Lelan Rogers at 190 pounds and Rick Spaulding at 158 pounds. Rogers was an NCAA runnerup as a freshman two years ago and missed all of last season with a knee injury.

Surging Ithaca, which stunned neighboring Division I rival Cornell, 17-15, to complete an undefeated dual meet campaign, has several candidates for nationals, including unbeaten Bart Morrow (134) and Dave Kittay (177).

Amateur wrestling is still popular in Ithaca

1-26-85

Amateur wrestling has been popular in Ithaca ever since Cornell got it going in the early 1900s..But it was never more popular than when Ithaca YMCA folks gave it impetus in the late '20s and stayed with it until well after the World War II days...We aren't about to delve into it deeply at this writing but merely to touch on the YMCA impact..Two of the more prominent ones who wrestled for the "Y" were Jimmy Miller and Jim LaRock, both of them proteges of coach Bill Layton...It was later on that Ithaca produced Olympians Frank Bettucci and Dave Auble..For that matter LaRock, an Ithaca College grad, was an Olympian...He was an alternate at Helsinki in 1952, after being a National AAU champion..Miller, who also won national YM and AAU laurels, coached at Cornell many years...LaRock got his start at the YMCA..The first organized activity at the YMCA was in 1928 and a few of those instrumental in getting things going were Roger E. Hall, physical director; Jake Broich, team manager; George Minar, trainer; and some pioneers in the sport, Gil Hart, Earl Terwilliger, Walt Darling and Ed Whitlock....One of the Ithaca association's first matches was with Oswego's YMCA and a few of the Ithaca gladiators were Glenn Stafford, who had been a national collegiate champion at Cornell; Pudi Fish, Fred Enteman, Chet Yena, Al Beers, Darling and Terwilliger...Oswegoans were surpised to see Fish in action because the previous summer they saw him wrestle at the county fair...That was a starter..Three years later Ithaca went through undefeated..Some others who came on the scene were Earl Nishimoto, Francis Shepherd, Fred Morelli, Glennard Knapp, Claude Shelton, Iggy Rawa, Bob Robedee and Abe Solomon..As time went on and Ithaca became more prominent in the Eastern mat world it had to roam far and wide for competition..Some common foes came from North Adams, Mass., Newton, N.J., Baltimore, Wilkes-Barre and Clearfield, Pa...Once the team wrestled Cornell College of Iowa..Layton, who gradually worked in as both a wrestler and then as coach, had started out in the gym as a basketball player..Making great early impacts were Olin Lepard, who had been a heavyweight star at Michigan State, and another Spartan, Walt Jacob..That brought out many more Ithaca area youngsters who were eager to learn, among them Bob Hasenjager, Jack Cobb, Georgie Johns, Jimmy Galt, Carl Robedee, Jack Galt, Joe Lisseck, Jim Gainey, Bob Roth, Charley Root, Bud Hallam, Ray Cothran, Herb Delaney, Carl Root, Fred Guidi, Bud Ackerman, Selden Ball, Ernie Visnyei, and Willie LaRock...Sure, we have neglected to mention many people..And we haven't told the complete story. We bring all this about local amateur wrestling to the fore at this time because we feel that it is well to point out that it once was a great local activity..Also, because there just doesn't seem to be the interest in the sport at the grade shcool or junior high level that there was years ago..Orlando (Harpo) Turco, the veteran Ithaca High coach, will be the first to admit this..In fact he has been trying for sometime to get a solid junior high program established...Youngsters seem to be more interested in other phases of sport..But they might turn to the mats if there was more enthusiasm engendered from all levels..It is something about which to give some thought.

In wrestling, Fulton, Fowler and Jordan-Elbridge captured Onondaga High School League tournaments.

Fulton edged Baldwinsville for the OHSL North A crown, despite having four champions to the host Bees' five. 2-3-85

Fulton's Mike Maxam (155 pounds) and ES-M's Jay Leo (177) shared Most Outstanding Wrestler honors. Leo beat Central Square's Bob Korthas, 24-7, in the finals. ES-M's Chris Labbate and Baldwinsville's Mike Bart — the finalists at 112 — got a standing ovation after their finals bout. Labbate got five points in the final seven seconds to break a 4-4 tie and win, 5-4.

For Korthas, the defeat was the second of the season. The Redmen junior's older brother, George, one of Section Three's best at 215 or 250 pounds, has been sick the past week and was absent from the meet.

Fowler beat Henninger by 5½ points to win the OHSL North B Division crown at Fayetteville-Manlius. The Falcons had four champs, including Mike Capone (250), the aggregate pin award winner. Cortland's Rob Price (132) was Most Outstanding Wrestler.

J-E was the OHSL Central champion with three individual winners: Brian Darling (91), Jeff Jayne (105) and Rob Spearing (177). 2-3-85

Runner-up Mexico had four champions, including Outstanding Wrestler Steve Bradish (126). Bradish raised his career wins record to 93 by pinning J-E's Steve Blair in the finals. Solvay was third with three champions, including 112-pound Dave McCarthy, whose career record is now 112.

SCHOLASTIC WRESTLING

A Future For Bowen, Feldbauer?

By TOM ROOF
Times Herald Sports Writer

Portville Central School may never again match its incredible 90-plus match winning streak of the 1970s, but Gerry Bowen, the school's fifth head wrestling coach in as many years, thinks Portville will again be putting winning teams on the mat. 2/21/85

He's just telling others to be a bit patient.

Beating only Bradford High and winless Wellsville, Portville wound up with a 2-10 mark this past season for its fifth-straight non-winning season. The fact that Portville has had a different coach for each of those campaigns may have had something to do with it.

"I can't explain why Portville has gone through so many coaches, but it has to hurt the program," said Bowen. "I hope that trend will change, though. I certainly want to be back next year."

As a non-teacher, Bowen's chances of returning are less secure than what they would be as a member of the school's faculty. Still, he's figuring on returning. 2-21-85

"You have to go step by step in rebuilding and plan that you'll be back the next year," Bowen said. "The first thing we have to do is get the manpower. We've got to get people out to have a full team, and I'm optimistic we can do that.

"I also think it's important to have a strong Junior Olympic team. That kind of experience is good preperation, but ours has been lax the last few years."

Although winning two less duals than the season before, Bowen feels he made the right strides.

"The team was down," he said. "We didn't win much this year, but I think we were able to bring the spirits up. The kids know why we got the record we did."

Portville fared better in tournaments than duals, but the strength of this year's team came from seniors Brandon Martin (11-10), Sean Konert (22-2 with 19 pins), Matt Milne (18-5 with 14 pins) and Tim Skroback (12-9) — the latter three have advanced to the Section 6 state qualifier.

"We'll miss them, but these guys have been great for the program this year," Bowen said. "They've sparked a lot of interest in the underclassmen.

"I can see us coming around again," he added. "But it's going to take time."

TURNING TO FOOTBALL... Johnsonburg High School football coach Bob Feldbauer is still waiting to hear whether he'll be retained for a fourth season.

Feldbauer, like Bowen a non-teacher, has been working under one-year contracts since replacing Bruce Smith. And although he had little difficulty in keeping the job his first two years, lately he has come under fire.

Feldbauer was expected to be rehired at this month's school board meeting, but a decision was put on hold even though he was the only applicant for the post. 2-21-85

"I approached the school board myself early to find out what's going to happen," Feldbauer said. "It looks good, but I think they would really like to get a teacher. But I have to go on the assumption that I'll be rehired and keep the program going until something happens.

"I figure if I'm there, I have to take my shot that way. If I'm not, well at least there is something there for the next guy."

Feldbauer's won-loss record in three years (7-19-1) hasn't played to his advantage, but he has produced numbers. Johnsonburg now has a junior high program — which it didn't have when he took over — and ended last season with 32 players, its most in several years.

"Yeah, we've had some lean years because we had to start and build from scratch," Feldbauer said. "But if this program is going to work, this (1985 season) has to be the year. All of these players will have come up through my system, that's one reason why I'd like to see it through.

"But the important thing is for the board to make a decision. The longer this goes on, the worse it is for the kids."

Food Store Partnership Is Formed In Wellsville

WELLSVILLE — John Berardi, president of the firm that owns Giant Food Mart and Park Plaza Liquor Store in Wellsville and the Hornell Food Barn, has announced formation of a partnership with Marty Pisano. 5-28-85

Mr. Pisano has been with the firm since August, 1977, and is vice president of operations. He will continue in that capacity, said Mr. Berardi. The managers of all three stores report to Mr. Pisano.

Marty Pisano

He cited Mr. Pisano as being "very instrumental in the growth of the company," noting Mr. Pisano was actively involved in the 1980 and 1984 expansions at the Wellsville store, and actually designed the 1984 addition.

"I am pleased to be associated with the company and the community," said Mr. Pisano. "Our main interest will contine to be to provide value and service to our customers."

Mr. Berardi said he and Mr. Pisano reached an agreement on the partnership in December, 1984, but it did not become official until mid-May when approval from the state Alcoholic Beverage Control Board came through.

BEFORE JOINING the Wellsville-based grocery firm, Mr. Pisano was manager at the Olean branch of Century Housewares, where he earned the "manager of the year" title for the company three years in a row. He was also top bonus winner for the Century Housewares for three years.

An Air Force veteran, Mr. Pisano was head of the enlisted records division at Westover, Mass., Air Force Base, and was a supervisor for Zayre, Inc., in Springfield, Mass.

He lives on School Street in Wellsville with his wife Jeane and their son Mark. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin G. Pisano, 208 Main St., Olean.

He served in the Pacific Air Force Command in Vietnam.

Mr. Berardi has owned the Wellsville Giant Food Mart since 1973, expanding it twice during that time. His company has also opened the Hornell Food Barn and acquired the Park Plaza Liquor Store.

The grocery stores are part of Olean Wholesale Grocery Cooperative.

Expansion Next For Big '30'

By TOM ROOF
Times Herald Sports Writer

Some notes and quotes gathered from Monday's 37th annual Times Herald Football Testimonial:

THE BIG 30 football region will expand to 33 teams in 1985, it was officially announced at Monday's banquet. However, because West Valley has suspended its program for the next two years, only 32 teams will be playing in the two-state, seven-county region.

Joining the Big 30 will be Gowanda on the New York side of the border and Eisenhower and Youngsville on the Pennsylvania side. The additions will bring the total number of football-playing schools to 17 in New York (excluding West Valley) and to 15 in Pennsylvania.

All three schools have identified with the Big 30 in recent years. Eight of Eisenhower's nine games this season were against Big 30 teams, while Youngsville played five area teams and Gowanda four. 11-20-84

EISENHOWER AND Youngsville are two of 12 teams being considered for a new two-division league under discussion. While most school administrators involved in the talks refused to comment on the proposed circuit at this time, it's no secret these same officials have been meeting regularly.

The league calls for a West Division setup with Eisenhower, Johnsonburg, St. Marys Elk, Kane, Sheffield and Youngsville, and an East Division of Bradford Central Christian, Emporium, Coudersport, Otto-Eldred, Port Allegany and Smethport.

One proposal calls for a team to meet everyone in its own division once and play three or four teams in the other division. A tenth date on the schedule would be reserved for a championship game between the division winners.

If approved, the conference would bring an end to at least two current leagues — the Bucktail and Tri-County. The Border Conference already has lost two teams for 1985 (Allegany and Portville, which opted for the Western New York Football Federation) and seems headed for extinction.

Though the new conference would solve scheduling problems for the 12 schools, it would create a sticky situation for Ridgway, which could lose as many as six games unless long-time rivals Kane, Johnsonburg and Elk push to keep open a date for non-league matchups.

Ridgway athletic director Jack Michel is puzzled as to why Ridgway was never invited to the meetings and is suddenly being pegged as an outsider.

"They've never asked us to a meeting, and it's probably because we've been winning," Michael said. "But they have to understand that runs in cycles. It's not going to go on."

Officials from Kane and Johnsonburg, however, said they did not want to lose Ridgway from their schedule.

A GOOD NUMBER of Big 30 area players are looking to further their playing careers at the college level, but few have made any definite decisions at this early date.

Among those players narrowing down their choices are three St. Marys Public players — Dave Green (Dartmouth, Carnegie-Mellon, Washington & Lee, and Brown), Dave Jaconski (Grove City) and Ray Benjamin (Lock Haven, Fairmount St., Mercyhurst).

Olean High's Jerry Trietley, who shared the Defensive Player of the Year Award with Smethport's Scott Burdick, and Coudersport back John Dubots are "still undecided."

Portville coach Kevin Curran noted that quarterback Jon Gardner, the Big 30 Player of the Year, is looking at Syracuse and Boston College along with a number of Division II schools.

ST. MARYS PUBLIC athletic director John Aiello announced a switch in St. Marys' schedule for next year, moving the Bradford High game from the ninth date to the second — a move that allows Warren to play Clearfield. The juggling gives Warren a chance to gain admittance to the new Class AAAA League. All they need to do now is schedule a game with St. Marys.

Now, St. Marys now looking for a game for the weekend of Nov. 8-9.

GARDNER WAS won of five finalists in the Player of the Year balloting, edging out Jaconski, Dubots, Salamanca's Carl Agnelli and Ellicottville's John Ditcher.

Salamanca's Don John, who was tabbed the area's top lineman, got the nod over Olean Walsh's Tom Neeson, Kane's John Lorenzo, Coudersport's Dan Counts and Olean High's Trietley and Paul Barber.

Unusual Night At Big 30 Fete

By GARY MALONEY
Times Herald Sports Writer

It was bound to happen sooner or later.

There had to come a time when either the recipients of the Gary Sage Memorial Award (Big 30 Player of the Year) or the E.B. Fitzpatrick Award (Unsung Player of the Year) weren't members of the Big 30 All-Star Football Team.

But who could have imagined that both individual award winners this season would be missing from the 30-man area all-star squad? 11-20-84

That's what occurred this time around, however, as Portville Central School quarterback Jon Gardner was named Player of the Year and Salamanca lineman Don John was the Unsung choice. Neither made the prestigious Big 30 all-star team, which has been selected every year since 1968.

Gardner and John were just two of the individual award-getters honored Monday night at the 37th annual Times Herald testimonial held at the Castle Restaurant in Olean.

In another first, the Lou Foy Memorial Award for Big 30 Defensive Player of the Year had co-winners, as senior linebackers Jerry Trietley of Olean High and Scott Burdick of Smethport shared the honor.

Bolivar was presented the Leon Abbott Memorial Award for school sportsmanship, while Bradford High quarterback Curt Palutro was named MVP of this year's Olean-Bradford game.

The night's top award, meanwhile, went to Smethport's highly successful mentor, Carl Defilippi, who received the Alfred Joe Bunnell Memorial Award as Big 30 Coach of the Year.

ACTUALLY, IT isn't difficult to understand how the Big 30 Player and Unsung awards could go to athletes who weren't considered among the area's top 30 gridders when one realizes two entirely different groups do the voting.

Head coaches from the 30 football-playing schools in the two-state, six-county region select the Big 30 Player and Unsung award winners.

The Big 30 All-Star Team, meanwhile, is chosen by former coaches, school administrators, game officials and newspapermen in the area who scout Big 30 games throughout the season.

Then, too, while the consensus was the 1984 season was a bumper-crop for split ends and linebackers, the Big 30 committee believed there was more balance and fewer clear-cut standouts at the other positions.

Quarterbacks and linemen were the two positions that received the most deliberation from the 17-member Big 30 committee when the all-star team was selected a week ago Sunday.

While selections at other positions fell into place more easily, the quarterback voting, in particular, was complicated by the committeemen's belief that there were more solid Big 30 signal-callers than usual, though every one seemed to have a "rough edge" of some sort.

In the end, the committee tabbed St. Marys Public's Ray Benjamin and Kane's Bob Mussen as its all-star QBs.

Then, too, the perspectives of each group are somewhat different.

WHILE SOME might believe Defilippi's selection as Coach of the Year was a surprise, a closer inspection might suggest otherwise.

Though there were two Big 30 unbeatens in 1984 — Ellicottville (9-0) and Portville (8-0) — and Smethport lost to Portville, 14-7, the six-man Coach of the Year committee, comprised of school administrators from both sides of the Big 30 border, considered other factors.

Defilippi, who boasts an impressive four-year coaching record of 31-5, fashioned an 8-1 season, despite having just 10 returning lettermen and a mere four starters back from an '83 team that went 7-2. In addition, he molded an inexperienced defense that gave up just two touchdowns all season.

Defilippi's selection marked the second year in a row an unbeaten coach didn't receive the award. Last year, Mike Taylor, who guided an unsung Olean High team to an 8-1 season, got the nod.

The last Smethport mentor to be named Big 30 Coach of the Year was Jim Donavan in 1963.

Besides Kevin Curran of Portville and Mark Ward of Ellicottville (WNY Federation playoff champion), other strong Coach of the Year candidates included Paul Simcoe of Coudersport (7-1-1, four returning starters), Rod Rohl of Hinsdale (7-1; 2-6 a year ago) and George Whitcher of Salamanca (7-2, WNY Federation champ).

Once again, the Big 30 All-Star Football Game committee donated a book to each of the 32 schools in the Big 30 — L.L. Bean Game & Fish Cookbook — in memory of late Times Herald sports editor Mike Abdo.

Salamanca Win May Keep It With 'Big' Boys

By GARY MALONEY
Times Herald Sports Writer

ORCHARD PARK — George Whitcher and his Salamanca Central School football teams will never be called bashful.

That's especially true since they persist in mugging much-larger opponents before a large contingent of media men and Section 6 officials, not to mention thousands of other witnesses in the stands.

Whipping a state-ranked (10th among large schools), unbeaten and favored Springville entry, 20-6, in a WNY Federation championship game at Rich Stadium here Saturday was hardly the way for Salamanca to win federation friends and influence naive coaches.

"This game will hurt us when they (federation officials, coaches) talk about realigning the federation," noted Whitcher, referring to the organization's shuffling of its 71 members in 10 divisions based on enrollment changes and any incoming schools. "Now, all I'm going to hear is, 'You don't need to drop down (to a smaller division).'

"It's ridiculous a school our size (370 students grades 10-12) playing the teams we play (predominantly 500 on up)," deadpanned the Salamanca coach, with a sense of obvious pride rather than displeasure. "They'll say, 'You've went to Rich two of the past three years, and won two of them.' "

Interestingly, Salamanca's two playoff wins have been remarkably similar.

In 1982, Salamanca thoroughly dominated the first half, racing to a 20-0 halftime lead en route to a convincing 20-6 verdict over shell-shocked Depew.

Though Salamanca's championship blueprint was the same Saturday, the building blocks it used to get there were somewhat different. That '82 club entered the game unbeaten and was perceived as a team with more offensive weapons than the current Salamanca squad.

In addition, Salamanca (7-2) had dropped its last two regular season games — 7-6 to powerful Lackawanna (7-1) and 12-7 to Olean High (6-3) — and had some minor injuries along with a struggling offense.

Many individuals, including some of Salamanca fans, viewed their team as mere fodder for talented Springville (enrollment 601), an 8-0 team with a veteran winning coach and a defense that had allowed just three touchdowns all season.

Salamanca matched that TD total in the first 22 minutes Saturday.

"When we lost to Olean (in its regular season finale), it was real tough the first couple days in practice," Whitcher related. "But the captains didn't want to go out losers and the kids started getting nasty mad. A lot of (Salamanca) people wouldn't even come up to our game because they said we'd get blown out. The kids took the attitude they weren't going to quit and dive into a shell and they fired back."

Still, it took a great deal more than an emotional tide to spur Salamanca to this victory.

Led by revived running back Carl Agnelli (23 carries, 121 yards), who Whitcher said was "80 percent" healthy after nursing a nagging ankle injury all week, and the tough inside running of Whitcher's son, Mike (20—75), Salamanca outgained the Division V champs, 216-51, in total offense in the pivotal first half.

"They just dominated us up front, and that surprised me," a bewildered Springville coach, Mickey Nugent, observed afterwards. "We just couldn't stop the run."

GEORGE WHITCHER, Salamanca football coach, appears somewhat stunned after watching his team launch a five-yard punt on a third-down, quick-kick early in the first period of its WNY Federation championship game Saturday in Rich Stadium. Springville got the ball on the Salamanca 10-yard line, but a Salamanca interception thwarted the threat. Salamanca went on to win, 20-6.

Ellicottville: 'We Felt We Had A Better Team'

11-12-84

By PETE DOUGHERTY
Times Herald Sports Writer

ORCHARD PARK — All along Mark Ward believed he had the better football team. It just took Ellicottville Central School most of three quarters to prove it.

Ellicottville's unbeaten forces spotted Panama two touchdowns Saturday, then stormed back for a 33-12 victory in the Western New York Federation playoffs at Rich Stadium.

The victory avenged a 21-12 loss in 1980, Ellicottville's only previous trip to the federation playoffs.

"We didn't change a lot of things (at halftime)," Ward said. "We felt we had a better team. Panama has a good team, too, but not as good as ours.

"We weren't playing up to our capability. We've been flat the first quarter all year."

ELLICOTTVILLE, IN finishing its season 9-0, had to overcome the first-half performance of Panama's freshman tailback Glen McCoy, who scored on runs of 60 and 43 yards.

In fact, the Cattaraugus County team appeared to be in trouble until Scott John[illegible]4-yard kickoff return with 2½ minutes remaining in the first half. From there Ellicottville drove 35 yards for its first of five unanswered touchdowns.

"John's return was a helluva individual effort," Ward lauded. "It fired us up a little bit going into the locker room.

"We still gave them some strong halftime talk about where we're going, where we've come from and where we don't want to be at the end of the game."

Ellicottville went ahead for the first time late in the third quarter and dominated thereafter.

"Once we were up 13-12, the kids really started to believe we were the better team," Ward said. "Panama wasn't playing with the intensity they had earlier."

ELLICOTTVILLE had a couple of close games during the season, but never had it fallen two touchdowns behind.

Asked if he was concerned, Ward responded, "Sure, but down inside I felt we were good enough to come back. We've played well in the second half all year."

Corning edges Horseheads to stay in hunt for STC title

By JESSE TOWNSLEY
Sports Writer

CORNING — The Corning district wrestlers moved into a position where they have a chance at the STC title Wednesday by squeezing a 31-28 victory out of Horseheads.

Corning won despite the home team disadvantage. "When you're the home team, you can't do anything," said Corning coach Lou Fiorillo. "You just put your guys out against whoever they get."

In wrestling, the home team coach has to submit his roster before the match, but the visiting coach doesn't. This usually leads to a lot of maneuvering by visiting coaches trying to get matchups in their favor, either to get wins or avoid pins.

"We dropped a few guys down in the lower weight classes and moved a couple up in the upper classes," said Horseheads coach Jeff Manwaring. "If a couple of my lower weights had come through, we'd have done it."

Corning won five out of seven of the light weight classes and got a draw in another. Horseheads then won five out of six of the heavier weight classes.

Manwaring tried to get 119-pounder Rob Korzen down to 112 to wrestle Eric Abbey instead of Corning's undefeated Dana Wright, but Korzen missed weight by three pounds. Abbey went on to pin his man at 112 and Wright outpointed Korzen 20-2 for a superior decision.

Both coaches thought 126 was going to go their way, but both turned out to be wrong as Joe Hunt and Troy Samson fought to a 8-8 draw. Hunt came back from being down 6-2 in the first period.

In what Fiorillo termed the key match of the day, Horseheads' prize wrestler Ed Bower took a major decision over Ed Gulick at 155, getting the extra point decison in the last few seconds of the match from a takedown after letting Gulick escape.

Fiorillo expected Ed Mattison to win at 177 and he did — by one point, beating Horseheads' Roger Smith, 4-3.

Heavyweight Doug McFarland prevented Horseheads from getting a draw, fighting to a 6-2 decision loss, at one point giving the home town crowd a chance to roar as he reversed Horsehead's Doug Rittler and rode him in a semi-guillotine.

Corning will host Notre Dame, undefeated in the STC thus far, on Feb. 5. Corning is 3-1 in the league, having lost to Hornell.

Horseheads won the junior varsity match, 22-45.

Wrestlers biggest matches are against the scales

By Mike DeCourcy
The Pittsburgh Press

There are two sets of clothing in Lance Phaturos' closet. Not your typical summer/winter wardrobes, though. His clothes are seasonal, but they're divided between football and wrestling.

Last fall, as an All-Eastern Conference offensive guard for Riverview High School, Phaturos weighed 175 pounds. This week, he will begin defending his WPIAL Class AA wrestling championship — at 138 pounds.

"It was weird, because we made the playoffs in football and I was there thinking, 'How am I going to lose this weight?' ", said Phaturos (21-0-1).

"I came out for wrestling thinking, 'Oh, heck, what clothes am I going to wear? I wanted to put some weight on for football season and really got carried away. I was pretty heavy. 2-24-85

"It was fun losing the weight, not being a fatty anymore, looking trim again. Even my tightest jeans from football season, I can put sweats on underneath them and they're still baggy."

Wrestlers may be the most weight-conscious people on Earth, save for fashion models and Hollywood starlets. Which makes them, certainly, the most weight-conscious men on Earth.

High school wrestlers are caught in a constant struggle to keep their weight stable. Around the time of championship tournaments — such as those run by the WPIAL and PIAA — they must consider cutting weight to wrestle in a lower class and, ostensibly, achieve greater success.

"Once they start dieting, then you find out if it's a realistic goal or not," Riverview Coach Rick Ricciardi said. "Almost half the wrestlers at the beginning of the season say they're going to make a certain weight but never do. I try to guide the person, but I try to leave the choice up to him. I don't force anybody to go down, and I do recommend them to stay up sometimes."

"There's no point in a kid losing weight and wrestling in a lower weight class if it hurts his performance, because he'll lose anyway," Penn Hills Coach Tony Miller said.

His best wrestler, senior John Peterman, is defending WPIAL Class AAA champ at 145. Peterman is considering competing in that class after dropping from his football weight of 175 and wrestling most of the season at 155.

"There are a lot of good kids out there, in any weight class," Miller said. "Because there are so many good wrestlers in the WPIAL, it's not going to be easy at any weight. No one's going to hand it too you."

Cutting weight can be a dangerous process if done carelessly and recklessly, but some of the WPIAL's best wrestlers say they won't drop any more weight than they feel comfortable losing.

After starting practice in November weighing 125, Chartiers-Houston sophomore Joe Congie (18-6) lost 20 pounds and wrestled most of the season at 105. He would like to make it to the 98-pound class but doesn't believe it's possible.

"I was playing with it last week in practice, seeing how I felt at a lower weight. I felt sick at 107, so I really don't think I'll drop."

Dave Ciafre of Riverview, the defending WPIAL Class AA champion at 112, weighed 133 last Friday. His goal is to wrestle in the 119 class, which means he must drop 10 pounds by the end of the week. Wrestlers are allowed a 2-pound cushion at the start of the season and an extra pound for each month past January.

"I hit a slump. I was at 126 and needed a break," Ciafre (19-2) said. "I let my weight get up to 132, and it got my head back into wrestling. I really felt good. I don't know if that hurt me, but if I can get back down it will have been good."

Ricciardi wanted Ciafre to make the 119 limit last week so Ciafre could be certain it was the proper weight for him.

"He said he wasn't going to make it until regionals, and I told him that was a bad move because he won't feel the difference in his body," Ricciardi said. "He would be able to decide if he was more comfortable at 126 or 119. Now he's not going to have that choice."

In addition to what their bodies tell them, wrestlers listen to gossip about who might drop to different weight classes in time for the section tournaments.

Because outstanding wrestlers from 132 pounds are considering dropping to 126 — such as defending WPIAL champion Derrick Hall of Jeannette — Ciafre has to at least think about trying to make 119.

"He would probably be the favorite at 119," Ricciardi said. "I'm sure it would be in the back of his mind, but if he didn't feel good at 119, that wouldn't be his main concern. After all these years, he'll make the decision as to how he feels."

Phaturos said that while bulking up for football he ate "anything you'd put in front of my face. My football coach looked at me one day near the blocking sled and said, 'Maybe you should lose 5 pounds.'

"When your football coach tells you to lose weight, you know you're heavy."

To drop to 145 for wrestling season, he cut his food intake in half, consulting a nutritionist so that necessary vitamins would not be missed.

He lost 25 pounds in three weeks. His waist size went from 32 inches to 28. Dropping to 138 meant eating only two meals a day — a light lunch of an apple or vegetable and dinner consisting of a meat portion and vegetable — plus wrestling workouts and running at night.

Congie had a more difficult time making it to 105. He stopped eating almost completely, existing primarily on liquids such as soup and an occasional meal.

"After the first match," Congie said, "I went to McDonalds and ate about $9 worth of food. I was scared to get on the scale the next day."

Food is what makes cutting weight so difficult for Congie. He doesn't like doing without it, and he really doesn't like the idea that some of his teammates can eat as much as they want.

"The heavyweights and stuff, they go to lunch every day and eat. And they tease you. Sometimes you feel like going to lunch and eating, saying the heck with this.

"I keep saying that next year I'll be wrestling at 126 and I'll be able to eat. But I'll probably cut weight next year, too."

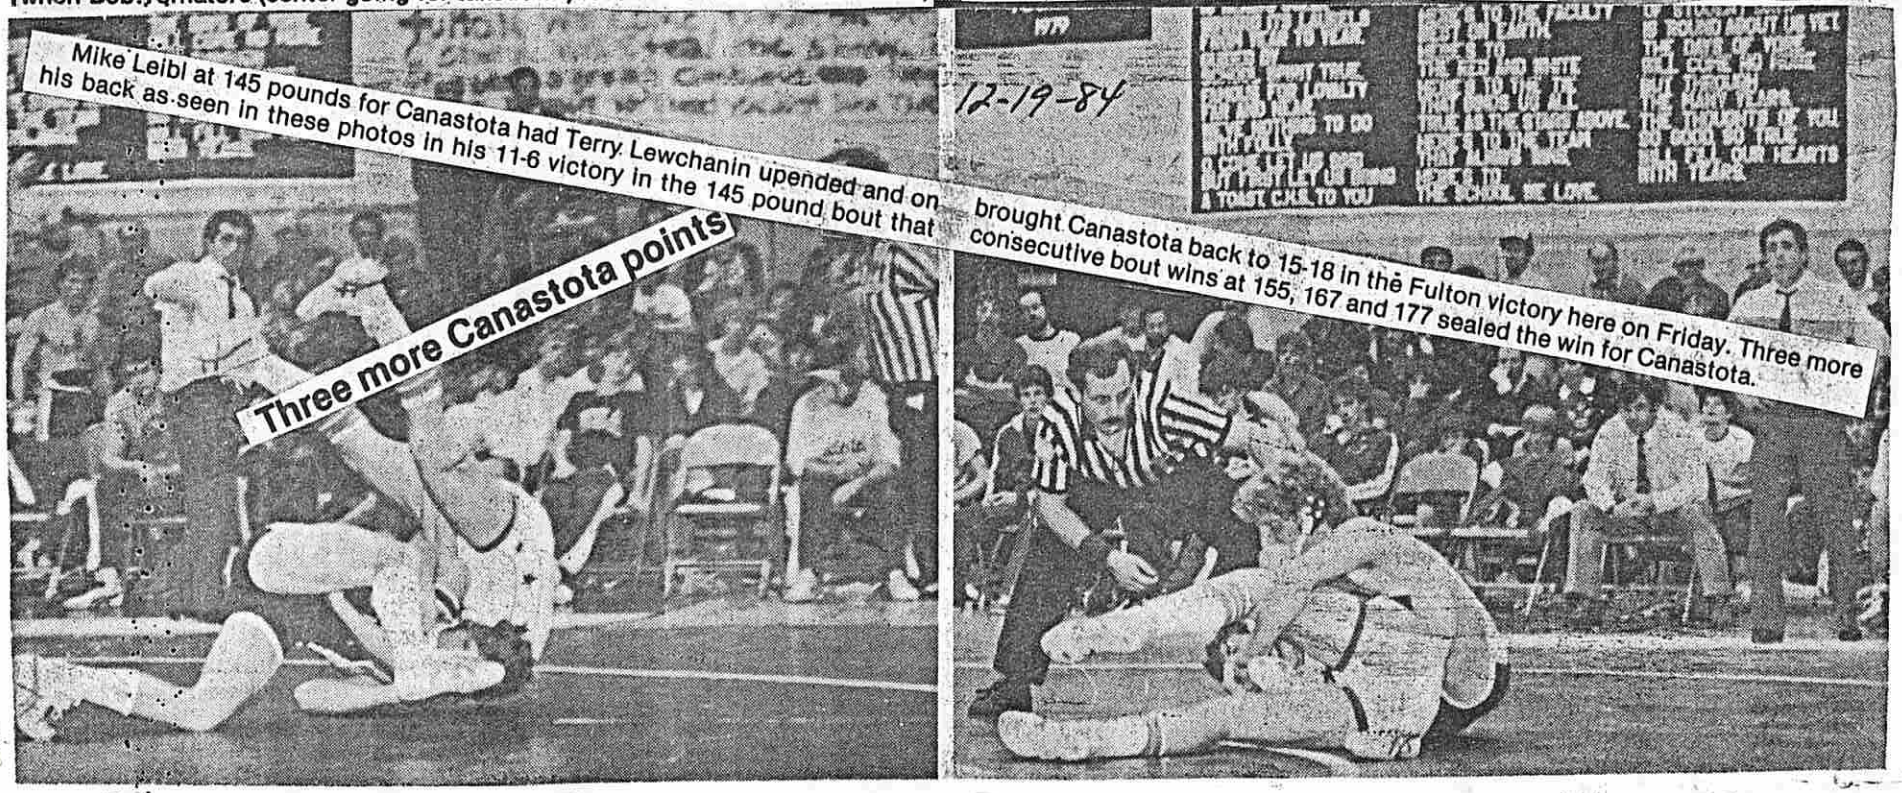
Although Bob Duffy (on top at left) had no problem mauling Mark Woodworth for 15-0 Canastota win at 105 pound bout, things looked bleak for Canastota when Bob Tornatore (center going for takedown) lost 6-4 at 112 and Dave Klein, right, was himself pinned after scoring near fall here in 119 pound bout on Friday. Canastota then trailed 12-5 and subsequently went behind 16-5 before fighting back for 26-21 victory before overflow crowd.



Mike Leibl at 145 pounds for Canastota had Terry Lewchanin upended and on his back as seen in these photos in his 11-6 victory in the 145 pound bout that brought Canastota back to 15-18 in the Fulton victory here on Friday. Three more consecutive bout wins at 155, 167 and 177 sealed the win for Canastota.

Fulton falls before mighty 'Stota

When they call the roll of memorable sports moments in Canastota history none will stand any higher than Friday night when Canastota High School's varsity wrestlers defeated Fulton High 26-21 on the high school mats before an overflow crowd that had come to watch the top two teams in Section III and possibly New York State. The win most likely locked up an unbeaten Canastota dual meet season.

Everyone knew it would be a thriller before it started, but no one could have predicted the drama that unfolded as Canastota fought back from a 16-5 deficit and closed out the match with two pulsating wins at 167 and 177.

With the victory Canastota moves to the top of the rankings in Section III and will be ranked in the top three in New York State. Whether they end up the top ranked team in the state depends in much part on whether Fulton wins their dual meets against other state powers. Canastota has some tough tournament action ahead, but their dual meet schedule is confined to Section III.

There is one match opening on the Canastota schedule and if the state title were on the line it could be that a match could be scheduled later on. Another possibility is that Canastota become a Section III entry in the Cup tournament at West Point in February that features the tops team from each section of the state.

Coach Jack Romagnoli said that nothing definite on Cup plans or rounding out the schedule will be decided right now. "We've got to come out of the clouds and worry about the rest of our schedule," Romagnoli said. "We'll be up against the best in the state in the Sherburne and Canandaigua tournaments. 12-19-84

Romagnoli said the win over Fulton was even more satisfying to him than the 22-21 Canastota victory over Baldwinsville two years ago that broke off a ten year, 80 match Baldwinsville home winning streak.

Fulton came into Canastota as 1982 and 1983 state Champion, as third ranked in 1984. They were 60-1 in dual meets over the past four years, losing only last year to East Rochester.

Three Canastota wrestlers on Friday has also wrestled varsity the night Canastota beat Baldwinsville two years ago. They were Bob Duffy, Nick Zupan and Tom Gleason. All three won Friday.

But the two matches that brought the crowd to their feet were at 167 and 177.

At 167 was Jack Bixby, who weighed in at 147 at matside and had wrestled at 138 in the opening match with Liverpool. Fulton coach Wayne Bleau insisted Bixby was an illegal wrestler at 167 because he didn't weight enough (you can wrestle one class up from your weigh in weight) That would have been 145 and 155 according to Bleau but 155 and 167 according correctly to Canastota since the Christmas weight allowance hadn't gone into effect yet (that increases the weight class by two pounds).

Bixby gave away 20 pounds but easily defeated Jeff Margery, a true 167 pounder by a 19-8 score and Canastota moved a whisker away from cementing a win.

Unfortunately, Fulton had possibly its two best wrestlers in the final two matches, Mike Maxam at 177 and Randy Cotton at 215. Maxam had pinned Canastota's Jimmy Mason in a half minute the two times they had met last year.

But on Friday night Mason had probably the highlight moment of his life when he demolished Maxam 12-4 for a superior win and four team points driving the final nail in the effort that dethroned mighty Fulton and sent shock waves throughout the state. Canastota, always a top wrestling contender, was now possibly the best.

It mattered little that Canastota had a team point deducted after the Mason win and celebration for stepping on the mat or that Cotton decisioned Steve Malbouf. The team score was what mattered.

It hadn't looked that joyous for Canastota early in the evening. Kip Wickwire was decisioned at 98, but Bob Duffy, dropping down a weight to 105 got five big points for Canastota and their only early lead. With a 12-0 scrubbing of

From that moment on Canastota turned it around for their memorable win. Tom Gleason got five points at 132 in a 15-0 win over Gary Bordon that included four near falls. Then Bob Bonaventura earned a draw at 2-2 with Dave Burridge at 138.

Canastota kept moving closer when Mike Leibl scored a 11-6 win over Terry Lewchauwin at 145. Nick Zupan put Canastota on top for the first time since Duffy's win early in the evening when he got four points and a 19-18 Canastota lead with a 13-4 win over Mike Atkinson at 155.

That set the stage for the Bixby and Mason heroics. Both local boys showed tremendous body strength in dominating their mathces.

"This win is just incredible," said Romagnoll. It will set the stage for the rest of our season. We showed we have at least four or five potential sectional champions." 12-19-84

Mark Woodruff that included three second period near falls.

At 112 Bob Tornatore lost by two points to Ed Scerbo, same point spread the two had wrestled to in jayvee action ayear ago.

Then Canastota was temporarily crushed when David Klein, ahead 6-2 after the first period with two near falls, was himself pinned by Dave Williams at 119. This was a match Canastota had counted on winning to take the match.

Things didn't get any brighter when John Howard, a seasoned wrestler and transfer defeated Scott Cowan 13-3 for a 16-5 Fulton lead.

Canastota with a 2-0 record, including a forfeit win over New Hartford, travels to Holland Patent on to tonight (Wednesday) and then hosts the Tri-Valley League Invitational on Friday and Saturday before they break for the Christmas holidays.

"Our lightweights are getting better and better," Ridgway coach Gary Gerber said, citing a virtual standoff in the lightweight bouts — Coudy's strength. "We got off to a good start and when Doug Young upset Phil Cruz at 112, I knew we had a good chance of putting them away."

Wrestled with choice

ENCOURAGING WORDS: Michelle Green, a member of the Jim Thorpe (Pa.) High School wrestling team, was talked into going out for the sport instead of football by her boyfriend, Lance Malatat. Malatat, a member of the team last season, rubs Green's shoulders before a match. The 126-pounder's teammates were leery at first but now help her with techniques and offer encouragement.

Kane (10-0): 'It All Boils Down

To Kane High School wrestling coach Barry Johnson, there's still plenty to be decided before this season is over.

So even after Thursday's 53-9 victory over Eisenhower (4-8), a win giving Kane a Big 30-best 10-0 record and its 25th consecutive win, Johnson is waiting.

"We're going pretty good right now, but it's all boiling down to our Ridgway match on Feb. 14," said Johnson. "That's going to be a heck of a match."

Ridgway (8-2), idle last night, was the last team to defeat Kane and holds a 12-1 series edge. 2-1-85

While Johnson may feel another unbeaten season hinges on the Ridgway outcome, for now, Kane, ranked second in the Times Herald Wrestling Poll, appears unstoppable.

Kane stormed to a 39-0 lead against Eisenhower before losing at 145, and had three wrestlers, Duane Blankenship (18-1), Jack Bell (17-1) and Dan Rook (14-4-1), remain unbeaten in dual meets.

Much of Kane's success can be attributed to its takedown artistry, which accounted for a 12-2 edge Thursday.

"As far as takedowns go, this team is far superior than any other team I've worked with," Johnson said. "In fact, just last week we've quit doing takedowns in practice because they've been so good on their feet. We can now spend more time concentrating on the mat." 2-1-85

In other matches Thursday, Salamanca, St. Marys Public, Coudersport and Sheffield were winners.

Big 30 Wrestling

St. Marys Public 44, Smethport 17

St. Marys (6-3-1), which had lost three and tied one of its last four duals, got a big lift when Tim Wittman (12-1) handed Steve Valenti (9-1) his first loss in a matchup of two returning District 9 champions.

T.J. Reap (13-0) remained undefeated for Smethport (5-5).

Sheffield 36, Youngsville 21

Senior Chuck Grinnen (9-0-1) remained unbeaten and Sheffield (6-5) got wins from Joe Poston (16-4), Dondi Poston (10-10) and David Fitch in the final three bouts to turn a 22-21 match into a rout.

Coudersport 46, Oswayo Valley 21

Coudersport (10-2) rolled to a 35-0 lead to defeat OV (4-7) for the second time this season. Kris Fuller upped his record to 18-0 for OV.

SHRINK

It's Post-Season Tourney Time

By TOM ROOF
Times Herald Sports Writer

It's time to put those team won-loss records on the shelf.

Starting this Friday and Saturday, high school wrestlers throughout Sections 5 and 6, including those from 13 of the 14 New York Big 30 teams (excluding Olean Walsh), will be competing in the first round of New York's three-weekend-long post-season championship tournament. 2-14-85

Six league tournaments will be held in Section 6 this weekend with the top placewinners advancing to the Section 6 state qualifier Feb. 22-23 at Fredonia State College's Dods Hall.

For Section 6 (five WNY counties), the Fredonia State site will be the first time the state qualifier will be held outside the Buffalo area. Roughly 224 wrestlers will compete.

Meanwhile, Section 5 (10 western, central N.Y. counties) will be conducting four tournaments this weekend, regardless of league affiliation, for Class A, B, C and D schools at various sites. Each tournament will advance four wrestlers to a supersectional meet Feb. 22-23 at Brockport State College.

Following is a rundown of the tournaments affecting Big 30 entries:

SECTION 6

Southern Tier League Tournament: A 16-team tournament drawing from members of the Southern Tier Division I League (except Eisenhower) and Southern Tier Division II League. Wrestling will get underway at 5 p.m. Friday at Falconer Central School and resume Saturday at 10 a.m. The championship finals are tenatively set for 7:30 p.m.

Seeding for the tournament will be held tonight when coaches also will decide how many wrestlers advance to the sectional qualifier from each weight class.

This year's tournament boasts 14 returning finalists, including champions Jeff Prescott and Steve Irving of Olean High, Troy Lefford, Rob Waddington and Joel Sopak of Falconer, and Steve Penhollow of Cassadaga Valley. 2-14-85

Tri-County Tournament: A one-day tournament (Friday) at Allegany Central School, with league members Allegany, Cattaraugus, Portville and Franklinville participating. Wrestling will get underway at approximately 6 p.m. with the semi-final round.

Advancing to the Section 6 state qualifier will be weight class champions and one wild-card from the event. Seeding will be done prior to the start of the tournament based on head-to-head results and then overall record.

Six champions are back to defend their titles, freshman Sam Grey and sophomore Shawn Booth of Cattaraugus, freshman Ray Ryan and senior Dan Norton of Allegany, and seniors Tim Skroback and Andy Wheeler of Portville.

Erie County South Championships: Seniors Troy Almeter and Eric Romesser, last year's tournament Most Valuable Wrestler, will be back to defend their titles for Pioneer, the only Big 30 entry in the Division III-IV event to be held at East Aurora.

The top two wrestlers at each weight class plus wild cards will advance to Fredonia State. Wrestling will get underway at 5 p.m. Friday.

Other returning placewinners for Pioneer are runnersup Sean Murray and Dan Benjamin, plus Tim Barnes (third) and Mike Carder (fourth).

SECTION 5

Class B: At Geneva, Wellsville will be the lone Big 30 school competing, sending wrestlers against some 20 other teams. Wrestling will start at 5 p.m. Friday and then resume at 10 a.m. Saturday.

Advancing to the Section 5 supersectional meet at Brockport State College will be the top four wrestlers in each weight class. Two-time runnerup, junior Kim Doane (91 and 105), is among four former placewinners returning for Wellsville. The others are 1983 91-pound champion sophomore Townley Hedrick, sophomore Jim Kling (fourth last year at 91), and freshman Harold Peterson (sixth last year at 98).

Class D: Bolivar, Alfred-Almond and Fillmore will be among the 20 teams competing in the 'D' field, which will meet Friday and Saturday at Geneseo. Wrestling will be on Friday from 4:30 to 8:30 p.m. (qualifying round and first-round winners and losers' bracket) and will resume at 11 a.m. Saturday. The championship finals are booked for 7:30 p.m.

As in all Section 5 class tournaments, only the top four wrestlers at each weight will advance to Brockport State the following weekend.

Back to defend their titles from Bolivar are senior Jim McDonald and two-time champion, junior Mike Dunsmore.

Oswayo Valley Comeback Stuns Walsh

For a while Wednesday night, Olean Walsh High School wrestling coach Paul Abdo had to be sitting back and figuring on an 8-6 final record for his team this season. 2-14-85

After all, through the first eight weight classes of a match with Oswayo Valley, Walsh held a commanding 27-10 lead and still had 185-pound senior Mike Veno waiting to take his turn.

What followed, however, was an ending Abdo would just as soon have skipped. Taking advantage of an upperweight group Abdo felt was languid, OV swept the final four matches — including three by pins — to down Walsh, 31-27.

"I'd have to say we were hurt by the flu," said Abdo, noting both Veno (12-3), who lost to Todd Wheaton (13-7), and heavyweight Erich Wuersig missed school this week because of illness.

Oswayo Valley improved to 5-8 overall with the win, its second against Walsh (7-7) this season.

Big 30 Wrestling

Completing the regular season undefeated in 14 dual meets for Walsh for Robb Klucik (26-1 overall), who tied a school record with his 18th pin, and Eric D'Arcy (20-4).

Bucktail 57, St. Marys Elk 11

Senior Tim Buerk (11-3) won by a decision and sophomore Randy Weisner (14-0) by forfeit to give Elk (0-12-1) its only points.

Rich Geer (21-4) and heavyweight John Lorenzo (20-4, 15 pins), the team's only seniors, won for Kane, as did junior Duane Blankenship (21-1). Kane's Frank Bizzak (12-11) upset Jeff Peterson (15-5-1) and teammate Roger Blankenship (17-3) took a 3-0 decision from Don Allegretto (16-5).

Emporium 33, Brookville 26

"This was a good win for us," said Emporium coach Lary McGraw. "Anytime you beat Brookville, you wrestled well."

Among the winners for Emporium (6-9), which had lost five of its last six, were Nick Guisto (19-5), Darryl Sassaman (13-4) and Butch Gennocro (15-6-2), while Mike Hart (167) clinched the win with a pin.

St. Marys Public 32, Curwensville 23

Going with the line-up it will have in the upcoming District 9 Class AAA championships, St. Marys (11-3-1) tallied 28 points from 119 to 155 en route to its sixth straight win.

Victories

Kane Coasts Past Ridgway

No one knows his own team better than the coach, but even Kane High School wrestling mentor Barry Johnson was a bit surprised by how early the knockout punch came in Thursday's Big 30 showdown with Ridgway. 2-15-85

Winning seven of the first eight matches, Kane, ranked second in the Times Herald poll, rolled to a 36-23 win over the TH's No. 3 team. Kane (14-0), in stretching its two-year dual-meet winning streak to 29, guaranteed itself at least a tie as early as the 138-pound match.

"Our lightweights really do the job for us," said Johnson, who has all but two regulars back next season. "The kids were really up for the match, plus we had a huge crowd and that had to help."

Johnson, however, had his reservations on Ridgway (12-3), which was the last team to beat Kane and held a 12-1 series lead before Thursday.

Kane got pins from Seth Bloomquist (13-3-1) and Jack Bell (18-1), who returned to the lineup for the first time since a skiing accident sidelined him in January. Duane Blankenship (22-1) won by a major decision and heavyweight John Lorenzo (18-4) avenged an earlier 9-0 loss to Ridgway's Bill Lyle (14-5-2).

Port Allegany 46, Smethport 12

Port Allegany (9-3) topped Smethport (6-9-1) for the second time this season. T.J. Reap went to 18-0 for Smethport.

Coudersport 45, Emporium 12

Mike Martin (12-4-2) and Joe Ayers (11-3) each won for Coudersport (13-2), while Nick Guisto (18-5) had a pin for Emporium (5-9).

Brockway 54, St. Marys Elk 6

Randy Weisner (15-0) and Tim Buerk (12-3), who topped Mike Pisarchick (15-4-1), were the only Elk winners.

Eisenhower 45, Sheffield 11

Chuck Grinnen (12-0-1) and Tim McMeans (15-7) won for Sheffield (6-8).

Bradford High 50, Wellsville 15

Mike McGee (7-9) pinned Dan Costello in the third period to highlight Bradford's sixth win.

Kane Juniors Third In State Mat Event

HERSHEY, Pa. — Kane High School juniors Duane Blankenship and Jack Bell posted back-to-back wins at 119 at 126, respectively, Friday night in the consolation finals to place third at the Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association Class AA state championship wrestling tournament.

Bell (31-2) lost in the semi-finals, 2-1, to Southeastern Region champ Larry Rehig of Northern Lehigh. He then posted a pair of consolation round wins, beating Minorsville's Brian Pritz, 10-2, and then Lackawanna Trail's Mark Ross, 3-1, for third place. 3-16-85

Blankenship (35-2), who lost in Thursday's quarter-finals, won three consolation matches to garner his third-place finish. His first win in the wrestlebacks, 9-0, eliminated another Big 30 entry, Port Allegany's Jim Buchsenschutz (22-7), whom he had beaten 11-2 last weekend in the Northwest Regional semi-finals.

Blankenship then nipped Moshannon Valley's Ray Albright, 3-2, for the second straight week. He topped Wilson's Jim Bodai, 9-6, in the consolation finals.

RIDGWAY 145-POUND SENIOR Jeff Stenta (30-5) and Sheffield 105-pound senior Chuck Grinnen (24-5-1) both placed sixth in their first state appearance. Grinnen, Sheffield's first state qualifier, lost three straight matches after advancing to the semi-finals with a pair of wins on Thursday.

Smethport junior Don Burdick (20-8), the only other Big 30 wrestler to advance to the second day, was eliminated after losing a first-round consolation match by a pin to Trevor Byers of Bermudian Springs.

In Class AAA, St. Marys Public sophomore Tim Wittman (24-4) will be wrestling in today's consolation bracket after dropping a quarter-final round bout to John Dasta of Penn Hills.

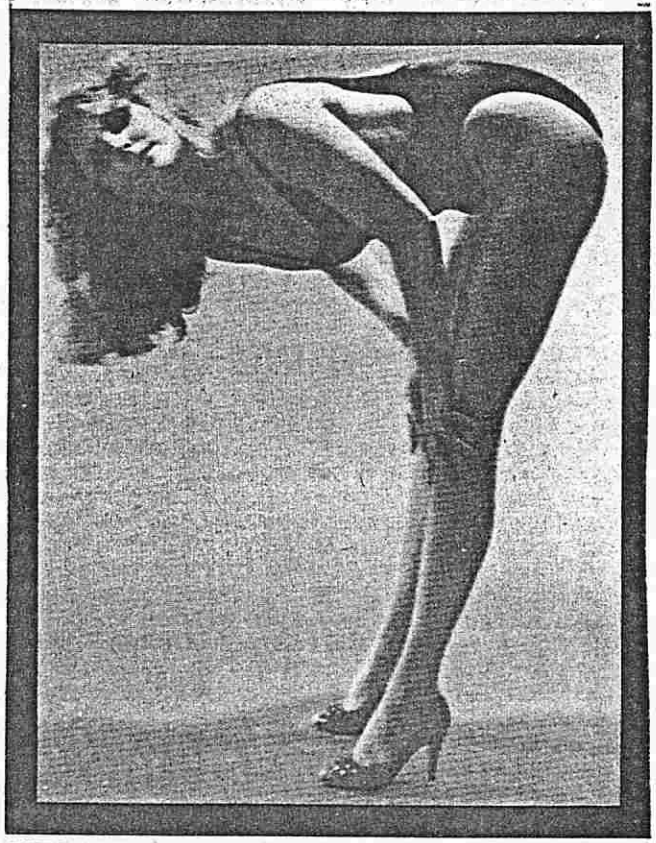
East Syracuse-Minoa senior Chris Labbate is the winner after pinning an opponent this season. Labbate, with 117 career wins, is favored to defend his 1984 Section Three title at 112 pounds.

Not just a model wife



SHE'S GOT NERVE: Not since Rita Jenrette confessed to making love on the steps of the U.S. Capitol has Washington, D.C., been so abuzz. Marty Davis, 36, wife of Rep. Robert W. Davis, R-Mich., sent this photo and a letter to 'Washington Dossier' protesting the magazine's story about the women behind congressmen. 'We're not stuck in a 1950s Donna Reed time warp,' wrote Davis, a media consultant. Two congressional wives called Robert Davis' office Wednesday in support of her. Says ex-congressional wife Jenrette: 'It's irrelevant that she posed in a bathing suit. . . . she's a bright woman doing her own thing.'

SU wrestlers defeat Clarion, Boston College

2-10-85

SU's heavyweight wrestler Andy Schwab pinned Kirk Butryn of Clarion State in 3:53 to lift Syracuse to a tough 25-15 win in part of a triangular meet at Manley Field House. The Orangemen needed a win from Schwab after Clarion's 190-pound All-American Jim Biechner pinned SU's Joe Moore in 45 seconds the match before.

Syracuse also topped Boston University, 57-0, in the meet. Tony Cotroneo (118 pounds), Ed Larah (134 pounds), Cari Broad (142 pounds) and Mike Marewski all scored pins for the Orangemen.

Morrisvillle Community College won a four-way wrestling meet at Keystone Junior College in La-Plume, Pa. Morrisville beat Keystone, 46-12, Broome Community College 49-5, and Bergen (N.J.) Community College, 54-3. Jim McHale scored three pins in the 167-pound class for the Aggies.

Jordan-Elbridge wrestler Rob Spearing, one of the section's best at 167 and 177 pounds, says he won't continue his wrestling career in college next year. "This is my 11th year of it," he said after the Eagles clinched the OHSL Central title with a win over Solvay Jan. 30. "I've had enough."

That a wrestler of Spearing's calibre isn't inclined to continue from high school to college shows how demanding — in terms of physical and mental stamina, not to mention the ability to control one's weight — the sport is.

2-10-85

Don't look for drama when Cato-Meridian wrestler Mark Smelski warms up for a match.

The Blue Devil senior, who last week reached 100 career wins, is relaxed to the point of seeming half-asleep until just before he steps on the mat. Then he attacks.

"Everybody says you get nervous, but I don't," says Smelski, one of Section Three's best at 132 pounds. "I don't think about the match, I just get out there and wrestle."

His strength? "Countering (defense). I do what they do."

Wrestlers win share of titles

The varsity wrestling team up-ended first place Liverpool last week Tuesday evening at Liverpool, 36-22. The win casued a 3-way tie for the Onondaga League Championship between Baldwinsville, Liverpool and Fulton. All three teams ended with five and one records for the 1984-85 season. Liverpool had upset previously unbeaten Fulton the week before, 21-20.

At 98 pounds, John Loffredo won a hard fought meeting over highly-touted Jamie Pellenz, 9-5. Unbeaten Chuck DeMott pinned Dom Ianno at 105 lbs. in 2:54 while teammate Chip Pettitt dusted the Warriors' Jim Forster in 56 seconds at 112 lbs. These three lightweight brought the score to 15-10. Mike Bart and Steve LePorte increased the team lead to 21-0 with hard earned decisions at 119 and 126, as Bart won 7-5 and LePorte 11-7. 2-13-85

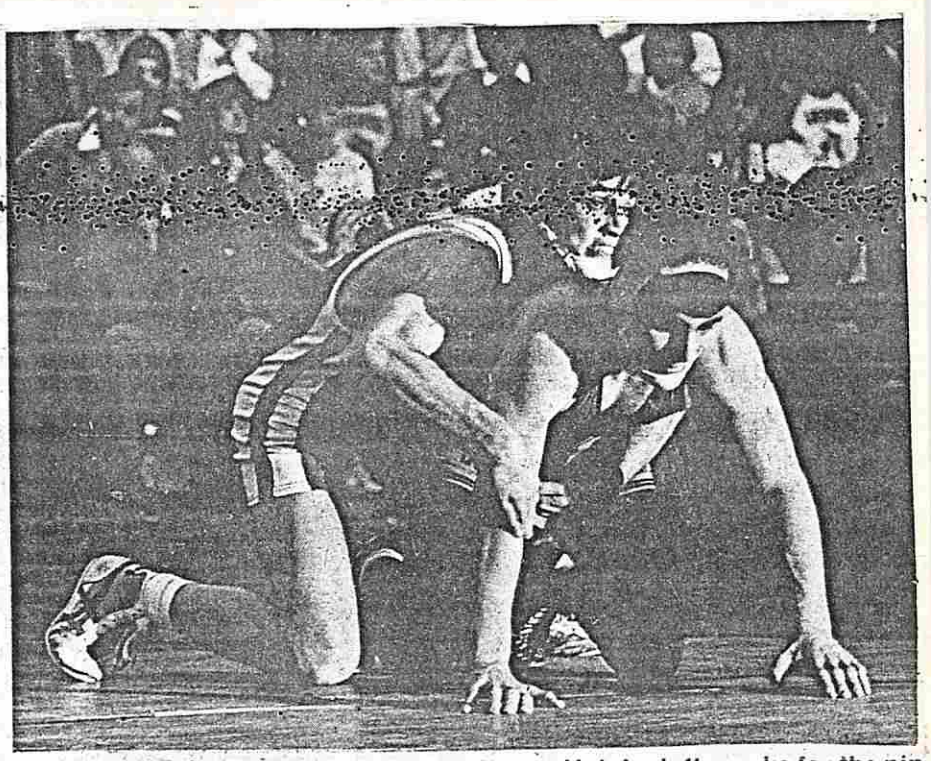
Co-captain Shawn Halpin pinned Joe Pavone in 5:48 at 132 lbs. while his workout partner Mike Wojnovich edged tough Scott Sears 3-2 at 138 lbs. The score read 30-0 in favor of Baldwinsville with only five bouts remaining. Liverpool mounted a drive starting with Dan Drake at 145 lbs. Drake pinned the Bees Dan Cerio in 2:23. Chris Coleman lost a major decision (4 pts.) to tough Joe Donahue 11-2, but by avoiding the pin, Coleman assured the Bees victory. Liverpool was officially and mathematically out of it. Cedric Oakes added the bonus points by taking a 4-0 lead over Shane Carne at 167 lbs. Carne was forced to default the bout during the second period as he was injured. The Bees moved regular 177-pounder Scott Wojnovich up to battle the Warrior heavyweight Dan Diferdinando. Wojnovich beat Diferdinando three days before in the Onondaga League tournament but got caught and pinned this time out in 3:57 to boost Liverpool's final score to 22.

The following day, the Bees traveled to Rome to conclude the dual meet season with a 35-15 victory over once beaten Rome Free Academy. Once again, the Bees opened strong with wins from Loffredo and DeMott at 98 and 105. Loffredo 9-4 and DeMott got win number 20 with a pin in 5:02. Co-captain ChipPettitt won a superior (12 point margin or more) decision 13-0 over Rob Prosser at 112 lbs. Mike Bart won 5-1 at 119 lbs. over Rome's Jim Watson pushing the Bee lead to 16-0. Paul Prosser sidetracked the rushing Bees at 126 lbs. with an upset of Steve LePorte 15-10, but Shawn Halpin got things in order again with a 22-9 victory over Jerry Fiorini at 132 lbs. Doug Markert moved up to 138 lbs. and pinned Dave Kennedy in 1:02 to give the Bees a 27-3 lead. Rome's powerful middle weights took the next three matches. Mike Wojnovich lost 9-4 at 145 lbs., Chris Coleman was blanked 11-0 at 155 lbs. and Cedric Oakes lost 9-2 to Mike Hurd at 167 lbs. Those three wins gave Rome 10 team points but once again iced the victory for the Bees. Scott Wojnovich lost an 8-6 lead with three seconds remaining at 177 lbs. to tie 8-8 and Art Bittel pinned Rome's 215-pounder in 5:07 to cap the meet and the score at 35-15.

The Bees ended the dual season at 12 and 1.

This week the Bees who placed in the top four of each weight class in the Class "A" sectionals advance to the Section III finals to be held at Cicero High School. Action starts at 10 a.m. this Saturday with the consolations and finals slated for 6:15 p.m.

The champions of Section III will represent Section III in the New York State championships on Friday and Saturday, March 1 and 2 in the Onondaga County War Memorial.



Co-captain Shawn Halpin, left, works for the pin he eventually gained over Joe Pavone in 5:48.

Olean High School sophomore Jeff Prescott will be out to improve on last year's third-place finish and teammates Steve Irving and Jeff Gabler will be making their first appearance when the 23rd annual New York State Wrestling Championships begin Friday in Syracuse.

Prescott (33-0) has drawn a first-round bye in the 98-pound class and will meet the winner of a match between senior Mike Caracci (22-0) of Long Beach (Section 8, western Long Island) and two-time Section 4 champ Troy Monks (35-0) of Odessa-Moutour (Binghamton area).

Last year at 91 pounds, Prescott lost an opening-round match to Whitehall's J.P. Epifano, then won four straight, including a rematch with Epifano, to place third.

Some 184 wrestlers from 13 geographical areas of the state will be competing when action begins at 3:30 p.m., but Olean, which sent five wrestlers in 1978, will be well represented.

Although making just their first trip, Irving and Gabler, a pair of seniors boasting identical 35-2 records, figure to do well. Irving has the most wins of any state wrestler at 119, and likewise for Gabler at 167.

2-28-85

"I think they're all prepared," said Olean High coach Jim Myers. "They've wrestled good competition all year and it's paid off. I think our schedule and the tournaments we've gone to have to help."

Irving will meet Lehman High (NYC Public School Athletic League) junior Frank Frontain in the first round. A win will put him against the survivor of a match between Tom Ryan (27-2-1) of Wantagh (Section 8) and Kevin DiCerbo (35-0) of Galway (Section 2, Albany area).

Gabler drew Catholic High School Athletic Association tournament champ Jim Taube (32-2) of Athol Springs St. Francis for his opening match, and, if he wins, will meet Greg Linkner (29-0) of South Side (Section 8) or Phil St. George (31-3) of Brockport (Section 5).

Prescott, Falconer's Rod Waddington (112), Cassadaga Valley's Steve Pennhollow (155) and Clarence's Jeff Ellis (215) are the only Section 6 wrestlers making their second straight state appearance. Last year, they helped the section to a third-place finish, its best in more than a decade.

On Saturday, wrestling will resume at 10 a.m. on four mats until approximately 4:30 p.m. The consolation finals will be at 6 p.m. and the championship finals at 7:45 p.m.

MEANWHILE, DISTRICT 9 (seven northern Pa. counties) will crown at least nine new Class AA wrestling champions this weekend, and Steve Valenti, T.J. Reap and Terry Crawford hope that number doesn't get bigger.

Valenti and Reap, both of Smethport, and Crawford, of Redbank Valley, will be out to defend their titles Friday when the District 9 Class AA and Class AAA wrestling championships begin at 1:30 p.m. at Clarion University.

None, however, are guarenteed of repeating. While Valenti (16-1) is seeded first at 126, he'll get stiff competition from two-time runner-up and former state placewinner Jack Bell (20-1) of Kane, who was seeded second.

Reap (20-0), meanwhile, finds himself in the same class (167) as Brockway veteran Chris Miller (21-1), who placed second in last year's district to three-time champ Robbie Burford of Redbank Valley. And Crawford (16-4) could do no better than a fourth seed at 112.

If anything is certain, it's that this weekend won't be short on drama.

In the Class AAA tournament, back to defend titles will be St. Marys' Tim Wittman, DuBois High's Jim Royer, Bedford's Gary Diehl and John Straub, and Clearfield's Scott Collins and Scott Luzier. Clearfield is the defending team champion.

Sessions for the tournaments follow: Friday — Class AA preliminaries, 1:30 p.m.; Class AA, AAA quarter-finals, 6 p.m.; Saturday — AA semi-finals, consolation quarter-finals, 11 a.m.; AAA semi-finals, AA consi-semi-finals, 1:30 p.m.; AA, AAA consi-finals, 5 p.m.; AA, AAA championship finals at 6:30 p.m.

Wrestlers are tops

This is the time of year Canastota teams are competing for Sectional honors and it is possible that more honors than ever before could be coming 'Stota's way this year.

On Saturday the wrestlers did what everybody thought they would do. The won the Class B team wrestling title of Section III. But they were even more overpowering than their most ardent supporters could have hoped for.

Canastota took 14 wrestlers to the action at Chittenango and 12 of them finished in the top three of their weight class. Six were first, three were second and three were third to advance to the Section III finals at North Syracuse on Saturday.

It was a tremendous showing by some very, dedicated talented boys. 2-13-85

Jim Mason won his weight class with a bad shoulder; Mike Leibl won his weight class despite a bad back and being out weighed about 20 pounds by every opponent, Nick Zupan won his weight class and with such ease he was accorded a Most Outstanding Wrestler trophy by the coaches; Bob Duffy won the weight championship denied him last year when he dislocated his thumb in the championship bout, Mike New won a weight class he had never wrestled in before and did it as a sophomore and Steve Malbouf won the heavyweight class and just keeps showing tremendous improvement.

One of the best Canastota performances didn't result in a title. Sophomore Tom Gleason took defending sectional champion Steve Braddish of Mexico who also won third in the states last year to overtime. It was 2-2 at the end of regulation with Braddish finally winning 2-0 in the overtime.

Canastota has never had 12 wrestlers at Sectionals. They never have had six class champions in one year. They had 10 last year, 11 the two years before that. This just might be the year that Canastota, with only two large Long Island teams ranked above it in all of New York State, the team that is unbeaten in 13 dual matches, and three two day tournaments, wins the Sectional title.

Canastota has won that title one time before, back in 1981 when Wes Hood and Sam Giufre won individual titles, Dave Gleason was second and Mark Hood and Mike Relyea each third. We managed to eke out a 1½ point win for the team title over New Hartford.

You can never accurately predict who will win a wrestling tournament because so much depends on how boys match up against each other or how they avoid each other in differing weight classes, how much weight they had to suck and how much it drained their strength, who has a cold and who gets hurt in freak ways. So many things can happen and so much is psychological. On paper though, Canastota just has to be the team to beat for the sectional title in 1985.

This Canastota team has a strong senior flavor. Six of the boys competing on Saturday are seniors. They include Malbouf, Mason, Zupan, Leibl, Bob Bonaventura and David Klein. They have been a tremendous contributing force to the Canastota wrestling effort over the past four seasons.

Stings Like a Bee

Baldwinsville's Chip Pettitt (top) works toward a pin during an Onondaga League dual meet with Fulton. Two-time Section Three champion Pettitt will compete at 105 pounds for the Bees in the 23rd annual state Intersectional Meet at the War Memorial on March 1-2.

