

Prescott: TH Man Of The Year

By TOM ROOF

Times Herald Sports Writer

The list of firsts keeps growing for Jeff Prescott.

Now a freshman redshirt at Penn State University, Prescott last year became the first Cattaraugus County wrestler to win three New York State championships when he capped a distinguished Olean High School career with a victory in the 112-pound finals.

The title extended Prescott's state-record string of victories to 120 and gave him an impressive 162-17 career record that ranks him first in Section 6 (breaking a record 158 wins previously held by Olean High's Clar Anderson) and among the all-time winningest in New York.

Now, the talented matman, at Penn State on a full scholarship offer, has added yet another first to his long list of achievements — laying claim as the youngest athlete ever to be named Times Herald Mike Abdo Memorial Man of the Year. 12-31-87

Although a Man of the Year has been selected by the Times Herald Sports Department since 1955, this is only the fourth year the award has been presented in memory of Abdo, the longtime TH sports editor who passed away in 1983.

The following year, Bowlean Lanes proprietor Ron Threesehouse began donating a plaque in Abdo's memory.

WHILE THERE AGAIN was a long list of other deserving candidates this year, what Prescott accomplished on the wrestling mat not only this past season, but throughout his five-year varsity career, made him an obvious choice.

After placing third as a freshman in the New York State tournament following his first of four Section 6 titles, the highly recruited Prescott never lost another high school match, compiling a 36-0 record as a sophomore and then back-to-back 40-0 seasons his junior and senior years.

As a senior, Prescott went the distance in a match only three times until the state tournament, where he breezed through perhaps the tournament's toughest weight class — winning 12-1, 11-1 and with a pin in 4:42, before winning by a technical fall, 18-2, in 4:48 in the finals. The last triumph made him only the sixth wrestler in New York history to win three state titles and the first from Western New York.

But as impressive as his showing was, it wasn't enough to earn him a second Outstanding Wrestler Award, an honor that went instead to 105-pound freshman champ Troy Bouzakis of Pine Bush (Section 9).

He then wrestled once more before ending his remarkable high school career, competing in the prestigious Pittsburgh Press Old Newsboy Classic, where he agreed to wrestle two weights above his normal weight (112) to meet two-time Maryland and two-time Pennsylvania state champ Bob Truby of Pennsylvania's Trinity High School. The match ended 2-0 in favor of Truby, but interestingly, both wrestlers were recruited by Penn State, which is putting an all-out effort into improving on last year's third-place national ranking.

Following his graduation from OHS in June, Prescott then qualified for a fourth time for the national freestyle championships in Iowa after winning the Eastern Regionals. He also was named a first-team All-American by the Amateur Wrestling News.

Whatever Prescott has done on the mat hasn't surprised either his former coach, Jim Myers at Olean, or present coach, Rich Lorenzo, at Penn State.

"Jeff always had the drive to be the best he could be," Myers said. "Even after he won his first state title, he knew he had to keep working. Jeff was always confident, but never overconfident."

Prescott's penchant for pushing himself was also a trait

National Title For Prescott

CEDAR FALLS, Iowa — Former Olean High wrestling star Jeff Prescott enhanced his reputation and settled two scores in winning the 114.5-pound Junior Olympic National Freestyle Wrestling Championship, Saturday night at Upper Iowa University. 6-20-87

Prescott, bound for Penn State on a scholarship, went 11-0 in taking the title. None of his first nine matches went the full six minutes as he had two pins and scored seven technical falls (victories by 15 points or more). He won by scores of 21-2, 16-1, 16-0 (twice) and 15-0 (three times). 6-20-87

However, his biggest triumphs came in the semifinals and finals where he topped wrestlers who had beaten him previously. In the semis, Prescott beat George Chew from New Jersey, 19-8. Chew, headed for the University of Indiana, had beaten Prescott three times previously.

Then, in the finals, Prescott stopped Don Heckel from Oklahoma, 11-3. Heckel, bound for Clemson, had beaten Prescott 9-3 in the bout for third place in last year's Junior Olympic Nationals.

The Junior Olympics are open to wrestlers up through graduated high school seniors. Some 1,052 freestyle wrestlers staged 3,024 bouts at the event.

AS AN OLEAN HIGH senior, Jeff Prescott (top) leans on Falconer's Chad Waddington during the 112-pound finals at the Section 6 Wrestling Championships last February. One week later in Syracuse, Prescott capped a brilliant scholastic career with his 120th consecutive win and a third straight state title.

straight Southwestern New York/Northwestern Pennsylvania Men's Amateur Golf Tournament championship in August.

— Gary Wight, the Cuba Central School boys' basketball coach whose team compiled a 25-1 record, losing only in the New York State Class D finals to Alexander Hamilton.

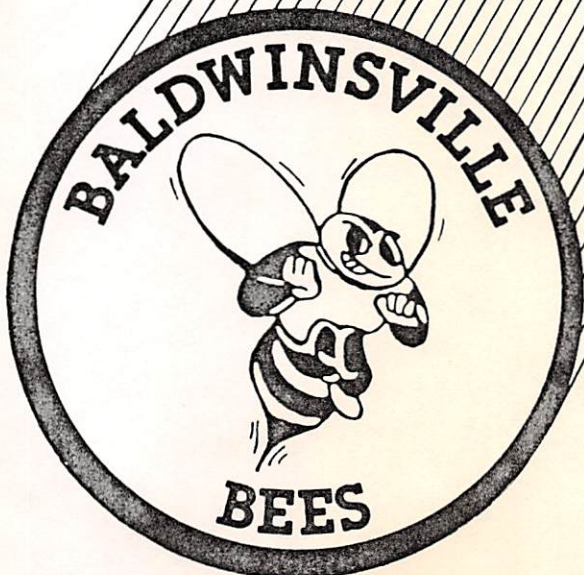

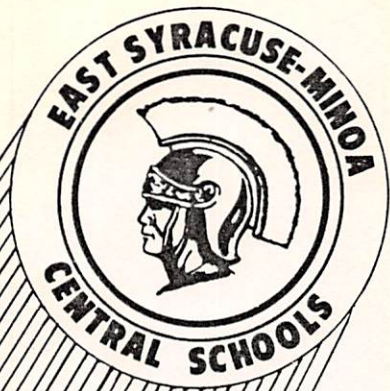

— Rick Bui, a swimmer at Franklinville Central School who recorded the highest finish ever by a Cattaraugus County boy in the New York State Swimming and Diving Championships by placing fifth in the 100 butterfly with a school-record time of :52.27. Bui also placed 15th in the 200 freestyle.

— Casey Jones, a longtime area high school official and summer softball league umpire who also has been the prime organizer for a number of youth and adult recreational leagues in the city of Olean.

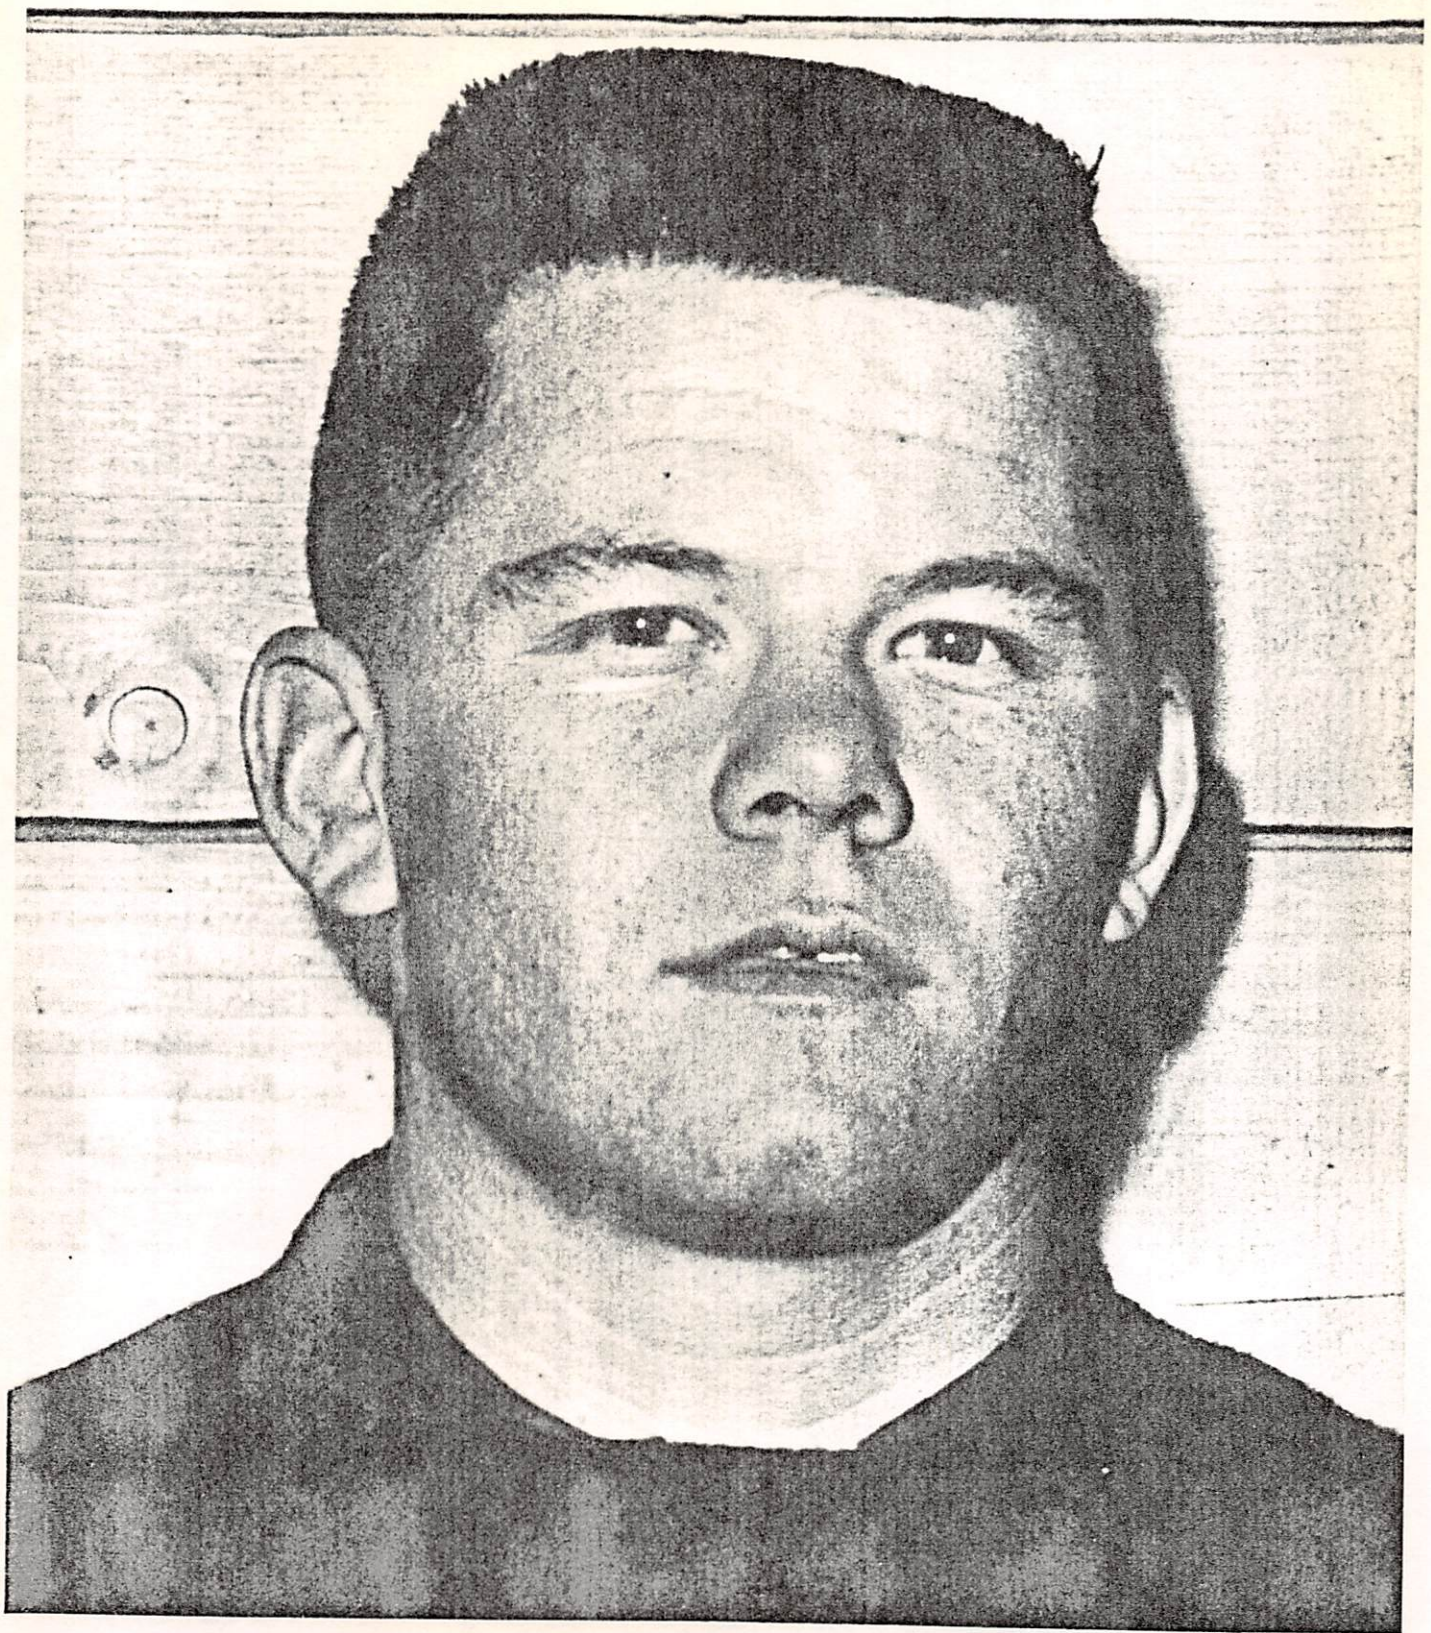

— And finally, collectively considered was the Sound Track bowling team from Salamanca — Steve Coustenis, Paul Geiger, Mike O'Connor, Dan Reithmiller and Ron Stone — which won the American Bowling Congress national team title.

CORTLAND SECTION

HILL WRESTLERS LOSE TO ORANGE MATMEN BY 21-8

Cortland State Teachers College's wrestling team closed out its 1959-60 dual season by bowing to Syracuse University, 21-8, at Syracuse Saturday afternoon. Cortland wound up the season with a record of five wins and four defeats.

The Red Dragons originally had 10 meets scheduled but the one with Alfred University at Alfred on Feb. 20 was cancelled because of the weather.

The Cortland junior varsity wrestlers wound up in a draw with the Syracuse frosh, 16-16. The JVs won six meets, tied one and lost two. Their meet with the Colgate freshmen at Hamilton on Feb. 20 also was cancelled.

Leo Johnson and John Beecher scored the only Cortland wins in the varsity meet against Syracuse and Al Scheer wrestled to a scoreless draw in his bout.

Hitherto undefeated Gary Dillingham, a native Cortland sophomore, lost to Les Austin, senior and captain for Bill Orange, in the 147-pound event. Austin completed three years of varsity wrestling without a defeat and had only two draws. He is the first in Syracuse wrestling history to go the three full years without a loss.

Dillingham had posted seven straight wins up to Saturday.

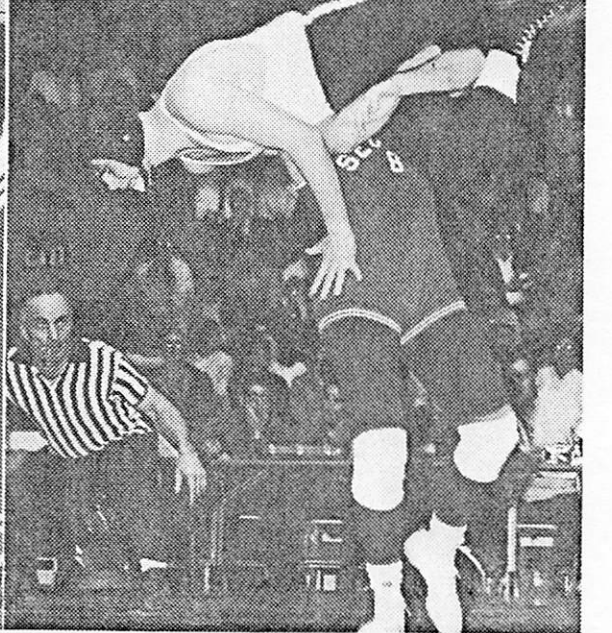

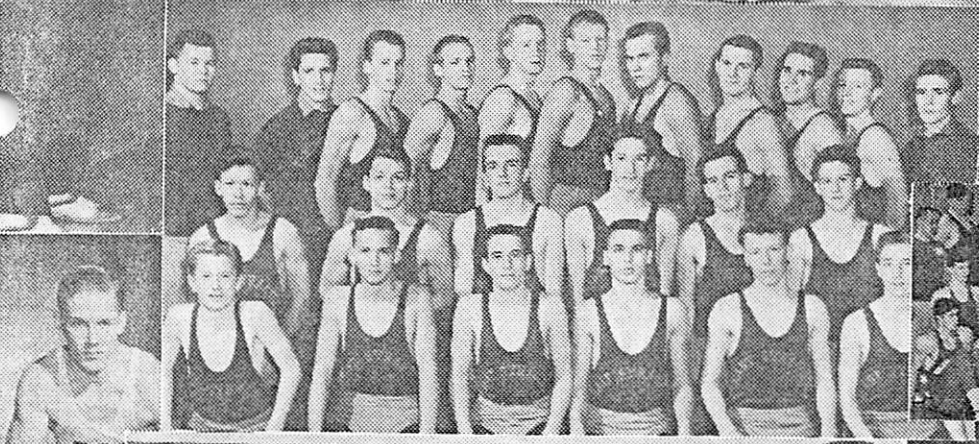

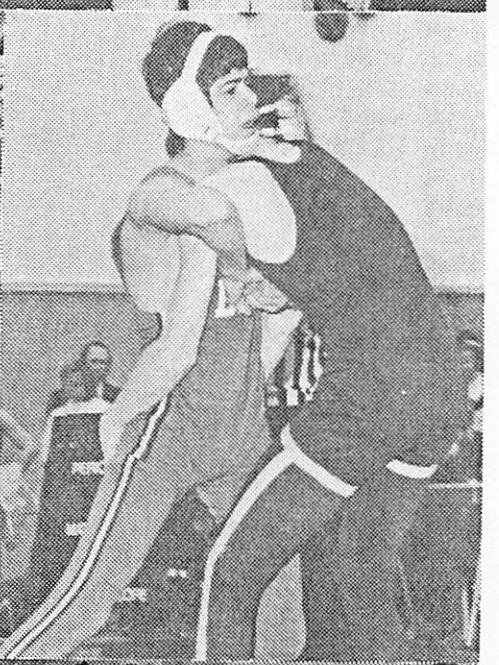

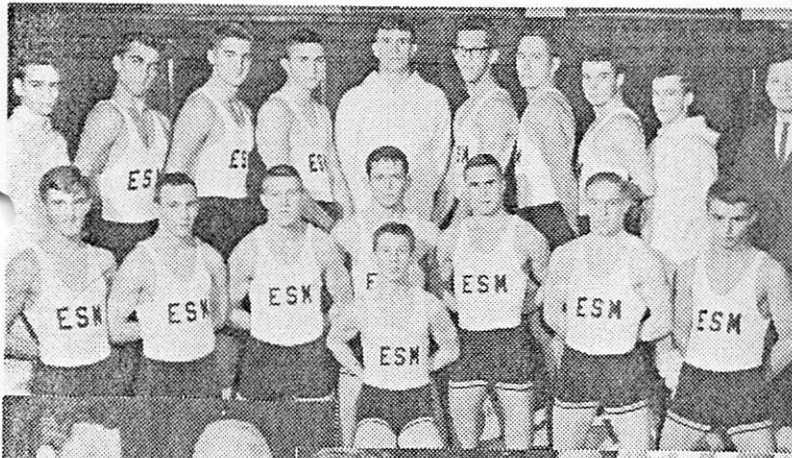

Some of the Cortland wrestlers will participate in the 4-I meet at Case Institute, Cleveland, Saturday and the NCAA tournament March 24, 25 and 26.

Summary of the Syracuse meet:

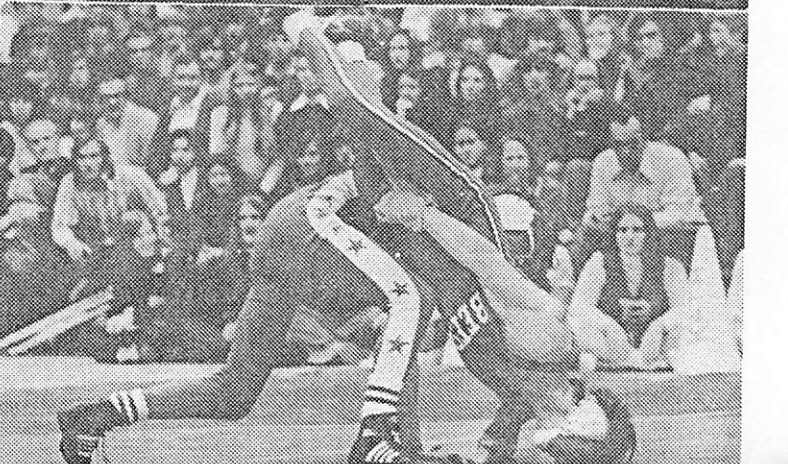

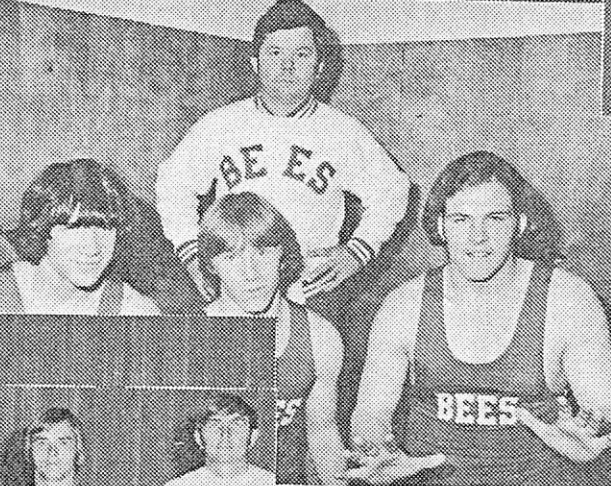

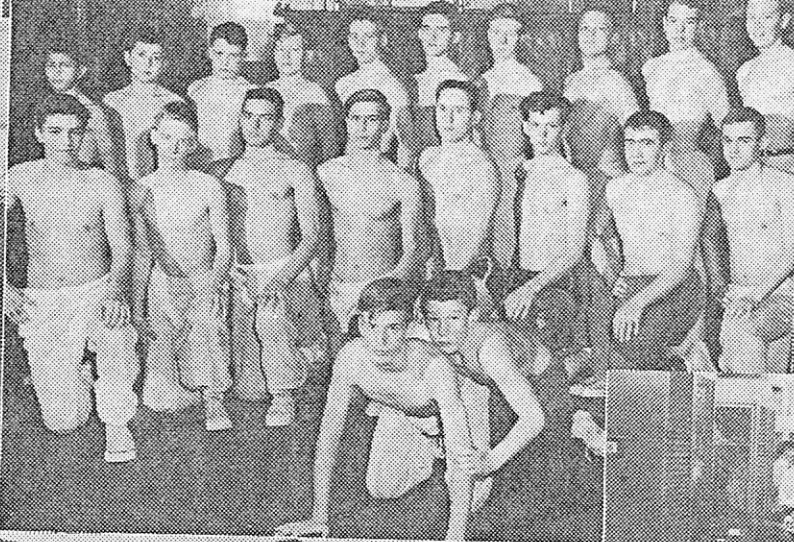

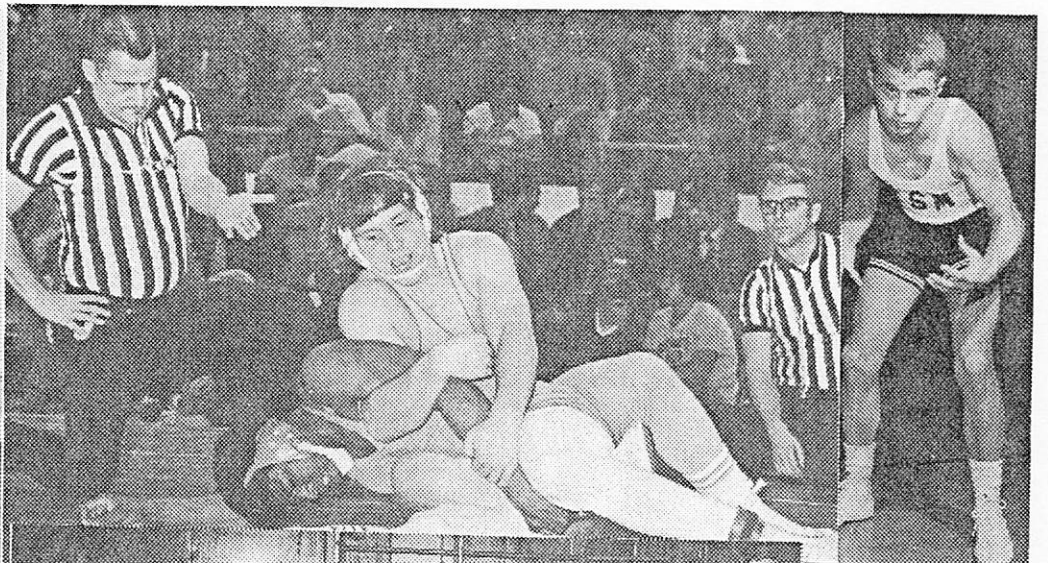

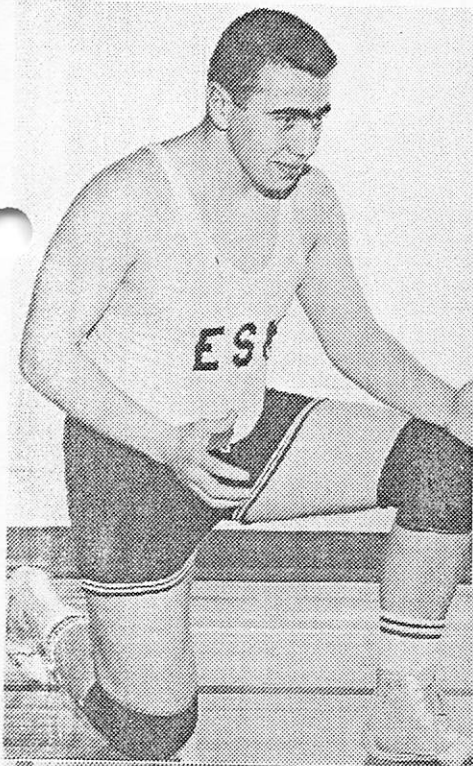

123 — Larry Nealon (S) decisioned Bob Hannon, 6-2; 130 — Howie Meyer (S) decisioned Jim Cranfield, 7-2; 137 — Leo Johnson (C) decisioned Dave McCoy, 3-2; 147 — Austin (S) pinned Dillingham, 5:45; 157 — Al Scheer (C) and Joe Matisak, drew, 0-0; 167 — Harry Pollak (S) won over Elmer Akley by default (Akley suffered knee injury); 177 — John Wynne (S) decisioned Hays Overcash, 3-0; heavyweight — Beecher (C) decisioned Bob Ornstein, 5-1.

No More Anderson 'Shadow'

By TOM ROOF

Times Herald Sports Writer

SYRACUSE — If he hasn't already, Jeff Prescott will get a chance this weekend to step away from the shadow of Clar Anderson.

Not that the Olean High School senior minds being placed in such elite company. After all, Anderson did win a pair of New York state titles and was the winningest wrestler in Western New York when he graduated from Olean in 1980.

Now, though, comes an opportunity for Prescott to stand alone.

Gunning for a couple of marks even his boyhood idol (Anderson) never achieved, Prescott will be seeking his third straight state crown when the 25th annual New York State Public High School Athletic Association state tournament gets under way this afternoon. 3-6-87

Winning here as a sophomore at 98 pounds and as junior at 105 after placing third as a freshman, Prescott carries into the two-day showcase a state-record streak of 116 consecutive wins and a career win-loss record of 158-17 — a win total that matches

Olean head coach Jim Meyers, who has coached five different state qualifiers, including Anderson, says it's tough not to make comparisons. But added that it might be time Prescott steps in his own direction.

"CLAR, JEFF and Chris Leichtweis (1978 state champ) are the same type of wrestlers," Myers said. "Those three set their sights on a goal and would work very hard toward it."

"Jeff, though, has always followed Clar, kind of patterned himself after him. But Jeff's a senior now and it's probably time he stops looking up at what Clar has done and take a good look at what he's done and what's best for him." 3-6-87

PRESCOTT, otherwise, has stepped away from the crowd — which, not coincidentally, herds toward the 112-pounder whenever he's on the mat.

Indeed, Prescott, whose last loss came in the quarterfinals of the 1984 state tournament to J.P. Epifano of Whitehall (See related story, page 1 and elsewhere this page), draws attention. 3-6-87

The subject of a feature article in Wrestling Masters magazine earlier this season, Prescott has been heavily recruited by several Division I colleges, including second-ranked Penn State, No. 11 Clarion, and improving Lock Haven, which this past week just missed making the Top 20.

Prescott is looking to become only the sixth wrestler to win three state titles, which would place him in the company of West Genesee's Dan Hunt (1972-74), Ithaca's Mark Iacovelli (1975-76), Calhoun's Bob Bury (1976-78), Long Beach's Al Palacio (1980-82), and Burnt Hills' Jon Cardi (1982-83).

And while he's a heavy favorite,

Meyers has yet to see the state's 1986 Outstanding Wrestler take a return trip for granted.

"I haven't seen any letup from him at all," said Myers. "He's working as hard as ever. The states have been something he's been shooting for all year and he's looking forward to it. And I think he's especially looking forward to his first match (against Epifano). 3-6-87

"Jeff's pretty confident he's going to win again," Myers added, "but he's not overconfident. He knows they'll be close matches and he'll have to wrestle well. And if there's any pressure there, from the streak or from having everyone expect him to win, he's not showing it. He's handled it well."

SEVENTEEN Section 6 wrestlers have won state titles since 1964, but only two, Anderson and Prescott, have qualified for the state tournament four times (Anderson was third as a freshman but failed to place his sophomore year). Falconer's Rod Waddington, meanwhile, qualified five times but placed as high as second only once.

Two other Big 30 wrestlers, Pioneer's Mike Arnold (1972-74) and two-time titlist Kyle Grunwald (1975-76), advanced three times each. The only other three-time qualifiers from Section 6 have been Cassadaga Valley's Jim Beichner, Newfane's Calvin Swanson, and Royalton-Hartland's Lou Rosselli. 3-6-87

"You have to be a little lucky sometimes," Myers admitted, "but Jeff has a lot more than luck going for him. Just the fact that he walked through the tournament last year with technical falls over two returning runners-up shows that. He can go with the best of them if he doesn't make a mistake."

Prescott: 'You Can't Expect To Repeat'

By TOM ROOF
Times Herald Sports Writer

SYRACUSE — For months now, Jeff Prescott has been battered by talk about how he's a strong favorite to win a second straight New York State high school wrestling championship. But the Olean High School junior, whose last loss came in the state tournament two years ago, isn't taking anything for granted. 2-28-86

Jeff Prescott

"You can't expect to repeat," Prescott said as he prepared for today's opening of the two-day event. "I'm up a weight class, and that makes a difference. Everyone at the state tournament is a winner, and you have to take one match at a time."

Prescott's open-mindedness shouldn't be perceived as a lack of confidence, though. He just prefers not to look too far ahead.

"I feel I'm ready physically and mentally," he said. "I wrestled at 112 most of the year and I think that has gotten me more prepared. The thing is, I can't start thinking ahead. I just got to wrestle my style, that's all there is to it."

Prescott, who won at 98 last year after placing third as a freshman, is 36-0 and one of three undefeated wrestlers vying for the 105-pound title. And while he is the favorite, nothing's for sure.

His toughest competition is expected to come from three other returning place-winners: 91-pound runner-up Brian Darling (29-2), a senior out of Jordan-Elbridge, Amsterdam's Mike Thomas (27-0), fifth last year at 105, and Massena's Shannon Derouchie (25-2), who lost to Prescott, 13-1, in last year's championship finals. 2-28-86

"I'm more confident this year, but I'm not any more relaxed," said Prescott, whose third Section 6 title last Saturday was his 76th straight win and 118th career victory. "The one thing I always wanted was a state championship. Now I got it on my mind to be a three-time state champion. It's a long shot, but I have to take 'em one at a time."

MEANWHILE, 215-pound Salamanca junior Jess Wilson will be making his first trip to the New York state championships, which get under way at 3:30 p.m. today at the Onondaga County War Memorial.

While he boasts the state's winningest record at 38-0, Wilson finds himself in an exceptionally tough weight class. Back are place-winners Ron Ridenhour (29-0) of Ossing, fourth last year at 177; Robert Murphy (31-0) of Chaminade, fifth at 215; and Randy Cotton (30-0) of Fulton, who was fourth at 215.

Also among the 215-pound qualifiers is Rob Cole of Union-Endicott, who Wilson bested, 9-8, in the finals of the Williamsville North tournament.

TOURNEY NOTES: Saturday's action will begin at 10 a.m. with the semi-finals and wrestlebacks. The consolations for third through sixth place will begin at 6 p.m. and the finals at 7:45 p.m. . . . One hundred eighty-two wrestlers from 13 geographical areas plus a team from the Catholic Association and Public High School Athletic League of New York City will be competing. . . . Elmira Notre Dame sophomore Daryl Page, back at 91, is the only other returning state champion. . . . Section 5 is the defending team champion. . . . There have been 33 two-time state champions and only five three-time state champs.

Dunsmore Loses At State Qualifier

Big 30 Wrestling

BROCKPORT — Bolivar Central School senior Mike Dunsmore advanced the furthest of the six Big 30 area wrestlers in the Section 5 state qualifying championship tournament, losing in the 145-pound semi-finals Saturday at Brockport State College. 2-24-86

Dunsmore, a senior with a 120 career wins, was eliminated, 6-3, by Class B champ Jeff Howard of Wayne, who lost in the finals to Brighton's Greg Lechner. Dunsmore, who won a Section 5 Class D title to make it to Saturday's qualifier, wound up the year with a 32-3-1 record.