Pettitt wins section title

Chip Pettitt, senior co-captain of the varsity team, won his second Section 3 wrestling crown Saturday and won the right to represent Central New York in the state championships at 105 lbs. 2-20-85

Last year Pettitt was the 98-lb. champ and placed sixth in the state meet. The talented wrestler breezed through Saturday's sectional tournament and raised his seasonal record to 32-1 with wins over George Wheelock of Boonville (pin, 1:23), Rob Prosser of Rome (20-3), Jim Everard of Beaver River (pin, 1:35) and Bob Duffy of Canastota (9-2).

Pettitt's final win over Duffy of Canastota avenged his only loss of the season, to Duffy, 6-5, in the Sherburne Earlville tournament finals in January.

Co-captain Shawn Halpin placed third at 132 lbs. and fought as hard as possible in his attempt to gain a sectional title. Halpin was second last year at 126 lbs. He opened Saturday with wins over Mike Cunningham of Jordan-Elbridge (pin, 5:40) and Bob Bonaventura of Canastota (10-1), then lost to eventual champion Rob Price of Cortland (8-3). Halpin came back to take a 7-0 lead over Burridge of Fulton before Burridge was disqualified. Halpin placed third and ended his season and career with a 20-6 record this year. 2-20-85

Mike Wojnovich was second-seeded before the tournament at 138 lbs. but after an opening-round pin over Henninger's Brian Hargett, Wojnovich lost to Rome's Dominick Darcangelo, 6-4, and was eliminated.

Mike Bart also won his first round at 112 lbs. with a win over Ed Sullivan of Beaver River and then lost to champion Chris Labatte, 7-3. Bart ended the season with a 23-7 record, four of his losses were to Labatte.

Art Bittel, B'ville's sophomore 250-pounder, did a good job with champion George Korthas, Korthas won over Bittell, 9-2, in the opening round but Bittel gave him the toughest fight of the day as Korthas pinned everyone else in his weight class. 2-20-85

Dan Cerio, John Loffredo and Brian Johnson also lost their opening round bouts, eliminating them from the competition. Cerio lost to top-seed Doug Nagy of Beaver River by default with an injured shoulder. Loffredo lost to Jerry Zehr of Copenhagen and Johnson was decisioned by New Hartford's Mike Deyo.

The Bees, who won the overall section championship for the past two years, placed fifth behind Canastota, Fulton, East Syracuse-Minoa and Jordan-Elbridge.

The Section 3 champions will practice as a team for the next two weeks in preparation for the state championships. The "States" will start at noon on Friday, March 1, and continue with the semi-finals on Saturday, March 2, at 10 a.m. The finals will be Saturday at 8 p.m. All action is slated in the Onondaga War Memorial, Syracuse.

B'ville's Upset Forces Mat Tie

By NEIL KERR

Eighth-grader John Loffredo posted a 9-5 victory over seventh-grader Jamie Pellenz in the opening 98-pound match and got Baldwinsville started toward a 36-22 wrestling victory over Liverpool in a showdown of Onondaga League North powers Wednesday at Liverpool. 2-6-85

With the win, Baldwinsville climbed into a three-way first-place tie in the final Division A standings with Fulton and Liverpool. All three teams finished 5-1. Liverpool upset Fulton 21-20 last Friday.

B'ville won the first seven individual bouts to take an insurmountable 30-0 lead. Key wins were chalked up by Loffredo at 98, Mike Bart over Nick DeCarlo by 7-5 at 119 pounds and Mike Wojnovich over Scott Sears 3-2 at 138.

"A number of Fulton people were here cheering for us tonight," said Baldwinsville coach Leo Johnson. "That's the first time that's happened in many years."

Elsewhere in wrestling, No. 3 state-ranked Canastota (13-0) flattened West Genesee 46-7 in non-league action, East Syracuse-Minoa pinned a 35-21 defeat on Central Square as defending Section Three 112-pound champion Chris Labbate won his 117th career bout 13-1, Jordan-Elbridge (13-1) wrapped up the OHSL Central Division crown with a 45-16 conquest of Homer, Chittenango beat Marcellus 35-25 and Fowler toppled Cicero-North Syracuse 36-21.

A key matchup of Section Three state-ranked powers tonight sends No. 8 Baldwinsville (11-1) to Central Oneida League champion and No. 23-rated Rome Free Academy (11-1).

In basketball, Fowler (16-1) won its 15th straight game and rolled up the highest score of the season in Section Three while thrashing Utica Free Academy 112-57. Curtis Taylor's 25 points led a procession of six Falcons into double figures. Jim O'Hara added 14 points and 12 rebounds, while Gary Orr managed 14 points and 12 assists.

In OHSL Central Division court play, Jordan-Elbridge downed Westhill 55-41 as Nick Klock scored 12 for the Eagles (9-6, 11-6) and Phoenix (1-13) achieved its first win of the season 58-50 over injury-plagued Mexico (7-6). Paul Nelson, a 6-4 senior center, pumped in 21 points and Brent Erwin added 13 points for the Firebirds. 2-6-85

Tonight's key Onondaga League game sends OHSL North Division A runner-up Bishop Ludden (10-3) to Henninger (12-1) for a battle of former City League rivals. A Henninger victory will clinch a first-ever league title for seventh-year Black Knights coach Mike Rizzi, who obtained his 100th coaching win last week. Rizzi's teams have twice won the Section Three Class A playoffs (1979, 1984) but have never captured a league crown.

Baldwinsville eighth-grader John Loffredo, top, secures his grip on Liverpool seventh-grader Jamie Pellenz during a 98-pound match won by Loffredo 9-5. Baldwinsville won 36-22.

Juniors capture county tourney

Baldwinsville's junior varsity grapplers scored 229 points to be crowned the County League North Tournament champions. Fulton and Liverpool battled for the runner-up spot with Fulton ending up with 138 points, edging Liverpool with 133.

West Genesee was fourth, followed by Cicero North Syracuse, Central Square and East Syracuse-Minoa.

Tom Ryan, 91-pounder for the Bees, received a bye and then pinned his man from Central Square to reach the finals. Tom lost a 9-3 decision to Pawlewicz of Fulton to finish in the runner-up spot. 2-6-85

Bob Fritcher, 98 lbs., won a 20-4 superior decision in the quarters and pinned in the semis. Bob lost a 6-4 decision in the finals to end up in second place.

Chris Thompson had byes to the finals and dropped a 15-3 decision for a second-place finish.

Jeff Johnson, 112, lost in the semis but battled back in the consolations to win over his tough West Genesee foe for a third-place finish.

Phil Elliott, 119, won an 8-6 decision in the semis over Pederson of Fulton whom Phil tied in the previous week's dual meet. Phil went on to be crowned the 119-lb. champion with a win over Losurdo of West Genesee, 9-3.

Bill Silvia pinned his men in the quarters and semis to reach the 126-lb. finals. Bill wrestled Spaulding, one of Fulton's best, to a 2-2 tie in regulation time. In overtie, Silvia, with desire and determination, put his adversary to his back for a fall and the championship.

Mark Mills, 132, pinned his foe in the semis to reach the finals. Mark copped another fall in the finals to become champion. Mark was voted the Most Outstanding Wrestler of the tournament.

Trent Moffett had tough going early in the tournament but managed to eke out a win (7-6 in the quarters and 9-4 in the semis). Trent woke up in the finals to dominate his foe in a 14-2 superior decision and become the 138-lb. champion.

Chris Fowler lost his first bout but came back in the consolations to win a third-place finish.

Jeff Russett lost in the semis but came back in the consolations for a third-place finish.

Joe Fletcher pinned his man in the semis and lost an 8-6 decision in the finals.

Frank Matzke, 177, won by a pin in the semis. Frank lost by a decision in the finals to his Liverpool opponent to settle for a second-place finish.

Kevin Wener moved up to the heavyweight class and dominated his man in the quarters. Kevin won a 10-5 decision in the semis over his Liverpool foe and captured the heavyweight championship by a pin over his ESM foe.

The junior Bees have three contests left in the season (Oswego last Monday, Liverpool on Tuesday, and powerful Rome on today, Wednesday.) All matches are on the road.

Campany, Canastota rule

By Scott Conroe
Staff Writer

Eric Campany thought he was pinned.

Certainly Fulton High School wrestler Mike Maxam, the South Jefferson senior's opponent in the Section Three finals at 155 pounds Saturday, was trying hard enough. He had Campany cradled and stuck on his back. He even had Campany's hands and feet immobilized. 2-17-85

But Campany found a hole, pushed his arm through and put Maxam in a half-nelson. That was in the first period of their bout. Later, after he had won the sectional title, 8-7, and with it the Most Outstanding Wrestler award, Campany said he thought maybe he could have pinned Maxam.

"But I wasn't going to press my luck," Campany said, smiling.

The battle between Campany and Maxam — a wild exchange of reversals and back points — brought applause from the several hundred coaches and spectators in Cicero-North Syracuse High School's packed gym. It was one of many highlights of the annual tournament which determines the 14 wrestlers who will represent the section in the state meet March 1-2.

Canastota edged Fulton for the team title, 114-112. Each school had four finalists and two champions. But Canastota held a two-point lead going into the finals and held onto it partly because one of its champions, Nick Zupan at 138, won by default, worth six points.

Jim Mason decisioned Mt. Markham's Dan Mergenthaler, 7-5, at 177 to give Canastota its other titlist. Fulton's champs were John Howard at 119 and Randy Cotton at 215.

Campany won the MOW award by a narrow margin over Mexico's Steve Bradish, the 1984 champ at 119 who captured the crown at 126, and Jordan-Elbridge's Rob Spearing, the winner at 167.

Bradish swept through the early rounds, pinning his first three foes in devastating fashion, then beat Canastota's Tom Gleason, 6-0, to claim the title.

Spearing, seeded third, reached the finals by overwhelming Liverpool's Rich Gandino, 15-0, in the semifinals, then pinning LaFayette's Kevin Carroll in the finals. Carroll hurt Spearing's back in the first period by standing him on his head. Spearing responded with a surge of sheer strength, putting him on his back.

East Syracuse-Minoa had two champions: Chris Labbate, who defended his title at 112, and 98-pound Jeff Campbell. Labbate had possibly the toughest time winning his weight class; he overcame a challenge by Baldwinsville's Mike Bart, then battled Canastota's Dave Klein into overtime in the semifinals, winning on referee's criteria. 2-17-85

In the finals, Labbate built a 5-0 lead over Madison's Dave Coon, last year's champion at 105, and held on for a 5-4 decision.

J-E also had two champions. Junior Brian Darling made his record for the year 26-0 by capturing the title at 91, decisioning Fulton's top-seeded Kurt Miner, 3-2, in the finals. Darling is the seventh, and last, of a string of Darling brothers who have wrestled for the Eagles.

The other champions: Baldwinsville's Chip Pettitt at 105, Cortland's Rob Price at 132, Liverpool's Dan Drake at 145 and Central Square's George Korthas at 250.

Korthas' presence at the tournament was a miracle in itself. The Redmen senior became ill with viral meningitis three weeks ago.

Pettitt, last year's champ at 98, avenged a January loss to Canastota's Tom Gleason in the finals, coasting to a 9-1 decision.

Baldwinsville 2nd in league tourney and Class A s

The Bees were runnerups at the first of two post-season wrestling tournaments in the past week. In the Onondaga League tournament, Fulton won the team title with four champions but Baldwinsville had five champions in taking second. 2-13-85

Chip Pettitt, 105, Shawn Halpin at 132, Mike Wojnovich at 138, Tom Rogers at 167 and Scott Wojnovich at 215 lbs., all were crowned league champions at their respective weight classes. Mike Bart at 112 and Steve LePorte at 119 earned second team all-league status with their runnerup finishes at their weight classes. Doug Markert at 126 and Art Bittel at 250 lbs. placed third. Brian Johnson at 91, Dan Cerio at 145 and Chris Coleman at 155 lbs. all took fourth places, while John Loffredo placed fifth at 98 lbs.

Chip Pettitt won three bouts enroute to his 105-lbs. crown as did Shawn Halpin at 132 who whipped Fulton's Dave Burridge 8-2 in the finals. Scott Wojnovich added three more victories to his record as he won the 138-lb. crown. Tom Rogers had some close calls as he won at 167 lbs. Rogers was losing to Fulton's Jeff Margery 10-4 when Rogers caught Margery in a headlock and held him there for more than one minute finally pinning him in 6:45. Scott Wojnovich moved up to 215 lbs. and upended Dan Filipkowski of Fulton 8-7 and Dan Defendenando of Liverpool 19-11 to take his crown.

In the Section III Class "A" tourney at Central Square, the Bees had only two champions but advanced eight men to the Section III finals. Only the top four place finishes in Classes A, B, C, D move to the 16-man bracket for the Section III finals. Baldwinsville crowned champions in Chip Pettitt at 105 lbs. and Mike Wojnovich at 138 lbs. The Bees' Mike Bart was second at 112 lbs. to East Syracuse-Minoa's Chris Labbote for the second week in a row.

Shawn Halpin took third at 132 lbs. while Brian Johnson at 91, John Loffredo at 98, Dan Cerio at 145 and Art Bittel at 250 all placed fourth.

Steve LePorte at 119 was eliminated in the second round as was Doug Markert at 126, Chris Coleman at 155, Ron Wolniak at 167 and Scott Wojnovich at 215. The Bees placed second in the 16-team field, behind champion Fulton.

This Saturday, the action swings to the Section III finals and State Qualifier at Cicero High School. The Bees' Chip Pettitt at 105 is seeded second to Canastota's Bob Duffy. Duffy up-ended Pettitt in the Sherburne tourney finals earlier this season 6-5. Mike Wojnovich is also seeded second at 138 lbs. behind Canastota's Nick Zupan. Zupan also beat Wojnovich at Sherburne, 7-4. Shawn Halpin at 132 is seeded fourth at 132 lbs. and is pitted against #5 seed Bob Bonnaventura of Canastota and top-seeded Rob Price of Cortland.

Action starts at 10 a.m. with the consolations and finals slated for 6:15 p.m.

Junior high matmen finish year 6-3-1

The seventh- and eighth-grade wrestling Bees finished the season with a win over Cicero-North Syracuse and loss to Fulton. The junior Bees beat CNS, 20-9, but lost an action-filled match to Fulton, 54-21. 2-6-85

The CNS match saw only seven regular matches, due to the NorthStars' low team numbers. Scott Smith lost a 5-0 decision with Larry Tipper winning 11-2 and Jason Cariocciolo getting a pin in the second period. Erin Phoebe lost 12-7 followed by a great match where Dan Ryan lost 8-5. Tony Helms won 4-0 followed by Chris Jensens' 10-3 win.

Exhibition action saw Jeff Smith get a 23-second pin and Guy Patersen winning 12-6. Eric Neugent lost 13-0, Jerry Miller lost a hard-fought 13-3 and Jim Rheinhardt wrestled very well, losing 12-7. The Bees avenged an earlier season loss to the NorthStars with this win.

In the Fulton match, the Bees didn't score a point until the eighth match when Jeff Smith pinned his man in the first period. Up to then Gregg Tall lost 11-0, Jami Thompson was pinned, Jason Cariocciolo lost 9-3, Larry Tipper lost 9-0, Erin Phoebe lost 5-4 and Don Ryan lost 9-8.

Tim Wolsey lost 8-5, Jack LePorte lost 10-3, Mike Floess pinned his man after going ahead 12-0 and Mike Clayton lost his first match of the year by 5-3.

Todd Webb and Tony Helms remained undefeated with 7-3 and 6-8 wins. Chris Jensen was pinned in the first period. Guy Paterson was pinned in the second period, Jerry Miller won 9-3 and Jim Nelson was pinned in the first period.

In exhibitions Jon Cannon was pinned in the third period, Eric Neugent was pinned in the third period, Erin Phoebe lost 12-5, Jerry Truax was pinned in the first period and Jim Nelson lost 7-5.

The junior Bees final season record is six wins, three losses and one tie. A team banquet is planned next week. Details will be given to all team members.

Wednesday in Phillipsburg
It's bedlam time

Each year, when I gear up for another season of high school wrestling, I immediately scan the schedule and put big, red circles around the dates for three events, events I've come to recognize as the highights, the creme dela creme of the wrestling calendar.

Two of them are tournaments — the District 11 Tournament at Liberty (March 1-2 this year) and the PIAA State Tournament at Hershey (March 14-16). Everyone likes to see the best in action, and the postseason tournaments provide an overdose, with all of the best gathered together at the same location.

Ted Meixell

The third date, however, is something else and, in that it packs the ultimate in sheer excitement — better make that bedlam — into 2½ short hours, it surpasses even the tournaments. That's the date of the Easton-Phillipsburg dual meet. 2-6-85 N.J.

More often than not, the East Penn Conference championship and the top ranking in the Morning Call wrestling poll are at stake (last year was an exception, as Allen and Phillipsburg shared the EPC crown and the Canaries received a shaky nod as the area's best). But even when those honors aren't at stake, the Easton-P'burg dual stands alone at the top.

The opening salvo in the annual Border War is at hand. Wednesday, a standing room only crowd will shoehorn its way into the Stateliners' fabled "Pit" to watch and scream itself hoarse as the 'Liners and the Red Rovers throw everything including the kitchen sink at one another. Thousands more, those who waited too long to gobble up the all-too-few available tickets, will huddle around their radios, hanging on every word as WEST's Dick Hammer and Mike Moore describe the action.

This year, as so often in the past, everything IS on the line. Both teams are unbeaten in EPC competition — and neither will be seriously tested again. Phillipsburg is 16-0 and is ranked No. 1 in the Garden State. Easton is 8-1, has won tournament titles at both Crestwood and Manheim Central and is rated No. 2 in Pennsylvania. And two weeks ago, the two finished tied for the top ranking in the Call poll.

Each team boasts a reigning 98-pound state champion (two-time Pennsy champ Jack Cuvo of Easton and 1984 Jersey titlist Dave Boncher for P'burg) in its lineup — and, as if this one needed any further hype, it's entirely possible they'll meet at 105 in what would be a main event within a main event. 2-6-85

First-year Rover coach Steve Powell, for one, can't wait. "One of the things that strikes you about this meet," he said, "is that no one will show any respect for credentials. Their kids won't show any respect for our stars — Jack (Cuvo), (Jerry) Hulbert, (Jeff) Karam or (Kevin) Benton. And our kids won't show any respect for their stars, either — (Jason) Hawk, (Dave) Boncher, (Mark) Faglioni, (Mike) Smith or (Jeff) Turner.

"Any kid who wrestles one of them knows he's got a chance to be the big hero, so anyone could be upset."

Veteran Stateliner mentor Rick Thompson agreed. "Easton's got a well-balanced lineup, they don't have a couple of weak spots like we do. But I've been around a while, and I've learned that anything can happen. Your best kid could get pinned — and your weakest kid might beat one of their best." 2-6-85 N.J.

Both coaches agreed that whichever team scores the most bonus points for pins or major or superior decisions will probably win the meet. As Thompson put it, "A 6-6 split wouldn't be at all surprising."

Another factor that could come into play is wrestling's infamous "home mat disadvantage." The home team must present its wrestler first for each bout and, as such, Easton's Powell will have almost total control over who wrestles whom.

Before going any further, then, let's present the potential matchups, based upon tentative lineups supplied by the coaches late last week. A couple things are of interest here. For one, Powell has dropped Cuvo from 112 to 105 in the hope of forcing a Cuvo-Boncher showdown. He's also dropped Doug Hager to 112 and hopes to insert Sergio Bedoya at 119, if he can make the weight. As for Phillipsburg, Boncher weighed in at 98 against Allen two weeks ago and, presumably, could do it again. Easton wrestlers are listed first.

▶185 — Senior Kevin Benton (12-1) vs. senior George Pitts (9-7). 2-6-85

▶Hwt., — Senior John Avia (10-5) vs. senior Bob Williams (0-8) or sophomore Todd Opitz (0-2).

Each team has followed a consistent pattern in all of its duals. The Stateliners are loaded in the lower weights, and they've repeatedly built huge leads early only to yield some points in the later stages. The Rovers, on the other hand, have repeatedly fallen behind — with only Cuvo among the lightweights winning consistently — only to use their strength in the heavier weights to pull out victory. Only against Shikellamy — Pennsylvania's No. 1 team — did this formula fail.

That considered, the Cuvo-Boncher match seems very likely. For one thing, Thompson said of Cuvo dropping to 105, "Personally, I think if they do make that move, they're opening something up for us somewhere else." For another, the unbeaten Hawk figures to win big over Baker anyway — and if anyone has a shot at beating Cuvo, or avoiding bonus points, it's got to be Boncher.

I don't know just how it'll actually come down, but I have this strong hunch that a guy who wasn't even mentioned as a potential P'burg starter — Darren Anthony (5-2) — will play an important role. In recent duals, Thompson has inserted Anthony at 112 and moved Faglioni, Smith and Koehler up a weight. With great success. It, or something like it, could happen Wednesday. 2-6-85 N.J.

If so, Anthony would still be favored over Hager, Faglioni would be the choice over any Rover 119-pounder, Smith would probably be a slight favorite over Marchetti and the once-beaten Koehler would have a much better chance against DiSora than would Huff. If not, the 'Liners would be favored from 112 through 126 — but DiSora would be a heavy choice over Huff.

Turner is the favorite at 138, but Teklits is tough to score against and, therefore, an upset threat.

But that's where the tide figures to turn. Hulbert is a prohibitive favorite at 145, and Powell figures to make sure Karam faces the tougher foe at 155 or 167. (Although Powell said, "Not necessarily. Depending on the score, if I need to be sure of a split in those two and think Jeff can get us bonus points, I'd go the other way.")

If Powell does go the former route, look for Thompson to counter by moving Miers up to 185 and Pitts to heavyweight. Benton would be a heavy favorite over either Miers or Pitts, but Pitts has had more success all year against "small" heavyweights than he has at 185. Avia would still be favored, but not by much. Against either Williams or Opitz — neither of whom has won — Avia would figure to get a pin.

Who's gonna win? Neither coach would say, both preferring to leave that risky exercise to presumptuous sports writers.

Why not? The home mat disadvantage decides it. If the match were in Easton, we'd go the other way. But it's in P'burg, so we'll pick the Red Rovers — 26-25. (P.S.: And that's DESPITE P'burg winning seven bouts.)

Bolivar Board Drafts School Renovation Plan

By MARK FLOEGEL
Times Herald Staff Writer

BOLIVAR — The Bolivar School Board is planning a $2 million building project that will add six classrooms and a gymnasium to the building with no projected tax increase for the school district. The board scheduled a special district meeting on the plan for Nov. 13 at its regular meeting Monday. 1985

Superintendent Thomas Boedicker said that the local share of the project, which also includes extensive renovations to the building, will amount to $600,000. "We can support the entire local share of this project without a tax increase," he said, noting that needed money is in the repair reserve fund and needs voter approval to be transferred to a capital reserve fund established specifically for the addition and renovations.

The plans, which were drawn up by Paul Hedin of Habiterra Associates of Jamestown, call for a two-story addition housing a new gymnasium and six classrooms. The proposed addition would be located at the north end of the school, in an area that is currently used as a playground.

RECONSTRUCTION PLANS for the existing portion of the building call for the expansion of the library area, the installation of a new elevator for the handicapped, the relocation of the home economics room and the conversion of the current home economics room into a special services area for reading. Also included in the plans are speech classes, space for the school psychologist, a heating system for the bus garage, the conversion of a classroom to a computer room and the addition of a dust collection system to the industrial arts room.

The renovation portion of the project proposes a rehabilitation of the existing water supply system, bringing the building into line with new fire codes, repairs to outdoor areaways around the building, sealing and chimney repair, running track renovation, repairs to the general science room and general landscaping.

The special district meeting on the project is scheduled for Nov. 13 at 1:45 p.m., with voting on the propostion to be held from 2 p.m.-8 p.m.

Because the meeting time may be awkward for some district residents to attend, Mr. Boedicker urged anyone interested in the project to attend the regular school board meetings or to contact him for further information.

IN CONNECTION WITH the building project, the board appointed Fiscal Advisors, Inc. of Cicero, N.Y. to be the district's financial advisor during the project for a fee of $6,400. Mr. Boedicker explained that the company will help the school district invest the funds it receives from the state until the money is needed for the project. "They give us advice on investments and the board makes the actual decision as to what to do with it," he said.

While Mr. Hedin was at the school Monday, he inspected the building for compliance with the new state fire code.

While his full report will be presented to the board during a special meeting Sept. 26, he noted that the majority of areas in which the school is not in line with the code are "housekeeping functions," such as storage of combustible waste.

"This school's in very good shape," he said, largely because a 1979 renovation project put the school ahead in many fire safety areas.

ABOUT ARTWORK HANGING in the school's halls — a practice some schools are foregoing since the implementation of the new fire code — Mr. Hedin said, "I don't think the code was intended to include artwork on the walls in hallways."

He said that portion of the code refers to "combustible material hanging from the walls in areas of public assembly and associated exitways."

"I think this refers to things like prom decorations in the gym or a Christmas tree in the auditorium," he said. "I wouldn't advise hanging a lot of artwork in the halls, but I wouldn't ban it."

Board President Robert Dunning said he feels that the real danger of art in hallways during a fire is the potential for panic should they catch fire.

Salamanca Track Honors Foy's Memory

LOU FOY, Salamanca Central School's long-time coach, athletic director and sports administrator, was honored posthumously Saturday. The Salamanca track was dedicated in his memory in the midst of a number of activities in the city. Foy, who died of cancer at the age of 57, was eulogized by a number of his friends. Highlight of the day was the unveiling of a memorial plaque at the track. Pictured above, from left: Salamanca superintendent of schools, Gerald Ackley; former SCS football coach Joe Sanfilippo; current Salamanca track coach, Bob Nugent; Chuck Crist, master of ceremonies and former athlete who was coached by Foy and Tom DeBolski, Salamanca Central principal. Graziano, Reynolds Claim Crowns, Grinnen Places Second In Class AA

Three down, one to go.

Warren's Jerry Graziano and Todd Reynolds picked up their third crowns on the postseason wrestling trail Saturday, winning their weight classes at the Class AAA Central-Northwest Regional Tournament at Altoona High School. 3-11-85

Now, only one more title remains — the PIAA state championship. And Graziano and Reynolds, along with Sheffield's Chuck Grinnen — a runner-up in the Class AA tournament at Clarion — will begin that quest Thursday when the state wrestling tournament gets under way at Hersheypark Arena.

While Graziano, Reynolds and Grinnen advanced to the next level, losses in the regional competion ended the season for two Warren and two Eisenhower wrestlers. Warren's Shawn Williams and Chris Nuhfer and Eisenhower's Craig Barnett and John Bortz all failed in their attempts to qualify for the state tournament.

Graziano beat Fort LeBoeuf's Greg Kuzma 7-2 in a rematch of the District 10 final for the 105-pound regional title. It was the second straight regional title for the unbeaten (30-0) Dragon, who enters his third state tournament just one win shy of the 100 mark for his varsity career.

Kuzma nearly got the advantage on Graziano with a first-period takedown, but Graziano fought him off and got one of his own. He then "manhandled" the Bison star to become the first Dragon to win two straight regionals.

In the semifinals, Graziano needed a third-period reversal to get by District 6 champ B.J. Amato of State College, 4-2. Graziano, whose only two losses last season came in the state tourney, meets Mount Lebanon's Matt Rizzo in his first-round match Thursday night.

Reynolds joined Graziano as champ — making it the first time Warren has had two regional titlists in the same season — with a 9-4 win over State College's Roger Weiser in the 112-pound final. Reynolds fell behind on an early takedown, but he rallied with an escape and reversal to take a 3-2 first-period advantage, then poured it on for his 29th win against one draw.

The Dragon senior had an easy time in the semifinals, beating Mark Walter of Hollidaysburg, 6-2. Reynolds, a first-time state qualifier, draws Randy Larson of Jersey Shore in the state preliminaries.

"We're going down there to wrestle," Warren coach Tony Scordo said of the upcoming state tournament. "Jerry's got to get by (defending state champ Jack) Cuvo, and I'm sure there are returners at 112 (Reynolds' weight). But they're just as good as anyone else — down there, one guy is as good as another."

Grinnen beat highly-touted Jim Leibhart of Tussey Mountain, 6-4, in the semifinals of the 105-pound class, but nearly allowed the Titan senior to tie it at the buzzer with a two-point tilt. Grinnen carried a 6-2 lead into the third period, but Leibhart (22-2-1 entering the tournament) picked up a takedown with 30 seconds left in the bout, then nearly turned the Wolverine. But time expired before the move could be completed, and Grinnen advanced to the final.

There Grinnen met Tim Hough of Reynolds in a rematch of the district final. Hough beat him 4-2 in that matchup, but this time the Raider used two big moves to rack up a 13-4 decision.

Hough led 2-1 when Grinnen tried a "Russian roll." But Hough saw it coming, fought it off, and picked up a takedown and two back points of his own for a 6-1 lead after the first period. Then, with Hough leading 7-4 in the third period, Grinnen tried the same move. Again Hough saw it coming and responded with a five-point move to seal the decision.

"(Hough's) the first kid that beat that move of Chuck's," said Sheffield coach Denny Johnson. "It looked like he knew it was coming." 3-11-85

Grinnen (22-2-1) advances to his first state meet as the region's No. 2 representative and will meet Oley Valley's Chris Britton Thursday morning. But Johnson doesn't feel Grinnen's runner-up status is a disadvantage.

"Everyone has to wrestle that first round," said Johnson. "All (winning) means is wrestling the number three or four kid out of a region.

"Chuck had three of the toughest kids in the state at regionals, and he got by all but one. And it's tough to beat a kid three times on this level if they meet again.

"If Chuck wrestles like he did in the first three matches of this tournament, he could win it all," Johnson added, noting that Grinnen pinned both of his Friday opponents.

Meanwhile, the season ended for Barnett, Bortz, Nuhfer and Williams. All four dropped their opening-round matches, but while the Dragon twosome had a chance to wrestle back for a possible berth in the state tourney, both Knights were eliminated by their losses.

Bortz (26-6) fell behind Meyersdale senior Kevin Westfall 6-0 in the first period, and trailed 6-2 entering the final period. The Knight senior started on top, and picked up three back points in the early stages of the final period to cut the margin to one. But Westfall, who entered the match 17-2, fought off Bortz's attempts to repeat the move, and earned a one-point decision.

Barnett, the district runnerup at 112, fell behind early to Tim Buerk of Elk County Christian and never was in the match, losing 15-4. Buerk scored all his points in bunches, turning three throw attempts by Barnett into five-point moves of his own.

"He didn't wrestle up to his standards," Ike coach Joe Letko said of Barnett (24-7). "He just didn't have it."

Williams was pinned Friday night by Huntingdon's Curtis Wiley, who went on to win the tournament. In his first consolation match, the Dragon junior ran into District 10 champ Sean Haight of McDowell, who ended Williams' season with a 9-2 decision and a 20-8 mark. 3-11-85

Nuhfer (23-9) came back in his first consolation match to record his school-record 14th pin, flattening DuBois' Mike Crissman in 3:56. But Clearfield's Mike Owens ended Nuhfer's season with a 7-3 decision in the next round.

"They both wrestled well against strong competition," Scordo said of his two juniors.

Kane captured the Class AA team title, crowning two champs in the process. Duane Blankenship upped his mark to 31-1 by winning the 119-pound title, and Jack Bell moved to 28-1 with the 126-pound crown.

Roger Blankenship joined his brother and Bell in qualifying for the state meet when he finished fourth at 132.

Dan Rook (145) pulled off a first-round upset by beating Stacy Rhodes of Conemaugh Township 17-2 in the first round, but he was beaten 8-1 by Westmont-Hilltop's Chris Crocco in the quarterfinals. After gaining a forfeit win in his first consolation round, he was beaten 8-4 by Rockwood's Roger Phillippi and eliminated.

Rich Geer beat first-round opponent Carl Leer of Rockwood 11-2 at 185 but was pinned by Tyrone's Tom Lannen in the quarterinals. He beat Ridgway's Ed Parker 4-2, but lost 17-11 to Forest Hills Bill Luszik in the consolations.

Kane heavyweight John Lorenzo was eliminated in the first round

'Shik' Hoards State Mat Titles

By JEFF SCHULER
Sports Writer

HERSHEY — The 1985 PIAA state wrestling tournament was not a regularly scheduled dual meet for the Shikellamy Braves. It only seemed that way. 3-18-85

The Sunbury school crowned two champions, had another finish second, and placed three others in compiling a record 97 points to run away with the Class AAA team title Saturday afternoon at Hersheypark Arena.

Shikellamy's defending champion Tony Reed led the charge, notching his second title with the afternoon's only pin in the 119-pound final. Reed shared the spotlight with Easton's Jack Cuvo, who earned his third state title by breezing through the 105-pound class. Cuvo was named the tournament's outstanding wrestler after he won the title with a 26-12 decision over Berwick's Scott Beaver.

Meadville's Sean O'Day gave the Bulldogs their third titlist in four years when he beat Bethlehem Freedom's Keith Venanzi 11-5 in the 132-pound final. O'Day finished with a 36-0 mark and was one of seven AAA champions who finished with unblemished records.

O'Day was never in trouble in his bout with Venanzi, recording five takedowns en route to his win. The unbeaten Bulldog follows Doug Stanford (1984 112-pound champ) and 1982 titlist Jack Uppling (185) as state champs.

Cuvo, who won at 98 in his freshman and junior years, pinned his way to the finals with a fall in 3:17 over Carlisle's Corey DeAngelo. DeAngelo, who beat Mount Lebanon's Matt Rizzo 1-0 to get to the finals, trailed the Easton senior 7-2 when he was flattened.

In the finals, Cuvo recorded 12 takedowns — four in each period — to breeze to the win. Beaver scored all his points on escapes as Cuvo (35-0) constantly let the Berwick wrestler up if he didn't have a good opportunity to turn him.

Reed controlled Cumberland Valley's Keith Helfrick in the finals, nearly pinning him four times in the first period. In the second, Reed (35-0) turned Helfrick within the first few seconds, then brought the sizable Skikellamy rooting section in the estimated crowd of 6,800 to its feet with the fall at 2:39.

A few minutes later, the Brave boosters had another reason to yell when Shik's Paul Gemberling (35-0) beat Bald Eagle Area's Don Peters 9-8 for the 126-pound title. Peters spotted Gemberling a 7-0 lead, but came back to close within one, 9-8, with 35 seconds left, and was manuevering for back points and a possible pin. But the referee called a stalemate six seconds later and Peters was unable to turn Gemberling in the remaining seconds.

Shikellamy had hoped for a three-bout sweep from 112 through 126, but North Allegany's Doug Wyland (32-1) surprised John Supsic 16-7 in the 112 finals. Supsic, who came into the finals 33-0, was dominated throughout the match by the muscular Wyland.

One of the afternoon's more entertaining matchups came at 145, where unbeatens Scott Schleicher of Allentown Allen and Mark Banks of York Vo-Tech met for the title. Schleicher took a 2-0 lead with a first period takedown, but Banks scored three back points early in the second period for the lead. Schleicher escaped and followed with a quick takedown, and the Allen corner and many in the crowd thought the Canary had scored some back points. But the referee disagreed, and Banks later escaped to cut the lead to 5-4 entering the final period. 3-18-85

Banks tied the match with an escape, and the two kept pressure on each other for most of the remainder. Then, with 10 seconds left, Schleicher (36-0) got a leg and threw Banks (30-1) to the mat to record a 7-5 decision and take the title.

Canon McMillan, which finished second to Shikellamy in the team race, produced champions in the days' first and last matches. Junior Ron Rothka (39-2) edged Bethlehem Liberty's Dan McIntyre 31-2 for the 98-pound title, while heavyweight Rob Benjamin (38-1) allowed just six points in his four matches after blanking Dallastown's George McCormack 8-0 in the finals.

Jeff Spinetti of Uniontown and Kurt Bowman of Waynesboro joined Cuvo, Reed, Gemerling O'Day and Schleicher as undefeated champs. Spinetti (30-0) beat Plum's Jack Savage 5-1 to win the 185-pound title. Bowman (31-0) stopped Berwick's Tim Holter 14-6 to lock up the 155-pound crown.

Nazareth's Jim Karch hoped to join them in that elite class, but he was beaten 6-1 by Valley's Dave Brown (26-2-1) for the 167-pound title. Karch finished 35-1.

The day's other title went to Liberty's Gino Capuano (30-5), who stopped Quakertown's Tom Hontz for the 138-pound title.

STRUGGLING FOR THE ADVANTAGE — Sheffield's Chuck Grinnen (top) hooks arms with Mount Carmel's Eric Miller in their 105-pound Class AA quarterfinal bout Thursday night at the PIAA Wrestling Championships at Hersheypark Arena. Grinnen earned a tough 4-3 decision over Miller to advance to the semifinals, but the Wolverine senior lost Friday morning and later dropped two consolation matches to finish sixth in th tournament. Miller later wrestled back t place third.

Waterloo wrestler qualfies for state with extra effort

By Gary Fallesen
Democrat and Chronicle

With 10 seconds remaining, Waterloo wrestler Joel Lamson trailed two-time state runner-up Butch Hibbard of Canandaigua by one point. But Lamson did not give up.

If he had, he would have hated himself yesterday morning.

"A lot of kids would have bagged it," Waterloo Coach Abe Meyers said. "But Joel's aggressive. That's how he beat Hibbard. He was losing with 10 seconds to go, but he would not quit."

Lamson took Hibbard down to his back for four points and a 7-4 decision before the towel was thrown onto the mat to end their 119-pound semifinal bout Saturday at the Super Sectionals.

Lamson, a senior, then decisioned Kevin Bishop of Greece Athena in the final, 7-5, for the right to advance to the New York State Public High School Athletic Association tournament.

"I sort of feel bad for them," Lamson said afterward at Brockport State. "I know what it's like (to be so close to qualifying for the state tournament)."

Lamson lost last year in the final of the state qualifier when Brighton's Jon Blauvelt scored a last-second takedown for a 6-4 decision.

"That was depressing," he recalled. "I felt bad for a long time.

"It just kills you," he added. "I didn't even want to get out of bed the next morning."

Lamson was prepared yesterday, however, for his usual Sunday regimen — a seven-mile run. He and 91-pound teammate Tom Finnerty are among 14 area individuals who will represent Section 5 at the intersectional meet Friday and Saturday in Syracuse.

Finnerty, a sophomore, pinned East Rochester freshman Sean Rucker at 3:20 of the final for a spot on the team.

"I told them they could both do it," said Meyers.

Only one other Waterloo wrestler ever has advanced to the state meet. Chris Schaffer placed fourth in the 250-pound weight class in 1976.

Lamson, a four-time Class B champion with a 136-15-1 career record, emerged from the toughest weight class. He needed to get past Hilton's Pat Serafino, Bolivar's Jim McDonald, and Hibbard in about four hours Saturday afternoon. Then, in the final, he needed a victory over Bishop, a senior with a 121-11-1 career record.

Hibbard, a 134-12-2 senior who placed fourth in the state three years ago and was second each of the past two seasons, defeated Lamson during the regular season, 8-7. It is Lamson's only loss so far this year.

"That made me want to beat him even more," said Lamson, whose first organized bout was against Hibbard in the third grade. "I wanted to go undefeated this year."

Lamson and Finnerty are two of the nine individuals who will be making their first trip to the state meet. East Rochester's Chris Schojan (177 pounds), Canandaigua's Paul Lamphier (112) and Mike Lacognato (98), Edison's Mike Cronmiller (145) and Avon's Bill Maher (250) have been there before.

Schojan and Lamphier are two-time state runners-up. Lacognato placed fifth last year.

Meyers is convinced Lamson also can be successful against intersectional competition.

"He can make mistakes," the fifth-year coach said. "But he's the type of kid who can win the states. He'll go and get it."

Lamson's aggressiveness could rub off on the younger Finnerty, who is in his first full varsity season after suffering a shoulder separation midway through his freshman year.

"Joel has helped me out so much," said Finnerty (36-0 on the year). "He took me under his wing. He has taught me everything I know."

Waterloo is one of three teams sending more than one individual to the intersectionals. Canandaigua qualified three — Lamphier, Lacognato and 126-pound Tracy Foster — and Brockport two — Nathan Van Duzer (132) and Phil St. George (167).

St. George, a senior, advanced despite giving up a four-point move early in the final against Fairport's Todd English.

"Mental breakdowns at this point can kill you," said Brockport Coach Woody VanDenBurg. "They (Van Duzer and St. George) were my two favorites to go to the states this year. But everybody coming into this tournament has doubts. You've just got to keep telling yourself, 'I can make it . . . I can make it.'"

St. George made it with a pin at 3:29. He will be joined on the Rochester area's state-bound team by Mike Siebert of Lyndonville (98 pounds), Tim Habecker of Marion (155), Mike Scott of McQuaid (138), and Mike Van Horn of Brigton (215).

Habecker, a junior and the son of Marion Coach Steve Habecker, is the first individual from his school to qualify for the state meet.

Siebert, a Super Sectional runner-up last year behind Hibbard, also is the first to advance from Lyndonville.

Canandaigua, ER, McQuaid, Brighton, Brockport, Avon and Edison have produced several state place winners since Section 5 began participating in the intersectionals in 1968.

Only four of Section Three's wrestlers reached the state tournament's semifinals. Only two reached the finals.

Why? There are many possible reasons.

There is no seeding, so some of them had formidable first-round opponents. Of the 12 who didn't reach the semifinals, 10 lost to finalists.

Some got ahead and tried to hang on, a mistake at that level of competition.

Some coaches felt the two-week practice period — a departure from previous years, where the section's team practiced for four days — hurt. Others, including Fulton's Wayne Bleau, liked it.

"I was against it," Bleau said, "but the kids liked it. They relaxed, then they had tough workouts." 3-10-85

Section Three bounced back to place fourth in the competition at the Onondaga County War Memorial last Saturday.

State championship medals were presented to placewinners by Clar Anderson, two-time state champ from Olean and All-American at Auburn University. . . . Central Square's George Korthas, the state champ at 250, was the 32nd state titlist in Section Three's history. The first was Auburn's Kurt Kuppinger in 1963. The section's champs have won 38 state titles (some were multiple winners). . . . Their tournament showings gave Korthas 108 career wins, East Syracuse-Minoa 112-pounder Chris Labbate 128 and Fulton 119-pounder John Howard 110. Howard is a junior. . . . Korthas was one of the few wrestlers in the state to be undefeated this year. . . . Mexico's Steve Bradish, Section Three champ at 126, forfeited in the wrestle-backs after injuring his neck during a quarterfinal loss.

Bees reach for share of title

By Scott Conroe

The prospect of finishing third in the Onondaga North's Division A, after years as champions or runners-up, was just too much for Baldwinsville High School's wrestlers. 2-6-85

And the Bees were too much for Liverpool Tuesday, earning a share of the league title by defeating the host Warriors, 36-22.

The victory created a three-way tie for first place among Baldwinsville, defending champion Fulton and Liverpool. Each has one loss in the league; the Bees were defeated last month by Fulton.

"They were pumped up and we were flat," Liverpool coach Jack Williams said. "I think we had too much wrestling, between the Fulton meet Friday, the league meet Saturday and this."

Liverpool's 21-20 dual meet upset of Fulton kept the Warriors unbeaten in the league. To claim the title, they had to beat Baldwinsville, which would have left Fulton second and Baldwinsville third.

The idea of being third motivated the Bees to wrestle their best so far this season, Baldwinsville coach Leo Johnson said.

"We have a lot of pride," Johnson said. "We decided if we were going down, we'd put up a fight."

But Johnson's wrestlers weren't in much danger of being defeated. The Bees buried Liverpool's title hopes under a 30-0 lead after the first seven weight classes.

Those wins included pins by Chuck DeMott at 105 pounds, Chip Pettitt at 112 and Shawn Halpin at 132.

Liverpool got its points from a pin by Dan Drake at 145, a major decision by Joe Donahue at 155, a forfeit at 177 and a pin by Mark DiFerdinando at 215.

One of the better bouts was at 98, where Bees' eighth-grader John Loffredo won a 9-5 battle against Liverpool seventh-grader Jamie Pellenz, putting Pellenz on his back in the closing seconds.

"That bout could have been important to us, if things had gotten tricky in the upper weight," Johnson said. "Imagine — a seventh- and eighth-grader could have decided a varsity match."

Another exciting bout was the one at 126, where the Bees' Steve LePorte got a reversal and back points in the third period to edge Lon Scorzelli, 11-7.

Pettitt, the 1984 Section Three champion at 98, was devastating, pinning Liverpool's Mike Forster in 56 seconds. Drake, a senior who has had an impressive final year, flattened Dan Cerio in 2:23.

The league's coaches have chosen Williams as the OHSL North Division A's Coach of the Year.

In boys basketball, Fowler had five players in double figures during a 112-57 romp over Utica Free Academy; and Jordan-Elbridge and Phoenix posted OHSL Central victories.

In hockey, Jeff Klodzen scored four goals, Jim Blanding three to lead West Genesee past Oswego, 8-3; and Fulton beat Bishop Ludden, 6-5.

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — If your team's score is 50 and the other team's is 52 at the end of a basketball game, you lose and they win, right? 1-24-85

Not necesssarily.

Pillsbury Baptist Bible College defeated Minneapolis Community College in a women's game Tuesday night, despite MCC winding up ahead 52-50.

Officials declared Pillsbury was the winner after the last of six players on the MCC roster fouled out with 16 seconds left in the game.

Pillsbury had trailed by as many as 17 points in the game and was still down by 15 when the first MCC player fouled out with 7:23 remaining. With two minutes to play, the host team was down to two players.

The fifth MCC player fouled out with 54 seconds on the clock and the final foul came when an MCC player hacked Pillsbury's Angie Houmes as she drove for what would have been an uncontested layup.

The officials who worked the game ruled that play could continue until no players were available.

"We're conducting an investigation into the game at this time, so I can't make any comment as to the officials' ruling," said Mary Lavaser, co-ordinator of the Women's Collegiate Basketball Officials Association. "The rules state that the game must be stopped when there are less than three players."

Unbeaten Spartans pin Owego

Host Maine-Endwell won its 43rd consecutive dual meet last night, easily trouncing Southern Tier Athletic Conference Division II wrestling rival Owego, 43-16.

M-E, No. 5 in the latest New York State Sports Writers' Association ratings, is 6-0 and 14-0. Owego drops to 4-2 and 11-3.

Defending state champ Treavor Erney rebounded from a controversial default loss last Wednesday with a pin at 132 pounds. Owego's Tim Merritt handed Sean Fenton his first loss at 98.

Interscholastic Athletic Conference Southern Division co-leader Tioga took the team championship of the 16-team Watkins Glen Tournament with 177 points. Coach Mike Norcross' team had three individual champs and 10 place-winners. 1-27-85

Undefeated Jack Horton (145), Tom Dilliplane (119) and Charlie Hayman (132) all won individual crowns for Tioga.

Ithaca won its first STAC meet of the season, topping host Binghamton, 44-15. Ithaca's Pat Duthie won to raise his record to 19-2 at 155. The Patriots' Chuck Imm went to 13-1 by defeating Mike Shippos, 6-0, at 119.

Norwich snapped a two-meet losing streak with a 42-16 victory at Seton Catholic Central. Norwich had won its first 11 duals before bowing to M-E and Sherburne-Earlville.

Joe Cordaro received a forfeit victory to raise his record to 22-0 at 112 for Norwich, now 5-1 and 12-2.

Charlie Emminger's 8-4 win over Kevin Willis at 138 was the highlight for Seton CC.

In the Susquenango Association, visiting Oxford had just enough to hold off Delhi, 33-31. Delhi won the last four matches to creep within two.

Oxford's Lyle Wright recorded his seventh consecutive victory by pin at 132, while teammate Thad Rice won at 105 to raise his record to 21-2. Oxford is 2-4 and 5-6-1. Eric Rosa pinned Oxford's Bob Pascal to raise his mark to 11-1 at 138 for Delhi.

Montrose rallied from behind to win its 46th consecutive Northeast Athletic Conference meet, 36-24 at Lackawanna Trail. The Meteors trailed, 24-20, but grabbed a 30-24 lead when Mike Baker won by forfeit at 169 and Eric Jerauld beat Ben Houser, 9-0. Montrose is 3-0 and 5-4.

In non-league action, Spencer-Van Etten came back to win at Corning, 29-24, by taking the last three matches. Troy Schamber began S-VE's comeback at 167 by pinning Scott Mattison, then Kevin Stanton beat Joe McFarland, 12-4, at 177.

Heavyweight Shawn Struzinsky slinched the win with a forfeit victory. S-VE is 6-3, Corning's 9-4.

Susquehanna Valley snapped a four-meet losing streak by taking a 34-24 win at Newark Valley. Rob McGuigan's victory at 98 raised his record to 20-4 for the 7-5 Sabers. Newark Valley is 3-5.

Waverly took over undisputed possession of first in the Northern Tier League with a 30-19 victory at Wyalusing, Pa. Waverly is 10-0, Wyalusing 9-1.

Unatego, which has already clinched at least a tie for the Sus East crown, won the Wildcat Invitational at Hancock. Burt Bullis remained unbeaten for the Spartans by winning at 119.

GYMNASTICS: Horseheads walked out of a scheduled four-team meet at Norwich because, said host coach Gloria Decker, its coach said the equipment was unsafe.

"They did their warm-ups and she complained about every single piece of equipment," Decker said. "I've never had a complaint before and I've coached 13 years."

Owego thus won what became a three-team meet with 95.3 points to 76.75 for Norwich and 73 for Walton. Amy Ross of Owego was the all-around winner at 33.1.

Vestal pushed its record to 9-0 with victories over host Union-Endicott and Oneonta, The Bears, paced by Missy Urbanic's 33.05 all-around total, had 96.35 points to 84.75 for U-E and 78.05 for Oneonta.

VOLLEYBALL: Sharon Mital had seven kills to pace Windsor's 15-7, 15-3 non-league victory over visiting Union-Endicott. Veronica Szarejko served nine straight points to give the Black Knights, 11-2 overall, a 14-3 lead in the second game.

5 Delhi champs in Bronco tourney

Delhi Tech wrestlers won the championship of their own Bronco Invitational yesterday for the fourth consecutive season, thanks in large part to five individual champions and three runners-up. 1-27-85

The Broncos, third in the latest NJCAA ratings, had 108 points to easily prevail in a field of nine schools.

Middlesex, Conn., Community College, rated 14th nationally, finished second with 73 points, Morrisville A&T was third with 69, and Lakeland, Ohio, Community College, 18th nationally, finished fourth with 47 points.

Defending national champion Tony Bellai pinned Morrisville A&T's Keith Peavy in two minutes and 25 seconds of the 118-pound title match. Other champions for the Broncos included Spencer-Van Etten's Mark Eddy at 126, Sherburne-Earlville's Jim Simonds at 134, Paul Evans at 158 and Harpursville's Mark Andrews at 177.

Unatego's Peterson twins both finished second, with Dan losing the title match at 150 and Brockport transfer Don making his Delhi debut at 167. Eddy defeated teammate Khris Hunt in the championship match at 126.

In the heavyweight match, Morrisville's Curtis Freeman pinned 6-foot-5, 450-pound Manuel Yarborough of Middlesex in 2:41. Yarbourough entered the tournament unbeaten and hadn't been forced past the first period.

Middlesex's Mike Barna, the champion at 150, was named the tournament's most valuable wrestler.

- Top-rated Ithaca College raised its record to 10-0 with a pair of victories at Rochester Institute of Technology. The Bombers blanked Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, 59-0, and topped the hosts, 47-3.
- Brockport State, No. 17 in the latest Division III standings, won at Cortland State, 29-18.
- SUNY-Binghamton, rated second in the latest NCAA Division III poll, raised its dual record to 4-2 with an easy 36-5 victory at Oswego State.

Easton whips P'burg (N.J.) OVER

Rovers score 32 takedowns to take showdown 32-13

BOTH SIDES (2)

Morning Call photo—Pete Shaheen

Easton's Doug Hager works for some back points en route to 15-8 upset of Phillipsburg's Darren Anthony.

Senior two-time PIAA state champion Jack Cuvo came through with an 18-8 major decision over New Jersey State champion Dave Boncher in last evening's main event, but it was a pair of fuzzy-cheeked sophomores, 112-pound Doug Hager and 126-pound Tom Marchetti, who supplied the major ingredients as Easton stunned arch-rival Phillipsburg 32-13 in their annual wrestling showdown.

On a night when the Red Rovers scored 32 takedowns to only nine for the Stateliners, Cuvo racked up seven in his war with Boncher. His victory, however, was not unexpected.

Those by Hager and Marchetti, though, definitely were. Hager scored the first takedown against P'burg's favored Darren Anthony, fell behind 4-2, but used a takedown of his own for a 6-5 lead after one period and seven near-fall points for his crucial 15-8 win.

Marchetti was also a distinct underdog in his battle with senior Mike Smith, a New Jersey Regional runner-up and, after 15 seconds, it looked like he deserved the role as Smith took him right to his back for a quick 5-0 lead. But Marchetti got an escape and a takedown late in the period to cut the deficit to 5-3, got a reversal in the second period to tie at 5-5, then put together a gorgeous four-point Peterson Roll to go ahead 9-7 and tacked on four more near-fall points for an astonishing 13-7 win.

At that point, Easton led 10-7 in the team score — whereas they were expected to be trailing by approximately 10 points in pre-meet analysis.

Mike DiSora followed Marchetti's performance with a 14-5 major decision over tough, once-beaten Jon Koehler, and the match was, for all intents and purposes, history.

B'Ville hex still alive

Bee-Journal, January 9, 1985

The Canastota wrestlers were once again victim of some weird decisions and once again it involved Baldwinsville as they came home second place finishers in the Sherburne wrestling tournament Saturday after thinking they had won the event.

The fracas after the final bout of the evening rekindled memories of the eruption over the Mark Hood-Brad Johnson decision in the sectional finals two years ago, a decision that in part is alleged to be reason for the rupture of wrestling between the two schools.

Baldwinsville was judged the winner at Sherburne with 226½ points to 223 for Canastota when the evening was over but it took some official waffling to put the Bees on top.

Going into the championship bouts Canastota had five wrestlers alive and Baldwinsville had six. They were head to head in three championship bouts and Canastota won all three titles. They had beaten Baldwinsville in four of six other matches during the day.

Four Canastota wrestlers won titles. Bob Duffy took the 105 pound match by defeating defending sectional champ Chip Pettit of Baldwinsville 6-5. David Klein won at 112 by defeating Mike Bart of Baldwinsville 4-3, Tom Gleason of Canastota won by defeating Markert of Baldwinsville 5-0 at 126 pounds. And Steve Malbouf won a title at 215 scoring a pin over Fogarty of Sidney at 5:13.

This left Canastota ahead by 3½ points with just the 250 title bout to wrestle. A Baldwinsville win in that match would give the Bees the team title. A win by the McQuade wrestler would give the team title to Canastota.

The two wrestled six minutes to a draw. They wrestled an overtime period to a draw. The referee gave the win to the McQuade wrestler using criteria of first takedown. The hand of the Rochester boy was raised in victory and they left the mats.

Moments later the father of the Baldwinsville wrestler pointed out to the ref that criteria calls for most escapes as a first criteria point and using that the Baldwinsville boy would win. The referee reversed his decision.

Bedlam broke out. There was shoving and namecalling. Canastota appealed that the rulebook says that once a decision is rendered and the contestants leave the mats the decision stands. That is one of the things that had doomed the Mark Hood appeal two years ago. This time the official decided to go with the reversal of decision and Baldwinsville went home the winner.

Other than that it was an excellent tournament. Baldwinsville and Canastota swept the rest of the field. Nobody else had half as many points.

In addition to four champions Canastota had a second place finisher in Jim Mason at 177, third place finisher in Bob Bonaventura at 132, Nick Zupan at 138, Jack Bixby at 145 and David Palmer at 250, a fourth place finisher in Bob Tornatore at 119, and fifth place finisher in Phil McCoppin at 91, Eric Finocchiaro at 98 and Scott Cowan at 155. Of 14 CHS wrestlers 13 won places.

Mason at 177 had two pins and a 10-1 decision over Oaltes of Baldwinsville going into the finals. Jumping off to a quick 4-0 lead against Woods of Unatego, Mason got caught and was pinned at 1:10 of the first period.

At 132 pounds Bonaventura lost to Tribunella of Fairport 3-2 but came back to win 3-0 over Wright of Oxford in the consolations.

Nick Zupan and Bixby lost their first matches of the season. Wrestling at 138 pounds Zupan was beaten by eventual tourney most outstanding wrestler Mike Scott of McQuaid. Zupan came back to beat Wojnovich of Baldwinsville 9-4 to take third place. Bixby at 145 pounds also met a wrestler from McQuaid and came up short. In the consolation round Bixby wrestled Elsenheimer of Marathon and won handily 10-1.

At 250 pounds Palmer, was decisioned by Halpin of Baldwinsville but came back to take third place with a 10-4 decision over Guesto of Hanover, PA.

Finishing in fourth place was Tornatore at 119 pounds losing a hard fought 5-4 decision to LaPorte of Baldwinsville in the consolations.

In the wrestle backs for fifth and sixth place, McCoppin at 91 pounds was pinned by eventual champion Dillon of Suffern but came back in the next two matches not giving up a point, including a win over Johnson of Baldwinsville and took fifth place. At 98 pounds Finocchiaro recovered from a pin to win two matches and fifth place.

Wrestling at 167 pounds of Mike New placed sixth.

There were 15 teams in competition in the one day event.

Victory No. 200

Coacn Terry Dillon registered his 200th wrestling victory when his junior varsity downed Rome Free Academy recently. The win brought his 15-year record to 200-13-3. Dillon, 15 years in the post, has coached teams to seven undefeated seasons. In 1978, 12 of his 13 finalists won league individual league championships. He ran an 82-0-1 streak in 1975-80, and had a 38-match win streak broken this year with a 27-24 loss to Fulton. Dillon will receive special honors at the annual wrestling banquet Tuesday at St. Augustine's Church Center.

Alfred Tech's DeAngelis All-America in wrestling

Democrat and Chronicle

Alfred Tech's Angelo DeAngelis placed second in the 134-pound weight class of the National Junior College Wrestling Championships Saturday night at the College of Du Page in Glen Ellyn, Ill., and received first-team All-America recognition. 3-4-85

DeAngelis, a Spencerport graduate, advanced to the finals with four straight victories before losing in overtime, 3-1. He finished the season with a 19-4 record.

Monroe Community College's C.J. Dominick was named second-team All-America after placing fourth at 190 pounds. Dominick lost his opening match and then won five straight competitions.

Dominick, a freshman from Irondequoit, finished his season with a 37-5 record.

Third-team All-America honors went to Alfred Tech's Ron Dabolt, who placed sixth at 177 pounds. Dabolt lost in the semifinal round to the eventual national champion and finished his season with a 31-3 record.

Dabolt is the first Tech wrestler to twice win All-America recognition.

Tech's Tom Opdenhoff (seventh at 118) and MCC's Dean Salvaggio (eighth at 142 and Cardinal Mooney grad) were named to the honorable mention All-America team.

Brad Johnson is prep All-American

3-13-85

Wrestling for Suffield Academy of Connecticut, Brad Johnson earned All-American status by placing eighth in the 50th annual National Prep School Championships at Lehigh University in Bethlehem, Pa.

Johnson, a post-graduate student, completed his dual meet season undefeated with an 11-0 record and a second-place finish in the Western New England championships. At Lehigh, Johnson opened the tournament with a pin of E. D'Arcy of the Walsh School in Olean, N.Y. in 5:40, followed by another pin of K. Mallon of Philadelphia in 1:39. In the third round, Johnson was upended by Lave Pendelton of Allentown, Pa. Pendleton, the eventual National Champion, was leading 2-0 going into the third period and caught the former B'ville wrestler by sitting on his leg and turning the hold into tight cradle that was good for a pin in 4:50. It was the first time Johnson had lost by a pin in high school or prep school. In the wrestlebacks, Johnson pinned F. Riggio of Newark, N.J. and decisioned B. Brady of Easton, Pa. Johnson lost his bid for fifth or sixth by dropping a 2-0 decision to N. Redfern of Norfolk Academy in Virginia and then lost the seventh and eighth place match to J. Holland of the Bullis School in Maryland 7-2. The grueling 2-day affair had 92 schools entered from all over the U.S.A. and had between 40 - 56 wrestlers per weight class entered. Johnson will be wrestling for Hampden-Sydney College in Virginia next season as he continues his wrestling career.

GYMNASTICS: Retton tops again

Mary Lou Retton, in her first international competition since her California golden performance at the Los Angeles Olympics, was the top qualifier in Saturday's opening round of the American Cup gymnastics meet in Indianapolis. Fellow Olympic medalist Tim Daggett had a rougher time in what also was his first international meet since the Summer Games. Daggett fell while attempting a new triple-back somersault dismount from the horizontal bar, and the deduction left him third behind China's Yang Yueshan and American Dan Hayden of Tempe, Ariz., going into today final round of competition at Market Square Arena.

Junior streak stiffled; matmen fall to Fulton

The Baldwinsville junior varsity wrestlers winning streak of 38 matches ended Saturday at the Onondaga War Memorial, at the hands of the Fulton Red Raiders 27-24.

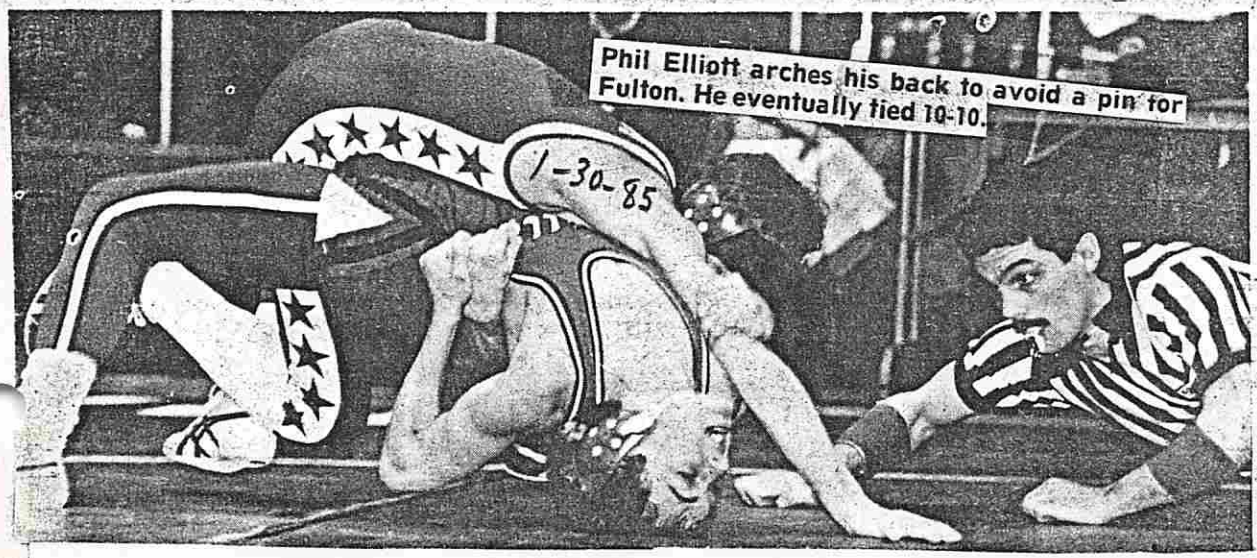
Brian Johnson started the Junior Bees out with a 16-10 decision and three team points. At 105 lbs. and 112 lbs. the Raiders stuck Bob Fritcher and Jeff Johnson of B'ville for pins and 12 team points. Phil Elliott, 119 lbs., fell behind 12-2 but battled back to a 10-10 tie. 1-30-85

Bill Silvia, 126 lbs., got the Bees back on track with a major decision by a 17-6 score and four team points to bring the score to Bees 9, Raiders 14. Mark Mills, 132 lbs., wrestled to an 8-3 decision and Dan Cerio won a 13-9 decision to give the Bees a 1-point lead, 15-14. Trent Moffett lost a superior decision 20-2 to give the lead back to Fulton 15-19. Jeff Russett gained three more points for the Bees with an 8-1 decision. Joe Fletcher, 167 lbs., came up with the only pin of the evening for Baldwinsville and the Bees regained the lead 24-19.

Kevin Wener hit one of Fulton's most experienced wrestlers and was downed 16-1 to bring the meet to a 24-24 deadlock.

Art Bittel was ahead by one point after the first and second period but at the end of the final period was eked out 7-5 to give the Raiders three team points and the meet. The final score was Fulton 27, Baldwinsville 24.

The Junior Bees will be home today (Wednesday) vs. East Syracuse-Minoa at 6:30 p.m. They will host the Baldwinsville County Invitational Saturday and will give the juniors another shot at the Raiders.



Phil Elliott arches his back to avoid a pin for Fulton. He eventually tied 10-10.

Chittenango wins wrestling tourney

Honors were widely distributed at the ninth annual Cazenovia Mid-Winter Invitational wrestling tournament Saturday.

Chittenango High School captured the team title, but the most outstanding wrestler award went to LaFayette's Kevin Carroll and the aggregate pin award to Skaneateles' Dave Hassell.

The Bears totaled 135½ points to edge LaFayette and Hannibal, which tied for second place by 2½ points.

Carroll won his 167-pound final, 3-2, in overtime, after drawing with Chittenango's Tim VanWie, 12-12, in regulation.

Hassell won his heavyweight title bout by pinning Chittenango's Steve Cox in 3:30.

In the 138-pound finale, Mark Smelski of Cato-Meridian decisioned Hannibal's Bruce Halstead, 7-0, for his 96th career win.

Mexico's Steve Bradish pinned both opponents in a triangular match involving Lowville and General Brown to post his 90th career win. Neither opponent lasted a minute with Bradish.

Teammate Nelson Dolbear used a forfeit and a pin to up his season record to 18-1, while heavyweight Paul Smith of Mexico moved to 17-2, also with a pin and a forfeit.

The Tigers defeated Lowville, 36-20, and General Brown, 57-10.

In a dual match, Liverpool downed Central Squad, 45-15, behind four Warrior pins.

Don Ianno (105 pounds), Mike Forster (112), Scott Sears (138) and Mark DiFerdinando (215) all flattened their opponents. Rick Holley (126) and Bob Korthas (177) got pins for the Redmen. Korthas' older brother, George, did not compete.

At Auburn, the host Maroons cruised past Christian Brothers Academy, 42-21, with six pins.

In boys basketball, Bishop Ludden dropped a 79-62 loss to host Binghamton.

Randy Jones and Matt Donahoe led the Gaelic Knights with 17 and 14 points, respectively. It wasn't enough to stop the Patriots, who got 16 points from Rick Coleman and 15 from sophomore King Rice to beat Ludden for the second time this season.

Korthas state mat king

J-E's Darling second; Section Eleven team champ

By Scott Conroe
Staff Writer 3-3-85

George Korthas couldn't stand the bright lights, the massive crowd, the unparalleled pressure of wrestling in the state high school finals.

So he went home Saturday afternoon to the village of Cleveland, far from the Onondaga County War Memorial and the last opponent of his high school career, and tried to sleep.

No dice. The Central Square High School senior couldn't forget his opponent in the title bout at 250 pounds, Larry Farrell of Watervliet, Section Two.

A few hours later, Korthas made sure Farrell wouldn't forget him, with a second-period pin after establishing a 7-3 lead.

Korthas was host Section Three's only champion. Jordan-Elbridge junior Brian Darling was Three's only other finalist. He placed second at 91 pounds, losing by a 4-3 score in the finals against Daryl Page of Elmira Notre Dame, Section Four.

But, despite a number of crucial losses in the tournament's opening rounds, Section Three rebounded to place fourth in the sectional team standings.

Section Eleven (Long Island's Suffolk County) captured the team title with 188 points. Eleven had five finalists and three champions: Deer Park's Ray Downey (126), Huntington's Mark Billups (132) and Bayport-Bluepoint's Steve Shone (145).

Section One (Westchester County) and Section Eight (Long Island's Nassau County) followed. 3-3-85

Eight also had three champs: Locust Valley's Richard Pidgeon (112), Berner's Mike Bevilacqua (138) and Levittown Division's Gerry Armengau (155).

Two 1984 champions defended their titles: Jason Morris of Burnt Hills-2 (167) and Jeff Ellis of Clarence-6 (215).

Morris, using a sense of timing and balance possibly gained from his experience as a national champion judoist, beat Clifton Grant of Mt. Vernon-1, 9-5, for the title. Ellis topped Peter Valois of Clarkstown South-1, 9-7, in his final bout.

Chris Schojan of East Rochester (Five) muscled his way to the title at 177, which had eluded him the two previous years.

The Most Outstanding Wrestler award went to Downey, who pinned Pine Bush-9's Dick Bouzakis in the second period of their final, after building a 7-3 lead.

Downey edged Pidgeon and Morris for the award.

The other state champions: Elmira Notre Dame-4's Daryl Page (91), Olean-6's Jeff Prescott (98), Port Jervis-9's Doug Keys (105) and Waterloo-5's Joel Lamson (119).

Korthas' pin, there in the center of the War Memorial, put a positive ending on a career which lean had only three wrestlers in the als Saturday night with Jeff Prescott) and Steve Irving (126) winning es while teammate Tom Worth (91) ced second.

Ridgway led the way with three mpions while Falconer and Olean two each.

Huskies' Coach Jim Myers said, "I nk we won the tournament because our depth and strength in the wres- backs. We had just three finalists, t had five wrestlers take third. We o got some fifth and sixth places. ere are a lot of points to be won in estlebacks."

ng three finalists was disappoint- Myers though. "I thought we had chance to have more in there, but ere was tough competition in all sses. Every school but one (James- vn) had at least one wrestler in the als."

The 91-pound bout was an excellent one with Maple Grove's Marty Butts tipping Olean's Worth 6-4. Butts trailed 4-2 late in the contest, but scored a reversal and a two-point near-fall in the last five seconds of the match to pull out the victory.

Prescott looked impressive as he pinned Maple Grove's Scott Joslyn in 3:28 in the 98-pound match. Prescott, who placed third in the New York State championships last season, had a commanding 12-2 lead before using a stack to stop Joslyn.

In one of the biggest upsets in Western New York this season, Salamanca's Marc Swiech pinned Maple Grove's Jim Nalbone in 5:54. Swiech, wrestling at 105, trailed at one point 12-5, was able to turn Nalbone over with 30 seconds left in the bout. Swiech used a press for the fall. 12-24-84

Swiech's performance earned him the tournament's Most Valuable Wrestler award.

At 112, Ridgway's Steve Davido scored six points in the final period to record a 10-4 decision over Wellsville's Townley Hedrick. The match was tied 4-4 after two periods.

Rob Waddington of Falconer won the 119-pound title by beating Bolivar's Jim McDonald 10-2. McDonald, the top seed, beat Waddington last season, but things were different this year as Waddington was in total control throughout.

Waddington managed to turn McDonald twice in the third period for back points which secured the win.

Steve Irving claimed the 126-pound championship with an impressive 7-0 decision over Falconer's Joel Sopak. Irving raced to a 5-0 first period lead with a takedown and two-point near-fall and added three points in the final period to take the win.

"Steve was in total control of the match," Myers said. "I didn't expect it to be such a lopsided match, but Steve has been wrestling well this season."

Kane's Jack Bell struggled to a tough 3-1 victory over Youngsville's Jim Fehlman at 132. Bell scored a first-period takedown and a second-period escape which proved to be enough.

Southwestern's Ken Trimmer notched a 3:12 pin over Ridgway's Don Hoffman at 138. Trimmer had a 10-0 lead before turning Hoffman with a three-quarter nelson.

Bishop Walsh's Robb Klucik won by forfeit over Portville's Shaun Konert at 145. Konert suffered a torn bicep in the semifinals and was unable to wrestle in the finals, thus giving Klucik the title.

Jeff Stenta of Ridgway had an easy time in posting a 14-1 decision over Falconer's Ray Norton at 155. Stenta had Norton "counting the lights" four times in the bout, but couldn't score the pin.

Bolivar's Larry Smith scored an escape and takedown in the last 11 seconds of the match to pull out an 8-6 decision over Maple Grove's Dave Swiderski in the 167-pound test. Swiderski scored a third period reversal and received two points for stalling to take a 6-5 lead, but couldn't hold back Smith's rally in the final seconds.

Ron Kustrzebski of Iroquois gave Falconer's Kevin Wickstrom a lesson in takedowns and posted a 9-2 victory at 177. Kustrzebski had four takedowns in the match while Wickstrom mustered just two escapes.

Ridgway's Ed Parker broke a 4-4 second-period tie with a four-point third period and earned an 8-4 decision over Bolivar's Tim Stives at heavyweight.

In the final match of the evening, Falconer's Tony Milliner pinned Ridgway's Bill Lyle in 4:42. Milliner had a 7-2 advantage before using a body press to stop Lyle.

Milliner's victory was an important one as he gave the Golden Falcons second place over Maple Grove.

Allegany Tips Bradford; Coudersport Prevails

Allegany, Johnsonburg, St. Marys Public, Sheffield and Pioneer all opened their dual meet seasons in winning fashion as Big 30 high school wrestling swung into its first full weekend of action.

Allegany 30, Bradford High 29

A strong showing in the lower weight classes allowed Allegany (1-0) to upend Bradford. Allegany's Tony Navone (167) came back from a 7-0 deficit to pin his man in the second period and Sean Ryan sealed the Allegany win with a victory at 177.

Coudersport 34, Wellsboro 26

The No. 5-ranked team in the Times Herald Wrestling Poll took eight matches in gaining an opening-night win as Dan Cowburn, Jim Carey and Craig Gibble posted key wins at 145, 155 and 167, respectively.

Pioneer 45, East Aurora 21

Pioneer rookie coach Ron Brunner was impressed by the performance of his middle weight wrestlers and for good reason. Pioneer took every match from 119 through 167 to gain the season-opening win. 12-15-84

Johnsonburg 32, Smethport 24

Youth was accented in this win for Johnsonburg (1-0) as three freshmen and a first-time varsity wrestler carried the team. Freshman Butch Barber, Tom McDivitt and David Sallack all won, while the match hinged on the heavyweight bout in which J-Burg sophomore Don Dickey posted a fall.

St. Marys Public 46, Clarion 15

St. Marys Public took eight of 11 matches as it opened with an impressive win over Clarion.

"The kids looked pretty aggressive, we made a lot of mistakes, but they went after it," said Public coach Wayne Fordoski. Freshman Wayne Agosti came back from a 4-0 deficit to win 13-5 at 119 for St. Marys.

Sheffield 47, St. Marys Elk 17

Taking advantage of five forfeit wins, Sheffield (1-0) cruised past Elk. Steve Gregerson (14-9 last year) was a winner at 155, while last year's District 10 runner-up, Joe Poston, also won for Sheffield.

Big 30 Wrestling

Cowanesque Valley 34, Oswayo Valley 27

The two teams split 12 bouts but Cowanesque Valley's three pins made the difference. Kevin Watson, Howard Tilley, Glen Drake and Denny Keech were winners for OV. 12-15-84

Korthas wins state mat title

■ WRESTLING

seemed finished a few weeks ago, when he became ill with viral meningitis.

But Korthas recovered, regaining 21 pounds the illness had cost him.

Darling lost to Page, 4-3, after taking a quick 2-0 lead. Page used a move called a granby to get two reversals.

"We're disappointed, but there's a silver lining: he's a junior," said J-E coach Mike Frood. "Give Page credit. I didn't scout him today. I wish I had — I'd have seen those granbies."

Darling, the youngest of seven brothers who wrestle, is the second wrestler from his school to reach the state finals. The first was Mark Blair at 138 in 1976.

Korthas is the first wrestler from Central Square to place in the state tournament. His win marked the second year in a row Section Three's only champ was at 250.

Lamson is also the first wrestler from Waterloo to come close to winning a state title. Trailing Anthony Melfi of Connetquot-11, 2-0, after one period in the finals, Lamson tied the match and got a takedown and three back points for a 9-5 victory.

Darling reached the finals by decisioning Marty Dixon of Farmingdale (Eight), 10-4. Korthas decisioned Mike Constantatos of Commack South-11 in the semifinals, 8-0. 3-3-85

Section Three had other placewinners: Chip Pettitt of Baldwinsville (fourth at 105), Chris Labbate of East Syracuse-Minoa (fifth at 112), Fulton's John Howard (third at 119) and Randy Cotton (fourth at 215), Cortland's Rob Price (sixth at 132), Canastota's Nick Zupan (fourth at 138) and Jim Mason (fifth at 177).

Two men were inducted into the New York State Wrestling Hall of Fame: Ken Hunte, former coach at Mepham (Section Eight) and Tom Robertson, Sidney coach and Section Four co-chairman.

Robertson received the award from Lonnie Warner, J-E assistant coach and a member of his 1965 state champion team, most of whose members also were present for the presentation.

Central Square's George Korthas, top, decisions Commack's Mike Constantatos in semifinals of state wrestling meet. Korthas went on to win the 250-pound crown.

There were upsets, as always.

Phil Consiglio of North Rockland, Section One, last year's champion at 105, lost in the semifinals at 112 to Pidgeon.

At 145, Shone stunned Mike Cronmiller of Edison Tech-5, 7-3. At 167, Grant of Mt. Vernon-1 earned a 2-1 overtime victory over favored Greg Linkner of Southside-8.

There were surprises, one of them pleasant for Section Ten (St. Lawrence and Franklin counties).

The surprise was named Shannon Deroushie. He's a sophomore from Massena. He also became the section's third finalist ever.

Deroushie decisioned Jeff Jarvis of Salem-2, 5-1, to join Madrid-Waddington's Mackey Tyndall (1973) and Massena's Dave Poirier (1980), both runners-up at 215, in Section Ten's history.

But Deroushie lost in the finals at 98 pounds to Prescott, 13-1.

Jim Mosely of Union Springs, Cayuga County, placed third at 132, pinning Joe Macchia of Island Trees (Eight) in 2:50.

Dufour, Dimmick Gain BEN Tourney Titles, Tide Fifth

MILL HALL — The Curwensville Area High School wrestlers came away from the 29th annual Bald Eagle-Nittany Tournament with two individual champions, one runner-up and two third-place finishers as the Golden Tide placed fifth in the team competition.

Winning titles for Curwensville were junior Jeff Dufour at 105 pounds and senior Brian Dimmick at 185.

In the finals, Dufour pinned Jamie Walker of Penns Valley in 2:46, while Dimmick pounded Canton's Todd Seidhof 13-4.

Junior Craig Turner dropped a 7-1 decision to Canton's Chris Landis in the finals. 12-30-85

Freshman Steve McGarry at 98 and senior heavyweight Drew Wriglesworth both finished third.

Huntingdon, with five champs and two runners-up, won the team title with 161½ points, followed by Canton with 134, Bald Eagle-Nittany with 125, Penns Valley with 116, Curwensville with 95½, Warrior Run with 67½, Northern Bedford with 58 and Sugar Valley with 22.

"Overall, we did well," said Curwensville coach Randy Cathcart. "But we defaulted in three places and we could have done better if we hadn't.

"They were minor injuries, but I didn't want to take any chances.

"We came into the tournament banged up, and I was concerned throughout because we couldn't afford to lose anyone else."

According to Cathcart, Dufour had trouble early with the tall and lanky Walker.

"He was tying him up pretty tight," said Cathcart. "(Early in the second period), Walker had legs in, and Jeff caught his head, pulled him over and stuck him.

"Brian scored a lot of points from his feet. He looked sharp on his feet the whole way through the tournament.

"Craig started slowly, but then wrestled well. He had a really good kid in the finals.

"Steve and Drew did a good job battling back through the wrestlebacks to take third."

Other individual champions were Huntingdon's Jason Shea at 126, John Cutshall at 138, Mark Ambrose at 145, Harve Glorioso at 155 and Andy Holmes at heavyweight; Canton's Landis and Kevin Route at 167; Penns Valley's Kevin Butler, a former Clearfield wrestler, at 98, and Kevin Stitzer at 132; and Warrior Run's Bob Simpson, a state runner-up, at 112.

Jason Shea, a winner at 105 last season, was named the tourney's outstanding wrestler.

"I wasn't disappointed in our performance," said Cathcart.

Port A's Best Team?

BRADFORD — Port Allegany High School coach John Kriner says he's not ready to say this is the best team Port has ever sent out on a wrestling mat.

He might have a hard time convincing people otherwise, though. 12-30-85

With 11 place-winners, including six champions, Port Allegany rolled to its second tournament title of the young season Saturday by topping a small but strong six-team field.

"It's a little early to say that this is the best team we've had here," said Kriner. "You would like to say it is, but you really need to wait until the end of the season to say something like that.

"Right now I consider us a power wrestling team, not a finesse team with a lot of great technique — and you need to have those kind of skills. Obviously this team has done a great job so far, but you always have to deal with egos and parents and other things. Sometimes it doesn't take much to fall flat on your face.

"I think the kids recognized their potential and the team's potential now," Kriner added. "They're hungry. Now, we must continue to foster that hunger."

Port got titles from 105-pound freshman Rick Kriner (4-0), in the line-up for the injured Troy Shall, senior Dan Buchsenschutz (119, 5-0 record), junior Doug Smith (126, 7-1), senior Jeff Young (132, 6-0), sophomore Dale Budd (155, 5-1) and junior Dick Sherwood (167, 6-0).

The only other seniors on Kriner's team, which won the Portville Tournament earlier this month, were runners-up Bob Burleson and Pat Warnick.

Buchsenschutz's championship match victory came over two-time District 9

Big 30 Wrestling

Class AAAA place-winner Dan Weisner of St. Marys Public. Weisner gained some publicity last summer when he beat New York State champ Jeff Prescott of Olean High at an open post-season tournament in Emporium.

Young, a transfer from West Virginia where he placed fourth in that state tournament last year, remained undefeated with a 2-1 overtime decision over Brookville's Scott Reinard in the semis and an 8-4 win over Wellsville's Townley Hedrick in the finals.

Coudersport, coached by Mike Borro Jr., who wrestled under Kriner on Port's 1975-76 North Tier League championship team, overcame a couple of injuries to place second. Coudy, 3-0 in duals, was missing Matt Ayers (105), Joe Eustace (119) and Craig Gibble (167), while Dan Cowburn (155) defaulted in the semi-finals.

After his team's third-place finish, first-year Bradford coach Dave Jones noted, "I'm very satisfied with the way we wrestled. The kids look like they're starting to come around. Our aggressiveness was better than what it has been all year."

Junior Rob Brest (6-0) claimed the 105-pound title and brothers Brian Keane (5-1), a freshman, and Kevin Keane (3-3) each placed second to lead Bradford.

Ridgway's only place-finishers were 167-pounder Curt Cristini (sixth), who lost to a pair of returning state place-finishers, and heavyweight Dave Hoyt (eighth). 12-30-85

"Hoyt won the Jamestown tournament and took eighth here," said Ridgway coach Gary Gerber. "That just kind of shows you the type of competition there was. It was incredible. This is always the toughest tournament we go to."

Bethlehem Liberty's Dan McIntrye (112) and North Penn's Chris Kwortnick (167) shared the tournament's Outstanding Wrestler award.

Five Champions Help Mounties Cop Chief Logan Invitational

12-30-85

BURNHAM — The surprising Philipsburg-Osceola Area High School wrestling team continued its early-season improvement by winning the Chief Logan Invitational Saturday with 74½ points. Dallastown was runner-up with 56½. Chief Logan was third with 46½, and Central Cambria trailed with 25.

P-O had 10 finalists, and five went on to claim titles — Harry Lumadue at 119 pounds, Joe Bainey at 132, Jody Parks at 138, Mike Mann at 155 and Trevor Burns at 167.

"I'm pretty pleased," Mountie coach Dave Caslow said. "Dallastown and Chief are very respectable teams. Dallastown was 2-0 and had won a four-team team tournament with Cedar Cliff, Lower Dauphin and State College, and Chief Logan also was 2-0.

"I was hoping we'd be competitive, and we came away winning the thing. 12-30-85

"We had a really great first round. We were 20½ points ahead at the end of the round."

Caslow cited three Mountie victories in which he felt the best wrestlers met the first round.

One was at 119, where Harry Lumadue edged Dallastown's Gary Smith 6-4 with a tilt in the third period.

At 138, Parks took down Joe Druck with about 20 seconds remaining to prevail 8-7 in another P-O—Dallastown duel. Parks had been behind the whole bout.

The other biggie was Mann's 7-3 decision over Chief Logan's Bill Leister. The Mountie had two takedowns and a two-point nearfall for his first win.

"Leister is a good athlete and has a very dangerous style of wrestling," Caslow said, "but Mike wrestled very intelligently and handled Leister's short sit and turn-in series well for a nice win." 12-30-85

Falls by Bainey, Burns and Denny Lumadue at 185, a technical fall by Rob Emigh at 105 and a major decision by Bart Mease at 98 provided bonus points for the Mountie cause.

"Even the two matches that we lost in the first round were very competitve and closely fought," Caslow said, noting Max Morbeto was locked in a 2-2 tie when he was pinned and Roger Kephart was losing only 11-9 when he was pinned.

"So I don't know how any coach coudd be more pleased with the first round of a tournament."

In the evening session, Dallastown closed the gap to five points via a sweep in the consolations and Jason Gross' 9-5 victory over Emigh in the 105 title bout. A takedown and a nearfall off a cradle put Gross in command at 5-1.

That came on the heels of a tough loss by Mease. The Mountie bantam was riding Jim Tsikalas of Central Cambria in the second period when he got too high and the Red Devil pulled his head down and got a fall call at 3:33.

Harry Lumadue reversed the trend back in P-O's decision by pinning Mark Westrick 52 seconds into the second period at 119.

Terry Sweitzer kept Dallastown in the hunt with a 10-6 victory over Troy Caslow at 126, two tilts making the difference in a bout the Mountie coach felt could have gone either way.

However, Bainey avenged last year's 8-1 loss to Dallastown's Chris Myers with a 6-4 decision and Parks, who moved down from 145, rolled up a 15-0 lead against Chief Logan's Jim Knouse for a technical fall at 5:05 to clinch the championship for the Mounties.

Bainey earned his big win with two takedowns and a reversal to Myers' takedown and two escapes.

"Joe hadn't wrestled varsity this year, but he had a great tourney," Caslow said. "His match with was one of the most exciting of the tourney. Myers has a lightning-quick single-leg, and Joe displayed tremendous balance several times in recovering from near takedowns." 12-30-85

After Mountie Brian Bradley, wrestling varsity for the first time, lost 5-1 to Chief Logan's Chris Burdick at 145, Mann pulled out a thrilling 4-3 win over Dallastown's Pat Strine by reversing with five seconds to go.

Burns, winless going into the tourney, was ahead 2-0 when he turned Chief Logan's Todd Copenhaver with a Navy ride and stacked him at 3:11.

"Trevor deserves a lot of credit," Caslow said. "He's had some tough losses, but he's been competitive. He was decisively winning both his matches when he got the falls."

At 185, Denny Lumadue ran into PIAA third-place finisher Lance Markel and was the victim of a technical fall.

"We're continuing to improve," Caslow said, "and we have to with the competition that's just around the corner. We have West Branch this week, and then we go against Clearfield and Bedford back-to-back."

P-O also won the junior varsity championship as Jeff McDonald (98), Mark Condon (105), Scott Kephart (132), Todd Twist (138) and Brent Kephart (heavy) claimed titles.

The Mounties had 69 points, Dallastown 60, Chief Logan 59 and Central Cambria 27½.

Bisons Third at CUP Mat Title, Williams, Collins Claim Crowns

CALIFORNIA — The Clearfield Area High School wrestling team had nine place-winners, including two champions, to place third at the California University of Pennsylvania High School Wrestling Tournament Saturday.

Seniors Todd Williams and Scott Collins won at 105 and 132 pounds, respectively, while senior Marty Novey was runner-up at 112.

Juniors Jeff Luzier at 98 and Mike Triponey at 138 and senior Mike Owens at 185 took thirds, while senior Mike Garrou at 167 placed fourth.

Senior Brian Vokes was sixth at 155 and senior Randy McCool was seventh at 126. 12-30-85

Trinity's 'A' team won the tourney with 179½ points, with North Alleghany (155½), Clearfield (150½), Connellsville (118½) and Poquoson, Va., (107) completing the top five in the 18-team event.

"We did well," said Clearfield coach Garry Barton, whose team won the 1984 tournament. "I can't complain about our finish. Everybody on the team won at least one match and scored some points for us. It was a nice team effort."

The top point getters were Williams and Collins.

In the finals, Williams had an easy time with North Alleghany's Rich Cantalina, coming off with an 11-5 win, while Collins topped Dave Harbson, also of North Alleghany, 6-0.

In the semifinals, Williams gained a superior decision over Jim Vore of Trinity-A, while Collins pinned Tim Boyd of Waynesburg.

Novey was pinned 42 seconds into the second period of the title match by Waynesburg's Scott Blair. 12-30-85

"Marty was wrestling extremely well, but got caught in one move and pinned," Barton said.

Collins won a title last year at 126, while Williams was second at 98 and Novey third at 105.

"Jeff, Trip and Mike (Owens) came back well after their one loss," Barton said.

In the third-place finals, Luzier forged a 4-2 decision over Connellsville's John Saniga, who had beaten the Bison 7-5 in the championship quarterfinals.

Triponey battled Aaron Roberts of Trinity-A through a 0-0 regulation, then claimed third with a 2-0 advantage in overtime.

Owens also had a tough battle for third, edging McGuffey's Rich Burdolt 2-1.

At 167, Garrou lost a close one in the third-place finals, as North Alleghany's Brad Merk won 2-0.

Vokes missed fifth place by a point, losing to Jody Conti of Beth Center 2-1, while McCool claimed seventh with a fall over Eric Zubovic of Laurel Highlands.

Peters Township had three champions, Glenn Teeter at 98, Jay Mizia at 145 and Bill Lewis at 155; Poquoson had three, Casey Graham at 138, Scott Brown at 167 and John Morris at heavyweight; Trinity-A had two, Mike Ferrari at 119 and Bob Truby, the tourney's outstanding wrestler at 126; while Northern Alleghany's Dan Bieller at 185 and Waynesburg's Blair were the other champs.

"If we had been on the other side of the bracket, we could have had a few more seconds," said Barton. "There would have been some different outcomes."

"The boys who were here last year improved on their placing, while the younger kids all had fine tournaments.

"I was pleased with our tournament, overall. Now, we have to get ready for Saturday."

Salamanca Just 'Close'

Salamanca Central School wrestling coach Rich Morton says "coming close" just isn't good enough. 1-2-86

Hoping to use Tuesday's dual-meet against Williamsville North as a springboard into the New York State Sports Writers Association rankings, Morton felt no consolation following a 27-21 defeat to the state's 13th-ranked team.

"I think we probably could have had a better showing," said Morton, whose team dropped to 3-1. "They're a decent team, but I don't feel they're that much better than we are. We should have had at least a tie."

Salamanca, which placed second to Williamsville North in a tournament at Williamsville earlier this season, fell behind 21-9 before winning three of the final four bouts. 1-2-86

"Everyone keeps saying we're a young team and we're going to be tough next year," Morton added. "Well, we're not waiting until next year. There's no reason why we shouldn't be picking up now."

Bolivar (1-1) got four consecutive pins from 145 to 177 to break open an 18-15 match and win its Tri-County League opener.

"Bolivar has just a lot more experience," said Portville coach Mike DeBarbieri, who coached for six seasons at Bolivar before taking the Portville position this season. "I think Bolivar has a good shot at doing well at sectionals again — a good outside shot because they have some good young kids."

Portville is now 0-2 overall.

Brockway ends Wolves' 32-match grappling streak

KANE — Kane High School had its 32-match win streak snapped by Brockway 39-21 Thursday night.

Kane's last loss was to Ridgway, 35-31, in the final dual meet of the 1983 season. 1-3-86

"If we were going to lose it's good that we lost to a team like Brockway," Kane coach Barry Johnson said. "They really dominated us — winning eight of 12 weight classes and taking a 30-0 lead. They just overwhelmed us."

Brockway improves to 2-0, while Kane falls to 1-1.

Winning for Kane were Jack Bell (138), Duane Blankenship (145), Roger Blankenship (155) and Frank Bizzak (heavyweight).

"I hope something good comes out of this," Johnson noted. "We are going to have to start working a little bit harder. I've been telling the kids that we are not that good of a team.

"We can't sit on our laurels of the past. That's what some of them have been doing. But we are not going to panic. We'll come back — this should motivate them to do better."

RIDGWAY 32, ST. MARYS 29

RIDGWAY — It was a legitimate upset as far as Ridgway wrestling coach Gary Gerber was concerned.

Thursday night, with five freshmen in the lineup, his Elkers topped visiting St. Marys 32-29.

"Most people thought we'd be blown out, but all the kids gave 100 percent and two of our freshmen, Larry Huber and Joe Parker, came up with wins." 1-3-86

The Elkers' coach was forced into making lineup changes because of injuries.

"We shifted everyone around beause of injuries and it worked out just right," he pointed out.

St. Marys opened a 12-0 lead before the Elkers got on the board with a pin by Huber at 112. Ridgway won three of the next four weights to take the lead, but the Dutch picked up pins at 145 and 155 to move in front 27-21 with three bouts remaining.

Ridgway's Don Hoffman got a decision at 167 and each team picked up points with a draw at 185 to make the score 29-27 in favor of St. Marys.

In the heavyweight bout Ridgway's Dave Hoyt came up with a pin to give the Elkers the team victory.

Ridgway, now 2-1, returns to action Tuesday, hosting Youngsville.

SALAMANCA — Salamanca won all but three matches to remain undefeated in a 46-9 non-league wrestling victory over Wellsville on Monday. 12-31-85

Marc Swiech (9-2), Tom Mohr (6-3) and Jess Wilson (10-0) each improved their winning won-loss marks via pins for Salamanca (3-0), which is back in action today at Williamsville North.

For Wellsville (0-4), 177-pounder Ike Fanton (7-2) edged Myron Wilson, 6-3, avenging a loss to Wilson a week earlier at the Jamestown Tournament.

"Fanton had Wilson tied up and made him wrestle his match," said Salamanca coach Rich Morton. "Myron has no excuses, he just waited too long to go after him." 12-31-85

Wellsville's Townley Hedrick improved to 7-3 with a 3-0 decision over Travis Boardman (8-5), hitting Boardman for a clinching takedown with 15 seconds left.

'Wrestling' With Some Big Changes

By TOM ROOF
Times Herald Sports Writer

This seems to be the Year of Interesting Rule Changes in high school sports. 12-5-85

In this space on Wednesday, Gary Maloney reported on a rule adopted by the National Federation of State High School Associations that basically prohibits boys' basketball coaches nationwide from getting off the bench, except for special circumstances.

But basketball isn't the only sport undergoing changes as a number of new rules will be going into effect this wrestling season.

For starters, you'll no longer be able to watch overgrown Pillsbury Doughboys tussle at heavyweight this year.

A 275-pound maximum weight limit has been set to avoid possible 100-pound differences in wrestlers competing in the heavyweight class.

And although the rule is potentially discriminatory, it's a good one. Why have 11 weight classes match up within reason and then have a potential mismatch in the final bout where there was no weight restriction?

That ruling, however, is minor compared to the others.

IN A MOVE that brings high school wrestling closer to freestyle, three other rule changes have been adopted.

Wrestlers can now win — or lose — by a technical fall. Beginning this season, a match will be terminated if one wrestler is ahead by 15 or more points at any time during the match. The victor will be a winner by a technical fall and his team will be awarded six points — just as if he had won by a pin.

Just one comment here, though. While there is something to be said for limiting the embarrassment to a wrestler losing badly and speeding up matches, there also is something to be said for a wrestler avoiding a fall against a superior opponent.

Incidentally, the awarding of other team points will remain the same — three for a decision of seven points or less, four for a decision of eight to 11 points and five for a 12-14-point decision.

The most important change concerns choice of position in the second and third periods.

This year, a wrestler not only will be allowed to choose to start his period of choice on top or bottom, but also in the neutral position. Plus, he also will be able to defer his choice and force his opponent to make a decision —thereby saving his preference for the final period. 12-5-85

Previously, wrestlers alternated top and bottom to start the second and third periods.

Explained second-year Johnsonburg coach Scott Anderson of the changes: "They're de-emphasizing top and bottom wrestling and taking the sport more toward freestyle wrestling where the emphasis is on takedowns.

"Takedowns are the most exciting part of the sport and what they're trying to do with these rules is make wrestling more attractive as a spectator sport. But these are real bombshells. There are always some changes being made, but to come up with such dramatic rule changes as these in the same year is rare."

In addition, wrestlers no longer will be required to place one hand on an opponent's elbow and the other around the waist while in the referee's position. Now, if he so chooses, he will be allowed to stand behind the down man but must place the palm of both hands on his opponent's back.

"These changes are really going to make for some interesting choices," Anderson said. "Before, top and bottom didn't make that much of a difference. Now, you can be starting in the neutral position all three periods.

"It opens the door to a lot more strategy and that's one of the things wrestlers will now have to consider."

SALAMANCA MAT coach Rich Morton has come up with an interesting way to promote wrestling — afternoon matches in front of the school's student body. 12-5-85

Morton has scheduled his team's season opener for 1 p.m. Tuesday against Gowanda as a school assembly.

"It's one way of getting a crowd," said Morton, "and it could help in getting some more of the students interested in the sport. Who knows, someone who has never seen a wrestling match may find out that they like it."

Morton says he's anxious to see how the experiment goes over.

"A lot of school spirit is involved here," he said. "The team can't wait to perform in front of their peers."

Cattaraugus, Franklinville Sweep; Olean Wins

It hasn't taken long for Franklinville Central School and Cattaraugus to set the stage for their important Tri-County League showdown next month.

In a quadrangular meet at Cattaraugus, the two league favorites opened their mat seasons with one-sided wins Wednesday over both Ripley and Westfield.

Casey Vassar, Matt Hall, Larry Orsini and Dave Kohler had two pins apiece to lead Franklinville, which defeated Ripley, 48-21, and Westfield, 60-6. 12-12-85

Cattaraugus, meanwhile, tripped Ripley, 35-30, and Westfield, 57-10, with Mike Brown, Larry Studley and Ed Miller recording double falls.

"I think this was a good barometer on how we'll do this year," said Franklinville coach Dave Tundo. "We're improving, all of our kids are 10th graders, practically. I think we'll do fairly well, but I think in another two years we'll be extremely tough."

Franklinville and Cattaraugus will clash head-to-head in a triangular meet next Wednesday, then meet in a league match Jan. 6.

Elsewhere around the Big 30, Olean High and Fillmore won their season openers, while Pioneer dropped its 1985-86 lidlifter.

Olean High 42, Wellsville 24

Returning state champion Jeff Prescott won by a technical fall and six other Olean wrestlers recorded pins in a season-opening win against Wellsville (0-2).

Olean held a 24-3 lead after 126, but then led by just six points, 30-24, before Matt Jurenko and Greg Mikolajczk came through with falls in the last two matches.

Prescott's 24-9 decision extended his scholastic unbeaten string to 37 matches.

Jim Kling, Townley Hedrick and Brian Gray improved to 2-0 for Wellsville.

Fillmore 42, Olean Walsh 27

Winning six matches by forfeit, Fillmore (1-0) matched its win total of last year in the season opener for both schools.

Walsh won five of six head-to-head bouts, getting pins from Don Fie and Roy Minard.

"I told the kids that if we win most of the matches, it'd be a moral victory," said Walsh coach Paul Abdo. "So we were happy with the way we did. It was a nice way for the kids to start."

Iroquois 56, Pioneer 13

With four freshmen and three sophomores in the line-up, Pioneer opened its season with a 43-point loss to powerful Iroquois in an Erie County Division III-IV matchup.

Pioneer's only winners were Chad Nourse, who won by a fall at 105, and Dave Simons with a superior decision at 132. Sophomore captain Shane Carter

Salamanca Wins Opener

It looks like Rich Morton has pulled off a quick reversal with his Salamanca Central School wrestling team.

After tying Gowanda in its season opener last year (26-26), Salamanca pinned its way to a 50-11 win Tuesday in one of three 1985-86 lidlifters involving Big 30 area teams.

With only three lineup changes from last season's 5-8-1 team, Salamanca won nine matches to reach the 50-point mark for the first time in two years.

"I'm pleased with the way the season has started," said Morton. "We looked fairly sharp for the first match."

Shane Titus, Marc Sweich, Travis Boardman, Myron Wilson and Jess Wilson won by pins for Salamanca.

Randolph and Wellsville also opened their seasons on Tuesday. 12-11-85

Cassadaga Valley 43, Randolph 16

CV took eight matches, including five by fall, to win a season-opening showdown against Southern Tier Division II favorite Randolph.

"Cassadaga Valley is known as a leg-control team and we just weren't able to counter that," said Randolph coach Doug Seamons. "We knew it was going to be tough going against a (Southern Tier) Division I team, but I think it's going to help us to have a good league season."

Campbell 38, Wellsville 32

"We gave up too many pins (five)," said first-year Wellsville coach Rob McMorris.

The match was tied at 20 following Townley Hedrick's pin at 138, but Camp-

Brockway Fourth In Tourney

BLAIRSVILLE — Seven Brockway wrestlers recorded first-round wins in Friday's opening action of the eight-team Blairsville Tournament.

Advancing to today's quarter-finals for Brockway are Scott Card (98), John Carlson (105), Alan McMillen (112), Mike Pisarchick (126), Mark Murgash (138), Randy Taylor (145) and Andy Miller (155). District 9 runner-up Pete Varischetti lost by default at 119.

Latrobe leads the event with 40 points while Brockway is fourth with 35.

In a match that featured seven pins and two technical falls, Allegany Central School opened its wrestling season with a 37-30 victory over Bradford High (0-1) on Friday night. 12-14-85

Allegany, Smethport Win

The match was tied four different times — the latest after 145 — before Allegany pulled away, getting key decisions from Angelo Crisafulli at 167 and Lance Paugh at 177.

"I was a little disappointed," said first-year Bradford coach Dave Jones. "I think we could have done better. We're to a point where instead of thinking about a move, we've just got to hit it. When we get to the point where it's automatic, then we'll get over the hill and we'll start doing well."

Allegany coach Chuck Curley credited Butch Ensell with a key pin at 145.

"That was a big win for us," Curley noted. "It was only his second varsity (career) win and it turned the whole ball game around." 12-14-85

Warren 32, Ridgway 30

Ridgway (0-1) led 30-21, but then fell in its season opener when Warren (1-0) took 11 points in the final two matches.

"We were close," said Ridgway coach Gary Gerber. "Closer than a lot of people thought we would be."

Gerber was encouraged by the showing of freshmen Vic Corey, Eric Geyer and Todd Stenta, noting, "Corey and Geyer did really well. Our young kids gave me more than I expected. Stenta lost by a pin in the third period, but he was winning 11-6 at the time."

Smethport 31, Johnsonburg 30

"I was surprised, actually, I didn't think we'd beat them," said Smethport coach Bill Stephen. "But the matchups came out fairly well. It really could have gone either way."

Smethport clinched the win when T.J. Reap major-decisioned Jack Kifer at 185, a matchup that gained in importance after Pat Gregory's win at 138.

"Gregory's match was the important one," Stephen said. "He got hurt (head injury) in the second period but wanted to stay on to finish. Later we had to take him to the hospital for observation."

Johnsonburg's Butch Barber also was hospitalized with a shoulder injury suffered in a match against returning state qualifier Don Burdick.

Sheffield 50, St. Marys Elk 15

Randy Weisner, Scott Taylor and Wayne Kear were the only winners for Elk in a season-opening non-league loss. Sheffield (1-0) won four matches by pins.

St. Marys Public 41, Clarion 18

St. Marys won its season opener.

For St. Marys, John Weisner (105, pin), Shawn Whitaker (112, pin), Dan Weisner (119, 14-0), Craig Wensel (126, pin), Dave Cousins (132, pin), Tim Wittman (145, pin), Scott Merritt (185, pin) were winners.

Pioneer 36, Lackawanna 35

Dave Geiger won his 177-pound match by a pin to clinch the victory for Pioneer (1-1), which then forfeited its heavyweight bout to Lackawanna (0-2).

Gowanda 54, Westfield 12

Gowanda won 10 of 12 matches to even its record at 1-1. Eric LiVeche improved to 2-0, while Mike Gabel and Charlie Talichief evened their season marks at 1-1 with pins. 12-14-85

PORTVILLE — They were adding up points faster than a "Things To Do On Christmas" shopping list.

And by mid-afternoon Saturday at the seventh annual Portville Wrestling Tournament, Port Allegany High School was perched comfortably atop the 13-team lineup.

Nothing would change.

After sending 11 of its 12 wrestlers to the semi-finals, Port Allegany advanced seven to the finals then came away with five champions to rack up a tournament record 208½ points. 12-16-85

"They're tough," said Allegany coach Chuck Curley of Port. "They're strong up and down that lineup. They'll give Kane a fight."

Port Allegany, fourth here last year, won't meet Kane until February, but mat fans couldn't help looking ahead after Saturday's showing.

Although expected to be strong, Port dominated a field that included three teams in the Times Herald top 10 rankings — No. 7 Franklinville, No. 8 Cattaraugus and No. 9 Allegany.

Claiming titles for Port Allegany were freshman Chris Waterman at 98, senior Dan Buchsenschutz at 119, senior Jeff Young at 132, senior Bob Burleson at 145 and junior Dick Sherwood at 167.

Buchsenschutz was named the tournament's Outstanding Wrestler, pinning Jamestown's Jamie Glatz and Allegany's Tom Norton, then winning 9-1 in the finals over Franklinville's Mark Hall. Hall had advanced to the championship match with a surprisingly easy 19-2 decision over District 9 champion Daryl Sassaman of Emporium.

Waterman and Young, two newcomers to coach John Kriner's lineup, were just as impressive as the veteran Buchsenschutz, however.

Waterman defeated defending tournament champ Mike Benca of Allegany, 17-4, in the semis, then recorded a 16-0 technical fall win in 2:30 over Franklinville's Casey Vassar in the finals.

Young, a transfer student who placed fourth in the West Virginia state tournament last year, knocked off defending District 9 champion and Pennsylvania state qualifier Don Burdick of Smethport in the finals. Young, who wrestled at Port his freshman and sophomore years, fought off his back the entire first period before recording a second-period fall.

ONLY TWO OF the tournament's five defending champions repeated — Jamestown senior Steve Minarovich, who won the 105-pound title for his third title, and Smethport senior T.J. Reap at heavyweight. Reap pinned his way through the tournament, taking just 3:24 to dispose of Wellsville's Ike Fanton in the finals.

Benca ended up third, while Port Allegany's Troy Shall and Emporium's Jim Greelan each placed second.

TOURNEY NOTES: Grove City had six champions and 203½ points in 1982 for the previous best team showing. . . . Portville had eight individual champions when it won the 1980 title with 188½ points. . . . Franklinville's Casey Vassar advanced to the finals by pinning Bolivar's Ned Gould in 5:11 in the semis. Gould last year placed third in the Section 5 Class D tournament. . . . Other than Reap, the only wrestler to pin all of his opponents was Jamestown's Tony Calamunci in the unlimited class. . . . Emporium senior Bob Lamont, who won a Portville title as a sophomore and placed third in the D-9 tournament last season, was a runner-up for the second year in a row. Lamont won in overtime against Cattaraugus' Shawn Booth in the semis, then lost 4-2 to Bolivar's Mike Dunsmore. Booth was injured in his match with Lamont and had to default his consolation match with Port Allegany's Dale Dudd.

Big Victors Port A, Allegany

Port Allegany High School recorded eight pins and one technical fall in a lopsided 60-6 win over Cowanesque Valley in non-league Big 30 wrestling action Thursday.

Brookville 33, St. Marys Public 27

"It was a match we could have won," said St. Marys coach Wayne Fordoski, after his team (2-1) led 27-18 with three matches remaining. "Joe Verbka (167) was ahead 5-1 when he got pinned. I'd say Brookville definitely wanted to win more than we did."

Allegany 44, Oswayo Valley 22

Allegany (2-0) collected four forfeit wins to down OV (0-1) in its dual-meet opener.

Big Field In Jamestown Event

By TOM ROOF
Times Herald Sports Writer

Some of the top high school wrestling talent in Western New York will be gathering in Jamestown on Friday and Saturday for the 24-team Southern Tier Officials Tournament at Jamestown Community College.

12-19-85

Ten Big 30 teams, including No. 1-ranked Kane, will be competing in the two-day JCC showcase, one of four area tournaments on tap this weekend.

The Southern Tier Officials Tournament — a spinoff of last year's 14-team Southwestern Tournament — which came about after the demise of the Cattaraugus County IAABO tourney at St. Bonaventure — will get underway at noon Friday on eight mats.

"We are hoping this will be one of the better tournaments in Western New York this season," said tournament director and former JCC wrestling coach Bruce Tunnell. "Right now, we kept the field down but we'll be looking to expand to 32 teams in the future."

Following the quarter-finals and two rounds of wrestlebacks on Friday, action will resume at 10 a.m. Saturday. The consolation finals are booked for 6 p.m. and the finals at 8.

MAT MATTERS: After dominating the Fredonia Tournament by registering a record 208½ points, Port Allegany has jumped from No. 10 to No. 7 in this week's Times Herald rankings — bumping Franklinville, Cattaraugus and Allegany each down a notch. The top six teams remain unchanged. .... Section 4 power Maine-Endwell, ranked fourth in the state last year, had a streak of 47 consecutive dual-meet wins snapped last Saturday with a 38-31 loss to Athens, Pa. .... Johnsonburg's 155-pounder Jeff Peterson has missed his team's first two matches because of a broken nose. He is expected to return for the Warren Invitational (Jan. 3-4). .... Brockway's Pete Varischetti "will probably be out for awhile," says coach John Berardo. Varischetti, a District 9 runner-up last year, was injured in his first match at the Fillmore Tournament. Brockway finished fifth in tourney, which didn't disappoint Berardo. "Considering Pete was out and we didn't have anyone at 167 or 185, I thought we did real good. We placed fifth with nine wrestlers and I've taken stronger teams there and finished lower." .... The first TH individual rankings appear with today's column. To qualify, wrestlers have to have a winning record with three or more decisions.

After finishing fourth in the WNY Wrestling News ratings last year, Iroquois has the makings of another powerful lineup. Back are Kevin Day, who was 31-0 last year before being stopped by Prescott in the Section 6 finals, sectional finalist Ron Kostrzebski (177) and semifinalist Tom Kostrzebski (167).

Sweet Home's strength is in its lightweights with sectional finalist Tim Shifflet and semifinalists Jim Schraufstetter and Tim Shifflet. Orchard Park is led by sectional quarterfinalist Ron Dix (177).

Rounding out the field are Bolivar, Cassadaga Valley, Cattaraugus, Falconer, Franklinville, Jamestown, Kenmore East, Kenmore West, Maple Grove, Pine Valley, Portville, Ridgway, Randolph, Southwestern, Warsaw, Wellsville and Youngsville.

Three other teams, Canandaigua, Clarence and Dunkirk, have withdrawn from the tournament.

ALLEGANY WILL be hosting a 10-team tournament Saturday — its first in more than 12 years. Wrestling will begin at 10:15 a.m., with the semi-finals set for 4 p.m., the consi-finals for 6:30 and the final immediately afterwards.

St. Marys Elk County Christian and Fillmore are the only other Big 30 teams entered. Rounding out the lineup are Fredonia, Holland, Jasper, Panama, Ripley, Springville and Westfield.

JAMESTOWN — Kane and Sweet Home High Schools have charged to the top of the field after one day in the 22-team Southern Tier Wrestling Officials Tournament at Jamestown Community College.

Through three championship bracket rounds and two rounds of the consolations, Kane has compiled 87½ points with eight wrestlers advancing to today's semi-finals. 12-21-85

"Kane has a real tournament team," said Salamanca coach Rich Morton, whose team is currently in third place with five semi-finalists left. "I can see some weak spots there as a dual team, but they have a championship tournament team. I don't think anybody can touch them."

Advancing for Kane were Joe Jefford, Tom Deane, Seth Bloomquist, Jack Bell, Duane Blankenship, Roger Blankenship, Dan Rook and Scott Emberg. Sweet Home, meanwhile, has six wrestlers in the semis and four in the consolations.

For Salamanaca, which also has seven wrestlers alive in the consolation wrestlebacks, Shane Titus (105), Marc Sweich (112), Mike Strauss (145), Myron Wilson (177) and Jesse Wilson (heavyweight) moved on to the semis.

"If we can get a couple of kids through to the finals, we should be able to stay among the top three," Morton added.

Other Big 30 wrestlers advancing to the semis: from Olean High, Tom Worth (98), Jeff Prescott (112) and Craig Mikolajczyk (heavyweight); from Randolph, Bill Young (112), Troy Nelson (126) and Troy Barber (98); from Bolivar, Mike Dunsmore (155); from Cattaraugus, Shawn Booth (138); and from Ridgway, Curt Cristini (167) and Dave Hoyt (heavyweight).

Today's action got underway at 10 a.m. The consolation finals are set 6 p.m. and the championship finals for 8 p.m.

ELSEWHERE AROUND the Big 30, Coudersport and Gowanda notched dual-meet wins. 12-21-85

Coudersport 45, Bradford High 20

Undefeated Coudersport got five pins to capture its third dual meet of the season.

Pinning their way to 3-0 starts were Joe Eustace, Phil Cruz, Jim Carey, Sean McKeone and Joe Ayers.

Rob Brest earned his third win of the year for Bradford (1-2).

Gowanda 43, Silver Creek 21

Gowanda improved to 2-1-1 with Dan Kusiowski, Dan Ackley, Charlie Tallchief and Mark Ingersoll all earning their third wins of the year.

Fayetteville-Manlius wrestling coach Jim Hennighan on his team's 0-3 record in the Big Nine league this year: 12-22-85

"We have no more right to be in the Big Nine division than the man on the moon does. It's OK to put F-M (the smallest of the nine schools in terms of enrollment with 1,030) against Baldwinsville or (East Syracuse-Minoa) in tennis or swimming, but wrestling is a different story. Our guys have been getting hurt, and I just don't know how much more of a pounding we'll be able to take. I hope we have some wrestlers left to think about having a team next season.

F-M has had injuries ranging from chipped teeth to damaged cartilage. The Hornets have won just six individual matches, and the team has lost by scores of 52-6, 54-4, and 43-21. Shawn Gleason is the only wrestler with a winning record at 2-1.

Kane: Shaky Opener

Big 30 Wrestling

Kane High School got off to a shaky start in its season wrestling opener on Wednesday, but then kept its winning streak intact with a quick finish.

In one of only two Big 30 matches that survived Wednesday's snowfall, Kane edged Smethport, 38-27, when heavyweight Rod Smith recorded a first-period fall to end Smethport's upset bid.

The victory was the 32nd in a row for Kane, which for the second week in a row is the No. 1 team in the Times Herald rankings. 12-19-85

Kane last lost in its final dual meet of the 1982-83 season, 35-31, to Ridgway.

"I was surprised it came down to heavyweight," said Smethport coach Bill Stephen. "I thought if we'd win four matches we'd be doing good. But we won five and that put us in a position to win the match."

Smith, a first-year varsity starter, ended the match with just one second left in the first period when he decked Dan McCracken.

"Dan got off-balanced and caught on his back and just couldn't get up," said Stephen. "It was one of those matches that whoever got on their back was going to stay there."

Smethport's T.J. Reap improved to 5-0 with his fourth straight pin.

Elsewhere, Jasper downed Northern Potter, while Portville, Pioneer and a triangular meet at Cattaraugus with Olean Walsh and Franklinville were postponed.

Jasper 50, Northern Potter 14

Scott Wenrich and Aaron Schweigart each won by pins and heavyweight Scott Lehman wrestled to a draw for Northern Potter's only points in its season-opening dual meet.

JAMESTOWN — Kane High School wrestling coach Barry Johnson says this is the happiest team he's ever coached.

And it may end up being his best.

With all but two regulars back from last year's 16-0 team that placed sixth in the Pennsylvania state tournament, Johnson again has his team looking in championship form.

Led by individual titlists Seth Bloomquist, Jack Bell and Duane Blankenship, Kane bested 20 other teams in the Southern Tier Officials Tournament Friday and Saturday at Jamestown Community College by tallying a 26-point margin over runner-up Sweet Home.

"I thought the kids wrestled good for being this early in the season," said Johnson. "We're not in the best of shape yet and everyone is still wrestling above what they will be later on." 12-23-85

Which means Kane presumably will get even tougher as the year goes on.

"Everyone is enjoying themselves right now," said Johnson, whose team has won 32 consecutive dual meets. "Right now everyone is up a weight. No one has had to cut at all. Maybe that's why this is the happiest team I've ever worked with. But if you know what you're doing, you don't have to cut."

Bloomquist had the toughest time of Kane's three champs, winning 8-7 over Sweet Home's Tim Shifflet with a takedown in the final 10 seconds. A Section 6 finalist last year, Shifflet notched his 100th career win in the semi-finals.

Kane had two other finalists, Roger Blankenship and Dan Rook, both of whom lost to top-seeded opponents in the finals.

"We did a lot better than I expected," Johnson said. "I even told the kids not to expect to win this tournament. Last year we were sixth at the Southwestern Tournament out of 14 teams and there were basically the same teams here this year.

"We have a lot of good individuals," Johnson added. "But I don't know if that makes us a good team or not. We're definitely a better tournament team than a dual-meet team. But what was nice about this tournament is that every kid contributed at least a point. Still, I think we have a ways to go."

SALAMANCA FINISHED the highest among the other Big 30 entries, placing fourth with twin brothers Myron and Jess Wilson winning back-to-back titles at 177 and 215, respectively. Both Wilsons were seeded fourth, and the title was the second for Jess, who last week won in the Williamsville North tourney.

"We were pretty pleased, but we could have at least gotten a third instead of a fourth," Salamanca coach Rich Morton said disappointedly. "We wanted to finish in the top three, but although we didn't make our goal, I'm not discouraged by the way things turned out."

Salamanca had three others place-finishers — Shane Titus (third), Marc Swiech (third) and Chris Printup (fourth) — in placing one-half point behind third-place Falconer.

The only other Big 30 wrestlers to claim championships were Olean High's Jeff Prescott at 112 and Ridgway's Bill Hoyt at unlimited.

Prescott (9-0) won his second tournament and second Most Outstanding Wrestler award of the season after a 12-1 championship-round win over Maple Grove's Jim Nalbone, a Section 6 champ last year at 105.

Prescott, looking even better than he did last year when he became Olean's third state champ, dominated his weight class. In notching his 45th straight victory, Prescott posted his third career win over Nalbone, who earned his 100th career victory Friday night.

Eight of the tournament's top-seeded wrestlers finished as expected — Prescott, Bloomquist, who won his 50th career match in the finals, Bell (94-13 career), Blankenship (78-12), Sweet Home's Tom Shifflet at 98, Falconer's Chad Waddington at 105 and Ray Norton at 155, and Iroquois' Tom Kostrzebski at 167.

Randolph's Bill Young and Troy Nelson each placed second, as did Wellsville's Ike Fanton and Olean's Greg Mikolajczyk.

Lack Of Practice Doesn't Bother Kane Wrestlers

Team Standings
Home 87½, Kane 87½, Salamanca 72, Iroquois 69½, Falconer 69½, Jamestown 56½, Bolivar 55, Randolph 51½, Youngsville 50½, Maple Grove 50, Olean 46½, Kenmore East 40½, Cattaraugus 40½, Cassadaga Valley 40½, Southwestern 40½, Ridgway 39, Wellsville 37, Kenmore East 28, Franklinville 28½, Portville 20, Warsaw 19

By BRIAN MAZUREK

Kane Wrestling Coach Barry Johnson was concerned about the Southern Tier Wrestling Officials Association's Holiday Classic Tournament because his Wolves had just 15 practices to prepare for it. 12-2-3-85

But that concern proved to be unnecessary as Kane walked off with three individual crowns and the team title Saturday night in the 21-team tournament at the Jamestown Community College Gymnasium Complex.

"We had just 15 practices and I was worried," Johnson said. "I didn't expect us to do this well because it's early in the season and we haven't had a lot of time to get ready.

"We've got a good team and I think we won it with our experience more than anything else. We've got 11 wrestlers back from last year's team (which was ranked fifth in Pennsylvania). We're not in the best shape and we certainly haven't peaked yet. We won't peak until February hopefully."

Kane got championships from Seth Bloomquist (126), Jack Bell (138), and Duane Blankenship (145). The Wolves placed two others in the finals, Roger Blankenship (155) and Dan Rook (167), but they were beaten and finished second. Frank Bizzak (177) and Joe Lefferds (91) helped out with third and fourth place finishes for the champs.

Kane rolled up 183½ points followed by Sweet Home with 157½, Falconer 144, and Salamanca 143½. The Panthers, Golden Falcons, and Warriors all had two champions while Maple Grove, Iroquois, Kenmore East, Olean, and Ridgway had one apiece.

The Falconer Golden Falcons, who had four finalists, had a surprisingly high third place finish. Falconer coach Bill Davenport said, "I was just hoping to finish in the top eight. We wrestled well — I'm very happy with third place."

Sweet Home claimed its two champions in the first two weight classes.

The Panthers' Bob Jackson won the 91-pound title with a narrow 5-4 victory over top-seeded Troy Lefford of Falconer. Jackson used a reversal and two-point near-fall in the second period to take a 5-4 lead. Lefford in the third period started on top, but couldn't turn Jackson for back points.

Sweet Home's Tom Shifflet claimed the 98-pound championship with an easy 14-0 decision over Falconer's Todd Carson. Shifflet turned Carson over three times for three-point near-falls — one in each period — to lock up the crown.

The Golden Falcons didn't strike out, however, as Chad Waddington beat Kenmore East's Anthony Verdi 4-2. Waddington scored a takedown in the first two periods while Verdi had two escapes. In the final period, both wrestlers started on their feet, but Verdi wasn't able to pull out the victory with a takedown.

In a battle of defending Section 6 champions, Olean Huskies' Jeff Prescott handled Maple Grove's Jim Nalbone 12-1 in the 112-pound class. The match was close until Prescott scored seven points in the final 20 seconds of the second period to take a 10-1 lead. Prescott in that stretch had a takedown along with a two and three-point near-fall.

Todd Tuccio of Maple Grove bunched together five points in the second period and surprised top-seeded Bill Young of Randolph 7-2 in the 119-pound match. Leading 2-1 after one period, Tuccio scored an escape, takedown, and two-point near-fall to register the victory. 12-23-85

In one of the most exciting bouts of the night, Kane's Seth Bloomquist tipped Tim Shifflet of Sweet Home 8-7 in the 126-pound contest. Shifflet had taken a 7-6 lead with an escape with 1:05 remaining in the bout, but Bloomquist scored a takedown with 30 seconds left to pull out the see-saw battle.

At 132, Marc Freda of Kenmore East pinned Cassadaga Valley's Troy Little in 1:18. Little had a 2-0 lead in the first period, but got sloppy when he got high with "legs". The opportunistic Freda pulled Little down and right onto his back.

Kane's Jack Bell got the Wolves' second championship with a 16-6 decision over Warsaw's Matt Grisewood at 138. Bell turned Grisewood twice for three-point near-falls and added two takedowns and two reversals en route to the victory.

Duane Blankenship of Kane whitewashed Cassadaga Valley's Marty Nichols 7-0 in the 145-pound title bout. Blankenship had a 3-0 lead through two periods, but added a takedown and two-point near-fall in the final two minutes to lock up the crown.

Ray Norton of Falconer had all he could handle in Wolves' Roger Blankenship, but managed to record a 4:17 fall. Trailing 2-1 in the third period, Norton got a takedown to take a 3-2 lead and immediately put Blankenship on his back to record the pin.

Tom Kostrzebski of Iroquois had little trouble in handling Kane's Dan Rook 9-0 in the 167-pound match. Kostrzebski had Rook on his back twice in the match and never was really challenged.

Salamanca's Myron Wilson stopped Wellsville's Ike Fanton in 3:44 at 177. With the score tied 2-2 in the second period, Wilson turned Fanton over and pinned him with a body press.

The Warriors' Jess Wilson — Myron's brother — got a title for himself by beating Olean's Greg Mikolajczyk 4-2 in the heavyweight contest. Wilson scored a takedown in the first two periods and that proved to be enough.

In the final match of the night, Ridgway's Dave Hoyt tipped Tony Calamunci of Jamestown 5-4. Hoyt scored the decisive points when he scored a takedown with 30 seconds left in the bout. Calamunci was a tough luck loser since he had shot in for the takedown, but slipped off, allowing Hoyt to score the two-pointer.

Tournament Director Bruce Turner said the officials' first venture into a tourney proved to be successful. "The crowds have been good all along. There was a real nice crowd for the finals. The tournament was definately a success and we will have it next year with at least 24 teams."

Mountie Grapplers Rebound, Upset Greensburg-Salem

PHILISPBURG — Every season has its peaks and valleys, but few teams experience the roller-coaster ride like Philipsburg-Osceola Area High School's wrestlers have.

In what has to rank as one of the most remarkable turnarounds in history by a Progressland team in any sport, the Mounties won their own quadrangular dual meet invitational Saturday, just eight days after a 51-10 loss to Central Conference rival Bald Eagle Area, ambushing Conemaugh Township 30-20 and shocking Greensburg-Salem 33-28.

Greensburg-Salem, which defeated West Hazleton 32-26 in the semifinals, ventured into Central Pennsylvania with the No. 1 ranking in District 7 (WPIAL), but P-O registered five falls and a decision in the first seven bouts to virtually put a lock on the upset.

"It's an especially big win considering our performance in our opening meet," Caslow said.

"When we got beat soundly by BEA, I just asked them to grow by it. And they have. In the last week, they've worked very hard and increased their intensity in both practice and competition.

"We still have a lot of wrestling to do and growing to do, but I'm proud of these kids.

Pacing the Mounties were Harry Lumadue at 119 pounds and Scott Kephart at 138 with two falls apiece, Mark Russell at 132 with a fall and a major decision, Troy Caslow at 126 with a pair of decisons and Rob Emigh at 105 with pin and a draw.

Russell, who had eliminated at 126 earlier in the week, moved into the lineup when Joe Bainey was scratched because of a knee injury. 12-23-85

"Mark was underweight, but he came through with two real big wins, so he deserves a lot of credit," Caslow said.

He extended the kudoes to the entire team.

"We wrestled a good match against Conemaugh Township and a great match against Greensburg-Salem.

"When we wrestled BEA, just about everything that could go wrong did. In the Greensburg-Salem match, just about everything that could go right did, probably with the exception of Trevor Burns' match at 167, where we lost a one-pointer on a penalty point with five seconds to go."

P-O, which has won all four of the quad dual meets it's hosted in the last three seasons, split the 12 bouts with Greensburg-Salem.

The pin totals showed five for the Mounties and three for the Golden Lions.

"We knew that Greensburg-Salem had great upper weights," Caslow said. "They hadn't lost about in the last five weights this year, and all were either 5-0 or 6-0.

"We knew we had to attack and win big down below, and our lightweights went out and did it."

Caslow called Bart Mease's 3:29 pin against Mike Kenney a trend-setter.

Emigh followed suit by decking Shawn Eckenrod in 1:15 at 105.

Harry Lumadue kept working half-nelsons until he finally turned Jack McClelland for a 1:57 fall at 119.

The pivotal bouts occurred at 126 and 132.

Troy Caslow took down Tim Williams twice in the first period and tilted him in the third period for a 7-1 lead, but the once-beaten Golden Lion reversed and just missed a fall. A late escape gave Caslow an 8-6 nod.

"He was very, very nearly pinned," Dave Caslow said of his son. "I mean, he just survived. Had he got pinned there, it would have been such a shame, because he wrestled a great match otherwise."

Russell came through with a dramatic victory at 132. He was losing 5-2 when he reversed David Kass for a pin at 3:11.

Scott Kephart showed Bill Alexander the ceiling in 1:46 at 138, giving P-O a 33-4 advantage.

At that point, the Golden Lions needed five pins to win, but their hopes were dashed at 145, as Mountie Jody Parks went the distance with PIAA qualifier Mark Speal. The Lion countered Parks' deep takedown shots twice for takedowns en route to an 8-2 triumph.

Greensburg-Salem also swept the last four bouts, three by falls, but that only made the score close

Burns had battled back from a 4-1 deficit to tie Dean Garofola with an escape with 10 seconds left, but was called for grabbing the Lion 167-pounder's singlet in a takedown situation and lost 9-8.

Against Conemaugh Township, a sweep by the middleweights gave P-O control.

The meet was deadlocked 8-8 after four bouts, Harry Lumadue building a 15-0 lead for a technical fall over George Haurilak that offset decisions by Indians Dan Kaschak over Mease 4-1 at 98 and Shawn Blank over Paul Kephart 8-2 at 112. Emigh and Scott Fettermen dueled to a 4-4 draw at 105.

Lumadue's pin ignited a five-bout streak by the Mounties.

Troy Caslow exploded for 12 points in the third period to beat Rick Heinrich 17-7.

Russell majored Dave Tremain 10-1 at 132, Scott Kephart pinned Shawn Watkins in 33 seconds at 138 and Parks held off Bill Shroyer 9-6 at 145 to boost P-O's lead to 25-8.

Burns clinched the win via a 4-4 tie with Bryan Thomas at 167.

Denny Lumadue grabbed an early 6-1 lead and was ahead 7-3 in the third period, when he got reversed to his back and pinned by Jerry Miller.

Heavyweight Roger Kephart capped the win by tilting Rick Rager at the buzzer for a 10-8 victory.

"That was an exciting bout, and a big win for Roger" Caslow said. "Rager, I think, was Conemaugh Township's best."

The P-O jayvees also emerged as champions, as they decked Conemaugh Township 53-6 and Greensburg-Salem 50-12.

Doublewinners for the Mountie underclassmen were Gary Sanker (145), Aaron Gustkey (126), Ted Kephart (132), Scott Hoover (155), Brent Kephart (heavyweight), Chuck Bulter (167), Todd Twist (138), Jeff McDonald (98) and Todd Trinidad (119).

Jim Williamson (112) and Mark Condon (105) each had one win.

P-O's varsity and jayvee contingents will travel to Burnham Saturday to join Central Cambria and Dallastown in the Chief Logan Tournament, with semifinals at 1 p.m., consolations at 6:30 and championships to follow.

ALLEGANY — Host Allegany Central School captured its first wrestling tournament title ever Saturday by besting a 10-team field with 173 points.

Tom Norton (6-2) at 119, Ray Ryan (8-0) at 126 and Jim Helman (3-2) at unlimited claimed individual championships for Allegany, which sent three other wrestlers to the finals. 12-23-85

"Hopefully this is a sign of things to come," said Allegany coach Chuck Curley. "The kids did an excellent job. This wasn't like going against Kane and some of the other teams around, but the teams here were pretty well balanced and of comparative ability.

"This was the first tournament victory we've ever had here in some 20 years of wrestling," Curley added. "And it sure helps the moral of the kids."

St. Marys Elk County Christian's 98-pounder, Randy Weisner, carted off the tournament's Most Outstanding Wrestler award after topping Allegany's Mike Benca with a technical-fall 16-0 win in the finals. Weisner won his first two matches with second-period falls before blanking Benca. 12-23-85

Despite Tourney Win, Kane Coach Unsatisfied

By TOM ROOF
Times Herald Sports Writer

Kane High School wrestling coach Barry Johnson says he entered Friday and Saturday's Southern Tier Officials Tournament in Jamestown with two things in mind — to use the tournament as a learning experience and to come out of the 21-team showcase without any injuries. 12-26-85

He wasn't disappointed in either case. But surprisingly, Kane's seventh-year coach wasn't completely satisfied, despite his team picking up a title at least as impressive as the District 9 championship Kane won the past two years.

"I was kind of discouraged that some of our underclassmen didn't come back and place after losing early," Johnson said. "Every kid on the team scored at least a point, but it was our seniors that really carried us through. We had five wrestlers in the finals, and four of them were seniors. Overall, though, there's not too much to be discouraged about."

Kane's win, which it clinched in the semi-finals when it already had 168 points, was typical of the way the tournament went. Although fans were treated to some exceptional wrestling, there were few surprises.

Of the 28 wrestlers that advanced to the finals, 11 were seeded first and seven were seeded second. Salamanca's Wilson brothers, Myron (177) and Jess (215), pulled off the biggest surprises in winning their respective weight classes.

Both were seeded fourth, with Myron pinning third-seeded Ike Fanton of Wellsville and Jess edging unseeded Greg Mikolajczyk of Olean High, 4-2, in the finals. A week earlier at the Williamsville North Tournament, Wilson was an 18-3 winner of Mikolajczyk.

The only other weight classes won by a wrestler not seeded first or second were 91, 132 and 250, where's Ridgway's third-seeded Dave Hoyt nudged top-seeded Tony Calamunci of Jamestown, 5-4. Hoyt, a staunchy 5-10, had to drop 21 pounds to make the 250 cutoff.

NINE BIG 30 teams will be competing in four different tournaments this weekend, while only one of the 27 area schools, Salamanca, has scheduled a dual during this holiday week.

Salamanca (2-0), which leaped two spots to No. 3 in the Times Herald poll, Friday will be at Williamsville North.

The tournament guide:

Dunkirk Tournament: Friday only, beginning at 9:30 a.m. with consolation finals at 6:30 p.m. and finals an hour later . . . 13 teams . . . two Big 30 entries, Gowanda and Randolph . . . defending champion: Dunkirk . . . Favorite: Dunkirk.

Redbank Tournament: Saturday beginning 10 a.m., with consolation finals at 6 p.m. and finals at 7:30 p.m. . . . eight teams, including Brockway . . . defending champs: Redbank Valley . . . Favorite: Greenville.

Bradford Tournament: Saturday beginning at 11 a.m. at Bradford High School. Consolation finals scheduled for 5 p.m. and championship finals for 6 p.m. . . . the school's first varsity tournament . . . arrainged by former head coach George Bay . . . a strong six-team lineup of Port Allegany, St. Marys Public, Coudersport, Wellsville and Bradford High . . . seeding to be done morning of the tournament . . . Favorite: Brookville.

MAT MATTERS: Just two changes in this week's poll — Salamanca, on the strength of two strong tournament showings, replaced St. Marys Public at No. 3. Public slipped to No. 5 after losing to Brookville. . . . Olean High's two-time state place-winner Jeff Prescott (9-0) improved his career record of 74-4 after copping his second tourney title and second outstanding wrestler award of the season Saturday at Jamestown. . . . Ridgway incurred two injuries at JCC, Lee Weber (torn rib muscles) and Jerry Rosenhoover (torn shoulder muscles). Both are expected to be out of the lineup until late January.

Girl Wrestler Gains Acceptance From Her Teammates, Coach

By JOHN DIAZ
Associated Press Writer

JIM THORPE, Pa. (AP) — In a city and a high school named for an American athlete who found the rules of sport as difficult as the competition, a young wrestler has been struggling with both opponents and tradition.

She is Michelle Green, 17, a 126-pound wrestler for Jim Thorpe High School.

Acceptance of a girl in the once all-male domain of high school wrestling has come slowly in this scenic, snow-coated region of the Pocono Mountains.

At the start of the season, coach Rich Flacco said, few members of the Jim Thorpe High squad would wrestle with Green in practice. Now, he said, most of Green's teammates willingly help her with techniques and offer encouragement.

Having seen wrestling programs dropped for lack of interest at other similarly-sized high schools, Flacco took a pragmatic view of Green's tryout.

"If we're going to have a wrestling program, we gotta have bodies," said the coach, who must fill 24 varsity and junior varsity positions from a student body of about 300.

Others have not shared Flacco's tolerance.

Ed Papernan, a columnist for the local MidWeeker, wrote, "Pinch me, it has to be a bad dream." The Northwestern Lehigh School Board ordered Pleasant Valley High School to forfeit a bout, rather than put a boy wrestler against Green.