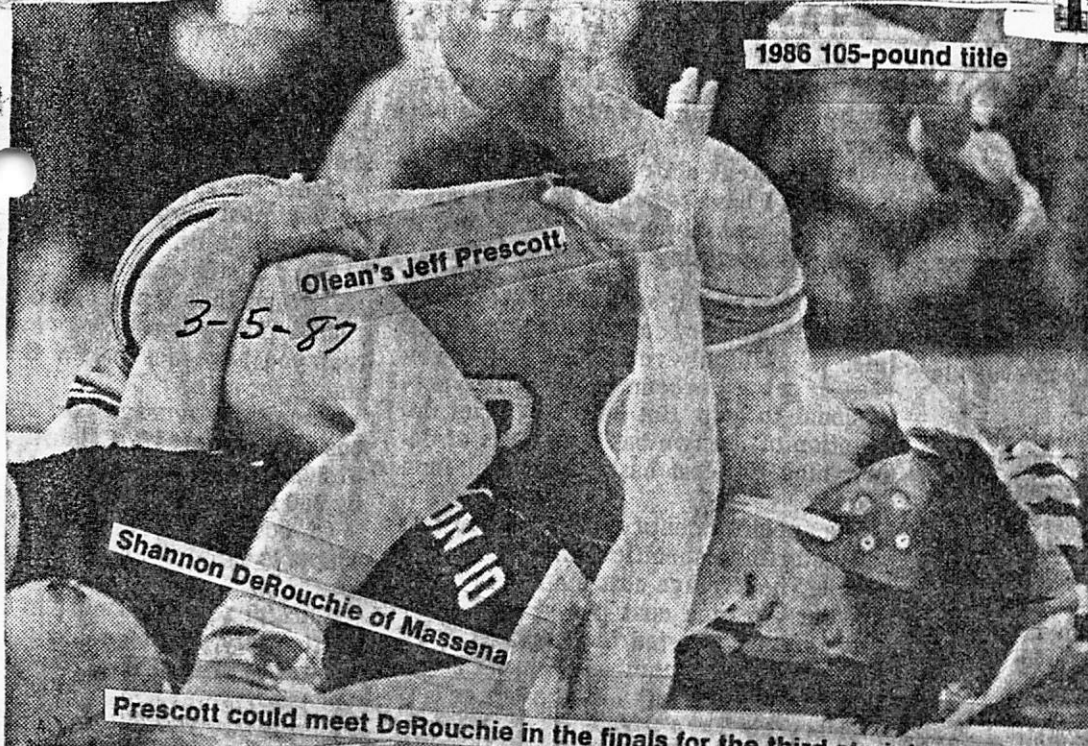

Bolivar's only other entrant, 177-pounder Terry Appleby, finished with a 18-14 record after losing by a technical fall in 3:59 in a pre-quarterfinal-round match to eventual second-place finisher Gary Hively of Addison.

Neither of Alfred-Almond's Class D champions, 215-pounder Scott Weeks and 250-pounder Clint Hadsell, made it past the quarterfinals. Weeks (24-2) lost to Class A third-place finisher David Currie of Greece Olympia, 5-2, and Hadsell (23-1) was pinned in the first period by Batavia's Joe Amico, who placed third in the Class B tourney. 2-24-86

Also bowing out early were Wellsville's Jim Kling at 105 and Ike Fanton at 177. Kling (20-6) was ousted in the quarterfinals as he was pinned with five seconds left in the first period by Class D runner-up Dale Chapin of Campbell. Fanton (22-10) was pinned in 1:46 in the pre-quarters by eventual champion Todd Mirabella of Brighton.

Prescott Keeps On Rolling

With the state record for most consecutive victories to his credit, Jeff Prescott of Olean High School seeks to add his name to the list of three-time state champions in the 25th annual New York state intersectional wrestling tournament this weekend.

Two days of wrestling begins at the Onondaga County War Memorial at 3:30 p.m. Friday.

Prescott, whose consecutive win streak is at 116, can become the sixth wrestler to win three straight state titles. The Olean senior, who is being recruited by Lock Haven State, Clarion State and Penn State as a collegiate 118-pounder, is trying to join Dan Hunt, Mark Iacovelli, Bob Bury, Al Palacio and Jon Cardi as three-time state champions.

Prescott, 36-0 this season, knows it won't be easy. "I've seen defending state champions go back to Syracuse and lose," he said, referring to 1984 state champions Trevor Erney of Maine-Endwell, Rick Brzozinski

3-Time Champions

- Dan Hunt, W. Genesee 1972-74
- Mark Iacovelli, Ithaca 1975-77
- Bob Bury, Calhoun..... 1976-78
- Jon Cardi, Burnt Hills 1981-83

of West Islip and Phil Consiglio of North Rockland.

Ironically, Prescott will open his bid Friday for a "triple crown" by facing the last wrestler to defeat him in scholastic competition — J.P. Epifanio of Whitehall Central of Section Two. In 1984, at the War Memorial, Prescott built an 8-3 lead over Epifanio, then lost 9-8. Then, in the Saturday wrestle-backs, Prescott defeated Epifanio and finished third at 91 pounds. 3-5-87

Since then, Prescott hasn't relaxed once, especially when he's leading, which is most of the time. Prescott has since won state titles at 98 and 105 pounds.

Prescott's victim in the state finals each of the last two years has been Section Ten champ Shannon DeRouchie of Massena. Prescott beat DeRouchie 13-1 in 1985, and by a technical fall last March. DeRouchie may try again Saturday, because the Massena senior is likely to advance through the opposite bracket and could again face Prescott. 3-5-87

Winning again won't be easy. Also in Prescott's bracket are returning state meet wrestlers Epifanio, Joe Amuso of Fox Lane, Mike Strycharz of East Meadow and Mark Woodworth of Fulton.

Nonetheless, Olean coach Jim Myers is optimistic. "Jeff has wrestled all of his regular-season matches, except for one mid-season tournament, at 119 pounds in order to get tougher competition," said Myers. "He either won by pin or by (15-point) technical fall in 33 of his 36 matches. The other three wins, all against real good kids, were by scores of 18-11, 20-7 and 15-4."

Lamson's state wrestling title may have been won week before

Waterloo's Joel Lamson (top), winning his 1984 Section 5 Class B title in Geneva.

WRESTLING

SYRACUSE — Waterloo senior Joel Lamson had to wait a week to pick up the New York State Intersectional Wrestling title he may well have won the week before.

"I knew I had a shot to win before I even went there," Lamson said via telephone after beating Anthony Melfi of Connetquot 9-5 to win the 119-pound title Saturday night at the Onondaga War Memorial. 3-4-85

Lamson, who easily won twice Friday night to advance to the semifinals, continued his run Saturday. In the semifinals he eliminated co-favorite Tom Martin of Waverly-Section 4 8-2. In the finals, he bested Melfi, the Long Island (Section 11) wrestler the state sportswriters' association picked to win the event.

The big victory, however, the one that set everything up and made it all possible, was last weekend at the Section 5 Supersectional. Lamson in the semifinals of that event beat Butch Hibbard of Canandaigua, a defending state runner-up, 7-4 with a takedown to Hibbard's back in the closing seconds. 3-4-85

"Everybody would have picked him (Hibbard) to win if he had been there," Lamson said, "so I knew I could do it."

It didn't hurt Lamson, however, to have won impressively on Friday. He opened his tournament with an 8-2 decision over Tom Mulqueen of Xavierian-CHSAA and dumped Paul Weber of Newburgh-1 15-2 in the quarterfinals.

"That helped a lot," Lamson said. "It was a lot different than a regular wrestling tournament. I had never wrestled in a state tournament before." 3-4-85

And on Saturday, after winning four sectional Class B titles and 139 of 156 career matches (now 140-15-1), he won the big one.

But it wasn't easy. He trailed 2-0 after one period, but escaped in the second period to pull to 2-1. In the final period, Lamson, operating from the top position, took Melfi to his back for a 3-2 lead. Melfi escaped to tie, but with 45 seconds left Lamson took Melfi down to his back to take a commanding 8-3 lead with time running out.

Melfi tried to pull a Lamson (of the week before) in the closing seconds, reversing the Waterloo senior to make it 8-5, but Lamson escaped to close the scoring.

"Everything worked out for me," said Lamson, whose victory drew attention from NCAA Division I Nebraska and Lock Haven State (Pa.) scouts at the event. "I've worked real hard — on Sundays and during the summer — and my coach (Abe Meyers) has worked hard with me."

Lamson has also been contacted by Clarion State (Pa.) and St. Lawrence.

Lamson and Chris Schojan of East Rochester (177) were the only Section 5 wrestlers to win championships, while Nate VanDuzer of Brockport (132) and Mike Scott from McQuaid (138) each finished second. 3-4-85

Among the other five area wrestlers in the event, Paul Lamphier of Canandaigua (112) had the highest finish, placing fourth. Lamphier fell 8-1 to Rob Waddington of Falconer-6 in the semifinals, but came back to beat Al Charland of North Adirondack-7, his opening-round opponent, 9-3 before losing to pre-meet favorite Phil Consiglio of North Rockland-1 14-3 in the consolation finals.

Tim Habecker of Marion (15) placed sixth, Saturday beating Steve Penhollow of Cassadaga Valley-6 7-6 and pre-meet co-favorite Eric Company of South Jefferson-3 6-3 before losing in the consolation semifinals to co-favorite Drew Jackson of Huntington-11 4-1.

Tom Finnerty of Waterloo (9) on Saturday beat Jeff Jarvis of Salem-2 9-4 in the consolation but was eliminated by Lee Coulter of Shoreham-Wading River-11 9-0. Mike Locagnato of Canandaigua (98) was pinned by Mike Caracciolo of Long Beach-8 in 2:54 in his only bout Saturday, while Tracy Foster of Canandaigua (126) fell 10-4 to Daryl Gattuso of Depew-6.

In team scoring, Section 5 was sixth among 13 teams with 146½ points. Section 11 (Suffolk County) won the event with 188 points followed by Section 10 (Westchester-Dutchess) with 161½.

Ray Downey of Dear Park-11, the 126-pound champion, was named the meet's outstanding performer.

John Arcaro was remembered by his friends Wednesday as a colorful, easy-going and fun-loving coach, someone as outgoing as he was concerned about the kids he taught and coached for 32 years at Baldwinsville's Baker High School.

Arcaro, 54, died Wednesday morning of a heart attack. He had reported to school, where he taught physical education and coached track, as usual earlier in the morning. But he returned home shortly after because he wasn't feeling well, Athletic Director Leo Johnson said.

Arcaro was then taken by his daughter Kathy to his doctor, Robert G. Wedemeyer. A family friend who answered the phone at the Arcaro home Thursday said Arcaro was stricken at the doctor's office and died shortly thereafter.

Arcaro's death hit home throughout the Syracuse area and especially at Baker High, where he coached indoor and outdoor track, football, wrestling and even basketball over the years.

"We'll miss him. Oh, we'll miss him," said Baldwinsville boys' basketball coach Don Kasmer, a longtime friend of Arcaro's who worked as an assistant football coach under him for 18 years. "He just loved kids and he loved to work with kids. All his time was spent with either someone or something affiliated with athletics. You could see that by the various committees he worked on all year. Guys like that just pass through once."

To Baldwinsville's students, Arcaro was someone who always was smiling, always was upbeat, said junior Bruce West, who ran track for Arcaro the past three years.

West said the students at the school were visibly shaken when they heard the news of Arcaro's death.

"Everybody was just crying in the halls," West said. "We couldn't believe it happened. Everybody looked on him like a father. He was never really tough (in practice). He just told you what to do and you just did it because you wanted to."

The jolt of Arcaro's death also reached beyond Syracuse, to athletes he had brought along through the years. One of them is Don Paige, who became a world-class runner.

Paige said when he first joined the Baldwinsville program as a freshman during the 1971-72 school year, he didn't have any running shoes. So Arcaro bought him a pair.

"He wanted to make sure I had something decent to wear," Paige said by telephone Wednesday from his Pennsylvania home. "I thought, 'If this guy has that much faith in me I should go out and train hard.'"

Paige went on to star at Villanova University and set a world record at 1,000 yards and an American record, which he still holds, at 1,000 meters. He also made the 1980 U.S. Olympic team. He said he will attend Friday's wake and Saturday's funeral services.

Ironically, this was to be Arcaro's last year as coach and teacher at Baldwinsville. He already had submitted his letter of intent to retire in June, Johnson said. Another longtime friend, Section Three Executive Director Otis Sennett, said the two had talked about retired life several times in recent months.

Even in retirement, both Sennett and Johnson knew it would have been tough to get Arcaro to slow down. After the 1979 football season, Arcaro resigned as football coach, in large part, he said then, because of heart problems. But he continued to keep a busy schedule.

This year, he was coaching indoor and outdoor track, was the Section Three football chairman, the assigner of Syracuse-area wrestling officials and even officiated a few wrestling matches.

"His doctor told him to slow down a few times," Johnson said. "But that wasn't his way. He wasn't going to slow down. If he had any free time at all he'd go and watch his kids play sports."

Arcaro's daughter, Kathy, is the all-time leading scorer on the Le Moyne College women's basketball team. Her father never missed one of her games, friends said. Le Moyne postponed its women's game with William Smith Wednesday night when college officials learned of Arcaro's death.

As a coach, Arcaro wasn't looked on as a perfectionist. He was successful in every sport he coached and loved to win and yet his friends say, he always managed to have fun. Everyone, it seems, has a favorite John Arcaro one-liner or bizarre story.

For Kasmer, it was a day several years ago, when a private plane made an emergency landing right in the end zone of the Baldwinsville football field. Kasmer said Arcaro, standing on the sidelines, quipped: "God, the plane and the pilot probably will score more than we will this season."

For Bruce Quimby, Jamesville-DeWitt's current athletic director and varsity football coach, it was when he was quarterbacking the Arcaro-coached Baldwinsville football team in 1973. At the time, Arcaro had a big rivalry with then-J-D coach Carl Bjork, and felt his team had been embarrassed by Bjork's in 1972. The Bees' coach was determined to get revenge the following year.

Quimby said the week before the '73 game, Arcaro told his team it was going to build a big lead against the Red Rams, then back itself up against its own goal line, and finally turn around and kick a field goal — for J-D.

"We practiced this all week," Quimby said. "That was the highlight of the week. It was a psych-up thing for us. Baldwinsville was intimidated by J-D and he wanted us to calm down."

Arcaro's most intense track-coaching rivalry was with Liverpool's Oscar Jensen. Over the years, Jensen said, no one beat his team more than Baldwinsville and no one beat Baldwinsville more than Liverpool. "Even though he was laid-back it was kind of deceptive," Jensen said. "He gave the impression that he didn't know what was going on at a track meet. But he certainly did know what was going on."

"He always got the best out of his kids. To be a good coach you have to have the ability to motivate kids and get them to respond to you. He did that."

Outside of coaching, Arcaro had an uncanny knack for getting things accomplished. Johnson said Arcaro was instrumental in bringing the New York State Inter-sectional Track Meet to Baldwinsville for what will be its fourth year this spring. He also was the driving force behind the construction of Baldwinsville's James Pelcher Stadium.

Before the stadium was built, Arcaro-coached teams never had a home meet, and practiced on the road and in the school's parking lot. Yet his dual-meet record for all those away meets was 258-23.

When the stadium opened in 1981, Arcaro treated it with reverence. No one else could cut the stadium grass, Johnson said, because Arcaro was afraid it wouldn't be done right. He used his own tractor, not the school's, and bought flowers for the stadium.

Arcaro never pulled off the stunt during the game, but his team did win and ended up as co-champions of the old Onondaga League North Division that year.

Overall, friends say, track probably was his most enduring love. It was the sport he stayed with for his entire tenure at Baldwinsville. And, after years of success, he was named Coach of the Year by the National High School Athletic Coaches Association in 1981.

By NEIL KERR

John Arcaro, the long-time Baldwinsville High School football and track coach, died Wednesday morning of a heart attack. The death of Arcaro, one of the most well-respected coaches in the Syracuse area, was greeted with shock by many of his former athletes, including former nationally ranked distance runner Don Paige. Arcaro was 54.

Arcaro coached at Baldwinsville from 1955 to 1986. One of his most famous students was Paige, who was coached by both Arcaro and Chuck Wiltse before attaining national and worldwide success at Villanova University.

"I knew John for almost 20 years, and I never once saw him depressed," Paige said Wednesday afternoon from Philadelphia. "I'm sure he had his problems like everybody else, but he was always the same — a fun-loving, easygoing, easy-to-like sort of person. He spent so much time helping other people. For example, he bought me my first pair of running shoes when I was a high school freshman. I never forgot that. A great man in my life has gone away."

Paige became the world's No. 1-ranked 800-meter runner in 1980, and won the U.S. Olympic trials that year. The United States team, however, boycotted the 1980 Olympics, which were held in Moscow.

Arcaro's chief rival in the local coaching fraternity for the past 23 years was Oscar Jensen, track coach of Liverpool High School.

"John was a great, great motivator," Jensen said Wednesday of the longtime Baldwinsville resident. "He had a way of taking average athletes and making them perform better than they thought they could. More than once, I had a team which should have beaten his team, but didn't. That's because he would have his kids super-psyched to beat us."

Early in his career, Arcaro was an outstanding football half-back and track sprinter, first at Elmira Southside High School and later at Cortland State. Arcaro was a four-year letterman in both sports at Cortland State, graduating in 1955.

More recently, Arcaro has served as Section Three football chairman and as chief assignor of wrestling officials. He was also the driving force behind long-sought construction of a nine-lane synthetic running track at Baldwinsville, which was named Jim Pelcher Stadium.

That track, opened in 1981 and named in honor of the late Baldwinsville basketball coach, has been the site of the state meet the last four years. Before 1981, the Bees' track teams dominated the Onondaga League North with a dual meet record of 258-23, all away meets.

"I have a vivid memory of John Arcaro," said Section Three track chairman Tom Wells. "Do you remember the finish of the girls' 3,000-meter race at the State Meet last June at Baldwinsville, when Auburn's Denise Bushallow caught (Baldwinsways remember that it was John Arcaro who grabbed both those girls by their shoulders and walked them around the track, comforting and encouraging them."

Services for Arcaro, who is survived by his wife, Doris, his son, John Jr., and his daughter, Kathy, will be conducted at St. Mary's Church in Baldwinsville at 10 a.m. Saturday.

LETTERS:

Mr. Pollock:

When I write a two-fold letter such as this one, I always condemn at least one party and thank another. First the condemnation:

In years past I have been connected by the paper to just the Portville wrestling program. I am first a wrestling fan, and since 1975 I have taken an active part in following Portville as I live in the community and my children are enrolled in PCS. Until approximately 1980 Portville had a rich tradition of wrestling. A turn of events and change of top administration has for one reason or another, been leading this program down hill.

Four new coaches in four years does not help any sports program. None of these coaches were full-time teachers; last year's and this year's coaches are not even in the teaching profession.

Not being around students on daily basis hinders a coach from recruiting or just from giving daily encouragement.

The past two seasons have seen a terrible scheduling job done at PCS for wrestling. The four new coaches have had no input into the schedules that they have had to endure, since their positions were not awarded until shortly before school opened or the season was about to commence.

The 1983-84 season schedule had Salamanca as the first dual meet, followed by Falconer a week later. These were the two toughest teams on Portville's schedule, and to tackle them first and second is, to say the least, foolish.

This year, Portville opened with its Holiday Tournament (reasonable) followed four days later by dual meets with Falconer and Smethport, then a two-day tournament, the following two days. That's right, four straight days of wrestling.

To say the least, subjecting a young person to such mental and physical torture is almost criminal. The injuries that occurred at Southwestern could well be the result of such careless scheduling. Would the Portville basketball team open its season with its three toughest foes, Allegany, Walsh and Salamanca? Of course not!

Wrestling Buff Questions Portville's Early Schedule

Why can't, or why won't, the same fair schedule be given to the wrestlers? Does the same athletic director not make the schedules, especially in the absence of an unnamed wrestling coach?

The wrestling program at PCS has for many years given a lot of young men a second chance in high school, and, for many, assistance in higher education. These fortunate young men were guided by Bob Klucik, whose years of sweat, headaches, heartaches and personal sacrifices now seem to be receiving support from the sports booster club and wrestling fans exclusively.

Wrestling used to get help and support from the old administration. PCS should hire a young teacher-wrestling coach with skill, knowledge and dedication. The Portville program can still come back to its former place of skill and pride with other PCS activities.

Finally, Mr. Pollock, I along with all the wrestling fans in the Times Herald readership area would like to thank and congratulate the entire sports staff for the fine increased coverage of high school wrestling. The pre-season run down on Big 30 teams along with a look at individuals and comments by coaches is a plus in the paper's coverage and show another side of the sport. Complete summaries, especially the championship and consolation finals from tournaments is a great aid to those of us who follow the sport closely.

Records of individuals and teams are also a very pleasing part of your increased coverage. During wrestling season I subscribe to five other papers — Baldwinsville Messengers, Conastota Bee Journal (Syracuse), Centre Daily Times (State College), News Day (Long Island), Post Standard (Syracuse) — and receive many others from various sources and your coverage is now starting to compete with some of those papers which specialize in wrestling. Thank you from many of your faithful readers.

Letters Many People Like Country

Three years ago WBJZ came into being with country music, news, sports, weather and shared a program or two with their sister station WMNS.

In the beginning 24 hours of country music was great. A person who enjoys music could understand and relate to country.

It's good music to go to sleep with and great to wake up to. This has now been replaced with screeching guitars and loud, non-understandable noise. At times it is even obscene language mixed in with the so called lyrics.

A number of friends of mine have called the station to complain about the program change, and have been met with very staunch comments saying the format has been changed and then the conversation ends.

I have done what has to be done in order to enjoy country music.

If you have cable TV in your home, just hook your radio up to the cable and tune in 101.5 FM WHUG in Jamestown, New York. They play 163 hours of country music, news, weather and sports. They shut down at midnight Sunday, and start again at 5:00 a.m. Monday morning.

Rock and rollers and the rockers have

WMNS, WHDL, 97 Rock and Rock 102, to name just a few stations they listen to. Why then did WBJZ decide to put ear muffs on the country music lovers in this listening area.

If you are a country music lover and want to protest, write a letter to the newspaper and let the public know how you feel.

There are an awful lot of people around the Olean area that want to listen to country music. If WBJZ won't change back to good clean listening music, then start listening to WHUG Jamestown 101.5 FM.

Prescott: TH Man Of The Year

By TOM ROOF

Times Herald Sports Writer

The list of firsts keeps growing for Jeff Prescott.

A freshman redshirt at Penn State University, Prescott last year became the first Cattaraugus County wrestler to win three New York State championships when he capped a distinguished Olean High School career with a victory in the 112-pound finals.

The title extended Prescott's state-record string of victories to 120 and gave him an impressive 162-17 career record that ranks him first in Section 6 (breaking a record 158 wins previously held by Olean High's Clar Anderson) and among the all-time winningest in New York.

Now, the talented matman, at Penn State on a full scholarship offer, has added yet another first to his long list of achievements — laying claim as the youngest athlete ever to be named Times Herald Mike Abdo Memorial Man of the Year. 12-31-87

Although a Man of the Year has been selected by the Times Herald Sports Department since 1955, this is only the fourth year the award has been presented in memory of Abdo, the longtime TH sports editor who passed away in 1983.

The following year, Bowlean Lanes proprietor Ron Threehouse began donating a plaque in Abdo's memory.

WHILE THERE AGAIN was a long list of other deserving candidates this year, what Prescott accomplished on the wrestling mat not only this past season, but throughout his five-year varsity career, made him an obvious choice.

Placing third as a freshman in the New York State tournament following his first of four Section 6 titles, the highly recruited Prescott never lost another high school match, compiling a 36-0 record as a sophomore and then back-to-back 40-0 seasons his junior and senior years.

As a senior, Prescott went the distance in a match only three times until the state tournament, where he breezed through perhaps the tournament's toughest weight class — winning 12-1, 11-1 and with a pin in 4:42, before winning by a technical fall, 18-2, in 4:48 in the finals. The last triumph made him only the sixth wrestler in New York history to win three state titles and the first from Western New York.

But as impressive as his showing was, it wasn't enough to earn him a second Outstanding Wrestler Award, an honor that went instead to 105-pound freshman champ Troy Bouzakis of Pine Bush (Section 9).

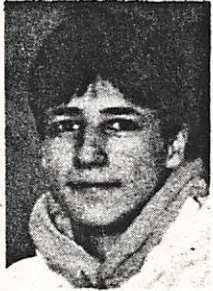

He then wrestled once more before ending his remarkable high school career, competing in the prestigious Pittsburgh Press Old Newsboy Classic, where he agreed to wrestle two weights above his normal weight (112) to meet two-time Maryland and two-time Pennsylvania state champ Bob Truby of Pennsylvania's Trinity High School. The match ended 2-0 in favor of Truby, but interestingly, both wrestlers were recruited by Penn State, which is putting an all-out effort into improving on last year's third-place national ranking.

Following his graduation from OHS in June, Prescott then qualified for a fourth time for the national freestyle championships in Iowa after winning the Eastern Regionals. He also was named a first-team All-American by the Amateur Wrestling News.

Whatever Prescott has done on the mat hasn't surprised even his former coach, Jim Myers at Olean, or present coach, Rich Lorenzo, at Penn State.

"Jeff always had the drive to be the best he could be," Myers said. "Even after he won his first state title, he knew he had to keep working. Jeff was always confident, but never overconfident."

Prescott's penchant for pushing himself was also a trait

National Title For Prescott

CEDAR FALLS, Iowa — Former Olean High wrestling star Jeff Prescott enhanced his reputation and settled two scores in winning the 114.5-pound Junior Olympic National Freestyle Wrestling Championship, Saturday night at Upper Iowa University. 6-20-87

Prescott, bound for Penn State on a scholarship, went 11-0 in taking the title. None of his first nine matches went the full six minutes as he had two pins and scored seven technical falls (victories by 15 points or more). He won by scores of 21-2, 16-1, 16-0 (twice) and 15-0 (three times). 6-20-87

However, his biggest triumphs came in the semifinals and finals where he topped wrestlers who had beaten him previously. In the semis, Prescott beat George Chew from New Jersey, 19-8. Chew, headed for the University of Indiana, had beaten Prescott three times previously.

Then, in the finals, Prescott stopped Don Heckel from Oklahoma, 11-3. Heckel, bound for Clemson, had beaten Prescott 9-3 in the bout for third place in last year's Junior Olympic Nationals.

The Junior Olympics are open to wrestlers up through graduated high school seniors. Some 1,052 freestyle wrestlers staged 3,024 bouts at the event.

Championships by placing fifth in the 100 butterfly with a school-record time of :52.27. Bull also placed 15th in the 200 freestyle.

— Casey Jones, a longtime area high school official and summer softball league umpire who also has been the prime organizer for a number of youth and adult recreational leagues in the city of Olean.

— And finally, collectively considered was the Sound Track bowling team from Salamanca — Steve Cousstis, Paul Geiger, Mike O'Connor, Dan Reithmiller and Ron Stone — which won the American Bowling Congress national team title.

Year For Changes In The Southern Tier

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of a three-part series previewing the 27 Big 30 area high school wrestling teams. Today's installment focuses on the Southern Tier Division I and Division II teams and Erie County Div. III member Pioneer).

By TOM ROOF

Times Herald Sports Writer

Get ready for a season of change in Southern Tier high school wrestling.

Gone is Jeff Prescott, Olean High School's outstanding lightweight and one of only six three-time New York state champions.

Gone are the Wilson twins, Myron and Jeff, the knockout closing punch for Salamanca that combined for a 65-5 record last season.

And gone are Gowanda's Division II champ Sam Menshel and Pioneer's sectional finalist Shane Carder, both out for the year with injuries.

Indeed, some of the best talent the Big 30 had to offer in 1986-87 is now elsewhere. Still, there's a new and exciting look in the Southern Tier as Division II powers Gowanda and Fredonia, last year's top two finishers with 9-0 and 8-1 records, respectively, have made the jump to Division I.

Big 30 Wrestling

"I think it's a real good move for us," said third-year Gowanda coach Mark Leous, whose team lost last year's league title in a 26-24 dual meet defeat by Fredonia on the last day of the season. "We've been wanting to improve our competition and this is a nice step up. There were a few Division II schools that were just too small for us."

The two additions should make the already competitive Div. I League even stronger, but whether either will be able to challenge Southwestern this year is unlikely as coach Walt Thurnau returns 11 lettermen and seven league tournament placewinners.

"I think you almost have to favor Southwestern, especially with nearly everyone back," said Olean coach Jim Myers. "But Cassadaga Valley and Falconer are strong, too."

While Olean won't have Prescott, who has carted his 162-17 career record off to Penn State, Myers will still have a Prescott in the lineup — Jeff's younger brother and eighth-grader Steve. Myers, though, warns not to expect similar results.

"It's too unfair to Steve to start making comparisons," Myers asserted. "Steve has talent, but Jeff was exceptional. He just needs more time to develop into a good wrestler."

SOUTHERN TIER DIVISION I

Gowanda: The loss of Menshel (22-6), who broke a leg playing football, combined with the graduation losses of Lonny Gabel (18-11), Dan Kusiowski (18-3), Ray (13-12) and Ron Logan (16-7), and Doug Stearns (13-13), has left Leous with some big gaps.

"We have a lot of holes to fill, especially down below," the third-year coach said. "We have some good individuals, but so much this year will depend on how well the new kids develop."

Back from a last year's 11-4 team are sophomores Jamie Kota (23-9) at 105 and Jim Herniman (21-8, 16 pins) at 132, and junior Mike Gable (21-9) at 145.

Others returning include junior Darren Swetz at 167 and senior Daryl Jimmerson at 177, while senior Mike Ingersoll, who sat out last season after lettering as a sophomore, is back at 155.

Olean High: In addition to Prescott (40-0), Bill Buckner (23-11-2) and Greg Mikolajczyk (10-5) have graduated, departing with 75 percent of Olean's wins from a year ago when Myers' team struggled through a 0-14 season.

And there doesn't appear to be much immediate help.

"It's too early to say we're ready to turn this around," Myers said. "We'll still be forfeiting a couple of weight classes and we're lacking mat experience, and until we get some, it's going to be a tough road."

A pair of strong upperweights do return, though, in 155-pound senior Todd Evans (11-15-1) and 177-pound junior Matt Jurenko (13-19-2). Also back is junior 126-pounder Steve Diffenderfer (9-6).

Other candidates include freshmen Bob Perry (91) and Brian Fairfield (138), juniors Jeremy Ursoy (126), John Jurenko (138) and Brad Wilkins (138), and seniors Alex Weakfall (112-119) and Brian Ramire (138-145).

Salamanca: A pair of fourth-year starters, junior Eric Swiech (29-6-1) and senior Tom Mohr (28-7), are the top returnees off a 12-2 team ranked No. 1 in the Times Herald poll last year.

Swiech, who's closing in on 100 career wins, will be at 126 and round out a group of lightweights that include seventh-grader Shane Leder at 98, eighth grader Seth Wells at 105, junior Joel Minner (8-8) at 112 and sophomore Steve Felt (14-8-2) at 119.

First-year varsity wrestlers will handle the next four weights, while Mohr, a league champ, junior Bruce Lankow and senior heavyweight Cary Hanson (7-4, fourth in league qualifier) will provide the closing punch.

"We have some strong kids back, but young kids," said head coach Rich Morton, who boasts a 58-26-1 career record. "We lost pretty much the heart of the team (seven seniors) through graduation and it left us with no real strong areas like last year when we were solid from 112 up."

"Still, we've set a goal to win at least 10 matches and I think we're capable of that. We have a reputation here a lot of kids have worked hard to earn, and we don't want to ruin that."

SOUTHERN TIER DIVISION II

Randolph: Despite key graduation losses of Troy Barber, Brad Young and Travis Remington, 13th-year coach Doug Seamans doesn't seem to be worried. But then why should he with a veteran lineup that includes one of the top wrestlers in Western New York in 132-pound senior Billy Young.

"Billy's been remarkable for us and we expect him to continue to be," said Seamans, whose team went 7-6 and placed third in the league last year. "About the only problem we have now, though, is finding him competition in practice."

Young, Randolph's first Div. I-II tournament champ, is the school's winningest wrestler with a record of 116-14-2. He was 35-1 last year with his only loss coming against Royalton-Hartland's fourth-place state finisher Mark Baehr, 8-7, in the Section 6 state qualifying tournament semifinals at 126. Young then beat Franklville's Mark Hall to place third.

Joining Young in Randolph's veteran lineup are returning starters Trevor Peterson (soph., 8-13) at 105, Randy Luce (jr., 16-15) at 112, Jeff Lockwood (sr.) at 119, Troy Pitts (soph., 14-10-1) at 138, Mike Howard (sr., 14-13) at 167, and Robbie Howard (jr., 9-15) at heavyweight.

INDEPENDENTS

Brockway: Second in the D-9 'AA' tourney behind Curwensville, Brockway has a senior-dominated lineup that includes third-place district finishers Mike Pisarchick (24-5, 68-15-1 career) at 155-167, Pete Varishetti (18-5-1) at 167-185, and Bob Ishman (16-9) at 119.

Scott Carr (16-10) at 138, John Carlson (10-11) at 145 and Ed Miller (18-7-1) also are among the nine starters back for 15th-year coach John Bernardo (153-47-7).

"I'm always afraid to make predictions," said Bernardo, "but we're solid all the way through."

Sheffield: Senior 126-pounder Scott Oswalt (11-10) is the only wrestler back with a winning record for coach Denny Johnson.

Others back from last year's 6-12 team include Tony Rossman (10-13) at 138, Garson Bailey (10-16-1), third at sectionals, at 185, and senior heavyweight Chauncy Traister (9-12).

ERIE COUNTY DIVISION III

Pioneer: Following last season's 9-4 finish and third-place league standing behind Iroquois (12-0) and Clarence (11-1), fourth-year coach Ron Brunner felt he was set.

But times have changed. Since the start of the school year, Brunner has lost Carder (31-5) to a shoulder injury, Tim Barnes (15-6-1), who decided not to return, and fast-improving Luan Nguyen (15-6), who transferred to Amherst.

"Now it's going to be a test for us," said Brunner, who also lost Kevin Hyman (18-6) and Dave Geiger (18-8) to graduation. "We have some good jayvee kids coming up, but how we do will depend on how they do."

Meanwhile, five regulars are back — sophomores Gary Beckwith (7-4) at 98 and Scott Nelson (6-6) at 105, both second in the ECIC III-IV qualifier, sophomore Ray Wrangelin (7-2) at 112, third in the division tourney, junior Scott Wagner (5-7) and senior heavyweight and divisional runner-up Matt Woolley (6-10).