Pleasant Valley wrestling Coach Ken Santoro said his first response was to take on the challenge by sending a wrestler out with orders to "rip her arm off." But he eventually agreed with the board's decision, on the feeling the match might create an awkward situation for a wrestler at an age where some boys are still nervous around girls.

"Some kids at that age have never kissed a girl, and they're supposed to go out there and wrestle her?" said Santoro.

Although a lean roster has forced Santoro's team to forfeit up to six out of 12 varsity matches this year, he said he would oppose having a girl on his team. He doubted whether a girl could endure a rigorous practice session.

"We're talking about a good cross face, bloody noses, ripped skin from really grabbing into a hold ... " he said.

Flacco dismisses any suggestion that a female opponent might confuse a male wrestler's competitive instincts.

"If anything, I think they would be wrestling tooth and nail because they don't want to get beat by a girl," said Flacco, who was a 112-pound high school wrestler at Cheltenham, Pa.

When Jim Thorpe school official Virginia Wells-Smith was informed of the Pleasant Valley decision, she said she understood the "no-win situation" an inter-sex match might pose for a boy wrestler.

"Either they will be accused of beating up on a girl in a bout or they would be totally embarrassed should they lose a decision to a girl," she said.

So far, none of Green's opponents has had to face the agony of such a defeat, although her Palmerton High opponent endured some hooting from the crowd when the match went into the second period. Her only victory came in the Pleasant Valley forfeit.

Green, the wrestling team's statistician last year, said she likes "rough sports." Her first choice was football, but she figured a 126-pound girl would have no chance of making the team. Encouraged by her boyfriend from last year's team, 18-year-old Lance Malatak, she chose wrestling.

The attention has occasionally been irritating, she said, such as the reporter who asked her "questions about my makeup, things like that ... nothing about wrestling."

But Green readily acknowledges a close-contact sport like wrestling, with combatants frequently intertwined in pretzel-like maneuvers, carries the potential for awkwardness in a match between the sexes.

"Sure, there's a few moves that I would be embarrassed to use," she said. "You avoid those unless you absolutely have to."

Flacco said Green has been going through the normal learning process of a novice wrestler. And she has company on the Olympians, who are 0-5 in dual matches.

"Some coaches say their team is young and inexperienced, but don't really mean it," Flacco said, while in the background the team goes through a warmup regimen equally suitable for wrestling or breakdancing — a rapid succession of crab-like walks, gorilla-like lopes and snail-like crawls.

"We have an inexperienced team," he adds. "Young or old, they're inexperienced."

The practice sessions, held in the school cafeteria, are loose-knit and spirited, and Green always has a partner. Like the other wrestlers, Green receives shouted sideline instructions from Flacco and tips from her partner while they're engaged in neck holds.

On the mat, gender seems to disappear. Green is treated like any other wrestler in gray sweats.

During one break, Green's partner shakes off his headgear, pops open the cafeteria door and lets out a loud whistle.

"Who was that?" another wrestler asks.

"Cheerleaders," he replies.

Enjoyable Outing

How often do we as employees say thank you to our employers? Not often enough.

I believe I speak for everyone at Olean Wholesale when I say thank you to Jim Robinson, Dick Karle and all others contributing to a most generous and enjoyable outing for employees and family alike.

In the past, the company outings have been nice. This year's clambake-pig roast was exceptional. The additional use of a swimming pool and golf course contributed greatly to this years gala event.

At times, companies will trim their budgets of all excessive fat. Good company employee relations do not always thrive with the stroke of a scapel.

From the other side of the coin, we as employees should not always expect a golden lining in everything we receive.

Thank you again, Olean Wholesale, for a Shurfine clambake and pig roast.

Change A Shame

I agree with Mr. Guenther that the change of format from country to rock music by WBJZ is a shame.

I would think that the sponsors, who "pay the freight," would realize that a country audience would be quite large and desirable, considering that WBJZ was the only FM station providing country music in this area.

As Mr. Guenther noted, people who prefer rock music can pick and choose from several area stations, both AM and FM.

I would think it would make economic sense to have a monopoly on an entire segment of the listening public.

Come on, WBJZ and sponsors, think about it . . . Go Country!

Country Music

Another viewpoint in regards to the loss of the country music in Olean.

Was there ever a poll taken to actually obtain statistics as to the number of listeners who would be affected when WBJZ was so abruptly discontinued?

In the many businesses, plants and cars one always heard the soothing country music. In the past three to four years, I spent many hours on the road between work and furthering my education. WBJZ was my constant companion. Now one has to keep changing the dial to find good music. My husband works in a local plant — WBJZ was always on — now the radio is rarely on.

I agree with Mr. Guenther and the other writers — country music tells a story and can often be related to one's personal situations. One can sing, whistle, laugh or cry to country music.

As Mr. Guenther said, "Turn to Jamestown 101.5FM." I can't get that station on my car radio but Buffalo's 107.7FM and 93FM are good.

I only listen to our Olean stations for local news and weather and short intervals of music.

The local merchants should realize that all these people who are now turning their dials to out of town music will be hearing out of town advertisements which in turn will attract them to shop in those localities.

Leo's Retirement Dinner

They gathered Thursday at Raphael's Restaurant in Lakeland to honor Leo Johnson and his 25 years as a scholastic wrestling coach.

There were men he coached, from a few years ago at Baldwinsville to 25 years ago at East Syracuse-Minoa, where Johnson began his career as a new Cortland State graduate. There were men he coached with and against, men who'd been inspired by his success — a 306-42-5 dual meet record, eight Section Three champion teams, a multitude of Onondaga North, sectional and state champs — to get their own programs in gear.

There were Cortland State teammates and fraternity brothers, some of whom eventually coached against him: Watertown's Bob Riddall, South Jefferson's Steve Jackowski, Johnson City's Jack Stanbro, Oswego's Elmer Ackley.

Johnson retired before this season, turning the reigns over to his long-time assistant, Terry Dillon. He's devoting all of his time to his job as B'ville athletic director.

Some of the comments from the podium:

"He taught all of us to be better coaches and better people. . . . One of the nicest things you could say to this man — when you see him in the halls or downtown or wherever — is not, 'Hi, Leo' or 'Hi, Mr. Johnson' but 'Hi, Coach.'" — Jackowski.

"I don't even know why I'm here; I'd rather have been at the Syracuse University basketball game." — Fayetteville-Manlius boys basketball coach Walt Munze, one of Johnson's fraternity brothers who coached basketball at ES-M when Johnson was the wrestling coach.

"Tonight, we are retiring a legend. . . . There are so many stories, so many memories — the wins over Fulton, Canastota, Canandaigua, Port Jervis. But it's not the championships you remember, it's Leo's impact on people. . . . It was always amazing to watch (Johnson) show his favorite moves to his opposition. That, and his mastery of psychology — the hoods on during warmup, the music, the mind over the body. These were his trademarks." — John Clark, wrestling coach at St. Lawrence University, and Johnson's long-time fishing buddy.

Holiday Tourney Wrap-up, Dual Meet Picks

Holiday Tourney Wrap-Up

Several top-flight scholastic wrestling tournaments were conducted around the state over the Christmas-New Year's Day holidays, the most notable being at Manheim and Williamsport.

At the 15th annual Lions Club Tournament at Manheim Central High School near Lancaster, 12 top teams, including Pennsylvania powers Easton, Meadville, Bald Eagle Area, Erie Prep, Canon-McMillan, Dover and Downingtown joined out-of-state entries Sparta, N.J., and Mount St. Joe's of Baltimore, Md., for a big shootout. 1-3-85

When the smoke cleared, Easton, a newcomer to the potent tournament field, surprised many by capturing top honors. Easton amassed 133½ points to slip past Meadville, which tallied 125½. Bald Eagle Area finished a solid third with 113½.

Erie Prep, which opened the 1984-85 season with a stunning 36-25 dual meet victory over Meadville, which was riding a 30-match unbeaten streak, wound up in fourth place with 112½ points. Rounding out the top five teams in the prestigious event was defending champion Dover, which had 84½ points.

Easton received a big boost towards its eventual team title in the semifinal round when heavyweight John Avia won by disqualification over heavily-favored and defending champion Robbie Benjamin of Canon-McMillan.

As the two sparred for position during the early part of their match, contact was made and some rough-housing occured. Suddenly, Avia went flying across the mat backwards, the benefactor of a Benjamin punch that resulted in the Big Mac's ejection from the tourney and loss of valuable team points as well.

That occurrence, coupled with two head-to-head finals losses to Easton wrestlers, dashed all title hopes for Meadville, which entered the tourney as the heavy favorite.

Meadville did get some satisfaction though as two-time Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association placewinner Sean O'Day blasted returning tourney champ and PIAA medalist Jim Langstaff of Dover in the 138-pound finals to cop outstanding wrestler honors for the District 10 powerhouse. 1-3-85

The championship results:

98—Steve Millward, Bald Eagle Area, dec. Kevin Bricker, Dover, 6-5. 105—Ron Rothka, Canon-McMillan, major dec. Doug Taylor, Bald Eagle Area, 12-4. 112—Jack Cuvo, Easton, superior dec. Melvin Toran, Erie Prep, 20-8. 119—Mike Seese, Downingtown, dec. Tim Rothka, Canon-McMillan, 7-3. 126—Steve Pagliughi, Sparta (N.J.), dec. Dave Kruszewski, 7-4. 132—Don Peters, Bald Eagle Area, dec. Rick Weis, Erie Prep, 9-2.

138—Sean O'Day, Meadville, dec. Jim Langstaff, Dover, 12-5. 145—Jerry Hulbert, Easton, major dec. Todd Fisher, Solance, 18-8. 155—Jeff Karam, Easton, dec. Mike McHenry, Meadville, 5-4.

167—Trevor Hershey, Lower Dauphin, major dec. Jeff Haupt, Erie Prep, 17-6. 185—Kevin Benton, Easton, dec. Arley Smith, Meadville, 14-10. Hwt—Dave Knapp, Meadville, won by disqualification (stalling) over John Avia, Easton.

While the fur was flying at Manheim, things were going pretty much to form at the annual 16-team Top Hat Wrestling Tournament at Williamsport High School.

Pretty much to form meant that pre-tourney favorite Lakewood St. Joseph's High School of Cleveland, Ohio, the nation's top-ranked high school wrestling team, was destroying the opposition with ease in rolling to its third straight onesided victory in as many appearances.

The tourney is aptly called "St. Ed's versus the world" as no team in the country can match the Eagles man-for-man in the talent department. Keystone State power Shikellamy did manage to crown four individual champions to the winners' six and dent their pride somewhat, but not enough to derail the "Ohio Express," which has not lost in the past seven years. 1-3-85

District 11 power Bethlehem Liberty crowned the two returning champs to make it a three-school show on king's row.

Rumor has it that the Ohio superpower will not be invited back next year because the competing teams are complaining that they are beaten before the first tournament whistle ever sounds, and who wants to enter a tourney to battle it out for runner-up honors?

Defending PIAA state champ Tony Reed of Shikellamy, up three classes from his 1984 championship weight of 105 pounds, rolled to four onesided victories, including a 19-5 finals victory over Jersey Shore's Dan Packer to cop OW honors. Reed's teammate, John Supsic, made tourney history by becoming the first wrestler ever to earn four Top Hat crowns when he defeated Jersey Shore's Randy Lorson in the 119-pound finals.

The team standings: 1. St. Ed's, 223 points; 2. Shikellamy, 152; 3. Bethlehem Liberty, 89; 4. Jersey Shore, 88½; 5. Williamsport, 86; 6. Berwick, 81½; 7. Lock Haven, 81; 8. Altoona, 70; 9. Mifflinburg, 62; 10. West York, 56; 11. Washington, 48½; 12. Ridgway, 32½; 13. Milton, 28; 14. Hollidaysburg, 22; 15. Saucon Valley, 20½.

The championship results:

98—Bob Supsic, Shikellamy, dec. Dan McIntyre, Bethlehem Liberty, 5-4. 105—Kevin Biggs, St. Ed's, superior dec. Billy Orr, Altoona, 23-8. 112—Jack Macko, St. Ed's, dec. Scott Beaver, Berwick, 9-5. 119—John Supsic, Shikellamy, dec. Randy Lorson, Jersey Shore, 14-7. 126—Tony Reed, Shikellamy, superior dec. Dan Packer, Jersey Shore, 19-5. 132—Bubba Straus, St. Ed's, major dec. Paul Gemberling, Shikellamy, 13-4.

138—Mike Carpenter, St. Ed's, dec. Bill Berry, Williamsport, 8-7. 145—Gino Capuano, Bethlehem Liberty, dec. Thane Turner, Lock Haven, 4-4, 2-1 (ot). 155—Joe Burke, Shikellamy, dec. Tad Ungard, Williamsport, 10-6. 167—Mike Mason, St. Ed's, major dec. Dave Reed, Altoona, 13-2. 185—Chris Welsh, St. Ed's, superior dec. Wilmer Pressel, West York, 16-3. Hwt—Elliott Cox, Bethlehem Liberty, pinned Chris Crissman, Lock Haven, 5:31.

Would you beleive a college team with a 1-5 dual meet record is ranked in the nation's Top 10?

That's the case with Penn State. The Nittany Lions are off to one of their worst starts in history, but Coach Rich Lorenzo isn't pushing the panic button.

Here's the story behind the story.

The Lions suffered December losses at home to No. 1-ranked Iowa and No. 4 Iowa State. After a respectable sixth-place showing at the Midlands over the Christmas holidays, the Lions took to the road and suffered consecutive losses to No. 2 Oklahoma, No. 3 Oklahoma State and No. 5 Wisconsin, the latter coming Monday night by a 28-6 score.

That's five losses to the nation's top five teams! Hopefully, the worst is behind for Lorenzo and his young Lion squad as they now prepare for the last half of the year and the post-season tournaments.

In-Case-You-Missed-It Department

•Clarion University crowned two champions in the 52nd annual Wilkes Open Tournament over the Christmas holidays. Former Shikellamy PIAA Class AAA champ Nate Carter and 1984 NCAA placewinner Jim Beichner won titles for coach Bob Bubb's Golden Eagles, Carter at 158 pounds and Beichner at 190.

Several former region wrestlers were also victorious at the event called the "Rose Bowl of Wrestling" in the East.

Former Tyrone PIAA Class AA champ Bruce Wallace captured top honors at 177 pounds while Altoona's Johnny Orr, the 1984 NCAA runner-up for Princeton University, reigned supreme at 142 pounds. Orr was also selected as the event's outstanding wrestler after blasting former Wilkes Open champ Kurt Rowlette in the finals by an 18-4 score.

———

•While Clarion was grappling at Wilkes, Penn State journeyed to the midwest to compete in the nation's most presitigious wrestling event, the Midlands Open at Northwestern University.

The Lions, who placed sixth as a team, had five placewinners — Ken Chertow fourth at 118, Tim Flynn fourth at 126, redshirt Eric Brugel fifth at 177, John Manotti sixth at 134 and Andy Volt sixth at 190.

Former Philipsburg-Osceola Area High School standout Mark Sidorick, the Lions regular 167-pounder as a freshman, competed but failed to place in a loaded weight class.

———

•The PIAA Board of Control recently approved the immediate transfer of Somerset Area High School (Class AAA) from District 5 to District 6 in wrestling. The Eagles already compete in District 6 in most other sports.

The move leaves Bedford as the lone Class AAA wrestling team in District 5, meaning the Districts 5-9 Class AAA Tournament will be reduced to six teams again.

In other District 6 changes, Central High School has dropped back to Class AA after competing in AAA for the past two seasons, and Central Cambria moves back up to Class AAA this year after competing on the AA level last season.

Up in District 10, Fort LeBoeuf and Corry, longtime AA wrestling powers, find themselves competing on the AAA level for the first time this season.

East-West Lineups Announced

Five Eastern Wreslting League (EWL) grapplers were recently selected to represent the East squad in the 19th annual East-West College All-Star Meet Monday, Feb. 4, on the campus of Utah State University in Logan, Utah.

EWL wrestlers named to the 1985 East squad include Ricky Bonomo (118) of Bloomsburg, Rocky Bonomo (126) of Bloomsburg, Greg Elinsky (158) of Penn State, Jim Beichner (190) of Clarion and Rick Petersen (heavyweight) of Lock Haven.

"This is a real shot in the arm for the Eastern Wrestling League," Penn State coach Rich Lorenzo said. "What really catches the eye is the fact that four of the five wrestlers will be returning next year. All five are quality wrestlers." 1-24-85

Petersen is the senior, while Beichner is a junior and the other three are sophomores.

What is even more pleasing to Lorenzo is that he will be coaching the East team.

"It's a thrill," he said. "I'm looking forward to being more involved. From all indications, it's a real good experience for the wrestlers and everyone that's associated with the meet. The purpose of the All-Star meet is to match the best from the West against the best from the East and to give collegiate wrestling the proper recognition it deserves.

Lorenzo, who guided the Nittany Lions to a third-place finish at the 1984 NCAA Championships, will team with Larry Kristoff of Southern Illinois-Edwardsville on the East bench.

The West coaches will be Bob Kopnisky of Missouri and former Penn Stater Steve Erber, who is head coach at SUNH-Binghamton, a Division III school in New York.

The tenative lineups are as follows with the East team wrestlers listed first.

118 — Ricky Bonomo, Bloomsburg, vs Mark Perry, Oklahoma State.

126 — Rocky Bonomo, Bloomsburg, vs Barry Davis, Iowa. 1-24-85

134 — Jim Jordan, Wisconsin, vs John Smith, Oklahoma State.

142 — John Orr, Princeton, vs Joe Gibbons, Iowa State.

150 — Dave Holler, Illinois State, vs Jim Heffernan, Iowa.

158 — Greg Elinsky, Penn State, vs Marty Kistler, Iowa.

167 — Kevin Jackson, Louisiana State, vs Lindley Kistler, Iowa.

177 — Booker Benford, SIU-Edwardsville, vs Melvin Douglas, Oklahoma.

190 — Jim Beichner, Clarion, vs Duane Goldman, Iowa.

Hwt — Rick Peterson, Lock Haven, vs Gary Albright, Nebraska.

Coaching Legend Retires

Harold Nichols, one of the nation's all-time winningest wrestling caoches, announced last week that he is resigning after 32 years at Iowa State University effective at the end of the current season.

Nichols has compiled a 436-68-11 record during his tenure at Iowa State and a 473-86-14 mark over his 36-year collegiate coaching career.

Under Nichols, six Cyclone wrestling squads won NCAA team championships. In addition, his teams finished second 11 times, and prior to last season, never placed worse than fourth in the past 20 years. This year's squad is 9-1 and ranked fifth in the country. 1-24-85

Nichols has produced 37 NCAA champions, 89 Big Eight champions and seven Olympians, including Iowa University and 1984 U.S. Olympic team coach Dan Gable, who won two NCAA titles under Nichols and a gold medal in the 1972 Olympic Games in Munich, West Germany.

It Really Is a Small World

Ken Barr and Orvis Kline were teammates on Clearfield Area High School wrestling squads in the late 1950s, parted company after graduation and then renewed acquaintances when they wound up finding employment near Philadelphia.

Barr has been a teacher-coach at Upper Darby High School since earning his degree from Pitt, while Kline, an engineer for Bell Telephone (now Bell Atlantic), moved to Brookhaven from the Harrisburg area about 10 years ago.

Kline remained active in wrestling as a PIAA official and currently is rules interpreter for the Southeast Pennsyvania Chapter.

Last Saturday, their sons met in a dual meet between Sun Valley and Upper Darby, Paul Kline defeating Casey Barr 9-4 to help the Vanguards improve their record to 11-0 with a 51-8 victory.

Rematches are highly probable since they are junior 145-pounders. 1-24-85

In August, Kline traveled to Jacksonville, Fla., to compete in the AAU-USA Junior Olympics for the first time, and he returned with a bronze medal, placing third at 149½ pounds in the Greco-Roman advanced division. Kline battled his way through the loser's bracket into the medal rouind before being defeated by defending national champion John Harms of Dayton, Ohio. Kline also wrestled in the freestyle division but did not place.

Orvis Kline is a son of Dorothy Kline of Clearfield and the late Orvis Kline. Ken Barr, who was a standout wrestler for Pitt, is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Barr Sr. of Clearfield.

PIAA Champ Transfers

Carlton Haselrig, the history-making 1984 Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association Class AAA heavyweight wrestling champion from Greater Johnstown High School, recently left Lock Haven University and has transferred to the University of Pittsburgh at Johnstown.

Haselrig, also a standout football player, cited unhappiness and homesickness as the reasons for his transfer. 1-31-85

Haselrig, the first PIAA champ to win a state title without a school-sponsored program, enrolled at Lock Haven last fall and was forced to sit out the 1984 football season with a knee injury. He was scheduled to receive a medical redshirt for the 1984-85 wrestling season.

"I think if he had been able to compete, those factors would have been less," said Lock Haven coach Neil Turner, a former wrestler and head coach at Clearfield Area High School. "We did everything we could possibly do for him and he'd be the first one to admit it, but I guess he just wasn't happy here. If it's best for him, we certainly have no malice on our part."

EWL Tickets on Sale

Reserved seat tickets for the 1985 Eastern Wrestling League Tournament at Lock Haven University's Thomas Field House on Friday and Saturday, March 1 and 2, are on sale.

A reserved series ticket, which is good for all four sessions, may be ordered by sending a check for the $16, which also will cover postage and handling, to: EWL Championships, Director of Athletics, Lock Haven University, Lock Haven, Pa. 17745.

The tournament will begin at noon on March 1 with the quarterfinals, followed by the semifinals and first-round consolations at 7 p.m. Action resumes on March 2 at noon with final consolations matches, followed by the championship finals at 7:30 p.m.

The EWL will send 27 wrestlers to the National Collegiate Athletic Association Championships which will be held at the Myriad Arena in Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, on March 14-16.

The 20 finalists and seven wild-card selections from the consolations will qualify for college wrestling's biggest meet. Competing teams in this year's event include Bloomsburg, Lock Haven, Clarion, Cleveland State, West Virginia, Pittsburgh, Millersville, and defending team champion Penn State.

Runner's log

Jim "Jimmy" MAHAR

By Paul Astorino

MARCH 7: Thirty degrees below zero with wind chill factor, was going to go long, but too cold. Sunday will be nice, so we'll go then. The run felt good after yesterday's hard eight. Nautilus after run. TOTAL: six miles.

MARCH 8: Easy day today to get ready for tomorrow's run. Weather better, no wind, but only three degrees out. Sore from lifting, but legs fresh. TOTAL: seven miles.

MARCH 9: Long run today—still sore from lifting Friday. No real problems on the run, the hills took their toll though, go easy tomorrow. TOTAL: 17 miles.

□□□

Sounds like a lot of miles, but throw in Nautilus three times a week, free weights at home, aerobics a couple of times a week and you've got the training schedule of sophomore Jim Mahar. It is a rigorous schedule, but Mahar adheres to it day in and day out without fanfare.

Mahar's high school didn't have track or cross-country, so when he began running, it was for fitness.

"Jim is a fierce racer," freshman teammate Tony Miele said. "He's one of those guys who will run his hardest even if he feels like he can't go another step."

Mahar's competiveness and quiet leadership prompted cross-country coach Terry Stanley to name him co-captain of the team after only his second season.

"Although Jim isn't as experienced as some of the other runners, they know he is a true leader," Stanley said.

Mahar leads the same way he does everything else—without bringing much attention to himself.

"I told him last season he had to increase his leg speed, so he worked on the track and did extra drills over the summer, and quietly came into the season a different runner," Stanley explained.

The track and roads aren't the only places Mahar excells. Last semester, the finance major received his lowest grade at St. Bonaventure, a 'B+'.

"Getting good grades isn't one of those things I think about," Mahar said. "My grades have opened doors for me, but they just sort of come about."

By 'opening doors,' Mahar means that he is on a full-tuition academic scholarship at St. Bonaventure.

"I had other academic scholarship offers, but none as good as here," Mahar said.

Some people might be surprised that such an accomplished student and athlete can come from a small western New York community like Olean.

"The only real drawback is that I live at home so I'm not around for the social life, but I'll catch up," Mahar explained. "People don't know I'm from Olean unless I tell them. I guess that's because I don't have any flannel shirts." Mahar said.

The conditions for a long run were good that day. As he and three others trudged past mile seven, with 10 more to go, an unusual outburst came from the back of the pack.

"You're not really going to write that article, are you?" Mahar asked.

Towards the top of Mt. Herman, now 10 miles out, seven left, there was another unusual outburst from the back of the pack.

"Hell hath no fury like this hill," Mahar gasped.

Another voice was heard. "Oh, he is human after all."

GENEVA — Second-seeded Darrold Brownell of Wellsville defeated two-time defending champ and No. 1 seed Mark Ahonen of Victor, 8-3, to capture the 145-pound title in the Section 5 Class B high school wrestling championships here Saturday.

The decision advanced Brownell (29-4) to this weekend's Section 5 overall championships at Brockport State College, where he'll be joined by teammate Kim Doane, a runner-up Saturday in the 105-pound class.

The championship was Brownell's second, after he won the 138-pound title last season. He now has 121 career wins. The setback dropped Ahonen to 22-2.

Doane, seeded second, was a runner-up for the second straight year. Keeping Doane (24-8) from gaining his first Class B title was third-seeded Pat Serafino of Palmyra-Macedon, with a 10-4 championship round decision.

Three other Wellsville wrestlers also placed, but did not earn a trip to Brockport (only top three finishers in each weight class advanced). They were freshman Jim Kling (fourth at 91), senior Doug Granger (fourth at 126) and eighth-grader Harold Peterson (sixth at 98).

GENESEO — Sophomore 119-pounder Mike Dunsmore won his third championship and junior Jim McDonald claimed the 112-pound title to help Bolivar Central School to second place in the team standings of the Section 5 Class D Wrestling Tournament here Saturday.

Dunsmore (25-6) pinned Alfred-Almond's Lynn Herrick in the finals, while McDonald, pinning his way through the tournament, decked Savona's third-seeded Chris McCann for his championship. Both Dunsmore and McDonald were seeded first.

Lyndonville won the team championship with 116 points with Bolivar (114), Geneseo (111½), Red Creek (91½) and Campbell (69) rounding out the top-five in the 20-team event.

Ellis to Defend State Title After Victory in Sectionals

By SAL MAIORANA
Special to The News

FREDONIA — Clarence senior Jeff Ellis, the current 215-pound New York State wrestling champion, will get the opportunity to defend his crown next week in Syracuse after winning the Section VI championship here Saturday evening.

Ellis, performing in front of a packed house at Dods Hall on the campus of Fredonia State College, won by default over Williamsville South senior Andy Utz, when Utz injured his shoulder at the 2:25 mark and could not continue. 2-24-85

At the time of the injury, Ellis held a 7-0 lead and had just missed winning the match at the end of the firs period. He pinned Utz but it came just as the buzzer sounded to end the period.

Ellis, who has been contacted by the top Division I wrestling schools in the country, knew he was in control from the outset.

"After I got ahead, he pretty much gave up," Ellis said. "I guess he hurt his shoulder but I was pretty far ahead."

Ellis could become the third Western New York wrestler to win two state titles next week at the Syracuse War Memorial. The other were Clar Anderson of Olean in 1980 and Kyle Grunwald of Pioneer in 1977.

"I hope I can do it, I've really worked hard for it," Ellis said. "I think I have a good shot because I think I am in the best of condition of anyone in my weight-class. I feel confident."

While Ellis was cementing his reputation as the best wrestler in the region, Olean staked a claim to the top spot in Section VI wrestling.

The Huskies placed six wrestlers in the semifinal and three in tqw finals. And Jeff Prescott at 98 lbs., Steve Irving at 119 and Jeff Gabler at 167 all came away with victories earning them each trips to the state meet.

"I couldn't be happier," Olean Coach Jim Myers said. "Three wrestlers in the states and I think all three are capable of placing next week."

Prescott, a sophomore with a 33-0 record, pinned Kevin Day of Iroquois at the 2:18 mark. Irving won a close and controversial decision over Albion's Rawn Mitchell, 4-3, and Gabler easily out maneuvered Bill Kopera of Niagara-Wheatfield to give Olean the clean sweep.

Irving beat Mitchell when the referee awarded him one point because Mitchell was allegedly stalling. The call was made with just eight seconds remaining in the match and it incensed Albion Coach Steve Piccierilli.

"Both of them were wrestling aggressively at the time," he said. "And to make that call with just eight seconds to go, I just can't understand it. The kids should decide the match, not the referees."

In the 112-pound class, Falconer senior Rob Waddington pinned Sweet Home junior Tim Shifflet at the 1:36 mark to earn his fifth consecutive trip to the state meet. He qualified as an eighth-grader and all four years in high school.

"I thought that if I really worked him, I could pin him," Waddington said. "I think I have a good shot at the states."

Depew's Daryl Gattuso won the outstanding wrestler award after his exciting 10-7 victory over Falconer's Joel Sepak. Gattuso, a senior with a 21-2-1 record, scored a deciding take-down with 18 seconds left to wrap up the tight match.

Sweet Home senior Kevin Bos won the sportsmanship award as he defeated Falconer's Ray Norton at 145 pounds, 12-7.

In other matches, Lou Roselli of Albion outpointed Kenmore East's Anthony Verdi, 14-7, at 91 pounds. Maple Grove's Jim Nalbone, the runner-up last year, defeated top seed Matt Haberl of Maryvale at 105 pounds, 6-4, with a late take-down.

Jon Vesper of Clarence surprised Marty Nichols of Cassadaga Valley with a pin after just 44 seconds of the 132 pound bout.

Tom O'Brachts of Orchard Park shut out Roy Hart's Ken Coppella, 4-0, and Williamsville North's Tom Chirayeth edged Ron Kostrbzebski of Iroquois, 10-8, in the 177-pound class.

At 155 pounds, Steve Penhollow of Cassadaga Valley defended his sectional crown with a 9-1 decision of Dan Uhteg of Clarence and, at 250 pounds, Bryan Schoenle of Williamsville South outclassed Falconer's Tony Milliner, 14-2, in the final match of the night.

Four St. Francis wrestlers advanced to the state wrestling championships next weekend in Syracuse with victories over New York City area opponents in the Catholic High School State Championships at St. Francis. 2-24-85

Winning Red Raiders were: Junior Jim Taube (32-2 this year) at 167 pounds, senior Chris Cromwell (30-2) at 155, senior Brian Attea (24-5) at 132 and sophomore Chuck Wall (29-5) at 112. Junior Tom Cinelli (22-2) of DeSales was the Msgr. Martin Association's other winner, at 138.

St. Francis, the Msgr. Martin Association champion the last five years, also won the team title, the first area team to do so in the five years of the event. Taube was co-most valuable wrestler with Nick

Sectional mat tourney site gets mixed reviews

War Memorial booked; Cicero-NS gym too small

At last Saturday's Section Three wrestling tournament, coaches and spectators spent as much time talking about how hard it was to see the action as they did about the action itself.

The tournament is usually at the Onondaga County War Memorial. But this year, the section's wrestling committee decided to move the tournament back a week, making it two weeks from the state tournament where it's usually one.

Boys High School

By Scott Conroe

The problem: the War Memorial was booked for an outdoor show. The solution: move the tournament to the Cicero-North Syracuse High School gym. The result: mixed. 2-24-85

When the bleachers filled by 11 a.m., and people continued to arrive, a mat was rolled and another set of bleachers was rolled .t. This was repeated in the afternoon but things were still cramped all day.

The problem of where to have postseason scholastic competitions, and the crowds they attract, is an annual one.

"The War Memorial and Manley Fieldhouse were taken, and the Utica War Memorial isn't ready to be used yet," said section wrestling chairman Art Hirt. "We thought that gym would be big enough. I hope we get the War Memorial next year."

Section Three's boys basketball committee had a similar problem when Manley, the site in recent years of the six sectional finals, wasn't available. The finals will be at LeMoyne College and Hamilton College.

"We wanted to have the finals in other cities this year," sectional basketball chairman Ken Huffman said. "We decided that a final between schools from Syracuse and Utica would be at Hamilton, a final between schools from Syracuse and Jefferson County would be at Jefferson Community College. Only a final between two Syracuse schools will be in this area.

"Manley was unavailable because of the Big East women's basketball tournament, so that left us with other area colleges. Colleges are always preferable, because of their parking facilities and because there's a little more charisma for a high school athlete when he plays in a college gym."

Notes from the Section Three wrestling tournament: Liverpool senior Dan Drake's championship at 145 pounds was marred by controversy. He beat Rome Free Academy's Mike Madonia, 8-7, but Madonia's coaches insisted the score should have been 8-8, sending the match into overtime. ... One of the happiest champions was Central Square's George Korthas (250). Korthas became ill with viral meningitis a few weeks ago during a trip to Pennsylvania and had to build his weight from 209 back to its normal 230 pounds, then stay strong enough to wrestle. "I thought my career was over," Korthas said before the opening round of the tournament. ... There were upsets at 167, where sixth-seeded Rich Gandino of Liverpool beat second-seeded John Pluff of Altmar-Parish-Williamstown in the quarterfinals; and at 145, where top seed Doug Nagy of Beaver River defeated two opponents in devastating style, then lost in the semifinals to Drake. ... The section's coaches for the state meet will be Fulton's Wayne Bleau, Jordan-Elbridge's Mike Frood and Canastota's Jack Romagnoli, instead of the ones listed last week.

Auburn's Kevin Friedel, Fowler's Curtis Taylor, Bishop Grimes' Jim Lavelle and Bishop Cunningham's Jeff Baker were Onondaga High School League scoring champions this season.

Friedel, a junior, averaged 18.5 points per game in Onondaga North A Division competition. Behind him: Baldwinsville senior Steve Miller (17.9), West Genesee senior Mike Sylvia (17.8), Corcoran junior Julius Edwards (16.9).

Taylor, a senior, scored 24.5 points a game in the OHSL North B Division. Oswego senior Steve Jermyn (19.6) and Central Square's Scott Davis (17.5) followed him.

Finishing behind senior Lavelle's 20.3 points a game were Skaneateles' Mark Delaney (19.9) and Solvay's Eric Bressett (17.6). Chasing senior Baker's 21.3 points per game in the OHSL South were Pulaski's Herm Jordal (16.1), Port Byron's Brian McBride (15.6) and Weedsport senior Tim Peterson (15.5).

Steve Parker began to photograph wrestling in the late 1960's, when he was helping to coach the sport at Fayetteville-Manlius.

This weekend, Parker will be the official photographer at the state wrestling tournament for the 15th year. On color film, he'll capture the six placewinners in each of the 14 weight classes, the champions themselves (individually and as a group), the most outstanding wrestler and maybe the team champion.

Photographer Steve Parker will be matside for state wrestling meet.

Since 1971, about 1,000 athletes have posed for Parker at the state tournament. They include 1984 Olympic champions Ed and Lou Banach of Port Jervis (state titlists at 167 in 1973 and at 177 in 1977, respectively) and Jeff Blatnick of Schenectady's Niskayuna High School (215 in 1975).

Parker, 38, has also photographed the Section Three tournament during the same period and has worked for Syracuse University and Carrier Dome management, among others.

"I think about how fortunate I've been to see these great athletes," says Parker, who teaches photography at F-M. "Probably my biggest memory is of the dual meet in 1976 where Baldwinsville ended Union-Endicott's win streak (at 66). It was one of the best sports events I ever saw.

"You'd be surprised how many of the wrestlers I remember. And kids will recognize me — kids I photographed three or four years earlier. They'll come up and say hello."

The Cortland-Homer hockey team is trying to raise $36,000 for a trip to Sweden next year. The Golden Eagles, composed of players from Cortland and Homer high schools, have been invited to play at Akersstyebebruk, Sweden, in December 1985. They would play host to a Swedish team the following year. Their fund-raising efforts have included car washes, a pancake breakfast and a softball tournament.

Olean: A Strong Third

Olean High School failed to defend its team title in the Williamsville North Tournament on Saturday, but its third-place finish shouldn't be taken as a slip in performance. 12-17-84

If anything, Olean (1-0) had a better all-around tournament this year than when it bested runner-up Salamanca by more than 60 points last year. Olean had 11 placewinners — 12 counting unlimited — in giving Clarence and Canandaigua, considered two of New York's finest, a run for the title.

Meanwhile, in other tournament action involving Big 30 teams, Alfred-Almond placed eighth in the Campbell Tournament, Brockway fifth in the Blairsville tourney, and Bolivar's second-place finish in the Portville Tournament (see story elsewhere on page) was the best among 11 area teams.

WILLIAMSVILLE NORTH TOURNEY

	1st	2nd	3rd	4th	Pts.
Clarence	3	3	3	2	164
Canandaigua	4	1	3	1	158½
Olean High	1	4	3	3	149½
Pioneer	1	2	2	0	84½
Williamsville North	1	2	1	2	74½
Kenmore East	1	1	0	3	71½
Sweet Home	1	0	1	1	49½
Salamanca	1	0	0	1	32½

WILLIAMSVILLE — Three Big 30 wrestlers captured individual titles and six others placed second in an eight-team tournament showcasing some of Western New York's top talent.

In all, 18 area wrestlers from three Big 30 teams placed among the top four in their weight classes. Leading the way were champions Jeff Prescott of Olean High at 98 pounds, Marc Swiech of Salamanca at 105 and Dan Benjamin of Pioneer at 145.

"I thought we had a very successful tournament," said Olean coach Jim Myers. "There was some great wrestling and we came pretty close to winning this thing."

Conceivably, Olean could have won the title if team points had been counted in the unlimited class, where Olean's Matt Martin pinned Salamanca's Frank Miller in the finals in what was no more than an exhibition bout.

"If his matches would have counted, giving us his advancement points, it might have changed the outcome," Myers said.

Still, the Olean coach wasn't complaining, realizing his squad, trailing Clarence 148 to 145½ heading into the finals, had other opportunities to make up the difference.

"We lost two matches head to head with Canandaigua and two with Clarence," he said. "A win or two there would have made a difference."

The tournament's most attractive bout came in the 126-pound finals where returning state runner-up Butch Hibbard of Canandaigua met Olean's Steve Irving. Hibbard, a three-time state qualifier, won a criteria decision (stall warning) after the two had wrestled to a 2-2 regulation tie and 1-1 overtime tie.

Sweet Home's Kevin Bos, who defeated Olean's Jeff Gable in overtime in the semi-finals and then won by default in the finals, was named the tournament's Most Outstanding Wrestler.

In addition to Irving, placing second for Olean were Tom Worth at 91 pounds, Mike Molenda at 167 and Darrin Cowher (215), who lost to returning state champ Jeff Ellis of Clarence. Pioneer's Eric Romesser and Sean Murray also advanced to the finals before losing.

Salamanca Ties Gowanda

Big 30 Wrestling

It will go in the books as a 26-26 tie, but for Salamanca coach Rich Morton's young high school wrestling team, Thursday's draw with Gowanda is a victory of sorts.

Despite giving up 12 points via forfeits, Salamanca was able to hold its own against more experienced Gowanda, the No. 7-ranked team in the Times Herald pre-season poll.

"I'm disappointed we didn't win, but basically this was a sophomore oriented team going against a lineup with six seniors," Morton said. "Considering that, I thought some of the matches went pretty well." 12-14-84

Though Salamanca (0-0-1) led 18-0 at one point, Gowanda came back to win six of the next nine bouts to force the tie.

"I'm pleased with the way we came back and caught them," said Gowanda coach Chuck Newton. "For us, that's a strong point we can build on."

In two other openers Thursday, No. 1 ranked Olean High pinned a 60-3 loss on Wellsville, and Southwestern bested Franklinville, 39-19.

Olean High 60, Wellsville 3

Olean (1-0), which took four bouts by forfeits, opened impressively as Tom Worth, Jeff Prescott, Don Thierman, Geoff Riley and Mike Molenda recorded falls.

In addition, Olean's Greg Mikolajczyk rallied from a 10-2 deficit against Wellsville standout Ike Fanton to win, 11-10.

Southwestern 39, Franklinville 19

Franklinville (0-1) gave up a pair of forfeits and Southwestern won six and tied one of the remaining 10 bouts to win its season opener. Dave Kohler and Mike Putt recorded pins and Mark Hall a superiod decision for Franklinville.

Mounties Look Sharp in Two Duals, Cop Own Quad

GEORGE McWILLIAMS
Progress Sports Writer

PHILIPSBURG — What a difference a week makes.

When the Philipsburg-Osceola Area High School wrestling team opened its season against Bald Eagle Area, the Mounties turned in an lacklustre performance and paid a heavy price for it — the Eagles hammered P-O 37-15.

After a week of retribution in the wrestling room, the Mounties responded Saturday with a solid effort in their own quadrangular dual meet team tournament, taking the tourney title with a 37-17 win over Lampeter-Strasburg in the semifinals and a 40-14 triumph over West Hazelton in the finals.

West Hazelton beat Selinsgrove 35-11 in the semis, and Lampeter-Strasburg topped Selinsgrove 32-20 in the consolations.

"In both dual meets today we wrestled much better, much more complete matches (than at BEA)," said P-O coach Dave Caslow, whose squad is 2-1 in dual meets. "I feel good about the wins because both teams are good wrestling teams.

"I was happy to see that our bottom wrestling improved and so did our mental toughness."

As an example of that toughness, Caslow cited Tim G. Kephart's match at 185 against Mark Rockovich of West Hazelton, which the Mountie won 4-2.

Kephart notched a pair of takedowns in the second period, the decisive one with 22 seconds left on a single leg.

"Rockavich is a quality wrestler," Caslow noted. "Kephart earned a lot of respect with that win. He showed some very good tackling."

The most exciting match of the evening session, at least as far as Mountie fans are concerned, was Jody Parks' bout with Jim Stroup at 132. 12-24-79

The P-O junior trailed most of the match, with a reversal cutting the margin to 4-3 with under a minute left. With 40 seconds to wrestle, Parks hit a double leg, turned Stroup with a half nelson and registered the fall with just one second left on the scoreboard clock.

Clinching the P-O win in the finals was 167-pounder Keith Powell, with a fall over Joe Martini.

Powell led 4-1 to start the second frame, when Martini escaped. The Mountie came off a Russian two-on-one to hit a double leg and lift, throwing in a half and turning Martini's back matward while the Wildcat was still airborne.

Referee Curt Davis of Johnsontown signaled the fall at 3:30.

Other P-O winners against the Wildcats were Keith Hahn with a fall at 98 over Jim Possessky, Harry Lumadue with a 9-1 major decision over Blaise Martini at 105, Max Morbeto with a 4-3 win over Chris Siezfrieze at 119, Jim Ellis with an 11-1 major decision Scott Zelko at 138, Bob Pryde with an 11-4 win over Andy Sanko at 155 and Jerry Shimmel's 24 second fall over Joh Kois at heavyweight.

In the afternoon session, Lumadue, Parks and Pryde engineered falls, T. G. Kephart and Powell racked up suprior decisions and Hahn, Morbeto and Ellis won regular decisions.

"We were tough when we had to be," Caslow said. "We rose to the occasion.

"It was not just the technical wrestling I was pleased with. More importantly we showed a lot of character."

The P-O junior varsity won its division, with Rick Phillips (119), Mark Russell (126), Joe Bainey (132), Mike Mann (145), Trevor Burns (167), Brent Kephart (185) and Dennis Lumadue (Hwt) winning twice, and Phil Quick (105), Jeff Putillion (112) and Dave Gustkey (155) winning once.

The Mounties return to action Saturday hosting the P-O Invitational, featuring Chief Logan, Central Cambria and Dallastown, the latter two squads replacing Tryone and Blairsville, which in turn had replaced Punxsutawney to year before.

NOTES: Bruce Haselrig, also of Johnstown, worked the varsity competition with Davis, while Dick Wood and Jack Hassinger, both of Philipsburg, refereed the junior varsity tourney...

Ellis, Powell and T. G. Kephart remained unbeaten, each with a 3-0 record... Ellis had a tough match in the afternoon session, finally topping Steve Book of L-S 4-2. "Book kept grabbing Jim's wrist, which frustrated him," Caslow noted. "Jim hit a really nice duckunder for the winning points."

Westfield Wrestlers Drop A Double Dual

WESTFIELD — The Westfield Wolverines dropped a double dual meet, losing to Cattaraugus 39-18 and to Franklinville 39-24. 12-24-79

Registering pins for Westfield against Cattaraugus were Allen Bowen (98), Jon Kimbel (126) and Richard Bausum (Hvy). Kyle Wilkins (167) had the only pin for Cattaraugus.

In the Franklinville match, Bowen (98) notched his second pin as did Kimbel (126) and Richard Bausum (Hvy), who pinned Jeremy Schadt in 15 seconds. Bausum's pin in the first match came in 20 seconds.

Scoring pins for Franklinville were Mark Hall (112), Kurt Knight (155) and Chuck Lucas (167).

Wrestling No. 1? Canandaigua may replace ER soon

By Gary Fallesen 12-31-84
Democrat and Chronicle

Tournament-tough Canandaigua was at home Saturday night in a wrestling tournament considered as good as those that have determined the state's champions.

It may have been a preview of things to come this high school season.

The Braves, ranked No. 3 with a bullet in the Democrat and Chronicle Section 5 coaches poll, finished third in the 19-team field of the Rotary-Bernabi tournament at Spencerport. They were the area's top finisher — ahead of No. 1 East Rochester and four other top 10 teams.

Huntington of Section 11 (Suffolk County) won its second straight Rotary-Bernabi title and Whitehall of Section 2 (Albany area) finished second. ER was fourth, Le Roy fifth, Spencerport sixth, McQuaid 10th and Hilton 11th.

Brockport, which shares the No. 1 position among 83 area teams with ER, placed third at the Fulton tournament behind host Fulton and another Section 3 (Syracuse area) team, Beaver River.

"I think you're going to see some shuffling around here at No. 1," said 27th-year ER Coach Don Quinn, whose team has held that position for the better part of three seasons. "I think you might see Canandaigua No. 1 before long."

Quinn said, "Canandaigua is a better tournament team than most in the state. They've got some standouts who are going to go to the finals and challenge for championships. Not many people are going to beat (Butch) Hibbard and not many people are going to beat (Paul) Lamphier. (Mike) Locagnato is tough, too."

Hibbard was one of four area wrestlers who won individual titles at the Rotary-Bernabi. The senior with a career record of 112-10-1 captured the 126-pound weight class with a 5-2 decision over ER's Chad Rucker.

A two-time state runner-up, Hibbard was one of five finalists for the Braves. Dave Delforte (98), Locagnato (105), Lamphier (119) and Nick Castiglia (167) placed second. Tom Cunningham (112) and Tracy Foster (132) finished third.

"This was a really good tournament ... and our guys really did a super job," said Canandaigua Coach Larry Reynolds. "Some of our no-names, like Delforte and Cunningham, are starting to appear a little."

Spencerport's Rick Suhr (155), ER's Chris Schojan (215) and McQuaid's Joe Loverdi (250) were other area winners at the Rotary-Bernabi, which featured eight place winners from last year's state tournament.

"These finalists here," said Quinn, "were some of the finest I've ever seen, including the state tournaments."

Schojan scored a 2-1 upset of defending state champion Jeff Ellis of Section 6's Clarence (Buffalo area) in a bout that brought the capacity crowd of about 1,200 to its feet.

"He most likely hasn't suffered a defeat in 70 matches," Quinn said of Ellis, who was 39-0 last season before winning national freestyle and junior world titles. "I know Oklahoma was there recruiting him."

Schojan is a two-time state runner-up at 177 pounds. The senior has helped the Bombers (4-0 this season) to 27 straight dual-meet victories dating back to 1982 and two straight area poll championships.

ER's hold on that No. 1 position may be slipping, however.

"Canandaigua's a much better balanced team than last year," said Quinn. "Right now, it's tough to pick between Canandaigua, us, Spencerport and Brockport."

Canandaigua (4-0) already defeated fourth-ranked Spencerport, 34-21, on Dec. 7. The Braves visit Brockport (3-0) on Jan. 16 and ER on Jan. 26 after hosting both in the Bradshaw Tournament on Jan. 11-12.

"The Bradshaw could be a good indicator (of who's No. 1)," said Reynolds. "My feeling at the beginning of the year was that ER was No. 1. But I figured we were right up there with three state place winners (Hibbard, Lamphier and Locagnato) back.

"We beat them in the tournament, but it's going to be interesting (in a dual meet)," he added. "We're going to be prepared."

Around Section 5

Nathan Van Duzer was Brockport's only individual champion at Fulton. The 138-pound senior decisioned Mike Pisciotta of Section 9's New Paltz, 16-2. Greg Stewart (98), Jim Lupisella (126), Jeff Davis (145) and Phil St. George (167) were runners up ... Keith Knight of Bishop Kearney won the 250-pound title with a pin at :24 of the final match against Fulton's Dan Filipkowski ... Fulton is ranked fifth in the state sports writers poll behind Huntington, Section 3's Canastota, ER, and Section 11's Port Jefferson. 12-31-84

East (7-0) remained the unanimous No. 1 pick among 120 area basketball teams in the Democrat and Chronicle coaches poll. Gates-Chili (6-2) returns to the top 10 at No. 6 and two other Monroe County League West Division teams (No. 8 Greece Athena and No. 10 Greece Olympia) are newcomers ... Fairport (2-0) still is ranked No. 1 among 55 teams in swimming. Greece (2-0) moved ahead of Spencerport (3-0) to No. 2.

WARREN — For St. Marys Public High School, Saturday's second-place finish in the 15-team Warren County Tournament relieved a number of doubts for head coach Wayne Fordorski.

"Though we had won our three dual matches before this tournament, I still didn't know how good we were," said Fordorski, following his team's first tournament appearance of the season.

"The teams we wrestled in our duals are a little down this year, so it was tough to tell. But there was a lot of good competition at this tournament, and I think we came out quite well." 12-31-84

Two St. Marys wrestlers were among six from the Big 30 area to claim individual titles, and both, Tim Wittman at 132, and Scott Taylor, a 6-4, 195-pound heavyweight, won by pins.

In remaining unbeaten, Wittman (7-0) handed Kane junior Jack Bell, a state qualifier as a freshman, his first loss in nine matches. Wittman, who wrestled in the Class AAA state championships last year, was trailing 4-3 in the second period when he caught Bell with an upperbody throw for the fall.

Big 30 Wrestling

Taylor, meanwhile, improved to 6-1.

Other area wrestlers claiming titles were Kane's Duane Blankenship (9-1) and Rich Geer (8-2), Pioneer's Dan Benjamin (9-0) and Sheffield's Tim McMeans (6-1).

Though team champion Cranberry had only one individual titlist and two runnersup, it picked up enough points in the consolation wrestlbacks to claim the team title. 12-31-84

"I thought we had a chance to beat them," Fordorski said, "but they got a lot of wins and pins in the consolations. They just got too many points there for us to do anything about it."

Placing second from the Big 30 area were Dan Weisner (6-1) of St. Marys, Butch Gennocro of Emporium, Troy Almeter (5-2-1) of Pioneer, Joe Posten (6-1) of Sheffield and Bell.

Mat powers to meet tomorrow

By DOUG McDONALD
Times Senior Sports Writer

Iowa, the team that has been on top for years, will wrestle Penn State, the team that is trying to reach the top, at Rec Hall tomorrow. The action will start at 7:30 p.m. and a large crowd is expected.

It will be the third meeting between the two schools. The Hawkeyes, who have won seven straight NCAA titles and 10 Big 10 crowns in a row, lead the series by a 2-0 margin, having won a year ago at Iowa City, 26-19. The score the year before was 34-9.

"We've got to get 100 percent from each wrestler," Coach Rich Lorenzo of the Lions said at practice yesterday. I'd rather lose a 15-3 bout and know that our guy tried to beat the Iowa wrestler. I'm not concerned about the final. It's the end product.

"I can remember a few years ago when Joel Johnson and Jack Inserra went up against the Banachs. They both got pounded, but our guys didn't hold back. They flew right at the Banachs. After the meet, Ed and Lou said they appreciated the fact that Johnson and Inserra were willing to mix it up. Most of the guys they wrestle usually backed off."

Sefter, former NCAA placewinner, is nursing a knee strain and Coach Lorenzo said it's doubtful that he will be able to go tomorrow night.

"We don't want to risk losing him for a long period of time," Lorenzo said. "We don't plan to use him at Lock Haven (the ninth annual Mat Town USA Tournament) this weekend, either. He might be ready for Syracuse next Wednesday."

Asked to list the key matchups tomorrow, Lorenzo said he doesn't look at the meet that way.

"All the matches are important. If we're intimidated, we're in trouble. We have Iowa on tape. We're not planning to scout the Lehigh-Iowa match tonight in Bethlehem. But that can backfire, because the guys start worrying about scouting reports and forget to concentrate on their own game. Our job will be to wrestle our match."

Elinsky finished seventh and Bevilacqua eighth in the '84 NCAAs at 158 and 150, respectively.

Iowa, which pounded Morgan State 45-5 last night, beat LSU (37-15) and Purdue (46-0) last Friday night at Iowa City.

Davis is a two-time NCAA champ who redshirted last season. He concentrated on the Olympics and won a silver medal in Anaheim last summer. He also owns three Big 10 titles.

Randall lost to Penn State's Scott Lynch in the '84 NCAA finals. Heffernan, a former teammate of Elinsky's at St. Edward High in Cleveland, placed fourth as a freshman in the '83 NCAAs. He also sat out last season.

Marty Kistler is a former NCAA runnerup along with his brother, Lindley, who transferred to Iowa from Arizona State.

Goldman is a two-time NCAA runnerup, losing to Mark Schultz in 1983 and to Jim Scherr of Nebraska last March. Goldman owns two Big 10 titles, one more than the Kistlers, Heffernan and Randall.

Davis has a career mark of 134-8-1 (prior to last night) and needs only eight more wins to break Ed Banach's career mark of 141.

Gable, who coached the U.S. Olympic freestyle team to a batch of medals last summer, has a career mark of 141-6-2 in eight seasons at Iowa.

Lock Haven pins Bloom

Willie Metzger, Tom Kreamer, Brad Lloyd and Jody Karam came through with key victories and Lock Haven defeated Bloomsburg, 23-16, in wrestling at Thomas Field House last night. It was the opening dual meet of the season for both teams.

11-29-84

Lock Haven, which won the Susquehanna Donnybrook series opener last year at Bloomsburg by 23-19, had a 17-16 lead last night with one bout left. Coach Roger Sanders of Bloom elected to forfeit the last match to Rick Petersen.

Bloomsburg, which had 15 takedowns to Lock Haven's eight, won at 118 and 126 with Ricky and Rocky Bonomo, respectively. Jim Kwortnik of Bloom edged Bill Freeman at 167, 6-4, with a late takedown.

At 190, Darrin Evans of Bloom edged Ty Hall, 16-15, on 1:07 time advantage. It was 7-5 in favor of Hall after one period and 14-11 his favor after two periods. Evans scored a reversal and takedown in the last period and Hall managed only an escape.

Metzger beat Marty King, Bloom's highly regarded freshman, at 134, 3-2. King escaped twice in the last period while Metzger had escaped in the second and got the takedown in the third.

Kreamer had a reversal and five back points in the last period to beat Jon Moser at 142, 9-2. Moser scored first with a takedown.

Lloyd piled up a 15-0 lead when the bout was stopped via technical fall at 5:27. Mike Rudolph of Bloom was the victim at 150.

Karam used two takedowns to beat Dan Klingerman at 158, 9-3.

At 177, Greg Wykoff of Lock Haven escaped twice and tied Tom Gibble, 3-3. Gibble had a takedown and escape. Gibble was penalized one point in the second period.

Coach Neil Turner of Lock Haven said the key bout was at 134 where Metzger beat King.

"That one got us turned around," Turner said. "Kreamer was 0-2 at Navy and he had lost faith in himself. But he came through tonight. Then Brad Lloyd really got us moving."

Bloom entered the match ranked 14th by Amateur Wrestling News. Lock Haven was 34th.

"It was a nice win over a good team," Turner concluded.

Both teams will compete in the Sheridan Tournament at Lehigh Friday and Saturday. The other teams in the field include Oregon State, N.C. State, Hofstra, Trenton State and the host Engineers.

Talent, Experience, Balance...

Bisons Have Ingredients for Super Year

HYDE — With seven lettermen returning, including Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association state qualifiers Scott Luzier and Scott Collins, third-year Clearfield Area High School wrestling coach Garry Barton is expecting big things from his team this season. 12-7-84

"We're a better balanced team than we were last year," said Barton. "This is probably the best overall balance we've had since I've been coaching here. From 98 to 155 pounds we are going to be an extremely good team.

"We also have better balance from 167 to heavyweight," he added. "We're stronger at those weights as we've been in the last two years. If all the kids keep working as hard as they have the first week of practice, then we are going to be awful tough to beat this season."

Clearfield's seven lettermen bring back with them a combined 131-43-8 record, led by senior Luzier's 26-3-1 log at 126 and 132 and junior Collins' 26-5 record at 112 and 119.

Both Luzier (126) and Collins (112) captured Districts 5-9 Class AAA crowns in 1983-84. Luzier, a three-time district champ, took third in the Northwest Regional last season, while Collins, a two-time district champ, finished second.

"The two strongest kids we have on our team are Luzier and Collins," Barton said. "As a whole, our entire team is strong. I don't see us having any real bad weights. We don't have anyone who is just going to go out there and flop over on their back. The other teams we wrestle are going to have to earn their wins."

Other returnees from last year's team, which finished with a 9-1-1 dual meet record, are seniors Darin Tkacik, 20-7 at 112; Andy Lingle, 14-7-2 at 138 and 145, and Tom Rauch, 13-10-3 at 145. Tkacik was a district champ as a 98-pound sophomore and a runner-up at a junior.

Junior monogram winners include district runner-up and regional qualifier Marty Novey, 22-5-1 at 98 and 105, and Todd Williams, 10-6-1 at 98 and 105.

The only regular missing from last season's strong lightweight contingent is PIAA gold medalist Shay French, Clearfield's first state champ since 1968. French posted a 29-3-1 record, a school record for wins, and added a district title en route to capturing the 119-pound crown in Hershey in March.

Four other 1984 seniors were regulars in the heavyweights, Mark Bailey 8-17 at 155, Tom Keirn 13-9-2 at 155 and 167, district runner-up Randy Swales 17-10 at 185 and Andy Swales 12-11-1 at heavyweight.

"The kids are finally starting to wrestle the way (assistant coach) Mike Gill and I want them to," Barton said. "They all have a very good attitude and that should help us.

"I think the kids realize now if they work as hard as Shay did, they can place in states or win them just like he did. I can't say we won't miss Shay. It's hard to replace any guy with 29 wins, let alone a state champ."

With the Bisons dual meet home opener with Oil City on Dec. 14 exactly a week away, Barton says his lineup is pretty well set.

He says that either freshman Kevin Butler or sophomore Jeff Luzier will open the season at 98, Williams at 105, Novey at 112; Tkacik or soph Mike Simcox at 119, Collins at 126, Luzier at 132, senior Scott Cline (2-1) at 138, Lingle at 145, Rauch or junior Brian Vokes at 155, senior Bob Turner (3-6) or junior transfer Mike Garrou at 167, junior Mike Owens (1-2) or soph Rod Rishel at 185 and senior Joe Marino (0-2) at heavyweight.

"Right now, we are not going to suck everybody down to their tournament weights," Barton said. "We just want the kids to work their way into shape slowly and then they can drop.

"We hope to have everyone down after Christmas because that's when we really get into the thick of our Central Wrestling Conference schedule."

Clearfield will also participate in a 24-team Christmas Tournament at California University on Dec. 26-28, as well take part in the Tool City Tournament in Meadville on Jan. 11-12.

LOCK HAVEN — Is this trip really necessary? 12-7-84

During World War II, that's a question the U.S. government wanted its citizens to ask themselves before wasting gas or taking up a train or plane seat.

Morgan State's wrestlers should have asked the question before venturing to Central Pennsylvania for last night's dual meet at Lock Haven University.

The Bald Eagles thumped the Bears 52-4.

Neil Turner's Eagles scored on four falls, two technical falls, a major decision and two forfeits, one coming when the Bears' 150-pounder couldn't make weight.

Winning by fall for Lock Haven were Bryon Benner (158), Bill Freeman (167), Greg Wykoff (177) and Rick Petersen (heavy).

Notching technical falls were Willie Metzger (134) and Tom Kreamer (142). Ty Hall (190) won by major decision.

Freshman Jeff Husick (118) and Brad Lloyd (150) got the forfeits.

The Bears' only win came at 126 by Division II titlist Charles Kennedy.

Lock Haven, 2-0, will compete Saturday and Sunday in its own Mat-Town USA Tournament, as will Morgan State.

BETHLEHEM, Pa. (AP) — Defending national collegiate wrestling champion Iowa defeated Lehigh 44-0 Thursday to hand the Engineers their first shutout since the 1946-47 season.

Greg Randall at 134 pounds and Lindley Kistler at 167 recorded falls. Randall pinned Jim Frick in 1:40 and Kistler decked Charles Cook in 1:35.

Brad Penrith at 118 and Barry Davis at 126 posted technical falls, meaning they opened up 15-point leads to stop their bouts.

The Engineers, 1-1, came close to averting a shutout in four bouts, dropping one-point decisions at 142 and 190 and two-pointers at 150 and 158.

Since its last whitewash, Lehigh had wrestled 478 consecutive dual meets without being shut out. 12-7-84

Against Iowa State in 1972-73, Lehigh failed to win a match but escaped a shutout with a draw, losing 24-2.

Iowa improved its record to 4-0 for tonight's match at Penn State.

Mat-Town Tourney a Dandy

12-7-84

LOCK HAVEN — The ninth annual Mat-Town USA Wrestling Tournament will bring an imposing field of 13 teams to Thomas Field House Saturday and Sunday, with three defending champions in competition and 18 wrestlers ranked nationally by the Amateur Wrestling News.

Joining the Bald Eagles will be defending champ Penn State, 1983 runner-up Lehigh, third-place Michigan State, sixth-place Tennessee, Old Dominion, Temple, West Chester and Ohio University, plus newcomers Morgan State, Pittsburgh, Slippery Rock and William and Mary.

The tournament opens tomorrow at 11 a.m. with the opening round and the quarterfinals. The semifinals and consolations will begin at 7:30 in the evening. The consolation finals and the championship bouts will begin Sunday at 1 p.m.

Penn State is led by defending champ Chris Bevilacqua, who won at 150 pounds a year ago, but has been wrestling at 158, where he won the Penn State Invitational last weekend.

The Nittany Lions' Greg Elinsky, runner-up at 158 last year, is now at 167, and he, too, won the Penn State tourney. Gary Kaschak, third at 142, is back, and 126-pounder Tim Flynn won the title at University Park Saturday. In addition, heavyweight Steve Sefter, who missed last weekend's action with a knee sprain, may be back.

Lock Haven, which finished fourth in last year's Mat-Town tourney, is led by 1982 champ and 1983 runner-up Rick Petersen, a Bucktail High School graduate, at heavyweight. Petersen, the nation's fourth-ranked heavyweight, is 7-0 this year with titles at Navy's Turkey Bowl tourney and at Lehigh's Sheridan tourney.

Also strong for the Bald Eagles will be Navy winners Dickie Howell at 118, Jody Karam at 158, Tom Kreamer at 142 and freshman Brad Lloyd at 150.

Eisenhower 32, Salamanca 23

A controversial call at 185 cost Dan Quinn a possible pin and Salamanca the match in a Southern Tier Division I League clash. 1-4-85

Quinn had his opponent, senior Brad Ludwick, locked in a cradle and was going for the fall when the referee stopped the match, calling Quinn for choking. Ludwick then went on to post a 6-4 decision, giving Eisenhower a 32-17 lead, and putting the match out of reach.

"If the referee wouldn't have broken that hold, and I don't think he should have, and Quinn would have pinned him, we would have won this match," said Salamanca coach Rich Morton. "It was frustrating because, at the time, the match was so close I couldn't say anything and afford to have a team point docked against us."

Fillmore 36, Mt. Morris 36

Fillmore (2-3) overcame four forfeit losses and a 30-0 Mt. Morris lead to win its second straight match. A 17-second pin by Mike Bower was the quickest of five falls for Fillmore in a match that lasted just 35 minutes.

Things Hold True To Form At Falconer Wrestling Tourney

By BRIAN MAZUREK

FALCONER — Things held true to form in the Falconer Invitational Wrestling Tournament Saturday night with the host Golden Falcons capturing the team title for the sixth consecutive year while 13 of the 14 top seeds won individual championships. 1-21-85

Falconer, which had six champions, rolled up 256 points to easily beat runnerup Johnsonburg which amassed 146 points. Jamestown took third with 131½ points followed by Sheffield with 121½, Dunkirk 118½, Youngsville 106, Eisenhower 76½, Southwestern 72, Fredonia 47½, Westfield 31, Panama 29, and Silver Creek 26.

"We are really starting to wrestle well, Golden Falcon Coach Bill Davenport said. "The best part of winning the tournament was seeing us wrestle as well as we did."

Falconer, which had eight wrestlers in the finals, had Todd Carson (91), Rob Waddington (119), Joel Sopak (126), Ray Norton (155), Kevin Wickstrom (177), and Tony Milliner (Unlimited) win titles while Chad Waddington (98) and Troy Lefford (112) had to settle for second place.

Jamestown had three winners, the only other school to have more than one champion, while Eisenhower, Southwestern, Sheffield, Youngsville, and Fredonia each had one titlist.

Johnsonburg had five matmen in the finals, but failed to take home a championship.

Southwestern's Ken Trimmer, who won the 138-pound title, was named the tournament's "Outstanding Wrestler." He remained undefeated on the season and notched a 5:24 pin over Johnsonburg's Don Allegretto in the finals.

Jamestown's Tony Calamunci took the award for the most pins in the least amount of time. The Red Raiders' heavyweight had four pins in a total time of 7:51.

Carson won the first championship for Falconer by scoring a 7-1 decision over Dunkirk's Bob Lemanski at 91. Carson tipped Lemanski in the second period for a three-point near-fall and iced the victory with a third-period reversal.

Jamestown's Steve Minarovich took the 98-pound classification by pinning the Golden Falcons' Chad Waddington in 2:52. The two had wrestled to a 4-4 tie after the first period. Minarovich in the second period scored a reversal which caught Waddington on his back. Minarovich then used a press to finish off Waddington.

Eisenhower's Greg Barnett won for the second consecutive year in the tournament by pinning Johnsonsburg's Scott Reimer in 3:51. Barnett, after taking a 2-0 lead after the first period, stopped Reimer with a cradle.

Sheffield's Chuck Grinnen proved to be too much for Falconer's Lefford at 112. Grinnen notched a 7-0 victory, highlighted by a takedown and three-point near-fall in the first period.

The Golden Falcons' Rob Waddington needed 5:13 to pin Johnsonburg's Butch Barber at 119. Waddington, who used a body press, had a 14-2 lead before the fall. 1-21-85

Falconer's Sopak took the championship at 126 with an impressive 2:45 pin over Johnsonburg's Ed DeCecchis. Sopak had turned DeCecchis over twice in the first period for back points and flipped him over for good in the second period with a half-nelson.

Jim Fehlman of Youngsville took first-place honors at 132 with a 6-1 decision over Jamestown's Jim Painter. Fehlman used a first-period takedown and two-point near-fall to lock up the victory.

Southwestern's Trimmer found himself in a 5-0 hole after the first period against Johnsonburg's Allegretto, but battled back to record a 5:24 pin at 138. Allegretto had Trimmer count the lights in the opening two minutes and nearly had the pin. The Trojan matman managed to pull within a point, 6-5 after two periods and then used a press for the third-period fall.

Tom Simmons of Jamestown took a 6-2 lead after two periods and coasted to a 7-3 victory over Sheffield's Steve Gregerson at 145. Simmons scored four points (reversal, two-point near-fall) in the final three seconds of the seocnd period to secure the verdict.

Falconer's Norton, in the 155-pound bout, had a 9-4 lead after two periods and held on for a 12-8 decision over Johnsonburg's Rod Nortum. Norton found himself on his back in the third period, but managed to work himself out of the jam and claim the victory.

At 167, Rod Larson of Fredonia registered an escape with 24 seconds left in the match to beat Jamestown's Joe McMurdy 1-0. Larson was the only wrestler who wasn't the top-seed that won a championship. In the semifinals, he beat top-seeded John Bortz of Eisenhower by a point.

Wickstrom of Falconer notched a 3:41 pin over Red Raiders' Bill Buck at 177. Wickstrom, who trailed 5-0 at one point, reversed Buck and caught the Jamestown wrestler on his back which ended the bout.

In a unique heavyweight championship, Red Raiders' Calamunci pinned teammate Curt Southwick in 1:35. Calamunci ran a half-nelson on Southwick to score the fall.

Southwick wrestled for the "unattached" team which is made up of extra wrestlers who are used to fill in the brackets.

Falconer's Milliner was too much for Dunkirk's David Swift at unlimited. Milliner scored the initial takedown and stopped Swift with a body press in 1:02 — the quickest fall in the finals.

Owl grapplers drub Hubbers

32-30 ? DRUB

By RONALD KLOSS
Era Sports Editor 1-25-85

Bradford High wrestling victories over Smethport have been scarce the past several years, but Thursday night the Owls ended the drought with a 32-30 thriller over the visiting Hubbers.

"Now that's high school wrestling like it should be," said a pleased George Bay, Bradford coach. "It's been a number of years since we've beaten them.

The Owls survived a forfeit at 167 pounds and T.J. Reap's pin at 185 pounds to rally from a 30-26 deficit and pull out the win. Heavyweight Paul Webster's 21-second pin locked up the team decision for Bradford.

As far as Bay and assistant coach Dick Miller were concerned, the win, which lifted the Owls to 3-7 on the season, should be credited to the entire squad.

"It was a good team effort and even the guys who lost wrestled strongly," Bay explained. "There were a number of important bouts. Jim Burgess wrestled a key match at 112 pounds. The Rice (Todd, 8-1-1) boy is a good wrestler. Jim was behind 5-0 and came back to get the draw.

"Jeff Clark (138 pounds) came back to win and we had three critical falls late — Jeff Coles at 145 pounds, Tim Keane at 155 pounds and Webster at heavyweight."

Clark was trailing 4-3 in his 138-pound match with Smethport's Mike Swanson when he worked free to pick up two escape points and get a 5-4 decision that swung the momentum in the Owls favor.

Smethport had won the three previous bouts, Don Burdick at 119 pounds, Sean Lathrop at 126 pounds and Steve Valenti at 132 pounds to rally from an 11-2 deficit and take the lead, 18-11.

"I told Jeff (Clark) he had 30 seconds to get the escape and there were 14 seconds left when he got it," Miller smiled.

Bradford's other points in the match came from Mike Angello with a 5-4 decision at 98 pounds and Rob Brest at 105, where he picked up six points on a forfeit to give the Owls a quick 9-0 lead.

"We're at this level, but we have to keep moving up," Miller observed, motioning with his had.

"We have to keep working and grinding," Bay added.

The setback dropped Smethport to 3-5 on the season, but coach Bill Stephens made no excuses.

"They (Bradford) wanted it more than we did. We had the chances, but didn't take them," the Hubbers coach said bluntly.

Individually for Smethport, Reap's pin at 185 pounds put his record at 11-0 on the season while Valenti went to 8-0 and Lathrop 8-3.

The Owls, whose 3-7 mark could easily be 5-5 were it not for two points, will return to action Saturday (2 p.m. start) at Sheffield.

MAT NOTES

Baldwinsville won Sherburne Tournament by slim margin in last bout of the tourney (see results) but we still consider Canastota the better dual meet team...Big result saw Maine-Endwell beat Fulton, 35-20, but Fulton had 5 wrestlers missing for a week due to poor grades (4) and an injury (1)...Fulton has East Rochester, Canandaigua and Baldwinsville coming up, so the Red Raiders will move down (or up) quite soon...Small schools getting rave notices are Pine Bush-9, Minisink Valley-9, Beaver River-3, Whitehall-2...Beaver River is 32-0-1 in last 33 duals and would beat some teams ranked above them, we are told...Also looking to move up is tuff Canandaigua-5.

MAT NOTES

--Canandaigua lost twice in Ohio, including 66-2 to powerful St. Edward's, the most feared team in America, we hear...Coach Leo Johnson of Baldwinsville-3 has 299 career wins, will get No. 300 on Tuesday...Leo is from Amityville-L.I./Cortland State, is in 25th coaching season.

Fulton is at No. 1 Huntington this Saturday, with Sachem and Sherburne-Earlville also vying. ...Whitehall won strong dual meet tourney at Ballston Spa with title match verdict over Pearl River, 33-24...Canastota may attend the State Cup on first weekend in February. The champion of that tourney gets at least a tie for No. 1, unless other regular-season defeats prohibit such consideration. Support the Cup.

Scholastic wrestling

Here's a scouting report on the top 10:

1 (tie) East Rochester: Two-time state runner-up Chris Schojan (a 177-pound senior who was 35-1 last year) returns with fellow Monroe County League all-star Sean Rucker (a 98-pound freshman). Rucker's older brother, Chad (a 126-pound junior), freshman Paul Fiorvanti (112), senior Frank Rossi (145), and juniors Bill Herko (119) and Mike Cendello (132) also are back.

Gone are six starters who last year helped the Bombers to the state's poll championship.

"We had some real veterans last year," said Quinn, the nation's third winningest coach. "Even if they weren't better wrestlers (than their opponents), many times they could get us a tie or a win. We're going to have to wrestle some young kids this year."

But more than one Monroe County East coach said, "Don't listen to Quinn, they're going to be even better than last year."

That remains to be seen. But an early season test will come Dec. 27-28 at the Spencerport Rotary-Bernabi tournament. Many of the area's best and mighty Huntington of Section 11 (Suffok County) will be in attendance. ER and Huntington shared the No. 1 position in last year's final state sports writers poll.

Brockport: Monroe County League all-stars Phil St. George (a 155-pound senior who was 31-5-1 last year), Nathan Van Duzer (a 126 senior who was 27-7) and Jim Lupisella (a 119 junior who was 25-6) are the top returnees. St. George and Van Duzer were Section 5 Class A runners-up. Each lost to an eventual state champion.

Also back are junior Greg Stewart (98), sophomore Charlie Sortino (105) and senior Bill Daly (132).

But, VanDenBurg said, "We're not as strong as they've been in the past. We've got six weight classes where we're bringing up people who have little or no varsity experience."

The Blue Devils still are favored to repeat as champions of the Monroe County West. VanDenBurg will visit his former head coach and team on Jan. 26.

3 Canandaigua: "I'd rather be third and work our way up," said fifth-year Coach Larry Reynolds, who graduated the state's all-time winningest wrestler, Marty King.

State runners-up Paul Lamphier (a 112-pound senior who was 32-5 last year) and Butch Hibbard (a 119 senior who was 35-4) return, however. Each has won more than 100 matches during his career.

12-23-84

Mike Locagnato, a 98-pound senior who placed fifth in the state last season, also is back with fellow Finger Lakes League all-star Tracey Foster (126 senior).

The Braves defeated fifth-ranked Spencerport, 34-21, on Dec. 7. They have meets remaining at Brockport on Jan. 16, at Section 3 (Syracuse area) power Fulton on Jan. 19, and at ER on Jan. 26.

Canandaigua is heavily favored to outdistance Victor, Palmyra-Macedon, Wayne and Marion for a 14th consecutive Finger Lakes East title. The Braves' all-time division dual-meet record is 115-0.

Syracuse wins state mat; IC 3rd

IC's Morrow, Mankowich, Cornell's Welch captures individual titles

By TOM FLEISCHMAN
Journal Staff

As expected, Syracuse University ran away with the team title at the 16th annual New York State Collegiate Wrestling Championships Saturday.

The Orangemen, ranked 12th in the nation in Div. I, racked up a total of 145¾ points to outdistance runnerup Army (123¼).

But Ithaca College made its best showing ever, placing third as a team with 110¾ points, far ahead of fourth-place St. Lawrence (74¾). Bomber wrestlers took two individual titles, including Bart Morrow (134 pounds) and Pete Mankowich (142).

Both Morrow and Cornell's Pat Welch (150) took individual titles for the third straight year, becoming just the sixth and seventh competitors in the history of the tournament to do so. The Big Red, competing without some key wrestlers due to an NCAA eligibility rule, placed eighth with 58¼.

"I wrestled very conservatively, I just took whatever I could get," said Morrow, the No. 1 seed, who defeated No. 3 Scott Detore of Brockport, 4-3, for the title. Morrow advanced to the title bout by defeating Cortland's Matt DiVincenzo in a technical fall, and subduing Albany's John Balog, 13-4.

Mankowich, whose brother Paul also wrestles for IC, was totally dominant in his match against a familiar opponent, St. Lawrence's Brian Gross. Mankowich opened up a 5-0 with a big takedown 2:23 into the bout, and went on to a 16-3 superior decision. 1-21-85

"I've been hot and cold, but I knew that if I could put it all together, I could beat anybody here," said Mankowich, who was seeded sixth. "There was a little revenge factor tonight since he beat me, 19-10, last Friday night (in the dual match). He had been talking a lot before the match too, and that got me more fired up. And then when he didn't show for the introductions, it just got me more pumped."

St. Lawrence's two finalists, Gross and 190-pounder Lelan Rogers, were at Pyramid Mall in between the semis and the finals, but weren't picked up by the team van and had to hitchhike back to Light Gym. Rogers won the title in his class.

Welch, who had breezed through his preliminary matches, had a little tougher time in the final before finishing with a flurry and stopping Albany's Andy Seras, 12-6.

"He was as tough as I expected he'd be," said Welch, who was named the tournament's outstanding wrestler. "I made a couple of mistakes there, and lost my intensity and got a little too cautious."

Neither Morrow nor Welch thought about the fact that they were two-time defending champs, and that a third win would be a feat accomplished just five previous times.

"To tell you the truth, I hadn't thought about it until just now," Welch said, about 15 minutes after his finals victory. "But it is nice to win it a third time, of course. This season has been tough, I've had challenge after challenge, no breathers at all. But that'll definitely help me for nationals."

In a semifinal bout at 118 pounds, IC's Bob Panariello lost a heartbreaking overtime decision to Albany's Shawn Sheldon. The two were tied after the three-minute overtime period, but Sheldon, an alternate on the U.S. Olympic team last summer, had a scant three-second advantage in riding time and was given the match.

Sheldon then lost in the final to Syracuse's Tony Cotroneo (defending champ), 11-3. Panariello wound up third.

Cornell's David Chae, seeded third in the 126-pound class, was beaten handily by Army's Dennis Semmel, 10-1. Glenn Cogswell of Ithaca lost in the quarterfinals to Semmel, 15-3, and placed fifth.

At 177, Binghamton's Tom Pillari (defending Div. III national champ) got a measure of revenge over IC's Dave Kittay. In the dual meet in December, Kittay got a 1-0 victory on the basis of riding time; Saturday in the semifinals, it was Pillari winning a close bout, 4-3.

Pillari lost in the final to SU's Wayne Catan, 11-2; Kittay took third place.

Other local placers: Pete Shaifer (Cornell), 134, fifth; Larry Iacovelli (IC), 158, fifth; Rich Kane (IC), heavyweight, fifth.

A 'Major' Weight-Loss Activity

3

By JOE MILLER 1-31-85
Times Herald Fitness Writer

Question: Is cross-country skiing a good activity for losing weight?

When it comes to losing weight, most people immediately think of activities such as walking, jogging, swimming or doing aerobics. In reality, cross-country skiing can be equally as good or even better for you if you're trying to lose weight.

When you walk, even at a good clip, you burn up about 140 calories per hour. Swimming burns 350-500 per hour. Doing aerobics (i.e. classes) you can burn up to 500 per hour. Jogging at a steady clip will burn anywhere from 500-600 calories per hour.

Compare these numbers to cross-country.

While cross-country skiing at a moderate pace, you can burn 500-700 calories per hour; if you're moving at a very brisk pace, you can burn up to 1,000 calories per hour.

So we're talking a major weight loss activity here.

For instance, if you did one half-hour of cross country five days a week and controlled your caloric intake, you could lose 2-3 pounds per week — more if you were on a very controlled diet.

And you wouldn't even have to move like a gazelle to lose weight. You could, as a rule, move about half as fast as you would while jogging and still get the same weight loss. Cross- country skiing is also an activity that offers a lot more than weight loss. Because it forces you to use both your arms and legs, cross country is also one of the finest aerobic activities we know of.

Aerobic activities are important because they strengthen the heart, lungs, and circulatory system. And that's important because the stronger these systems are the more likely you are to feel, look and be as healthy as you can possibly be.

It's a fact that the human beings with the strongest aerobic systems in the world are cross-country ski racers. So chalk another one up for "skinny skiing."

When done on a regular basis, cross-country skiing can lower blood pressure, reduce cholesteral and sugar levels, lower stress and anxiety levels, and, of course, can help people control their body weight.

So anyway you look at it, cross-country skiing is good for you. It's easy to do, you don't have to be an athlete to do it, you can do it almost anywhere, and it doesn't cost much to get involved.

It's extremely good for your overall health and well-being and it's a great weight loss activity.

No. 1 North Penn faces second-rated Quakertown

This is a week of decision in area wrestling, with four critical dual meets that will go a long way toward deciding league champions.

The most intriguing of those meets will take place Thursday night at North Penn when the Knights, ranked No. 1 in The Inquirer Southeastern Pennsylvania ratings, host No. 2-rated Quakertown before a crowd expected to exceed 2,000. Along with the No. 1 ranking, the Bux-Mont League championship and the perfect records of each team are also on the line.

Tomorrow night, No. 5 Bishop Egan and Archbishop Wood will square off at Wood in a match that should determine the Catholic League champion; Neshaminy will host Abington in a pivotal Suburban One National duel; and on Friday, Haverford School will visit Episcopal in a match to determine the Inter-Academic League titlist.

Six Area Wrestlers Advance To State Mat Meet

By BRIAN MAZUREK

FREDONIA — The Southern Tier Wrestling Conference will be well represented this weekend at the New York State High School Wrestling Tournament in Syracuse as six local matmen won Section 6 titles Saturday night at Dods Hall on the campus of Fredonia State College. 2-25-85

Maple Grove's Jim Nalbone (105), Falconer's Rob Waddington (112), Cassadaga Valley's Steve Penhollow (155) along with Olean's Jeff Prescott (98), Steve Irving (119), and Jeff Gabler (167) all won their respective weight classes and earned the right to advance to the State Tournament.

It was a record-setting victory for Waddington since the Falconer senior became the first wrestler in Section 6 history to win the State Qualifier five years in a row.

Waddington said of winning for the fifth straight year, "It's getting easier. The thought of getting beat was in the back of my mind, but I knew I could win."

About his chances at the State Tournament, he said, "I feel I'm sitting good. I just have to go there and wrestle the way I have been." Waddington, who first went to the State Tournament when he was in eighth grade, now has a career record of 145-14-1.

Besides Waddington, Penhollow and Prescott will be heading to Syracuse for the second straight season while Nalbone, Irving, and Gabler will be participating in the State Tournament for the first time.

Olean Coach Jim Meyers said of his Huskies with a big grin, "We were three-for-three in the finals and I'll take that anytime. I think Prescott, Irving, and Gabler all have an excellent shot of placing at the States."

Sending three wrestlers to the States is nothing knew for Olean. The Huskies had four representatives back in 1977 and sent five in 1978.

The Southern Tier Conference had 10 wrestlers in the finals. Falconer's Joel Sopak 126), Ray Norton (145) and Tony Milliner (250), and Cassadaga Valley's Marty Nichols (132) all reached the finals, but were beaten.

"I think the Section 6 team will be pretty decent," Section 6 Wrestling Chairman Skip Pine said. "We've got some place winners back from last season and I think we've got a chance to win the team title."

Falconer Coach Bill Davenport said, "I'm very optimistic about the Section 6 team. I think we've got a stronger team than last year's team that finished in third place."

Olean's Prescott was the first local wrestler to earn a berth in the state meet. He pinned Iroquois' Kevin Day in 2:18. Prescott had a commanding 13-3 lead before using a bar-and-half for the fall.

The Dragons' Nalbone beat top-seeded and previously undefeated Matt Haberl of Maryvale 6-4 in the 105-pound bout. The match was tied 4-4 after two periods, but Nalbone recorded an escape and received a point for stalling in the last 1:22 to pull out the victory.

The win was especially sweet for Nalbone since he lost by a point in overtime in last year's Section 6 finals at 91.

"Jim wrestled the match I thought he would," Maple Grove Coach Curt Miceli said. "Jim wasn't as sharp on his feet, but his conditioning pulled him through."

Falconer's Waddington wasted little time in pinning Sweet Home's Tim Shifflet in 1:34. Waddington got the initial takedown then applied a half-nelson and scooped Shifflet's leg for the pin.

"I wasn't looking for anything in particular — I just hit what was there," Waddington said in describing the pin.

Olean's Irving claimed the 119-pound championship with a narrow 4-3 decision over Albion's Rawn Mitchell. With the scored tied at 3-3 and both wrestlers on their feet, Irving received a point as Mitchell was called for stalling with seven seconds left in the match. It was the second point Irving received because of stalling.

It was a controversal call and upset Albion Coach Steve Piccierilli. "The kids should decide the match, not the referees." 2-25-85

Huskies' Coach Meyers said, "It was an excellent call. The kid didn't shoot one takedown the entire match. He was just holding on while Irving continually shot for a takedown."

Cassadaga Valley's Penhollow claimed his second straight Section 6 title with an impressive 9-1 victory ove Clarence's Dan Uhteg in the 155-poun test. Penhollow raced to a 7-0 first period lead as he tipped Uhteg twic for back points. He sealed the victor with a third period reversal.

Olean's Gabler won the 167-poun title in the same fashion he took th Southern Tier Conference crown — wit takedowns. He used five takedowns an a three-point near-fall to rout Niagara Wheatfield's Bill Kopera 14-5.

Daryl Gattuso of Depew, named th tournament's Outstanding Wrestle handed Falconer's Joel Sopak a 10- loss in the 126-pound title tilt. Sopa trailed 8-7 with 30 seconds left, bu Gattuso wrapped up the win with hi fourth takedown on the match.

Jon Vesper of Clarence used a "par cake" and pinned top-seed Marty N chols of Cassadaga Valley in 4 seconds. Vesper took Nichols righ down to the mat and used a press t notch the fall.

At 145, Sweet Home's Kevin Bo registered a hard-fought 12-7 victor over Falconer's Ray Norton. Bos race to a 7-1 first period lead, but needed takedown with 30 seconds left to sto the upset-minded Norton.

In the final match of the nigh Williamsville South's Brian Schoenl handled Falconer's Tony Milliner 14- in the unlimited battle. Schoenle tippe Milliner twice for back points and als used four takedowns to score the dec sion.

The consolation round saw Falconer Chad Waddington (98) and Olean Matt Martin (250) taking third whil the Huskies' Ron Prescott (126) an Darrin Cowher (215) finished fourth.

Victory over Abington a boost for Pennsbury

Pennsbury vaulted into the top 10 in The Inquirer's Southeastern Pennsylvania wrestling ratings after Wednesday's impressive 45-16 decision over Abington, which entered the dual meet unbeaten and ranked No. 7. 1-29-85

The victory, which moved the Falcons to No. 7, was the start of a difficult week for Abington, which subsequently lost to No. 8 Methacton, 38-20, on Saturday.

Pennsbury will be tested again Saturday when it squares off against No. 6 Sun Valley in the Pennsbury Invitational Tournament.

In other highlights from last week's action, Downingtown took a big step toward the Ches-Mont League championship with a thrilling 25-22 win over Great Valley. The feature match in that meet was in the 119-pound class, where top-ranked Mike Seese of Downingtown handed third-ranked Kirk Nolan his first loss with a 7-1 decision. The win pushed the Whippets from No. 4 to No. 3 and dropped Great Valley from No. 2 to No. 4.

Also last week, top-ranked North Penn moved into the state's Top 10 for the first time in the school's history. The Knights are ranked No. 10 by the Pennsylvania Wrestling Roundup newspaper. North Penn is the lone District 1 representative rated among the state's elite by that respected publication.

It's time to think about those tournaments

Now that only a smattering of dual meets remain, area wrestlers can focus on the sectional tournaments to be held Friday and Saturday at six sites. 2-20-85

North Penn, which retained its No. 1 ranking in The Inquirer's Southeastern Pennsylvania ratings, is expected to stamp its mark on tourney competition with five wrestlers ranked among the top five in their respective weight classes.

No. 2 Downingtown received a lift with the return of Bruce Tharp, the top-ranked 119-pounder, who had missed most of the season with a broken ankle. Tharp's return allowed Downingtown coach Alray Johnson to drop undefeated and top-ranked Mike Seese (22-0) from 119 to 112. Seese has completed his sixth straight undefeated dual-meet season.

Methacton made the biggest gain in the top 10 with a 29-26 upset over Great Valley. The Warriors climbed from No. 8 to No. 4, while Great Valley, which wrestled without top-ranked 185-pounder Charlie Haines (injured shoulder), dipped from No. 3 to No. 5. 2-20-85

Federation Proposal Irks Portville

By GARY MALONEY
Times Herald Sports Writer

Officially, no one associated with the Western New York Football Federation is admitting anything, at least for public record.

That's understandable, for two reasons. 12-14-84

First, the proposals for divisional realignment that were ironed out in a federation meeting Wednesday night are strictly that — proposals. No 1985 schedules have been finalized just yet.

And, second, if federation officials were to comment on their proposals publicly, they might find it necessary to make their home phone numbers unlisted following the flood of angry calls they're likely to receive, particularly from Portville.

Though details are sketchy, the federation chairmen reportedly made the following realignment recommendations for the next two seasons:

1) move Olean High from Division VI to Division V;

2) move Cleveland Hill from Division V to Division VI;

3) place newcomer Portville in Division VI; 12-14-84

4) place newcomer Allegany in Division VIII;

5) drop Westfield from Division VIII down to Division IX; and

6) move Forestville from Division IX to Division X.

If those recommendations are accurate — and as of Thursday night, only the Portville proposal could be confirmed — then the half of the 10 federation divisions would be as follows (1984-85 enrollments, students grades 10-12, in parentheses):

Division V
Depew (820), Olean High (688), Alden (639), Springville (601), Eden (592), East Aurora (574), John F. Kennedy (475)

Division VI
Dunkirk (633), Pioneer (632), Fredonia (548), Southwestern (477), Gowanda (433), Salamanca (370), Cleveland Hill (366), Portville (366)

Division VIII
Falconer (368), Allegany (325), Silver Creek (286), Cassadaga Valley (278), Frewsburg (270), Randolph (251), Maple Grove (241)

Division IX
Westfield (222), Panama (205), Pine Valley (196), Brocton (175), Clymer (134), Mayville (126), Sherman (115)

Division X
Franklinville (197), Cattaraugus (183), Forestville (158), Ellicottville (155), Hinsdale (125), Little Valley (90), Limestone (70). (West Valley has announced it won't play varsity football the next two years).

FOUR DIFFERENT federation officials, including Section 6 chairman Chuck Funke and Division X chairman Mark Ward, refused comment on the proposal, which they consider is strictly a matter between the federation and school officials at this juncture. 12-14-84

However, except for the Cleveland Hill move, the TH has learned the other moves are being considered, though nothing will be finalized until the next federation meeting Jan. 16.

Portville, in particular, would seem to be most angered by a possible placement in Division VI, making it, potentially with Cleveland Hill, the smallest member in a league with possible the widest enrollment differential in the federation.

The recommendation, should it come to pass, also is surprising since just two years ago, the federation allowed Falconer to drop from Division VI to Division VIII when it proved it couldn't compete against its much-larger league-mates year-in, year-out.

In fact, Portville, with its 366 students, is two students smaller than Falconer, the largest school in Division VIII, a league, incidentally, it hasn't won in its first two seasons.

12-14-84

THEN, TOO, potential Portville foes such as Dunkirk and Fredonia, are even further away than the Division VIII schools with which Portville was expected to be aligned.

"We feel it's a bad placement for Portville," noted Portville principal Mike O'Brien, who added his school will appeal the proposal. "When we had talked with Mark (Ward), Chuck (Funke) and Nunzio (Maiorana, Section 6-president) before we applied, we were told nothing was definite, but that (Division VIII) was probably where we would be placed."

If Portville and Allegany are put in different divisions, the only way their 50-plus year rivalry could remain intact is in a non-league game. Same with Olean High and Salamanca, should they remain in different divisions.

Unlike Portville, Olean would match up equally well in Division V, as it has in Division VI, which it has won two of the past four years, though it, too, would face increased travel costs.

Portville Should Try New Loop Before Saying It Can't Compete

Mr. Pollock,

I feel I must comment on Gary Maloney's Local Notes of last Friday, concerning the Western New York Football Federation's proposed schedule for realignment.

Personally I think that going against top competition is the only way to improve a team. Sure Portville's proposed alignment puts it in against six bigger schools, Dunkirk being 267 students larger. And if Portville wants to complain after a couple of years of not being able to handle its larger school opponents, then let it step down and try to beat up on the six schools smaller than themselves — Maple Grove being 125 students smaller.

Years ago, a coach from Pennsylvania told me that a person never improves himself by beating up on the Little Sisters of the Poor — one only gets better at any sport by playing someone better or bigger.

Why not take the challenge instead of crying 'Uncle' before you even try?

Travel is one factor that might be mentioned as an excuse for Portville's dissatisfaction with its proposed alignment. But if travel money is a determining factor, Portville should have stayed in the Border league or gone independent, to stay close to home.

One other factor Mr. Pollock. Portville apparently has decided to drop Bolivar, in favor of Allegany as its one non-league opponent. A Portville official claims the school is not dropping Bolivar. It will play Bolivar on the ninth date — the almost one that becomes available if neither team makes the playoffs.

However, attendance at Portville-Bolivar games is larger than at Portville-Allegany games. Then too, the behavior of Bolivar coach Bob Dunsmore's teams is exemplary. The series between these two friendly rivals has been free of any incidents. Mr. Dunsmore is as good a coach as you could want — a true gentleman!

Portville Belongs In Division VI

By GARY MALONEY
Times Herald Sports Writer

It may be an unpopular opinion, but . . . 12-27-84

If Portville Central School is inserted in Division VI of the Western New York Football Federation, which federation officials now are considering, it should tough it out for two years rather than pull out in protest.

Sure, a much more reasonable placement for Portville would be with neighboring Allegany in Division VIII, where Portville would be the second-largest member in a league with enrollments varying only 146 students (grades 10-12) from the largest to smallest school.

Yes, Portville would be tied with Cleveland Hill, should that school be transferred from Division V, as the smallest Division VI entry. Granted, Portville's program isn't on a par with a Dunkirk or Salamanca, traditional football powers.

But if Olean High should move to Division V, as federation officials also have discussed, that would leave five of the eight Division VI members — Southwestern (477), Gowanda (433), Salamanca (370), Cleveland Hill (366) and Portville (366) — within a mere 111 students of each other, certainly a reasonable competitive differential.

Then, too, of the three "large" schools in Division VI — Dunkirk (633), Pioneer (632) and Fredonia (548) — none has won a championship, and only Dunkirk has come close. Pioneer, in fact, hasn't had a winning season in six years.

In other words, though Portville would be better suited for Division VIII ball, it's not unrealistic or unfair to stick it in Division VI, at least for two years, until the federation again considers league realignments.

There are other reasons why Portville should stick it out in Division VI as well.

PORTVILLE IS known as a "football town," one boasting a long winning tradition in the sport.

Yet, for all its success, nearly all its opponents have been schools smaller in enrollment, albeit not much. Still, some traditional foes, such as Bolivar, Bradford Central Christian and Cuba, have been less than half its size.

Granted, enrollment doesn't mean everything. Indeed, with "smaller" schools such as Bolivar and Smethport boasting proud football pasts, Portville's schedule certainly has been representative. 12-27-84

But now, Portville, with all its past football successes, can accept a new challenge.

Admittedly, Division VI football is a big step up — the players are somewhat bigger, the weight training programs and facilities more advanced at most schools.

But that's all conjecture, anyway.

The fact is, Portville's enrollment has remained relatively stable in recent years. Meanwhile, school districts such as Cleveland Hill, Dunkirk, Olean High, Pioneer, Salamanca, Southwestern and Wellsville all have lost more than 100 students in the top three grades, according to sectional figures, within the past five years.

In other words, Portville, on enrollment alone, should be competitive within the first year or two, at least against the division's smaller schools.

SOME WOULD argue that because the weaker Division VI teams are used to playing a more rugged, "large-school" schedule, even they would manhandle Portville initially, let alone a Dunkirk or Salamanca.

Somehow, I doubt that.

First, if Portville's 113-49-4 won-lost-tied record of the past 20 years against predominantly smaller, yet competitive, teams has any credibility to it at all, Portville, at the very least, should be able to hold its own, even in defeat, with a Cleveland Hill, Gowanda or Southwestern right from the start.

After all, those similarly sized schools, along with Pioneer, have lost with a great deal more regularity than they've won for several seasons.

Second, when Falconer dropped down from Division VI to VIII two years ago, many thought it would dominate the smaller loop as it did in the mid-70s, when it had many more than its current figure of 368 students (10-12). Yet Falconer, the largest Division VIII school, hasn't won the league in two seasons.

For Portville to pull out before or after Jan. 16, when the federation officially will decide on its two-year realignment plan, its "proud football tradition" will be second-guessed and snickered at in years to come as one not up to accepting a challenge.

Overtime Ends Bolivar's 'Best Effort'

By GARY MALONEY
Times Herald Sports Writer

OAKFIELD, N.Y. — His football team had just lost its fourth playoff game in as many tries — this one coming after it had extended an unbeaten team to overtime, only to come up a bit short once again.

Yet, though Bolivar Central School coach Bob Dunsmore's heart ached for his players, a faint smile never left his lips as he accepted condolences following a heartbreaking 27-20 overtime setback against Oakfield-Alabama (9-0) in a Section 5 Class C semi-final playoff game Friday night. 11-9-85

"I'm not a crier or I'd be crying right now," noted Dunsmore, who, nevertheless, was visibly moved by what he termed his team's best game of the season, even in defeat. "After being the underdog, playing an unbeaten team on its field and being down two touchdowns, the kids didn't give up.

"They had Rochester (site of next Friday night's 'C' championship game) on their minds, I'm sure. And I know I've probably got 35 crying kids in there (motioning to the locker room)."

Bolivar now has lost all four of its playoff games by eight points or less over the last seven seasons. The first one, back in 1979, was a tough 7-0 championship game loss to Geneva DeSales — Bolivar's only defeat after nine straight wins.

But when asked which playoff loss was toughest to accept, Dunsmore didn't hesitate.

"This has to be the toughest of them all, because it came in overtime after we had made a big comeback," he noted.

INDEED, BOLIVAR (5-4), the No. 4 seed, nearly played itself out of this one midway through the contest.

Trailing 13-6 late in the second quarter, Bolivar wasted an opportunity to pull even at the halftime by failing to score on four cracks inside the O-A 2-yard line.

Then, when top-seeded O-A (9-0) took a 20-6 lead with 4:40 left in the third quarter, Bolivar seemed finished.

But Bolivar's offense, quiet to that point, ignited behind the passing of senior quarterback Dick Lindamer and a stunned Oakfield-Alabama team suddenly found itself locked in a 20-20 tie with 9:46 left in regulation play.

"We came back in the second half," Dunsmore explained, "because of our usual big plays. We can't drive it out, drive it out. We're not that kind of team. We used the big plays, like we have all year."

"We haven't given up big plays like that all season," O-A coach Tom Woodruff observed. "We let them get back in the game with the long kickoff return (setting up Bolivar's second touchdown), and one guy gets beat twice on deep passes.

"We were nervous," Woodruff continued. "I think our kids were tight the whole game, especially in the skill positions where most of those kids are juniors. This was the first time this year we've been involved in a really tight game."

Still, O-A had a chance to win the game in regulation with the ball on the Bolivar 14 and 11 seconds to play. But a 30-yard field goal attempt fell short, forcing overtime.

NEW YORK State overtime procedure gives each team a chance to score, either by touchdown or field goal, on four plays from the 10-yard line at the same end of the field. PAT kicks or two-point conversions are run, when necessary, after TDs.

If the score remains tied after each team has been given one series, the procedure is repeated until one team outscores the other.

Bolivar won the toss, and elected to go on defense first. But O-A's ground game needed only two running plays to score, the second a 3-yard option keeper by quarterback Tim Ruth.

Bolivar apparently got the touchdown it needed to force a second OT when Lindamer easily scored on an 8-yard bootleg. But four officials flags hit the ground simultaneously and the TD was wiped out by a blocking below the waist infraction — Bolivar's only major penalty of the night.

Then, on 3rd-and-goal from the O-A 20, Lindamer's pass was picked off on a diving interception at the O-A 1-yard line, ending the game.

"They played us tough," a relieved Woodruff observed afterwards. "Our kids might have been a little bit overconfident when they were up 20-6 and thought they had the game under control. But you have to give credit to Bolivar. It was a shame anybody has to lose a game like this."

"I cannot fault our kids at all," countered Dunsmore, who paused, then turned away before adding, "They gave it every bit of football they had in their bodies."

Offensive Explosion Had Port Allegany 'Scared'

By PETE DOUGHERTY
Times Herald Sports Writer

PORT ALLEGANY — Of all the games not to have the scoreboard working.

An electronics snag Saturday afternoon blacked out the scoring columns on Port Allegany High School's football scoreboard. Even at 100 percent efficiency it might have had trouble keeping up with the numbers Port A and Bolivar were putting up. 9-23-85

Port Allegany finally won the war of unbeatens, 34-26, giving third-year coach Bob Haskins as many victories this season (four) as he had in his first two combined.

It was the kind of game that sends defensive coordinators into isolation. Port scored 20 first-half points, but found itself down by six.

"We were a little scared," Haskins admitted. "We felt we could move the ball, but had to stop the quarterback."

"THE QUARTERBACK" in this case was 5-foot-11, 190-pound Bolivar senior Dick Lindamer, whose three first-half completions netted 151 yards and three touchdowns.

Port Allegany, which yielded less than 50 yards on the ground, kept Lindamer in check the second half. Bolivar failed to score after intermission and Port produced two third-quarter scores to garner the win.

"We adjusted our defense in the second half," Haskins related. "We were trying to cover them with man-to-man coverage, and we were missing assignments. We went to a zone in the second half and dropped the halfbacks way back."

Meanwhile, Bolivar could not stop a well-balanced Port Allegany running attack that featured three backs — Dick Sherwood, Eric Crawford and Paul Robbins — with at least 70 yards rushing. Sherwood, who scored twice, gained 138 yards on 25 carries.

"We're not an explosive football team," Bolivar coach Bob Dunsmore admitted, "although today we were. We can't be any more explosive than we were in the first half.

"But we can't be giving up five touchdowns. We're not a six-touchdown team."

PORT ALLEGANY, headed for its first winning season since an 8-0-1 campaign in 1980, hasn't won four straight by luck. Two of its victims — Coudersport and Bolivar — have lost only to Port Allegany, while Bradford Central Christian's lone defeats were to Port and unbeaten Smethport.

"This was the toughest (game) so far," Haskins said. "We've got to be real happy with this win. This was definitely one of our better ballgames.

"This year we're getting a great deal of leadership from our seniors. We have the leadership, and the players are getting their first taste of winning."

Dunsmore figures Port Allegany will win a few more before the season ends.

"I said before the game that the winner of this game would have a good season," he remarked. "That was a strong team that won the game. They should have a real good season."

As for his own team, Dunsmore added, "I felt if we could get by Port Allegany, we could have a strong season. I thought going into the season defense would be our strength. I never thought our defense would be giving up five touchdowns."

Bob Connell

Memories Of '99-Cent' Offense

By TOM ROOF
Times Herald Sports Writer

When Bob Connell first took over the Portville Central School football program in 1963, he never figured a 99-cent playbook would change his thinking. 11-21-85

But two years later it did, and Connell went on to become one of the most successful coaches in Portville history, retiring in 1979 after 17 years with a 90-45-5 record.

Come Saturday, Connell will be among those attending a 20-year reunion of his unbeaten 1965 team — the first to put his "99-cent game plan" to work — at the Portville American Legion.

Wednesday night, Connell took time out to reminisce about that '65 team, which posted a 7-0-1 record and outscored its opponents by a whopping 265-63 margin.

"Personally, that 1965 team is the one that's closest to my heart," said Connell, who has stayed active by coaching the Portville freshman team. "Prior to that year, those kids had gone through so much adversity. They were the same kids who had suffered through a couple losing seasons and the humiliation of a long losing streak. But that year, they turned it around."

THANKS, IN part, to Connell's insight to try something new.

"We won two or three games my first year (3-5) and five my second, but then in 1965 I decided to put in a brand new offense — and all it cost me was 99 cents. No kidding. I joined a book club and I got a small book by Tiger Allison, a successful Ohio coach, on a run-and-shoot offense, so I tried it.

"I scrapped the old single-wing and went into a wide-open, spread-it-out offense where you throw to anybody, anytime, anywhere. Fortunately, we had the kids that could do it."

Led by junior quarterback Gene Bingman, who as a senior won the Times Herald Big 30 Player of the Year award, Portville rolled over all its opponents but one — Cuba, the most unlikely team on the '65 schedule to stop Connell's "Desert Rats."

"That was one of those games, no matter what you said to anyone, they didn't believe you," Connell recalled. "Cuba had one win coming into that game and we were 4-0, but (Cuba coach) Ron Mosher threw a different defense at us and we weren't ready. Before we woke up, we were down 13-0. But we came back to tie it and we were on the goal line when the game ended. I did a lousy job coaching that game."

The only other game Portville trailed in was against Allegany, coming from a 19-13 deficit in the fourth quarter to win 26-19. The other victories came over Franklinville (34-0), Port Allegany (40-13), Bolivar (44-6), Little Valley (36-0), Smethport (39-6) and Otto-Eldred (33-6). 11-21-85

"WE PLAYED a good defense, but nobody could stop that offense," Connell recalled. "It was quite complicated and Bingman was just the kid to make it work. But I also found some good linemen and my son (Mike) was a receiver with 9.7 speed in the 100.

"Believe me, if I was a coach, I would have hated to coach against it. It was terribly difficult to defend against. There was always someone in motion."

Tom Jordan, who centered for the '65 team and is the one responsible for putting together Saturday's reunion, also offered some thoughts.

"There was no comparision to Bob as a coach," said Jordan. "By far he was one of the greatest.

"He was a smart coach, and he lived by the ax handle. He always had it with him and when you didn't move when he said 'hut,' you moved when he raised the ax handle. But everybody respected him."

Allegany Runs To Prominence

11-16-85

By GARY MALONEY
Times Herald Sports Writer

That the Allegany cross country program had "arrived" on the state level was pointedly stated when the boys' team finished fifth among Class C schools last Saturday in the New York inter-sectional championships.

The exclamation point came in Thursday's mail.

It was this week's edition of the New York State Sports Writers Association (NYSSWA) newsletter, which had the latest boys' cross country rankings.

There, in the 27th spot, was Allegany — the first Big 30 school ever to be ranked in the prestigious state cross country poll.

Thirty schools were ranked in all, along with a handful of honorable mention choices. Only two Section 6 schools — No. 4 East Aurora and No. 9 Grand Island — were ranked higher.

Before the state meet, Allegany wasn't even listed among the honorable mentions, while the other two Western New York teams were ranked 12th and 28th, respectively.

What boosted all three schools, and especially Allegany, was the caliber of competition among Class C schools at the state meet, compared to the B's and A's.

A one-paragraph short underneath this week's rankings said it all:

"Beaver River is the new No. 1, based on comparative times from separate races at state meet. The Class C race had the best times."

Beaver River, in case you missed Monday's Times Herald, easily captured the 'C' title, earning the Section 3 (Syracuse area) school the No. 1 state ranking (it was 7th a week ago).

Rounding out the top five 'C' schools and their state ranks: 8th, Onondaga (Sec. 3); 19th, Newark Valley (Sec. 4); and 22nd, Norwood-Norfolk (Sec. 10), which finished just 15 points ahead of fifth-place Allegany.

ALLEGANY COACH Bill Sprague, who took over a fledgling program in 1980, contends a state championship is possible for the school.

"That has to be looked upon as our top goal," Sprague said Thursday night. "But anybody who's going to be successful in any sport can't look at it as just a seasonal thing. Running camps are a factor. You obviously don't come in late August and decide, 'Okay, I'm going to run cross country.'

"We had several kids who worked hard, put in a lot of miles and those who did were successful," Sprague added.

Indeed, Sprague (78-29 six-year won-lost record, .729 pct.) has been able to reap benefits from the sacrifices of his athletes and their parents, whom he admits have helped a great deal.

Such is its impressive reputation that the program attracted Terry Rust, who lives in Great Valley, attends Ellicottville Central School, but wanted to run for Allegany. He was allowed to do so, because Ellicottville does not have a cross country team.

Although Rust, a senior, was among Allegany's top three or four runners early this season, he was slowed by bursitis of the hip, which prevented from competing in the state meet.

Yet, Sprague marveled at Rust's dedication — a characteristic sprinkled throughout the team, but made doubly tough in his case.

"For two years, his dad brought him to practice every day from Great Valley," said Sprague, estimating the distance at 12 to 14 miles. "He never missed a practice."

Allegany's rapid rise at the state level — it finished 10th a year ago — has brought colleges inquiring about some of Sprague's top runners.

Brothers Sean (senior) and Mike (sophomore) Drake, along with senior Mark Messer and sophomore Dennis O'Brien have heard from colleges, with Bucknell, a Division I school in cross country, among the top colleges interested in the Drake brothers and Messer.

"A lot of our college responses refer to a youngster by name, a particular race they ran in, their times — they've been pulling out all the information," Sprague said. "And those meets are the bigger invitationals, when a lot of top kids are there running on the same course, the same day under the same conditions. But what I think is great is the school is identifying with the youngster.

"We've tried to expose ourselves to various levels of competition and we've had varying degrees of success," added Sprague, citing top-five finishes in prestigious meets such as the Clarence, Newark and McQuaid Invitationals, where Allegany often competes against much larger schools.

Coudy: No 'Wasted' Win Here!

By GARY MALONEY
Times Herald Sports Writer

BOLIVAR — Like a gas heater pumping out warm air in a room with the windows open on a winter day, Coudersport High School's 7-0 football victory over Bolivar was hardly cost efficient.

Indeed, there was plenty of wasted energy by Coudy in this showdown for the Tri-County League championship Friday night. 10-17-85

After recovering a fumble that led to the game's only touchdown just 3:03 into the contest, Coudy proceeded to blow one golden scoring opportunity after another, then nearly let the game slip away in the second half when Bolivar mounted its only serious scoring threat.

Still, you won't hear Coudy coach Paul Simcoe complaining, at least too much.

With most of the Pennsylvania gridiron attention focused on unbeatens Smethport and Port Allegany this season, his somewhat unheralded club now is 6-2.

"We've shut them out three years in a row now," Simcoe proudly noted, "and not too many people do that to a team like Bolivar. That's one of the things I think our kids are really proud of."

The three straight shutouts — 21-0 last year, 34-0 in '83 — have also produced three successive league championships for Coudy, which boasts an impressive 22-3-1 won-loss-tied record since 1983.

And though this team doesn't have the excellent athletes of Simcoe's last two powers, you get the idea this club pleases him the most.

"I've said this from the start — this is a better team than we were last year," Simcoe maintains, referring to the 7-1-1 club of a year ago. "We have more better players that can contribute. We play 20 to 22 kids regularly."

But one reason this team has lost twice as many games as the last two teams put together is its inability to capitalize on scoring opportunities — a flaw that stood out against Bolivar (4-3).

Though it dominated the first half statistically, Simcoe warned his troops at halftime that it could lose if it wasn't careful.

"Because we passed up so many chances, and because Bolivar is the kind of team that can score on the big play, if they do that and score two points, we lose, even though we outplay them," Simcoe said.

Bolivar, which has been blanked in five of its last six losses over the past two years, picked a bad game to struggle offensively.

"We can't play defense much better than we did tonight," said an obviously discouraged coach Bob Dunsmore, whose Bolivar team saw its Section 5 playoff hopes severely damaged by the setback. "We just couldn't keep any steady drives going, other than that one time (to the Coudy 24 early in the fourth quarter).

"Coudersport played good defense, they hustled, and they took way the short (pass) routes and the deep routes. They blitzed a couple times, and that helped them, too."

Smethport Still 'Reap'ing Benefits

By CHUCK POLLOCK
Times Herald Sports Writer

BOLIVAR — Carl Defilippi maintains that his undefeated Smethport High School football team isn't a "one-dimensional" club. 10-12-85

But somehow, he hasn't convinced the opponents.

Smethport, 7-0, rode one of its best defensive efforts of the season to a surprisingly easy 28-0 victory over Bolivar Central School, here Friday night. Yet, once again, it was T.J. Reap, the "one dimension" to whom Defilippi referred, who dominated both sides of the line of scrimmage.

The 5-11, 200-pound quarterback-linebacker had 13 rushes for 78 yards and two touchdowns, threw for another, and on defense made eight tackles and recovered a fumble.

"Every time they needed a big play on offense, T.J. made it," lamented Bolivar coach Bob Dunsmore, whose club slipped to 4-2. "It takes more than one player to beat you, but he has a knack for doing the right thing at the most critical possible time . . . he's a competitor. Then, just when you start concentrating on him, one of their other players hurts you."

Recalling Reap's work at linebacker, Dunsmore added, "I actually think he hurt us more on defense . . . just by his presence. You have to be conscious of him all the time, because he's everywhere. I had kids come out of the game and say, 'Coach, I hit him (on a block), and he still made the tackle.' "

FOR HIS part Defilippi, bidding for his first undefeated season after campaigns of 8-1, 8-1, 7-2 and 8-1, admits he's had more talented teams. But the Smethport coach adds, "I've never had a team with this much heart.

"We hadn't started a sophomore since Scott Burdick in 1982. This year we're starting four, and those players haven't hurt us."

Indeed, an opportunistic defense turned the game around for Smethport.

First, Defilippi's troops recovered a Bolivar fumble at the four to avert a touchdown. Then after Smethport took a 7-0 lead, Bolivar fumbled the ball away on the next play and the visitors scored a second TD three snaps later. Scott Hungiville's long interception return set up his team's third score, just before halftime, and the game was over.

"We saw (in the paper) where they felt they could move the ball on us," Defilippi noted, "and our kids took it as a challenge."

But the Smethport coach, despite seeing his team hold Bolivar to 128 yards, wouldn't say it was the year's best defensive effort.

"We did a good job against Coudersport (20-6 win over a 5-2 team) last week," he reminded. "I'm a little numb from this win. And we have another big one coming up in two weeks (Smethport is idle next weekend) when we play Port Allegany (6-0) in what should be a battle of unbeatens."

Experiment Works In Federation Games

Big 30 Football

By GARY MALONEY
Times Herald Sports Writer

Section 6 football chairman Chuck Funke and his Western New York Federation committee have to be smiling this week. Nov. 1985

Their experiment — to improve the overall competitiveness of the federation championship games — worked just as it was designed to.

The federation committee last winter decided to add two wild-card teams to the 10 divisional champs that automatically qualify for the one-day playoffs. The motivation behind the move was to break up the Division VII vs. VIII annual mismatches that resembled anything but a "championship caliber" contest.

So, the committee added a sixth game and decided to send the Class C wild-card up against the champ from Division VIII, which, before this year, was the only league never to have one of its teams win in Rich Stadium (0-6).

Meanwhile, Division VII was the league whose representatives were unbeaten (6-0) in playoff action.

So what happened last Saturday?

The seventh edition of the federation playoffs enjoyed their most competitive year thus far. No game was decided by more than 20 points — the first time that had ever happened — and three games were decided by a single touchdown.

A fourth contest, Fredonia's 31-18 victory over Wilson, saw the Division VI champs rally from an 18-0 deficit to win — the greatest playoff comeback yet in terms of number of points overcome by a winning team.

And, the best news of all for committee members, the Division VIII picked up its first-ever playoff win when Falconer blanked Royalton-Hartland, the Class C wild-card, 8-0, in Game 2.

Ironically, previously unbeaten Division VII took a double dip Saturday, since Wilson, which shared the league crown with Roy-Hart but was the division representative for Rich because it beat Roy-Hart in head-to-head play, lost as well.

Despite the rainy weather, the extra game, plus the number of schools making their first appearance in Rich, helped boost attendance.

Although the final figures are still unknown, total attendance for the six playoff games is expected to top 10,000, a slight increase over last year and a sizeable improvement over the 7,446 total in 1983.

In addition, beefed up security measures reportedly helped reduce vandalism inside the stadium — an issue that threatened to jeopardize the federation's working agreement with the Buffalo Bills had the damage not been curbed.

WITH ELLICOTTVILLE'S 13-6 triumph over Sherman and Bolivar's 27-20 overtime loss to Oakfield-Alabama in a Section 5 Class C semi-final tilt, New York Big 30 teams are now 7-9 in post-season play.

Cattaraugus County schools, however, are 7-4 playing in Rich Stadium. Division X teams are 4-2 in federation championships, and have won four straight over Division IX.

ONE IRONIC sidelight to Bolivar's season-ending loss Friday night:

In 1979, Bolivar coach Bob Dunsmore's son, Stan, was a senior running back on a team that entered the Section 5 'C' finals with a 9-0 record, only to lose to Geneva DeSales, 7-0, on a fourth-quarter interception return for a TD.

This year, Dunsmore's youngest son, Mike, was a senior running back on a Bolivar team that rallied from a 20-6 third-quarter deficit, only to lose in overtime.

Mid-Season Report Card

By TOM ROOF
Times Herald Sports Writer

As we near the midway point of the Big 30 high school football season for Pennsylvania teams, seven are ranked in this week's Times Herald poll and three — Smethport, Johnsonburg and Port Allegany — are undefeated. 9-24-85

Two other teams, meanwhile, Ridgway and Coudersport, each only have one loss. It's close-knit group that has a number of keen-eyed Big 30 observers pulling out their comparison charts.

But is their one member of this quintet that is actually superior to the others?

TIMES HERALD BIG 30 HIGH SCHOOL FOOTBALL RATINGS

Pa. Big 30 Notebook

The following mid-season report card may help decide:

Smethport (4-0): Only noticable weaknesses here is passing, but that seems to be the biggest problem for all five schools. The defense, allowing only 5.3 points a game, is headed by vets T.J. Reap and Shane Appleby and has been one of the stingiest in the Big 30 the past couple of years. Offense, averaging 27.5 ppg, hurt by season-ending injuries to Rob Dickinson and Paul Ennis, but Appleby, Reap and Bruce Tessena run well behind a strong line.

Johnsonburg (4-0): Beating Kane 40-0 was impressive, but like Smethport, still hasn't beat a team with a winning record. Sophomore QB Tim Myers and back Jeff Peterson are game-breakers, while underrated Doug Dunworth and Steve Steudler would star on most other teams. Said one veteran Big 30 committeeman: "They take advantage of what is given to them and don't make many mistakes. But they'll have trouble playing quick teams with decent size, teams with big people up front that can hit, like Ridgway and Curwensville."

Port Allegany (4-0): Of the three unbeatens, Port has played the toughest schedule thus far, handing Coudersport and Bolivar their only losses. Running backs Dick Sherwood and Paul Robbins provide a punishing ground game that runs most effectively behind left tackle Roger Veilleux and left guard Shag Ramadham. Most vunerable in the secondary. "It's not that their secondary is bad," said one committeeman, "but they have some short kids back there. You can see where they have a hard time keeping up against taller receivers."

Ridgway (3-1): Another team that remainly on the run, Ridgway's biggest strength is with its coaching staff. "Ridgway always seem to have the stamp of a highly orgranized team," noted one observer. "Everybody knows what they're doing. Areas of responsibility are broken down very clearly. This is a typical Ridgway team, nice balance and a lot of different players are used." Top player is running back Jim Disque, who has provided an additional dimension with his kicking.

Coudersport (3-1): Since losing to Port Allegany, 14-7, in season opener, Coudersport outscored its next three opponents, 79-6. Running back Dan Cowburn has become of the Big 30s top rushers. He must continue to be so, though, as Coudy went from throwing the ball 17 times against Port to three Friday in a 35-6 win over Walsh. Defense, which has 12 shutouts in its last 22 games, is headed by veteran Jim Carey. 9-24-85

EXTRA POINTS: Nods for the "best-groomed" field in Pa. going to the St. Marys Public surface, which has yard markers trimmed in color and numbered lines every 10 yards. . . . Unusual development in Elk game Friday at Renova against Bucktail. With 4:18 left to play in third quarter, coaches agreed to run that time off the clock and play a 10-minute fourth quarter. Bucktail was ahead, 35-0, at the time. . . . A bad snap by Port Allegany may have helped Port win Saturday's clash with Bolivar. Facing a fourth-and-12 with 25 seconds left to play, Port's Paul Robbins was back to punt, but a bad snapped forced him to do otherwise. Robbins heaved a desparation pass to senior back Tim Brown for a 13-yard gain and a first down. Port was then able to let the clock run out instead of giving Bolivar QB Dick Lindamer one last chance.

Ellicottville, Bolivar 'Bend,' But Don't Break

N.Y. Big 30 Football

Defending Western New York [illegible] sion X champion Ellicottville Central School won its 10th straight game, while Hinsdale, Randolph and Franklinville each won their season openers, highlight New York Big 30 football action Friday night.

In other games, Bolivar improved to 2-0 while Wellsville lost to Wellsboro.

Ellicottville 26, Maple Grove 14

Ellicottville extended its unbeaten streak to 13 games (12-0-1), longest in the Big 30, by downing Division VIII foe Maple Grove.

Joe Vogtli keyed Ellicottville with 184 yards rushing on 12 carries and scored two touchdowns, while John Ditcher added 72 yards on six totes.

Jamie Ditcher, Tim Murphy, Dana John and Orrie Macomb combined for 40 tackles as Ellicottville won for the 18th time in its last 21 games (18-1-2).

Bolivar 20, Bath 6

Taylor and Mike Dunsmore led Bolivar's ground game with 103 and 76 yards, respectively.

Bolivar had to hold off a late fourth-quarter drive by Bath (0-1), which ran up 234 yards total offense.

Hinsdale 20, Clymer 16

Keith Zimmerman scored twice and senior Byron Herald rushed for 168 yards on 15 attempts as Hinsdale rallied to down Clymer. Herald also led Hinsdale's defense with eight tackles and two assists.

Franklinville 14, Westfield 0

Bill Weller (77 yards, 12 carries) and Steve Preston (67 yards, 17 carries) led a Franklinville offense that rolled up 30 first downs.

Randolph 28, Cattaraugus 0

Here's Why Bolivar Is No Longer Unbeaten

By GARY MALONEY
Times Herald Sports Writer

As the reviews came in on the Bolivar-Port Allegany battle of Big 30 scholastic football unbeatens, one over-riding sentiment was expressed as to why Port came out on top, 34-26, last Saturday.

Though Bolivar burned Port's secondary for 151 yards through the air and three touchdowns — all in the first half — the deciding factor in its defeat was Port's domination of the line of scrimmage, particularly in the second half. 9-24-85

"They're a good team, but they had no line — that's the real reason they lost," one Big 30 committeeman observed. "They blew Bolivar off the ball."

Indeed, Port's 291 yards rushing and 5.5 average per carry was the difference, offsetting a solid performance turned in by Bolivar quarterback Dick Lindamer.

N.Y. Big 30 Notebook

"He's a good quarterback, he's tough," noted another veteran observer. "Between him, the kid I've seen from Bradford (Curt Palutro) and the kid from Johnsonburg (Tim Myers), they're all in the same (performance) class."

ONE OTHER NOTE from the Bolivar-Port tilt. The 39-yard field goal booted by Paco Garcia, the Spanish exchange student in his second season as Bolivar's kicking specialist, tied the school record for the longest FG kicked.

Garcia's boot was attempted into a slight breeze, yet still cleared the crossbar by a good five yards, according to several observers.

IT SEEMS ELLICOTTVILLE was taking nothing for granted in its clash against visiting Cattaraugus last Friday.

In a contest pitting two first-year head coaches, ironically both Ellicottville assistants last season — Tim Bergan for Ellicottville and Joe Crandall of Cattaraugus — Ellicottville (2-0) rolled to a decisive 34-0 victory. 9-24-85

In last year's regular season finale, Cattaraugus, with just four seniors under then-coach Chuck Crist, gave unbeaten Ellicottville its biggest scare of the season, leading 14-12 well into the fourth quarter before Ellicottville pulled out a 28-14 triumph.

"Ellicottville was sky high for this one," noted a longtime Big 30 observer. "I think they realized they may have taken them (Cattaraugus) lightly last year."

FEAR NOT, WELLSVILLE fans, a win may soon be forthcoming, if last Saturday's 36-30 setback to Bath was an accurate indicator as to just how much Wellsville is improving.

While the loss was Wellsville's 24th straight spanning parts of four seasons, one onlooker noted, "It really was a win for Wellsville (the way it played). Bath (1-1) is that good a team. Wellsville is coming on real strong. Jim (Stein, first-year coach) is doing a hell of a job.

"The mental attitude is better and the kids aren't quitting. It's just a matter of time now. They're coming close, but they still need a win to get going. Maybe next weekend."

Wellsville (0-3) hosts Cowanesque Valley (0-4), whose smallest losing margin this season has been 13 points.

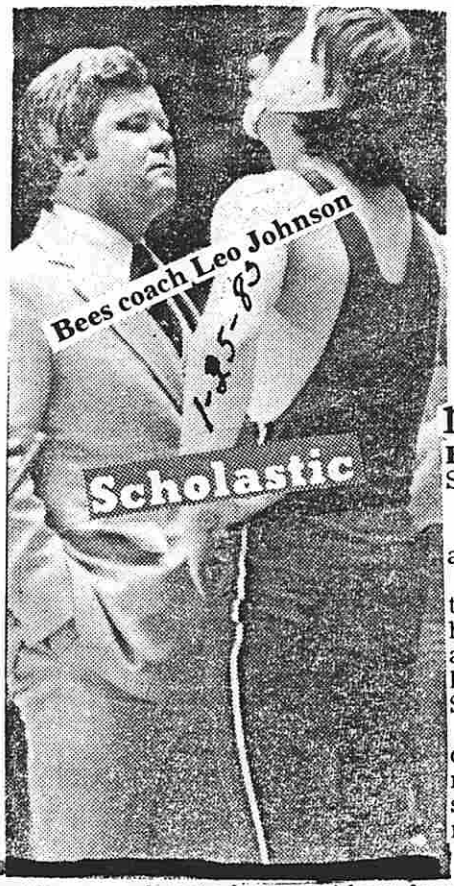
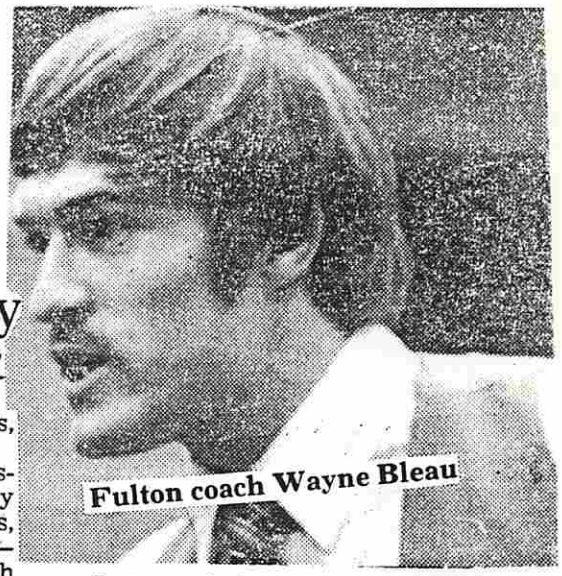
Johnson the hunter, Bleau the hunted

Now, B'ville wrestlers chase Fulton, and the hunt resumes Saturday





Both men believe in preparation.

"I always felt I was cheated as a wrestler," Bleau says. "I decided I wasn't going to have a wrestler of mine be cheated."

Leo Johnson watched, expressionless, as history happened.

His Baldwinsville High School wrestlers were about to do something they hadn't done in 78 straight dual meets, and 95 meets in the Onondaga North — lose. Their conqueror was Fulton High School. 1-25-85

Johnson knew it was partly his own doing. For several years, his Bees had mowed down every team in their path, some of them teams they had no business beating. Their success had inspired other coaches to borrow ideas from Johnson's program and use his own weapons against him.

Now, on this night in February 1982, Fulton had caught Baldwinsville. When it was over, 38-20, Johnson sought the Red Raiders' coach, Wayne Bleau, in the crush of 5,000 people and told him, "If I had to lose to anybody, I'm glad it was you. You've worked hard for it."

The apprentice, Bleau, had equaled the master, Johnson. A process begun about eight years earlier, when Bleau first met Johnson, had been completed.

Both teams have lost occasionally since then, but they continue to be the hub around which the rest of Section Three wrestling revolves. Beating either is an achievement for any wrestling team, because it means beating Johnson or Bleau.

This year, Canastota appears to be the section's dual meet king. But that won't diminish the drama Saturday night, when Fulton and Baldwinsville meet at the Onondaga County War Memorial in a dual meet which always seems to be more than a dual meet.

It will be almost as if the two teams are just extensions of Johnson and Bleau, as if the two coaches were out on the mat themselves.

So many times during their long reign, Johnson's Bees prevailed against teams with twice their talent, sometimes coming from behind. Johnson has a way of motivating his wrestlers, of turning average athletes into machines, and he still does it.

Bleau hasn't quite equaled him in that regard, but — like Johnson — he's become crafty in the art of juggling lineups, of using the sometimes vague rules of wrestling to outfox opposing

All of this has its roots in the day Bleau and Johnson first met, in 1974.

Baldwinsville was just becoming a dominant force that year. Bleau was fresh from college, coaching at Whitesboro and interested in coaching in the Onondaga North.

Whitesboro came to Baldwinsville for a dual and found a surprise: Johnson planned to have the junior varsity and varsity matches at the same time, on adjoining mats. No time for the varsity to prepare mentally for its match, no time for pep talks.

Johnson had put Bleau on his back, and Bleau didn't recover. "That was my introduction to Leo — expect the unexpected," Bleau says. "To this day, half of our dual meet with B'ville is mind games."

The two men became friends that summer, at St. Lawrence University's wrestling school, which they now direct together. The only time they aren't friends is during the weeks before their dual meet.

They can be so different. During matches, Johnson keeps his emotions inside. Bleau is in constant motion.

They are from opposite ends of the state — Johnson, 46, from Long Island, Bleau, 34, from the Plattsburgh area. Yet they are, in many ways, two of a kind.

Both men inherited programs which were winners but nothing like what they are now. Both worked hard putting in place the machinery which keeps their programs going: assistant coaches who teach what they want taught, youth programs to feed theirs, prematch rituals which stress mystique and tradition

"There were times in high school when I went out there on the mat without knowing things," Johnson says. "Our kids may not be the toughest or strongest, but they're always prepared. We never want them to go out there not knowing what to do."

Johnson and Bleau have been known to scream at a wrestler who is coming off the mat, pleased with himself, because they felt he was sloppy.

"I stress performance over winning," Johnson says.

It's a nice philosophy, but it can be difficult to remember in a sport such as wrestling, where the athlete wins or loses alone, and in a place like Baldwinsville or Fulton, where victory is as much part of winter as snow.

"A lot of times, kids worry about losing," says Bleau. "There's no shame in losing. Sometimes the wrestler's role is just to avoid getting pinned, to save as many team points as he can."

There are other kinds of pressure. Before the season began, 500 people showed up to see wrestle-offs for Fulton's varsity, turning a normally private matter into a semi-public spectacle.

There isn't just pressure to win. There's pressure to make the team, and it's pressure only a coach who has won 50 or 70 straight meets can comprehend — a coach like Johnson or Bleau.

Johnson's win streaks made him the envy of the state from 1977 until 1982. Every year, he'd predict his Bees would lose a dual meet. "Maybe two or three," he'd say. "We're weak."

Then he'd smile as his teams found a way to beat every opponent — Port Jervis, Canastota, Canandaigua, Fulton.

Now, draw a circle with a 20-mile radius around Baldwinsville, and you'll find several schools which have strengthened their programs, Johnson feels, because of his success.

One of his best students has been Bleau, 12 miles away.

"Fulton was always good, but didn't reach the heights it has now," Johnson says. "It took Wayne a few years to get it rolling. I don't know where he got his drive, but I'm sure part of it was from watching us.

"I don't feel responsible for Fulton's success, but I feel some things I've done over the years have spun off. I feel good about it."

Hearing that, Bleau smiles and nods.

"Leo was so good that if you didn't work hard, you'd never catch him," he says. "By '82, I was getting discouraged. Our talent was even, but he always won out."

Now, Bleau is the one who begins every season with dark predictions of defeat. Now, it's Bleau who seems driven. He can barely sit still. There are so many things to do — opponents to scout, dual meets to plan.

It's his turn to watch while other coaches — including Johnson — pursue him, the way he once pursued Johnson.

Fulton hands wrestlers their first loss, 38-20

After a 49-9 blasting of West Genesee last week Wednesday evening, the varsity wrestling Bees themselves were blasted on Saturday night in the Onondaga County War Memorial by the Fulton Red Raiders, 38-20. 1-30-85

The meet was supposed to be a close one in the battle for the Onondaga North crown. It was also the final event of the newly created Baldwinsville-Fulton Friendship Games. The games were a mixture of 11 varsity and jayvee contests, all from the winter sports schedule.

The crowd of over 4,000 people reported early at the War Memorial to watch the two unbeaten junior varsity squads square off in a cliffhanger of a meet. The Red Raiders won 27-24 on the last bout where their heavyweight Bill Filapokowski decisioned the Bees' Art Bittel, 7-5. That set the tone for the exciting varsity dual.

Baldwinsville's undefeated lightweight ace, Chuck DeMott raised his record to 17-0 with a solid decision over previously unbeaten Kurt Miner at 98 lbs. Chip Pettitt wasted little time in pinning Mark Woodworth at 105 lbs. in just 42 seconds. The Bees were up, 9-0.

At 112 lbs. Mike Bart got a slow start but managed to come back and win 9-7 against Scerbo. Steve LePorte made a few costly mistakes and almost got pinned twice but the determined senior came battling back and tied Dave Williams, Fulton's 119-pounder, 14-14, in a wild match.

Fulton scored its first real points at 126 lbs., where Indian River transfer John Howard up-ended rugged Doug Markert of the Bees, 7-3, at 132 lbs.

Co-captain Shawn Halpin lost a major decision to Fulton's tough Dave Burridge. Burridge caught Halpin with a leg block as Halpin tried to take Burridge over in an early-match cradle. The move cost Halpin five points and set the tone for the rest of the 6-minute match. Halpin tried valiantly to come back but ran into trouble, losing 14-6.

At 138 lbs., Mike Wejnovich looked stale during the first two minutes, but when the second period began Wojnovich woke up and caught Gary Borden on his back for a pin in 2:40 seconds. That made the score B'ville by 20-9.

At 145 lbs., the Bees' Chris Coleman battled back and forth with Fulton soph Terry Lewchanin. It appeared Coleman had it when he stepped over and put Lewchanin on his back, but Coleman forgot to lock his grapevine in and was rerolled over. Lewchanin caught Coleman on his back and pinned the Bee fighter.

The Bees were still alive mathematically but needed two more wins. Tom Rogers appeared ready to go at 155 lbs. And in a wild exchange of takedowns, Mike Atkinson picked up Rogers and slammed him to the mat, throwing on a pinning move that ended the match and the meet at 1:18.

The Raiders were now psyched and on a roll. Fulton ace Mike Maxion nailed Cedric Oakes at 167 lbs., and then Doug Margrey whalloped Scott Wojnovich at 177 lbs., 17-4, for a 5-pointer to bring the score to 32-20.

At 215 lbs., the Bees sent out soph Pat Halpin who has been injured, against tough Ron Cotton. Cotton, who has been wrestling varsity for four years and is only a junior, quickly grabbed Halpin and locked him up in 24 seconds to end the meet at 38-20.