Also vying for a spot is talented freshman Eric Pump (112), a Junior Olympic state champion who's coming off an undefeated jayvee year.

Tri-County Loop Hopes To Break Into States

By TOM ROOF
Times Herald Sports Writer

In ten years since the Tri-County Wrestling League last had a New York State tournament qualifier, and although the Section 6 championships are still a long ways off, this could be the season the drought ends.

Three previous Section 6 finalists and two consolation finalists are back, giving reason to believe the league could get its first state representative since 1977 when Portville's Terry Miller placed third.

Interestingly, the top returnees all wrestle under Allegany Central School coach Chuck Curley, whose team captured last year's league championship with a 6-0 record.

Back for Allegany (11-2 overall) are 1986 sectional finalists Ray Ryan and Mike Benca, and '87 contender Matt Lippert, who dropped a 17-4 decision in the 91-pound finals to Sweet Home's Bob Jackson. Neither Ryan nor Benca enjoyed the type of post-season they had the previous year, although Benca did place third in the state qualifier at 105 after losing 5-2 to Frontier's Bill Page.

Rounding out the previous sectional placewinners are Franklinville's Mark Hall, who capped a 32-4 season with a fourth-place finish at 126, and Casey Vassar, fourth two years ago.

Allegany and Franklinville should again challenge for the league title, which wasn't decided until the season's final dual a year ago when Allegany won, 35-16. Cattaraugus, third last year, also looks strong.

The breakdown by teams:

TRI-COUNTY LEAGUE

Allegany: Lippert (junior, 19-5) at 112, and seniors Benca (27-3) at 119 and Ryan (24-3-1) at 145 are the heart of a lineup that features six returning starters.

"We have some good kids, but we still have a lot of holes to fill," Curley said. "But then we had some holes last year and the kids came through."

Also returning from a team that lost only to Randolph and Cassadaga Valley by a total of 10 points, are sophomore Steve Lippert (9) at 112, freshman Rod Paugh at 119 and junior 145-pounder Tom Langdon (22-3), who captured tournament titles at Allegany, Olean Archbishop Walsh and Franklinville.

Curley, who needs just two wins to reach the 100-victory mark, also be counting on varsity newcomers Kevin Peterson (freshman), a Junior Olympic state champ, at 98 pounds, Troy Nolan (senior) at 167, and Mike Amore (junior) at heavyweight.

"I don't have a lot, but what I do have is quality," Curley added. "We won't be afraid to put anybody on the mat."

Bolivar: Dwindling numbers have caused a problem for second-year coach Fred Krause, who has just 10 wrestlers. "Obviously we'll be giving up a few weight classes," Krause said, "but I think we'll do pretty good at tournaments since the kids we have do have experience."

Of Bolivar's 10 team members, seven are returning starters off a 5-9 team: third-place Section 5 Class D meet finisher Jacob Beaton (junior, 8-13) at 98, Brody Longstaff (7-11) at 119, Jason Low (sophomore, 17-9) at 126, Jamie Blauvelt (sophomore) at 126, Joe MacDonald (junior, 6-6) at 138, and Jim Beaton (senior) and Lance Appleby (sophomore) at 145.

Cattaraugus: Ten lettermen, including six regulars, are back for 18th-year coach Don Walter, whose last league title came in 1974. Still, Walter is hesitant about predicting a Cattaraugus title.

"Let's just say we have a blend of youth and experience," he said. "We have a number of young kids who show promise for the future, but we don't have depth."

Cattaraugus, 10-3-1 last year, suffered big graduation losses with the departures of Mike Brown (18-4) and Shawn Booth (25-3) among others. Back, though, are sophomores Tony Nagel (10-12) at 119 and Mike Grey (7-6) at 138, and seniors Bill Duncan (8-11) at 132, Sam Grey (19-5-1) at 145, and the solid closing punch of Julius Westfall (14-12) at 177 and Bruce Koningisor (8-9) at heavyweight.

Eighth-grader Daric Rupp and freshman Todd Frantz, both lettermen, return to give Walter a pair of experienced lightweights, while junior letterman Ken Mac will fit in at 167.

Franklinville: New coach Joe Smith, who takes over for Bill Weigel, inherits a veteran team that should at least be as strong as last year's 13-1 squad.

With stoppers throughout the lineup, Franklinville will send out promising sophomore Tony Standish (9-4), a three-time tourney finalist, at 105, Vassar (junior, 25-5) at 112, freshman Sam Barber (18-11) at 126, the Hall twins, seniors Matt (24-5) at 138 and Mark (31-4, 16 pins) at 155, Dave Moranski (senior, 22-8) at 167, and Tony Caros (junior, 13-6) at 177.

"We lost our heavyweight (moved out of the area) and our 119-pounder (Chris Reed) to an injury, but I think we have a real good shot at another good season," Smith said.

A Franklinville graduate and a two-time Section 6 runner-up, Smith brings seven years of head coaching experience with him to Franklinville. He coached two years at Albert City, Iowa, and five more at Iowa's Martensdale High School, where his teams posted a 39-16 record and captured four conference championships.

"Franklinville has only lost two duals in two years and we look to continue in that way," said Smith. "The team's been strong, but what I want to add is the Iowa technique of being more aggressive and wrestling with more body contact."

Olean Archbishop Walsh: Coming off a 2-14-1 season, Walsh also has a new coach as Dan Childs replaces Larry Anzivine.

Childs, who coached previously as an assistant at Starpoint in 1980 while attending Canisius, has 22 wrestlers out for the team, but only four returning starters.

"It's going to be a tough season," Childs admitted, "but there are some individuals who will score well."

Walsh's top returnees include seniors Mike Zalkel (10-8) at 132, Dan Orsini at 138 and Brian Putt at 119. A nice addition is junior heavyweight Mike McAuley, who has transferred from Franklinville.

Portville: Veteran coach Mike DeBarbieri, in his third year at Portville, continues to rebuild a team that went through six head coaching changes in six years before his arrival.

A sign of the turnaround is the turnout — 22 kids are on the roster, the most DeBarbieri has ever had.

"I see progress," he said, "and I expect good things with this team. We have six freshmen and we're thin in the upperweights, but we'll be competitive from 112 to 132."

Easily Portville's strength, seniors Brian Bowen (21-8), Marty Butts (16-7) and Rick Emley will be at 112 to 132. Freshman Eric Bowen (5-2) will be at 98, while letterman Bob Miller (senior, 13-9) is at 167 or 177. Also back are juniors Brent Butts (105-112) and Mike Randolph (155), plus sophomores Scott North (105) and Mike Torrey (138).

Newcomer Dave Renaud (junior) is a strong candidate for 132.

Wellsville: After three straight losing seasons, including 0-13 in 1984-85, Wellsville appears headed in the right direction.

Despite the loss of fourth-place Section 5 Class B tournament finishers Jim Kling (11-14) and Townley Hedrick (22-9, 94 career wins), third-year coach Bob McMorris is optimistic Wellsville is on its way back.

"We have a lot of kids coming back this year," said McMorris, whose team went 5-9 last season. "We're young, but all these kids have been around for years. We may, though, still be about a year away."

Only one senior is projected in the starting lineup, which returns eighth-graders Brian Stisser (5-5) at 98 and Scott Cicirello (16-11) at 105, junior's Shawn Doane (18-12) at 126 and Joe Fisher (5-17) at 138, plus sophomores Brian Gray (15-13) and Evan Enke (2-4) at 145 and heavyweight, respectively.

"Gray is really starting to come into his own," McMorris said, "while I expect Doane to do good things. It's time for him to start putting things together and do what he's capable of doing."

NON-LEAGUE

Alfred-Almond: Second-year coach John Ninos had Alfred-Almond (5-4) over .500 for the first time since 1968 last season and is expecting even better results this year.

"Hopefully I'm not getting too excited, but 10-4 isn't out of reach," said Ninos, who welcomed back seven starters, including 20-match winners Lannie Herrick (24-3) and Ken Porter (20-8).

Herrick, a sophomore, will be at 112 and Porter, only a freshman, is at 126. Also back are three-

"They're my Big Three," said third-year coach Karl Krause, whose team improved to 5-7 last year. "We're still building but we should have a full team this year and I'm looking forward to doing better." Adding experience are second-year wrestlers Jason Stone at 112 and Tracy Thayer (5-10) at 126.

ALLEGHENY MOUNTAIN LEAGUE

Bradford High: One of two 'AAAA' teams in the league (the other being St. Marys Public), Bradford returns five starters off a 10-8 team that set a school-record for wins.

Heading the list of returnees are district champ Guy Distrola (junior, 14-9-1) at 185 and district runner-up Brian Keane (junior, 17-10-1) at 155 or 167.

"We're going to be young again," said third-year coach Dave Jones (17-18), "but I feel we can finish among the top five. We have a good crop of sophomores who by the end of the year should be pretty good." 12-10-87

Bradford could have as many as six sophomores in the lineup, but also return juniors Charlie Bay (12-11) at 98, Jason Sperry (15-10-1) at 105 and Carmen Bleem (8-16) at 167.

Coudersport: District AA champ Tom Storey (junior, 22-4-1) returns at 185 and senior John Sauve (12-6-1), up to 132, top a group of eight returning lettermen.

"The bulk of the team is back and hopefully stronger," said coach Mike Borro Jr., who's looking to improve on last year's 5-11 record.

In addition to the physical Storey, who won his title at 185 with a 2-0 win over Smethport's Paul Rossi, also back are sophomores Joe Tomcho (119) and Dana Daisley (145), plus juniors Toby Bova (112), Chris Jones (138), Bill Furman (155) and Ken Dunn (167). None had a winning record.

Emporium: Improving on last year's 7-8 record may be difficult with the loss of nine seniors, including state qualifiers Darryl Sassaman (29-4) and Mike Lamont (29-4).

"We're very young," said 12th-year coach Larry McGraw. "We'll have new kids at five weight classes, probably forfeit 185, and have kids at 132 and heavyweight who are 1-4 and 1-1."

A pair of promising sophomores, Jason Smith and Connellsburg transfer Bruce Morgan, will be at 145 and 167, respectively.

Individually, however, Emporium returns three solid lightweights in sophomore Brian Gillette (8-11-1) at 112, senior Steve Gillette (11-7) at 119 and senior Mike Stuart (22-7) at 126. Boasting a career record of 56-25, Stuart is a two-time district champ who was knocked out of last year's regional tournament by eventual state runner-up Casey Koch of Bald Eagle Nittany.

Johnsonburg: Coach Scott Anderson said Ridgway should be exceptional, but the fourth-year coach has a powerhouse of his own.

Three veterans with a combined 160 career wins — 119-pounder Bernie Norton (44), 145-pound bruiser Butch Barber (56) and heavyweight David Sallack (60) — form the soul of a team that boasts eight returning starters.

"Potentially we can be very good," said Anderson, disappointed by last year's 8-8 finish (seven losses by eight points or less). "But we have problems with depth, freshmen at the first two weights, and Bernie has grown two weight classes . . . and you never know what effect that will have."

Norlin is coming off a 2-4 sophomore season in which he won a D-9 title at 98. Barber was 26-1-1 and has placed second and third in the last two district tourneys, while Sallack, a district champ as a sophomore, was 29-4 last year, placed second at districts and won a regional title.

Among the other returnees are Mike Fitch (junior, 10-16-1) at 132, Matt Kilhoffer (senior, 13-10) at 155, and Scott Muroski (junior, 18-7-1) at 167.

Kane: After winning three district titles and compiling a 58-5 dual record the previous four years, Kane dropped off to 9-8 last season and 10th in the post-season showcase. But no immediate help is on the way.

"This is the first year I'll be coaching that I haven't had a returning district champ," said coach Barry Johnson, who in eight seasons has compiled an impressive 97-30 record. "And this is going to be an off-year for us. We're down to 17 kids and have a lot of openings . . . and that's kind of disheartening. We're going to have a real tough year."

Among six returning lettermen for Kane, which has not had a losing season since 1973 when Johnson was a junior, are fourth-place district finisher Tim Blankenship (sophomore, 13-7) at 138, senior Joe Johnson (4-2 varsity, 13-0 JVs) at 145, sophomore Dennis Burgert (13-6-2) at 155, and heavyweight Rod Smith, who has recorded 17 and 18 wins in each of the last two seasons.

Port Allegany: After dominating the North Tier League the past three years (three titles, 16-2 record), coach John Kriner said he's ready for a new challenge.

"I'm looking forward to the new league," said Kriner, whose teams have gone 27-4 since taking over for Terry Daniels two seasons ago. "But we're going to know early what we're getting into with the way our schedule opens."

Indeed, Port, which a week ago had 10 returning lettermen but now has seven, has Ridgway, St. Marys Public and Johnsonburg as its first three duals. Three tournaments — Curwensville, Brookville and Lock Haven — also are on the first-month schedule.

Port, though, won't be playing patsies to anyone with a lineup featuring senior standout Dale Budd at 167 and returnees Chris Waterman (119), Scott Dudley (junior, 14-8) at 126, Mickey Caulkins (senior, 8-9) at 132, Marc Budd (junior, 12-7) at 145, Scott Gerhart (senior, 19-5-1) at 155, and Jason Babola (junior, 11-10, nine pins) at heavyweight.

Budd, 29-5 last year with 18 pins when he placed second at both the District 9 and Northwest Regional tournaments, is Port's all-time winningest wrestler with a 61-12 career mark. Waterman, 10-2 last year as a sophomore, is 30-5 in two years with second- and third-place D-9 finishes.

"So much is going to depend on how we mesh together," said Kriner, who lost two lettermen (Leonard Treat and son, John Jr., 7-1-1) to injuries.

Ridgway: Head coach Gary Gerber returns all but two starters from a 14-3 team, which "arrived" a year ahead of schedule and placed third at the district tournament.

Better results are expected this season with a lineup that has no notable weak spots.

"We're pushing hard," said Gerber, "and if we stay healthy, we can be tough. And what's nice, we're only going to have one or two seniors in the lineup."

Looking for its 21st straight non-losing season, Ridgway returns six wrestlers with 15 wins or better — Jeff Woodford (junior, 15-11-1) at 98, Mark Aiello (sophomore, 19-12-1) at 112, Vic Corey (junior, 18-9-2) at 119, last season, and is looking for another with a squad that boasts seven returning starters.

District 9 'AAA' champs Billy Wittman (sophomore, 18-6) at 112 and Shawn Whitaker (senior, 24-6-1), and two-time runner-up Randy Agosti (senior, 16-10, fourth at regionals) at 145 should again be big point getters.

"The potential is there," said Fordoski, "but there seems to be a lot of good teams in the area."

District runner-up Dean Taylor (senior, 7-12), also returns. (EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the final installment of a three-part series previewing the 27 Big 30 high school wrestling teams. Today's segment focuses on the Allegheny Mountain League and independents Brockway and Sheffield).

St. Marys Public: Head coach Wayne Fordoski has put together five winning teams in the last six years, including 11-6

Port Allegany: Hurtin' Team

By TOM ROOF

Times Herald Sports Writer

John Kriner thought he had the right idea.

But now, the talkative Port Allegany High School wrestling coach admits his decision to schedule a tough opening slate of duals and tournaments may have backfired. And it could get worse before it gets better. 12-26-87

Banged up from a pair of tournaments and physical duals with Ridgway and St. Marys Public, Port is off to a 2-3 start and still has the rugged 16-team Lock Haven Tournament coming up Monday and Tuesday.

"We're normally not a slow starting team," Kriner said, "but we've had starters out and others sick and it hurt us. It would have been hard to convince me, as this season approached, we'd be in the shape we're in. I figured this to be the best team we've had and to have three dual losses at this point befuddles me."

Part of Port Allegany's problem has been injuries, which have taken three starters out of the lineup, including Kriner's son, John Jr., whose absence has caused Port to hasten Dale Budd's drop from 185 to 167.

A 1987 Northwest Regional runner-up, Budd (8-0, 69-13 career) is just beginning to adjust to the lower weight — a move Kriner wasn't planning on making until late January.

"Our aim was to bring Dale down slowly and to use him at both 167 and 185, wherever the competition was," Kriner said. "But we just had to bring him down sooner with John being out of the lineup."

Despite Port's unexpected slow start, Kriner still believes the best way to get ready for the season is finding the best competition. He's just hoping there aren't any lasting drawbacks.

"I don't know yet if there will be," said Kriner, whose teams had won 39 of 45 duals in three seasons heading into this year. "The kids are very knowledgeable . . . they know where we stand, that if we had the right people in the lineup we could have beaten Ridgway, Cranberry and St. Marys. They know we've had kids out of the lineup, but as long as the right personnel isn't in there, we're not going to be able to perform as a team together."

Unfortunately for Kriner, Port opened December with Allegheny Mountain League duals against Ridgway and St. Marys.

"I'd like to eliminate league matches all together in December and start them in January," Kriner said. "This way you have more practice time and can prepare for your league matches with non-league duals and tournaments. With the way the set-up is now, you're no sooner getting started and there you are with an important league match. But I understand there probably wasn't much choice this year because of contract commitments."

On Monday, Port and St. Marys Public will return to the Lock Haven Tournament, where they placed 16th and 10th, respectively, last year. Among the other teams back are defending champion Spring Grove (District 3), plus perennial powers Clearfield, Jersey Shore, Bethlehem Liberty and Mifflinburg.

"December can be a bit dragging with the holidays," Kriner said, "so we wanted to find some outstanding competition to get ready for the league in January and February. And we did that . . . we found it. But as a result anytime you go against good people, you're going to get bumps and bruises . . . it's just that we're bumped and bruised enough and now we have another tournament coming up and follow that with Johnsonburg."

Monday's opening rounds will begin at noon with the quarterfinals set for 7 p.m. The semifinals will be at noon Tuesday with the consolation finals booked for 6 o'clock and the championship finals at 7:30 p.m.

THE SUCCESS rate was down, but the officials who did the seeding for the Southern Tier Officials Association Tournament at Jamestown Community College last weekend did another outstanding job. 12-26-87

Considering the tournament boasted 32 teams, involving 448 wrestlers, tourney officials did well in successfully projecting seven of the 14 winners. Seeded first and winning were Royalton-Hartland's Rob Jaquin (91), East Rochester's Rich O'Lena (98), Sweet Home's Bob Jackson (105), Randolph's Billy Young (132), Franklinville's Mark Hall (155), Iroquois' Ethan Bosch (167) and Southwestern's Tom Meyers (215).

Two other top seeds, Hickory's returning state champ Kyle Cheza and Roy-Hart's fourth-place state finisher Mark Baehr, made it to the finals before losing.

Last year, 13 of the 14 top-seeded wrestlers won titles.

DISTRICT 9 coaches, upset last year when only two wrestlers qualified out of the district tournament to the Northwest Regionals, obviously had their complaints heard.

At its December meeting, the Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association has approved a proposal to automatically advance a minimum of three wrestlers from each PIAA district (both 'AA' and 'AAA') to their respective interdistrict regional tournament. 12-26-87

District 9 coaches will have to put up with the present system for one more year, though, as the new advancement ruling won't take effect until next season.

Allegany: Tough 'Fest

By TOM ROOF

Times Herald Sports Writer

You won't find Chuck Curley's approach to scheduling scribbled down on any other coaches' notepad.

But perhaps it should be.

Curley's approach to preparing his wrestlers for those tough state qualifying tournaments at the end of the season is indeed different. While most coaches boast of wanting to find the best in-season competition they can, the Allegany Central School coach, on the other hand, admits he has intentionally avoided some of the better area tournaments.

In particular, the Southern Tier Officials Tournament at Jamestown Community College. 12-31-87

Allegany, though, has been successful doing it Curley's way — winning two Tri-County League titles in a row, winning 25 of its last 29 duals (with one tie); and advancing four wrestlers to the Section 6 finals in two years.

"It's simple why we do things the way we do," said Curley, who posted his 101st coaching victory Wednesday. "For Allegany to build its program, it's more meaningful to get into the smaller type tournaments where teams are evenly competitive. In all honesty, the JCC competition was too much. Besides, its gotten so big the kids get lost in the numbers." 12-31-87

"It's important for kids to get confidence, to give them something to build on . . . that's why we go ahead and enter the smaller tournaments, like the one we run down here. And so far it has paid off."

Curley, whose team if off to a 3-0 start, is a strong believer that winning breeds winners. "Why," Curley says, "should you have your kids wrestle the best there is during the season and possibly lose? What good is that? I'd rather have my kids have the positive attitude going into sectionals that they're as good as anyone. They have to realize they can win . . . like I've always said, the mind gives up before the body." 12-31-87

Curley, though, hasn't padded his entire schedule. On Saturday, Allegany will be one of 10 teams in the Royalton-Hartland Tournament — a one-day tourney that includes Lockport, Tonowanda, Niagara Falls and Randolph. Maple Grove, Dunkirk, Fredonia and St. Francis round out the lineup. 12-31-87

"I certainly hope our win tonight (Wednesday over Cassadaga Valley) carries over into the tournament," Curley said. "But realistically we're not going up there thinking we're going to win. If we can end up in the top four, I think that would be very respectable for us. We just don't have enough horses to win, but this tournament is a good way for us to showcase some of our kids. There's going to be a lot of college coaches there and that's what we're looking to do."

Roy-Hart, which placed second at the JCC tourney, is the clear favorite with a lineup consisting of state placers winners Nelson Colley, Lou Roselli and Mark Baehr and 10 of 12 returnees from last year's 12-1 team. Now 4-0 on the season, Roy-Hart beat both Kenmore East (48-13) and Kenmore West (46-12) Wednesday to run its Niagara-Orleans League consecutive win streak to 28 matches. # Bees Will Try To Bounce Back In OHSL North

Second of a series

By NEIL KERR

When your school has a 15-year record of 206-14, a 10-5 record is a plunge.

12-11-87

This year, the Baldwinsville wrestling team will try to regain first place in the Onondaga League North Division. The championship was shared last season by Cicero-North Syracuse and East Syracuse-Minoa, both 6-1.

The Bees, coached by Terry Dillon, will be challenged by Liverpool, Cicero-North Syracuse and East Syracuse-Minoa.

In the OHSL Metro, defending champion Fulton again appears to be the team to beat, despite losing a non-league match 31-25 to Vernon-Verona-Sherrill earlier this week.

Onondaga North

Despite losing sectional champions Pat Halpin (at 215 pounds) and Art Bittel (250) to graduation, the defending Section Three team champion Bees are strong.

Dillon points to returning Tojo Poole (98), John Loffredo (112), Tom Ryan (119), Todd Webb (145) and Bob Scherfling (167) as contenders for individual league titles. Poole was sectional runner-up at 91 last season. "The strength of our lineup is in the lower weights," said Dillon.

Promising Bee newcomers are Chris Cali (91), Greg Tall (105), Steve Russett (126), Jack LePorte (155) and Chris Wener (215).

At Liverpool, 1986 Section Three 167-pound champion Shane Carni heads a lineup that could present Coach Jack Williams with a league crown. Besides Carni, the Warriors return Tom Gorga and Tom Stone at 112, Jamie Pellenz at 126, Dan Murphy at 132, Brian McGraw at 138, Mark LaFrance at 155, Mike George at 167, and Gerard Sageer at heavyweight.

Cicero-North Syracuse, guided by rookie coach Dereck Bigford, may surprise both Baldwinsville and Liverpool. A solid Northstars' lineup features 112-pound Pat Fitch, 126-pound Derek Keller, 132-pound Jess Seymore, 145-pound Brian Collins, 155-pound Tom Brefka, 177-pound Mike O'Connor and 215-pound Brian Little.

Also hopeful of a title is East Syracuse-Minoa, where returning starters Steve Campbell (98), Terry Burton (105), Brian Bussjager (126) and Mike Hutko (155) lead a young lineup.

West Genesee possesses a nucleus of strong wrestlers, led by captain David Kittell at 119, Dan DiFlorio at 155, Randy Conrad at 177 and Eric Bittel at 215.

Like West Genesee, Henninger has talent, but lacks depth. The Black Knights' strength is 132-pound Shondale Mable (19-2 last year), 138-pound Adam Burgos (26-4) and 177-pound Ed Cox (17-9).

Oswego coach Elmer Akley points to Jeff Brancato at 98, Robbie Favata at 119, Mike Van Buren at 126 and John DeSantis at 145 as his key performers.

Fayetteville-Manlius, 2-0, where senior 132-pound Charles Rue has piled up 86 career victories, will continue to wrestle as an independent school.

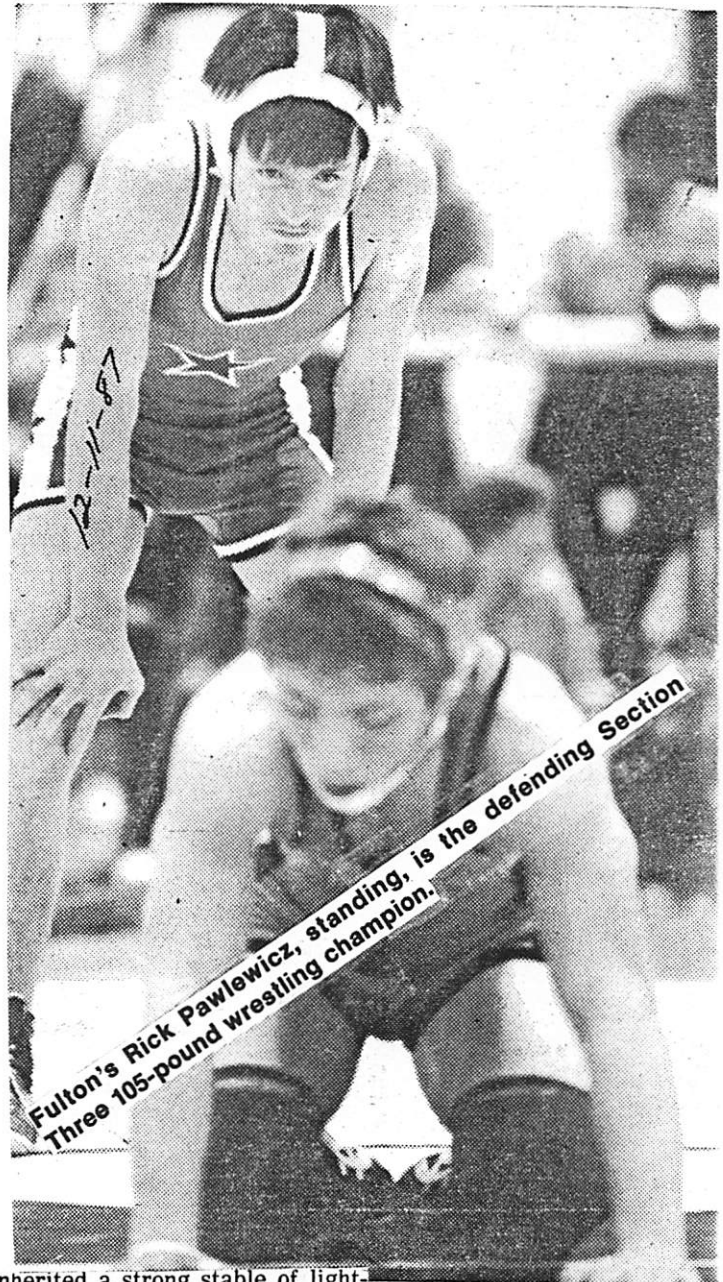

A rebuilding league newcomer is Rome Free Academy, co-captained by 119-pound Scott Pangbourne and 138-pound Mike Ripley.

Onondaga Metro

With defending Section Three 105-pound champion Rick Pawlewicz heading the lineup, Fulton should continue the tradition that has produced a 143-14-1 dual meet record since 1977. Pawlewicz was 24-4 last season.

New head coach Mike Conners, who replaced Wayne Bleau, inherited a strong stable of lightweights. Besides Pawlewicz, the Red Raiders return Jim Flynn (21-4) at 98, Greg Firenze (23-5) at 105, and Dan Pawlewicz (22-1) at 119.

Fulton's Rick Pawlewicz, standing, is the defending champion. Three 105-pound wrestling section.

In the upper weights, Conners will count mainly on returning Dan Kidd (10-5) at 138, John Clark (14-8-1) at 145, and Dave Wise (12-8) at 167. Rick Pawlewicz and Wise both won silver medals in the Empire State Games last summer.

The chief challenger once again should be Central Square, led by co-captains Jamie Coppola at 138-145 and Jamie Pontello at 155-167. Coppola, 31-4 last winter and Section Three runner-up at 126 pounds, is 69-22-2 for his career and aiming for a sectional title at 138 this season.

Thin in numbers, Jamesville-DeWitt and Christian Brothers Academy have combined to form one team. Lightweight Mark Oblad and Eric Baca in the upper weights will lead that 0-2 squad.

Wrestlers

By TOM ROOF

Times Herald Sports Writer

Olean High School's Jeff Prescott brought the only state championship medal back to the Big 30 in 1987, winning his third consecutive New York State wrestling title, but the two-state, six-county region certainly wasn't lacking for state contenders.

In fact, not only did two other wrestlers, Kane's Roger Blankenship and St. Marys Public's Tim Wittman, reach the Pennsylvania state finals, but three area teams advanced as far in state play — Cuba in boys' basketball, Randolph in girls' basketball, and Rushford in boys' soccer.

Remarkably, 10 Big 30 boys' and girls' basketball teams walked off with sectional and district titles in an unprecedented season, while five other clubs reached the finals before losing.

In an amazing turnaround, Cuba, 9-11 and 5-15 the previous two seasons, went 25-1 with its lone setback coming in the New York State Public High School Class D finals, 74-50, to Alexander Hamilton (near New York City).

After winning its fourth Section 5 Class C title in nine years (66-65 over Batavia Notre Dame), Cuba beat previously unbeaten Prattsburg, 90-82, Section 6 champ Cattaraugus, 69-59, and Charlotte Valley, 60-59, in overtime to become the first Big 30 basketball team to reach the state finals since Cuba won the Class C public school crown in 1979.

Head coach Gary Wight received Big 30 Coach of the Year honors for Cuba's season, sharing the award with Aaron Straub of St. Marys Elk County Christian. Elk (26-3) captured the Pennsylvania District 9 Class A crown — its third in five seasons under Straub — with a 53-38 win over Northern Potter, then was eliminated in the second round of state play by Cornell.

Northern Potter, meanwhile, enjoyed its winningest season ever (24-4), and became the first North Tier League team to win a state playoff game in 15 years by beating Berlin Brothersvalley, 61-59, before losing in the second round to Monessen, 70-46.

Cattaraugus (19-3) became the first Cattaraugus County boys' team in nine years to wear a Section 6 Class D crown by stopping Pine Valley, 67-62, in the finals.

Also capturing District 9 boys' basketball championships were Ridgway (17-10), which won its second straight 'AA' title with a 48-45 victory over Brookville, and Bradford High (19-5), which beat DuBois High, 48-45, for its second consecutive Class AAAA crown. Whitesville (18-4) reached the Section 5 Class D finals, before losing to Prattsburg, 77-72.

In girls' basketball, Randolph (21-3) became the third Cattaraugus County team to reach the state public school finals, after Olean High and Portville did the same in 1982. After beating Salamanca, 66-55, for the Section 6 title, Randolph ousted Naples, 61-34, and Section 10 champ Salmon River, 58-50, in a pair of state playoff games before losing to Wyandh (28-1) of Long Island, 51-38, in the sectional title by nipping Williamsville East, 57-54, in double overtime. In Section 5 action, Wellsville carried a 21-0 record into the Class B finals before losing to defending state champ Penn Yan, 42-31.

In addition, Franklinville (17-5) captured its fifth Section 6 Class D crown in nine years by rallying past Mayville, 49-48, while Pioneer (17-5) racked up its second straight Class B-1

Two Pennsylvania Big 30 teams captured District 9 crowns as St. Marys Elk (21-7) defeated Karns City, 47-35, for the 'A' title, and Port Allegany (25-1) outlasted Keystone, 58-57, in overtime, to win its second straight 'AA' championship. Port Allegany then suffered its only loss in the second round of states, 52-37, to Sto-Rox. Elk, likewise, lost in the second round of states.

Preventing a 6-for-6 title D-9 sweep by Big 30 boys and girls teams, the Bradford High (21-5) girls lost in the 'AAAA' finals to DuBois High.

IN WRESTLING, Prescott, named Times Herald Man of the Year (see related story, page 28), capped a 40-0 season by winning the New York State 112-pound championship in Syracuse. The Olean senior was the only Big 30 wrestler to advance to states, but four other matmen — Allegany's Matt Lippert, Pioneer's Shane Carder, and Salamanca twins Myron and Jess Wilson — came within one win of making the trip by placing second in the Section 6 championships.

Wittman, a Class AAA state champ in 1986, placed second last March to wind up 31-1 on the season and 110-14 in a stellar four-year career at St. Marys. Kane's Blankenship, looking to duplicate a feat accomplished by brother Duane the previous year, came close to bringing a state title home but wound up second, losing 7-2 to Mt. Union's Troy Sunderland in the 145-pound 'AA' finals.

Among other wrestling highlights, Wittman and Johnsonburg's David Sallack claimed Northwest Regional titles, St. Marys' John Weisner and Shawn Whitaker, plus Bradford High's Guy Distrola and John Addis captured 'AAA' district titles. Blankenship, Johnsonburg's Bernie Nolan, Elk's Randy Weisner, Brockway's Jeff Shugar, Emporium's Darryl Sassaman, Bob Lamont and Mike Stuart, Port Allegany's Dick Sherwood, and Coudersport's Tom Storey won D-9 'AA' crowns.

6 wrestlers with Penn State ties in Wilkes semifinals

Ten wrestlers with Penn State ties advanced to the quarterfinal round of the annual Wilkes Open last night and six of them — Jeff Prescott, defending champion Sean Finkbeiner, Mark Shafranich, Bob Genovese, Greg Haladay and Billy Marino — advanced to today's semifinals at the Wilkes College gym in Wilkes-Barre.

Penn Staters who lost in the quarterfinals were Brian Campbell

High school wrestling fans who have been craving for some kind of formality among North Tier teams, instead of the odd mix of schedules and near-meaningless duals they've been getting, are in for a bonus this year.

Thanks to the work of several Pennsylvania Big 30 administrators, four teams from the old North Tier League — Coudersport, Smethport, Port Allegany and Oswayo Valley — have joined previously unaffiliated Kane, Ridgway, Johnsonburg, St. Marys Elk County Christian, St. Marys Public, Emporium and Bradford High to form the Allegheny Mountain League.

And they couldn't have picked a better year to start. At least three of those teams — Ridgway, Johnsonburg and Smethport — should challenge for the District 9 Class AA title, while Bradford High just may be the most improved team in the area. Then, too, Port Allegany returns a solid lineup that boasts two-time returning district placemen Chris Waterman and Dale Budd.

Oswayo Valley: Junior 132-pounder Mark Gible (11-12) is the winningest wrestler among eight returning off a 3-14 team for coach Steve Bower, who feels OV is ready to improve.

"With the number of kids we have back, I'm looking for a winning season," he said. "We're an improving team."

Other key returnees include sophomore Roger Bickleman (6-5) at 112, junior Matt Sottolano (6-14) at 167, and senior Damon Lewis (8-13) at 185.

at 158, Todd Horner at 126, John Yankanich at 158 and ex-Lion Joe Hadge at 150.

Finkbeiner, top-seeded at 150, beat Tom Ryan of Syracuse last night, 12-2, after disposing of Mark Pearson, unattached, 15-5, and Dennis Upicuous of Scranton by technical fall, 17-1.

Finkbeiner will face Mark Gumble of SUNY-Binghamton in the semis, which will begin at noon.

Shafranich, the former Kishacoquillas High athlete, outpointed Gerry Armengau of Clarion, 10-0, in the quarters. Earlier in the day, Shafranich beat Jeff Kaboly of East Stroudsburg, 11-0, and pinned Craig Dodson of VMI in 1:32 of their 167-pound bout. Shafranich's semifinal opponent will be Craig Rome of Wilkes.

Genovese, freshman 177-pounder who is competing unattached along with Prescott (126) and Haladay (heavyweight), had only bout in the afternoon and he decisioned John Bokal of Scranton, 16-4. Genovese beat Ed DeWald of Navy last night, 16-3. Genovese is the second seed at 177. He will face Tim Templeton of Lake Superior State in the semis.

Prescott, three-time New York champ from Olean, won by technical fall over Dan Baskerville of SUNY-Binghamton, 18-3 (5:20) in the afternoon. Last night, he beat Rick Hartmann of Lehigh 11-6. Prescott is seeded fourth and will draw top-seeded Dennis Mejias of Wilkes in the semifinals.

Hadge, a 1987 NCAA placemaker, beat Mike Corriere of Lehigh, 11-4, and Penn State's Joe Good, 8-4. He lost to Gumble last night, 3-2. Hadge, a 1987 NCAA placemaker, was the fifth seed.

Haladay, who is sitting out the season along with Prescott and Genovese, is the second seed. He beat Nunzio DeGregori of Buffalo, 1-0, and Tom Moser of Scranton on a technical fall, 16-0. He beat Craig Whitaker of Cheyney last night, 8-4. Haladay's next foe will be Randy Sieler of Lake Superior State.

PSU, Sooners tie one on

By DOUG McDONALD
Times Senior Sports Writer

Penn State let one slip away at Recreation Building last night.

Unable to score bonus points at 142 and 177 and a victory at 167, the Nittany Lion wrestlers had to settle for a 20-20 tie with Oklahoma in a battle of Top 10 wrestling teams.

"I know I'm disappointed," Coach Rich Lorenzo of Penn State said after the match, "and I'm sure the guys are. We let one slip away tonight. I just hope we learn from this experience.

"We have to be more aggressive. We expect nothing less than 100 percent from each individual. "We had our opportunities. At the same time, you have to give Oklahoma credit. They did what they had to do.

"It's tough to ask your freshmen to come through. Jeff Dernlan (redshirt freshman) allowed his opponent to slow him down. Dernlan ended up with an 8-3 victory and Jim Sconce kept him to a three-point decision.

Sean Finkbeiner wrestled a nice match at 150. He won but it wasn't fancy.

"Then I thought Brian Campbell wrestled a heck of a match at 158. He gave us a great effort against one of Oklahoma's best guys (Kenny Fischer). Brian kept us in the match. He didn't yield any bonus points."

With the score tied at 12, Mark Sidorick of the Lions and Baron Blakley wrestled to a 2-2 draw at 167.

Then at 177, Dan Mayo jumped out to a 9-2 lead against Joe Stafford of Oklahoma in the first period. But Mayo, for some unknown reason, lost track of his mission (to score a major decision) and wound up winning by only 10-3.

Mayo's win made it 17-14 and then Andy Voit, wrestling his first bout of the season (he was with mononucleosis and then arthroscopic knee surgery) beat Junior Meek of the Sooners at 190, 9-5, giving the Lions a 20-14 lead.

But in the final bout senior Mark Tatum of OU pinned freshman Marc Padwe in :43, using a Japanese whizzer and then a body lock.

"We wrestled hard, but not intelligently," Lorenzo said. "But we can turn this into a positive thing. 1-6-88

"I think Mayo went to sleep. He knew we needed a major. He was ahead by 9-2 and then took neutral, to start the second period. Plus he had time. Heck, Marvin Jones is the only guy to hold Mayo down and that was in the nationals."

Oklahoma, which will head to the Virginia Duals at Hampton, Va., along with Penn State, Lock Haven and 10 other ranked teams, this weekend, picked up six easy points when the Lions forfeited at 118. Freshman Bob Truby had weight problems and was unable to compete because the backup 118-punder, Mel Shabelski, was in College Park, Md., for the two-day Maryland Open.

"He was a pound and a half over with three hours to go," Lorenzo said of Truby, "but he developed serious cramps. He wasn't dehydrated or anything like that. His fingers, arms and legs cramped. He has a virus and it was a combination of that plus not being able to replace electrolytes. I guess he lost a lot of potassium. But we should have him Friday and Saturday."

Jim Martin of the Lions tied the score at 6-6 when he pinned Kurt Smith in 3:30. Martin, who is 16-0, had a 10-0 lead at the time of the fall.

"Jimmy also has a virus," Lorenzo said, "but he didn't show it tonight."

In a thriller at 134, T.J. Sewell of the Sooners beat Ken Chertow, 9-8, making up for a one-point setback suffered at Norman a year ago.

Sewell practically came off the floor for three neat duck-under, takedowns to beat Chertow, the last one with 27 seconds left. Chertow had a 7-4 lead after two periods.

"Sewell pancaked Kenny last year," Lorenzo said.

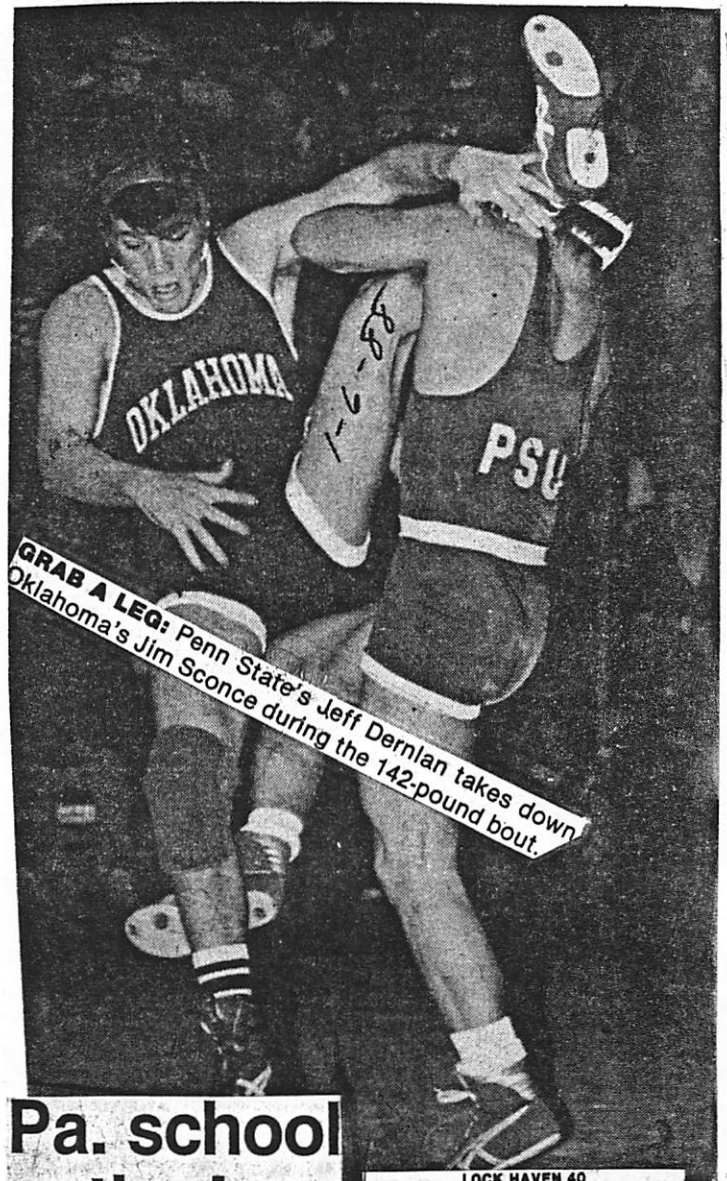

At 142, Dernlan beat Sconce on the strength of a takedown in the first period, a reversal (and a penalty) in the second a takedown in the third. He also had 3:02 time advantage.

Finkbeiner used an escape and a controversial takedown to beat William Taylor, 3-2. Taylor came close several times to takedowns with punishing body locks.

Fisher had a takedown in each period to beat Campbell, 7-4, while a reversal by Sidorick and two escapes by Baron Blakley resulted in a 2-2 draw at 167.

Mayo hit Stafford with an early four-point move and then pancaked Stafford for five more points. His other point came on 1:06 time advantage.

"I thought I could take him down," Mayo said. "I don't know what happened. I just blew it. I just kept trying one move. I'll get him the next time."

Pa. school nation's top team

Miscellanea ....
The current Amateur Wrestling News scholastic rankings were scrambled over the weekend when the top two teams in the country tangled in a dual meet.

The result was that North Allegheny upset top-ranked Cleveland St. Edwards 34-25 in a dual meet conducted under Ohio rules and featuring 13 weight classes. 1-6-88

North Allegheny trailed St. Edwards 22-7 after seven bouts but won five of the last six bouts to end the hosts' 73-meet winning streak. The victory was secured when heavyweight Brian Piotrowski registered a fall in his varsity debut.

New rankings will be released on Jan. 18 and will no doubt reflect North Allegheny's victory. Aside from the Tigers, no other Pennsylvania team appeared among AWW's top 25. Phillipsburg, N.J., was ranked 11th.

Wrestling tourney on tap

Canoe Landing event showcases
the area's best

Wrestling roundup, 2B
By PETE BANKO
Sports writer

HAMMONDSPORT — A wide-range of teams will converge at the Hammondspport Central School tomorrow for a day of wrestling.

The ninth annual Canoe Landing Tournament will feature 13 teams in all — from Harpursville to Wellsville — including returning champion Watkins Glen.

"I think it's the best one-day tournament around," said Hammondspport coach Tom Kressly.

"There's almost 200 miles between some of these schools and it's a good chance to wrestle kids they don't usually see."

Also scheduled to appear are Addison, Avoca, Bolivar, Corning, Campbell, Elmira Notre Dame, Penn Yan, Portville and South Seneca.

The wrestling begins at 10 a.m., continues until 4:30 p.m. when dinner will be served to wrestlers and spectators, and resumes at 6:30 p.m. with the consolation round.

The championship round will start at 8 p.m.

"There are a whole bunch of wrestlers, especially in the lighter weights, who are coming back this year after placing last year," said Kressly.

And with all of the people in the upper weights, there will be some good matches."

Wrestlers unseat VVS, stun Northstars, 51-11

The Bees' victory all started here, in the 98-lb. bout as Tojo Poole, right, pinned Al Fero in 1:19.

Baldwinsville varsity wrestlers upped their record to 6-0 last week Tuesday by downing undefeated Vernon-Verona-Sherrill, 35-20, and rolled past league co-champions Cicero-North Syracuse, 51-11. 1-13-88

Against VVS, Tojo Poole (98 lbs.) started the Bees off with an important pin in 1:19 and six team points.

The next two matches brought up Greg Tall and John Loffredo to wrestle two of VVS's best. Greg (105 lbs.) and John (112 lbs.) were downed 0-2 and 3-4 in two hard-fought matches.

The team score stood dead even at 6-6. 1-13-88

Tom Ryan (119 lbs.) gained a 5-0 decision to give the Bees a 3-point edge.

Dan Ryan (126 lbs.) aggressively went after his foe and came up with a pin to increase the Bees' lead to 9.

Mike Bargcki (132 lbs.) and Larry Tipper (138 lbs.) lost by a fall and a technical fall to give VVS a 3-point edge, 18-15.

At 145 lbs., Mike Clayton was up 10-3 before he pinned in 4:40 and gained six team points. (Bees 21, VVS 18).

Jeff Johnson came up with another key victory with his 17-5 superior decision and five team points (Bees 26, VVS 17). VVS lost one team point.

Jack LePorte, up to the 167-lb. class, battled his adversary to a 4-9 loss. (Bees 26, VVS 20 with two bouts to go).

Bob Scherfling stopped all chances of a VVS victory with a 3-minute pin (Bees 32, VVS 20).

Chris Wener added the icing to the cake with a 10-3 decision to give the Bees a 35-20 victory over undefeated VVS.

The Bees invaded the Northstars gym on Thursday and opened up with two pins. Poole (98 lbs.) flattened his foe in 2:28 followed by Tall with a pin in 3:55.

Loffredo received a forfeit at 112 lbs. and six team points.

Tom Ryan (119 lbs.) wrestled a little flat and had to settle for a 5-5 tie.

Dan Ryan (126 lbs.) won by a technical fall, 16-0.

Barycki lost a close decision, 8-11.

Clayton (138 lbs.) won a 17-8 major decision.

Larry Tipper lost to CNS's best by a 17-1 margin.

Jeff Johnson (155 lbs.) pinned his adversary in 3:25.

LePorte (167 lbs.) followed with a pin of his own in 4:19.

Scherfling (177 lbs.) captured the fastest pin of the night in 1:03.

Wener (215 lbs.) decisioned one of CNS's best by a 10-7 tally.

Trojans Claim Another Title

Individual Champions

western, 132. In back are Bob Slocum, Youngsville, 138; Butch Barber, Johnsonburg, 145; Scott Muroski, Johnsonburg, 155; Terry Green, Jamestown, 167; Paul Wendel, Southwestern, 177; David Sallack, Johnsonburg, heavyweight; and Phillip Kutschke, Southwestern, unlimited.

By MICHAEL ZABRODSKY
FALCONER — The Southwestern Trojans, scoring a total 215 points, took home their second straight title at the Falconer Invitational Wrestling Tournament Saturday night at Falconer High School.

"It was a team effort," Trojans coach Walt Thurnau said. "We placed 2 of 13 people. Eight in the finals and four in the consolation matches. It was the balance that really paid off for us."

"We have been coming down here for a long time and paying our dues. They are a good group of kids."

Following Southwestern were: Falconer, 198½ points; Johnsonburg, 172; Youngsville, 154½; Jamestown, 96½; Eisenhower, 74 points; Fredonia, 63 points; Ripley, 62; Westfield, 57 points; the unattached team, 47; Panama, 40; and Silver Creek, 19.

"The key point in the tournament was the semifinals. From there we put eight wrestlers into the finals," Thurnau said. "Falconer then came right back."

The wrestling action began with Southwestern's Dayne Priestler decisioning Mark Feiss of Ripley 8-4 in the 91-pound match.

Priestler recorded seven points in the first period and was in command the rest of the way. Feiss scored two points in the first and second periods.

"Dayne's match was very important. We were up 10½ points and his victory put us up by 14½," Thurnau noted.

At 98, Joel Weilacher of Youngsville maneuvered an ankle pick takedown in the first period, a reversal in the second and a takedown in the third to decision Bob Ball of Fredonia 6-0.

In the 105-pound match, Falconer's Dave Brainard led Youngsville's Terry Lucas after one period, 3-2. After two periods of action, both wrestlers were tied at 4-4.

In the third period at the 4:19 mark, Brainard injured one of his fingers, and action was stopped momentarily as he used up 1:06 of injury time.

With three seconds left, Brainard recorded a takedown and nearly beat Lucas 8-4 and clinch the 105-pound match.

Another key match that highlighted Southwestern's victory was at 132 pounds. Southwestern's Bob Bennett and Johnsonburg's Mike Fitch were in a 4-4 tie after regulation action. Bennett hung tough in the three overtime periods and came out the victor with a 5-2 decision.

"Bennett is just coming back from a dislocated knee cap injury he suffered some weeks back," Thurnau said. "His victory gave us a little more breathing space."

At 167 pounds the Jamestown Red Raiders had one wrestler claim a championship. Red Raider Terry Green completely dominated Brent Abbey of Falconer in an 11-2 win. Green led after the first 4-1, then raised his lead to 8-2 at the end of second period.

In the third, The Golden Falcon could not score any more points as Green recorded one point from a penalty and then used a reversal to get two more.

Paul Wendel of Southwestern blanked Chuck Gibson of Jamestown in a hard-fought match, 3-0. Wendel scored two points on a takedown in the first and received a penalty point in the third. The penalty point was the result of Gibson being called for stalling.

Remember the old adage, "Save the best for last?"

Well, apparently that's what indeed happened.

It was the clash of the titans in the unlimited match as Southwestern's Phil Kutschke recorded a default over Jamestown's 250-pounder, Shawn Bowman.

Kutschke took the lead in the first period after receiving two penalty points because Bowman was called for pushing Kutschke out of the circle twice.

Bowman battled back in the second by scoring a reversal and a takedown for four points while Kutschke managed an escape and a reversal for three points. Kutschke led 5-4.

In the third period, Kutschke recorded another two-point takedown to raise his lead to 7-4. By this time Bowman had used up his two minutes of injury time from ailing stomach

Baldwinsville pins L'pool

Undefeated Bees continue wrestling dominance with 33-24 win

By Lindsay Kramer
Staff Writer

The balance of strength on the Baldwinsville wrestling team has shifted. Unfortunately for the rest of Section Three, the balance of power apparently hasn't. 1-21-88

Last season, sectional champions Pat Halpin and Art Bittel stood like two beefy erasers at the end of the Bees' lineup, waiting to wipe out any mistakes made by their overshadowed teammates. But in beating Liverpool, 33-24, Wednesday, undefeated Baldwinsville displayed a sleeker, more even lineup able to strike for points any time.

"I think we're more of a team than we were last year," said the Bees' Todd Webb.

"This year it's like we have to push each other to win. Last year, we weren't together as a team."

The Bees' biggest sting this year is actually the smallest — 5-foot-1, 98-pounder Tojo Poole. Poole led off against the Warriors with a technical fall over Dan Dotterer, and 105-pounder Greg Tall followed with a pin of Jeff Winchell to give defending sectional champion Baldwinsville a 12-0 lead.

"Yeah, I was counting on 12 (points) for the first two, or we were in trouble," said Baldwinsville coach Terry Dillon.

Poole doesn't mind providing him with the points, just as long as people don't view him as another brick in The Wall, the nickname of Halpin and Bittel.

"It's very ironic. A lot of them kid me about my weight. 'Tojo, you wrestling 215?'" Poole said of taking charge of the team. "There's a lot of team chemistry. Everybody's pulling for each other. I like the leadership role. Usually, we (the lighter weights) try to snowball them. Six points. We needed six."

The Warriors, 7-4, crept to within 12-6 when Tom Stone pinned Jim Loffredo at 112. Stone was filling in for Tom Gorga, whom Liverpool coach Jack Williams has suspended for disciplinary reasons.

At 119, the Bees' depth showed. Undefeated Tom Ryan is out at least one week with a knee injury, but John Loffredo filled in capably by pinning the Warriors' Scott Gerharz and giving his team an 18-6 lead.

"It was tough without him (Ryan)," Loffredo said. "He's our best wrestler. The whole team had to pick up."

The middle weights were the ones crucial to the Warriors' hopes, and they began strong with Jamie Pellenz beating Dan Ryan at 126 and Brian McGraw edging Mike Barycki at 132. But though his team's deficit had been cut to 18-12, Williams was still uneasy.

"We needed to be a lot closer at that point," Williams said. "I knew we could win the last two (177 and heavyweight). We needed to be within 12 going into those two. At that point it would have taken a real upset to bring it within reach. The crucial weight classes, the ones we had a shot in, they won. In order to beat them, we needed a break."

None was forthcoming. At 138, Mike Clayton crushed Dan Murphy, 10-0, to give Baldwinsville a 22-12 lead. When Webb followed with a 5-0 tally over Ed Blanch at 145, Baldwinsville took command, 25-12.

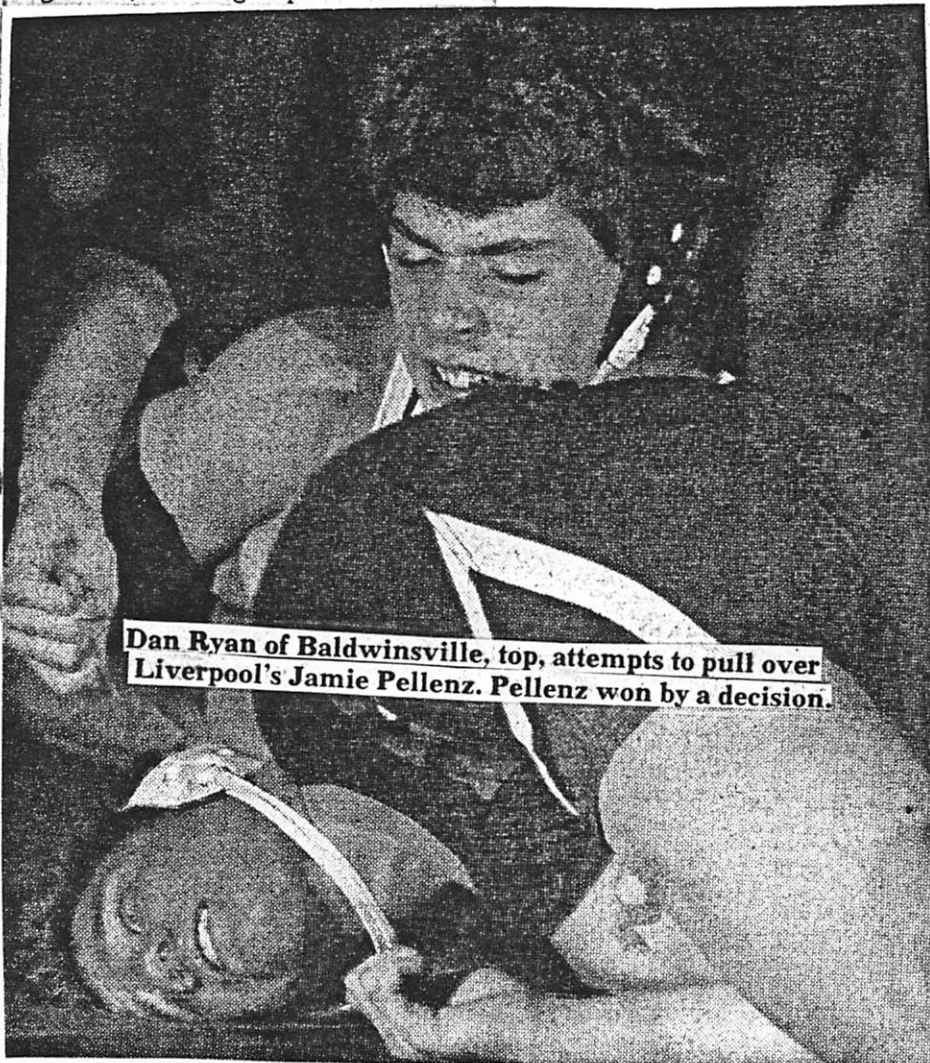

The match was Webb's first since suffering a shoulder injury before Christmas, and though he looked rusty at times, he showed flashes of talent that could someday fulfill Dillon's prediction of sectional championship contention for him.

"It (the left shoulder) felt OK. Being back out there was great," Webb said. "I was a little tired. I wasn't used to having the feel back again. I just thought I had to win. This was going to be a tough dual meet."

The Bees' Jeff Johnson opened the advantage to 28-12 by beating Mark LaFrance at 155. Bob Scherfling then clinched the meet with a win over Mike George at 167.

Ironically, the Warriors closed the scoring with easy wins from Chris D'Angelo at 177 and Shane Carni at heavyweight, two classes in which Baldwinsville hasn't surrendered many points during the last few years. But with his victory in hand and continuing dominance assured, Dillon wasn't complaining.

"We have a more balanced team this year. With the balance, all the kids can improve more," he said. "I think balance is a little more interesting as far as dual meets go. These are nice wins. Any time there's a challenge there, the kids get up."

Dan Ryan of Baldwinsville, top, attempts to pull over Liverpool's Jamie Pellenz. Pellenz won by a decision.

So. Jefferson Snaps B. River Streak at 73

By NEIL KERR

Key victories by Jeff LaFlamme at 132 pounds and Marshall Spies at 155 helped host South Jefferson post a 30-21 wrestling victory over traditional Frontier League power Beaver River Thursday night at South Jefferson, ending the second-longest dual meet winning streak in Section Three history at 73 matches.

Beaver River hadn't lost a match since 1982. There were two ties in the streak, to Watertown in 1982-83 and to South Jefferson in 1984-85.

LaFlamme earned a 2-1 victory over Brian Bush at 132, snapping a 12-12 deadlock and putting the Spartans in front to stay. Spies, at 155, increased the lead to 24-15 with a 9-5 upset of Shawn Rice. Heavyweight Lester Hobbs closed out Beaver River's final chance for a tie with a 9-7 victory over Dave Kloster. The winners, top-ranked in Section Three and No. 9-rated in the state poll, are 9-0 in dual meets. Beaver River slips to 6-1 for the season.

Elsewhere, senior 167-pounder Mike Aubel won his 120th career match, leading Lowville to a 50-19 defeat of Frontier League rival Watertown.

Aubel, an All-State football linebacker and son of Lowville wrestling coach Neil Aubel, posted his 17th win of the season by pinning Watertown's Tom Elliott in a 35-second.

Aubel is the winningest wrestler in Frontier League and school history. He's having exceeded the total of former school record-holder Andy Rice, who had 109 earlier this winter. Rice is currently a varsity 190-pound wrestler for Cornell University.

Lowville improved its dual meet record to 5-1 for the season.

Another member of the Section Three wrestling 100-wins club, defending sectional 91-pound champion Len Combs of Madison, earned his 105th career victory as the Blue Devils beat Westmoreland 66-5. It was the 105th career victory for Combs.

In the Onondaga High School League, Cicero-North Syracuse outwrestled Rome Free Academy 1-18. The Northstars were led by 119-pound Pat Fitch, who improved his record to 19-0 with a second-period pin, and 145-pound Brian Collins, who also scored a second-period pin. Collins is 18-2 for the season.

LaFayette, closing in on the Onondaga South title, improved to 6-0 in league dual action with a 35-12 victory over rival Tully. Achieving their 10th victories of the season for the Lancers were sophomore 126-pounder Matt Moyer, with a 13-0 decision, and freshman 138-pounder Tom Skinner, with a pin.

Wrestlers are fifth in Sherburne test

The Baldwinsville varsity wrestlers scored a fifth place finish in the field of 11 teams at the Sherburne Earlville Christmas Tournament. Leading the way in team scoring were downstate powers, Suffern (215 pts.) and Huntington (197). The field then was bunched up with Canandaigua 128, Unetago 124, Baldwinsville 118, Sherburne 114, and Jordan-Elbridge 112.

The Bees crowned two champions in one of the strongest tournaments in the state. Tojo Poole captured the 98-lb. championship. Tojo pinned in the preliminaries and quarter-finals. In the semi-finals, Tojo won a 5-0 decision and in the final won a 4-0 decision over a tough Suffern foe.

Tom Ryan won the 119-16 weight class by keeping all opponents scoreless going in to the finals. In the finals, Tom controlled his Canandaigua foe to a 4-2 decision and the championship.

Bob Scherfling (167 lbs.) won his first bout 4-2 over his Huntington adversary. In the semis, Bob lost to Thrope of Jordan-Elbridge (fourth in states) and came back to decision his Unetago foe 11-6 for a third place finish.

Greg Tall (105 lbs.) pinned his first opponent then lost to Len Combs (second in states). Greg lost in overtime in the consolation and had to settle for a fourth-place finish.

Dan Ryan (126 lbs.) pinned in the opening round (57 sec.) then lost a close 6-10 decision in the quarters. Dan went on to pin and win an 8-1 decision to gain a fifth-place finish.

Mike Barycki (132 lbs.) pinned in the prelims and lost 3-7 in the quarters. Mike came back with a pin in the consolations and a sixth-place finish.

Jack LePorte (155 lbs.) pinned his first adversary, then lost and came back with a victory in the consolations and a sixth-place finish.

At 250 lbs., Chris Wener opened up with a loss but came back with a 9-5 decision to gain a sixth-place finish.

Larry Tipper lost in his opening bout and came back with a pin but failed to place. Jeff Johnson (145 lbs.) lost by one point to the No. 1 seed of the tournament. Jeff came back with a pin in the consolations. Vic DeJohn lost in the opening round but came back to gain his first pin of his varsity career in the consolations. John Loffredo (112 lbs.) and Mark Young (177 lbs.) failed to place.

Vernon-Verona-Sherill was scheduled to invade the Bees on Tuesday, and B'ville will be traveling to Cicero-North Syracuse on Thursday to challenge for the league title.

Cali had a technical fall (16-0) and pins in the semi-finals and finals to be crowned the 91-lb. champion.

Dunkirk Program Down For The Count?

By TOM ROOF

Times Herald Sports Writer

It has been on the tightrope all season, but the Dunkirk High School wrestling team has yet to take a fall.

Oh, it has stumbled, but first-year coaches Dave Golando and Paul Csont have been there to pick it up. Still undetermined, though, is just how much longer the two will be breaking their backs trying to keep a struggling program from taking a final three-count.

Tuesday, Dunkirk postponed a Southern Tier Division II match with Salamanca, its third league postponement of the season, because only four wrestlers remained on a team that started the season with just 12.

The lack of able-bodied wrestlers is not uncommon, particularly this year, but the Dunkirk situation grew to the degree that Golando, Csont and athletic director Al Stuhlmiller huddled over the idea of cancelling the program for good.

"We gave it serious thought," said Csont, "but felt if we cancelled the rest of this season that would be the end of wrestling in Dunkirk. We didn't want that to happen."

Since Tuesday, three wrestlers have rejoined the team, giving Stuhlmiller hopes Dunkirk will be able to finish the season.

"I'm sure once we get through this season, we'll get the program back in order," Stuhlmiller said. "We're doing everything we can to finish this season, we're not giving up."

"There are a number of reasons why we're down this year," Stuhlmiller said.

Wrestling Notebook

HIGH SCHOOL WRESTLING POLL
The Times Herald weekly Big 30 high school wrestling rankings:

1. Ridgway	7	0	6
2. Brockway	6	1	0
3. Smethport	5	1	0
4. Salamanca	7	4	0
5. Ft. Allegany	6	3	0
6. Bradford	6	3	0
7. Allegany	6	0	0
8. Kane	4	2	0
9. Franklinville	4	2	0
10. Alfred-Alm.	7	1	0

Honorable mention (listed alphabetically): Johnsonburg (3-3-1), Kane (4-2), Pioneer (4-1), Portville (4-3), St. Marys Public (5-4).

"We lost 7-8 kids through graduation, went through a coaching change, and I believe the youth hockey program at Fredonia State has hurt us. A lot of young kids are spending their time there and aren't being exposed to wrestling."

The coaches have made several considerations to continue the program, most notably re-working a practice schedule around after-school work hours. "We're just doing whatever we can to keep wrestling going," Csont said.

OLEAN HIGH coach Jim Myers has plans for an eight-team dual tournament next season, a new trend that is becoming more and more popular.

Myers had hoped to begin the tournament this season, but because of a late start (May) in trying to attract teams, only Franklinville, Portville and Gowanda indicated an interest.

Unlike a regular tournament where individuals advance, entire teams advance in dual tourneys, giving everyone a chance to wrestle at least three times. Port Allegany and Salamanca have wrestled in similar tournaments this season.

"I like the idea where the entire team advances," Myers said. "This way it gives everyone on the team, even the kids that aren't as good as others, to advance. I've never been involved in one, but I think it would be a good way to go."

THE FIFTH annual Olean Archbishop Walsh Wrestling Tournament will be held Saturday in the school gym.

Nine teams will vie for the team title, including defending champion Jasper-Troupsburg, Walsh, Allegany, Cattaraugus, Alfred-Almond, Sheffield, Panama, Campbell and Lockport DeSales round out the field.

The double-elimination tourney will get under way at 10 a.m. with the consolation matches scheduled for 6 p.m., the finals for 7 p.m.

IT'S SHOW TIME: Ridgway and Brockway, ranked one-two in the Times Herald poll since the beginning of the year, square off tonight in Ridgway in what is expected to be the dual of the year.

Ridgway leads the series 15-12, winning five of the last six meetings — four by five points or less.

MAT MATTERS: A pair of Southern Tier Division II wrestlers, Maple Grove's Dave Albano (155) and Pat Nolan (unlimited), claimed titles at last weekend's Hilton Tournament. . . Kane has seemed to overcome its 52-15 pounding by Brockway two weeks ago, winning three straight since over Clarion, St. Marys Public and Coudersport. The loss to Brockway was Kane's worst since head coach Barry Johnson took charge in 1979. . . East Rochester (8-0) has moved up a notch to No. 1 in the Section 5 rankings, replacing Spencerport (4-0), which fell to third behind Brighton (5-2), Hilton (10-0) and Waterloo (7-0) round out the top five. . . Bradford High coach Dave Jones doesn't expect unbeaten 98-pounder Charlie Bay (8-0) back "for at least a few more weeks." Bay has been out of the lineup since Dec. 27 with mononucleosis. Too bad, tonight's Bradford-Oswayo Valley match would have pitted an interesting showdown between Bay and David Keach (14-1). . . The No. 1 and No. 2 ranked high school teams in the country, Cleveland St. Edwards and North Allegheny (Pa.), so ordained by Amateur Wrestling News, clashed recently in Lakewood, Ohio, with No. 2 North Allegheny winning 34-25 on a pin by 275-pound heavyweight Brian Piotrowski. The loss was the first for St. Edwards since 1981, a full 74 dual meets, and 79 tournaments ago. . .

The New York State Sports Writers Association mat rankings list Johnson City (Binghamton area) on top with a 10-0 record, followed by Glens Falls Queensbury (10-0). Spencerport is the top-ranked Section 5 team. In the No. 3 spot, while East Rochester is 8th, Rochester Brighton 10th, Hilton 11th and Royalton-Hartland 22nd.

Allegany Seeks Respect

By TOM ROOF

Times Herald Sports Writer

With Ridgway losing to Brockway, 24-21, last week in a showdown of the top two wrestling teams in the Big 30 rankings, the number of unbeaten was cut to one.