The meet was a high point for high school wrestling in Central New York and drew the second largest crowd ever for a high school dual meet. The loss drops the Bees to 9-1 on the season and puts them in second place in the Onondaga North league race.

This week the Bees face East Syracuse-Minoa tonight (Wednesday) at the Baker High gym and host the Onondaga High School League Northern Division Championships on Saturday in the Baker High gym. The JV championship tournament will also go on in the girls' gym starting at 10 a.m.

Next week the Bees close out the dual-meet season with a trip to rugged Liverpool on Tuesday and a tough Rome Free Academy on Wednesday.

Lewchanin starts streak of five Red Raider pins in a row

Raider matmen beat B'ville in showdown

by Karen Sitar

Fulton's wrestling squad tucked two more victories under their belt last week, the biggest and most important, a decisive 38-20 victory over Baldwinsville, the Red Raiders fourth victory over the Bees in as many matches.

The Red Raiders defeated Cicero-North Syracuse 48-6 earlier in the week. Three Red Raiders won by forfeit. Winning by decision was 98 pounder Kurt Miner 7-3, 119 pounder Neil Pederson 6-2, 138 pounder Gary Borden 4-3, 145 pounder Dave Burridge 14-4, and 177 pounder Jeff Margrey 15-0.

Mike Atkinson and Mike Maxam wrestling at 155 and 167 pounds respectively, both won by pin. Atkinson took just 17 seconds to pin his opponent, and Maxam followed with a 21 second pin.

The junior varsity squad won their match 42-15.

But the real match-up happened Saturday at the Syracuse War Memorial. After Fulton's junior varsity squeak by with a 27-24 victory, the varsity squads took control of the mats.

K Minor suffered his first loss of the season in an 8-3 decision by Baldwinsville's Chuck DeMott. As expected, Coach Wayne Bleau's team was weaker in the lower weights.

Defending Section Three Champion Chip Pettitt pinned Fulton's 105 pounder Mark Woodworth in just 42 sections, and Ed Scerbo lost 9-7 to Mike Bart at 112 pounds.

Dave Williams found life for his Red Raider team at 119 pounds, when he drew 14-14 with Steve LePorte. John Howard added three more points for Fulton with a 7-3 decision over Doug Markert at 126 pounds.

After Dave Burridge won a 12-4 decision over Shawn Halpin at 132 pounds, Gary Borden was pinned by Mike Wojnovich at the 2:40 mark.

At this point, Fulton was down 20-9, but the Red Raiders came roaring back, winning the last five matches of the contest.

Terry Lewchanin put the enthusiasm back into the crowd after a hard fought match which finally saw Lewchanin pin Chris Coleman at the 4:20 mark at 145 pounds.

Mike Atkinson followed at 155 pounds when he pinned Tom Rogers at 1:18. Mike Maxam improved his record to 17-1 at 167 pounds when he pinned Baldwinsville's Cedric Oakes at 1:30.

Jeff Margrey nailed the victory down for Fulton with a 17-4 decision over 177 pounder Scott Wojnovich.

Randy Cotton put the finishing touches on Fulton's come from behind victory over the rival Bees by pinning Pat Halpin in just 24 seconds.

The Red Raiders, plagued by weaknesses in their lower weights, almost always seem to come through with the upper weights.

A crowd of nearly 5,000 spectators saw Fulton improve their record to 13-3, and Baldwinsville drop their record to 9-1. The Bees' loss was their first since their loss to Fulton in last year's dual match-up.

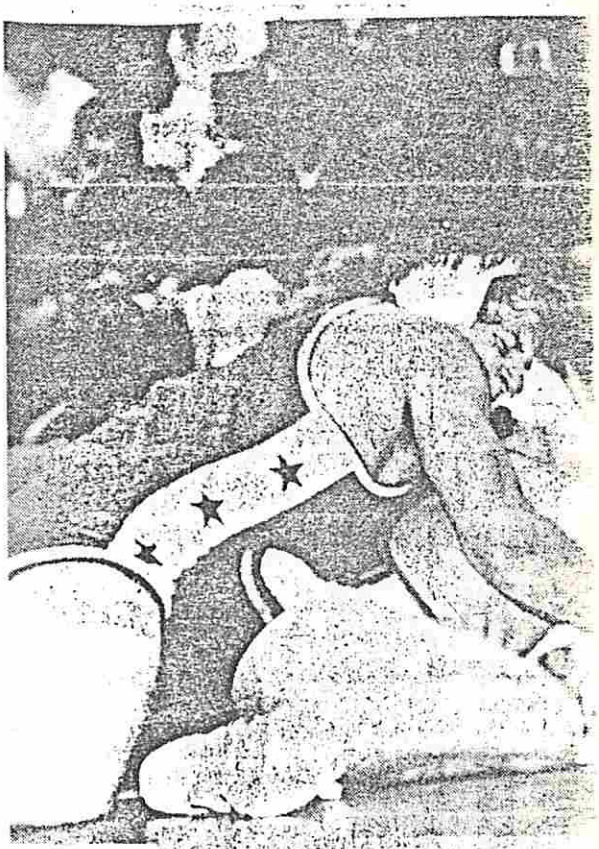
Fulton's victory is expected to pull the Red Raiders ranking up to number 5 in the state, and all but assured the squad of yet another Onondaga North title.

Fulton will face West Genesee Wednesday with the junior varsity starting at 6:30, followed by the varsity at 8 p.m. The Red Raiders will travel to Liverpool Friday for their last dual meet of the season. Again, the junior varsity will begin at 6:30 followed by the varsity at 8.

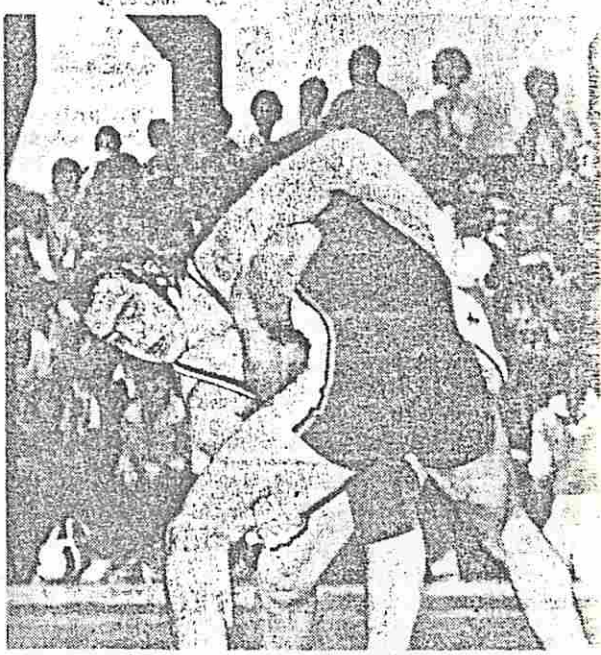
Post season tournaments begin Saturday, and the Red Raiders' strength will be tested in the Onondaga High School League Tournament to be held at East Syracuse-Minoa High School. The tournament is scheduled to begin at 10 a.m.

The Section III Class A Tournament will be held Saturday, February 9 at Central Square, beginning at 10 a.m.

Section III Finals will be held Saturday, February 16 at North Syracuse. The tournament is scheduled to begin at 10 a.m.



Terry Lewchanin got the Red Raider pinning ma moving, when he pinned Baldwinsville's Chris Colem the 4:20 mark. Following Lewchanin's pin were pi Mike Atkinson, Mike Maxam and Randy Cotton, a as a decision by Jeff Margrey.



Raider wrestler Randy Cotton controls his opp during a recent Fulton match. In the Red Raider's vi over Baldwinsville, the 215 pound Cotton score fastest win of the night, pinning the Bees' Pat Hal just 24 seconds.

Lewchanin starts streak of five Red Raider pins in a row

There is a finality about the sound of a referee slapping his hand against a wrestling mat, signifying a pin — a message that something has ended suddenly.

A referee's slap against a mat might perfectly sum up the high school dual meet between Fulton and Baldwinsville high schools Saturday at the Onondaga County War Memorial. It was a sound the crowd of about 5,000 heard more than once, but particularly at the end of the bout at 145 pounds.

When Fulton's Terry Lewchanin pinned Baldwinsville's Chris Coleman in 4:20, it signified the end for Baldwinsville and the beginning of a five-bout sweep by the Red Raiders. The result: a 38-20 Fulton victory.

True, the Raiders' Dave Williams had helped his team immensely by tying Baldwinsville's Steve LePorte, 14-14, at 119 — a wild, back-and-forth battle of reversals and back points.

True, Raider 132-pounder Dave Burridge had gained more points with a 12-4 victory over the Bees' Shawn Halpin.

But it was Lewchanin's pin which swung the meet's momentum in Fulton's favor, paving the way for Red Raider victories in the final four bouts, three by pin.

Until then, the Bees had a 20-9 advantage. After Lewchanin's bout, his teammates brought the match to a close with a suddenness which Fulton coach Wayne Bleau compared to a lightning bolt striking.

The wrestling match was the last of a series of winter sports events between the two schools, called the Friendship Games.

Fulton dominated the Games, 9-3. Before the varsity wrestling match, the Raiders won the junior varsity match, 27-24. Earlier in the afternoon, the Bees captured the varsity boys basketball contest, 71-38.

Baldwinsville built a 12-0 lead in the first three bouts of the varsity match before LePorte and Williams tied. The Bees' Chuck DeMott got a decision at 98, teammate Chip Pettitt had a 42-second pin at 105, and 112-pounder Mike Bart edged Fulton's Ed Scerbo, 9-7.

After the tie, Fulton's John Howard decisioned Doug Markert at 126, 7-3, and Burridge beat Halpin. Mike Wojnovich's pin in 2:40 at 138 gave the Bees their final points.

Watching Lewchanin and Coleman battle was like watching two rams meet head-on. Coleman put the Fulton wrestler on his back, Lewchanin reversed him and the Red Raider took a 9-5 lead before cranking Coleman to his back in the third period.

This is what followed for Fulton: first-period pins by Mike Atkinson (155) and Mike Maxam (167), a 17-4 triumph by Jeff Margrey at 177, and Cotton's devastating pin in 24 seconds at 215.

As Cotton pressed Pat Halpin's shoulder blades to the mat, he looked up triumphantly at the Fulton half of the War Memorial's crowd and snarled.

"This is the big one. If you can't win your league, why go all over the state?" Bleau said of the win, referring to his team's difficult schedule and its love of tough competition.

The victory — the fourth straight dual meet win by Fulton over Baldwinsville — virtually assured the Raiders of the Onondaga North A Division title and made its record 13-3. Baldwinsville is 9-1.

"Our schedule is tough. They (Bees) wrestle good teams, but not like us," Bleau said. Fulton's schedule this year includes losses to Huntington, Canastota and Maine-Endwell, and wins over Canandaigua and East Rochester. All are state powers.

Bleau said he felt the bout at 119 was crucial. "LePorte came back. You've got to give him credit," he said. "That's how they (Bees) are — they're fighters."

Convincing win over Baldwinsville signals return to dominance for Fulton

By MICHAEL BUCCI
Syracuse

If ever a match told the story of a long and sometimes troubled season, Fulton's 38-20 clobbering of Baldwinsville Saturday did just that. If ever a team had to scratch and claw to prove it had risen from its year-long struggle, the Red Raiders' come-from-behind win over their arch-rivals from the Onondaga League seemed to offer just that proof.

Saturday's match before about 5,000 fans at the Onondaga County War Memorial drew parallels to this season that a Pulitzer-prize-winning novelist might have scrolled. And when it was all over, Coach Wayne Bleau's squad had achieved its fourth straight win over Leo Johnson's fourth-ranked Bees.

The scenario began early and painfully for Bleau's team. Baldwinsville used its strong lower weight trio of Chuck DeMott, Chip Pettitt and Mike Bart to jump out to a quick 12-0 lead over the Red Raiders. An early end to this annual clash seemed imminent.

But the Red Raiders had learned from early-season defeats. There was the loss at Canastota in December, a defeat that ended any hopes of regaining the state title Fulton had held two years ago. A week later, an unprecedented second loss came at the hands of top-ranked Huntington. Then, after the suspension of several of the team's wrestlers, the remaining squad suffered a shocking loss to Maine-Endwell that dropped the Red Raiders to 10th in the state rankings.

Youth and inexperience had exacted their price.

"We had problems early in the year," junior 215-pounder Randy Cotton said. "We didn't have the confidence. The young guys didn't put it together. Now they're used to the pressure."

Perhaps that was the difference at the War Memorial Saturday. But when Fulton finally began its comeback, 119-pounder Dave Williams lost an eight-point lead in the third period and had to settle for a tie with Baldwinsville's Steve LePorte. And after Fulton had pulled within five at 14-9, the Bees' Mike Wojnovich pinned Fulton's Gary Borden at 2:40 to extend Baldwinsville's lead to 20-9.

That was the last match the Bees would win.

Just as they had done against then-third-ranked East Rochester, and two days later against state-ranked Canandaigua, the Red Raiders stormed back like a gambler on a roll in Vegas. The four pins they achieved in the last five matches constituted domination bordering on scariness.

"We are a vastly improved team," Bleau said afterward. "Our schedule is difficult. That helps us in big matches. You're only as good as your competition."

Competition helped Terry Lewchanin, a sub-.500 wrestler coming into the match. It was Lewchanin who started the comeback when he pinned Chris Coleman in 4:20. Senior 155-pounder Mike Atkinson accomplished the same feat in 1:18, before Mike Maxam picked up six more team points in a minute and a half.

In just over seven minutes, the Red Raiders had turned a 20-9 disadvantage into a 27-20 lead.

"It finally paid off," said Lewchanin, a wrestler who was 6-8 coming into the match. "There was a lot of pressure. I knew I had to do something really good or it was all over for us. I guess I did the job in the biggest match of the year."

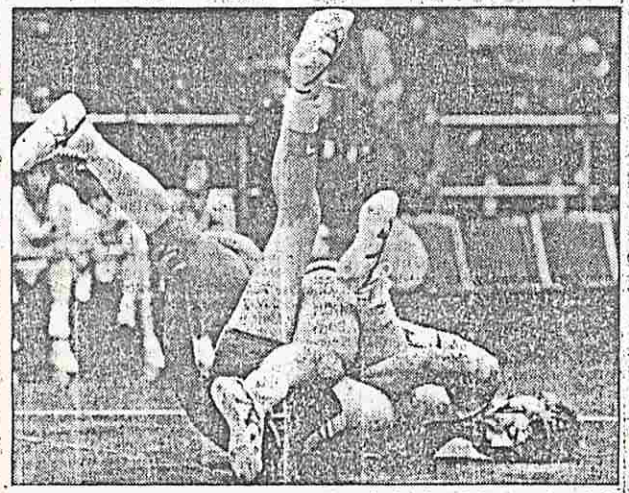
Yes, he did. As did Atkinson, and Maxam, who had endured a shocking pin to turn the match around at Canastota only a month before.

"This match helps a lot," said Maxam, who completed his four-year scholastic career undefeated against Baldwinsville. "We came in with a lot of expectations. But every match you wrestle could be different. You never get the feeling like being No. 1, but this match makes up for a lot."

After the final match had ended, after Cotton had delivered a devastating 24-second pin on Pat Halpin, the huge wrestler raised his arms triumphantly toward the Fulton crowd. The near-ultimate display of power — 29 points in five matches — had ended in ultimate domination.

"I wanted to pin him," Cotton said. "I wanted to go out and give the crowd something to remember this match by."

Notes: With the win Fulton virtually assured itself of the Onondaga League North A Division title, and raised its overall record to 13-3. Baldwinsville fell to 9-1. . . The wrestling match was the last of a series of winter sports events between the two schools, called the Friendship Games. Fulton won the games, 9-3.



Fulton's Mike Maxam took control early in the 167-pound match and pinned his Baldwinsville opponent, Cedric Oakes, in 1:30 as the Red Raiders swept the top weights to seal their victory.

Fulton's Dave Burridge, in white, finally prevailed against Baldwinsville's Shawn Halpin, 12-4, in the 132-pound class Saturday. Fulton won the match handily, 38-20.

Raiders Buzz By Bees

SYRACUSE — Three years ago was a vintage year for Fulton High wrestling. A league championship, a Section Three title and a state dual championship, all firsts for the Coach Wayne Bleau program.

But, 1984-85 isn't exactly a clunker.

"It kind of looks like 1982, doesn't it," remarked Bleau after glancing up at the Onondaga County War Memorial scoreboard Saturday night following the Super Bout with Baldwinsville.

It read: Fulton 38, Baldwinsville 20. The identical score that first brought Fulton its king-of-the-hill status in January 1982.

The only difference is, this team may not win a state dual championship. So, how important was Saturday night's win over the previously-unbeaten Bees (9-1)?

"What good is traveling all over the state like we do if you don't win your own league championship," was Bleau's response.

Of course, Fulton must score duals over W. Genesee at home Wednesday and at Liverpool Friday before making official their fourth OHSL North championship.

At the level the Raiders have performed up til now, those are almost a given.

Fulton, 13-3, will look to stretch from sixth to fourth in the state rankings, replacing Baldwinsville, when the latest poll is released Tuesday morning.

Their victory Saturday concluded a run against eight state-ranked opponents, finishing 5-3.

If strength-of-schedule was factored into the final poll, Fulton would win hands down.

But, victory Saturday over the Bees wasn't easy. Bleau will tell you that much.

"I figured we had to win three by the time we got to 138," he said. Fulton only got two and was trailing 14-9 before Bville's Mike Wojovich pinned Gary Borden (2:40) to stretch the score to 20-9.

Given what high school wrestling is, Bleau admitted he got a bit nervous. But the tension didn't last long. Fulton won the last five bouts, four by pin, to erase an 11-point deficit and replace it with an 18-point win.

"Vrrooom, we just mowed them down," Bleau said in mock wonder.

Terry Lewchanin, Mike Atkinson, Mike Maxam and Randy Cotton aroused the 5,000 fans with shades of the 1982 Minute Man waltz.

The honor, however, went to much-improved Jeff Margrey, who is 100 percent now after a football injury.

Wrestling at 177, Margrey beat a good man in Scott Wojnovich, 17-3, to clinch the match for Fulton.

Cotton, who was pinned last year while Fulton natives celebrated a 29-22 victory, didn't miss out this time.

He finished the night with a 24-second pin, showing Pat Halpin (14-4) the scoreboard final from a bird's eye view.

"I was kind of disappointed it didn't come down to me (for the win)," said Cotton. "But, I'm real glad the whole thing turned out for the team."

He wasn't being selfish. His 24-second pin, upping his record to 17-1-1, displayed how badly he wanted to atone for last year's disappointment.

The man most given credit for turning the night around was Dave Burridge. The 132-pounder scored a solid 12-4 win over Sean Halpin in a match that could have gone Baldwinsville's way and given the Bees an eventaul 23-5 lead.

"He was real strong tonight, but I just went after him," Burridge said of his 11-4 opponent.

"I beat him twice last year, winning once in overtime on criteria, but he beat me in the tournament when I lost by default. I got hurt."

Burridge's win closed the gap to 14-9 and it came on the heels of John Howards' 7-3 decision over Doug Markert.

Until then, Fulton had only a 14-14 draw between Dave Williams and Steve Laporte to show for the first four bouts.

The first match was won by Bville's unbeaten Chuck DeMott (17-0), who wrestled down to oppose formerly unbeaten Kurt Miner (18-1). DeMott, who Bleau says is good enough to win the Sectionals (Miner should go at 91 pounds), led whistle to whistle, winning 8-3.

Chip Pettit (18-1) pinned Mark Woodworth in 42 seconds, Mike Bart (18-3) overcame a 5-0 deficit to decision Ed Scerbo 9-7, and Markert overcame a 14-6 deficit to tie Williams.

Bville's final victory came at 138.

While all pins are impressive, those scored by Lewchanin, Atkinson and Maxam were bonecrushing.

Lewchanin gambled every inch of the way, leading 4-1, 9-6 and 14-8 before gaining an early third-period fall.

Atkinson, only two weeks back from a suspension, then electrified the crowd with a stunning 1:18 pin of Tom Rogers who went into the match with a 12-4 record.

Maxam's fall (1:30 over Cedric Oakes) brought the crowd to its feet. The victory was his 15th straight since last losing at Canastota (18-1 overall). The Fulton strongman has anwered all critics since Dec. 14 and is primed to play Red Raider-Red Raider in the upcoming Section Three tournament should Canastota's Nick Zupan, Mike Leibl or Jim Mason present themselves.

Games Go To Fulton

BY JIM TERRAMIGGI

SYRACUSE — The first annual "Friendship Games" between Fulton and Baldwinsville, an 11-event challenge between the two schools, never got down to the final segment, wrestling.

It's too bad. Fulton wrestlers would have made it dramatic after winning both the junior varsity, 27-24, and varsity, 38-20, over Baker High.

Instead, Fulton was the first to score six team victories even before 5,000 fans from both schools poured into the Onondaga County War Memorial Saturday night to watch the wrestling.

They went on to capture an 8-3 triumph in 11 events against Baldwinsville, winning in bowling, hockey, swimming, volleyball and wrestling.

The most spectacular of them all was Fulton's 3-point junior varsity wrestling win. It was the first time ever the Red Raiders had defeated the junior Bees in 22 bouts.

"It's the first time we've beaten them in the 12 years I've been here," said JV Coach Dick Woeller.

The match came down to a 7-5 heavyweight decision by Fulton's Dan Filipkowski. It snapped a 24-all tie.

Fulton led early 14-5, but the Bees rallied to take a 15-14 lead before Joe Pollock regained the edge with a 20-2 decision.

Bville's Jeff Rusett followed with an 8-1 win and Joe Fletcher added a 5:02 pin to give the Bees a 24-19 lead going into the 177 bout.

George Kerr romped to a 16-1 win tieing the match and setting it up for Filipkowski.

Earlier in the day, Baldwinsville handed Fulton its 14th varsity basketball setback with a 71-38 decision.

Baldwinsville Wants Present For Long-Time Coach Johnson

6

By NEIL KERR

Fresh from a 47-6 thrashing of Hornell, 6-0 Baldwinsville will try to give 25th-year coach Leo Johnson his 300th win tonight. The foe will be Dick Smith's 6-1 Fowler squad, which has no intention of becoming the foil for the Bees' celebration.

In the latest Section Three poll, Baldwinsville is No. 2 behind Canastota, while Fowler is up to 10th. The Falcons appear headed toward the championship of the OHSL North's Division B league, where they have already chalked up a 4-0 record in impressive fashion.

"Fowler is more than capable of giving us a tough match," said Johnson, who has also served as the B'ville athletic director the past two years. "They've got at least a half-dozen good wrestlers — Jon Brickman at 119, Frank Jackson at 132, Eddie McShan at 138, Gary Byrd at 155, Antonio Droz at 167 and their heavyweight, Mike Capone. We have no intention of taking this match for granted."

Fowler's top athletes are Jackson (11-2), McShan (11-2) and Capone (10-2).

On the other hand, taking on the No. 5 state-ranked Bees in B'ville on the night when Johnson is chasing a milestone is not conducive to improving your record.

Said Smith, who is 0-2 in past encounters with B'ville, "I can't be concerned with us being Leo's 300th victim. Hey, there were 299 teams that lost to them to get him this far. They've got a big advantage in the first three weights, but we're sure going to go after them. There's no pressure because people expect us to lose. If I wasn't coaching against Leo, I'd wish him a lot of luck."

LEO JOHNSON
Seeks 300th Coaching Win

B'ville's Johnson Heads for No. 300

By NEIL KERR

As his unbeaten Bees head steadily toward another outstanding wrestling season, veteran coach Leo Johnson of Baldwinsville is closing in on a coaching milestone. Wednesday night, the Bees (5-0) defeated Central Square in an Onondaga North dual meet. The win was the 298th in Johnson's varsity coaching career.

Baldwinsville's athletic director the past two years, hopes to pick up his 299th win against Hornell Saturday and capture No. 300 at the expense of visiting Fowler next Tuesday. 1-10-85

Johnson, originally from Long Island's Amityville and an alumnus of Cortland State, is in his 25th coaching season. After spending four years at East Syracuse-Minoa, Johnson has spent the last 21 years building B'ville into the No. 1 wrestling dynasty in the sport. His 25-year dual meet record stands at 298-41 after Wednesday night's victory, including winning streaks of 48 (ended in 1975) and 95 (ended in 1982). That 91 straight wins remains a Section Three record, is the third-longest streak in state history and the seventh longest in national history.

Because they win so often — a 178-7 record in their last 185 duals — the red-uniformed Bees have never been the most popular team in Central New York gymnasiums. However, they have been the most feared and most respected of all Section Three teams.

As West Genesee coach Carl Reistrom says, "Leo and his teams have been the role models for others to copy. He's respected as not only one of the best coaches in Section Three, but as one of the best in the state. He loses once in awhile, but other wrestling teams still measure their progress by how well they do against Baldwinsville. Plus, he's a nice guy."

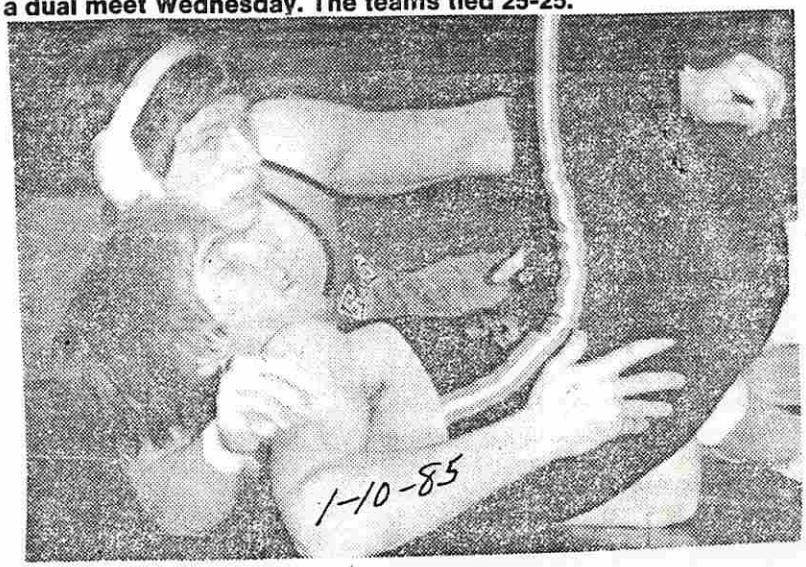
Unlike past years, the Section Three wrestling finals will be held two weeks before the March 1-2 state meet. Previously, the sectional finals were held one weekend before the "states." Sectional class meets are slated for Feb. 9, followed by sectional finals at the War Memorial Feb. 16. The switch was made partly because winter vacation break is scheduled the week of Feb. 17-24 at numerous CNY high schools. As B'ville's Johnson explains, "Almost 30 wrestlers didn't make weight for the sectional finals last year because they were unable to keep their weight down during that vacation week before the finals. This year, we want to get the sectionals over with before vacation starts. Plus, we'll have two weeks to train and prepare the 14-man Section Three team for the state meet, which should help our chances of doing well. Sections Two (Albany area) and Five (Rochester area) have gone to a two-week gap between sectional finals and the states in recent years, and they've both been doing very well."

In wrestling, unbeaten Baldwinsville (5-0) took the first five individual bouts and rolled to a 37-14 conquest of host Central Square in Onondaga North dual meet action. The Bees, ranked fifth in the state, provided 25th-year coach Leo Johnson with his 298th varsity career victory. 1-10-85

In another meet, unbeaten Solvay (7-0-1) was held to a 25-25 draw with invading Mexico in OHSL Central activity. Solvay was behind 23-8 before rallying to earn the tie.

Elsewhere, Onondaga took an Onondaga League South showdown over formerly unbeaten Hannibal 41-15, Fayetteville-Manlius defeated Auburn 36-24, LaFayette flattened Port Byron 38-24 and Pulaski decisioned Tully 32-25.

Defending Section Three 119-pound wrestling champion Steve Bradish of Mexico, top, prepares to pin Bill Yager of Solvay during a dual meet Wednesday. The teams tied 25-25.



Bees pin foe to give coach 300th victory

By Scott Conroe
Staff Writer 1-23-85

Leo Johnson was in his element.

His Baldwinsville high school wrestlers had won Tuesday, beating visiting Fowler, 32-15. He was dressed in gym shorts and T-shirt, his B'ville-red sweater gone — drenched in a post-match trip to the shower.

Family and old friends surrounded him: People who had been watching him coach the Bees for years, who could appreciate the work which had resulted in this night's victory, the 300th of his coaching career.

He hadn't wanted any hoopla over his achievement, hadn't wanted a great deal of fuss, and he wasn't getting much — just a couple of plaques from his team and his friends, just some coffee and cake. Just an atmosphere something like that of a family get-together, in which to savor this latest milestone of his 25-year career, and worry about Baldwinsville's next match. 1-23-85

"Now we've got that one out of the way," he said. "Now we can get going."

This was vintage Johnson, the Johnson of the 78-match win streak which ended in 1982, the Johnson who had told his conqueror, Fulton coach Wayne Bleau, "If anybody had to beat me, I'm glad it was you — you've earned it."

This was the Leo Johnson who built Baldwinsville into a wrestling powerhouse in the early 1970s, a man who is always analyzing his next foe and making sure his wrestlers are as prepared as they can be. This was the man who, Tuesday night, refused to underestimate the team which would be his 300th victim.

He had good reason not to underestimate Fowler. The Falcons have several excellent wrestlers, four of whom won their bouts. But the Bees had too much strength in the lower weights, where they got four pins.

Chuck DeMott was the first Bee to pin his Fowler opponent, flattening Bill Hare at 105 pounds. Chip Pettitt was next, at 112, pinning John Dacey in the first period.

A decision by Mike Bart (119) and a pin by Steve LePorte (126) made the score 21-6 for B'ville. The Bees triumphed in four of the last seven bouts, the most exciting a come-from-behind victory by Shawn Halpin at 138, over Fowler's Frank Jackson.

Halpin trailed Jackson, 11-1, in the second period when he rallied, tilting Jackson to his back and keeping him there often enough to earn a 13-11 decision.

"He (Jackson) was strong, he wouldn't give up," said Halpin, who could have said the same about himself. "I was worried for a while, then I tilted him." He thinks tough wins like the one he had Tuesday "make you work harder — they're better than just pinning somebody in 50 seconds."

The Falcons' winners were Scott Hudson at 98, Ed McShane (145), Antonio Droz (167) and 215-pounder Mike Capone, who decisioned Halpin's younger brother Pat, 9-4. 1-23-85

Fowler coach Dick Smith was happy with his team. He said the fact that a loss would mean Johnson's 300th win didn't matter to his Falcons.

"Our kids aren't used to big crowds, and I think this crowd got them going," he said. "My guys just came to wrestle. Any time you wrestle Baldwinsville, you'd better come to wrestle.

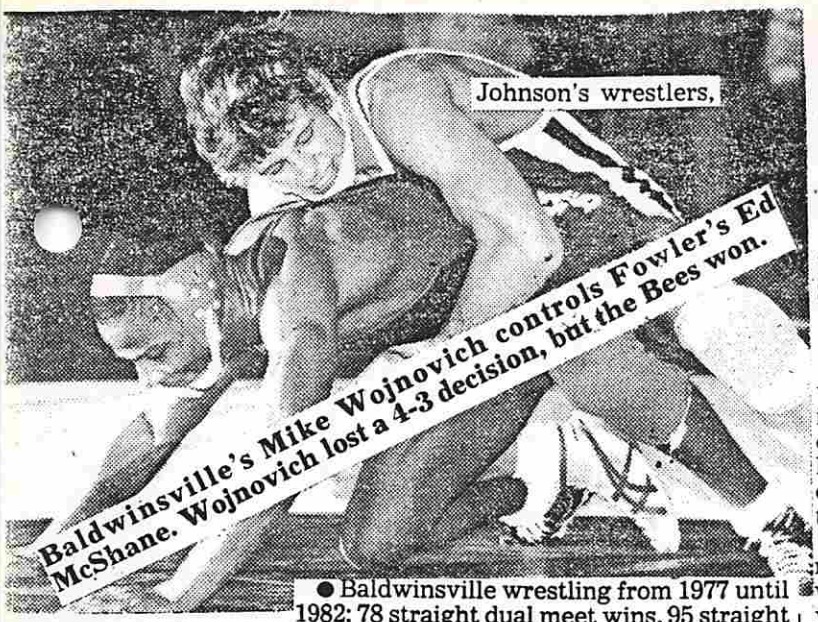
"There were 299 teams before us. I'm not going to worry about it."

All around Johnson were echoes of the past. Bob Medina, B'ville Class of 1969 and Johnson's first state champion, was there. So were several other former ex-wrestlers, like Carl Kristeller '78, who placed sixth in the state at 91 pounds in 1976.

Watching the match made Kristeller think of his own years as one of Johnson's wrestlers.

"Wrestling for Baldwinsville, you're used to winning and big crowds and excitement," he said. "I always wondered what it would be like to be across the mat from us."

There have been at least 300 teams who do know.



Johnson's wrestlers, Baldwinsville's Mike Wojnovich controls Fowler's Ed McShane. Wojnovich lost a 4-3 decision, but the Bees won.

Matmen in stormy tourney win over Stota

The varsity wrestling team turned in its top performance of the 1984-85 season, Saturday at the Sherburne-Earlville Wrestling Tournament, defeating 15 other teams and edging powerful Canastota, 217½ to 214.

The Bees led by 5½ points going into the final two bouts of the evening. Canastota had a finalist at 215 lbs. and the Bees' Pat Halpin at 250 lbs. Either Canastota had to lose or just win by a decision in their 215-lb. bout or the Bees had to win their crown at 250 lbs. to ensure a Baldwinsville victory.

Each wrestler in the finals had an opportunity to win four team points with a victory and an additional two team points of the win was by a pin. 1-9-85

Canastota's Steve Malbouf rallied and pinned his opponent in 5:13 and put Canastota ahead by one-half point. The large Canastota crowd went wild with excitement and the Bees' Halpin was battling big Joe Loverdi of Rochester's McQuaid High School. Winning 7-6, Halpin was called for stalling with three seconds to go and penalized one point; and ending the match in a 7-7 tie. After a 1-minute rest the overtime of three 1-minute periods started and after trading 1-point escapes, the overtime ended in a tie.

The crowd for the most part left the stands and circled the mat, watching and cheering the two athletes on. The referee was forced to go to the rulebook to decide who should be awarded the victory by criteria set up to break ties. The referee hastily read the rules and decided that Loverdi had more escape points and therefore should be declared the victory. He marched out on to the mat and raised the Rochester boy's hand and the Canastota crowd went wild again with joy over winning the team title.

However, Bees Coach Leo Johnson and Bill Halpin questioned the referee's decision and asked to see which criteria he used. After re-reading the rulebook and checking the official score sheet, the referee went out and raised Halpin's hand giving B'ville the 250 pt. title and the team victory. The decision was based on the fact that Halpin had scored a reversal in the second period of regulation time and reversals come before escapes in tie-breaking criteria.

Canastota's fans reportedly became unruly and threatened the referee, the B'ville coaches, and the host school's tournament officials. It took 20 minutes to clear the gym and award the trophies.

On the brighter side the Bees put together a solid performance, placing 13 out of 14 men in the top six. The Bees had three champions in Chuck DeMott at 98 lbs., Shawn Halpin at 132 lbs. and Pat Halpin.

Demott won his second Sherburne title with a 20-1 posting of Mark Foster of Sherburne. The talented junior appears to be the top wrestler in Section 3 at 98 lbs. and may have a shot at the state title in March.

Co-captain Shawn Halpin wrestled real well, pinning two opponents and scoring a superior decision, 15-3. Halpin picked up six valuable points in the finals when he pinned Todd Tribunella of Fairport in 3:27. Brother Pat, a sophomore 216-pounder, also won three bouts enroute to his tournament crown.

The Bees also had three runner-up, second-place finishers in Chip Pettitt who lost 6-5 to Bob Duffy of Canastota at 105 lbs; Mike Bart who lost 4-3 to Canastota's Dave Klein at 112 lbs; and Doug Markert who lost 5-0 in the finals of the 126-lb. championship bout to Tom Gleason, also of Canastota. 1-9-85

Steve LePorte and Tom Rogers placed third at 119 and 167, respectively. Each won three bouts on the day and lost in the semi-finals. Both also won by slim 1-point margins in the consolation finals, LePorte over Canastota's Bob Tornatore and Rogers over Tom Bleich of Hanover, Pa.

Cedric Oakes picked up a fourth place at 177 lbs. as did teammate Mike Wojnovich at 138 lbs. Wojnovich received a standing ovation in the semi-finals as he lost 4-2 in an exciting, hard-fought match to the No. 1 seed Jim Mosley of Union Springs.

Chris Coleman was 3-1 on the day and placed fifth at 155 lbs. Coleman piled up valuable team points as all three of his wins were by pins. Art Bittle also scored a fifth place for the Bees at 215 lbs. with his 12-2 win over Paul Gotte of Sauquoit.

Don Cerio won two matches for the Bees at 145 lbs. and took a sixth place. Brian Johnson picked up four points on his first-round pin win at 91 lbs. and then was eliminated in the next round.

The win marks the 10th year that Baldwinsville won the team title at the Sherburne-Earlville Tournament.

This week the Bees meet Central Square at Central Square today (Wednesday).

In holiday action, the powerful Bees, with eight finalists and three champions, easily topped the Burnet Hills Christmas tourney at Schenectady, rolling up 211½ points to 164½ for two-time defending champion Ballston Spa. Local champs were Demott, Pettit and Bart.

The jay vee's will start at 6:30. The JV and varsity travel to Hornell on Saturday for a 1 p.m. non-league clash.

Next Tuesday the Bees open up their first home dual of the 1984-85 season as Fowler comes to the Baker High School gym for a 6:30 p.m. JV start.

Bleau's Raiders to wrestle tough schedule

by Frank DiRenna
11-29-84

At the top of the popularity chart in Fulton this winter will be the wrestling team that has been a state power for the last several seasons.

The fourth-ranked Raiders are again loaded with talent and should continue to excite sellout crowds in the cozy confides of G. Ray Bodley. Fulton, coming off a 16-1 season in 1983, will again be solid in the division and also a prime contender for the much coveted number one ranking in New York State.

What might delay their drive to the top are injuries. Football injuries to heavyweight Randy Cotton (knee) and middleweight Jeff Margrey (ankle) will leave the Raiders at a disadvantage for the beginning of the season. Both have been working out with the weights and should be prepared to wrestle once their nagging injuries heal.

Added to the Raiders casualty list is standout lightweight Mark Woodworth. The number two seed in the Class A tourney last season has been sidelined by illness, and his loss would hurt the Raiders this season.

But even with the possible losses of three of their top wrestlers for part of the season, the Raiders are still loaded with talent that other high school teams probably wished they had.

Mike Maxam and Dave Burridge are two of the top wrestlers Coach Wayne Bleau will send out on the mat during the season. Maxam, (29-3 last season) who finished second in the Section Three tournament will again be expected to ring up numerous pins in the upcoming campaign. Burridge, who came in fourth place in the Section Three tourney in Syracuse, will assist Maxam in the Raiders rugged schedule.

After clashing with the Bucs of Oswego in the home opener Dec. 5, the Raiders will be forced to oppose four talented teams in the remaining days of December.

The Raiders will entertain the 20th-ranked team in the state, Union-Endicott, Dec. 8. A week later, the Raiders pinsters will embark on the first tough road assignment of the young season as they travel to Canastota for a date with the 16th-ranked Red Raiders.

Fulton will take the long trip down to the wrestling country of Long Island for a double dual meet with two of the top teams in the state. 21st-ranked Sachem and top-ranked Huntington (along with East Rochester). The Raiders are hoping that they can bring home a nifty Christmas present for their faithful throng of fans in Fulton.

The Raiders main objective in the month of January will be to even the score with the Bombers of East Rochester and also to continue their recent domination over their bitter enemies from Baldwinsville.

The Raiders, who saw their 52-straight dual meet victory string end in a loss at ER last season, will aim to turn the tables on the Bombers Jan. 17th at Bodley. With the change of atmosphere, the Raiders should gain sweet revenge against Coach Don Quinn's Bombers.

The Raiders will look to extend their current winning streak to four over the Baldwinsville Bees. The match of the year will take place Jan. 26 at the spacious War Memorial in Syracuse.

With the expected early return of top-notch wrestlers Margrey and Cotton, plus the expected strong showings by Burridge, Maxam, and others, the Raiders again should be one of the top teams on the wrestling mat in the state.

Canastota tops Fulton

CANASTOTA — Until the end came, in the bout at 177 pounds, Fulton's wrestlers were relaxed and confident Friday night.

Sure; they were behind Canastota by seven points with just two bouts left, but there was no cause for alarm. Their representatives at 177 and 215 were Mike Maxam and Randy Cotton, possibly their two best wrestlers. Either could get a pin, and then all the other had to do was win by decision.

That would be it — Fulton would still be the top dual meet team in Section III. But it didn't happen.

Maxam lost to Canastota's Jim Mason, 12-4, and Canastota won the match, 26-21.

"Incredible," said Canastota Coach Jack Romagnoli as his team's fans hugged and patted him. "I told 'em we had to win big, d they responded."

This was a battle between two of the better teams in the state. It was something like a fencing match — feint and thrust, feint and thrust.

Feint: Bleau moved five of his wrestlers down a weight class. Thrust: Romagnoli and his fellow coach, Don New, substituted Bob Bonaventura for Jack Bixby at 138. Feint: Bleau moved Maxam from 167 to 177. Thrust: Romagnoli and New put Bixby at 167 and he won by nine points.

"Bixby went from 138 to 167 against one of the best teams in the state," mused Romagnoli. "It's absurd."

But it worked. Bixby's win gave Canastota an edge, which Mason enlarged into a victory by shocking Maxam, who had pinned him in about 30 seconds during last year's Fulton-Canastota dual meet.

Fulton Coach Wayne Bleau said he plans to protest the dual meet because he believes Bixby didn't weigh enough to wrestle at 167.

Fulton is now 60-2 in its last 62 dual meets.

Fulton wrestlers won four of the first five bouts — one of them a pin by Dave Williams at 119 — to build a 16-5 advantage. Canastota came back with lopsided victories by Tom Gleason (132) and Nick Zupan (155), setting the stage for the wins by Bixby and Mason.

Mason opened his bout against Maxam by shooting for a takedown, but was almost put on his back by Maxam, then took Maxam down. When his lead grew to 6-2 in the second period, the Canastota crowd — which filled about four-fifths of the gym — began to jeer. By the time his victory was assured, the Canastota spectators were standing, whistling and cheering, and Canstota's wrestlers were hugging and being congratulated.

Cotton's 9-4 decision over Steve Malbouf at 215 was almost ignored. The celebration had begun by then. In fact, a point was deducted from Canastota's score because, in his excitement, one of its wrestlers stepped on the mat during the bout at 177.

Sometimes a wrestler's role is to avoid being pinned, to save team points. Fulton's Terry Lewchanin was given such a role Friday, and he responded by holding Canastota's Mike Leibl to an 11-6 decision. At the time, the bout appeared to be the most crucial of the evening.

Bleau accepted his defeat gracefully. "What do you do, quit?" he said. "There's still a tomorrow: We have other goals. They (Canastota) handled the pressure better than we did. Tonight, they were the better team."

'88 Games For Clar 'n Sheets?

By TOM ROOF
Times Herald Sports Writer

Together, Clar Anderson and Mike Sheets combined for nearly 200 career wins and won three NCAA national wrestling championship between them while teammates at Oklahoma State University. 1-5-85

Yet, for Anderson and Sheets, who were in Olean last week for a clinic sponsored by the Olean Wrestling Booster Club, national recognition has eluded them. At least not the kind bestowed upon Georgetown's Patrick Ewing or Boston College's Doug Flutie.

Neither have complained, though, and neither is surprised.

Wrestling on the national level just doesn't have the appeal of basketball or football. Like Anderson says, "Wrestling doesn't have the glamour those two sports have across the country."

In Oklahoma, however, wrestling is BIG TIME. And both Anderson and Sheets — who last year in their senior seasons shared the cover of the Oklahoma State media guide — were local heros.

"It was amazing," Anderson reflected, "people would come up to me I didn't know and tell me 'nice match.' We understand wrestling is a minor sport in most parts of the county, but it's different in Oklahoma and Iowa. We'd get something like 8,000 people to our matches and there's the same attitude there about wrestlers as there is about basketball and football players."

SHEETS, 22, FROM Tahlequah, Oklahoma and Anderson, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Anderson of Olean, were roommates as sophomores. Both now travel together for clinics and while completing their studies are graduate assistant coaches at OSU under head coach Joe Seay.

The fact that the two are so close made both better wrestlers. "Mike put in a lot of extra time," said Anderson, who won an NCAA title as a junior then placed fifth last year. "He was willing to do the extra work to improve himself.

"I've never known anybody as mentally tough as him. I remember him in one match against Iowa where all the kid did was stall. The match was tied, but Mike became so frustrated he was like a madman, doing every thing he could to turn him. He flipped out, kind of went crazy. Afterward he was asked why he didn't just settle for the tie and Mike gave an answer like, 'Shoot, the match was tied before it started.' Later he beat the same kid 16-0 in the (NCAA) finals.

"The thing is, he couldn't be beat mentally. At this level, everyone's about equal, and that's where the edge comes in."

1-5-85

SHEETS, A four-time All-American, was the winningest wrestler in OSU history with a 122-12 record. He also won two NCAA titles, set a school record of 74 straight wins and was the Big Eight Athlete of the Year.

Sheets, who's in a pre-veterinarian program at OSU, is uncertain about his future. But says some part of it will involve wrestling.

"I enjoy coaching, the responsibility," he said. "And going out to these clinics is fun. You really get to meet a lot of people"

About the only possibility for either Anderson or Sheets to continue their own mat careers now, though, remains with the 1988 Olympics. Unlike Ewing and Flutie, neither will be able to land big money from pro contracts.

"In a way, though, it's kind of nice to be done wrestling," Sheets said. "This just isn't a sport you can do all-year around, and after awhile, you get kind of burned-out. You get a little tired of constantly having to lose weight and staying in condition."

"Unfortunately for some wrestlers there isn't a place to go once their college careers are over," Anderson added. "But for myself, I don't really mind. The way I looked at it, wrestling was a vehicle for my education."

Anderson ended his career with a 99-24-4 record and was a three-time NCAA place-finisher and three-time All-American.

"If I'm still around coaching, I may try to give the Olympics a shot," Anderson said. "I'll have the time now to train for that style of wrestling. And they say the average age of maturity for a wrestler is 26."

Ironically, come the next Olympics, Anderson and Sheets, two former roommates, two NCAA champs, and two close friends, will both have reached their 26th birthdays. Could a reunion be at hand?

M-E matmen defeat Fulton

Maine-Endwell wrestling coach Fred Marcello said his squad entered the Union-Endicott team tournament for one reason— to get a shot at a powerhouse Fulton squad.

The Spartans got their shot yesterday, and made the most of it with a convincing 35-20 victory over Fulton in the tournament finals. Fulton was ranked fifth in the New York State Sports Writers Association poll and M-E seventh.

The Spartans waltzed through the tourney with ease. Their other wins were 58-3 over Elmira Southside and 52-12 over Bayshore.

Tioga ended Deposit's three-year stranglehold on its own Lumberjack Tournament crown by amassing 143 points to take the team title by a seven-point margin over Walton.

Five Tigers made it to the championship round, but only 145-pounder Jack Horton came away with a victory. Horton pinned Savona' Adrian Perkins in 2:47.

The Other Tioga wrestlers to make the final round were Jack Collins, Charlie Heyman, Steve Mercia and Jason Duke. All four were pinned.

In non-league dual meet competition . . .

Oneonta's Vince Toscano ran his record to 15-1 in the Yellowjackets' 36-26 victory over host Delhi. Toscano, a 177-pounder, needed just 1:52 to pin Kevin Bender.

In one of the more exciting matches, Oneonta's Tony Kinch pulled out a 7-3 decision over Matt Verspoor. The two were tied until Kinch recorded a pair of near-falls to claim the triumph . . .

Heavyweight Don Conning put the icing on Montrose's first dual-meet victory of the season, 45-17 over visiting Scranton Central. Conning was trailing, 6-2, when he came back to pin Tony Berardelli at 5:16. The Meteors improved their record to 1-2 . . .

Spencer-Van Etten had an easy time of it against visiting Southern Cayuga, winning 10 of 11 matches in a 57-2 laugher.

Baldwinsville continued its dominance in the Sherburne-Earlville Tournament yesterday with a 217-214 victory over Canastota.

"We've had this tournament for six years and I think they've come down and won it every time," Sherburne-Earlville coach Tobin Tansey said.

Baldwinsville, which won the tournament last year by a 271½-195½ margin over Canastota, placed six wrestlers in the championship round and crowned three individual champions.

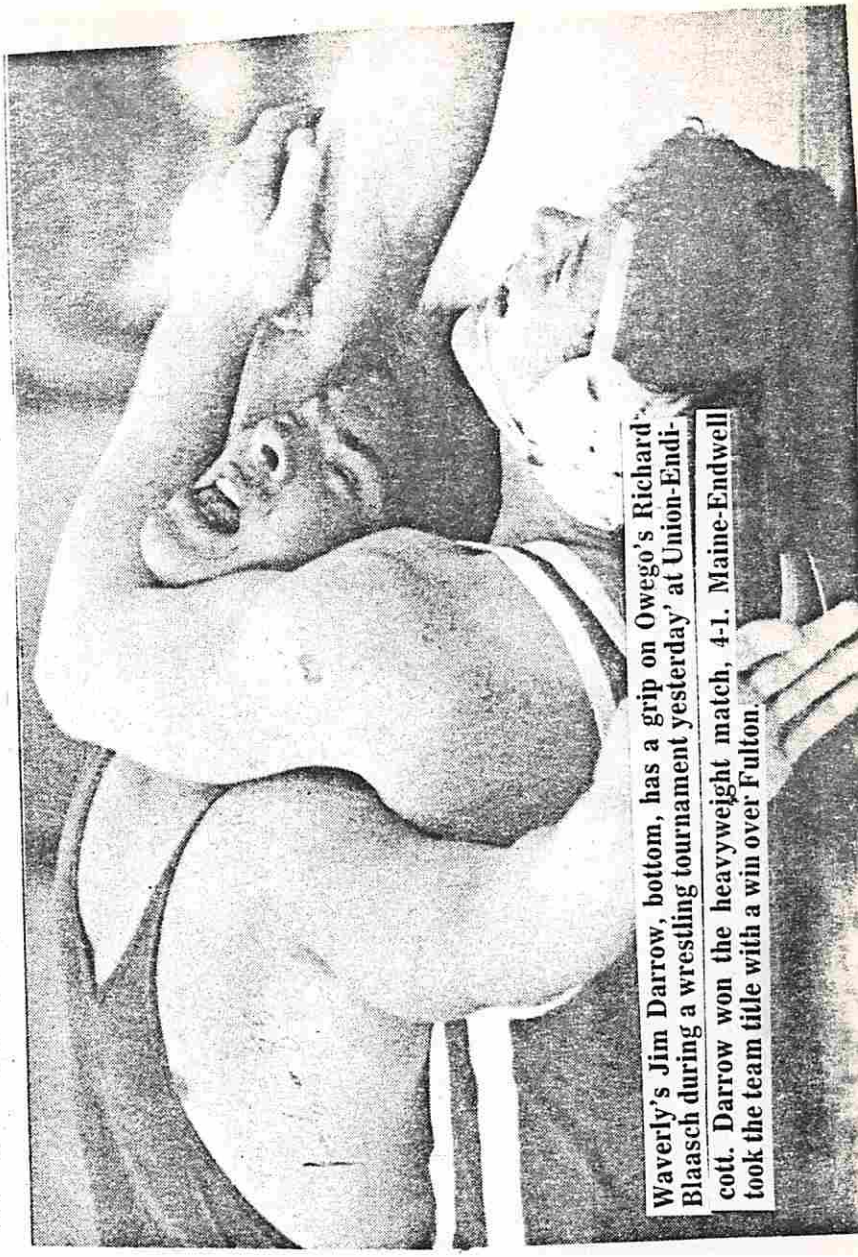
Chuck Demott at 98 pounds, 132-pounder Shawn Halpin and 250-pounder Pat Halpin were winners.

Unatego finished third with 125 points, followed by the hosts with 123.



Waverly's Jim Darrow, bottom, has a grip on Owego's Richard Blaasch during a wrestling tournament yesterday at Union-Endicott. Darrow won the heavyweight match, 4-1, Maine-Endwell took the team title with a win over Fulton.

Fulton wrestlers lose

Despite outstanding performances by several members of its lineup, including 167-pounder Mike Maxam, Fulton lost a battle of the state's top wrestling teams Saturday, 29-22, to Huntington of Long Island's Suffolk County.

12-23-84

Maxam pinned Huntington's Mike Burke in 31 seconds to pull the Red Raiders to within striking distance, 23-19, with two bouts left. But Huntington's Drew Jackson pinned Fulton's Steve Bradway at 177 to put the match out of reach.

The other winners for the visiting Red Raiders were Kurt Miner (98), John Howard (126), Mike Atkinson (155) and Randy Cotton (215).

Fulton posted a 35-12 win over Sachem, another Suffolk County power. The dual meets were at Huntington's gym. The Red Raiders' junior varsity won both of its meets, 51-13 over Huntington and 33-19 over Sachem.

"The guys who didn't look good against Canastota (in a 26-21 loss Dec. 14) looked good today," Fulton assistant coach Dick Woeller said. "Some of the ones who looked good then didn't today. We figure if we can ever get them all to wrestle well, we'll have a great team."

Maxam and Dave Williams (119) pinned their Sachem opponents.

The Red Raiders are now 61-3 in their last 64 matches.

In ice hockey, Liverpool defeated Watertown, 4-3, in a non-league game. Mike Funnel had two goals for the Warriors (6-0).

Fulton Tops Mat Poll

SYRACUSE POST-STANDARD/

By NEIL KERR

To no one's surprise, powerful Fulton High has been installed as the No. 1 wrestling team in Section Three in the first-ever weekly Post-Standard sectional mat rankings. Coach Wayne Bleau's Red Raiders, who saw a 52-match winning streak snapped at East Rochester 23-20 last winter, again loom as the team to beat on Central New York mats.

The Red Raiders, pointing toward December showdowns with host Canastota Dec. 15 and at defending state poll co-champion Huntington Dec. 22, open dual meet action Wednesday against rival Oswego.

"By Christmas, we'll know exactly how good we are," observed Bleau, whose Raiders are 100-7 in their past 107 dual meets since 1977. "I'm picking Canastota as the No. 1 team in the section, but I was outvoted. If we can get past Canastota, Huntington again looks like the team to beat in New York state. If we can somehow beat them, we should be okay the rest of the way."

"We've got by far the toughest schedule in the state," opines Bleau. "We're meeting traditional powers like Union-Endicott this Saturday and later Canastota, Canandaigua, Sachem, Huntington, East Rochester and Baldwinsville. Plus, our tournament has its strongest field ever, with Beaver River plus two likely sectional champions in Brockport and New Paltz. Those two teams are loaded or they wouldn't have called me to see if we had openings in the tournament."

When the state poll begins in two weeks, Huntington and Fulton are scheduled to occupy 1-2 status in the Empire State, barring upsets.

Though graduation claimed eight talented Raider seniors, Fulton's strength is only slightly diminished from the 16-1 dual meet team of a year ago. Early standouts look to be Kurt Miner at 98 pounds, Dave Williams (16-4 a year ago) at 119, Indian River transfer John Howard (29-1 last season) at 126, Dave Burridge at 132, Mike Maxam (29-3) at 167 and two-time Empire State Games' gold medalist Randy Cotton at heavyweight.

Not to be overlooked is perennial power Baldwinsville, coach Leo Johnson's Bees sporting a 172-7 record in their last 179 duals, including an all-time sectional record win streak of 95. Johnson, also the Bees' athletic director, reports, "We're somewhat down this year, with 12 seniors graduated and with just three returning starters back. By late January, we could be a decent team, but it will take time."

Best of the returning Bees are Section Three 98-pound champion Chip Pettitt, plus Shawn Halpin at 132 and Mike Wojnovich at 145.

Tonight, a key non-league dual meet involving ranked teams sends No. 2 Canastota to No. 11 Liverpool. Expected to be powerful, Liverpool has seen a number of key matmen bounced from the roster for academic deficiencies.

Another ranked team, No. 6 J-E — a perennial OHSL Central Division power — opened with an impressive thrashing of Whitesboro 52-9 Saturday night. Coach Mike Frood's Eagles are 186-28-1 in their last 215 duals.

As a new season begins, No. 4-ranked Beaver River, defending champion of the Frontier League will try to protect the longest active dual meet win streak, at 26 meets.

Competing on Section Three mats this year will be a quartet of defending sectional champions, Pettitt (98) of B'ville, Dave Coon (105) of Madison, Chris Labbate (112) of ES-M and Steve Bradish (119) of Mexico. Labbate owns 90 career wins and should soon join the Section Three "100 Wins Club." (see listing).

Another quality athlete is heavyweight George Korthas of Central Square, boasting 81 career wins and also eying membership in the century club. Korthas, an All-State football player, last winter dropped a narrow 11-9 match to 250-pound Randy Morrison of Lowville after having beaten Morrison earlier in the winter. Then, Morrison won the New York State tournament crown. Korthas has spent the past month shedding weight, having dropped from 240 to 218. "George is after the state title and I look for him to get it," sayd Redmen mat coach Bob Coppola.

MAT NOTES — All four champions of the sectional class tourneys last February — Fulton (A), Canastota (B), J-E (C) and Beaver River (D) — are included in the first set of ratings...An early tournament will be hosted by LaFayette this Saturday.

Wrestlers notch Fowler as victory No. 8

The wrestling Bees (8-0) whipped Fowler High School, 32-15, last week Tuesday evening in the Baker High gymnasium. The win gave Leo Johnson his 300th coaching victory.

On Friday, the varsity wrestlers knocked off Cicero-North Syracuse, 54-6.

Fowler's Falcons were ranked in the top 10 of Section 3's wrestling poll and were 6-1 before the meet. The rugged Falcons promised a good fight but Baldwinsville's balance assured a Bee victory as the Bees won 8 of the 12 bouts.

Chuck DeMott, Chip Pettitt and Steve LePorte recorded pins in 1:40, 0:39 and 0:33, respectively, at 105, 112 and 126 lbs. Mike Bart won 9-5 at 119 lbs. as did Doug Markert at 132 lbs., 12-6. 1-23-85

In the two feature matchups, at 138 and 145, the Bees' Shawn Halpin and Mike Wojnovich met highly ranked Frank Jackson and Ed McShane of Fowler.

Jackson at 138 lbs. took Halpin down to his back to start things off and opened a 5-0 lead that stretched to 11-3 at the end of the first period. Halpin scored five in the second period to make it 11-8 and then he added five more in the third to win it 13-11 over a tired Jackson.

Wojnovich was also taken down at the whistle to fall behind, 2-0. But the improving junior escaped and controlled the rest of the match trying to turn Fowler's Ed McShane. With the score tied 2-2 and eight seconds to go, Wojnovich loosened up and McShane turned and scored a lateral drop for a 2-point reversal. There was not enough time to get back the lost points. Wojnovich did stand and escape for one but the final score stood at 4-3 Fowler.

Chris Coleman won 15-10 at 155 lbs. opening up a strong 13-4 lead at the end of two periods. After two Fowler reversals, Coleman tried to hang on for the win and nearly lost it on three stalling calls, coming very close to the fourth and final penalty.

Cedric Oakes lost 9-2 at 167 and also was called for stalling three times for not wrestling aggressively in the down position. Scott Wojnovich won a squeaker 9-8 at 177 lbs. in an up-and-down performance. 1-23-85

Pat Halpin lost to Fowler's highly touted Mike Capone at 215 lbs., 9-4, and the Bees' Brian Johnson was Fowler's only pin victim, losing at 2:48 in the 98-lb. class.

The team and the Wrestling Fan Club presented Coach Johnson with plaques for his 300th win after the meet. There was a reception in the cafeteria following the dual for all fans and wrestlers.

Thursday's match-up with Cicero-North Syracuse was called off because the North Syracuse schools closed and are not allowed to play if school is closed for bad weather. The meet was rescheduled for Friday afternoon because of heavy gym use. The Bees blasted the Northmen, 54-6, in a lackluster dual for both teams.

CNS won only two bouts as Matt VanHousen nipped John Loffredo at 98 lbs., 9-5. Loffredo was winning 5-4 going into the third period when VanHousen scored two points. Loffredo was on the verge of a reversal with just seconds to go when he went to his back and gave up 3 near-fall points.

Doug Markert could not get it going at 132 lbs. and lost to Paul Nojaim, 5-2.

The rest was all B'ville.

Brian Johnson won 12-6 at 91 lbs. Chuck Demott and Chip Pettitt scored back-to-back pins again at 105 and 112 lbs. Mike Bart received a forfeit at 119 lbs. while Steve LePorte scored a pin in 4:48 at 128 lbs. 1-23-85

Shawn Halpin won, 9-2, at 138 lbs. Then Mike Wojnovich and Chris Coleman paired up for two more pins at 145 and 155 lbs. in 4:50 and 1:14 respectively. Pat Halpin at 215 lbs. and Scott Wojnovich at 177 lbs. also scored pins in the heavy weights, Wojnovich in 2:47 and Halpin in 2:56.

Cedric Oakes picked up a 12-5 victory at 167 lbs. Chris Thompson pulled off a neat 10-4 victory in an exhibition match at 105 lbs. while Mark Mills and Trent Moffitt scored exhibition pins in 4:31 and 33 seconds at 132 and 138 lbs.

This week the Bees meet West Genesee on Tuesday (last night) and Fulton Saturday night in the Onondaga County War Memorial at 6:30 p.m. for a shot at the Onondaga League championship.

Shawn Halpin, left, had a tough time of it but finally put away Fowler's highly ranked Frank Jackson, 13-11, in the 138-lb. bout.

Fulton Tops Mat Rankings

By NEIL KERR

Fulton High School has been installed as the No. 1 wrestling team in Section Three in the first-ever weekly Post-Standard sectional rankings. Coach Wayne Bleau's Red Raiders, who saw a 52-match winning streak snapped at East Rochester 23-20 last winter, again loom as the team to beat on Central New York mats.

The Red Raiders, pointing toward showdowns with host Canastota Dec. 15 and at defending state poll co-champion Huntington Dec. 22, open dual meet action Wednesday against rival Oswego.

"By Christmas, we'll know exactly how good we are," said Bleau, whose Raiders are 100-7 in their past 107 dual meets since 1977. When the state poll begins in two weeks, Huntington and Fulton are scheduled to occupy 1-2 status, barring upsets.

Central Square heavyweight wrestler George Korthas (top) battles 1984 Section Three and state champion Randy Morrison of Lowville in a match won by Morrison. Korthas hopes to succeed Morrison as sectional and state heavyweight champion this winter.

Though graduation claimed eight talented Raider seniors, Fulton's strength is only slightly diminished from the 16-1 dual meet team of a year ago. Early standouts look to be Kurt Miner at 98 pounds, Dave Williams (16-4 a year ago) at 119, Indian River transfer John Howard (29-1 last season) at 126, Dave Burridge at 132, Mike Maxam (29-3) at 167 and two-time Empire State Games gold medalist Randy Cotton at heavyweight.

Not to be overlooked is perennial power Baldwinsville. Coach Leo Johnson's Bees sport a 172-7 record in their last 179 duals, including an all-time sectional-record win streak of 95.

Best of the returning Bees are Section Three 98-pound champion Chip Pettitt, plus Shawn Halpin at 132 and Mike Wojnovich at 145.

Tonight, a key non-league dual meet involving ranked teams sends No. 2 Canastota to No. 11 Liverpool. Expected to be powerful, Liverpool has seen a number of key matmen bounced from the roster for academic deficiencies.

As a new season begins, No. 4-ranked Beaver River, defending champion of the Frontier League, will try to protect the longest active dual meet win streak, at 26 meets.

Competing on Section Three mats this year will be a quartet of defending sectional champions, Pettitt (98) of B'ville, Dave Coon (105) of Madison, Chris Labbate (112) of ES-M and Steve Bradish (119) of Mexico. Labbate owns 90 career wins and should soon join the Section Three 100 Win Club.

Korthas, an All-State football player, last winter dropped a narrow 11-9 match to 250-pound Randy Morrison of Lowville after having beaten Morrison earlier in the winter. Then, Morrison won the state tournament crown. Korthas has spent the past month shedding weight, having dropped from 240 to 218.

Liverpool Grapplers Shock Fulton

By NEIL KERR

Overcoming an early 10-0 deficit after three bouts, Liverpool's underdog wrestling team rose up to stun state-ranked Fulton 21-20 in an Onondaga League North Division A matchup of league unbeatens Friday night at Liverpool.

"This was easily the biggest dual meet win in the history of Liverpool wrestling," proclaimed a hoarse coach Jack Williams Jr. afterwards. "I can't remember the last time Liverpool beat a team as highly-ranked as Fulton."

2-3-85

Entering the match, Fulton was 5-0 in the OHSL North, 14-3 overall and ranked No. 5 in the state. Liverpool (4-0 league, 8-2 overall) had lost non-league matches to Canastota, 39-10, and Rome Free Academy, 32-21.

As expected, Fulton jumped ahead 10-0 behind the efforts of Kurt Minor, Mark Woodworth and Ed Scerbo in the first three weights. From that point, wrestling in front of more than 1,000 partisan fans, Liverpool rallied strongly. Nick DeCarlo started the Warrior comeback with a 12-4 upset of Dave Williams at 119 pounds.

After Fulton's John Howard won, giving the Red Raiders a 13-4 lead, Liverpool went ahead 21-13 on the strength of consecutive wins by Joe Pavone, Scott Sears, Dan Drake, Joe Donahue and freshman Shane Carni.

Although Fulton coach Wayne Bleau had saved the Red Raiders' top aces — Mike Maxam and Randy Cotton — for the closing two weights, neither was able to earn the superior (5-point) or pin (6-point) win needed to overtake Liverpool.

Maxam was barely able to decision Rich Gandino in a wild and woolly battle 13-11. That left Liverpool ahead 21-13. Needing a pin, heavyweight Cotton could only manage a major (4-point) decision over Mark DiFerdinando during a 15-7 victory.

Liverpool (5-0) now needs a win over 4-1 state-ranked No. 7 Baldwinsville Tuesday to take sole possession of first place in the North Division A race. A Bee triumph will mean a three-way title tie.

Aungst takes third in sectionals

BINGHAMTON — The Corning wrestling team had three grapplers finish in the top six in their respective weight classes at the Section IV Championships held at SUNY Binghamton over the weekend.

2-25-85

Maynard Aungst was the highest Corning finisher with a third place finish in the 126 pound weight class. Aungst won his consolation contest with a 7-6 decision over Steve Wetmore of Harpursville.

In the 91 pound weight class, Don Fletcher of Corning surprised a few people by coming up with a fourth place finish. Fletcher, a freshman, got beat out for third place when he lost a 7-4 decision to Newark Valley's Randy Clossner in the consolations.

Corning's Dana Wright took a fifth place finish by defeating Keith Hughey of Odessa-Montour with a pin at 1 minute, 34 seconds.

Waverly won the team title with 127 points. Maine-Endwell, ranked fourth in New York State (as late as Feb. 17), finished second with 118 points. The best finish for a Sullivan Trail school was Elmira Notre Dame's 59 points, which was good enough for 11th place. Corning ended up 14th in the 44-team event.

The only STC champion was Daryl Paige of Elmira Notre Dame. He won the 91 pound weight class and will compete in the state tournament to be held March 1-2 at the Syracuse War Memorial.

The other top STC wrestlers included third place finishes by Doug Roemer of Horseheads at 138 and Steve Guerrera of Elmira Southside at 177. Notre Dame had two other fourth places with Tim Sheehan at 105 and Tom Jenkins at 250. The Crusader's Matt Hunter ended up fifth at 145.