Remaining is Allegany, which boasts a 7-0 record with seven duals left. But let us not put numbers above logic. Despite its won-loss record, Allegany still has plenty to prove before it can join the ranks of Ridgway, Brockway, Smethport, Port Allegany and Salamanca.

There's no need to dig deep to find out why Allegany has failed to scale the TH rankings. Despite boasting several quality wrestlers in Ray Ryan, Mike Benca, Matt Lippert and Tom Langdon, Allegany has yet to meet the kind of competition worthy of replacing teams seeking tougher duals and tourneys.

Then, too, Allegany has yet to establish itself in a light tournament schedule, placing ninth at Roy-Hart, second in its own tourney, and third at Franklinville and Walsh.

Allegany's chance is coming, however. In February, Chuck Curley's club will take on improving Portville and Salamanca — both must wins for a program looking for recognition.

Leading Salamanca have been juniors Joel Minner (16-7) at 112, Eric Swiech (20-4) at 119, and Mike Warrior (15-8) at 132, and seniors Tom Mohr (14-3) at 167, Cary Hanson (12-4) and Jim Quinn (12-3-1) at 215 and 250, respectively.

Swiech, ranked fourth in WNY according to the Western New York Wrestling News, finds himself in a tough weight class with Roy-Hart's Nelson Colley and Athol Springs St. Francis' Rick Wall, both of whom placed ahead of Swiech in the Niagara Officials Tournament.

Quinn, ranked third, will find out where he stands with a potential matchup against No. 1 Chuck Nesbitt of Albion.

MAT MATTERS: In non-Big 30 tournament results last weekend, Lockport captured the team title at the 12-team Pavilion Tournament with Pavillon, Rochester McQuaid, Albion and Canisteo rounding out the top five. Newark, meanwhile, racked up 20 1/2 points — 6 1/2 more than Port Byron — to win its own 10-team gathering.

On the college side of wrestling, the 1988 NCAA championships — all 10 bouts — will be broadcast on tape delay March 19, a few hours after the completion of the tournament at Iowa State. While still not perfect, it's better than the butcherery given the tournament in previous years. ABC's decision last year to broadcast only five bouts live, including all the Iowa wrestlers, was a disaster.

HIGH SCHOOL WRESTLING POLL
 The Times Herald weekly Big 30 high school wrestling rankings:

Brockway	7	1	0	6	Bradford	8	3	0
Ridgway	7	1	0	7	Allegany	7	0	0
3.Smethport	7	2	0	8	Kane	5	2	0
4.Salamanca	7	5	0	9	Alf.-Alm.	9	1	0
5.Pt.Allegany	7	4	0	10	Franklinville	5	2	0

Honorable mention (listed alphabetically): Johnsonburg (4-3-1), Pioneer (5-1), St. Marys Public (6-4).

The 145-pound Ryan (18-0), meanwhile, is one of only seven undefeated wrestlers in the Big 30 with 10 or more matches, the others being: Alfred-Almond's Lanny Herrick (20-0) at 105, Randolph's Billy Young (19-0) at 132, Port Allegany's Dale Budd (17-0) and Brockway's Pete Varischetti (14-0) at 167, Coudersport's Tom Storey (12-0) at 185, and Johnsonburg's David Sallack (11-0) at heavyweight.

WITH ONLY four weeks remaining until the Section 6 state qualifier, there's good reason to keep a close eye on this weekend's 18-team Sweet Home Tournament, where eight of the top 10 ranked teams in Western New York will be banging heads.

Among them will be Salamanca, ranked 10th in WNY and fourth in this week's TH poll. Coach Rich Morton's team has had its problems this year and will head into the tournament with a 7-5 record, but Salamanca does have several individuals who could do well come post-season tournament time.

Just how well could be determined this weekend in a tourney that includes top-ranked Royalton-Hartland, No. 2 Southwestern (a 46-12 winner over Salamanca last Friday), and No. 3 Tonawanda.

NAVY'S TONY DICKINS, left, might have a leg up on Penn State's Jeff Dernlan, but Dernlan won the bout, 8-0

Chertow hopes to win crown by losing pounds

By DOUG McDONALD
Times Senior Sports Writer

• Everywhere Ken Chertow turns, he has a friend.

There's Jimmy Martin at 126 pounds and Jeff Dernlan at 134, down from 142.

Enter Chertow, wrestling for Penn State at 118 pounds for the first time since his freshman year.

The Nittany Lions will take on Cleveland State in Recreation Building today at 2 p.m. and Chertow is scheduled for the leadoff spot.

He has been at 134 most of the season, with the only 126-pound action coming at the Midlands Tournament in Evanston, Ill., late last month and the Lehigh, Navy, N.C. State and Maryland dual meets this month.

Martin has been at 126 most of the season, with the exception of the last four dual meets. He beat Chertow in the Midlands finals, 1-0, and once in the wrestling room prior to the Oklahoma dual meet Jan. 5.

"It's a combination thing," Chertow said before practice Thursday. "I want to win the NCAAs and I feel I can do that at 118. I could place at 134, but I couldn't win. I also want to help the team win the nationals."

Chertow, third in the '87 NCAAs at 126, said the two losses to Martin and the fact that Dernlan planned to drop a weight made for an awkward situation.

"I'm good friends with both guys," Chertow said. "I discussed the situation with Coach Lorenzo and he thought the idea (dropping to 118) was a good idea. I felt my best chance of winning nationals was at the lower weight although I feel I could place."

"I told my parents of my plans a few days after my discussion with Coach Lorenzo. My dad was very understanding. But he always moves such as underhooks and thought I was carrying around too much body fat, anyway. I love to eat.

"I weighed 142 shortly after last year's NCAA tournament. Now I'm living off-campus and that has helped. When I was living on-campus, you could always find me in the cafeteria. Right before the Midlands last month, I weighed about 136."

Chertow, who carries a 3.6 average (he's in pre-medicine), thrives on hard work.

When he's not lifting weights, he's running, and when he's not running, he's lifting weights. And when he's not doing either of those things, he's in the practice room going all-out for approximately two hours.

Between classes, he thinks nothing of a quick 45-minute workout.

And after studying late at night, it's nothing for Ken Chertow to run or ride the stationary bike in an effort to keep his weight under control.

"I'm carrying a lighter scholastic load now," Chertow said. "I'm right on schedule with my major courses. This is the best time of my life. There's the NCAAs and the Olympics. This is the time to produce."

Coach Rich Lorenzo of Penn State said Chertow is doing a good job "attacking his fat."

Added Lorenzo: "He drinks a lot of fluids. He wants to burn up that extra fat. He's a hard worker, though. It's tough to keep him out of the practice room."

"He wants to win the nationals so bad. I'm sure he could place at 134, but to him that's like not showing up. He's struggling right now but he'll make it. What he's doing will make the team stronger, too."

Chertow, if you can imagine, says he's excited about the challenge of wrestling again at 118 (actually, at the weigh-in today the limit will be 120 because wrestlers get a two-pound allowance in January; tomorrow, though, it will be one pound, and then for the EWL tourney in early March and the NCAAs March 17, it will be scratch weight).

"I'll be pumped," he said. "I think it's a blessing in disguise. I feel quicker. I certainly don't feel any weaker. I just want to pound away on the Cleveland State guy. I want to give the team a boost right from the start."

"I want to peak for the big competitions. Then when I taper off, and I don't do that very often, I'll really be psyched."

There are those who question whether Chertow's style, which consists primarily of upper body moves such as underhooks and throws, will work against the lightning-quick 118-pounders, who usually rely heavily on the single- and double-leg takedowns.

"I'll be the same size as these guys now," he said. "I'll just have to bend my knees more and force the action. Heck, I won't change my style."

Chertow, who practically wrestles 12 months a year because of a strong commitment to freestyle wrestling in the summer, has taken nutrition courses and is very familiar with diet.

"The coaching staff has been very helpful," Chertow explained. "John Fritz and Hachiro Oishi (assistant coaches) are always there if I need them for an extra workout or what have you."

"Right now I'm eating probably anywhere between 1,000 to 1,500 calories a day. Then by Friday and Saturday, I'll cut back."

"I never really thought about wrestling at 118. But right around the time of the Virginia Duals my thinking changed. I just had a body-fat test. I haven't received the test results, but I'd say it's about 5 percent. I can remember when it was 10 to 12 percent."

He said he remembers reading in the CDT that it's unfortunate that the two lightweights (Chertow and Martin) are teammates.

"I don't agree with that at all," he said. "I think we've helped each other improve. Jimmy pushes me and vice versa. We're good friends. I don't think there's anybody on the team that works harder than Jimmy and myself. Being teammates has made us both better and that's going to pay off."

Chertow said that he wanted to be at 133 before practice Friday afternoon and 127 at the end of drills.

He planned a workout yesterday morning and then another one later on. By then, he hoped to be within striking range of 120.

"I'll probably be a pound over Sunday (today)," he said. "We weigh in at 9. That won't be any problem."

Red Raiders pin 1st loss on Bees

By Donna Ditota
Staff Writer

In 1980, Mike Conners graduated from Baldwinville High School as a member of a Bees wrestling dynasty that had captured three state titles.

Saturday night, Conners returned to his hometown as the Fulton High School coach, one of the Bees' most bitter rivals.

But before Conners and his Red Raiders took the floor against the Bees, the first-year Fulton coach hosted a unique homecoming celebration.

"The team went to my parents' house in Baldwinville and I opened up the fireplace, took my Baldwinville coat and threw it in," Conners said. "I told them, 'I'm a Red Raider now.'"

"The kids just went nuts." Fulton carried the craziness into the match itself, building a 14-3 lead before pinning the Bees, 31-12. The win raised the Red Raiders' record to 12-1, and boosted its reputation as one of Section with Fulton wins.

Before Saturday, Baldwinville was unbeaten at 11-0.

"We knew we were the better team," said Fulton's Rick Pawlewicz. "It just came down to who ever wanted it more."

"I thought we were the underdogs," Bees coach Terry Dillon said. "I thought we'd have to pull a couple of upsets to beat them."

ANY THOUGHTS Baldwinville harbored about an upset dissolved when Fulton's Jim DeCare pinned the Bees' Vic DeJohn 46 seconds into their 177-pound match. DeCare's pin gave the Red Raiders an insurmountable 27-12 lead with just one match remaining.

"When I got out there, I just wanted to win," DeCare said. "But then, I just go so psyched I said, 'Hell, I'm going for the pin.'"

When he got it, a wave of Fulton fans roared on the far sideline. Soon, strains of "It's all over," thundered through the steamy Baldwinville gym. In all, about 1,500 raucous fans packed the gymnasium, sending the room temperature soaring.

The crowd, fairly equally divided between Baldwinville and Fulton faithful, watched Fulton mount a 14-3 lead through the first five matches. Tojo Poole, the Bees' stalwart 98-pounder, earned the only Baldwinville win in that stretch, scoring a 6-0 decision over Jim Flynn to improve to 22-1 this year.

But Fulton quickly countered with wins by Greg Firenze at 105, Rick Pawlewicz at 112, Dan Pawlewicz at 119 and Chad Sheldon at 126.

When Baldwinville finally halted the stream of Red Raiders' points, it did so in a controversial 132-pound match involving the Bees' Mike Barycki and Fulton's Dan Kidd.

KIDD HELD A 6-0 lead after two periods, but Barycki rallied in the third to tie the match at 6-6. He often earned a point when Kidd was penalized for stalling, but Conners argued the point after time had run out. Amid scattered boos and general confusion, the score stood and Baldwinville trailed, 14-6.

The Bees then rallied to take the next two matches to claw to within 14-12.

"It was closer than we expected then," Rick Pawlewicz said. "We were all getting worried, but we thought our heavyweights could pull it out for us."

Pawlewicz' predictions proved prophetic. The Red Raiders would not lose another match, as Tony Potante, Dave Wise, DeCare and Todd Gregory closed out the night with Fulton wins.

"I'm just disappointed," Dillon said. "I thought with the kids we have, we could have done better. I just seemed like we were a little flat, but Mike Conners had his kids prepared well."

THE WIN SOFTENED the blow of Fulton's early-season loss to Vernon-Verona-Sherrill, the sole blemish on the Red Raiders' record. Conners said the coaching transition at Fulton could have played a part in the early loss. Conners took over for longtime Red Raiders coach Wayne Bleau, after Bleau retired this year.

"You come in for a legend and try to change shop, and you just can't do it," Conners said. "That's all that was, coaching transition."

Athletic Conference. 2-4-88
It brought out what has been known for years but barely publicized — that wrestling in the PSAC is quite good. Of course, there's a catch. The consistently good teams are Lock Haven, Clarion, Bloomsburg and Edinboro and sometimes Slippery Rock, Millersville and East Stroudsburg. The others haven't made the commitment and aren't nearly as competitive.

Iowa Coach Dan Gable was quoted as saying that he has difficulty coming into the state and plucking out talent because the talent likes to stay home.

It was also cited, however, that because the talent stays home yet spreads out that a conference school likely won't win a national championship. If a Pennsylvania school is to dethrone one of the Midwestern powers it likely will be Penn State, the article said.

The four PSAC powers are also members of the Eastern Wrestling League — Edinboro will join officially next season — which means that they go head-to-head with Penn State in the national qualifying tournament. Although Penn State has dominated the EWL, parity seems to be slowly making progress throughout the rest of the league. And that's good for the league and good for Penn State.

Penn State turned in one of its sharper wrestling performances on Sunday against Cleveland State. 2-4-88

Ken Chertow and Jim Martin make a great one-two punch at the beginning of the Lions' lineup. Since Chertow disagreed with a recent CDT column (mine) that said it was unfortunate that the two lightweights were at the same weight class (126), allow me to amend that by saying that it's admirable that Chertow was willing to make even more of a commitment to the sport and lose eight more pounds. Actually, it seems to be a team chock full of class kids.

And it's a team that will be tested severely this weekend with matches at Iowa and Iowa State Saturday and Sunday. One win would be a tremendous boost to a team that has started out rather slowly.

Salamanca Surprises in Sweet Home Mat Tourney

By MIKE HARRINGTON

Although No. 1 Roy-Hart emerged a decisive winner, the team that may have benefited most from Saturday's Sweet Home Wrestling Invitational was Salamanca.

The Warriors finished fourth with 131½ points and the performance catapulted them from 10th to sixth in this week's Western New York Wrestling News/Coaches' Poll.

Roy-Hart won the meet with 204, followed by No. 2 Southwestern (166½) and No. 3 Tonawanda (146½).

A crowd of about 3,000 attended the tournament, which saw the championships of nine of the 14 weight classes match ranked wrestlers. A trio of No. 1 seeds were upset — two by Salamanca wrestlers.

The Warriors had two first-place finishes, a second and four fourths. The performance is significant since Salamanca graduated seven seniors from last year's second-ranked contingent.

"Our goal at Sweet Home was the top five," said Salamanca Coach Rich Morton. "We hadn't got a lot of top rankings even though we had done well in other meets. We're not a Roy-Hart or a Southwestern or even Tonawanda, but we held our own."

Salamanca has a wide range of experience on its roster, starting with seventh-grader Shane Leder, who finished fourth at 91 pounds. On the other end of the spectrum are seniors Jim Quinn, a winner at 250, and Tom Mohr, who was fourth at 155.

"It's tough enough to get a team to jell when they're all the same age," said Morton. "But this group is coming together even though they're so different. Some are driving cars and some are 'nursing the bottle,' so to speak, but they're all rooting for each other."

Other Warriors who placed were sophomore Steve Felt (second at 119), junior Eric Swiech (a winner at 126 over No. 1 Nelson Colley of Roy-Hart), junior Mike Warrior (fourth at 132) and junior Joe Minner, a second-year wrestler who was fourth at 112.

Perhaps Salamanca's biggest victory was at 126, where Swiech moved from a tie for fourth to a tie for second in the individual rankings with a 6-1 victory. Colley went to the state meet two years ago at 91 and Swiech was second in last year's sectional meet. Either might be the sectional favorite if he drops to 119.

At 250, Quinn overcame a 35-pound disadvantage to defeat Albion's Chuck Nesbitt, 8-0, in overtime.

"He (Quinn) moves real well on his feet for a big kid," said Morton. "He's not 'roly-poly' at all. He's well-built, but he's no Atlas. In fact, he had to drink water to make the 215-minimum to wrestle in that weight class."

Quinn had an 8-3 lead late in the third period before Nesbitt rallied with a reversal in the final 15 seconds to forge an 8-3 tie. But in the overtime, Quinn used his quickness for a pair of takedowns and Nesbitt never recovered.

"Quinn was really ready for that match. We figured his mobility could beat Nesbitt," said Morton. "You can't tie him up, so a big kid like Nesbitt can't bear hug him with the weight advantage."

Ironically, Quinn and Nesbitt also met on the football field at Rich Stadium in the Section VI Federation Class B-2 championship last November. Both were lineman and often lined up against each other on either side of the ball. Albion won the game, 15-8, to clinch the

No. 1 ranking in The News Poll and the State Sports-writers Association rankings.

In battles involving No. 1 and No. 2 individuals, No. 1 Rob Jaquin (Roy-Hart) fell to Williamsville South's Chris Kumrow at 91, 13-2, and No. 1 Bob Jackson (Sweet Home) held off Jim Schuetz of Tonawanda, 4-2, at 98.

In other matches, Sweet Home's Tom Shifflet edged Orchard Park's Brian Sartori, 5-3, at 132 after Sartori had won his first three matches by a combined total of 25-0.

At 138, Paul Horn of Orchard Park moved down from 145 to upset No. 3 Mark Baehr of Roy-Hart, 5-4, on a last-minute reversal.

Another upset came at 155, where Medina's Don Lotz stunned top-seeded Kevin Roe of Tonawanda with a pin in the semifinals. Niagara-Wheatfield's Grady Peterson took advantage of Roe's absence to defeat Lotz in the championship by a technical fall at 4:30.

Albion's Nesbitt also made news this week off the wrestling mat with the announcement that he has made a verbal commitment to play football at the University of Maryland next season.

The 6-3½, 251-pound offensive lineman was a first-team All-Western New York selection this season after spearheading the Albion ground attack. Led by first-team All-WNY running back Bray Nauden, the Purple Eagles finished the season 10-0.

"Chuck really liked the academic situation there," said Albion Coach Dick Diminuco. "The monitoring of student-athletes is much stronger since the Len Bias thing, and Chuck's father liked that also."

Bias, the former Terrapins basketball star, died nearly two years ago after using cocaine in a Maryland dorm. In the resulting furor, the school's academic standards for athletes were re-evaluated and basketball coach Lefty Driesell resigned.

Nesbitt, who scored more than 1,100 on his Scholastic Aptitude Test, will sign his letter of intent on Feb. 10, the first day of the signing period for football recruits. He also considered Division I-AA Northeastern.

He is the second Albion player to sign with a Division I-A school in Diminuco's nine years as a coach. The other was Johnny Greer, who currently plays fullback at Temple. Quarterback Ken Burke, a 1983 Albion graduate, played at Division I-AA Western Carolina.

Tonight's high school wrestling schedule should have something for everyone. 2-4-88
 West Branch-Penns Valley should be quite competitive and Philipsburg-Osceola and Bellefonte should attract a fair amount of fans for that local rivalry. But Bald Eagle and Lock Haven, in the match at Wingate, without a doubt will be the best.

If Lock Haven's Steve Krouse and BEA's Doug Taylor match up tonight at 126 and remain at the same weight in the postseason tournaments, they could be wrestling each other all the way to Hersheypark in mid-March.

Neil Turner didn't receive much support from his fellow Pennsylvania State Athletic Conference coaches at Bloomsburg last week.

As a result, the 46th annual PSAC Wrestling Tournament will be held at Edinboro late next January.

And Turner says his crusade to stop the prestigious event will stop, too.

"The majority of the coaches want to continue the tournament," Turner of Lock Haven University said earlier in the week.

Turner's proposal called for discontinuing the annual 12-team event because of several reasons — duplication of matches, extra recruiting pressures and the increased chance of injuries.

Lock Haven, Bloomsburg and Clarion belong to the PSAC as well as the Eastern Wrestling League. The EWL holds its NCAA qualifying tournament in early March, with the top 39 advancing to the NCAAs. Edinboro will join the EWL next season.

"I can see why there there wasn't much support," Turner said. "The EWL is strictly a wrestling conference whereas the PSAC calls for championships in all sports. The coaches felt that there should be a championship in wrestling. We used to hold the PSACs the second week in February. Now it's the last weekend in January.

"I was surprised, though, that my proposal didn't receive much support, not even from the PSAC teams that belong to the EWL.

"Most of the feedback dealt with the fact that the tournament is important to the wrestler within the PSAC. For them, it's their season. Another coach said it was important recruiting tool.

"But Lock Haven is still going to treat it like the Mat-Town Tournament or something of that nature. We're still committed to the EWL.

"As far as I'm concerned, it's a dead issue. I know I won't bring up the idea (of discontinuing the PSAC tourney) again.

"What I'd like to see now, though, would be to have all the teams enter full teams. Some only enter four or five. Now that they've indicated they want to have the tournament, I'd like to see all the teams at least enter a full team.

"Eventually, I would think IUP and West Chester will be reinstated. Right now they don't have wrestling."

Lock Haven finished ahead of Bloomsburg and Edinboro and won its first PSAC title since 1970 Saturday night. The Bald Eagles, ranked sixth nationally and No. 1 in the East, sent six into the finals and came out with two champions. They placed nine wrestlers out of 10.

East Stroudsburg qualifies for the NCAAs through the EIWA tourney while Slippery Rock, Kutztown, Millersville, Edinboro and Shippensburg advance through the East Regional.

California, Mansfield and Cheyney are NCAA Division II schools.

Meanwhile, Coach Bob Bubb of Clarion had a front-row seat for Tuesday's National Wrestling Coaches Association All-Star Classic at Cedar Falls, Iowa. He and Dan Gable of Iowa, were two of the four coaches on the sidelines at the University of Northern Iowa Dome for the 22nd annual event.

"It was a good meet," Bubb said. "It might have been one of the best All-Star matchups I've seen in a long time. I wouldn't be surprised to see some of the same matchups at the nationals school match in the area and PBS televised the All-Star meet. I don't know if it was live or delayed but PBS was there. Next year's NWCA All-Star meet is tentative... They (the NWCA) needed 1,500 to break it up, which was a disappointment, according to Bubb. "But there was a big high house."

PSU wrestlers surprise No. 2 Iowa

Looking back, though, we lost to two NCAA champs (Penrith and Alger). The key is to build on this win. Today was just a stepping stone to the nationals, and that's all.

WRESTLING

Penn State's five returning All-Americans won only two of five bouts yesterday, but inexperienced underclassmen Jeff Dernlan and Rob Meloy delivered the knockout blows as the Nittany Lion wrestlers ambushed second-ranked Iowa at Carver-Hawkeye Arena, 19-18.

The loss snapped Iowa's home winning streak at 46. "It feels good right now," Coach Rich Lorenzo of Penn State said. "Actually, we had a great effort from top to bottom. But the keys had to be 134 and 142. Our guys were hungry. They had read about Iowa's 46-match winning streak at home. Before hand, I felt that we could beat them because we did match up well. We match up differently, though, against Iowa State. But I just hope the veterans learn from their mistakes today and the young kids keep going."

Penn State will take a 9-4-1 record into today's 4 p.m. match against the Cyclones in Ames, the site of next month's NCAA tournament. The loss, Iowa's first since it dropped a 22-18 decision at Arizona State in December, will take a 13-2 mark into today's double-header against Michigan State and Ohio State.

Dan Gable of the Hawkeyes has lost only 11 dual meets in his 12-year coaching and two of them have come in the last 14 months. State beat the Big 10 power last season in Recreation Building. Oklahoma State defeated Iowa back-to-back in 1983 and 1984.

Asked if the one-point victory ranked pretty high on his list of favorites, Lorenzo replied: "Yes, this year. Coach Gable had said beforehand that he wasn't a revengeful man. But this isn't the same Iowa team as last year. The same applies to Penn State. But we have to put this match into proper perspective. It's not going to get us any points at the national tournament. But it's just nice to beat a team the caliber of Penn State, which still trails the series, finished the meet with an 18-17 edge in takedowns. Dernlan, redshirt freshman, knocked off Joe Melchiorre at 134, 8-4, scoring a takedown and back points in the last three seconds. Melchiorre, who transferred from Oklahoma where he earned All-America honors, had a 3-2 lead after two periods, thanks to two escapes and a penalty point. But a reversal by Dernlan, an escape and then the four-point move ended the scoring.

Dernlan, who had been at 142, dropped to 134 a week ago and was pinned by Cleveland State's Guy Sako. Meloy, meanwhile, provided the shocker, decking freshman Eric Pierson in 1:47. Meloy, bothered by injuries most of his career, moved back into the lineup last Sunday and drew with CSU's Dave Zahoransky, also a former All-American.

Meloy pancaked Pierson twice and had a 4-1 lead before his fall made it 13-3. Pierson made a mistake the first time and Meloy let him off the hook," Lorenzo said. "The next time Meloy stuck him with a body press. His confidence is on the rise."

Gable, who one observer said was pounding on a table at a post-match press conference, said about Pierson: "Sure, he was on his back, but there is a technique in wrestling called bridging."

The Lions didn't clinch the victory until Andy Voit overcame a 6-3 deficit to beat Brooks Simpson at 190, 8-7. That made it 19-12. Voit escaped in the last period and then got two takedowns, the last one coming in the late stages. The last takedown wiped out a possible riding point that would have tied the match. At the same time, Voit had to maintain control to protect his lead.

"I have no excuses this time," Gable said. "If we don't have that kind of stuff (aggressiveness) at this point we are not going to score many points at the NCAAs. You've gotta fight. That's the name of the game. We very easily could have sneaked out of this. But you don't win in the next month without being aggressive."

"I tried not to play this match up too much because I didn't want Penn State to get too cocky. They have not been that great a team this year but I still thought it would be a battle. It was — on their side.

I knew they were pretty good although I don't think they thought they were. I didn't want them to know that I thought they were good, but that strategy backfired," Gable said.

Other key contributions for Penn State were made by Ken Chertow at 118 and Mark Sidorick at 167. Chertow scored a major decision over Steve Martin, 13-5. Chertow had five takedowns and 1:46 time advantage for 11 of his points. "That was important because of the bonus point," Lorenzo said. "Kenny looked sharp and wrestled his match."

Sidorick beat Bart Cheloesvig, a true freshman, 11-5, scoring four takedowns and 2:19 time advantage for nine of his points. Gable weighed in two wrestlers at 167 — Cheloesvig, who is nursing an injured hand, and Scott Williamson. Gable had said beforehand that Williamson would replace Cheloesvig, but with the closeness of the match he went with the freshman from Webster City, Iowa.

Iowa's big guns — Brad Penrith and Royce Alger — stopped Penn State's Jim Martin and Dan Mayo at 126 and 177, respectively, for the first time this season. Penrith beat Martin (that series stands at 1-1-1 this season) by a 9-4 count, while Alger beat Mayo, 6-5. Both Martin and Mayo were undefeated going into yesterday's action at Iowa City.

Penrith, who drew with Martin Tuesday night in Cedar Falls, Iowa (NCWA All-Star Classic), replaced the Lion redshirt junior as the No. 1 126-pounder with yesterday's victory.

Penrith scored in clusters of two (three takedowns and a reversal) and piled up 2:30 time advantage. Martin had said before the All-Star match that Penrith's strength was the top position and that he couldn't waste any time on the bottom.

In the Mayo-Alger bout, Alger scored two takedowns and two escapes while Mayo managed a takedown and three escapes.

"Danny wrestled Alger's match," Lorenzo said disappointedly. In other bouts, Mike Carpenter of Iowa beat Sean Finkbeiner at 150, 8-6, on the strength of three takedowns, and teammate John Hefferman downed Mark Shafranich at 158, 9-4. In the final bout, Mark Sindlinger took Marc Padwe twice before pinning the Lion freshman in 54 seconds.

"When we won at 134 and 142," Lorenzo said, "that gave us a boost. But then we took a step back at 150."

IOWA'S STREAK

Iowa had never before lost a wrestling match at Carver-Hawkeye Arena. Here is a year-by-year breakdown of Iowa's record at Carver which was built in 1983:

Year	Won	Lost	Draw
1985	8	0	0
1986	10	0	0
1987	7	9	?
Total	46	1	0

favorites, Lorenzo replied: "Yes, this year. Coach Gable had said beforehand that he wasn't a revengeful man. But this isn't the same Iowa team as last year. The same applies to Penn State. But we have to put this match into proper perspective. It's not going to get us any points at the national tournament. But it's just

Cyclones take 19-13 win from Lions

It was theirs for the taking but the Nittany Lions handed it back to Iowa State on a silver platter.

Trailing most of the way, Iowa State finally grabbed the lead at 190 pounds and heavyweight Andy Cope tacked on three insurance points as the Cyclones edged Penn State at the Hilton Coliseum in Ames yesterday, 19-13.

"We let it get away," Rich Lorenzo, Penn State's disappointed coach, said last night. "We should have won. We didn't fight. We weren't as hungry as Saturday (when the Lions edged Iowa at Iowa City, 19-18, snapping their 46-home match winning streak at Carver-Hawkeye Arena).

"Heck, we were the favorite at 158, 167 and 177 and we came out 0-1-2. Mark Sidorick fought like the devil at 167. We were going for the win. We gave up the escape to Jeff Kelly (which broke a 7-7 tie in the last period). We needed a takedown because Iowa State had Eric Voelker and Andy Cope waiting in the wings (at 190 and heavyweight, respectively)."

At 158, Iowa State used Murray Anderson, a 142-pounder, in place of the suspended Bill Tate (pulled hamstring) and he managed a tie with Mark Shafranich, 1-1.

At 167, Kelly and Sidorick each scored two takedowns and three escapes, but a penalty point in the second period against the Lion junior redshirt made the difference.

Kelly had a 7-4 lead after two periods and that's when Sidorick got the escape and a takedown to tie the bout temporarily.

Then at 177, Dan Mayo of the Lions drew with Mike VanArsdale, 1-1, as they traded escapes. Mayo had beaten VanArsdale in the National Wrestling Coaches Association All-Star Classic at Cedar Falls, Iowa, Tuesday night, 4-2.

Iowa State, which defeated Michigan Saturday night, 19-15, will take a 16-3 record to Oklahoma next weekend while the Lions (9-5-1) will travel to Clarion Friday night.

Penn State's winners were Kenny Chertow at 118, Jimmy Martin at 126 and Rob Meloy at 142.

Chertow beat Gary McCall, 9-3, scoring a takedown in each period and 2:28 time advantage for seven of his points. McCall beat Dan Knight in eliminations late last week to get the 118-pound job.

Martin, meanwhile, got the takedown in the last period to beat Steve Knight, 4-3. Knight, who had a career mark of 19-12 at Iowa before transferring, scored first with the takedown. Martin, who lost for the first time this season Saturday (9-4 to Brad Penrith), escaped twice before getting the winning takedown.

Meloy, who was 2-0 on the trip (along with Chertow), scored two takedowns and two escapes to beat Joe Ghezzi, who escaped twice and reversed once, 6-4. Meloy's win made it 9-3 in favor of the Lions, who trail the Cyclones by a 7-3 margin in the series.

At 134, Jeff Gibbons of Iowa State beat Jeff Dernlan, 2-0, escaping in the last period and tacking on a time point for 1:55 advantage. Dernlan scored an 8-4 win Saturday.

At 150, Tim Krieger of Iowa State, defending NCAA champion, manhandled Sean Finkbeiner, 6-0. Krieger had a takedown, reversal, a penalty point and 4:47 time advantage.

Voelker, the reigning NCAA champion, had three of his team's 10 takedowns (one in each period) to beat Andy Voit, 8-2. Voelker is 3-0-1 combined against Voit in 1987 (6-4 at the Mat-Town USA Tournament) and '88 (1-1 dual meet at Recreation Building and 5-2 at the NCAA quarterfinals in College Park, Md.).

Cope then scored two takedowns to beat Marc Padwe, 5-3. It was Cope who beat Penn State's Greg Haladay, 2-1, in last year's dual meet won by the Lions, 19-15.

Yesterday's match was strange in that no back points were scored by either team. Penn State had only eight takedowns and both teams combined for only 74 bout points (7.4 per bout).

"We should have returned from this trip with two wins," Lorenzo said, "and that's what makes it frustrating. We had to take them at 158, 167 and 177.

"We did a good job keeping the crowd out of the match. I think they were still shell-shocked from the Iowa match a couple of weeks ago where they VanArsdale, Voelker and Cope coming up and lost at Iowa City.

"We just weren't hungry enough today. We didn't take it to them. Some of the guys were more concerned about keeping it close and not giving up bonus points.

"After 150, I felt we were in pretty good shape. The worst thing that could have happened was a tie.

"I'm sure when we return home a lot of people will figure Penn State (ranked 11th in one poll and ninth in another) did well against No. 5 Iowa State. But we should have won today. We need 100 percent from all 10 guys. We got it from some of the guys, but not everybody, and that's discouraging.

"The lightweights and Sidorick and Padwe wrestled well. Now we have to go back to the drawing board and get ready for Clarion.

"We're off-course right now, but we'll be back."

Coach Gibbons had special praise for Anderson, who took a 16-3 hammering at the hands of Joe Pantaleo Saturday night, plus Voelker and Krieger.

"Eric and Tim dominated ranked opponents," concluded Gibbons.

In one exhibition bout yesterday, Tim Wittman of the Lions beat Tom Frederick at 150, 10-5.

At Iowa City yesterday, Iowa bounced back to beat winless Michigan State, 32-15, and Ohio State, 28-10. Double-winners for the Hawkeyes were Steve Martin at 118, Brad Penrith at 126, Joe Melchiorre at 134, Mike Carpenter at 150, John Heffernan at 158 and Royce Alger at 177.

Brooks Simpson of the Hawks (at 190) was pinned by Dave Mariola and dropped a 16-4 decision to OSU's Mark Coleman. Eric Pierson went 0-2 at 142.

Brockway: District 9 Favorite?

By TOM ROOF

Times Herald Sports Writer

The season has gone "better than expected," but coach John Bernardo's Brockway High School wrestling team isn't through throwing its weight around. And when it does... 2-11-88

Boasting a 10-1 record with eight straight wins, Brockway is just now beginning to pick up steam, winning its last four matches in impressive fashion over previously undefeated Ridgway (24-21), Brookville (30-21), DuBois High (39-13) and St. Marys Public (38-15).

Still, this is a team that has yet to reach its potential, according to Bernardo, whose powerhouse is the early favorite to hoist this year's District 9 Class AA Tournament crown.

"I'm real happy with the season so far," said Bernardo, whose career record reads 163-49-7. "We have an exceptional group of kids. I thought we'd be good, but not as good as we are right now. Still, I don't think we have yet reached our potential. Our kids in the middle are good one time and not the next. We're not getting the consistency there we'd like."

Ranked No. 1 in the Times Herald Big 30 poll for the third straight week, Brockway has had difficulty from 119 to 132 - not enough though to upset the makings of what could be Bernardo's best team ever. 2-11-88

"Two years ago we had a group that went 14-2 (school record for wins), but I think this team is just a little more powerful ability wise," Bernardo said. "The seniors we have now were sophomores on that team. They're a good group... they're just good athletes."

A group of five seniors - Mike Pisarchick, Pete Varischetti, Scott Carr, John Carlson and Bob Ishman - along with junior Ed Miller are looking to give Brockway its first district title since 1983.

Varischetti (60-19-1 career) remains the only unbeaten with a 17-0 record, no surprise considering older brothers, Frank and Steve, were district champions - Steve being Brockway's only two-time champ with titles in 1980 and '81.

Pisarchick, meanwhile, is 16-1, and became Brockway's all-time career win leader (84-15-1) Tuesday, breaking the mark of 1980 graduate Dave Cilladi, Bernardo's only state placewinner. The senior's lone loss came 6-4 to Latrobe's highly regarded Duke Reed in the finals of the Blairsville Tournament.

Miller is 15-2, losing only 4-3 to Ridgway's Gary Weber and to Derry's Tom Smith, ranked second at 185 in the WPIAL Class AAA rankings. Carr is 15-2-1, Carlson 11-5-1 and Ishman 13-4.

"You look at that group and that's where we've been consistent," Bernardo said. "If we can get everyone going in the same direction at the same time, then we'll be super as a team... and I'm hoping that will happen in the district tournament since that's the ultimate goal of any season."

District runners-up the last two years, Brockway won't have it easy with Ridgway, Brookville and Johnsonburg reaching for the same goal. But Bernardo is looking at having a stronger lineup once everyone settles into their post-season weights. 2-11-88

"We're anticipating everyone from 126 and up to move down," he said. "But that's something we don't force the kids to do. All we try to do is to make them understand what is best for the team and what is best for them. And these kids know well enough what their limits are."

Red Raiders pin 1st loss on Bees

By Donna Ditota
Staff Writer

In 1980, Mike Conners graduated from Baldwinsville High School as a member of a Bees wrestling dynasty that had captured three state titles.

Saturday night, Conners returned to his hometown as the Fulton High School coach, one of the Bees' most bitter rivals.

But before Conners and his Red Raiders took the floor against the Bees, the first-year Fulton coach hosted a unique homecoming celebration.

"The team went to my parents house in Baldwinsville and opened up the fireplace, took my Baldwinsville coat and threw it in," Conners said. "I told them, 'I'm a Red Raider now.'"

"The kids just went nuts," Fulton carried the craziness into the match itself, building a 14-3 lead before pinning the Bees, 31-12. The win raised the Red Raiders' record to 12-1, and boosted its reputation as one of Section with Three's finest wrestling talents.

Before Saturday, Baldwinsville was unbeaten at 11-0.

"We knew we were the better team," said Fulton's Rick Pawlewicz. "It just came down to who ever wanted it more."

"I thought we were the underdogs," Bees coach Terry Dillon said. "I thought we'd have to pull a couple of upsets to beat them."

ANY THOUGHTS Baldwinsville harbored about an upset dissolved when Fulton's Jim DeCare pinned the Bees' Vic DeJohn 46 seconds into their 177-pound match. DeCare's pin gave the Red Raiders an insurmountable 27-12 lead with just one match remaining.

"When I got out there, I just wanted to win," DeCare said. "But then, I just go so psyched I said, 'Hell, I'm going for the pin.'"

When he got it, a wave of Fulton fans roared on the far sideline. Soon, strains of "It's all over," thundered through the steamy Baldwinsville gym. In all, about 1,500 raucous fans packed the gymnasium, sending the room temperature soaring.

The crowd, fairly equally divided between Baldwinsville and Fulton faithful, watched Fulton mount a 14-3 lead through the first five matches. Tojo Poole, the Bees' stalwart 98-pounder, earned the only Baldwinsville win in that stretch, scoring a 6-0 decision over Jim Flynn to improve to 22-1 this year.

But Fulton quickly countered with wins by Greg Firenze at 105, Rick Pawlewicz at 112, Dan Pawlewicz at 119 and Chad Sheldon at 126.

When Baldwinsville finally halted the stream of Red Raiders' points, it did so in a controversial 132-pound match involving the Bees' Mike Barycki and Fulton's Dan Kidd.

KIDD HELD A 6-0 lead after two periods, but Barycki rallied in the third to tie the match at 6-6. He then earned a point when Kidd was penalized for stalling, but Conners argued the point after time had run out. Amid scattered boos and general confusion, the score stood and Baldwinsville trailed, 14-6.

The Bees then rallied to take the next two matches to claw to within 14-12.

"It was closer than we expected then," Rick Pawlewicz said. "We were all getting worried, but we thought our heavyweights could pull it out for us."

Pawlewicz' predictions proved prophetic. The Red Raiders would not lose another match, as Tony Potante, Dave Wise, DeCare and Todd Gregory closed out the night with Fulton wins.

"I'm just disappointed," Dillon said. "I thought with the kids we have, we could have done better. I just seemed like we were a little flat, but Mike Conners had his kids prepared well."

THE WIN SOFTENED the blow of Fulton's early-season loss to Vernon-Verona-Sherrill, the sole blemish on the Red Raiders' record. Conners said the coaching transition at Fulton could have played a part in the early loss. Conners took over for longtime Red Raiders coach Wayne Bleau, after Bleau retired this year.

"You come in for a legend and try to change shop, and you just can't do it," Conners said. "That's all that was, coaching transition."

Fulton wrestlers break Bees' streak at No. 11

The varsity wrestlers lost their first dual meet of the season Saturday, 31-12, to the Red Raiders of Fulton. The Bees now stand at 11-1 and still hold first place in the Onondaga North Dual meet standings.

Tojo Poole (98 lbs.) started the Bees off with a 6-0 decision and three team points.

The Raiders then went on a roll to win the next four weight classes.

Greg Tall (105 lbs.) went down by a 9-0 major decision.

Jim Loffredo (112 lbs.) wrestled his hardest against last year's sectional champion, Rick Pawlewicz, but dropped a 9-2 decision.

At 119 lbs., John Loffredo was down 3-4 after two periods when a problem with the clock gave his tiring Fulton man a minute's rest and an 11-5 decision.

Dan Ryan (126 lbs.) wrestled one of Fulton's best and lost a 10-0 major decision.

With the score Bees 3 and Red Raiders 14, Baldwinsville came back with three victories.

Mike Borycki (132 lbs.) fell behind early in the match but with great determination, fought his hardest to eke out a 7-6 victory.

Mike Clayton (138 lbs.) kept constant pressure on his man the entire six minutes and won an 8-4 decision.

Determined Jeff Johnson (145 lbs.) fought his hardest to overcome his opponent by a 9-8 decision, which brought the team score to Bees 12,

Red Raiders 14.

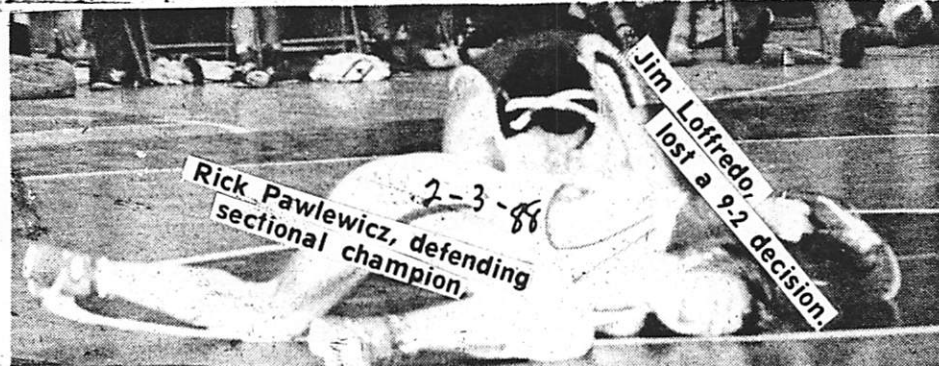

Todd Webb lost a 3-5 decision at the 155-lb. weight class.

Bob Scherfling (167 lbs.) lost a 4-12 decision.

Vic DeJohn (177 lbs.) had his foe on his back but was reversed to his back for a pin.

Chris Wener (215 lbs.) was out-distanced, 4-14.

The varsity Bees will now be entering the tournament season with the Onondaga North League Tournament Saturday, February 13, at West Genesee; the Section 3 Class A Tournament Saturday, Feb. 20, at Central Square; and the Sectional Finals, Feb. 27, and State Tournament, March 4 and 5, at the Onondaga County War Memorial.

Wyalusing's Gary Otis thrilling 9-8 decision

Towanda's Chris Jennings in a lot of trouble

167-pound

Wyalusing's 24-17 victory

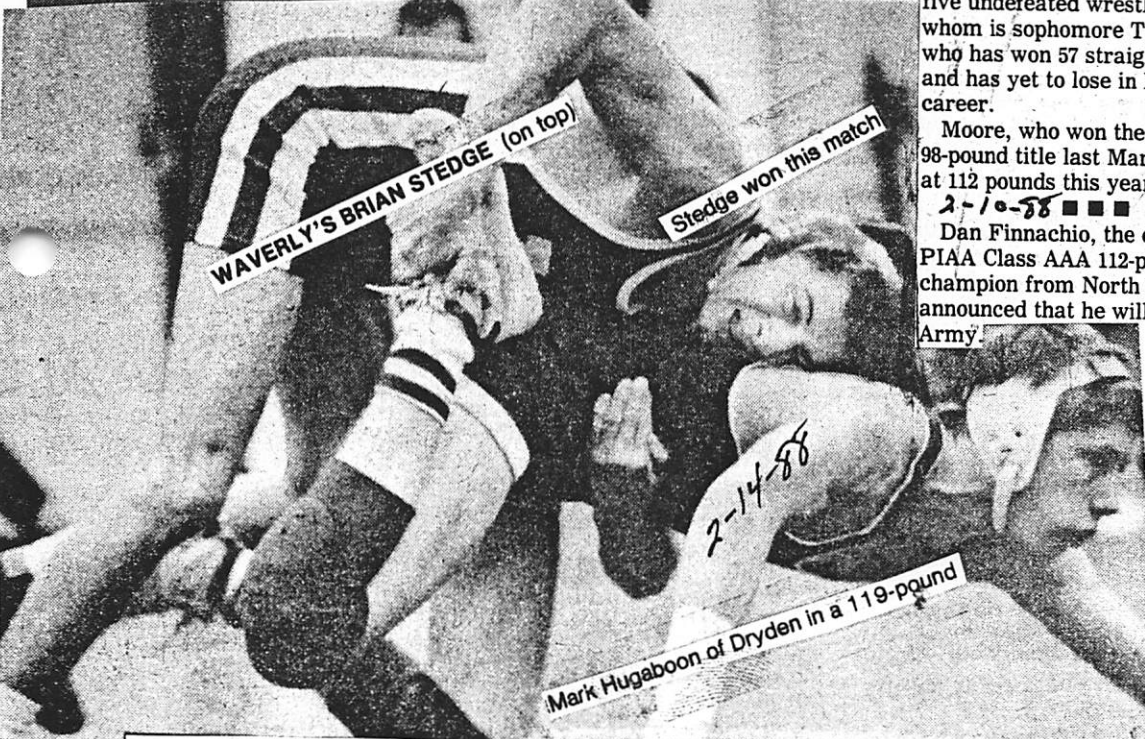

North Allegheny's wrestling team, ranked No. 1 in the country, disposed of Plum, 53-0, without Coach Gus DeAugustino last weekend. And Plum is not a bad squad, owning a 9-4 record.

The win was the 41st in a row for the Tigers, who last lost to Canon-McMillan, 23-21, during the 1985-86 season. 2-10-88

Currently North Allegheny has five undefeated wrestlers, one of whom is sophomore Ty Moore, who has won 57 straight matches and has yet to lose in his varsity career.

Moore, who won the Class AAA 98-pound title last March, is 22-0 at 112 pounds this year. 2-10-88

Dan Finnachio, the defending PIAA Class AAA 112-pound state champion from North Penn, has announced that he will attend Army.

Season winding down

It's hard to believe, but the 60th annual NCAA Wrestling Championship finals will be held in Ames, Iowa, five weeks from tonight.

"Where did the season go?" Coach Roger Sanders of Bloomsburg asked the other evening prior to the Lock Haven match at Thomas Field House Wednesday night.

"The days are getting longer," said Coach Neil Turner of Lock Haven. "It must be tournament time." 2-13-88

"I can't believe the nationals will be held in five weeks," said Ron Good, editor of Amateur Wrestling News, on the phone Thursday morning from Oklahoma City. "We were talking in the office the other day about how quickly the season has gone."

But, yes, the season is winding down, and still there is no clear-cut favorite for the 1988 NCAA team title.

Parity seems to have arrived at the NCAA Division I level. There are probably 10 teams that could win the title at the Hilton Coliseum Saturday, March 19.

There's Oklahoma State, Iowa State, Iowa, Northern Iowa, Penn State, Wisconsin, N.C. State, Lock Haven University, Wisconsin and Arizona State to mention 10 good ones without flinching.

Edinboro and Oklahoma are other schools with solid individuals, but whether they have the depth is still a question. Dave Rowan of the Flying Scots is a question mark because of a shoulder injury suffered in the Pennsylvania Conference tourney last month. 2-13-88

All 10 have four or five solid wrestlers and the team that could possibly land two champions and three or four other placers should be in good stead next month. Said one observer, put Rob Koll, North Carolina's senior 158-pounder from State College on the 1988 Nittany Lion squad and Coach Rich Lorenzo's team would be a definite contender.

The top 142-pounder in the nation will be in Recreation Building tomorrow when the Lions take on Pitt at 3 p.m.

He's Pat Santoro, who has compiled a 38-0 record this season and a school-record 107 victories (and a mere eight losses).

He placed sixth in the nation as a freshman and second last year when Lehigh's Pete Yozzo pinned him at Cole Field House in College Park, Md. 2-13-88

Santoro, a Lehigh Valley product, won no less than five tourney titles this season — West Virginia Open, Las Vegas Invitational, Midlands, Ohio Open and the Mat-Town USA. He also beat Edinboro's Sean O'Day in the NWCA All-Star Classic at Cedar Falls, Iowa, last week.

Also in Happy Valley tomorrow will be Steve Millward, the former BEA lightweight who is in his freshman season at West Virginia. He'll take a 12-13 record into this afternoon's match against Lock Haven's Craig Corbin at Thomas Field House. Then, tomorrow he'll draw Kenny Chertow of the Lions. 2-13-88

Millward had a rough homecoming in December when the WVU freshman went winless in the Penn State Duals against some pretty stiff competition.

"He's having a decent year for a freshman," Coach Craig Turnbull of WVU said Thursday afternoon. "He's right around .500. He has wrestled some tough kids. We took him to the Midlands and he was something like 2-2. He has been competitive against some good kids. He's not one to back off and that's what it's going to take to be good at this level."

"He had one bad match and that was against John Supsic of Bloom. But he has met Corbin."

"After the season we'll sit down and evaluate things as to whether he should take a redshirt year.

There are a lot of factors to consider — maturity, his game, etc. 2-13-88

"He has a good work ethic, though. He lifts weights religiously. In fact, he's upset when he misses a session."

Next month's NCAA meet will be televised nationally once again. 2-13-88

The finals will begin at 7 p.m. EST and ESPN will present two hours of taped highlights (all 10 bouts) starting at 9 p.m. EST.

Matt Musselman, the Claysburg-Kimmel wrestler who suffered a pinched carotid artery, in a recent match and subsequently was reported as being through with his wrestling career, may get a second chance.

In a recent interview with the Johnstown Tribune-Democrat, Musselman's father, Rick, was reported as saying that the doctors advised his son that he shouldn't, not couldn't, wrestle again. 2-17-88

The father pointed out that with rehabilitation, protective gear, and possibly a second opinion, his son may well get the green light to compete again.

Musselman, who has an 88-11 career record, was considered a strong contender for a PIAA Class AA title prior to his injury.

A tough lesson to learn

Miscellanea ... Here's a lesson for all of those scholastic athletes out there who think that just being a good athlete will be enough to get you a grant-in-aid from a college or university.

Terry Dillon, coach of Baldwinsville's varsity wrestling Bees, was voted Coach of the Year by his peers at Saturday's Onondaga High School League North tournament held at West Genesee High School.

a 12-8 decision in the semis to reach the finals. He lost a 0-11 decision to tough Brian Collins of CNS, to take a second-place finish.

The support of the third-place finishes assured Baldwinsville the league title. Tom Ryan, 112 lbs., pinned his Oswego foe in 45 seconds. Ryan lost a close 3-6 decision to Stone of Liverpool in the Prior to the start of the 1987 season, Cory Eggleston of New Castle was a highly regarded prospect. He lived up to those ratings, finishing the year with 1,353 yards and 20 touchdowns. He also kicked 18 extra points and four field goals. Defensively he led the team in tackles and had 10 quarterback sacks.

A helluva prospect, right? Wrong. 2-17-88

semi-finals. He came back in the consolations with a decision and a third-place finish.

John Loffredo, 119 lbs., pinned his rival from Liverpool in the quarters. He lost to Keller of CNS in the semis and came back with a pin in the consolations and a third-place finish.

Dan Ryan, 126 lbs., lost by points in the semis to his ESM foe. He came back for third place in the consolation with a 7-0 decision over his West Genesee man.

Chris Wener, 250 lbs., was caught for a pin in the semi-finals and won a 6-4 decision in the consolations for a third-place finish.

Jack LePorte, 155 lbs., lost a close 9-5 decision in the quarters and came back through the consolations for a sixth-place finish.

Vic DeJohn lost his opening bout and ended the day with a fifth-place finish.

Mark Young lost to the top seed from Henninger, 9-4, and was unable to place.

The Bees will gear up this week for the opening of the sectional tournament with the Class A's being held at Central Square on Saturday.

His Quality-Point Average was a 1.5 on a scale of 4.0. That took him off the shopping list of most recruiters.

"LSU and Pitt were interested," he told the Post-Gazette. "I heard that Penn State even called here at the school. But when they found out my grades they didn't want to talk to me."

"My God, it's a waste," said veteran New Castle Coach Lindy Lauro. "It's a waste of talent. You help these kids, work with them to get them in a good position, and they blow it. Everybody tries to tell these kids that you need the grades, but they just go 'yeah, yeah, yeah.' Then the college coaches say 'No, no, no,' and dreams turn to dust.

States In Future For Young?

By TOM ROOF

Times Herald Sports Writer

He's not overpowering, nor flashy, and doesn't have a statewide reputation.

But come Friday, Randolph Central School's Billy Young may just be the best wrestler stepping onto the mats at the Southern Tier Division I-II Tournament.

The winningest wrestler in Randolph history with a glittering 142-14-1 career record, Young is 26-0 on the season with 25 of those matches ending in either a pin or technical fall. 2-18-88

Third in last year's Section 6 tournament, Young, who has wrestled as high at 145 this season, will be at 126 for this weekend's qualifier at Fredonia. Wrestling will begin Friday at 4:30 p.m. and on Saturday at 10 a.m. The finals are booked for 7 o'clock Saturday night.

"Billy's wrestling as good as ever," Randolph coach Doug Seamans said, "but the one thing I'm worried about is his endurance. Because of all his pins, he's only gone the distance once this year."

A four-time league placewinner with only one loss in his last 63 matches, Young's single six-minute bout this year came in a 5-2 win over Lockport's Ralph Gillion at Royalton-Hartland tournament.

"We've gone out to try to get him the competition this year," Seamans said. "Hopefully it will payoff. . . he'll be really pushing though to make it to 126. That's a big drop for him." 2-18-88

Young, who won at 126 last year and is one of six returning champs, should get some stiff competition this weekend. Among the biggest threat to his title is Salamanca's tough Eric Swiech (28-4), who placed a third last year.

Young's biggest problem in the past has been on his feet, and although he has improved tremendously this season, after 10 wins to Southwestern's Tom Mey-Swiech's aggressive style could give the Randolph senior trouble.

Following is a look at the top contenders from each team:

Cassadaga Valley (10-5): Dennis Brown (sr., 21-3) at 119, Brian Wolcott (sr., 17-6) at 155, Dave Mower (soph., 17-6, 12 pins) at 126 and John Penhollow (soph., 21-3)

The Times Herald weekly Big 30 high school wrestling rankings:

WLT		2-18-88		WLT
1. Brockway	13 1 0	6. Johnson's	10 3 1
2. Ridgway	11 3 0	7. Bradford	11 6 0
3. Smethport	13 2 0	8. Allegany	12 2 0
4. Pt. Allegany	12 4 0	9. Alfrd-Alm.	12 2 0
5. Salamanca	11 6 0	10. Franklin	9 3 0

Honorable mention (listed alphabetically): Cattaraugus (9-3), Kane (8-6), Pioneer (9-3), St. Marys Public (8-8).

are CV's best bets.

Falconer (13-2): Losing only to Brighton and Southwestern, Falconer boasts a powerful lineup led by third-place state finisher Todd Carson (20-6) at 105, defending league champ David Brainard (23-4) at 98, Brad Spencer (19-6-1) at 119, Mike Norton (18-9) at 145-155, and Brent Abbey (22-6) at 167.

Fredonia (4-10): Returning fourth-place finisher, freshman Bob Ball, will be at 98, while promising eighth-grader Joey Conti is at 91. Also expected to do well are senior Pete Tacy at 145.

Frewsburg (3-10): Division II heavy-weight champ Rich Heller (16-0) is the only unbeaten other than Young.

Gowanda (8-7): Sophomore Jamie Kota, who will drop to 98 where he placed fourth last year, is 21-2 with both losses coming in the JCC tournament. He'll be tough to beat and along with Jim Herniman (16-9) at 126, Darren Swetz (18-8) at 167 and Daryl Jimerson (18-9) at 177 Gowanda could have at least four top placefinishers.

Maple Grove (7-4-2): Returning champ Dave Nalbene (27-3) and runner-up Scott Joslyn (15-2), whose only losses came in the Hilton Tournament and the finals of Roy-Hart Tourney to R-H's Mark Baehr, will be at 145 and 132, respectively. Pat Nolan, who lost for the first time Tuesday after 10 wins to Southwestern's Tom Mey-Swiech (27-2, 22 pins), is a favorite at 215.

Senior Bill Sharp (19-6) could challenge Young and Swiech. 2-18-88

Olean High (1-13): Eighth-grader Steve Prescott (13-12) has a good shot at 98 after wrestling up all year, while veterans Matt Jurenko (18-12) at 167 and Todd Evans (14-10-1) at 145 could pull some surprises. 2-10-88

Panama (2-6): Two-time Division II champ Todd Swanson (24-2-1) has won three tourney titles this season and is a strong contender at 119 along with Spencer and Southwestern's Steve McCray (23-4-1). He missed last year's qualifier after winning 20 matches as a freshman. Eighth-grader Dave Edwards (20-7) placed third at 91 a year ago and will be at 98, while senior Mike Watson (20-9) will be at 155.

Pine Valley (3-10-2): Junior Ryan Tatchel (11-1) is at 126, back after suffering a broken ankle earlier this year, while junior Kevin Herb (18-7) is a strong 98-pounder in his first full year of wrestling.

Randolph (5-7-1): In addition to Young, 105-pounder Randy Luce (10-5-1), who has split a pair of meetings with Allegany's Matt Lippert, 167-pounder Mike Howard (21-7) and heavyweight Rob Howard (14-8) are Randolph's top contenders.

Ripley (9-2): Two 20-match winners, eighth-grader Mark Feiss (20-2, 12 pins) at 91, and junior Paul Abate (20-5) at 126, helped Ripley to its first Division II League title (7-0) in 15 years. Eric Helman (18-7) is another candidate in the rugged 98 pound class.

Salamanca (11-6): Getting seven finalists like last year could be tough, but not impossible. In addition to Swiech (104-52-2 career), Salamanca will have Shane Leder (21-12) at 91, Joel Minner (20-11) and Steve Felt (23-9-1) at 112, Mike Warrior (21-12) at 132, and defending champ Tom Mohr (19-6) at 145 or 155. Head coach Rich Morton is unsure yet if Jim Quinn (18-3-1), whose has only lost to both Nolan and Myers, will be at 215 or 250.

Silver Creek (6-4): Best chance is Chris Oakley (15-6) at 155. 2-18-88

Southwestern (12-1): Unbeaten in Division I duals (8-0), Southwestern returns eight placewinners, including champions Jarret Scalise (15-8), who will be at 105, Shawn Higbee (13-14) at 126 and Phil Kutchke (13-3) at unlimited. Also back are Alan Higley (24-6) at 138, Loren Davis (18-12) at 155, John Conley (14-9) at 167, Paul Wendel (26-2) at 177 and Meyers.

Wednesday's Results

Allegany 51, Bolivar 9
Cattaraugus 42, Wellsville 28
Portville 33, Olean Archbishop Walsh 26

After absorbing humbling setbacks against Oswayo Valley and Salamanca in its last two duals, you would think the Allegany Central School wrestling team might be due for a letdown.

Guess again. With a third straight Tri-County League title at stake, Allegany (12-2) overpowered Bolivar, 51-9, Wednesday night. In its three-season championship run, Allegany sports a 17-0-1 record in Tri-County matches — its only league blemish, a 27-27 tie against Franklinville two years ago — and is 34-5-1 overall. Allegany's last league loss came against Cattaraugus four years ago.

Pair of PSU rookies pull down the Cowboys

Looking down on No. 1

They're a couple of fuzzy-cheeked freshman who probably still make a wrong turn or two on campus, but Tim Wittman and Marc Padwe knew which way to go to lead Penn State to a 21-20 victory over No. 1-ranked Oklahoma State last night.

Wittman fired the Nittany Lion upset when he pinned Wes White at the 2:23 mark of their 150-pound bout while Padwe was entrusted with a 19-18 lead and battled Terry Ullom to a 3-3 draw to preserve the victory.

"This was quite an experience for them," said Lorenzo of his rookies. "It was nice to see. They're true freshmen but they were focused as well as the seniors. They really wanted to win."

Wittman, the walk-on from St. Marys who turned down grant-in-aid money from both Clarion and Slippery Rock to attend Penn State on his own, turned in the stunner of the night when he decked White, who was 22-4. Wittman, who won a state title as a junior at St. Marys and then was a runner-up last year, stuck White with a pancake for a 5-0 lead in the first period. It was an omen. White escaped, took Wittman down, gave up an escape and took Wittman down again. Then the lightning hit the rod. With the score standing at 6-5 Wittman escaped again, turned in and hit Walker with another pancake. This time there was no way out for White. The end came seconds later.

"Unbelievable," said Wittman, who found out Thursday that he would be replacing the ailing Sean Finkbeiner in the lineup. "This is more exciting than winning the states."

"I feel good underneath (with an underhook) and I went into the match thinking that if it was there I'd take a shot at it. And he's the kind that you could get off balance with it. But I thought he would stay out of that tie-up the second time. When I hit it the second time I thought I had it tight and he wasn't the kind of kid who would come back toward me. He kept arching that one way but I just kept him pinned there."

Wittman, last night's Ridge Riley Award winner who had beaten Cleveland State standout Dave Wlodarz earlier this season when he was replacing Finkbeiner, said that there was never any question in his mind about where he was going to college.

"I dreamed about wrestling here since I

RON BRACKEN

Times Sports Columnist

was a little kid," he said. "I watched Penn State on television and decided this is where I wanted to go. It bothered me a little bit that they didn't offer me (grant-in-aid money) but the coach (Lorenzo) said that hard work would pay off, that if I make it to the NCAAs and become an All-American I would earn my money."

"He had offers but instead he came here, walked on and wanted to prove himself," Lorenzo said. "I respect and admire him for that. He's had two super opportunities (against Wlodarz and White) and he wasn't intimidated at all. He has really gone for it. He went out there tonight with the idea of winning, not thinking that he had to defend himself. He doesn't shy back from anyone."

"He's a little wide open and he'll make mistakes but when he's wrestling a kid who will go wide open it's good for him. The one that will give him trouble is the kid who is cautious and conservative."

Wittman, who put a 9-5 record on the mat against White, a red-shirt freshman, has taken advantage of his limited mat time.

"I'm just glad to get in there and get an opportunity to prove myself," Wittman said. "I like going in feeling like I'm the underdog. It's hard being No. 1, like Danny (Mayo). Those guys are always having to defend themselves. I figure I've got nothing to lose."

"But this still hasn't sunk in. I'm as high as a kite."

For Padwe, the freshman from Scottsdale, Ariz., had his feet rooted firmly on the ground when he took the mat. No one needed to tell him what was at stake.

"Coach Lorenzo just told me to give it my all, to keep my concentration and not do anything stupid," Padwe said. "He said that if something was there I should take it but just don't give up stupid points."

"There was a lot of pressure but it's something I'll have to get used to because I'm sure this won't be the last time when it all comes down to me."

Padwe, 5-12-2, took command of the bout early when he took Ullom down. However, Ullom, who was 1-4, escaped to make it 2-1 and then tied it up with another escape early in the second period. Padwe came out for an escape in the third period for a 3-2 lead but was hit for a stalling point just ahead of the buzzer to knot the score at 3-3.

"People were asking why we didn't have Andy (Voit) go for more points (at 190) but the way Marc wrestled he would have picked up more points if we would have needed them," Lorenzo said. "He wrestled a very intelligent match. I feel good for him because he's had some tough luck. A couple of times the meet has come down to him and he just got outfoxed even though he gave a tremendous effort. Tonight he got the job done."

"Right after the match it was a great feeling," Padwe added. "It was nice to help the team win. That's what we needed because no one was giving us much respect this year. But after beating Iowa and now Oklahoma State people have to respect us."

Opinions and observations

No one can accuse Penn State's winter sports teams of ducking the competition. In fact, not only have they gone head-to-head with the best, they've come away with some impressive wins.

Over the past two weeks the Lady Lion basketball team knocked off No. 2 Louisiana Tech while the men missed knocking off No. 1 Temple by a point.

Then the wrestlers went out and decked top-ranked Oklahoma State, 21-20, the women gymnasts toppled No. 6 Florida and the men narrowly missed upending the No. 3-ranked Ohio State team.

Tomorrow night the Lady Lion gymnasts get a shot at top-ranked Georgia in Rec Hall.

It's a golden opportunity and the precedent has already been set.

In one man's opinion there is no more electrifying moment in sports than when an underdog wrestler records a fall.

Tim Wittman's pin of Oklahoma State's Wes White Friday night is one of those moments that fans will savor for years to come. It doesn't get any better.

The view from here is that area wrestling fans, both scholastic and collegiate, are in for some great tournament action.

The District 6 Class AA tournament should be interesting as Bald Eagle-Nittany and Moshannon Valley from the Eastern section will go after Western powerhouse Westmont-Hilltop, which has beaten AAA powers Canon-McMillan and Philipsburg-Osceola and tied Bald Eagle Area. The difference in the levels of competition between the Hilltoppers and the other two schools may make the difference in the team race.

The AAA tourney should be no less interesting as BEA, P-O and Lock Haven chase the team title. But State College, Huntingdon and Altoona have bona fide individual title contenders which should add even more balance to field and make the team race even hairier.

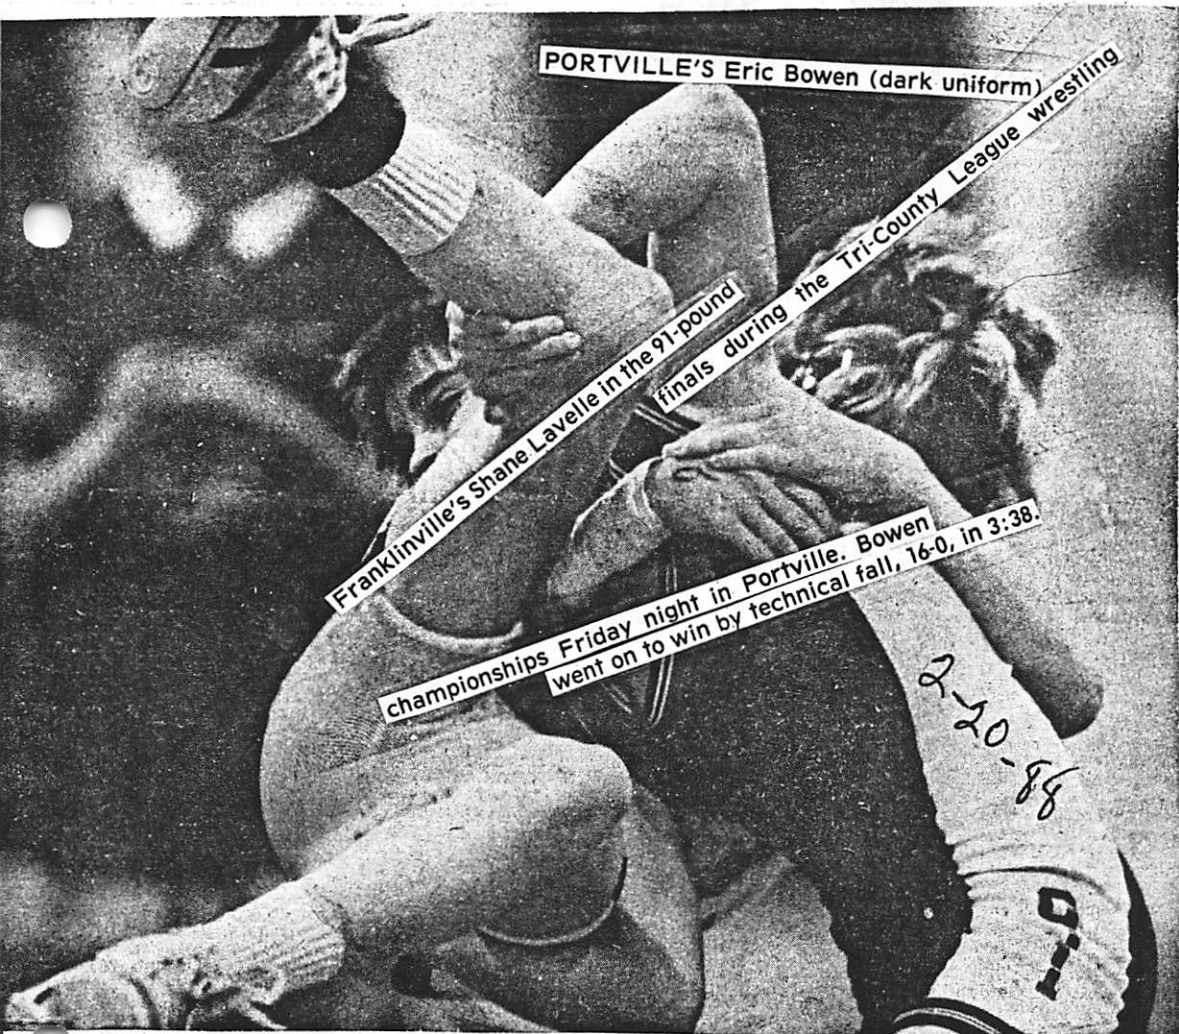

As hard as it is to believe, the scholastic wrestling season will be over exactly one month from last Saturday.

out tranquilizers at the door.