B'ville matmen rock unbeaten Fulton

Dillon, Bees' rookie coach, wins first showdown with Raiders

Former Baldwinsville wrestling coach Leo Johnson made a solemn promise that night nearly four years ago when Fulton snapped his Bees' Section Three winning streak at 78 matches.

1-19-86

There would be no more playing of the song "We Are The Champions." Unless, of course, B'ville could someday make the Raiders sing.

Saturday night at roughly 10:30, as the Bee Hive rocked with the 28-25 stunner over a previously-unbeaten Fulton club that was thought by many to be the best in the state, the strains of the song by Queen were back.

"Well, I'm pretty sure that's what was playing," said delighted rookie coach Terry Dillon after the non-leaguer "I mean, I was getting thrown in the shower and things like that."

The things that made the Bees' ninth win in 10 meets this season possible were pins by Chuck DeMott at 119 pounds and Joe Fletcher at 167, a gutty 3-1 decision by Phil Elliott over the favored Dave Spalding at 126 pounds, and Scott Wojnovich's 14-10 win over George Kerr at 177 that sealed the upset.

"The pins helped, of course," said Dillon, who replaced Johnson as varsity coach at the beginning of this season. "But that was just a great win for Phil, he's been having a tough year. The other kids stayed off their backs and battled all the way. By far, this is my biggest win ever."

Dillon felt that if Fulton's John Howard, who finished third in the state last year, moved up to 138 pounds from 126, B'ville's Mike Wojnovich could handle him. In fact, Wojnovich led, 3-2, until Howard pulled out a draw with an escape in the last second of the match.

Kerr gave Scott Wojnovich, Mike's brother, all he could handle at 177. Wojnovich built a 9-3 lead at the end of the second period before Kerr cut the lead to 11-10 late in the third period. Wojnovich then reversed Kerr in the match's final minute to take it.

DeMott's pin over Ed Cerbo came in a quick 1:26 and before people could calm down, Elliott was busy molding another surprise at 126. Fletcher pulled off his pin in 5:18 over Jeff Margrey at 167.

1-19-86

It doesn't get any easier for Fulton, which has another formidable opponent next Saturday when the Red Raiders entertain Canastota. Saturday, Canastota won its 27th straight dual meet and 39th straight in the Tri-Valley League with a 58-6 rout of Holland Patent. Career win No. 102 was an easy one for Bob Duffy, who earned a forfeit at 119 pounds. Canastota will tune up for the Fulton match with Wednesday's Tri-Valley meet at Vernon-Verona-Sherrill.

Central Square's Bob Korthas raised his record at 215 pounds to 19-3 and teammates Jamie Coppolo (at 119 pounds) and Jamie Pontello (145) won their 17th matches of the season as the Square upped its record to 10-1 with a 52-11 non-league win over Rome Free Academy.

Junior guard Greg Wilcox, who came into last week second to Fayetteville-Manlius' Matt Roe in Onondaga High School North League scoring, hit for 20 points as Baldwinsville dumped visiting Fulton, 70-58, in a non-league game. The Bees ran their overall record to 6-7 when Wilcox, on mostly drives, hit eight straight points in the fourth quarter. Fulton fell to 2-9.

Baldwinsville junior Finn Jensen broke his two-year-old school record of 1:06.5 in the 100-yard breaststroke with a time of 1:05.97 as the Bees dunked Fulton, 53-27, in an OHSL North meet. Finn's freshman brother, Nick Jensen, anchored the winning 200-yard medley relay and won the 200-yard individual medley and the 100-yard butterfly. Another freshman, Doug Hickman, was on the 200-medley relay and the winning 400-yard free relay. He also won the 100-yard backstroke.

Wrestlers tarnish Fulton's No. 1

Baldwinsville's varsity wrestlers toppled No. 1 state-ranked Fulton, 28-25, Saturday night before a packed gym at Baker High School.

The Bees continued the tradition of never being beat by Fulton in their own hive. And after a 4-year drought, they turned the tables on the Red Raiders.

Brian Johnson started the es off with a superior decision, 18-6, and five team points. John Loffredo fell to the hands of senior Kurt Minor, 17-4, to bring the score to a 5-5 deadlock.

Mike Bart, 112 lbs., won a 6-4 decision for B'ville. Chuck DeMott, 119 lbs., pinned his man in 4:59 and six team points to give the Bees a 14-5 lead. 1-22-86

Phil Elliott, 126 lbs., won a 3-1 decision. Phil outhustled his man and turned the tide of the match in B'ville's favor.

Mark Mills fell behind early in the match but never let up and brought the score close at the end to only give up three team points.

Mike Wojnovich, 138 lbs., wrestled John Howard (third in the states last year) to a 3-3 draw. Mike was winning 3-2 and Howard escaped in the last second of the match to get the draw.

Trent Moffett was outslicked to a technical fall in 4:35 of the match. Chris Coleman worked his hardest to fall to a 10-4 decision. The team score now stood at 19-19.

Joe Fletcher came up with a pin over Jeff Margrey in 5:18. Joe's pin gave the Bees six team points and a 25-19 lead. Scott Wojnovich clinched the match with a 14-10 decision and gave the Bees a 28-19 lead.

Pat Halpin gave it his all but was overpowered by Colton with a technical fall in 5:46.

The Bees hit the mats today (Wednesday) at home against Homer and travel to Auburn Saturday for a 1 p.m. match.

Coaching situation with emotional complications: Is playing time relative to talent?

The Akleys in 1983: Coach/dad Elmer, left, wrestler/son Brian

Brian Akley knows how Alford felt. Two years ago, when he was a senior wrestling for Oswego High School, he wanted to win a state title both for himself and for his father, Oswego wrestling coach Elmer Akley.

Brian and younger brother Scott, who eventually had to quit wrestling because of a neck injury, were like Matt Palumb: they had always followed their father to football and wrestling practice, first at Windsor, then at Oswego.

"He'd been teaching me since I was a little kid," Brian says. "There was a special bond there. He'd had a lot of good athletes on his teams, but there was more of a special feeling with me.

"I was wrestling for both of us, really."

Brian and Elmer both remember the relationship as positive. "We never had harsh words," Elmer says.

"We could bring wrestling home and not have any problems," Brian says. "I respected him. I understood his limitations. We talked. We got along. We were together almost 24 hours every day during the season. I think it brought us closer than most kids get to their fathers."

A state championship had always been Brian's ultimate goal. He failed to place in the state tournament as a junior. As a senior, he was paired in the first round with favorite Herb Valentine of Long Beach, L.I.

"Their match went into overtime and Brian got behind by six points, with one minute left," says Elmer. "He came back and they tied again. Brian won on referee's criteria. That first match was the toughest; he pinned the rest of his opponents.

"The joy when he won was tremendous," Elmer says. "I knew he had it in him."

"My match against Valentine was probably one of the matches I'll remember best and so will he," Brian says. "I felt I'd won for both of us."

Coaches Welcomed Fan Thanks TH: Reader Objects To Big 30 Player Choice;

WELCOME TO PORTVILLE COACHES

Mr. Pollock, 11-27-85

We in Portville not only have one new head wrestling coach, but also a new JV coach.

As a wrestling fan, I welcome coach Mike DeBarberi to the head coaching position at Portville Central. Mike is former Bolivar head coach. He leaves a team that won the Section 5 Class C title last year and has a fine nucleus for this year.

Welcome also to our new assistant coach, Jeff Greene, a former Bolivar wrestler and football player. Jeff wrestled for Mike in high school and in college for Oswego State. I do believe that Mike and Jeff can and will turn the Portville wrestling program around. Good luck, gentlemen!

Chuck, I along with other wrestling fans want to thank you and the rest of the TH staff for a job well done on the '84-85 season and look forward to the '85-86 reporting and articles. Some pictures would be a large improvement and enhancement to the reporting.

I have to disagree with your Big 30 committee in selecting Smethport's T.J. Reap over Jeff Peterson of Johnsonburg as the most outstanding player in the Big 30 area.

I know that you like to point out how much effort the committee puts in to determine the various award winners, but this time they really blew it as far as I'm concerned.

I have no arguement with Reap being selected as the most oustanding defensive player, but the most outstanding player OVERALL?

Come on, now, that committee didn't do its homework this time.

I don't know Reap's stats, but I am sure in no way do they compare to Peterson's, and don't tell me stats don't count. That would be a cop-out for the committee to ignore Peterson and the great season he had. The fact is that stats DO count and should count.

The last time I checked, Peterson was the only player in the state to be selected to the Pennslyvania Big 33 (coaches All-Star game) check list twice during the season. I don't know of any other player in the Big 30 area, including Reap, to make the list even once.

Peterson scored 24 touchdowns during the season, more than any other player that I can remember ever scoring in a single season in the Big 30 area. (Joe Simchick did it for Johnsonburg in 1953, but at that time there was no Big 30.)

To give an idea of how great a feat that was, it was the most TDs a player scored for Johnsonburg since 1940 when John Kroah scored 17 times. That feat alone was enough, as far as I'm concerned, to have earned Peterson the outstanding player award.

But how about these other stats?

Peterson rushed for more than 100 yards in eight of the nine games for Johnsonburg, scoring every eight times he caried the ball. Only in the Emporium opening game did he fail to rush for 100 yards (77).

He scored one or more touchdowns in every game and rushed for more than 1,300 yards during the season. He had 295 yards rushing in a single game. According to the wire service in the Ridgway Record a week ago or so it was the highest single game total for any player in Pennslyvania.

If everything were equal and Peterson's stats weren't so overwhelming I could go along with the committee's selection.

A player like Peterson comes along only once every 20 or 30 years. The last one who was such a dominating player during a season I recall seeing was Tim Montgomery of Kane.

I won't go into Peterson's defensive stats, but they weren't bad either.

THANKS FOR HONORING T.J. REAP

Dear Sir: 11-27-85

On behalf of the Smethport Sports Booster Club, I would like to commend the Big 30 committee for its selection of T.J. Reap as the Big 30's most valuable player and defensive player of the year. Also, the selection of T.J., Dave and Dan McCracken and Scott Hungiville to the Big 30 team.

Anyone who saw Smethport play this past fall can easily understand why T.J. received both of these awards. He was, without a doubt, the most dominating player on either side of the line of scrimmage in the Big 30.

T.J. was a leader both on and off the field and he is the type of young man of whom everyone in our community is extremely proud.

Smethport's 9-0 record in 1985 is an achievement our town will not soon forget. It resulted from a combination of two factors: an outstanding coaching staff (the best in the Big 30, in our opinion) of Carl Defilippi, Ward Baun and Denny Maynard, and 35 young men who would not be denied. Their total committment to playing football to win combined with good sportsmanship has set the standard for years to come at Smethport.

Our sincere thanks to every member of the Big 30 committee for the recognition they have given T.J. and the entire Hubber football team.

Sincerely,
Tom Abbey
President

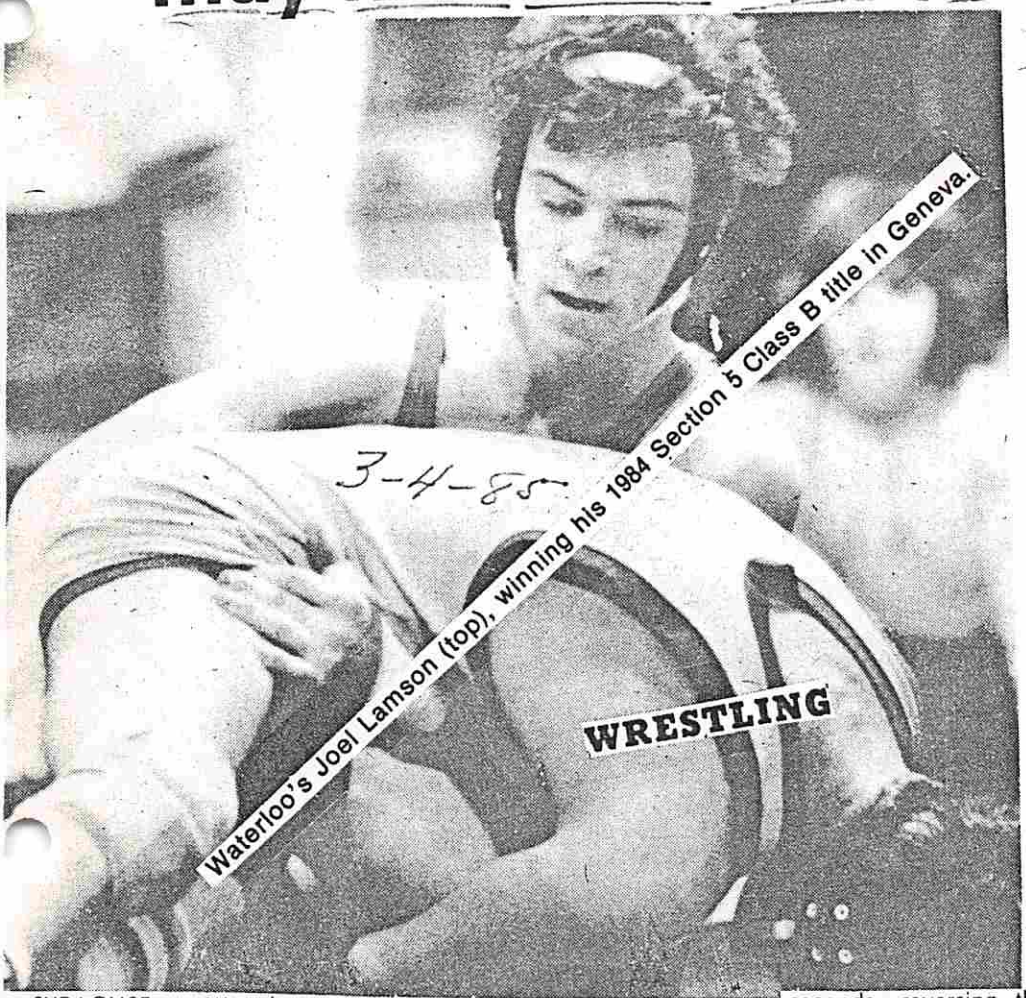
Lamson's state wrestling title may have been won week before



Waterloo's Joel Lamson (top), winning his 1984 Section 5 Class B title in Geneva.

3-4-85

SYRACUSE — Waterloo senior Joel Lamson had to wait a week to pick up the New York State Intersectional Wrestling title he may well have won the week before.

"I knew I had a shot to win before I even went there," Lamson said via telephone after beating Anthony Melfi of Connetquot 9-5 to win the 119-pound title Saturday night at the Onondaga War Memorial. 3-4-85

Lamson, who easily won twice Friday night to advance to the semifinals, continued his run Saturday. In the semifinals he eliminated co-favorite Tom Martin of Waverly-Section 4 8-2. In the finals, he bested Melfi, the Long Island (Section 11) wrestler the state sportswriters' association picked to win the event.

The big victory, however, the one that set everything up and made it all possible, was last weekend at the Section 5 Supersectional. Lamson in the semifinals of that event beat Butch Hibbard of Canandaigua, a defending state runner-up, 7-4 with a takedown to Hibbard's back in the closing seconds. 3-4-85

"Everybody would have picked him (Hibbard) to win if he had been there," Lamson said, "so I knew I could do it."

It didn't hurt Lamson, however, to have won impressively on Friday. He opened his tournament with an 8-2 decision over Tom Mulqueen of Xavierian-CHSAA and dumped Paul Weber of Newburgh-1 15-2 in the quarterfinals.

"That helped a lot," Lamson said. "It was a lot different than a regular wrestling tournament. I had never wrestled in a state tournament before." 3-4-85

And on Saturday, after winning four sectional Class B titles and 139 of 156 career matches (now 140-15-1), he won the big one.

But it wasn't easy. He trailed 2-0 after one period, but escaped in the second period to pull to 2-1. In the final period, Lamson, operating from the top position, took Melfi to his back for a 3-2 lead. Melfi escaped to tie, but with 45 seconds left Lamson took Melfi down to his back to take a commanding 8-3 lead with time running out.

Melfi tried to pull a Lamson (of the week before) in the closing seconds, reversing the Waterloo senior to make it 8-5, but Lamson escaped to close the scoring.

"Everything worked out for me," said Lamson, whose victory drew attention from NCAA Division I Nebraska and Lock Haven State (Pa.) scouts at the event. "I've worked real hard — on Sundays and during the summer — and my coach (Abe Meyers) has worked hard with me."

Lamson has also been contacted by Clarion State (Pa.) and St. Lawrence.

Lamson and Chris Schojan of East Rochester (177) were the only Section 5 wrestlers to win championships, while Nate VanDuzer of Brockport (132) and Mike Scott from McQuaid (138) each finished second. 3-4-85

Among the other five area wrestlers in the event, Paul Lamphier of Canandaigua (112) had the highest finish, placing fourth. Lamphier fell 8-1 to Rob Waddington of Falconer-6 in the semifinals, but came back to beat Al Charland of North Adirondack-7, his opening-round opponent, 9-3 before losing to pre-meet favorite Phil Consiglio of North Rockland-1 14-3 in the consolation finals.

Tim Habecker of Marion (155) placed sixth, Saturday beating Steve Penhollow of Cassadaga Valley-6 7-6 and pre-meet co-favorite Eric Campany of South Jefferson-3 6-3 before losing in the consolation semifinals to co-favorite Drew Jackson of Huntington-11 4-1.

Tom Finnerty of Waterloo (91) on Saturday beat Jeff Jarvis of Salem-2 9-4 in the consolations, but was eliminated by Lee Coulter of Shoreham-Wading River-11 9-0. Mike Locagnato of Canandaigua (98) was pinned by Mike Caracci of Long Beach-8 in 2:54 in his only bout Saturday, while Tracy Foster of Canandaigua (126) fell 10-4 to Daryl Gattuso of Depew-6.

In team scoring, Section 5 was sixth among 13 teams with 146½ points. Section 11 (Suffolk County) won the event with 188 points, followed by Section 1 (Westchester-Dutchess) with 161½.

Ray Downey of Dear Park-11, the 126-pound champion, was named the meet's outstanding performer.

Waterloo's Lamson makes his name known at state wrestling meet

By Gary Fallesen
Democrat and Chronicle

SYRACUSE — A sign hanging in the Onondaga County War Memorial told wrestler Joel Lamson, "You've Come This Far, Now Show 'Em Who You Are."

Few at the New York State Intersectional Tournament knew who the Waterloo senior was when he first stepped on a mat here Friday afternoon. He was an unknown. An individual not even considered a threat to reach the semifinals in the 119-pound weight class. 3-4-85

"Returning (Tom) Martin should power through unloaded upper bracket . . .," Syracuse Post-Standard sports writer Neil Kerr wrote in the pre-tournament forecast. "(Anthony) Melfi by pin (in final)."

It was Lamson, however, who muscled his way to Saturday night's final — defeating Martin of Section 4 (Binghamton area) in the semifinals, 8-2.

He then decisioned Melfi of Section 11 (Suffolk County), 9-5, to become his high school's first-ever state wrestling champion before a crowd estimated at 4,500.

Joel Lamson (37-1 this season, 140-15-1 career) showed who he was at this 23rd annual tournament. A quiet, hard-working kid from Section 5, who became the Rochester area's 23rd titlist in 17 years.

"I just feel lucky," he said afterward. "Things have been going my way."

Lamson, who joined 177-pound champion Chris Schojan of East Rochester and 12 other individual winners to pose for a photograph for the cover of next year's official program, began working for this title early last summer.

He attended Monroe Community College Coach Mike Cronmiller's wrestling club and qualified for the Empire State Games. He finished fourth in the Games' 132-pound scholastic freestyle competition — losing in the semifinals to eventual gold medalist and state tournament most outstanding wrestler Ray Downey of Section 11. 3-4-85

"That gave him a lot of good competition," said Waterloo Coach Abe Meyers. "He had an idea what he could do against the best kids.

"He also wrestled in a big area in front of a lot of people," Meyers added. "You can be stage struck when you come in here for the first time, but he handled it very well."

He easily decisioned his first two opponents — by 8-2 and 15-2 scores — before facing Martin and Melfi, two past place winners.

"When I was on the mat I didn't know anything else was around," he said.

He was prepared for the state tournament. He had to be in championship form just to qualify as a representative of Section 5.

"Those two guys he beat last week (Canandaigua's Butch Hibbard and Greece Athena's Kevin Bishop) were probably as good as any here," said Meyers.

"I had to be wrestling good there," Lamson said, referring to last weekend's Super Sectionals. "So I was in the groove when I came here. 3-4-85

"Until I wrestled that last match my toughest (bouts) were against Hibbard and Bishop. And they were just as good as Melfi," said Lamson, who is interested in Division II Lock Haven (Pa.), Clarion (Pa.) and Springfield (Mass.), Division III Brockport State, and MCC.

Lamson was tied with Melfi, 3-3, when he scored a takedown and a near fall with :35 left in the bout. That gave him an insurmountable 8-3 advantage.

"He just goes for six minutes," ER Coach Don Quinn commented. "He really wanted it. That was his goal, and he knew he only had one shot at it."

This was Schojan's third and final chance for a state title. It came when he decisioned Vince Toscano of Section 4 in the final, 13-2.

Schojan (37-0 this season, 139-12 career) has been offered full scholarships by Division I national power Oklahoma and its Big Eight rival Nebraska. He has visits planned to both colleges.

"I'm looking forward to four nice, long years of wrestling," said Schojan, "and I get my education free. That's what I want. I want a job after I graduate where I can support a family."

Schojan was heavily favored to take the title after finishing second twice.

Kerr again: "Will Chris . . . win? Was Attila a Hun? Of course, Schojan will win."

Despite all the pressure associated with such expectations, Schojan said he enjoyed this tournament. Immensely. 3-4-85

"I just like going out there and going six minutes," he said. "I like to do it. It's fun."

NOTES: Section 5 finished sixth out of 13 teams. It was the Rochester area's worst showing since 1977 when it placed eighth in an 11-team field . . . Brockport's Nathan Van Duzer (second at 132), McQuaid's Mike Scott (second at 138), Edison's Mike Cronmiller (third at 145), Canandaigua's Paul Lamphier (fourth at 112), Marion's Tim Habecker (sixth at 155) and Brighton's Mike Van Horn (sixth at 215) were Section 5's other place winners. Habecker is the only underclassman . . . "This doesn't mean anything to him right now," Brockport Coach Woody VanDenBurg said of Van Duzer's second-place medal, "but in 10 years . . ." VanDenBurg speaks from experience. He was a sixth-place finisher at 145 pounds as a senior at Section 11's Queensbury in 1977. The former All-America from Brockport State appreciates what Van Duzer accomplished. "This place haunts me," he said. "I just keep wishing I had another shot at it every time I come back here." . . . Only two members of this team will have another shot — 91-pound sophomore Tom Finnerty of Waterloo and Habecker, who is a junior. The other 12 representatives are seniors.

*-named most outstanding wrestler of meet

CLEARLY THE BEST: Garry Barton, coach of the Clearfield (Pa.) High School wrestling team, says his current team is not about to fold when it comes to upholding the school's long and successful tradition.

Clearfield: Stronghold of wrestling

Pa. school has 50-year record of excellence

By Jack Carey
USA TODAY 12-14-84

A half-century ago, Art Weiss had to scour the halls at Clearfield (Pa.) High School, looking for able bodies when he was starting the school's wrestling program.

Weiss turned many of those walk-ons into champions, and Clearfield's program became one of the state's best, so current coach Garry Barton's efforts to get wrestlers to try out are not nearly as difficult.

It has been more difficult to match Weiss' success — his record in 25 years was 184-37-3 and his teams won 10 state titles. In its first 50 years of wrestling, the school has compiled a 437-78-8 record under Weiss, Barton and four other coaches.

"Sometimes, it's hard to live up to as high a tradition as we have," Barton said. "A lot of fans remember the teams we had in the past and want to keep that going, but it's difficult year-in and year-out to do that."

50 years of excellence

The Clearfield (Pa.) High School wrestling team has a 50-year record of 437-78-8, with 10 state championships, 40 district titles and 34 individual state titles, including four by Jerry Maurey from 1947-1950, while he was a student. The records of Clearfield's six coaches during the 50 years:

Name	Record	Years
Art Weiss	184-37-3	1935-1959
Jerry Maurey	52-7-0	1960-1964
Ron Park	93-13-3	1965-1973
Neil Turner	65-7-0	1974-1979
Ron Smith	27-9-0	1980-1982
Garry Barton	16-5-2	1983-present

Still, Barton has managed a 16-5-2 record in two seasons and last year coached the team to its 40th district title.

Clearfield begins its 51st season of wrestling tonight with a dual match against Oil City. Barton's spirits are high. "We have two district champs, Scott Collins (112 pounds) and Scott Luzier (126), returning," he said. "Barring injuries, we should have a real good year."

To say wrestling is the No. 1 sport in the town of about 10,000 is an understatement. Hundreds of young wrestlers participate in Clearfield's elementary school, junior varsity and recreation programs that feed into the varsity team. For Friday night matches, it's not unusual for the school's gymnasium, which seats 2,800 and is named after Weiss, to be filled.

But Weiss, 75, who still lives most of the year in Clearfield, remembers the early years. "We had a number of good, strong farm boys and that helped," he said. "They were willing to work and were willing to do things like hitchhike home because we had no transportation in those days."

Weiss had been a basketball coach at Clearfield. The team had eligibility problems, however, so he turned to coaching wrestling.

"I went to summer camp and picked up things as I went along," he said. "Some of the younger kids got interested, and soon it became the thing to do."

After 0-3-1 and 3-4 records in Weiss' first two years, Clearfield compiled a 132-2-2 mark from 1937-1953. The team has had just one losing season — a 4-6 record in 1954 — since the first two years.

Barton said Weiss' influence still prevails. "He's never very far away," he said.

Clarence Heavyweight

Heavily Recruited

Over the last several weeks, Greg Kaszubski has gained popularity like he never has known before. 12-17-81

Kaszubski is the coach of the Clarence wrestling team, which happens to have one of the most highly recruited high school wrestlers in the nation — Jeff Ellis.

"I've been getting calls every day for the last month," said Kaszubski. "We feel Jeff is the No. 1 heavyweight recruit in the country."

Ellis, considered by many the best 212-pound wrestler ever in Western New York, has received letters from dozens of colleges, including five of the top wrestling schools — Iowa, Iowa State, Oklahoma, Oklahoma State and Penn State.

"We get two or three scouts in the stands every time he wrestles," Kaszubski said.

Ellis, whose career high school record is 90-10, recently made a paid visit to Penn State — one of the five allowed under recruiting regulations.

Ellis had a busy summer after winning the state 215-pound championship last spring. He captured the freestyle and Greco-Roman titles at the Junior Olympics held in New Jersey and then won the high school world championship at Iowa City.

His only defeat in the last 1½ years came in the Empire State Games in August, where he finished third.

"Heavyweights of his caliber are hard to find, and that, along with the fact he's a great kid, is attracting colleges," Kaszubski said. "It's going to be a tough decision (on which school to pick)."

Until Ellis decides, he and his coach can count on answering plenty of calls and letters.

Some of the area's top wrestling schools competed in the Spartan Invitational Tournament at Williamsville North last weekend, and Clarence made a bid for a high state ranking by defeating fifth-ranked Canandaigua, 164-150½. Olean finished third with 149½.

Winning for Clarence, ranked 29th in the state, were Dan Shefter, who decisioned Tom Cunningham of Canandaigua, 7-3, in the 112-pound class; Dan Uhteg, who pinned Olean's Mike Molenda at 167 pounds; and Ellis, who pinned Olean's Darwin Cowher at 215. Kevin Bos of Sweet Home, who won by default over Williamsville North's Jim Murray, was named most valuable wrestler.

Supsic, Reed join St. Ed's as stars of Top Hat tourney

By Bill Albright
For The Sunday Grit

Saint Edward's won the war, but John Supsic of Shikellamy won the battle here Saturday night as the 12th annual Millionaire Top Hat Wrestling Tournament concluded. 12-30-84

The prep squad from the Cleveland, Ohio area virtually wrapped up the team title after two rounds by advancing all 12 wrestlers into the championship semifinals, and they won going away, claiming half of the dozen individual titles in the prestigious affair.

Supsic put his name into the record books as he became the only wrestler to ever win four Top Hat titles.

Sean Finkbeiner, formerly of Saucon Valley and Northampton high schools and currently a member of the Penn State Nittany Lion mat team, had an opportunity as he won three titles, but he transfered to Northampton for his senior campaign in high school, and thus was unable to claim his fourth title.

Joining Supsic in the winners' circle for the defending PIAA AAA champion and runner-up Braves, was younger brother Bob at 98, defending PIAA titlist Tony Reed at 126, and unheralded Jo Burke at 155.

As for the local teams, they failed to earn an individual title, but they did manage to make their presence known with some fine efforts in the two-day affair.

Lock Haven, Williamsport, and Jersey Shore each had a pair of finalists, and all six fell just one bout short of capturing an individual title. 12-30-84

Millionaires falling in the finals were Bill Berry (138) and Tad Ungard (155), while Jersey Shore Bulldogs placing second were Randy Lorson (119) and Dan Packer (126) in addition to Lock Haven's Thane Turner (145) and Chris Crissman (Hwt).

Berry pushed Mike Carpenter to the final buzzer before bowing by the narrowest of margins at 8-7, while Ungard found Burke too much for him on his feet and dropped a 10-6 verdict, Burke gaining three takedowns in his win.

Lorson also had a tough time with the elder Supsic and surrendered four takedowns in a 14-7 loss, and Packer, although he gave it all he had, just found Reed too much and was superi-

Turner went into overtime with defending champion Gino Capuano of Bethlehem Liberty before bowing 2-1, while Crissman had the unfortunate situation of being the only finalist to be pinned when he was decked by Elliott Cox of Liberty in the final bout of the tourney.

Three teams claimed all of the individual titles as St. Edward's had their six, Shikellamy claimed four, and Liberty picked up the other two.

Picking up individual trophies for outstanding achievements during the tournament were Bob Supsic with three falls in 2:32 for the most falls in the least aggregate time, while Reed was chosen as the tourney's OW for his dominating effort in his four bouts.

In addition to the six runners-up by the three local teams, Williamsport got a third-place finish from Ken Hakes at 185 when he won a criteria verdict over Washington's Rick Miller, while Scott Holmes had to settle for fourth at heavyweight when he was decked by Shore's John McAlister in the consolation finals, McAlister finishing third.

The Bobcats had one other placewinner in addition to Turner and Crissman when freshman Brian Wilt concluded his fine tournament at 112 with a third-place finish with a 53-second fall over Andy Koch of Saucon Valley in the consi finals.

Jersey Shore finished fourth in the team race, narrowly ousted from the third spot by one-half point when Cox pinned Crissman in the finale, while the Millionaires wound up fifth, and the Bobcats took seventh.

Class AAA Superiority Extended in Challenge III

4

By GEORGE McWILLIAMS
Progess Sports Writer

UNIVERSITY PARK — The names change, but the results stay pretty much the same.

In each of the first two Challenge of Champions wrestling meets, matching the top Pennsylvania seniors in Class AAA with the best of Class AA, the large-school division has scored 30 points or better while the small-school squad has managed to score in the upper teens.

Challenge III was no different.

The Class AAA champions, led by Shikellamy's Tony Reed, topped the Class AA all-stars 30-16 at Penn State University's Recreation Hall before 2,250 scholastic wrestling buffs yesterday afternoon. 3-25-85

Reed, a two-time state champ for the Braves with a 35-0 record this season, topped Wyalusing's four-time PIAA placewinner Sam Bocchino 10-6 at 119 in what was thought would be the most highly competitive matchup on the card.

Bocchino, however, failed to finish three single-leg tries in the first period, one of which Reed countered for a takedown. The Shikellamy ace reversed and picked up three more takedowns, with all of Bocchino's scoring coming for escapes.

Reed's performance netted him outstanding wrestler honors for the AAA squad. 3-25-85

The Class AA outstanding wrestler was Athens' Dave Kennedy, who won 6-1 over Shikellamy's Paul Gemberling in a dule of matmen with 35-0 records this season.

Kennedy picked up the initial takedown and changed from a half to a cradle to turn the Brave for two. After riding out the middle period, Kennedy reversed in the third period, with Gemberling's only point coming courtesy of two false starts by Kennedy.

The only other bout between two unbeaten wrestlers proved to be a dud.

At 132, Derrick Hall of Jeannette pulled the Class AA team to within a point in the team battle 13-12, with a 6-5 victory over Meadville's Sean O'Day, a match in which referee Frank Michael handed out seven stall warnings.

O'Day, who had the bout's only takedown, failed to bring Hall back to the mat in the required time and incurred his fourth warning, with Hall picking up two points to tie the match. Hall escaped with 31 seconds left to secure the victory. 3-25-85

The AA squad's only other victory came from Tyrone's Ken Myers at 98. The Golden Eagle had a 6-2 lead on Dover's Kevin Bricker before turning him with a guillotine, then pressing for the fall at 2:38.

The bouts at 138 and 145 resulting in draws.

Bethlehem Liberty's Gino Capuano and Biglerville's John Johnston tied 6-6 at 138, the bout ending with Johnston in on Capuano's leg but unable to bring the Class AAA champ down.

At 145, Scott Schleicher's of Allentown's William Allen High escaped with 35 seconds left to forge an 8-8 draw with Steve Cesari of North Schuylkill.

Schleicher grabbed a 6-2 lead early in the middle frame, pancaking the Class AA champ for two-and-three, but Cesari fought back with a pair of takedowns and escapes to grab a lead before Schleicher's late escape.

Class AAA's first win came from three-time PIAA champ Jack Cuvo, who pummelled Jim Leabhart of Tussey Mountain 23-7 at 105.

The Rover took Leabhart down eight times and turned him three times, giving up seven escapes.

Doug Wyland of North Allegheny gave the AAA team its first lead at 112 with an 18-5 win over Juniata's Jeff Brown.

Wyland pancaked Brown twice in the first period, then hit a pair of five-point moves in the second frame, one off a headlock and hip toss, the other off a shrug.

The AAA grapplers swept the final four bouts.

Kurt Bowman of Waynesboro started the sweep at 155 with a 13-3 win over Mike Chupak of Commodore Perry.

Bowman took Chupak down five times, the last one for two-and-two with four seconds left to give him his major decision.

At 167, Dave Brown of Valley failed to take down Hickory's Mike Sherman, but still ended up on the fat side of a 9-6 decision.

Brown's big move came with 10 seconds left in the initial stanza, when he reversed Sherman to his back for five points.

At 185, Uniontown's Jeff Spinetti had a takedown in each period to top Washington's Rick Miller 7-4.

And heavyweight Rob Benjamin of Canon-McMillan picked up a pair of first-period takedowns on the way to an 8-2 win over Greg Haladay of Southern Columbia.

Wright, Aungst advance to semis in Section IV meet

BINGHAMTON — Two Corning wrestlers have advanced to the Section IV wrestling semifinals in action being held at SUNY Binghamton.

Dana Wright at 112 pounds and Maynard Aungst at 126 each won their first two matches Friday and will enter the semifinal round today. 2-23-85

Seventh-seeded Wright won in the first round when he pinned Rob Mesko of Norwich in 5 minutes, 50 seconds. That victory gave Wright 100 wins for his high school career. In the second round, Wright registered another pin by nailing Dane Clark of Greene in 3:35 to gain a berth in the semifinals. He will wrestle Scott Scherhaufer of Chenango Forks, the No. 3 seed.

Aungst, the No. 3 seed won in the first round with an 8-2 decision over Will Smith of Deposit. In the second round, Aungst won a close 11-10 decision over Tom Zimmer of Odessa-Montour. Aungst will face second seeded Pete Ordorico of Johnson City in the semifinals.

Corning will also have two wrestlers in the wrestlebacks today, looking for a third place finish. Don Fletcher at 91 pounds outpointed Daryl Daniels of Walton in the first round but was then pinned by Waverly's Charlie Sharpsteen in 38 seconds. Fletcher will wrestle today for third place.

Joe Hunt won his first round match in the 119 weight class with a 4-3 decision over Dan Crandall of Norwich. Hunt then lost a 4-2 overtime heartbreaker to Dave Toten of Maine-Endwell. Hunt will also wrestle for third place today.

The Sullivan Trails Conference will be well represented in the semifinals with five other wrestlers competing.

Three of those wrestlers are from Elmira Notre Dame. At 91 pounds Daryl Paige will face off against Sharpsteen; at 105, Tim Sheehan will take on Jim Cappadonia of Sherburne-Earlville; and at 145, Matt Hunter will be facing Bret Kinney of Greene.

Doug Broemer of Horseheads will face Bret Andrews of Harpursville in the a 138 pound semifinal match, At 177, Steve Guerrera of Elmira Southside will tangle with Brad Woods of Unatego.

The semifinal matches will start at noon today at SUNY Binghamton.

Aungst takes third in sectionals

BINGHAMTON — The Corning wrestling team had three grapplers finish in the top six in their respective weight classes at the Section IV Championships held at SUNY Binghamton over the weekend. 2-25-85

Maynard Aungst was the highest Corning finisher with a third place finish in the 126 pound weight class. Aungst won his consolation contest with a 7-6 decision over Steve Wetmore of Harpursville.

In the 91 pound weight class, Don Fletcher of Corning surprised a few people by coming up with a fourth place finish. Fletcher, a freshman, got beat out for third place when he lost a 7-4 decision to Newark Valley's Randy Clossner in the consolations.

Corning's Dana Wright took a fifth place finish by defeating Keith Hughey of Odessa-Montour with a pin at 1 minute, 34 seconds.

Waverly won the team title with 127 points. Maine-Endwell, ranked fourth in New York State (as late as Feb. 17), finished second with 118 points. The best finish for a Sullivan Trail school was Elmira Notre Dame's 59 points, which was good enough for 11th place. Corning ended up 14th in the 44-team event.

The only STC champion was Daryl Paige of Elmira Notre Dame. He won the 91 pound weight class and will compete in the state tournament to be held March 1-2 at the Syracuse War Memorial.

The other top STC wrestlers included third place finishes by Doug Roemer of Horseheads at 138 and Steve Guerrera of Elmira Southside at 177. Notre Dame had two other fourth places with Tim Sheehan at 105 and Tom Jenkins at 250. The Crusader's Matt Hunter ended up fifth at 145.

Sidorick's Loss Sours P-O Victory

By SPIKE LUKENS
Times Sports Writer

Philipsburg-Osceola ran its undefeated streak to 13 with a 35-25 victory over Huntingdon last night, but it was the controversial end to another unbeaten streak during the meet that left a sour taste in the mouths of Mountie Coach Dave Caslow and a gymnasium full of P-O followers.

The Mounties, the fourth-ranked Class AAA team in the state, crossed their last dual meet hurdle before next week's showdown against State College by picking up first-period falls in the final two weights to down the Bearcats.

But the circumstances surrounding the end of 167-pounder Mark Sidorick's 16-meet unbeaten streak left Caslow and the Mountie fans in no mood to celebrate despite the win.

Sidorick, who had lost only once and tied once in his 46 dual meet bouts before last night, appeared to be on his way to an easy win over Huntingdon's Scott Ambrose, leading 10-4 with only 21 seconds left when referee Joe Perigo called the Mountie senior for an illegal slam.

Sidorick lifted Ambrose over his head on a takedown attempt when Ambrose slipped over Sidorick's back and fell hard to the mat. After calling an illegal slam, Perigo awarded a disqualification victory to Ambrose when the Bearcat could not continue.

So the Mounties, who led by as much as 23-10 after 138, were suddenly trailing Huntingdon 25-23 lead with two bouts left.

But Russ Reiter (14-2), spurred on by a fired-up P-O crowd, headlocked Dave Cassatt for a fall in just 25 seconds at 185 and P-O heavyweight Jim Couturiaux followed with a fall in only 1:34 over Andy Holmes to pull out the win for P-O.

But even the clutch pins provided little consolation for what Caslow called an "unjust" decision in Sidorick's bout. In fact, the intense Mountie coach and about 50 P-O fans viewed the controversial call on videotape about a dozen times immediately after the meet before Caslow entered the official's dressing room to discuss the call with Perigo.

"That's the first time in 18 years of coaching that I've done something like that," said Caslow. "We've slammed people before and I'll accept the consequences if we do it because it's such a dangerous thing. But I'll never accept that call as just."

According to Caslow, Perigo called the slam because he said Sidorick was responsible for Ambrose's safe return to the mat. "I think that rule applies if you're trying to bring another guy back to the mat, but Mark was trying to keep him from going to the mat," said Caslow. "That kid climbed down Mark's back and did kind of a half-gainer before he hit the mat.

"I know the call left me with a very bitter feeling and it took a lot away from the meet. It's unjust to Mark, and it's difficult for me to see anything positive come out of it for the official, for the boy who was slammed or for Mark."

However, Caslow said the call pumped up Reiter and Couturiaux in their meet-winning bouts. "That (call) certainly inspired the last two wrestlers; there's no doubt that the adversity brought a positive response from them," said Caslow. "They never anticipated the pressure that came about (because of the call). The weights from 145 to 167 are usually part of the meat of our lineup, but we gave up 15 points in those weights tonight."

The controversy overshadowed another "whatever it takes" effort from the Mounties, who were without the services of regulars Darryl Straw (98) and Kevin Thompson (145). Straw became ill in school yesterday while Thompson injured his hand Wednesday night, Caslow said.

Keith Powell (12-2-1) scored the first of P-O's three first-period pins by decking Tim Henney in 1:51 at 138, Jody Parks picked up a second-period pin at 119 and Jim Ellis (16-0-1) added a superior decision, but it was 105-pounder Jim Parks who provided the biggest Mountie win of the night.

Parks (11-4-2) used a five-point first period and late reversal in the second for a 10-6 w over Curtis Wiley, whose only previous loss 16 bouts came against Moshannon Valley Raymond Albright, a former Mountie.

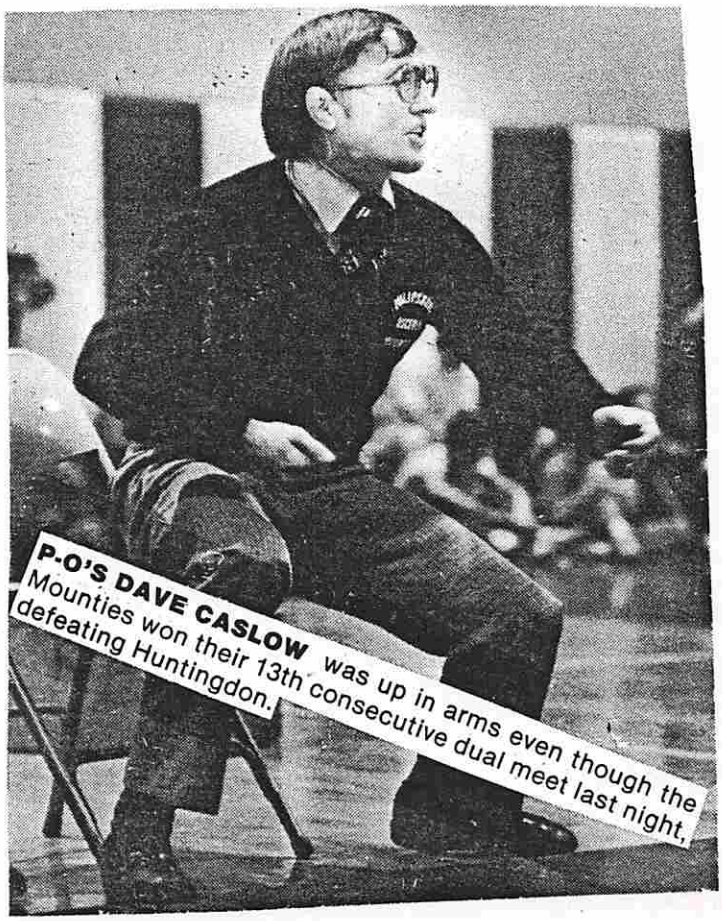
"Jim wrestled an outstanding match, t best match of his career," said Caslow. "made some mistakes early, but he responded his early weaknesses and became more a more stable as the bout went on."

Brian Bergey picked up P-O's other wi topping Todd Brown 4-2 at 132.

"We got the pins again tonight, but I w disappointed in our being pinned twice," sa Caslow. "That's the first–we've been pinn since the DuBois meet (in mid-January) a we can't have that happen. Part of our streng is that we've been winning (individual bout bigger than our opponents, and we ca continue to do that if we get pinned. Still, wrestled with a lot of adversity tonight a beat a very good Huntingdon team."

P-O's jayvees also improved their record 13-0, geting eight forfeit wins and three falls a 66-6 win over Huntingdon. Forfeit winne were Max Morbeto (112), Calvin Kephart (126 Dave Bergey (132), Brian Bradley (138), Ri Smith (145), Dave Slabon (155), Dave Brov (185) and Jerry Shimmel (heavyweight). Ph Quick (105), Mark Russell (119) and Tim Kephart (167) won by fall.

P-O will participate in the Bald Eagle Ar Booster Club Tournament Saturday befo entertaining State College for the Centr Wrestling Conference championship ne Friday.



P-O'S DAVE CASLOW was up in arms even though the Mounties won their 13th consecutive dual meet last night, defeating Huntingdon.

Can Schojan go from barbarian to champion?

By Scott Conroe

Syracuse Herald-Journal

EAST ROCHESTER — No way is this a high school wrestler, you tell yourself when you see Chris Schojan.

It isn't just that his arms and shoulders, even his legs, are incredibly powerful. For wrestlers in his weight class, 177 pounds, that isn't unusual. No, it's the hardness of his muscles; they aren't a teen-ager's. 2-3-85

The East Rochester High School senior's manner on the mat isn't businesslike. It's grim. The combination of strength and sureness is so intimidating, it's easy to see why he gets more than his share of forfeits.

Nobody likes the idea of taking on Schojan, two-time state runner-up at 177 and the favorite to win at this weekend's state tournament.

Before he'd wrestled his first match this season, he had six forfeits. Then he won the title at 215 at the Andersen Tournament at Cicero-North Syracuse High School in December, pinning his way to the finals, where he decisioned Fowler's Mike Capone, 5-0.

He beat defending state 215-pound champ Jeff Ellis of Clarence, 2-1, in a tournament. He beat Fulton's Randy Cotton, 4-0, in a dual meet in January.

But most of the rest of his opponents have either said no thanks or have succumbed to quick pins. This is hardly the way to prepare for the state tournament. Schojan knows it.

Part of it is this Schojan the Barbarian business which started a couple of years ago. It's based on Conan the Barbarian, the glowering, mighty-muscled warrior portrayed in recent movies by Arnold Schwarzenegger.

Schojan grins when his nickname is mentioned. He takes the barbarian persona in stride. But he thinks people get carried away. Last year, after he lost to Queensbury's Mike Hines in the state finals, a writer said he'd looked more like a librarian than a barbarian.

"I like to be noticed for myself," he says. 3-3-85

Schojan has been noticed since, as a sophomore, he first reached the state finals at 177. He was as surprised as anyone to be there and awed by his opponent, Section Eleven's Dan Mayo, who pinned him in 39 seconds.

Last year, he was unbeaten until Hines decisioned him, 6-2. Ironically, his muscles — developed by weight-lifting sessions since fifth grade — were his problem. He relied on them too much against an opponent who relied on technique.

He hopes he has found a solution to this problem: John Zito, who wrestled first for East Rochester, then for Syracuse University.

As a junior in 1978, Zito was state runner-up at 167 to Ed Banach, 1984 Olympic gold medalist. He won the state title at 167 the next year.

Zito was East Rochester's junior varsity coach this year. He was also Schojan's workout partner.

"He's been a big help," Schojan says. "He's taught me a lot of takedowns from my feet."

Schojan feels his hard work has helped him grow as a wrestler, has added moves to complement his strength. "His technique is better this year," says Fulton coach Wayne Bleau.

Now he has a last chance to find out for sure if his workouts with Zito and his desire to learn have been enough.

In wrestling, your fearless forecaster correctly picked 13 of the 28 state finalists in Syracuse, but slipped to only 6-of-14 state champions tabbed correctly. Bummer. Lots of upsets took place, however, as four 1984 state champions out of 6 failed to repeat this year. We also picked correct winning section=(Eleven).

Collinwood wrestling thrives

Lone Senate mat program

By PAT GALBINCEA
STAFF WRITER

Collinwood High School has the most remarkable wrestling program in the state.

The Railroaders are the only Senate school with a wrestling team and have won only because of coach Ron Alexander's brilliance and determination.

Senate schools dropped wrestling when bussing began in 1979. The Cleveland school system limited boys' (and girls') sports to one per season because of financial problems. 2-7-85

This didn't stop Alexander from having a wrestling team at Collinwood. He and assistant coach Mike Leggons decided to overcome the obstacles which faced all the Senate schools.

"Our kids held fund raisers to help keep the wrestling program afloat," said Alexander, who has been coaching for 18 years. "They sell items to the kids at school; mainly candy and pop. I got some area businessmen to help us and Howard Ferguson at St. Edward helped us from 1981 through 1984 so we could get uniforms."

However, Alexander digs into his own pocket to cover the rest of the expenses.

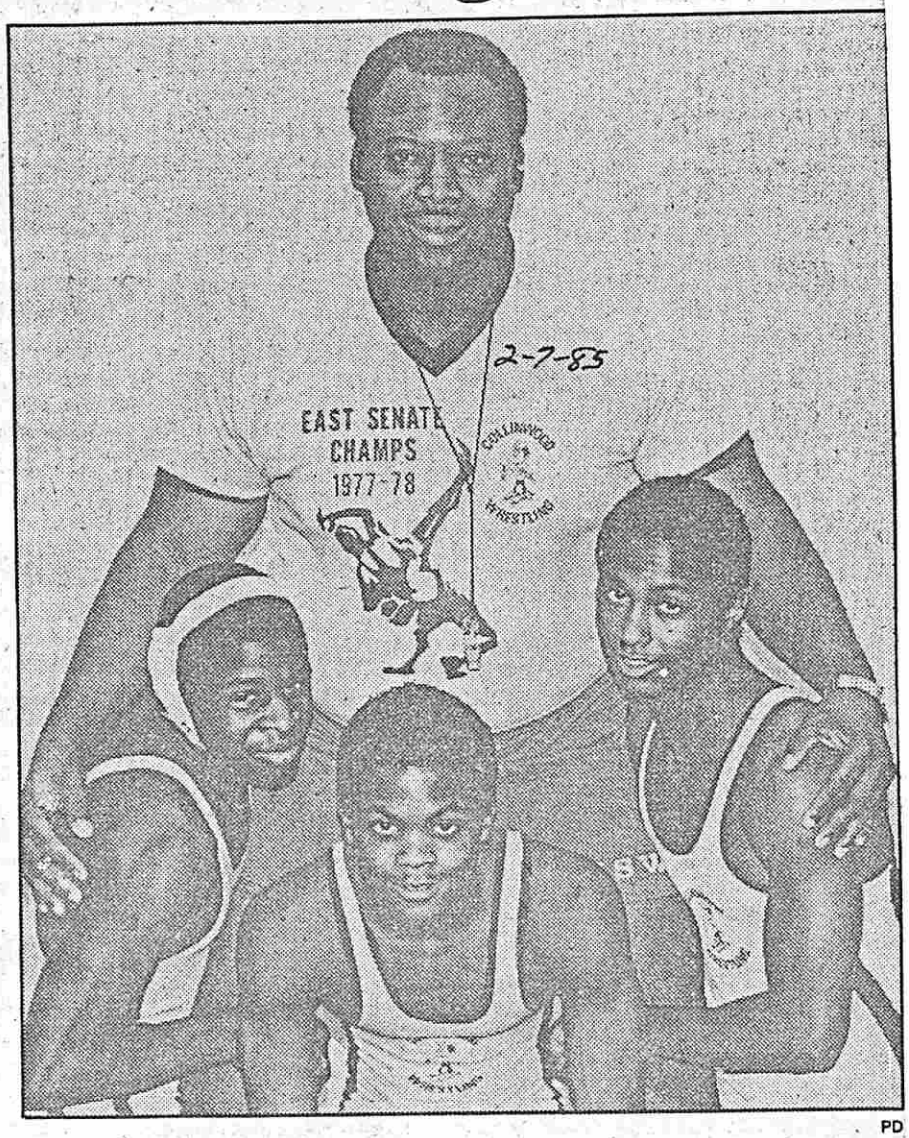
Why? "I love wrestling and we have a rich tradition of wrestling at Collinwood," he said. "I can still remember when Dan Zacharchenko became the first wrestler ever to beat a Milkovich at Maple Heights. He beat Dan Milkovich at the district in 1969 and the cheers of the crowd were so loud, you couldn't hear yourself think.

"I can't let wrestling at Collinwood die. It's a rough burden on me to do all the scheduling, take care of all our transportation and check up on the kids' grades, plus try and raise funds. I get discouraged easily when a businessman turns me down."

Despite all the drawbacks, including having only 12 wrestlers (there are 13 weight classes in high school), the Railroaders are 4-5 in dual meets, wrestling against suburban schools.

Alexander has three outstanding wrestlers in junior Desmond Maddox (119), and seniors Irby Burnett (126) and Benny Bright (132).

"All our kids wrestle the year around," said Alexander, "even in the summer. Our kids can't afford to go to wrestling camps, so we have to work this way in order to be competitive with suburban schools."



PD

Bright placed second in the state to St. Ed's Jeff (Bubba) Strauss in Class AAA last season. This year, he has a 20-2 record. Bright's brother, Preston, was third in the state at 155 pounds two years ago.

"Benny started wrestling in only the ninth grade," beamed Alexander. "He is good at taking down opponents and has great balance. He has a little mean streak in him, too."

Maddox has a 21-2 record and Burnett is 20-4. Both like using the cradle hold to pin opponents.

"Our opponents are aware that my kids use cradles, but I don't care," said Alexander. "Once a cradle is properly applied, there's nothing the other wrestler can do to get out of it."

Alexander, an outstanding heavyweight wrestler at Collinwood in the early 1960s, works as a court liason officer for Cuyahoga County. He doesn't know how long can he afford to pay from his own pocket to keep the school's mat program afloat.

"I'm not rich by any means," he said. "But I care about my kids and I'll do whatever I can to help them. And let me tell you, they work as hard as the kids at St. Edward or any other school. We've proved we can hold our own with anybody."

Brad Stimson recorded Falconer's only other pin at 145 with a 2:56 performance over Ed Coffer. For Salamanca, Marc Sweich pinned Lonny Orman in 2:35 at 105.

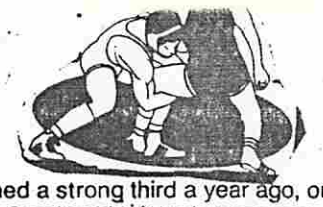
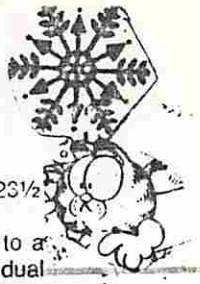
NEW YORK'S NEXT OLYMPIAN?

By NEIL KERR Syracuse Post-Standard





State Wrestling Program

This past summer, a trio of former New York state champion scholastic wrestlers went on to capture gold medals for the United States at the Los Angeles Olympic Games. Followers of Empire State high school wrestling watched with pride as brothers Ed and Lou Banach of Port Jervis plus the courageous Jeff Blatnick from Schenectady Niskayuna all achieved Olympic gold.

Among those who watched the Olympic wrestlers was reigning state heavyweight champion Jeff Ellis of Clarence Central in Western New York. And as he watched, Ellis made up his mind to someday duplicate the efforts of his predecessors.

"One of my goals for the next four years is to make the 1988 U.S. Olympic Team," said Ellis candidly. "I think that in freestyle competition, I've got a shot at making the team."

Judging by past achievements, Ellis could well make his dream come true. With a record of 64-1 in his last 65 scholastic matches, Ellis is a heavy favorite to repeat this weekend as king of the heavyweights in New York state. Ellis earned a 39-0 record as a junior and is 25-1 this winter, his lone reversal an upset 2-1 loss to 1984's state runnerup at 177 pounds in Syracuse, Chris Schojan of East Rochester. That loss occurred at the Spencerport Christmas Tournament. "I messed up," recalls Ellis. "I wrestled his style instead of going after him. Neither of us got a takedown because were both wrestling too defensively. Since that match, I've been the aggressor in every match."

Since losing to Schojan, Ellis has pinned almost all of his foes, his closest margin of victory an 8-1 triumph over strong Andy Utz of Williamsville South, the second-ranked heavyweight in Section Six.

Even more impressive were the victories Ellis posted last summer while winning both the Junior National tournament in Ames,. Iowa and then the Junior World Tournament in Washington, D.C. At both events, Ellis dominated the heavyweight freestyle competition. In Washington, he thoroughly outclassed junior champions from Canada, Japan and West Germany en route to a gold medal finish.

After that, college recruiters sat up and took notice. This winter, Ellis has been among the most avidly-recruited scholastic wrestlers in the Empire State. Assistant and head coaches from schools such as Iowa, Iowa State, Lehigh, Penn State, and Clarion State have been frequent spectators at Clarence dual meets this season. Also in the chase are Oklahoma, Oklahoma State and Syracuse University, to name the more prominent schools.

So far, Ellis won't say where he'll continue a promising career. However, he does admit, "One of my idols in this sport is a guy who beat me at the Empire State Games three years ago and who was also state champion in Syracuse. That's Dan Mayo (from Sachem, L.I.). I just think he's a heckuva wrestler."

Currently, Mayo is a member of the Penn State wrestling team, which may prove to be a big factor in Ellis's eventual decision.

Before that, however, the Clarence senior has a couple of other goals in mind. "I'd like to win another state championship," says Ellis, "and I'd like to help Section Six win the team title at the State Meet. We've never finished first, but this might be the year for Section Six. We have a number of experienced guys returning to the "states."

Ellis might succeed on both counts. He's favored at heavyweight and Section Six looms as a strong contender for first place, having finished a strong third a year ago, only 23½ points behind champion Section Five (Rochester area).

Wrestling coach Greg Kaszubski, who led Clarence to a 14-0 season and a top 10 ranking among New York's finest dual meet teams, says "I think Jeff is going to be a great college wrestler because he has such outstanding quickness for a heavyweight. That's what separates him from the competition—Jeff has the quickness of a 126-pounder."

Ellis, who has also been coached during the past decade by Joe Rotundo and Bill Bower of the well-respected Clarence Wrestling Club, also excelled this past autumn as captain of the Clarence football team. As a linebacker and defensive end, Ellis was named team most valuable player at season's end.

However, Jeff will forego any further football play, choosing to concentrate upon wrestling and also keeping up his grades. An 85-average student, Ellis intends to pursue mechanical engineering at college.

This weekend, Ellis will conclude a glittering scholastic career that has seen the 6-foot-3, 204-pound athlete compile a career record of 118 wins, 12 defeats. The finest wrestler in Clarence history has no intention of obtaining an unlucky defeat No. 13 as he climaxes an outstanding career.

Royals Win State Cup

By BOB ESTELLE

All season long, a common goal existed among every member of the wrestling team at Port Jefferson High School. The objective: a return trip to the U.S. Military Academy in West Point and a victory in the New York State Cup, the annual statewide dual meet championship tournament. A year ago, the Royals had lost to Baldwin, 26-21, in the final round of that tournament. With all but three starters returning, the team wanted another chance.

The result gave Port Jeff what coach Bob Armstrong called, "the most coveted award we've ever won." Victories over Shenendahowa of Section II (41-10, on Saturday) and Pearl River of Section IX (32-21, in Sunday's semi-final) gave Port Jefferson a berth in Sunday afternoon's final round. This time, the opponent was Whitehall of Section II (capitol district), the team many people said was the best from upstate.

Port Jeff started off right, taking a 22-6 lead by winning five of the first six bouts, including first period pins from John Craig (1:27) and Lee Campo (1:38) in the 126 and 132-lb. bouts, respectively, and a major decision (13-5) by Kyle Wagner in the 98-lb. bout. However, Whitehall came back to win the next five bouts to go ahead by one with only the 215-lb. match left. Doug vonOiste, who has had a fine season all year long, came through with probably the most important victory he has ever had. A 13-0 superior decision over Whitehall's Don Fiorino gave vonOiste his second win of the tournament and the Royals a 27-23 victory to win the tournament and the right to be the number one dual meet team in New York State.

According to Armstrong, the most beautiful thing about winning this tournament was the total team concept displayed. "A lot of our guys made sacrifices," said Armstrong. "Some went down, but other kids picked it up. No one on our team is undefeated, but our team is undefeated (16-0).

Beside vonOiste (who didn't wrestle against Pearl River), only two other wrestlers, Neal Richards and Keith Wagner, won all their bouts. Other winners for Port Jeff against Pearl River were Craig, Kurt Wagner, Mike Carrera, Bill McGee and Charlie Soper. Campo, Carrera, McGee, Soper, Kyle Wagner and Larry Oakley were winners against Shenendahowa.

Morris captures Class A crown

CLIFTON PARK — Defending state champion Jason Morris of Burnt Hills was one of four wrestlers who remained unbeaten by winning Section II Class A Tournament championships Saturday at Shenendehowa High.

Morris, at 167 pounds, has not lost since Tom Cook of Class B Ballston Spa defeated him at 145 pounds in the Section II Tournament quarterfinals two years ago.

Bethlehem's sensational 91-pound freshman Chris Saba also remained unbeaten, as did Amsterdam's Vinnie Iavarone at 132 and Albany High's David Walker at 215.

The top four finishers in each weight class in Classes A, B, C and D will compete in the Section II Championships at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute in Troy this Saturday. In addition to the undefeated wrestlers, other top seeds to win Class A titles Saturday were: David Watson of Burnt Hills at 119; Rick Endres of Shenendehowa at 138; Dan Montalvo of Amsterdam at 155; Joe Bena of Niskayuna at 177 and Jeff Miller of Niskayuna at 250.

WRESTLING

Port's Number One!

Who's the number one wrestling team in New York State? That depends on who you talk to. Over the past five years, a great deal of controversy has spread over not only who the number one team is, but how to determine who it is.

Five years ago, Sonny Greenhalgh and Al Bevilacqua, proprietors of the Coaches Corner sporting goods store in Massapequa, put together a vehicle called the New York State Cup that promised to be the most objective method possible to determine who the best team is. The idea was to get the best 16 teams together in one place at one time and have them wrestle for a dual meet championship. The site chosen was the United States Military Academy at West Point, an accessible site for teams from Long Island and upstate.

Unfortunately, the cooperation from schools and pollsters hasn't been there. In two of the previous four years, the New York State Sportswriters Association has awarded a trophy for the number one team, according to its poll, to schools that chose not to enter the State Cup. Accordingly, for their own reasons, some of the poll's higher rated teams haven't entered the tournament.

We feel the time has come to have the pollsters cooperate more with the sponsors of the Cup. If you want to be known as the best dual meet team in New York State, the way to do it is go to the State Cup and put it on the line. As Greenhalgh said in his introduction prior to the Port Jefferson-Whitehall meet in the finals, "These guys are the number one and two teams in the state." Bob Armstrong said, "We were there, we put it on the line." We have to agree. As Greenhalgh said after the Cup, "If you don't go, you're not number one."

FRANKLINVILLE — When Casey Vassar first started wrestling for Franklinville Central School, what he was on the mat more often overshadowed how he was.

But then, Vassar, a flashy 98-pounder who has given Franklinville a quick lead in most of its matches this season, isn't just another wrestler.

He's a rare athlete who hasn't let a handicap from birth hold him back.

His mother and family deserve a lot of the credit for that.

"We've always encouraged him to be in sports," said Barbara Vassar of her son, born without a left arm.

"He has to try everything, because if he doesn't, he'll never know what he can do."

Barbara understands the difficulties Casey faces daily. But what may seem a tough approach, is only done to prepare her 14-year-old son for some of life's realities.

"We can't let him be handicapped," she said. "I have five children and no one treats him differently. He has to accept it, because he needs to know there can be some pretty mean people around."

STILL, IT hasn't been easy. Casey didn't just walk on the mat and become a winner. In fact, he was almost ready to call it quits.

"Last year it didn't seem like he wanted to wrestle," said Franklinville coach Dave Tundro. "But something happened since then and I really don't know what. This year he's dedicated himself and is really working hard. I know he wants to be good."

Though he's unable to perfect many of the moves his opponents throw at him, Vassar has adapted remarkably well, creating his own style to accent his strengths while staying away from his weaknesses.

A good takedown artist, Wednesday night Vassar won his ninth match in 11 tries, a 4-0 decision over Mike Zakel of Olean Walsh (See story, other picture page 16. He also has four pins.

"I really enjoy wrestling. It's fun and because it's rough, I like the competitiveness of it," said Casey, who finds riding his opponent the most difficult part of the sport.

"But I hate it (being handicapped)," he added. "There's so much I can't do. I dislike it, but I'm not sorry for myself. As far as wrestling goes, I feel I'm at a disadvantage because I'm limited to the holds I can use."

TUNDRO HAS worked closely with Vassar to compensate in that department. "Last year I just didn't spend much time with him," said the second-year coach. "But I've talked with him in class and this year I'm racking my brain trying to find out what will work best for him.

"He's strong on takedowns, but doing just that won't win him many matches. What's made him a winner is that he puts out the toughest six-minutes of any of the kids. That's his strength. He just never stops wrestling. The kid has a lot of heart."

"I try the best I can, first, and then you could say I'm out there to prove I can wrestle," Vassar said, adding he believes his opponents "are a little startled" when they first meet. "But to be honest, I'm a little surprised by how well I'm doing."

An eighth-grader, Vassar has set his sights on reaching this year's Section 6 Tournament.

His ultimate goal?

"When I'm a senior," he said, "I would like to go to states."

Learning about life in wrestling's fast lane

As with all sports, style and technique plays an integral role in the sport of wrestling.

You need those two items along with physical and mental toughness to be successful. If one of the links is missing the chances of success are limited.

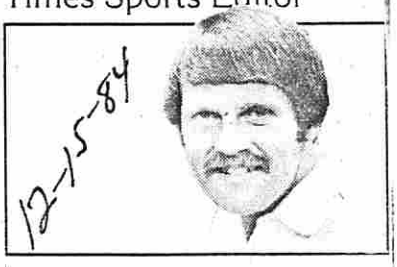
Such is life in the early going of the 1984-85 wrestling season at Penn State. The Lions have a talented team blessed with talented freshmen whose pre-Penn State credentials were quite impressive. But life in the fast lane on the college mats is a different world and Penn State freshmen Sean Finkbeiner, Andy Voit and Philipsburg-Osceola grad Mark Sidorick are finding that out. Losing hasn't been their style, and their actual style of wrestling — still a bit tentative — has hurt them.

The three have a combined 22 losses thus far this season. The same three had just one loss among them while all were winning PIAA championships a year ago. And all three lost last night in Penn State's 24-14 loss to Iowa State. That typifies the meaning of adjustment.

"There are definitely a lot of disappointing times in a young man's life in his first season," said Penn State Coach Rich Lorenzo, who is mainly responsible for convincing those young men that better days are ahead. "I have to keep their confidence level up to keep them believing they'll get better," he added.

And these three, along with the other highly touted freshmen in the wrestling room, undoubtedly will improve. It's rare that a wrestler working with Lorenzo doesn't. That's because he helps instill the proper attitude, and attitude is as important as any other aspect of the sport.

JIM CARLSON
Times Sports Editor



"They have good attitudes," Lorenzo said about his freshmen. "They are fighters. They go out and work harder and learn lessons quicker after a loss, and that's what will make them true champions before their careers are over."

In the interim there are hard times. "Sidorick and Finkbeiner and Voit are trying to learn new technique to go along with what they have," Lorenzo said. "They are at a disadvantage because they are trying to get better but they don't always have the confidence in their moves. They think about what they should do but the instinct isn't there yet.

"But you have to give ground to gain ground. The guy who's tough to coach is the guy who won't give ground. We don't try to change them, just help them perfect their moves and add to them a little bit. By mid-January or February, they'll start to come around."

A betting man would be safe to say they'll come around before that. They know what they have to do, even though Sidorick was confused about his 14-9 loss to ISU's Bob Gassman. "I just have to work on my feet," said Sidorick, who was taken down six times. "It was just a weird match."