Overheard at a recent high school wrestling meet: "Hey, ref, down in front." Think about it.

And at Lock Haven it will be Penn State defending its EWL crown against Lock Haven, Bloomsburg and the rest of the league. If it gets any crazier than it did for the dual meet between the Lions and the Bald Eagles Saturday night, they'll be passing

PORTVILLE'S Eric Bowen (dark uniform)

Walter's Move Backfired

By TOM BOOF

Times Herald Sports Writer

PORTVILLE — Upstaging the Mark Hall-Ray Ryan battle at Friday's Tri-County League sectional qualifying tournament wasn't easy, but it happened.

Only a few people noticed, though.

While Ryan was working Hall for a convincing 10-4 win, Cattaraugus Central School coach Don Walter was working on a few moves of his own. Ironically, much like Hall's defensive tactics, Walter's finagling backfired. 2-20-88

Walter had entered three-time champion Sam Grey (20-6) at 145 after Grey was unable to make weight at 138, a decidedly weaker class since Franklinville stud Matt Hall dropped to 132.

The trouble was both Allegany's Ryan (27-0) and Mark Hall, both three-time sectional qualifiers, also were at 145. And since the league had established long ago that all champions and only one wild-card would advance to the Section 6 tournament, set for next Friday and Saturday at the University of Buffalo in Amherst, one would have to sit.

Walter didn't want it to be Grey, who by default to Hall in the semifinals when, trailing 3-1 in the second period, he wrenched a knee on a fireman's carry (takedown move). Walter then made a plea to have Grey named as the league's wild-card representative at 138, a move that would have denied Franklinville's Jhi Craven, who won the 138-pound title, a chance to compete next weekend.

"Grey should go because he would best represent the league at 138," Walter insisted. "We want to send our best wrestlers and that's where he would have been if he hadn't come down with the flu this week. He just couldn't make the weight because he was sick."

"My feeling is we should send the best kids to sectionals . . . there is nothing that says we have to send all the weight class champions."

Maybe not, but Portville coach Mike DeBarbieri, who along with Allegany coach Chuck Curley and Franklinville coach Joe Smith gave (Mark) Hall the wild-card at 145, could see plenty of problems in passing over Craven.

"You would open yourself up with a lot of trouble, possibly lawsuits, from the parents and the school," DeBarbieri said. "Plus Craven deserved it. He wrestled at 138 and he won. How could you possibly tell him and his parents you're not going to take him to sectionals."

Ryan, meanwhile, also did his best to insure a fourth sectional appearance, picking up all 10 of his points on takedowns to run his career record to 142-18. The loss dropped Hall (104 career wins), whose only previous losses came against Allegany's Tom Langdon, to 24-3.

"He's wrestling at his very best right now," Curley said of Ryan, who has yet to be taken down this season. "Even better than his sectional runner-up year two years ago. I think finishing as disappointingly as he did last year has been a real driving force for him. He hates to lose."

Ryan was one of five champions for Allegany, joining Kevin Peterson (98), Matt Lippert (105), Mike Benca (119) and Langdon (155). 2-20-88

Portville, which had 10 finalists, got titles from Eric Bowen, Marty Butts and Rick Hernandez. Dave Moranski and Tony Caros also won titles for Franklinville, while Cattaraugus' Jay Westfall captured the 215-pound championship.

The championship finals:

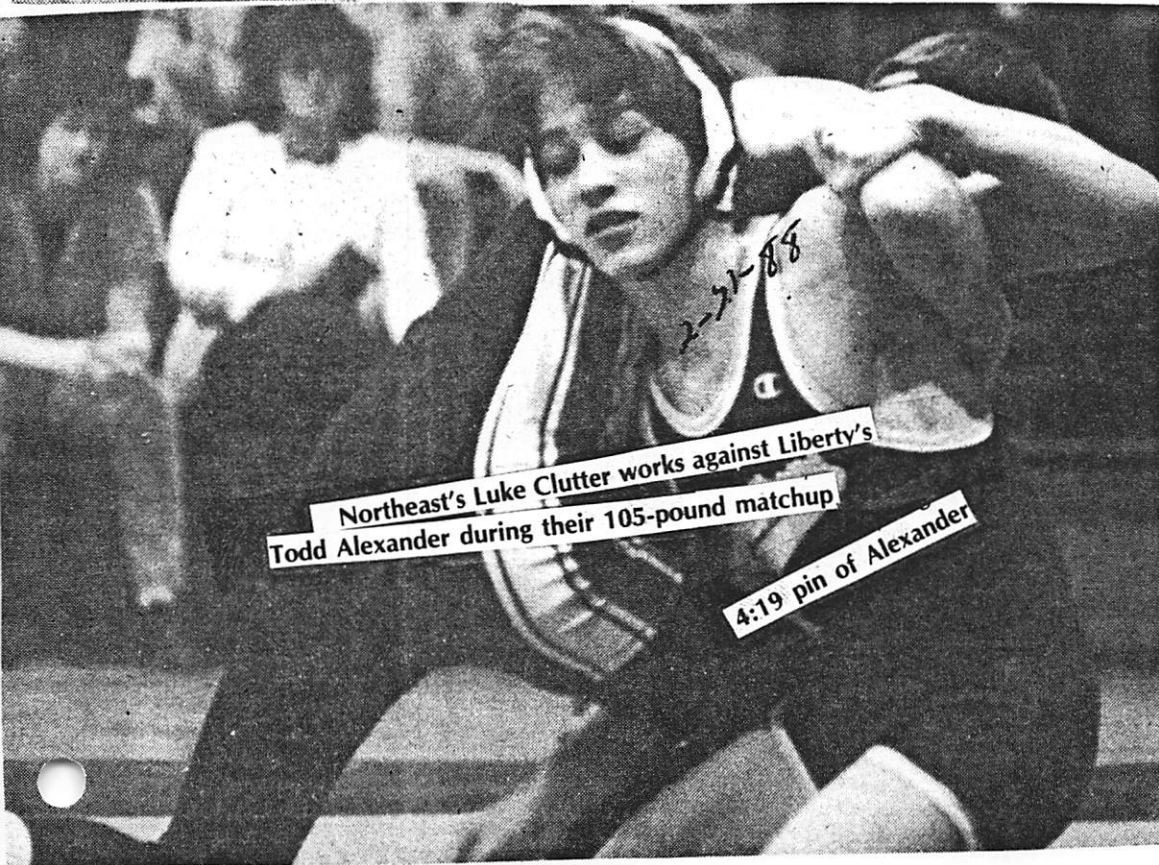

- 91: E. Bowen (Portville) TF, 16-0 Lavelle (Franklinville)
- 98: Peterson (Allegany) 4-0 North (Portville)
- 105: M. Lippert (Allegany) 5:36 Standish (Franklinville)

Fulton's Rick Pawlewicz at 105 pounds, Chad Sheldon at 119 and Dave Wise at 167 won individual titles to lead the way. Meanwhile, 112-pounder Pat Fitch of fourth-place Cicero-North Syracuse was named the outstanding wrestler of the tournament.

In Class B, Vernon-Verona-Sherrill had four wrestlers reach the finals — with three of them winning — to take the championship by 3.5 points over South Jefferson. 2-21-88

V-V-S finished with 117 points to South Jefferson's 113.5 in the meet held at Chittenango. Canastota finished third with 96.5 and Phoenix was close behind at 95.5.

Troy Grabow at 98 pounds, Tim Fera at 105 and Don Stanton at 138 won individual titles for V-V-S, while heavyweight Brian Storace was the lone wrestler from V-V-S to lose in the championship round.

Cortland 126-pounder Doug Christofferson won the meet's outstanding wrestler award, while Canastota's Rick Sanderson recorded the quickest pin of the meet, needing only 12 seconds to beat Don Duncan of Phoenix in the 215-pound class.

Rolly Hughton of Carthage won the aggregate pin contest with three pins in 5:13 at 167.

In the Class C meet, Jordan-Elbridge took the crown with 179 points, easily outdistancing host Lowville by 22.5 points.

Third place went to Indian River with 102 points and Mohawk finished fourth with 93.5. 2-21-88

J-E sent six wrestlers to the championship round and four of them came away winners. Pat Schill at 105, Rory Thorpe at 167, Mark Aliviero at 177 and heavyweight Kevin Hewitt won individual titles for J-E. Thorpe (30-0), Aliviero (23-0) and Hewitt (7-0) remained unbeaten.

Elsewhere, senior guard Jason Buchanan scored 16 points as Nottingham remained undefeated, downing Fulton, 92-73, in an Onondaga Metro makeup game.

Michigan State head coach Jud Heathcote was in the crowd to watch as Buchanan went over 1,000 points for his career (1,011). Nottingham won its 34th consecutive game and improved to 20-0 overall on the year, 16-0 in the league. The Bulldogs will play Fowler in a second-round game of the Section Three Class B playoffs Tuesday.

Top CNY Wrestlers Begin Quest for Sectional Crowns

By NEIL KERR

Led by 167-pound Rory Thorpe of Jordan-Elbridge, the best wrestlers in Central New York will begin pursuit of Section Three titles at four class meets Saturday. 2-19-88

Thorpe, who placed fourth in the state at the Onondaga County War Memorial last March, is among six defending sectional champions. From each of the Class A-B-C-D meets Saturday, the top four finishers advance to the Section Three title matches at the War Memorial Feb. 27.

Thorpe, 26-0, is a heavy favorite to repeat at 167.

Other defending Section Three champions are Lenny Combs (91 pounds) of Madison, Shawn Roggie (98) of Beaver River, Rick Pawlewicz (105) of Fulton, Ralph Howard (126) of Sauquoit Valley and Seamus Lyman (138) of Watertown. Only Pawlewicz and Thorpe return at their 1987 weights, the others having moved into higher weight brackets.

Here's a capsule look at the sectional class wrestling leaders:

■ 91 — Tojo Poole, 24-1, of Baldwinsville is the wrestler to beat here. Top contenders look to be Kurt Peavey, 27-3, of Madison and Jim Flynn, 20-2, of Fulton.

■ 98 — Defending sectional champion Rick Pawlewicz, 29-1, of Madison, state runner-up last year, is favored at this higher weight. Having upset hopes are Troy Grabow, 24-4, of Vernon, Verona-Sherrill and Greg Firenze, 18-4-1, of Fulton.

■ 105 — Defending champion Rick Pawlewicz, 21-2, of Fulton looks unbeatable. Aiming to surprise are Pat Schill, 20-4-2, of J-E, Tim Fera, 24-2, of V-V-S and Bryan Roggie, 24-1, of Beaver River.

■ 112 — This well-balanced class is headed by Pat Fitch, 25-1, of Cicero-North Syracuse. Chief challengers look to be Dennis Hunt, 21-2-2, of Watertown, Dan Pawlewicz, 17-2, of Fulton, Tom Ryan, 16-1, of Baldwinsville and Mark Geer, 25-3, of Chittenango.

■ 119 — Paul Creighton, 28-1, of South Jefferson is likely to succeed older brother Jim as sectional 119-pound champ. Creighton may be challenged by Chad Sheldon, 20-2, of Fulton. Shawn Roggie, 13-4, of Beaver River, last year's 98-pound sectional champion, is a longshot. 2-19-88 favorite. Contenders include Dar-ryl Trew, 22-3, of General Brown, Rich Brown, 20-4, of Watertown, Jim Moore, 25-3, of Canastota, Jeff Noll, 19-0, of Ilion and Dan Zecca, 21-0, of Mohawk.

■ 126 — Unbeaten Rick Pierce, 25-0, of South Jefferson is a slim

■ 132 — The 1987 sectional 126-pound champion, Howard, 26-0, of Sauquoit Valley, is the pick here. He's a three-time Empire State Games' gold medalist. Howard may be pushed by Jamie Coppola, 27-1, of Central Square, 132-pound sectional runner-up last year. Longshots are Tim Wethje, 23-2-1, of Homer, T.J. Fraher, 24-0, of Port Byron, Doug Christoferson, 21-4, of Cortland and Shon Mable, 17-1, of Henninger.

■ 138 — Brian Collins, 26-2, of Cicero-North Syracuse and Roger Howard, 26-1, of Indian River are the early standouts. Howard was seeded at 145 but plans to compete at 138. Others to check are Don Stanton, 25-3-1, of V-V-S and Greg Cox, 18-6-1, of Onondaga.

■ 145 — Defending Section Three 138-pound champion Shamus Lyman, 26-0, the Watertown sophomore, could win again.

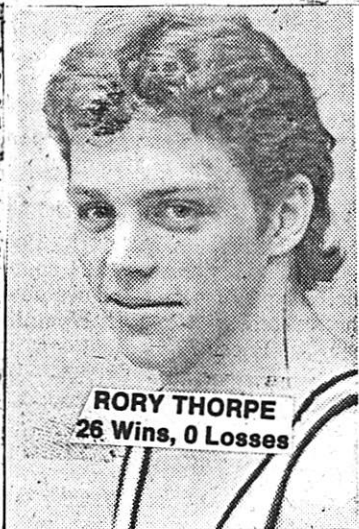

The 1987 runner-up at 145, Jay Dunsmoor, 21-1, of Hannibal, is again a top contender. Another hopeful is Jeff Mower, 25-0, of Mohawk. 2-19-88

■ 155 — All-State football line-backer Mike Aubel, 28-0, of Lowville heads this class. Aubel, son of Lowville wrestling coach Neal Aubel, has wrestled up at 167 and 177 all season. If Aubel falters, a strong field also includes Jamie Pontello, 25-1, of Central Square, Erik Slapp, 18-2, of LaFayette, Bob Scherfling, 20-3, of Baldwinsville, Mark Jackowski, 13-0, of Jordan-Elbridge and Ron Bond, 22-2, of Mexico.

■ 167 — Thorpe of J-E is so outstanding that most top contenders have vacated the class to compete at either 155 or 177. Scott of Cicero-North Syracuse, and Tom Murphy, 22-3, of Fayetteville-Alberico, 23-2, of Camden, Tim Manlius are longshots.

■ 177 — A strong field is headed by four outstanding athletes — Mark Alivero, 19-0, of Jordan-Elbridge, Tom Lynch, 13-1-2, of Indian River, Rolly Houghton, 23-3, of Carthage and Dan Engels, 21-2-1, of Watertown. The longshot is Mike Garofalo, 15-3, of Phoenix. 2-19-88

■ 215 — Ron Vitullo, 27-1, of New Hartford and 1986 sectional 167-pound champion Shane Carni, 21-2, of Liverpool are standouts here. Vitullo narrowly defeated Carni earlier this season. The chief contenders are Percy Clarke, 19-4,

RORY THORPE
26 Wins, 0 Losses

of Marcellus and Eric Martin, 22-2, of Adirodack.

■ 250 — Dave Palmer, 19-4, of Canastota, Section Three 215-pound runner-up last winter, heads this class. Other top contenders are last year's 250-pound runner-up, Kevin Hewitt, 4-0, of J-E, Gerard Sageer, 11-3, of Liverpool, Chuck Hermann, 21-2, of Port Byron and Mark Lewis, 25-5, of Madison.

Ranked third in the Times Herald poll, Smethport (13-3) had beaten Port 29-26 earlier this year in an Allegheny Mountain League dual and entered the match with six straight victories.

And for awhile, it looked as if Smethport would make it a sweep, taking a 12-8 lead at 126 when Steve Nielson (21-1) handed Chris Waterman (22-3-1) only his fourth dual loss in three years, 9-6.

"We wrestled well in the lower classes, but just couldn't get anything up above," said Smethport coach Bill Stephen.

Indeed, Port (13-4), which has now won seven in a row since losing at home to Smethport, took six of the next seven matchups, including a 167-pound show-

Mayo puts Mazza, LHU on mat

By DOUG MCDONALD
Times Senior Sports Writer

LOCK HAVEN — Ken Chertow and Jeff Dernlan, two Penn Staters who helped the Lions jump out to a 12-0 lead, had faith in their senior tri-captain, Dan Mayo, last night.

Mayo pinned Mike Mazza of Lock Haven in 1:18 with a half nelson to give the Nittany Lions a come-from-behind 21-18 victory over the game Bald Eagles. 2-21-88

"I know I had confidence in him," Dernlan said. "When it was 18-12 I figured we'd see Danny in there. He was ready. He knew what to do."

Chertow, who knocked off Craig Corbin in the first bout at 118, 4-2, echoed Dernlan's sentiments.

"Danny just sucked it up. He went out and got the takedown. He's so tough on top. This was just another nice win."

The win, coming after a 21-20 win over top-ranked Oklahoma State Friday night, featured the No. 1 team in the East, Lock Haven, and Penn State; the No. 2 team. But the Lions reversed that here last night in front of a record 3,500 fans.

The victory also kept alive Penn State's record of not losing an Eastern Wrestling League dual meet in 45 chances. The victory also put the Lions on top of the heap (regular season) with a 5-0 record. LHU's record in the league dropped to 4-1 and 13-3 overall. The Lions will conclude their regular EWL season Friday night at Bloomsburg and then return here for the 13th annual EWL Tournament March 4-5.

"Obviously, we had to win one of those first four bouts," Coach Neil Turner of Lock Haven said, referring to Penn State's quick 12-0 jump. "But give Penn State credit. They wrestle a tough schedule, one that we would like to pick up one day."

"I think Penn State's win over Oklahoma State made our guys a little bit more hesitant."

The meet, which was delayed about 30 minutes because of a bomb scare, got off with a bang as Chertow beat Corbin in one of the feature bouts. 2-21-88

A takedown in the second period, a penalty point and 1:12 time advantage offset two Corbin escapes.

At the end of the bout, referee John Butch deducted a team point off of Penn State's total because of unsportsmanlike conduct on Chertow's part. 2-21-88

"It was just instinct," Chertow said afterward. "Corbin has his hand around my neck and I just wanted him to take it off. I didn't mean for it to be flagrant.

"This was a great weekend. Anytime you beat Oklahoma State, that's a big one. Then we came down here and won another big one. Our program is still a step above Lock Haven's."

At 126, Jim Martin of the Lions beat Jeff Husick, 10-1, to make it 5-0. He had three of Penn State's 10 takedowns and 2:54 time advantage for seven of his points.

At 134, Dernlan beat Anthony Melfi, 7-4, scoring a takedown in the first period and one more in the third. It was 3-3 after one period.

At 142, Rob Meloy of the Lions beat Gary Chaddock, 7-6, the difference being a 5-point move with 47 seconds left in the second period. Meloy, who had been on a three-match losing streak, pancaked Chaddock for his big move. Meloy was penalized twice for stalling in the last period. 2-21-88

At 150, the Bald Eagles, who will visit Clarion Thursday night, finally got on the board when Thane Turner beat Tim Wittman, 9-6. Turner had four of Lock Haven's takedowns and brought Wittman back to earth after his key fall over Wes White of Oklahoma State Friday night.

It was after this bout that the announcement regarding a bomb threat was made by LHU Athletic Director Sharon Taylor. Many of the fans remained in the gym while others filed out in easy fashion.

Some 30 minutes later, John Barrett of Lock Haven beat Jason Suter, 3-2, the difference being a takedown with 27 seconds in the second period. The other points came on escapes.

At 167, Jody Karam of LHU won by injury default over Mark Sidorick at 2:45. Sidorick was trailing by 4-1 when the junior from Osceola Mills was helped to the sideline.

Coach Rich Lorenzo of the Lions said the injury was probably serious enough to sideline him for the rest of the season. Lorenzo described the injury as knee ligaments. 2-21-88

At 177, Brad Lloyd of LHU pinned Mike Seckler in 1:43 with a cradle, giving Turner's team an 18-12 lead.

Then Andy Voit brought the Lions back to 18-15 at 190 with a 4-1 win over Bill Freeman. A takedown and 1:08 time advantage made the difference.

Mayo, who missed Friday's meet because of illness, then went to work and the Lions upped their record to 14-5-1 and their career record against LHU to 15-0.

"I figured we'd get Mayo," said Turner. "We were hoping for Marc Padwe because Mazza is better against a guy of that size."

Mayo weighed 188 while Mazza has been around 177.

Wrestler holds titles in 3 western states

By Peter Brewington
USA TODAY

In three years, Gary Witherspoon has won state wrestling titles in New Mexico, Colorado and, last week, Washington.

The running joke at Marysville-Pilchuck (Wash.) High is: "What state title will Witherspoon win next year?"

As a freshman he won the 145-pound Class 4A title at Farmington (N.M.) High, and followed that by winning at 145 pounds at Class 4A Durango (Colo.). This year, after another move, he stepped up in weight to 158, and won again.

This game of musical high schools is traced to Witherspoon's father Gary Sr., an anthropology professor at the University of Washington. He taught at the Navajo Mission in Farmington, near the Four Corners region where Utah, Arizona, Colorado and New Mexico meet. 2-25-88

After winning as a freshman, his family moved into Colorado in search of stiffer competition. Witherspoon won again, but didn't plan on packing again. "The move to Washington was the first real big move. I didn't think I was going to move the year before. It's been hard moving around," he says.

Now he'll stay put. That pleases Marysville-Pilchuck coach Rick Iversen. "He will be the catch at all weights in the U.S. next year. He will walk to a national junior title this summer in freestyle and Greco-Roman and a fourth state title next year," says Iversen, whose son Craig, a senior, won the 168-pound state title and is being nationally recruited.

"Witherspoon devastated our state. His coach at Durango must have thought the sky fell in when he lost him. It's like having a Bobby Douglas or Dan Gable, or any of the biggest names in wrestling. This kid could become those things."

Witherspoon is a stocky 5-8. Says Iversen: "He delivers unbelievable pain, but he doesn't wrestle dirty. He never gives the opponent the chance to start an offense."

He sings the National Anthem before meets, is a Mormon, but doesn't want to attend Brigham Young. Brother Dwight wrestles at Arizona State; Gary is considering ASU, Iowa State and Oklahoma.

A well-deserved ending

For a night as bizarre as this one, it was only appropriate that the outcome of last night's Penn State-Lock Haven University wrestling match would come down to heavyweight.

How bizarre was it? For starters, Penn State 118-pounder Ken Chertow was docked a team point for flinging an elbow at Lock Haven's Craig Corbin after the match was over. But more on that later. Then, after the 150-pound bout, the sardine-like crowd of 3,500 in a 2,000-seat gym was told someone had called in a bomb threat. I didn't know people in straitjackets could dial the telephone. It delayed proceedings for 30 minutes.

Then, at 167 and 177, Penn State gave up 12 team points in just 4:28 as Mark Sidorick defaulted and may be out for the season and Mike Seckler was pinned by LHU All-American Brad Lloyd.

Then, there was the heavyweight bout in which the participants were a 167-pounder who can't make the team at his natural weight and a 177-pounder who just 36 hours prior had intravenous tubes pulled from his arm.

This story could go on. Thus, seventh-ranked Lock Haven, the No. 1 team in the East, led sixth-ranked Penn State, the No. 2 team in the East, 18-15, with a mere seven minutes remaining.

But seven minutes was way too much for Penn State's Dan Mayo, a 177-pound All-American who couldn't wrestle Friday because of a virus and a slight concussion. And he really shouldn't have wrestled last night, either. But when he got the call from Penn State Coach Rich Lorenzo, he wasn't about to turn it down.

Just 102 seconds later, he powered a half nelson against LHU's Mike Mazza and pinned him to send an already stunned crowd out into the cold — again. Mayo stood up and pointed at friends, he explained later, and also let the LHU faithful think he was pointing at them. And why not.

"I had to get it over with," he told some friends immediately afterward. "I was hoping I didn't have to wrestle," Mayo said. "My legs were going already. I just got out of the hospital yesterday, I had I.V.'s in my arm. I wasn't supposed to wrestle. I went out to win, not to pin."

But a pin would do in a pinch. Fans will have to wait two weeks for the Eastern Wrestling League finals to see the much anticipated showdown between Mayo and Lloyd.

And what they saw last night should be enough to pack this gym again come March 4-5, when the EWL's will be held in Mat Town U.S.A.

Thanks to Mayo, Penn State likely will hold down the top spot in the East and decide it for real come early March.

"I feel really happy for Danny Mayo," Penn State Coach Rich Lorenzo said. "It makes up for the Oklahoma match when he didn't get us the bonus point and everybody brought it down on him, including the coaches. He came off his sick bed."

Despite the bomb scare — by the way, caller, your voice is on tape — this was a spectacular night put on by two pretty spectacular teams.

But it didn't start out well. Chertow beat Craig Corbin at 118 by a 4-2 count, and it wasn't that close. When the bout ended, Corbin kept his arm around Chertow's throat and, Lorenzo said later, was whispering things into Chertow's ear. You can bet it wasn't sweet nothings. Chertow tapped Corbin's elbow and then threw one of his own. He was guilty and the team point could have been costly. But it didn't have to happen. "Kenny lost his temper but the kid had his arm around his throat and was whispering into his ear. Usually when the match is over, wrestlers don't do that," Lorenzo said.

But on a night such as this one, it almost had its place among the festivities. Almost.

Bomb or no bomb, it was an explosive night. "I've never been in a bomb scare," Lorenzo said, "and I don't care to be in another one."

Bombs away, they survived the scare. Again. Because that's what good teams do.

No matter how bizarre the surroundings.

It was what it's all about

An atmosphere such as the one at Lock Haven University Saturday night will only continue to increase the popularity of college wrestling in Central Pennsylvania.

It just doesn't get any better than 3,500 people squeezing into Thomas Field House to watch two excellent nationally ranked teams. You couldn't tell Thomas had a hardwood floor because if it wasn't covered by a wrestling mat, it was hidden by skin, shoes and denim. Aisles in the bleachers? None visible.

Parking? Forget it. Those who couldn't get in were probably in line at a downtown movie theater where tickets for "Three Men and a Baby" were selling for $1.50.

Of course, then there was the pinhead whose telephoned-in bomb threat caused a 30-minute delay in the match. But the majority of those inconvenienced by leaving the gym returned. Under half of the people left the gym. Diehard fans, that lot. There was some extra floor space created by the delay, but not much. And it was handled well by LHU officials, who kept the crowd very calm.

No crowd is without its pundits, and one fan nonchalantly yelled, "Oh, here it is."

In the press box, the word was that "if we don't go off to a higher calling, wrestling will resume." Another said that the only thing bombing was Lock Haven. But that was after LHU went 1-for-5 in the front half of the match. That would soon change, as the Bald Eagles took an 18-12 lead before Penn State mounted its comeback and was bailed out by Dan Mayo's pin at heavyweight.

And Mayo, on this night, was your basic bona fide hero. He probably incurred the wrath of his doctor, since he was in the hospital on Friday because of a virus and slight concussion. But what he did only a tremendous athlete could have pulled off.

He had friends and well-wishers coming up to him after the match, some of them saying it was the greatest thing they had ever seen. In wrestling circles, his pin of LHU's Mike Mazza in 1:42 has to rank right up there.

Mark Sidorick, the ex-Philipsburg-Osceola athlete and Penn State's 167-pound wrestler, just can't get a break.

He hurt his knee Saturday against Lock Haven and likely won't see action again this year, although no official announcement has been made. If it weren't for bad luck, the 1984 state champion would have no luck at all.

Johnsonburg Upends Ranked Brockway

Johnsonburg High School logged its most impressive victory of the season with a 24-20 non-league win over state-ranked Brockway on Tuesday.

"We had a total team effort," noted Johnsonburg coach Scott Anderson. "Even the kids who got beat wrestled great tonight. 2-24-88"

"The real key match was at 105," said Anderson, whose team had climbed to sixth in last week's Times Herald poll. Raub Norlin (9-12) won in a mild upset over Brian Shugar (10-11). That was a little unexpected.

"We felt we had to win at 119, 126 and 132. They are strong in the middle and upper weights. We were hoping to hold it close until the last two bouts and Dave (Sallack) and Jay (Schill) really pulled through."

Anderson got the three wins he needed as Vic Walters, Bernie Norlin and Mike Fitch all earned decisions. Sallack's 7-6 decision over Ed Miller at 185 pulled Johnsonburg to within two.

Schill then pinned Rich Woods in 2:29 to give Johnsonburg (12-3-1) its ninth consecutive win. It was the second match-clinching fall for Schill (3-1-1), who earlier this season pinned Theo Salberg in Johnsonburg's 28-24 win over Ridgway.

The loss dropped Brockway, currently ranked 10th among Pennsylvania 'AA' schools and No. 1 in the Times Herald poll, to 14-3.

Senior Pete Varischetti remained undefeated for Brockway, improving to 22-0.

Penn State turns back Oklahoma State

By DOUG MCDONALD
Times Senior Sports Writer

Penn State's wrestling coaches drill the team on the importance of finding the opponent's "off-button."

Junior 190-pounder Andy Voit of the Lions located Jim Gill's "off-button" in the third period at Recreation Building last night. And when the bout ended, Voit had a 13-4 major decision and Penn State had a 19-18 lead over top-ranked Oklahoma State — with one bout left.

Then freshman heavyweight Marc Padwe, disappointed he didn't beat Terry Ullom of Oklahoma State, settled for a draw which allowed Penn State to nip Coach Joe Seay's Cowboys, 21-20.

Voit, who beat Gill twice last year (in the dual meet at Stillwater and then again in the NCAA's at Maryland), scored a late takedown in the second period and three more in the third to break open a tight-scoring match.

Voit was ahead, 11-3 with 24 seconds left and decided to give Gill an escape. But Gill, who missed being disqualified by one infraction, was hit for a two-point stalling penalty with two ticks left on the clock to give Voit a 13-4 win.

"I looked over to the bench," Voit said, "and I couldn't tell what they wanted me to do. I couldn't hear them for the noise. I had to make a quick decision, I felt I had been scoring pretty well in the last period. Plus, I wasn't getting too much resistance from him. I couldn't believe the way he was wrestling. He was really passive."

"That was right up my alley because I could concentrate on sense all the way. But I had no idea that would be the difference in the meet. You hope, but you never know."

"But the coaches stay on us about keeping after a guy's 'off-button.' I was definitely looking tonight, and I found it."

"Things are just starting to fall together for me now. I'm more fluid. And I'm chain-wrestling now, too. It's not one shot and done. Lou Bannach (graduate assistant coach) has really been helping me in practice."

"You go against him and he creates all kinds of situations. We might combine for 100 points in a 15-minute match, but he creates different situations and you learn how to react to different ones."

"We won't have much time to celebrate this one, though, with Lock Haven coming up. But this should give us more incentive We're still looking down the road, though, to the EWLs and the NCAA's."

Coach Rich Lorenzo of Penn State said after the match that Voit still doesn't feel confident on top and that was why he elected to give up the escape to Gill with 24 seconds left.

"That's true," Voit said. "I didn't want to do anything crazy, like giving up a reversal."

Penn State, which will take a 13-5-1 record (including a 19-18 win at Iowa earlier this month) to Thomas Field House tonight at 8, received a big boost at the outset when Kenny Chertow and Jimmy Martin combined for nine points.

Chertow beat Cory Baze, 7-3, scoring two takedowns in the first period, and Martin pinned Bruce Pierce, filling in for the ill Kendall Cross, in 5:47. Martin held a 15-1 lead at the time of the fall.

For Chertow, who is undefeated since dropping to 118, it was a key victory because Baze entered the match at 36-1.

"I was pumped," Chertow said. "Those two takedowns were very important. But I had trouble catching Baze. He was sweaty."

"This is a nice win. Any time you beat Oklahoma State, that's a big win. Now we have another tough one coming up at Lock Haven."

Oklahoma State, which will take on Lehigh tonight in Bethlehem and then wind up the regular campaign next weekend against Oklahoma, got on the board when John Smith (39-0) beat Jeff Dernlan, 20-7, scoring nine of his team's 26 takedowns (the Lions had 14).

Trailing by 9-4, the Cowboys (14-2) cut the deficit to 9-8 as Mark Toarmina, who helped his mates beat Iowa a week ago in Stillwater, majored Rob Meloy at 142, 13-4. Toarmina had five takedowns and 2:14 time advantage.

Seay was hoping to have Laurence Jackson last night, but the freshman redshirt is still not feeling up to par (at 142).

Then in the shocker, Tim Wittman of the Lions pancaked Wes White twice and ended up with a fall in 2:23 of their 150-pound match. Wittman was subbing for Sean Finkbeiner, who is nursing an ear infection.

"You can't give up 12 points to a team like Penn State," Coach Joe Seay of the Cowboys said long after most of the 4,424 fans had filed out of Rec Hall.

"I can see Martin's fall at 126," Seay said, "but Wittman's killed White. There's no excuse for that. White just wasn't himself tonight. I don't know what was wrong with him."

"We'll wrestle Wittman differently the next time. We won't lock up with him. We'll move him more around the legs next time."

"But give Penn State credit. They scored the necessary bonus points. As for them gaining respect with this win tonight, they had our respect long before we got here."

Seay also said he considered using Dan Niebuhr at 177 and moving Barnes up to 190.

"But Niebuhr's only a 158-pounder and we felt he might be giving away too much weight. So we decided to go with the same lineup we used against Iowa."

From 158 through 177, it was all OSU as the Cowboys moved in front by 18-15. Vince Silva beat Jason Suter at 158, 7-3; Mike Farrell defeated Mark Sidorick at 167, 9-3, and Chris Barnes hammered senior Mike Seckler at 177, 15-6. Seckler was filling in for Dan Mayo, who is questionable again for tonight because of illness.

"This one ranks right up there with Iowa this year," said Lorenzo. "All 10 of my guys went for the gusto. They took it to Oklahoma State."

Meanwhile, standing off to one side was Bill Koll, former Penn State wrestling coach.

"That's a feather in your cap when you beat Oklahoma State," he said.

There's still time to speculate, but come Saturday night all arguments over Who's Best in the West will be settled once and for all.

The weekend all Western New York wrestling fans have been waiting for is here. Starting at 6:30 Friday evening, the annual Section 6 Championships to determine this year's state representatives will get under way at Sweet Home High School.