□□□

Lorenzo's first concern last night wasn't his freshmen. The Lion coach felt his squad was "outfought" and "controlled much more than we should have been.

"But that was confidence on Iowa State's part. We got taught we have to take control of the match from the beginning, he said."

□□□

That's what Greg Elinsky did at 167 pounds. He beat Mike Van Arsdale 8-5 and won the Ridge Riley Award for his efforts.

"I feel pretty good," said Elinsky, now 11-1. "I beat him 9-5 last year and he tries to disrupt your style. But the key is not to break down mentally and just do what you have to do to win."

Elinsky, who will take a final exam this morning and who said other wrestlers had finals before last night's meet, noted that the approach this squad is taking this year is "to gear ourselves for the NCAAs," where Penn State placed third last season and had two national champions and seven All-Americans (including Elinsky).

That's their style.

One drink stopped wrestler's career

By Scott Conroe
Staff Writer

It didn't seem like a crime — just a single cup of beer, drawn from a keg. 1-23-85

And who would ever know, except Todd Wilcox and the rest of the Homer High School wrestlers who were at this party? They were a few hundred miles from home, and their coach and parents were 20 miles away.

"We never thought we'd get caught," Wilcox says, three weeks after the party in Rye. But they were caught, and — because they'd violated the Homer school athletic code by drinking — Wilcox and eight teammates were removed from the wrestling team.

It was the second crisis in Todd's athletic career. Four-and-a-half years ago, a rock fell on his head and broke his skull. A plate covers a hole in his skull.

His family is sad, not just because the drinking abruptly ended Todd's scholastic career but because he was fortunate to have a career at all. Todd and his parents wanted to tell his story, to show other high school athletes what can happen when a school's athletic policies are defied.

Todd is a senior, a three-time Section Three placewinner who had 80 career wins and a slim chance to reach 100. He dreamed of reaching the sectional finals at 132 pounds.

Todd had to give up football after he broke his skull when he was 12. An acrylic plate now covers the three-inch-in-diameter section of skull which had to be removed.

Wilcox has gone from being an example of courage, of hope after tragedy, to an example of what breaking rules can cost an athlete. "I don't think Todd knew that that beer he had in Rye would have such an impact," says his mother, Judy.

"We planned his athletic career as much as we could, but we never planned for human error," says his father, Doug.

Doug is the kind of father who videotapes his three sons' matches, who has kept scrapbooks which trace their careers from their beginnings. He and Judy bought their house outside Homer primarily because of its large basement, which has plenty of space for wrestling mats for the Wilcox sons.

Todd's skull was broken July 19, 1980. The rock fell on his head as he and friends were playing in a gorge near Homer.

The surgeons at State University Hospital in Syracuse who removed the fragments of skull from his head told Doug and Judy that Todd was lucky to be alive. They also said there was damage to brain tissue.

When Todd woke up after the surgery, the first thing he asked me was 'How's Mom handling it?'" Doug says. "Then he looked at me — I was pretty shook up — and said, 'I thought you were tough.' I knew he'd be fine."

The plate was inserted six months later. Until then, Todd had only skin covering his brain. He had to wear protective hats.

"We knew he'd wear baseball caps, so I made a couple with thick leather padding inside them," Judy says. But he was still bald, still highly visible, which wasn't easy for an eighth-grader. "I used to get teased pretty good," Todd says.

Doug was anxious for Todd's life — and athletic career — to be as normal as possible. Todd returned to class, rather than be tutored at home, and Doug convinced school physician Dr. Michael Schende and school officials to let Todd join the cross country team. 1-23-85

"When he got hurt, I felt cheated," Doug says. "Every father involved with sports wants his kid to be athletic. I didn't think Todd could wrestle anymore.

"We hated to leave football, but we had to do it," Doug says. "Todd has always been very active, and we had to find something for him. Besides, running was a great conditioner."

Todd wore a bicyclist's padded helmet when he ran.

Schende at first refused to allow Todd to wrestle. He was convinced by Dr. Robert King, chief of neurosurgery at University Hospital, that Todd could wrestle with special headgear. He also has been allowed to play baseball.

"So many people told us we were crazy to think about Todd's being in sports," says Judy. "They said we were lucky to have him at all, healthy. But Dr. King told me we could protect Todd all we wanted, but sooner or later he was going to be on his own."

Todd placed fourth in the section at 98 pounds that year, after being unseeded. He was fourth the next two years.

Todd's parents, and Homer wrestling coach Vince Condro, sometimes worried about him as he wrestled. Todd says he didn't think about the plate in his skull. He no longer wears special headgear.

"I didn't think it was any big deal," he says. Even when, during a match, he was thrown on his head? "Yeah. Then it rings. But I don't worry about it."

The Trojans won the Rye tournament Dec. 29; Todd was the champion at 138. The party was at a home where several of the Homer wrestlers were staying.

"First, we tried to get out of going (to the party)," Todd says. "We told the Rye wrestlers we'd rather do something else, but there was nothing else to do. We didn't have much choice but to go."

He says the wrestlers would never have tried such a thing at home: "In Homer, you can't breathe without someone knowing about it."

When Homer's Athletic Director, Larry Hart, questioned the boys about the party, they didn't try to lie about it. "I knew it was over," Todd says.

Todd's message to other high school athletes about gambling with their athletic careers by drinking: "Don't take the risk — it isn't worth it. Wait until after the season, if you feel you have to drink. (Getting caught and suspended) doesn't hurt just you, it hurts everybody."

Cattaraugus' 138-pounder Rich Grey "tore his elbow" and was taken to the hospital, according to Cattaraugus coach Don Walters.

The rise and fall of high school dynasties

Coaches build consistency, continuity into long traditions

By Scott Conroe
Staff Writer

They were silent at first on their bus ride home. Then they began to absorb the shock of being defeated.

It was a Saturday in May 1972. They had just become the first boys track team from Potsdam High School to lose a dual meet since 1963, after 72 victories and seven sectional championships. They'd all lost in other sports, but track was almost sacred.

"It was unbelievable," says Dave Wilson, a quarter-miler on that team, now a teacher in Fulton. "It seemed like we couldn't lose." 1-6-85

They were part of a sports rarity, a program that produces not just winning teams but champion teams year after year. They were part of a dynasty.

"Dynasty" is a historian's word for a royal family that rules a nation for generations, sometimes centuries. In some ways, it fits. Four years is a generation in a high school's history. Ten years could be a century.

Every school has its championship years. And some schools rule their league in a sport for a few years at a time.

But a dynasty — whether on the league, sectional or state levels — is something more. Its numbers are astonishing.

- Baldwinsville wrestling from 1977 until 1982: 78 straight dual meet wins, 95 straight Onondaga North wins.
- Liverpool boys swimming from 1967 to 1983: 14 consecutive Section Three titles, a win streak of 105 dual meets at one point.
- West Genesee lacrosse: three state titles in a row, 91 straight wins until last year's state title game against Yorktown.
- Onondaga Central boys cross country: six state Class C crowns since 1972.

Others have come and gone: West Genesee in wrestling (late 1950s to early 1960s), Jamesville-DeWitt in football (mid-1960s to early 1970s), Christian Brothers Academy in boys cross country and track (1960s to mid-1970s).

A dynasty begins with a head coach who can recruit the athletes needed to build a program into more than a winner, the intense desire to devote hours to it, the family that understands this desire.

"It takes someone who's going to dedicate himself over a long period of time," says Jim Funiciello, who coached Liverpool boys swimming from 1966-67 until 1982-83. "It takes continuity and consistency. And you must have a supportive family. Without that, it wouldn't have worked for me."

"Your wife has to be behind it all," says Henninger track and cross country coach Jerry Riordan, who built CBA's dynasties in both sports in the 1960s. "When I was away, my wife went to the kids' football and basketball games. She gave them a sense of stability."

The varsity team is what the world sees. But the head coach watches all the stages of an athlete's development — junior varsity, freshman team, junior high teams, peewee teams. He assembles a coaching staff that guides these different facets of his program while he oversees it.

"You have to be involved in the program at every level," says West Genesee lacrosse coach Mike Messere. "You don't go to every game, but your philosophy is followed at every level."

Children in the West Genesee district can learn lacrosse at a young age, in a summer league. High schoolers play during the summer alongside college players and learn from them.

Both leagues were created in the mid-1970s by Bill Wormuth, Messere's predecessor, and both have tripled in size since then. It's no coincidence that in the same time span, the Wildcats grew from one of Section Three's dominant teams to one of the state's dominant teams.

Programs for young athletes also helped Leo Johnson build a wrestling dynasty on the league, sectional and state levels at Baldwinsville. Then other schools — notably Fulton — started their own peewee programs and grew in strength, eventually ending Baldwinsville's dynasty.

Youth programs help create dynasties. So does tradition.

Johnson has former Baldwinsville state champions talk to his teams before major matches. Lists of team captains and All-Americans hang on one wall above Liverpool's pool, where the current Warriors can see them as they practice. Former West Genesee lacrosse players watch the current team and work with it.

The past is always there, reminding present athletes of what came before them. "Especially with all those grads close by (playing at Syracuse University)," says former West Genesee lacrosse player Tom Korrie. "You knew they were there, watching."

Tradition helps motivate the present athletes when they face an opponent who, on the basis of sheer talent, should beat them. All dynasties face such opponents.

"I remember one game when (All-American midfielder) Brad Kotz was hurt," Korrie says. "We'd been depending on him. We thought it was over. Coach Messere told us we could do it, and we won. It showed us the team was more than just one player.

"All dynasties meet obstacles like that and overcome 'em. Beating challenges is really satisfying."

This is what made Johnson's wrestlers, Funiciello's swimmers and Messere's lacrosse players so exciting during their streaks. When graduation took athletes from their lineups, the coaches replaced them.

• Baldwinsville wrestling coach
• 78 straight dual wins
• 95 straight league wins

It's easier to do that in sports like wrestling, swimming and track, where teams are composed of individuals who can be shuffled or replaced. Team sports are a different matter.

"It's very hard to have a dynasty in a sport like basketball," Funiciello says. "You can have a dynasty, then a team you play can get one or two kids who change everything, who make their team a contender."

Messere converted attackmen and midfielders to defensemen the year his Wildcats won their third state crown. Imagine a football coach replacing his line with running backs, and you'll get the idea.

Messere thinks discipline is the reason his school's lacrosse streak survived. He demands discipline — obeying strict rules, keeping grades at a certain level — from his athletes. Always has, always will.

Funiciello was the same way. "School let out at 2:15, and practice started at 2:27," he says. "My swimmers understood I didn't mean 2:28."

Funiciello's win streak was amazing, but he says he never focused on winning. "Our goals were records, times and to be just be as good as we could," he says. "We never talked about scores or about beating other teams. People don't understand this."

Bill Lewis would understand. He built Potsdam's track dynasty on the same principle, telling each athlete to develop his talents to the utmost. He also liked to win.

After his team's loss in 1972, Lewis found new ways to combine his athletes' talents. They helped him, volunteering to try events they'd never competed in, so great was their desire to gain revenge.

Two weeks after its win streak ended, Potsdam avenged its loss, beating Tupper Lake by half a point in the Section Ten meet. Dynasties can survive one loss.

Sometimes defeat even takes away pressure. "You deal with losing by working harder," says Messere, whose Wildcats will try to regain the state title this year. "Losing brings you down to earth. It makes you think about how you got there."

But dynasties come to an end. It happened to the Potsdam track team. The 1973 team was unbeaten in dual meets and won the sectional meet for the ninth straight year, by three points over Ogdensburg. But every year it became more difficult for Lewis to find the athletes who could give him these close wins. The dynasty was replaced in 1974 by another — Ogdensburg.

This is why dynasties vanish — something happens to change the chemistry of people and circumstances.

Sometimes the head coach decides to retire. "It's hard to keep the same level of intensity over the years," Messere says.

Dynasties rarely survive the change in style and philosophy that accompanies a change in head coaches.

Liverpool's swimmers faltered last year, after Funiciello retired; they lost two duals and finished third in the Section Three meet. But he feels they'll return to what they were, with new coach Frank Woodward.

1-6-85

Sometimes the dynasty's supply of athletes shrinks or shifts to other sports. Sometimes the people around it — administrators, parents, fans — change.

Riordan says these factors brought his CBA cross country and track dynasties to an end, although he never thought of them as dynasties and never relied much on tradi-

Riordan says CBA wasn't allowed to compete in sectional or state meets, because it was a Catholic school, so it competed in New York City. The Brothers still had dual meets with Section Three teams — and didn't lose to them for years. Under his guidance, CBA won 17 league cross country crowns.

Eventually, money became tighter at CBA, and the school's enrollment shrank. Riordan had always been able to recruit boys who didn't fit into other sports, but he began to struggle. Other teams — which had imitated some of CBA's ideas — began to beat the Brothers.

"The last year I was at CBA, we had good track and cross country teams, but they weren't at the level they reached in the 1970s," Riordan says.

"I felt we could always be there in cross country; all you needed was five kids. But you need lots of kids in track. It just wasn't possible to compete on a Class A level."

He moved to Henninger two years ago and found material for a new dynasty. His boys track teams are 11-0. Last fall, his boys cross country team won the Section Three Class A title.

"I don't have a solid program here yet, just a lot of very good athletes," he says. "The kids here aren't interested in running. In the fall, I compete with football and soccer for athletes.

"But the football program has helped us in track; football players who don't play lacrosse are encouraged to run track. And I'm starting to get the 'average' athlete, the kind of kid who made my CBA teams what they were.

"I'm just going to have to establish a tradition here, as they have in football and lacrosse."

Wrestlers grapple with diet, exercise to be competitive

An advertisement for the latest weight-loss gimmick? No. The result of wrestlers "sucking weight." 1-13-85

Many Americans are on new diets after a holiday season of overindulgence. For high school wrestlers, though, dieting is a way of life.

"There is no holiday from wrestling," said Scott, a senior at McQuaid.

It's no picnic, either.

After spending the day in classes and at wrestling practice, Scott goes home to a small dinner of meat and vegetables, does his homework, runs four miles and goes to bed.

That's the life of a wrestler.

"It's a great sport," said East Rochester Coach Don Quinn. "The one drawback is sucking weight. A certain amount of dieting is super. It's a discipline most Americans can stand.

"But," he added, "too many kids suck too much weight."

The reason for weight reduction is to give a wrestler an opportunity to compete at a lower weight class against an opponent of equal strength. The result, however, can be illness, injuries, or worse.

"NOT EATING a good diet can affect long-term growth," said University of Rochester trainer John Bernfield, the coordinator of the Sports Medicine Department at Strong Memorial Hospital.

Wrestlers still can maintain a good diet while losing weight.

"You've got to eat the right things," said Quinn, a coach for 27 years and the father of four wrestlers.

He tells his athletes to eat eggs and fruit in the morning. If they choose cereal it should not be sugar sweetened. He also suggests warm tea "to keep the bowels going."

At lunch, if a youth eats two sandwiches he should cut back to one.

Liver, fish and poultry are good at dinner. They also can eat all the green vegetables they like. Or dislike.

"Deserts are a no-no," Quinn said. "And you've got to stay away from between-meal snacking. Also, stay away from fried foods."

Quinn endorses Lean Cuisine dinners, which he said are "super as far as dieting goes."

"My kids, my two wrestlers (ER graduates Don and Tim), learned to eat better foods. They have better eating habits because of wrestling," said Quinn.

"It's tougher on the parents than it is on the kid," he added. "Kids don't want to listen to the parents' suggestion. They want to find shortcuts . . . but there aren't any shortcuts."

The New York State Public High School Athletic Association recommends using five percent of an individual's weight as a guideline for the maximum permissible weight loss. "But some schools slip by that," said Quinn. 1-13-85

TO CUT DOWN on unreasonable weight loss the association requires each wrestler to have a medical examination before the season. The attending physician determines how much weight the athlete can lose. 1-13-85

Bernfield, formerly the wrestling coach at UR, said a youth "should lose no more than three percent of his optimal body weight."

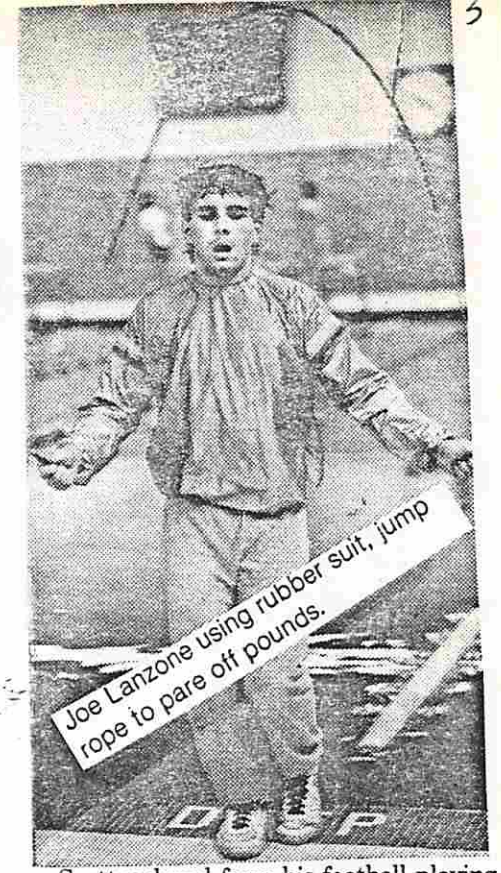
He added that an athlete "should lose no more than a pound or two pounds a week."

That may sound unreasonable, especially in the case of the athlete who has gained weight for football and then tries to cut back for wrestling.

"There's a misconception among football players that bulking up means to eat everything in sight," Bernfield said. "But the kids who bulk up right for football — through weight training — don't have the body fat to lose.

"The real reason for weight reduction among wrestlers is to compete against somebody who has equal strength," he said. "If you're in a proper weight-training program your strength will increase and you're capable of wrestling in a higher weight class. Many coaches use the logic: He's good at 177 so he'll be even better at 157. They don't stop and think, 'What are they losing?' They're losing muscle.

"WHEN YOU'RE LOSING muscle you're losing strength and you're no longer wrestling at your full capacity," Bernfield added. "A wrestler is putting himself through a lot of misery for nothing."



Joe Lanzone using rubber suit, jump rope to pare off pounds.

Scott reduced from his football-playing weight of 155 pounds to wrestle at 138. He then finished second at Spencerport's Rotary-Bernabi tournament on Dec. 29 and was rewarded with the most outstanding wrestler award after placing first at the Sherburne-Earlville tournament on Jan. 5.

"I started eating meats and vegetables instead of junk food," Scott said of his 17-pound loss. "I ran, I watched what I ate, and I didn't drink as much (fluids). During football I drank a lot of orange juice and water."

Scott said he probably could go down to the next weight class — 132 pounds — but added, "I was solid during football and I'm solid now. It's like, how much more could I lose? You have to think about how much fat you have on your body. You have to lose weight and not deteriorate your muscles."

As a sophomore, Scott once lost 10 pounds in two days in order to wrestle at 126 pounds.

"I went to practice, then I went home and ate a little and went running," he remembered. "Then I practiced the next day, I didn't eat anything, and I ran at night. I was right on (at the next morning's weigh-in)."

DAYS OF FASTING are not uncommon among wrestlers. Neither are the horror stories of overnight weight loss.

"I've heard of people going to a sauna until they dropped," said Scott. "Or people taking Ex-Lax. Or making yourself throw up." 1-13-85

"There are a lot of tricks that wrestlers use that I don't advocate," said

Quinn. "I tell the kids, 'Just work out a little more. Go home and study and then go running or jump rope. Break a sweat, take a shower, and go right to bed. It gets your metabolism up, then you lose weight overnight.' That's the real secret."

Gene Mills, a national champion at Syracuse University, did more than work out a little more. 1-13-85

Mills is reknowned for his incredible weight reduction — losing as much as 20 pounds in 1½ days.

Quinn has had the SU graduate at ER for clinics. 1-13-85

"He told our kids that he'd get up at six in the morning and work out for 2½ hours before eating breakfast," Quinn said. "Then he'd work out until lunch. Then he'd work out until dinner. Then he'd work out again in the evening.

"He'd start 20 pounds over and work out and lose six pounds," Quinn said. "Then he'd eat and put two back on. Now he's 16 over. Then he'd work out and lose six more. Then he'd eat and gain two more. Now he's 12 over."

This, Quinn said, would go on all day until he finished his evening workout two pounds over weight. Those pounds would disappear while he slept.

"That's fine if you've got the time," Quinn said, "but when you're going to (high) school it's impossible to do."

It's also a physical impossibility for most people. 1-13-85

"Some people can do it," said Bernfield. "More power to them if they can, and Mills was successful. But some kid in high school sees that and says, 'He did it, so I can do it, too.' But he can't."

And, Bernfield said, he'll only hurt himself trying.

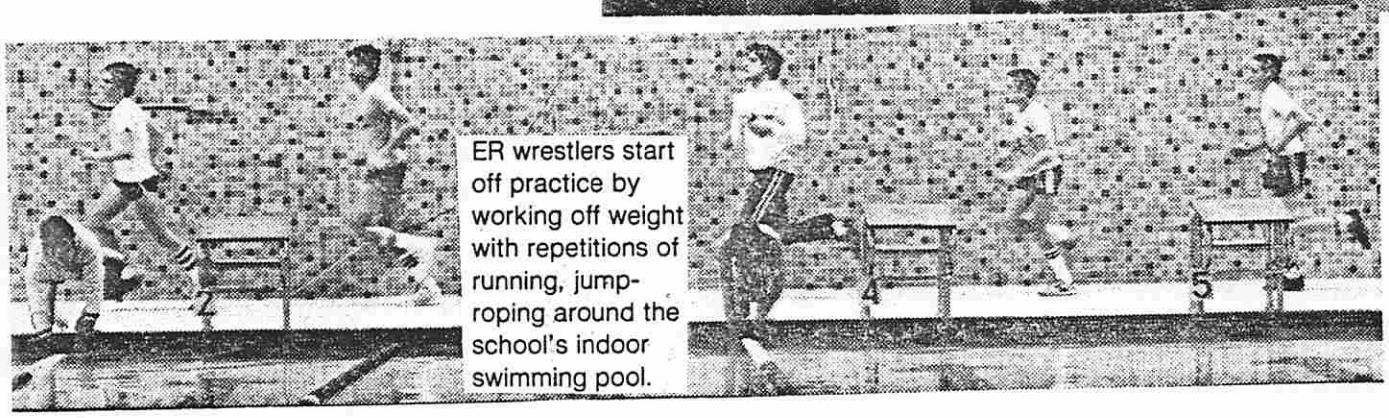
Making weight: Battle to stay competitive



ER wrestlers start off practice by working off weight with repetitions of running, jump-roping around the school's indoor swimming pool.

The great Dan Gable

Iowa Hawkeyes mirror image of their coach — intense

By RON BRACKEN
Times Sports Columnist

The intensity fairly flows from Dan Gable, crackling and arcing like the electricity from a downed power line. 12-9-84

The same intensity which drove him to the wrestling room for a workout an hour after he had won an Olympic gold medal in 1972 still pours from him on a night his Iowa Hawkeyes had blitzed Penn State, 31-9.

He has intense love for his sport, an intense sense of the right way of doing things, an intense way of speaking which calls for more exclamation points than periods.

And even though he's now balding and bespectacled, you know just by looking at him that he could go out on the mat and shake down some thunder from the rafters.

He's not lost any of that bulldog competitiveness which helped him win every match he ever wrestled in high school, all but one match in four years of college and the Olympic gold. And he's managed to infuse that same spirit in the Hawkeyes, who are on a quest for their eighth consecutive NCAA title.

And he admires an adversary who displays those same traits, shows the same commitment to excellence, the same will to win.

Which is why he spent a good portion of his post-meet interview complimenting the Penn State team he had just beaten, 31-9. It was not a case of someone heaping hollow praise on a beaten foe. As we'll see later, he is not always so gracious toward a vanquished opponent. The man does not deal in empty platitudes.

"It was good for our team to wrestle Penn State tonight," he declared. "There were a lot of big names missing from their lineup tonight — (Dan) Mayo, (John) Place, (Eric) Brugel, (Steve) Sefter — some of whom are injured, some of whom are redshirted. But the thing that impressed me was that the team they put out there, even though it had some good names — (Chris) Bevilacqua, (Greg) Elinksy — shows that even though we wound up winning, 31-9, there were some good matches.

"It shows that Penn State is building what I've said they've been building all along — a solid program. They can send people out there who have been wrestling behind good people and still put on a good show. I'm impressed; Penn State has the makings of a great team right now.

CDT Photo

MR. WRESTLING: Iowa wrestling coach Dan Gable seems to always make his point with h wrestlers.

"At 177 (Penn State's Mark) Sidorick was down bad (7-0) but my kid (Rico Chiapparelli) has had a slow start this year (he had arthroscopic knee surgery in early November) and wasn't in real good shape and Sidorick took it to him." 12-9-84

Gable read that as a sign of things to come from the Lions in a year or two.

"Penn State helped Iowa get tougher tonight just by the way we had to fight in several matches. I wasn't disappointed in anyone, even though at 134 my kid (Greg Randall) got beat. At the end he came back, he didn't throw the towel in. No one gave up on me. In fact, no one on either side threw in the towel. I was very comfortable with that.

He forsees Penn State as a formidable challenger to the title the Hawkeyes have owned for the last seven years.

"It won't be too far down the line to where I think Penn State is going to challenge us real close and I think that's great," Gable added. "Oklahoma State is another team that will be doing that although I'll have to wait and see; I'm not sure how solid their program really is.

"But Penn State's program — if they keep backing it, they'll fill this place all the time. In 1986 we have the NCAA tournament in Iowa City and you can bet Penn State will be fighting their rear ends off to win it. We've won seven (titles) in a row and a lot of people are already conceding us an eighth this year, although we'll have to be a lot tougher than we were tonight to do that. But if we do Iowa City would be a hell of a place to lose it."

Lehigh doesn't have it

One team Gable does not see mounting a challenge to his Hawkeyes any time soon is Lehigh. Iowa handed the once-proud Engineers a 44-0 lacing in Bethlehem Thursday night with only 1,800 people on hand and afterward Gable unloaded on the Lehigh program.

"No!" he replied when asked if he was surprised at how easily his team had won that meet. "I was really disappointed in Lehigh last night and I shot my mouth off a little bit afterward. I told them I might come back to Lehigh and I might not.

"They don't give scholarships and lost every top kid to Penn State. And Penn State is going to take every top kid. I know if I was a kid wrestling here I would not go to Lehigh. I'd go to Penn State because I see what they are doing.

"Lehigh should start getting with the times! They are one of the great teams in history of the sport but that doesn't mean that because times change you don't change with them. If there's a need to change they should change with them. I'm talking about giving scholarships and doing whatever they need to do to get the program good.

"Pennsylvania is an unbelievable state for high school athletes. There are enough to go to both Lehigh and Penn State. Then you have recruits from Ohio — a great state — New York and New Jersey. There are enough to go around and I think the rivalry between Penn State and Lehigh needs to be. I think Lehigh could learn a little bit from Penn State."

And until a program like that begins to indicate to Gable that it is as committed to the sport as he is, he will waste no time on it. Conversely, if he senses that an appearance of his Hawkeyes can be beneficial, roll out the mat. That explains why Iowa visited Morgan State, a small Maryland school with a less than illustrious history in the sport. And even though the Hawkeyes romped, 56-3, Gable felt better about that meet than the 44-0 blasting of Lehigh.

Trying to promote

"I've been accused of dominating the sport too much," he admitted. "People are always telling me to promote the sport, promote the sport, so I try to help people out as much as I can. I look for ways to help the sport. That's why I'm upset with Lehigh and I'm trying to promote their program a little bit. The people in that area deserve good wrestling. I know the economy is tough in that area but there are a lot of rich people who went through Lehigh.

"We went to Morgan State the other night because that area needed to see wrestling. We drew a good crowd too, filled one side of the gym.

"And we wrestled two teams at the same time not too long ago. We wrestled LSU and Purdue at the same time. We staggered the start 30 minutes so that I wound up having six guys wrestle twice within 30 minutes. You don't have to do things like that but I try to help the sport out.

"Purdue has been wanting to wrestle us in the Big 10 but I won't wrestle them because they're not good enough. I can't put them on the schedule as a whole meet because we'd end up beating them 46-0.

"Tonight, even though the score was 31-9, there was some great wrestling going on. Whereas in a meet with Purdue it would have been fall, fall and there wouldn't have even been good matches. So I told Purdue I'd help them out, I'd wrestle a double dual meet at the same time."

A helping hand

It would be easy enough to come to the conclusion that there is an air of condescension about this man who has become an ambassador of his sport. But you would be wrong. Instead of looking down on the weaker teams he is extending a hand to those who aspire to climb to his level. And if there is an ulterior motive there, it is that he realizes that good competition will benefit his team as well, making it even stronger. That helps explain why he was looking forward to the meet with Penn State. After two straight blowouts, he wanted a challenge.

"I was keyed up for this meet," he explained. "I had been low-key most of the time this year but I wanted good performances tonight. And I think I got them. Some were not so good but none were poor. You could say, since Randall lost, that it was a poor performance but he hustled, he was trying to win and he didn't throw in the towel."

To Gable throwing in the towel, quitting on the mat, is a cardinal sin, a sign of weakness which he loathes. It is no sin in his eyes to lose, only to lose without giving a maximum effort. It is one of the reasons the Iowa is synonymous with excellence in wrestling.

There are others.

"We've accomplished what we have for two reasons," he said. "One, because we try to teach the best techniques availble at the world and Olympic levels. And two, we have a year-round program. Our kids are never off the mat for an extended period of time.

"There are other, minor reasons — we have a good strength program and we have tremendous backing from the fans — but they aren't as important as the kids actually being good. That's the most important thing.

"But the only way you can have a year-round program and teach the best techniques is if the atmosphere and attitude is good. Without that it would be impossible to go year-round, impossible to teach the best techniques.

"And we have a great atmosphere for wrestling."

It is one which Gable created almost single-handedly, which means it is one thing if nothing else — intense!

Eight Club Champions Crowned

By GARY MALONEY
Times Herald Sports Writer

It was club-championship weekend along area New York golf courses, with eight such men's and women's events conducted at five different clubs.

Here's the weekend rundown:

Wellsville: Bob Dunham blazed his way to a round of 69 Saturday, but had to hang on after a 77 Sunday before claiming a one-stroke championship-flight victory with a 146. Dick Giedlin (72-75) and Kevin Harris (74-73) tied for second at 147.

The 'A' flight low-gross champ was Ralph Coates (80-84—164), while the low-net title went to Bill Piscitelli (139). Bill Dorney (89-89—178) captured the 'B' flight low-gross, while Steve Kane (140) took low-net. Jack Palmer (91-93—184) grabbed 'C' flight low-gross honors and John Vossler (141) the low-net.

The junior club championship title went to Darrell Austin (76-85—161), while Tom Brush Jr. (142) garnered low-net honors.

Holiday Valley: Olean's Dick Eaton birdied the second playoff hole to edge Dick Emke for the club championship after each golfer shot seven-over-par 149 in the two-day event.

Bob Jackson won the second flight and Earl Dixon took second, while Mike Latten and Tony Pezzementi went one-two in the third flight.

N.Y. Golf Roundup

Among the women, Ellicottville's Mary Lou Fitzpatrick topped Barb Kozlowski on the first playoff hole after each recorded regulation 102s in the 18-hole, two-day event. Robin Carlson knocked off Ellen Jackson on the first extra hole to take the second flight.

Saturday sweeps: Eaton (74-4—70), Latten (98-26—72), Jackson (86-14—72). Sunday sweeps: Dixon (84-20—64), Joe Kubiak (76-10—66), Pezzementi (104-36—68).

Ischua Valley: Sandusky's Mike Warner (155) posted a six-stroke victory in the 36-hole club championship finals Sunday. John McFadden shot a scratch 161, while Frank Scalise and Dick Miess tied for third at 162.

John Wylie prevailed in the first flight, and Don Bentley took the second flight.

Karen Norton of Arcade captured the women's club title, defeating Betty Clements in the match-play finals.

18-Point Buck For Oswayo Hunter

11-22-84

OSWAYO HUNTER Randy Karr, 21, proubly displays the 18-point buck he bagged Monday, the opening day of deer season in Pennsylvania. The Times Herald normally doesn't publish deer photos, but the remarkable rack of Karr's prize made for an exception. Despite its enormous rack, the buck dressed out at a mere 129 pounds. Karr bagged his buck in a wooded area near Shinglehouse using a custom-made rifle built by his father, Daniel. He plans to have the buck's head mounted.

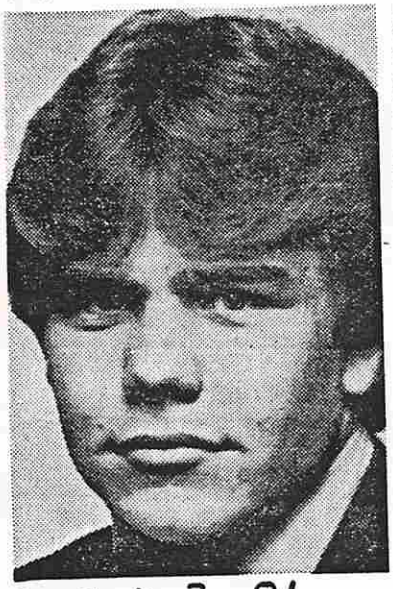
Three-Time N.Y. Champ In Mat Classic

Ask most high school sports fanatics which states produce the best scholastic wrestlers and the answer will probably be Oklahoma, Iowa or Ohio.

New York won't be mentioned because the Empire State is best at turning out basketball players. But around Albany, N.Y., wrestling is king, and that's where the committee for The Press Wrestling Classic found one of the members for this year's United States All-Star team.



Jon Cardi 3-81
Four-year record is 144-6.

Jon Cardi of Burnt Hill High School in Ballston Spa, N.Y., will be the 155 pounder for the U.S. Stars. His four-year high school record is a neat 144-6 and includes three state titles. Cardi, who was voted the Most Outstanding Wrestler in last year's New York tourney, was 34-0 this year and has a 90-match winning streak.

The U.S. Stars will take on the best senior wrestlers in Pennsylvania April 9 at the Pitt Field House in Classic IX. The preliminary match, featuring a team from Oklahoma against the best from the WPIAL, will begin at 6 p.m. The main event will get under way at 8.

Cardi is the only respresentative on this year's U.S. team from New York. He disagrees with the idea New York is best known for its basketball talent.

"I think people who follow high school wrestling will tell you the best wrestlers are in Ohio, Pennsylvania and New York," he said. "That's not to put down wrestlers from those other states, but that's the way I feel."

Cardi should have an idea of how good the wrestling talent is in other states. He's attended freestyle tournaments all over the country as a member of the Adirondack Freestyle Wrestling Club.

He comes by his wrestling ability honestly. His father, Art, wrestled and played football at Ithaca College and is the founder and charter member of the Adirondack Club.

"I guess I started wrestling when I was 8 or 9 years old," the younger Cardi said. "My dad never pushed me into it or anything. I used to play all kinds of other sports too, but since my sophomore year in high school I've just concentrated on wrestling."

His concentration will pay off in a college scholarship. Cardi, who has a 3.0 grade point average, has had offers from Oklahoma, Oklahoma State, Nebraska, Lehigh, North Carolina State and Clarion State.

Cardi won't be the only member of the U.S. team from the east. Han Houser of Willingboro High School in Willingboro, N.J. will be the All-Stars' 112 pounder.

Houser's list of accomplishments is staggering. He finished third in the New Jersey Tournament last year and is favored to take the 112-pound title this year. His high school record is 77-3 and his overall pre-high school and high school mark is 353-13.

Houser and Cardi knew about The Press Wrestling Classic before they received the phone call invitations to participate. It's one post-season tournament they've been looking forward to.

"I've read about it (Classic IX) in some amateur wrestling magazines and it sounds like an outstanding tournament," Cardi said. "I enjoy going against the best from other areas of the country.

"I know the wrestling in Pennsylvania is outstanding. I'm sure I'll wind up going against somebody who's tough."

The Pennsylvania All-Stars won't be determined until after the PIAA tournament in Hershey is completed Saturday.

(Tickets for Classic IX are $8 for reserved seats and $5 for general admission. They may be ordered by sending checks payable to Press Wrestling Classic, Box 715, The Press, Pittsburgh, Pa., 15230. They may also be purchased at Mt. Lebanon High School or at Baierl Chevrolet on Route 19, Wexford. Proceeds from Classic IX will go to Children's Hospital through The Press Old Newsboys Fund.) — By Rich Emert

Bulldogs Show Bite in Tool City Tourney

The Meadville Bulldogs, a future tournament opponent of the Clearfield Bisons, showed why its No. 2 Class AAA statewide team ranking is justified as they overpowered a tough 16-team field to easily win the team championship in the fifth annual Tool City Invitational Wrestling Tournament last weekend at Meadville High School.

The Bulldogs got championship efforts from 119-pounder Doug Stanford (21-0) and Bruce Ridgeway (14-6) at 138 pounds. In addition to the pair of champions, the Bulldogs, 7-0 in dual meets and winners of three tournaments, placed nine of their wrestlers in the top six. Thise nine placewinners helped the hosts score 174½ team points, 26½ more than runner-up Corry, the state's No. 1 ranked Class AA team, which finished with three champs and 148 team points.

Rounding out the top five were Erie Prep (106 points), Westmont Hilltop (96½) and Erie McDowell (96). The championship finals:

98—Dave McMillan, Westmont Hilltop, pinned Mike Munser, Corry, 5:19. 105—Mark Munser, Corry, dec. Mel Toran, Erie Prep, 5-3. 112—Bob Proper, Maplewood, dec. Bob Harrington, Corry, 5-3. 119—Doug Stanford, Meadville, dec. Larry Parker, Maplewood, 4-2. 126—Ron Karns, Oil City, pinned Tom Miklosovic, Greenville, 1:07. 132—Brad Gintert, Howland, Ohio, dec. Lee McFerren, Meadville, 4-1. 138—Bruce Ridgeway, Meadville, dec. Frank Sampsell, Oil City, 6-4. 145—Ed Burkhart, Corry, dec. Rick Miller, Erie Tech, 4-2. 155—Tom Allen, Erie Tech, dec. Dan Volna, Meadville, 7-4. 167—Mike Wayne, Erie Tech, dec. Paul Cousins, Erie McDowell, 5-3. 185—Charlie Buckshaw, Corry, major dec. Mike Sherman, Hickory, 14-6. Shikellamy, Corry Top Initial Team Rankings

District 4 powerhouse Shikellamy (AAA) and District 10's Corry (AA) find themselves atop the first, bi-monthly statewide dual-meet team rankings, which include a trio of District 6 teams — State College fifth and Philipsburg-Osceola sixth in Class AAA and Westmont Hilltop seventh in Class AA.

The Shikellamy Braves of head coach Phil Lockcuff have been extremely impressive in the early going, compiling a perfect 9-0-0 record. The Braves will receive a stern test Saturday when they travel to take on No. 9 Easton, many observers' choice in pre-season as the state's top Class AAA team. The Red Rovers currently are 5-2 in dual meets with the losses to the nation's top schoolboy team, Lakewood St. Edwards (43-13) of Cleveland, Ohio, and to No. 8 Bethlehem Liberty in a mild upset Saturday afternnon, 32-27.

The Rovers' chances for an exceptional season were diminished somewhat last week when star 185-pounder Kevin Benton, a 1983 PIAA qualifier, quit the team. The Rovers still have plenty of talent left though to make things interesting when the 1984 PIAA championships roll around in mid-March.

The only other Class AAA teams ranked in the top 10 with losses are Bethlehem Liberty (5-1-0) and Canon-McMillan (9-1-0).

Liberty's loss was a 39-24 defeat to top-ranked Shikellamy, while Canon-Mac suffered its lone defeat Saturday, losing 36-18 to Lakewood St. Ed's. The final score does not indicate the closeness of the meet as Canon-McMillan had three winners, one Big Mac who drew, two who lost by one point each and two who lost by three points each.

That was against a St. Ed's team which features three state champions and four state runner-ups among its 12 regulars. The dual win was St. Ed's 86th in a row. The powerful squad also has won the championship in it last 51 tournament appearances as well.

Over in Class AA, Corry (6-0-0) gets the nod for the top spot over District 11's North Schuylkill (6-0-0) in a close vote. Both teams feature exceptional talent, but Corry has a slight edge in overall team balance.

All of the remaining top 10 teams could challenge for the top spot before the season runs its course. Fourth-ranked Danville (5-1-0) was surprised in an early season loss to No. 8 Lake Lehman, 27-23. Lehman, on the other hand has only lost to AAA giants Easton (40-12) and Hazleton (29-28). The only other top 10 AA squad with a loss is No. 5 Susquehannock, which was edged 29-27 by the states No. 3 AAA team, Dover.

By the way, Hazleton (6-2) is coached this year by former Clearfield PIAA champion Norm Palovcsik. Hazleton's losses have been to Wyoming Valley West and top-ranked Shikellamy.

Wrestling Notes

Cedar Cliff head wrestling coach Bob Craig reached a coveted milestone last week when his team defeated Lower Dauphin, 31-16. The victory marked the 300th career coaching win for Craig, who is one of the state's most respected and well-liked coaches. He coached at Newport, another District 3 scool, before moving down the Susquehanna River to the Harrisburg area.

In high school wrestling, winning doesn't come easy, but for Venango Christian High School a team victory has been totally non-existent. That is, up until last week, when the Vikings posted their first-ever dual-meet triumph by defeating Neshannock, 33-27.

The first wrestling victory in the school's six-year history of the sport had head coach Larry Stralko beaming. "I'm glad for the school, I'm glad for the student body. Of all my athletic achievements, this is the most exciting by far," stated Stralko, a former star wrestler and physical fitness team member at Cranberry High School.

Fomer Clearfield High School wrestler Wade Cutler is the starting 134-pounder for Slippery Rock University. Cutler, a senior, currently has a seasonal record of 5-7 for the 1-3 Rockets.

In District 1 high school wrestling, Mike Seese (10-0) of Downingtown (7-0) is the top-rated 119-pounder in the Southeast Region of the state. Seease, a junior, is a son of former Clearfield PIAA champion Dean Seese and his wife, the former Linda Derrick of Clearfield... Also Council Rock, coached by former Moshannon Valley grad Vic Stanley, has a current dual meet record of 6-3 and is under consideration for the Top 10 Class AAA teams in that region.

In the most recent Eastern Mat Poll, conducted by coaches and writers throughout the East, the top 10 college wrestling teams are: 1. Penn State; 2. Bloomsburg; 3. Clarion; 4. Naval Academy; 5. Lehigh; 6. Syracuse; 7. Lock Haven; 8. Wilkes; 9. Rider; 10. (tie) Pitt and West Virginia.

Injuries are beginning to plague Penn State. Freshman 177-pound standout Dan Mayo broke his ankle Saturday at Clarion. Senior 126-pounder Scott Lynch underwent arthoscopic knee surgery Monday but may be back in time to compete in a couple of dual meets before the Eastern League Tournament.

Holiday Tourney Wrap-up, Dual Meet Picks

Holiday Tourney Wrap-Up

Several top-flight scholastic wrestling tournaments were conducted around the state over the Christmas-New Year's Day holidays, the most notable being at Manheim and Williamsport.

At the 15th annual Lions Club Tournament at Manheim Central High School near Lancaster, 12 top teams, including Pennsylvania powers Easton, Meadville, Bald Eagle Area, Erie Prep, Canon-McMillan, Dover and Downingtown joined out-of-state entries Sparta, N.J., and Mount St. Joe's of Baltimore, Md., for a big shootout. 1-3-85

When the smoke cleared, Easton, a newcomer to the potent tournament field, surprised many by capturing top honors. Easton amassed 133½ points to slip past Meadville, which tallied 125½. Bald Eagle Area finished a solid third with 113½.

Erie Prep, which opened the 1984-85 season with a stunning 36-25 dual meet victory over Meadville, which was riding a 30-match unbeaten streak, wound up in fourth place with 112½ points. Rounding out the top five teams in the prestigious event was defending champion Dover, which had 84½ points.

Easton received a big boost towards its eventual team title in the semifinal round when heavyweight John Avia won by disqualification over heavily-favored and defending champion Robbie Benjamin of Canon-McMillan.

As the two sparred for position during the early part of their match, contact was made and some rough-housing occured. Suddenly, Avia went flying across the mat backwards, the benefactor of a Benjamin punch that resulted in the Big Mac's ejection from the tourney and loss of valuable team points as well.

That occurrence, coupled with two head-to-head finals losses to Easton wrestlers, dashed all title hopes for Meadville, which entered the tourney as the heavy favorite.

Meadville did get some satisfaction though as two-time Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association placewinner Sean O'Day blasted returning tourney champ and PIAA medalist Jim Langstaff of Dover in the 138-pound finals to cop outstanding wrestler honors for the District 10 powerhouse. 1-3-85

The championship results:

98—Steve Millward, Bald Eagle Area, dec. Kevin Bricker, Dover, 6-5. 105—Ron Rothka, Canon-McMillan, major dec. Doug Taylor, Bald Eagle Area, 12-4. 112—Jack Cuvo, Easton, superior dec. Melvin Toran, Erie Prep, 20-8. 119—Mike Seese, Downingtown, dec. Tim Rothka, Canon-McMillan, 7-3. 126—Steve Pagliughi, Sparta (N.J.), dec. Dave Kruszewski, 7-4. 132—Don Peters, Bald Eagle Area, dec. Rick Weis, Erie Prep, 9-2.

138—Sean O'Day, Meadville, dec. Jim Langstaff, Dover, 12-5. 145—Jerry Hulbert, Easton, major dec. Todd Fisher, Solance, 18-8. 155—Jeff Karam, Easton, dec. Mike McHenry, Meadville, 5-4. 167—Trevor Hershey, Lower Dauphin, major dec. Jeff Haupt, Erie Prep, 17-6. 185—Kevin Benton, Easton, dec. Arley Smith, Meadville, 14-10. Hwt—Dave Knapp, Meadville, won by disqualification (stalling) over John Avia, Easton.

While the fur was flying at Manheim, things were going pretty much to form at the annual 16-team Top Hat Wrestling Tournament at Williamsport High School.

Pretty much to form meant that pre-tourney Cleveland, Ohio, the nation's top-ranked high school wrestling team, was destroying the opposition with ease in rolling to its third straight onesided victory in as many appearances.

The tourney is aptly called "St. Ed's versus the world" as no team in the country can match the Eagles man-for-man in the talent department. Keystone State power Shikellamy did manage to crown four individual champions to the winners' six and dent their pride somewhat, but not enough to derail the "Ohio Express," which has not lost in the past seven years.

District 11 power Bethlehem Liberty crowned the two returning champs to make it a three-school show on king's row.

Rumor has it that the Ohio superpower will not be invited back next year because the competing teams are complaining that they are beaten before the first tournament whistle ever sounds, and who wants to enter a tourney to battle it out for runner-up honors? 1-3-85

Defending PIAA state champ Tony Reed of Shikellamy, up three classes from his 1984 championship weight of 105 pounds, rolled to four onesided victories, including a 19-5 finals victory over Jersey Shore's Dan Packer to cop OW honors. Reed's teammate, John Supsic, made tourney history by becoming the first wrestler ever to earn four Top Hat crowns when he defeated Jersey Shore's Randy Lorson in the 119-pound finals.

The team standings: 1. St. Ed's, 223 points; 2. Shikellamy, 152; 3. Bethlehem Liberty, 89; 4. Jersey Shore, 88½; 5. Williamsport, 86; 6. Berwick, 81½; 7. Lock Haven, 81; 8. Altoona, 70; 9. Mifflinburg, 62; 10. West York, 56; 11. Washington, 48½; 12. Ridgway, 32½; 13. Milton, 28; 14. Hollidaysburg, 22; 15. Saucon Valley, 20½.

The championship results:

98—Bob Supsic, Shikellamy, dec. Dan McIntyre, Bethlehem Liberty, 5-4. 105—Kevin Biggs, St. Ed's, superior dec. Billy Orr, Altoona, 23-8. 112—Jack Macko, St. Ed's, dec. Scott Beaver, Berwick, 9-5. 119—John Supsic, Shikellamy, dec. Randy Lorson, Jersey Shore, 14-7. 126—Tony Reed, Shikellamy, superior dec. Dan Packer, Jersey Shore, 19-5. 132—Bubba Straus, St. Ed's, major dec. Paul Gemberling, Shikellamy, 13-4.

138—Mike Carpenter, St. Ed's, dec. Bill Berry, Williamsport, 8-7. 145—Gino Capuano, Bethlehem Liberty, dec. Thane Turner, Lock Haven, 4-4, 2-1 (ot). 155—Joe Burke, Shikellamy, dec. Tad Ungard, Williamsport, 10-6. 167—Mike Mason, St. Ed's, major dec. Dave Reed, Altoona, 13-2. 185—Chris Welsh, St. Ed's, superior dec. Wilmer Pressel, West York, 16-3. Hwt—Elliott Cox, Bethlehem Liberty, pinned Chris Crissman, Lock Haven, 5:31.

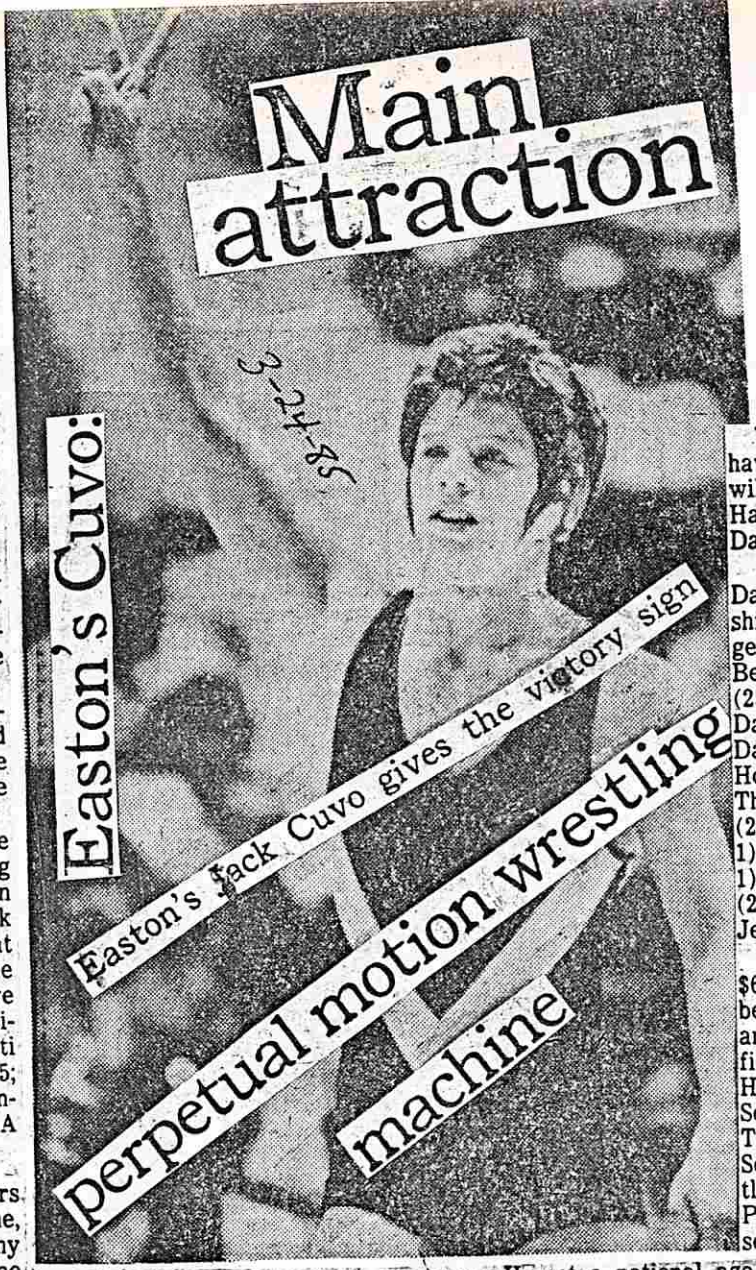
Easton's Cuvo: perpetual motion wrestling machine



Easton's Jack Cuvo gives the victory sign

3-24-85

By Rich Emert
The Pittsburgh Press

Those who do not enjoy high school wrestling say it is boring watching individuals roll around on mats for six-minute periods. Those people have never seen Easton High School's Jack Cuvo wrestle.

Cuvo, a three-time PIAA Class AAA champion, will lead the Pennsylvania All-Stars against the United States All-Stars in The Pittsburgh Press Wrestling Classic at 8 p.m. April 6 at Fitzgerald Field House. 3-24-85

In the preliminary at 6 p.m., a team of WPIAL All-Stars will meet the Iowa All-Stars.

Pennsylvania defeated the U.S. Stars, 31-15, last year and holds a 7-4 series lead. Bob Craig of Cedar Cliff High School will be the honorary U.S. team coach. There will be no Pennsylvania team coach.

This is one of the strongest Pennsylvania teams, with a combined record of 623-12-1. Six wrestlers are undefeated and four others have only one loss this year.

Respresenting the WPIAL in the Classic are North Allegheny's Doug Wyland (32-1), Class AAA champion at 112 pounds; Jeannette's Derrick Hall (30-0), Class AA champion at 132 and Outstanding Wrestler in the PIAA tournament; Valley's Dave Brown (26-2-1), Class AAA champion at 167; Uniontown's Jeff Spinetti (30-0), Class AAA champion at 185; and Canon-McMillan's Robbie Benjamin (38-1), Class AAA heavyweight champion.

Other Pennsylvania wrestlers are: Ken Myers (34-1-1), Tyrone, Class AA champion at 98; Tony Reed (35-0), Shikellamy, two-time Class AAA champion at 119; Paul Gemberling (35-2), Shikellamy, Class AAA champion at 126; Gino Capuano (30-5), Bethlehem Liberty, Class AAA champion at 138; Scott Schleichner (36-0), Allentown Allen, Class AAA champion at 145; and Kurt Bowman (31-0), Waynesboro, Class AAA champion at 155.

"It's really an impressive team. I've got one of the worst records on it, and I've only got two losses," Brown said. "I've been to just about every Classic, but never dreamed of wrestling in it. I guess I thought I'd never be that good.

"Everybody who wrestled in it always looked so big to me, and now I'm going to be one of the people I admired. I just hope I do OK."

Despite the talent on the Pennsylvania team, Cuvo is the main attraction. Always in motion on the mat, he has won 96 consecutive matches and demonstrated his ability at the PIAA tournament in Hershey last weekend, when he was named Outstanding Wrestler in Class AAA.

He defeated State College's B.J. Amato, 28-7, in the PIAA first round and decisioned Gateway's Tom D'Amico, 27-7, in the quarterfinals. Cuvo pinned Carlisle's Corey DeAngelo at 3:17 in the semifinals and decisioned Berwick's Scott Beaver, 26-12, in the 105 final.

Cuvo is sixth in Pennsylvania wrestling history in career victories, with a 139-2 record, and has 898 career takedowns.

"He only had four or five matches all year where his margin of victory was less than 12 points," said Easton Coach Steve Powell. "He has only given up four or five reversals and has only been taken down eight times. 3-24-85

"Jack is always in motion and learns things so quickly. What he does now is all technique. He doesn't have to be a brawler, because he just keeps switching moves and positions. I'm biased because I'm his coach, but I don't think there is anybody better in the state."

Cuvo also runs track and cross country. He placed seventh in the PIAA Class AAA cross country meet two years ago and was fifth last year. He set a national age-group (16-18) record for a 10-kilometer road race with a time of 30:15.

After winning the PIAA 98-pound title last year, Cuvo said he was tired of wrestling. This year, he still had his enthusiasm for wrestling after the state meet and will wrestle in the Challenge of Champions at Penn State's Rec Hall today.

"I'm not tired like I was last year, and I'm looking forward to the all-star matches," he said. "I'm still going to run track this year, but I want to see what I can do against competition from other states."

Cuvo will wrestle Chris Gelvin (77-6) of Kettering-Fairmont High School in Dayton, Ohio. Gelvin lost in the quarterfinals at the Ohio Class AAA tournament this year after winning the 98-pound championship last year.

"It'll be interesting to see how Jack does against somebody from outside the state," Powell said. "One thing is for sure: He will give the people their money's worth."

Wrestlers for the WPIAL team have also been selected. The team will be coached by Latrobe's Tom Harbert and Fort Cherry's Duane Day. 3-24-85

WPIAL team members are: 98, Dave Lowry (24-3), German Township; 105, Dan Strope (17-2-1), Burgettstown; 112, Don Stewart (23-10), Bethel Park; 119, Scott Gagliardi (25-6), Thomas Jefferson; 126, Rich Dami (36-6), Canon-McMillan; 132, Darrell Urbanic (26-6-2), Chartiers-Houston; 138, Scott Buckiso (36-3), Thomas Jefferson; 145, Rick Shaffer (24-4), Derry; 155, Dan Midea (23-6-1), Washington; 167, Jim Walsh (33-1), Seneca Valley; 185, Jack Savage (29-5-1), Plum; and heavyweight, Jeff Mitchell (28-10), Norwin.

Tickets are $9 for reserved seats, $6 for general admission and may be purchased at the North Allegheny and Canon-McMillan athletic offices, Room 426 at Mt. Lebanon High School, and The Press Public Service Department, fourth floor. They may also be ordered by mail. Send checks payable to Press Wrestling Classic, Box 715, Pittsburgh, Pa. 15230 and include a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

It's bedlam time Wednesday in Phillipsburg

WRESTLING

Each year, when I gear up for another season of high school wrestling, I immediately scan the schedule and put big, red circles around the dates for three events, events I've come to recognize as the highights, the creme dela creme of the wrestling calendar.

Two of them are tournaments — the District 11 Tournament at Liberty (March 1-2 this year) and the PIAA State Tournament at Hershey (March 14-16). Everyone likes to see the best in action, and the postseason tournaments provide an overdose, with all of the best gathered together at the same location.

Ted Meixell

The third date, however, is something else and, in that it packs the ultimate in sheer excitement — better make that bedlam — into 2½ short hours, it surpasses even the tournaments. That's the date of the Easton-Phillipsburg dual meet. 2-4-85

More often than not, the East Penn Conference championship and the top ranking in the Morning Call wrestling poll are at stake (last year was an exception, as Allen and Phillipsburg shared the EPC crown and the Canaries received a shaky nod as the area's best). But even when those honors aren't at stake, the Easton-P'burg dual stands alone at the top.

The opening salvo in the annual Border War is at hand. Wednesday, a standing room only crowd will shoehorn its way into the Stateliners' fabled "Pit" to watch and scream itself hoarse as the 'Liners and the Red Rovers throw everything including the kitchen sink at one another. Thousands more, those who waited too long to gobble up the all-too-few available tickets, will huddle around their radios, hanging on every word as WEST's Dick Hammer and Mike Moore describe the action.

This year, as so often in the past, everything IS on the line. Both teams are unbeaten in EPC competition — and neither will be seriously tested again. Phillipsburg is 16-0 and is ranked No. 1 in the Garden State. Easton is 8-1, has won tournament titles at both Crestwood and Manheim Central and is rated No. 2 in Pennsylvania. And two weeks ago, the two finished tied for the top ranking in the Call poll.

Each team boasts a reigning 98-pound state champion (two-time Pennsy champ Jack Cuvo of Easton and 1984 Jersey titlist Dave Boncher for P'burg) in its lineup — and, as if this one needed any further hype, it's entirely possible they'll meet at 105 in what would be a main event within a main event.

First-year Rover coach Steve Powell, for one, can't wait. "One of the things that strikes you about this meet," he said, "is that no one will show any respect for credentials. Their kids won't show any respect for our stars — Jack (Cuvo), (Jerry) Hulbert, (Jeff) Karam or (Kevin) Benton. And our kids won't show any respect for their stars, either — (Jason) Hawk, (Dave) Boncher, (Mark) Faglioni, (Mike) Smith or (Jeff) Turner.

"Any kid who wrestles one of them knows he's got a chance to be the big hero, so anyone could be upset."

Veteran Stateliner mentor Rick Thompson agreed. "Easton's got a well-balanced lineup, they don't have a couple of weak spots like we do. But I've been around a while, and I've learned that anything can happen. Your best kid could get pinned — and your weakest kid might beat one of their best." 2-4-85

Both coaches agreed that whichever team scores the most bonus points for pins or major or superior decisions will probably win the meet. As Thompson put it, "A 6-6 split wouldn't be at all surprising."

Another factor that could come into play is wrestling's infamous "home mat disadvantage." The home team must present its wrestler first for each bout and, as such, Easton's Powell will have almost total control over who wrestles whom.

Before going any further, then, let's present the potential matchups, based upon tentative lineups supplied by the coaches late last week. A couple things are of interest here. For one, Powell has dropped Cuvo from 112 to 105 in the hope of forcing a Cuvo-Boncher showdown. He's also dropped Doug Hager to 112 and hopes to insert Sergio Bedoya at 119, if he can make the weight. As for Phillipsburg, Boncher weighed in at 98 against Allen two weeks ago and, presumably, could do it again. Eas-

Each team has followed a consistent pattern in all of its duals. The Stateliners are loaded in the lower weights, and they've repeatedly built huge leads early only to yield some points in the later stages. The Rovers, on the other hand, have repeatedly fallen behind — with only Cuvo among the lightweights winning consistently — only to use their strength in the heavier weights to pull out victory. Only against Shikellamy — Pennsylvania's No. 1 team — did this formula fail.

That considered, the Cuvo-Boncher match seems very likely. For one thing, Thompson said of Cuvo dropping to 105, "Personally, I think if they do make that move, they're opening something up for us somewhere else." For another, the unbeaten Hawk figures to win big over Baker anyway — and if anyone has a shot at beating Cuvo, or avoiding bonus points, it's got to be Boncher.

I don't know just how it'll actually come down, but I have this strong hunch that a guy who wasn't even mentioned as a potential P'burg starter — Darren Anthony (5-2) — will play an important role. In recent duals, Thompson has inserted Anthony at 112 and moved Faglioni, Smith and Koehler up a weight. With great success. It, or something like it, could happen Wednesday.

If so, Anthony would still be favored over Hager, Faglioni would be the choice over any Rover 119-pounder, Smith would probably be a slight favorite over Marchetti and the once-beaten Koehler would have a much better chance against DiSora than would Huff. If not, the 'Liners would be favored from 112 through 126 — but DiSora would be a heavy choice over Huff.

Turner is the favorite at 138, but Teklits is tough to score against and, therefore, an upset threat.

But that's where the tide figures to turn. Hulbert is a prohibitive favorite at 145, and Powell figures to make sure Karam faces the tougher foe at 155 or 167. (Although Powell said, "Not necessarily. Depending on the score, if I need to be sure of a split in those two and think Jeff can get us bonus points, I'd go the other way.") 2-4-85

If Powell does go the former route, look for Thompson to counter by moving Miers up to 185 and Pitts to heavyweight. Benton would be a heavy favorite over either Miers or Pitts, but Pitts has had more success all year against "small" heavyweights than he has at 185. Avia would still be favored, but not by much. Against either Williams or Opitz — neither of whom has won — Avia would figure to get a pin.

Who's gonna win? Neither coach would say, both preferring to leave that risky exercise to presumptuous sports writers.

Why not? The home mat disadvantage decides it. If the match were in Easton, we'd go the other way. But it's in P'burg, so we'll pick the Red Rovers — 26-25. (P.S.: And that's DESPITE P'burg winning seven bouts.)

Catan's Fires Rage for National Title

By RICH CIMINI

Wayne Catan is an advertising major at Syracuse University, which is ironic because he's a prime example of false advertising.

Catan is a classic case of deception. What you see, ladies and gentlemem, is not what you get. He is an eight-cylinder engine trapped in the chassis of a Toyota. 2-8-85

The starting 177-pounder for the nationally ranked Orangemen, Catan doesn't have the look of your average collegiate wrestler. His arms are muscular, but lack excessive bulge. He's no 98-pound weakling, but his torso is nothing similar to the well-sculpted, Apollo-like bodies of his peers.

"I don't fit the description," said Catan, who is 18-0 and ranked No. 3 nationally in his weight class. "All Olympic wrestlers have big necks and hulking bodies. Look at me, I have a baby face."

So what's his secret? How can this baby-faced sprout earn All-America status in the land of Jolly Green Giants? How did he become an alternate on the United States Olympic freestyle wrestling team? How can he possibly be considered one of the three favorites to win an NCAA title next month?

Catan, who has grown accustomed to such questions, has a way of dealing with the skeptics who doubt his wrestling ability.

"I beat them up," he said, only half-jokingly.

Catan beats them up, down and all around — don't worry, folks, only on the wrestling mats — with a furious attack, a relentless flurry of Cat(an)-like moves. Quickness, that's Catan's forte.

"I guess you could say I'm a slick wrestler," he said. "I try not to use strength. I concentrate on technique."

Had it not been for a wild night of partying in Madison, Wisc., two years ago, Syracuse might have never had the opportunity to experience the wonders of Wayne Catan.

Of all the significant days in a memorable career, the one Catan holds in highest esteem occurred nearly two years ago in Oklahoma City. It was at the NCAA championships and Catan, a sophomore at the University of Tennessee, was on the brink of elimination.

He was behind, 10-2, after two periods to third-seeded Mike Foy of Minnesota in the bout for seventh, the last place to receive All-America recognition. Catan, who lost in the first round the previous year, "went crazy" in the third period and went on to win 14-11. Again, the quickness.

"I'll never forget the feeling I had after that match," Catan recalled last week. "It's a good feeling knowing you're on your way to something."

One month later, Catan wasn't sure where he was going. He was an orphan, an All-America wrestler without a school.

Catan learned that Tennessee was planning to de-emphasize its wrestling program. In a couple of years, he was told, it would be relegated to a club sport. Compounded with wrestling's unpopularity south of the Mason-Dixon line — "They don't even know what wrestling is down there," he said — Catan decided to transfer. 2-28

"I thought it was time to get out," said Catan, who won a sectional title for Bellport High School on Long Island. "My mind was made up. I wanted to go somewhere else."

But where? The options were plentiful. Respected schools such as Iowa State and Michigan State contacted Catan when they learned Tennessee was de-emphasizing its program. Decisions, decisions.

Catan was still undecided when he reported to an AAU meet at the University of Wisconsin in the spring of '83. That's where he met Gene Mills, the Syracuse assistant coach, and a group of Orange wrestlers. The union was an instant smash.

The Syracuse contingent cajoled Catan into a night of rollicking, hopping from nightspot to nightspot. "I remember Tim Catalfo (a former SU wrestler) putting me in a taxi with 15 other people," Catan recalled with a smile. "They showed me a good time."

Catan was impressed with Syracuse's team unity and interest in off-season competition. Then he began wondering ...

"Hey, Gene," Catan asked Mills. "What do you think my chances are of getting into Syracuse?"

"Well," said Mills, "there's only one way to find out."

To make a long story short, Catan enrolled at Syracuse in the S.I. Newhouse School of Public Communications. He was redshirted last season, but kept busy by wrestling in 72 matches, including the Senior Nationals, the Canadian Open and the Olympic trials.

Now here he is, a junior and co-captain, in the quest for a national title. No one questions his chances.

"He's ranked third, but I think he's a lot better than that," Mills said. "He wants to win the title very badly. When you have that drive inside you, there's not much that can stop you."

Hamid Kermanshah, an SU assistant who specializes in technique, said Catan possesses all the right moves. Kermanshah should know; he was a world champion in 1973 for his native Iran.

"Very good technique," Kermanshah said. "He's stable, not shaky. He's not too strong, but he's very, very quick. He's one of the best in the nation."

Catan has already proved he can beat the best. He pinned top-ranked Melvin Douglas of Oklahoma in the Senior Nationals, but also lost to him in a later match, 8-3. He defeated No. 2 Booker Benford of Southern Illinois University 7-4 two years ago in the Southern Open.

With the regular season coming to a close, Catan has started to feel some of the pressure that accompanies the prospects of winning a national championship.

"Yeah, I feel some pressure," he said. "Sometimes I think about winning it when I go to the sack at night. Some people think I already did it."

Talk about deception.