And while four-time champion Jeff Prescott of Olean High is gone, no one can say that the Big 30 area won't be well represented. Twenty-six area wrestlers have qualified for the two-day showcase, including returning placers Matt Lippert and Mike Benca of Allegany, Mark Hall of Franklinville, and Bill Young of Randolph. Also back is three-time qualifier Eric Swiech of Salamanca and Ray Ryan of Allegany, a runner-up two years ago who failed to qualify last season.

None, however, were among the 14 top seeds, an outstanding group that includes returning champions Bob Jackson of Sweet Home at 98 pounds, three-time state placemaker and 1986 champ Lou Roselli of Royalton-Hartland at 112, state runner-up Brian McGill of Cheektowaga at 138, and Ethan Bosch of Iroquois at 167. Defending champions Todd Carson of Falconer, third in last year's state tournament, and Royalton-Hartland's Mark Baehr are also back. Carson, though, is seeded behind Williamsville South's Mark Sullivan at 105, and Baehr, fourth in the state last year at 126, is seeded third at 82 behind Sweet Home's Tom Shifflet and Matt Hall.

Wrestling on Saturday will begin at 10 a.m. with the consolation finals set for 6 p.m. and the championship finals approximately an hour later.

Following is a brief look at each class and first-round pairings involving Big 30 wrestlers.

91: Top seed is Williamsville South's Chris Kumrow, who got the No. 1 seed after edging Cheektowaga's Jason Warfänger, 3-2, in the Erie Co. Div. III-IV qualifier. Roy-Hart's Rob Jaquin is expected to challenge. Portville's Brian Bowen, seeded fifth, meets Salamanca's Shane Leder in a first-round match.

98: Jackson will get stiff competition from Falconer's David Brainard, who destroyed Gowanda's tough Jamie Kota, 17-2, in the Southern Tier finals. Kota will meet Niagara-Wheatfield's Rick Brennan (18-7) Friday night, while Allegany's Kevin Peterson has Tonawanda's Jim Schuetz (18-7).

105: Lippert, second to Jackson at 91 last year, is seeded fourth and will meet ECIC Div. I-II runner-up Joe Tonboni (19-5) of West Seneca West. Carson and Sullivan won't make it easy for Lippert to reach the finals again. 112: Roselli placed third at states in 1985, won it in 1986 and was second last year to Troy Bouzakis. He hasn't lost since and shouldn't again. Salamanca's Steve Felt, seeded fourth, opens with Frontier's Joe Butera (23-6), while Portville's Marty Butts drew Akron's Kevin Regan (24-3).

119: Benca, a runner-up two years ago and fourth last season, finds himself in a class with 1986 titlist Nelson Colley of Roy-Hart and top-seeded Dennis Brown (24-3) of Cassadaga Valley. Benca meets Mike Carrel of Williamsville East.

126: Swiech, seeded second, and Randolph's unseeded Billy Young, are in opposite brackets, making for a good chance we could have a repeat of last week's Southern Tier finals — won by Swiech, 7-5. Top seed is Orchard Park's Brian Sartori, third seed is Niagara Wheatfield's Fabian Rosati, and fourth seed is Portville's Brian Bowen. In first-round matches, Young meets fifth-seeded Art Paolucci (24-5) of Clarence, Bowen meets Akron's Rob Cummings (21-7-2) and Swiech has a bye.

132: Matt Hall faces a stiff test with Shifflet and Baehr around, but has beaten everyone this year with the exception of Spencerport's Section 5 Class A champ Chris LoPresti. Opening match has Hall against Eden's Keith Dietsch.

138: McGill, who hasn't lost in three years, is far and away the best here. Franklinville's Jhi Craven (seeded sixth) meets Clarence's Dan Meldrim (16-4).

145: Barring an upset, look for a Ray Ryan-Willie Moss final, the top two ranked wrestlers in WNY all year. Moss, of Albion, who pinned Roy-Hart's Mark Fragale in the N-O championships, is the No. 1 seed. Ryan has a bye then meets the winners of a pigtail match. Franklinville's Mark Hall drew fourth-seeded John Georger (28-4) of Clarence, while Gowanda's Mike Gabel has Ken McLouth of Williamsville South. Olean's Todd Evans has withdrawn because of injury.

155: Salamanca's Tom Mohr has a toughie early, getting Clarence's fourth-seeded Tim Ellis (28-2), brother of two-time state champ Jeff Ellis. Jamestown's Tery Green is seeded first and Allegany's Tom Langdon, who meets Doug Truesdell (Williamsville South), is second.

167: Bosch is the heavy favorite. Olean's Matt Jurenko meets Akron's Mark

Cummings (19-9) Friday, and Franklinville's Dave Moranski has Lancaster's Tony Hernandez.

177: Franklinville's Tony Caros, seeded fifth, faces Lancaster's Anthony Zito (25-7), and Cattaraugus' Jay Westfall has Eden's Eric Heltz (19-8) in a class where Southwestern's Paul Wendel is No. 1 seed.

215: Salamanca's Jim Quinn and Carey Hanson both have first-round byes and will face each other in the second round. Niagara Falls' muscular Al Wooten is a top state meet candidate.

250: Southwestern's Tom Meyers is the top seed. Portville's Rick Hernandez meets Southwestern's Phul Kutchke in a first-round match.

NATIONAL PREP SCHOOL TOURNEY

Olean Archbishop Walsh, ineligible to compete in the Section 6 tournament or the Catholic High School tournament, will be sending five wrestlers to the National Prep School Tournament at Lehigh (Pa.) University this weekend.

Wrestling for Walsh Mike Zakel, Dan Orsini, Mike McAulley, Shane Riethmiller and John Rembold.

SECTION 5

Thirteen Big 30 wrestlers, including nine from Alfred-Almond, will be competing Friday and Saturday in the Section 5 Supersectional Tournament at Geneseo State College.

One round of the entire single elimination tournament will be held Friday, starting at 5 p.m. Saturday's action will get under way at 11:30 a.m. with the finals set to begin at approximately 7 p.m.

The tournament brings together 226 wrestlers from the section's four classifications, which held their qualifying tournaments last weekend. Four wrestlers in each weight class advanced.

Among them are only two defending champions, 112-pounder Shawn Knisley of Waterloo, a two-time Class B titlist, and 155-pounder Rick Sadwick, of Hilton, last year's 155-pound state champion. Alfred-Almond's Tom Decker will have the unfortunate luck of meeting Sadwick in the opening match.

Following are the first-round pairings involving area wrestlers (weight class, seed, name school):

- 91: B-4 Brian Stisser (Wellsville) vs. D-1 Dan Goodison (Northstar); D-3 Gary Ordiway (Alfred-Almond) vs. B-2 Dan Sweet (Livonia)
- 98: D-3 Heath Weitzel (Alfred-Almond) vs. B-2 Tom Vazquez (Geneva)
- 105: D-2 Lanny Herrick (Alfred-Almond) vs. C-3 Shannon Davies (Warsaw)
- 126: D-3 Jason Low (Bollivar) vs. B-2 Sean Rucker (East Rochester); D-2 Ken Porter (Alfred-Almond) vs. B-3 Ken Kelly (Palmyra-Macedon)
- 132: D-2 Jason Emo (Alfred-Almond) vs. C-3 Todd Miller (Marion)
- 145: B-3 Brian Gray (Wellsville) vs. D-2 Chris Hart (Kendall)
- 155: D-4 Tom Decker (Alfred-Almond) vs. A-1 Rick Sadwick (Hilton)
- 167: D-4 Dan Johnson (Alfred-Almond) vs. C-1 Robert Goodell (Perry)
- 177: D-3 E.J. Kenyon (Alfred-Almond) vs. A-2 John Crandall (Spencerport)
- 250: D-3 Ian Henderson (Alfred-Almond) vs. A-2 Steve Hall (Churchville-Chili); B-3 Evan Enke (Wellsville) vs. C-2 Albert Smith (Williamson)

Tough Competition: Does It Help Or Hurt Average Athletes?

Dear Mr. Roof:

I believe tough competition, will and does develop winning teams and better combatants. This high school wrestling and basketball season has revealed some disheartening events and conclusions in my opinion. 3-4-87

Two decent wrestling teams cut back on dual meet competition or weakened their tournament schedules.

Allegany, after a great 1985-86 season, was ready to embark on a new era with a number of blue-chip young wrestlers. Instead of upgrading a couple of tournaments to enhance these young men's sectional chances they, in my opinion, cut back and dropped out of the Southern Tier Wrestling Officials Association Tournament at JCC in Jamestown.

This tournament has grown, and continues to draw better and better teams each year. A team like Allegany, with its number of excellent wrestlers should expose these young men to top-notch competition. When you choose to beat up on the Little Sisters of the Poor your wrestlers usually bow out before they reach the top step on the podium!

Port Allegany on the other hand, upgraded its tournament schedule by including Lock Haven's fairly new tournament. Its young team has shows the effects by developing into tough competitors. My complaint here is that Port A dropped out of a third rematch with Salamanca after winning in 1985 and justipping the Warriors in '86. Very, very disappointing to many wrestling fans, not to mention 12 (Salamana) Warriors and their coach (Rich) Morton. 3-4-87

Before I wind this letter down, I want to thank the entire staff, and Tom Roof in particular, for increased coverage of wrestling. I thought it was great, even though my crazy work schedule kept me from attending more events.

May I also take this opportunity to wish Jeff Prescott the very best in his quest for a third state title. It's a shame that this young man hasn't had more individual competition. You just can't manufacture, or find it sometimes until states because there are few Prescotts around this or any other state right now. He may be short in stature, but he is "head and shoulders above his competition!" Jeff, just don't take any of your opponents lightly. Good luck!!

This Allegany Wrestling Booster Denies 'Little Sisters Of Poor' Tag

Dear Mr. Roof:

I was really annoyed by the very prejudiced assessment of the Allegany Central School wrestling program. It was a low blow to the team, the coach, and the school by a "wrestling fan" from Portville. 3-10-87

The Allegany wrestling team would like to grow and compete with the "big time" schools. The problem is numbers. Allegany has 326 boys and girls, grades ten thru twelve, and three boys' teams, basketball, wrestling, and swimming. Salamanca and Port Allegany have two, basketball and wrestling. It does make a difference. 3-10-87

And please Mr. Guenther, don't tell our championship team, or the coaches and teams from Cattaraugus, Franklinville, yes even Portville and the other five schools we wrestle that they are the sisters of the poor.

Another View On Allegany Wrestling

MORE ON GUENTHER'S LETTER

Dear Mr. Roof:

In response to a letter that appeared in your paper, I wish to correct a few wrong assumptions. Allegany did not compete in the JCC Tournament because they had their own tournament scheduled at Allegany that same Saturday. The ten team meet was set prior to the start of wrestling season.

As far as a "weakened schedule", what does Mr. Guenther call the prestigious Royalton-Hartland Tournament that was added this year to Allegany's schedule - "a piece of cake"? Allegany competed against tough non-league schools such as Randolph and Cassadaga Valley as well as schools within the Tri-County League. The "Little Sisters of the Poor" such as Cattaraugus, Franklinville and Gowanda that we supposedly "beat up on" all were in the top 10 in the Times Herald's Big 30 Wrestling Poll.

In conclusion, I have just one more comment. Coach Chuck Curley and assistant coach Steve Keim did an outstanding job this year, not just coaching a few individual wrestlers, but the entire team as a whole. When it came time for the kids to pull through for their coach they did - in a decisive win over a then undefeated Franklinville team for the Tri-County League Championship, taking nine out of 12 matches (one loss being a forfeit). To me, this example of total team effort and spirit in winning for their coach and school exemplified a value every bit as important as reaching the "top step on the podium."

Sincerely,

Pat Putz

Clarifying 'Little Sisters Of Poor'

Dear Mr. Roof,

Before I clarify my "Little Sisters of the Poor" tag, I want to say that I am first a wrestling fan and also a resident of the Portville School district. It seems that people want to believe my letters are written by the Portville team as a whole. My opinions come from a wrestling fan, addressed to issues such as downgrading a tournament schedule, as Allegany did this year. Numbers have nothing to do with a "one on one" sport, in a team concept. 3-24-87

As I stated in my letter, Allegany had a great year in 1985-86 (also 84-85). The number of blue-chip wrestlers need tougher competition than they recieved at Allegany this year. A criticism of the downgraded tournament schedule was not intended as a low blow to the team or the coach.

Any knowledgeable wrestling fan knows that Allegany's downgraded schedule had a lot to do with early exits by some of the school's blue-chip wrestlers at sectional tournament time.

Cattaraugus and Franklinville also had fine seasons, but their better wrestlers should also be receiving tougher competition.

Portville will come back in a couple years as the younger wrestlers experience more and more competition. Some parents believe that the school should be downgrading the schedule now. But our young kids need to get out and wrestle, wrestle... wrestle. Piano players get better by playing the piano and wrestlers get better by wrestling. The better the competition the more the improvement. 3-24-87

The term "Little Sisters of the Poor" was taken from a quote by Wayne Blear, the Fulton wrestling coach, when asked in 1978 or 1979 if Baldwinville could beat then-tough Canandaigua. Coach Blear said Baldwinville would win because it wrestled tough competition weekly and Canandaigua beat up on "The Little Sisters of the Poor."

All teams need tough competition to improve.

Doug Morse of Rondout Valley (top) tries to pin Wallkill's John McMillian at 145 pounds

Rondout makes it 4 in row

By PAUL LANDER
Record Correspondent

LIBERTY — As expected, Rondout Valley captured the Mid-Hudson Athletic League wrestling title yesterday by winning the championship tournament at Liberty Central High School.

The Ganders, behind a gutsy performance by Todd Fries, won six individual titles en route to its fourth straight league title.

Rondout Valley recorded 168½ points, 48 more than runner-up Red Hook-Rhinebeck. Saugerties finished third with 109 and New Paltz was fourth with 107.

Fries captured the hearts of everyone by overcoming a bruised left ankle to win the 91-pound title. The sophomore injured the ankle during the first period of his semifinal with New Paltz's Leon Watson. During an injury timeout, he limped over to his coach, Ray Palmer, to discuss matters.

"When he came over to me, he was upset. But he said he wanted to go on," Palmer said. "I asked him if he really wanted it (the title). He apparently did because he shook it off and got right back into his groove."

Fries came back strong in the second period. He got his intensity back and pinned Watson midway through the stanza.

"I had to ignore the injury and go on. It bothered me, but I couldn't let it affect me. It hurts more now than it did before," said Fries, who went on to score a 16-4 decision over Onteora's Josh Jones in the finale.

Fries was just the first Gander to win a championship. Teammate Eric Koch followed by defeating New Paltz's Sean Davis for the 98-pound title. Also winning for Rondout Valley were Josh Arvidson (126), Robert Parete (132), Doug Morse (145), Joe Petit (155), and Jack Flynn (215). All seven wrestlers were the top seed in his weight class.

Red Hook-Rhinebeck, which had three No. 1 seeds, had two individual champions. Steve Cherniske won the 112-pound crown by pinning Wallkill's Tom Kroemer in 2:16. Sophomore sensation Mike Bucci, who won the 177 championship last year for the Panthers, pinned Rondout Valley's Sean Camp for his second straight title.

Aside from Rondout Valley capturing just about everything in sight, the tournament also had its share of dark-horses and heroes.

Dave Sherman (105 pounds) and John Richardson (167), both of New Paltz, came into the day's action seeded third and fourth, respectively. Both went against the odds and came home with a championship. Coincidentally, both shared the title of tournament's most outstanding wrestler.

"The award means all the work has paid off. I had to work harder this year. I wanted the title more than anything. I deserved it because I've worked as hard as I've ever worked in my life," said Sherman, who won the championship last year. All this coming from one whose biggest problem of the day was making the required weight.

The heroes of the day were Ellenville's Sam Morales and Peter Ingham. Both wrestlers have had very little mat experience because of an absence of a varsity team at Ellenville. Most of their practice comes junior varsity wrestlers. So just being invited to the league championship tournament would be enough for these two. Not quite.

Morales, seeded fourth in the 250-pound class, pinned Saugerties' Gordon Freligh in the semifinals. He then shocked everyone by pinning New Paltz's Robert Knoth in the final. Ingham took third place in the 138-pound class.

"These are the only two kids I brought here to wrestle. They've only wrestled in two tournaments because we don't have a team (to compete in a league)," said Ellenville Coach John Burns. "I think their showing will be a boost for the program in the future. It's also great for the community."

Still, the day belonged to Rondout Valley.

"This feels as good as the first one did," said Morse, who has been on the team for all four championships. Morse is just one of four Ganders who defended their title. Palmer said that it is this type of experience that given his team the advantage over the last few years.

Valley Central runs away with OCL tourney

By FRANK CATIZONE
Record Correspondent

SLATE HILL — Defending titlist Valley Central crowned five champions and placed in 11 of the 14 weight classes to run away with the Orange County League tournament wrestling championships last night.

VC, which had the team crown sewed up following the semifinals, amassed 265 points to completely dominate the rest of the 13-school field. Monroe-Woodbury was a distant second with 153 points, and Minisink Valley (145½), Cornwall (139) and Port Jervis (130) followed.

Jeff Lewis of VC, who received the Frank Tschan Trophy as the tournament's most outstanding wrestler, remained unscored upon in his 33rd straight match as he pinned M-W's Kevin Connelly at 2:43 in their 126-pound championship bout.

The Vikings other champions were 98-pounder Jeff Duque, Lou Ruggirello (132), Johan Duque (138) and John Nickless (250). Finishing second for VC were Jimmy Duque (119) and Ed Conn (145).

Two-time state champion Jimmy Duque 8-3 in the 119-pound championship bout to improve his three-year varsity record to 95-0.
Cornwall's Ken Wojehowski, who won by technical fall final, won the Terry Cody Award as the event's most outstanding first-year varsity wrestler.

Second Chance For Young

FREDONIA, — This time Bill Young will have a second chance to reach states. Last year, the Randolph Central School wrestling standout didn't lose a match until the Section 6 finals, narrowly missing out on the New York State Tournament since only the sectional champ can advance. 2-22-88

Young lost for the first time this season Saturday, and again it was in the title round of a post-season tournament. Only this time, it was the Southern Tier Tournament.

With the top three wrestlers in each weight class advancing to this weekend's Section 6 state qualifier at the University of Buffalo-Amherst, Young, who entered the tournament at 26-0, undoubtedly will be anxious to meet Salamanca's Eric Swiech again.

On Saturday, Swiech needed all of 30 seconds to thwart Young's dreams of an undefeated season. The Salamanca 126-pounder led 3-0 early in the match, but Young scored an escape, then took Swiech down with a lateral drop and got a near fall for a 5-3 lead. Then came the turning point.

"Eric caught Bill off-balance then," said Randolph coach Doug Seamans. "With about 30 seconds left, he got a reversal and a near fall for the 7-5 win."

"Bill realizes that Eric beat him," Seamans said, "but he's not going to move (change weights) to avoid him. He doesn't feel bad about the loss. He knows where he made mistakes."

One crucial error may have been made before the tournament began.

"Bill felt that he would have a better chance (to advance) at 126 and he lost a lot of weight in just three days to make weight," Seamans noted. "That left him down two weights from where he's been most of the year."

While several onlookers thought Swiech, who was named the tournament's Most Outstanding Wrestler, pulled off a major surprise, Salamanca coach Rich Morton felt otherwise.

"Eric, in himself," Morton said, "is a great wrestler. I'm not taking anything away from Young, but Eric just went after him. Both are equally talented. They will probably meet again in Buffalo, hopefully in the finals."

Steve Felt (112 pounds) and Jim Quinn (215) also wrestled their way to Southern Tier titles for Salamanca, which will send six wrestlers to the state qualifier this weekend.

Other Big 30 wrestlers advancing are Gowanda's Jamie Kota (second at 98) and Olean High's Matt Jurenko (third at 167).

Allegany, Salamanca Each Advance Three

Allegany Central School and Salamanca each advanced three wrestlers into the second round of the Section 6 wrestling tournament on Friday night.

Steve Felt, Eric Swiech and Tom Mohr

all won for Salamanca, while Jim Quinn and Carey Hanson each received byes in the first round. Felt defeated Bob McMurray 10-2, Swiech scored a technical fall over Rick Kustra, 18-2, and Tom Mohr defeated Tim Ellis (28-3) by a 21-10 score. Hanson and Quinn will face each other today. 2-27-88

For Allegany, which is still looking for its first ever state qualifier, Matt Lippert, Ray Ryan and Tom Langdon each advanced, while fourth-seeded Mike Benca and Kevin Peterson, each lost.

Benca, a two-time placewinners lost in 4-0 overtime to Mike Carrel of Williamsville East. Ryan was a 13-2 winner over Hamburg's Scott Glogowski, while Langdon pinned Doug Truesdell of Williamsville East.

"I think everyone will feel a whole lot better tomorrow (today)," said Salamanca coach Rich Morton. "Pulling weight is tough. Langdon looks tough, he's got a chance. I think Ryan could do something but (Willie) Moss, the first seed, is very tough."

"Billy Young (of Randolph) is a very tough kid, I think he'll work his way out," said Morton. "He might see Swiech again barring an upset. But Swiech has two tough ones on Saturday."

Morton was disappointed in 7th-grader Shane Leder's loss to Portville's Eric Bowen, 10-3.

"Bowen took it right to him," said Morton. "Shane has beaten every kid who has beaten Bowen, but it was just styles. He threw him on his back in the first period and stayed in control the whole match."

"Tom Mohr (155) beat this (Tim) Ellis kid who he lost to in the regular season (13-12) and, cripe, he killed him. They looked good."

Other area wrestlers to advance were: Gowanda's Jamie Kota (98), who won 6-0 over Niagara-Wheatfield's Rick Brennan; Portville's Brian Bowen (126), who defeated Akron's Rob Cummings; Franklinville's Dave Moranski (167), who won by default when Lancaster's Tony Hernandez slammed him; and Cattaraugus' Jay Westfall (177), who defeated Eden's Eric Heltz, 11-6. 2-27-88

Franklinville's Matt Hall (132) had a first-round bye, while Mark Hall was eliminated at 145 with a 7-1 overtime loss to fourth-seeded John Georger of Clarence. Olean High's Matt Jurenko also bowed out, losing 5-3 to Akron's Mark Cummings (20-9).

SECTION 5 PRELIMINARIES

Alfred-Almond Advances Two

GENESEO — Alfred-Almond advanced two wrestlers to today's semifinals at the Section 5 Tournament, but two others weren't even able to compete.

Jason Emo (132 pounds) was hit in the head with a hockey stick at gym class Friday and wasn't able to receive his release from the hospital in time to make the trip, while 167-pounder Dan Johnson was sidelined with the flu.

Big 30 wrestlers who lost in the first round included: Alfred-Almond's Gary Ordway (91), Heath Wiebe (98), Tom Decker (165), E.J. Kenyon (177) and Ian Henderson (250); Bolivar's Jason Low (126) and Joe McDonald (132); and Williamsville's Brian Gray (145).

Lannie Herrick, with a 4-3 decision over Warsaw's Shannon Davies at 105, and Ken Porter, who earned a 5-2 decision at 126 over Pat-Mac's Ken Kelly, did make it past the first round for A-A.

Young And Ryan Earn First Trips To Syracuse

By CHUCK MASSARO
Times Herald Staff Writer

AMHERST — Seniors Ray Ryan of Allegany Central School and Bill Young of Randolph dominated their weight classes in the Section 6 wrestling championship tournament Friday and Saturday to join a dozen other champions who will represent Western New York this weekend in the state championships in Syracuse.

Ryan, who placed second in the section as a sophomore and fourth as a freshman, became Allegany's first sectional champion when he defeated Clarence's John Georger 11-5 in the 145-pound finals.

Ryan was seeded second behind Orchard Park's Brian Sartori, who was upset early in the tournament by Dion Rickard of Niagara Wheatfield. Last year, Ryan did not qualify for the sectional tournament, saying he lost too much weight too quickly and became sick near the end of the season.

"This year, I cut weight gradually and felt a lot stronger," said Ryan, who won three decisions, all by at least seven points, to earn a spot in the finals.

Young, third last year when he suffered his first loss of the season in the semifinals of the section championship, entered the weekend tournament unseeded at 126 despite boasting a 29-1 record.

TOURNAMENT organizers seeded only divisional champions, and because Young was beaten 7-5 a week earlier by Salamanca's Eric Swiech, he was not considered for a seed.

"That he wasn't seeded is a joke," said Randolph coach Doug Seamans said.

But it was Young who had the last laugh. He walked through the tournament, pinning his first two opponents and winning by a technical fall before beating Williamsville North junior Rob Kearney 11-4 in the finals.

"I think the loss last week to Swiech (7-5 in the Southern Tier Tournament finals) actually helped Bill because it took the pressure of being undefeated off him. It also showed him he had to cut weight sensibly, because he was a little drained last week," said Seamans.

Kearney prevented a finals rematch between Swiech and Young by taking a 5-3 decision over the second-seeded Salamanca junior in the semifinals.

Allegany Coach Chuck Curley came within two takedowns of sending three wrestlers to Syracuse. Curley said it was the first time in his 23 years of coaching that three Allegany wrestlers made it the finals.

"All of Allegany should be proud of these kids," said Curley.

"I think the biggest surprise team of the tournament is Allegany," said Jim Michael, former Williamsville South wrestler and son of State University at Buffalo coach Ed Michael. "We don't really hear too much about them up here, but they looked really good."

Allegany's Matt Lippert, who finished second a year ago at 91 pounds, dropped a 2-1 overtime decision to Grand Island's Nick Rastelli in the finals at 105.

"Lippert had a great match," said Curley, "but he just wasn't getting any calls. A lot of borderline calls weren't going his way."

Ray Ryan

"Green just neutralized Langdon's strength," Curley said. "That kid (Green) was strong... he was like two houses coming down the highway."

Four 1987 Section 6 champs defended their titles — Lou Rosselli (112) of Royalton-Hartland, Bob Jackson (98) of Sweet Home, Brian McGill (138) of Cheektowaga, and Ethan Bosch (167) of Iroquois.

Bosch recorded first-period pins in the semifinals and finals before being named the tournament's Outstanding Wrestler.

Also earning places on the Section 6 squad were three Jamestown area wrestlers, Paul Wendell (177) and Tom Meyers (250), both of Southwestern, and Green.

Other Big 30 wrestlers who reached the semifinals included Eric Bowen of Portville, fourth at 91; Jamie Kota of Gowanda, fourth at 98; Steve Felt of Salamanca, third at 112; Swiech, third at 126; Matt Hall of Franklinville, fourth at 132; and Jim Quinn of Salamanca, third at 215.

Hall lost by a point in the semifinals to Kenmore East's Marc Freda, the eventual champion.

Section 6 Wrestling

SECOND-SEEDED Tom Langdon, an Allegany junior who entered the 155 finals against Jamestown's Terry Green (31-1), gave up a first-period takedown and could not recover. With 40 seconds remaining and trailing 3-0, Langdon escaped from Green to make it 3-1. However, neither wrestler scored another point.

Weighty issue for wrestlers

Losing pounds adds wins

By AL MIANO
Staff Writer

It starts at the refrigerator, works its way into the sultry workout rooms and culminates on the scales. 2-24-88

Wrestling by the numbers, that's the way the game's played.

All certainly is not fair — or equal — in this sport. At least not in the training. The more you're overweight, the more you work.

Wrestlers lose weight for several reasons:

- There are 12 or 13 weight classes for dual meets and 14 for tournaments in New York state and a lineup has to be set by each team. Wrestlers have to be juggled by a coach so matchups become favorable.

- Just like a baseball team can't have 25 pitchers, you can't have a whole team of 177-pounders. So, some wrestlers have to drop a weight class.

- Many wrestlers think they have an advantage against a naturally smaller opponent, with a smaller frame or bone structure. Sometimes it works, sometimes not.

Maine-Endwell senior Brian Quick wraps himself in a few layers of sweatsuits before a recent practice and then heads into the wrestling room at M-E Middle School. He leads a bunch of hooded teammates in running laps around mats in the converted classroom.

The temperature is comparable to the beaches of balmy southern Florida, without the scenery. This is no vacation.

Quick, a senior with a 27-2 record this season, estimates that four pounds of water will seep out of his body before the end of the workout, a workout that includes drills, a couple of six-minute matches and conditioning.

"The most I've ever lost in practice is six pounds," said Quick, the Section 4 Class A runner-up at 155 pounds this season. That's more than 20 pounds lighter than the football playing weight he built up to for last fall.

Quick's diet during wrestling season consists of plenty of fruits, juices and salads.

"My mom is good about helping me out," said Quick, who will compete for a state tournament berth at the Section 4 Tournament Friday and Saturday at SUNY-Binghamton. "Whenever I'm at the fridge, she says 'How's your weight?'"

Jill Quick, Brian's helpful and inquisitive mom, also has another wrestling son, Darrin, a 119-pound junior. Mrs. Quick makes the right foods available for her sons.

"(Brian and Darrin) know what they have to do to stay healthy," said Jill Quick, who also has two other non-wrestling children. "I just make sure they have the fruits and salads available whenever they want it."

A wrestler in the waning hours before a match is more weight conscious than a high-priced model on shooting day.

"I weigh in before and after practice," Quick said, "and during school I check the scale at least once a day." 2-24-88

SUNY-Binghamton athletic trainer Chuck Hutchinson said losing too much weight too fast can put a wrestler in serious physical trouble.

"If weight is lost gradually, it's safe," he said. "A lot of wrestlers have at least 10 pounds of excess at the beginning of the season, so actually, he's only losing 10 pounds when he drops 20."

"If you're within five pounds (over wrestling weight) three days before a match or seven to 10 pounds a week before, then there should be no problem."

Maine-Endwell's Scott Takacs is in an entirely different wrestling world. He's a 210-pounder who had been competing in the 250-pound class most of the season, but wrestled as a heavyweight (215-pound limit) last weekend and won the Class A title.

"A few weeks earlier, there were no sweatsuits at practice, no hood for Takacs, who had been trying to reach 220 pounds.

"I've been eating a lot of everything," Takacs said at the time, while watching the rest of the M-E team circle the room. "Mostly, I eat milkshakes and bananas."

"The heat's cranked up and all the guys have to lose weight," Takacs said. "I'm trying to gain, so I cut my workout in half."

You won't knock yourself out trying to find a wrestler who has had enough of the weight-shedding.

Chenango Forks' Jim Shear is the only remaining undefeated heavyweight in Section 4. At 206 pounds, he's also one of the lightest.

Shear wrestled at 177 pounds last season, when he was a sectional runner-up. He's been playing football at about 200 pounds the last three seasons. He didn't want to have to get down to 177 again this winter.

"I feel strong at heavyweight," Shear said. "It might not look like I have the power to wrestle there, but I do."

Forks coach Rick Perkins said: "Jimmy's too big for 177. He's a heavyweight. That's where he'll stay."

Hutchinson said he hopes that one part of wrestling — dangerous weight-loss methods — is history.

"You hear different stories," he said. "Some about kids wearing rubber suits that are very dangerous because they don't allow the skin to breathe. I hope those days are gone."

Body fat determines top wrestling weight

Every wrestler has a certain weight at which his strength is maximized in relation to his competitors.

For example, one 158-pounder might feel his strongest at 145 pounds, while another 158-pounder is at his best at 155. Much depends upon body fat percentage, which can determine how much weight can be lost safely.

According to N.C. Hansen in Physician and Sportsmedicine: "Two wrestlers who both lose 20 pounds to compete against each other are an even match, but a boy at his normal weight and full strength has a clear advantage over a body weakened by starvation or dehydration."

The following are some weight-loss tips from the American College of Sports Medicine and SUNY-Binghamton trainer Chuck Hutchinson.

- Avoid total fasting or "dryout" that suggests the elimination of carbohydrates and salt. The additional salt loss through urine and perspiration greatly increases the possibility of sodium deficiency. 2-24-88

- Keep in mind that weight control is easy for some people and difficult for others.

- Body fat that makes up 5 to 7 percent of total body weight is ideal. Once body fat falls below 5 percent, the wrestler enters the "danger zone."

- Weight loss should not exceed five to seven pounds per week with lighter wrestlers having greater limitations.

- Conditioning programs should begin at least five weeks before final decisions are made as to the weight of competition.

- Weight fluctuations impair physical performance.

- The use of digitalis and other weight-loss drugs, such as diuretics or water pills, is strongly condemned.

Thorpe's Strength At 167 Sends Foes To Other Weights

By NEIL KERR

Led by unbeaten defending champion Rory Thorpe of Jordan-Elbridge, Section Three's finest wrestlers will gather at the Onondaga County War Memorial Saturday to decide championships in 14 weight classes. 2-25-88

All champions will advance to next weekend's 26th annual New York state Intersectional Meet, also at the War Memorial.

Thorpe, 30-0 with 99 career victories, placed fourth at the Intersectional Meet last March and is aiming to improve upon that effort this year. First, of course, the J-E senior needs to prevail over a strong field of 167-pound contenders Saturday.

"Thorpe is the best all-around wrestler I've seen in Section Three this year," said Fulton coach Mike Connors. "He's probably the section's top hope for a state championship."

Thorpe, one of six returning Section Three champions, is top-seeded at 167 pounds. His chief opposition should be second-seeded Rolly Houghton, 26-3, of Carthage, third-seeded Keith Watkins of Phoenix, 18-4, and fourth-seeded Dave Wise, 23-3, of Fulton.

So highly regarded is Thorpe that a number of other 167-pounders, such as Mike Aubel, 31-0, of Lowville, have abandoned that weight class to seek titles at different weights. Aubel, an All-State football player who competed at 167 and 177 pounds this season, has dropped down to 155 for the sectionals.

Besides Thorpe, other defending sectional champions are Len Combs (91 pounds in 1987) of Madison, Shawn Roggie (98) of Beaver River, Rick Pawlewicz (105) of Fulton, Ralph Howard (126) of Sauquoit Valley and Seamus Lyman (138) of Watertown. 2-25-88

This year, Combs has moved up to the 98-pound class, where he's top-seeded, Roggie is fourth-seeded at 113, Pawlewicz returns at 105, where he is second-seeded, Howard, 30-0, is top-seeded at 133 and Lyman, 29-0, is up to 145 where he's favored.

The heavyweight class is headed by still another former Section Three champ, 1986 167-pound champion Shane Carni, 24-2, of Liverpool. Top-seeded Carni, an All-State football player bound for the University of Delaware, was unable to successfully defend his title last winter. Carni this year suffered two losses to Ron Vitullo of New Hartford, but he defeated Vitullo 8-2 to win the heavyweight crown at the Class A meet last Saturday. 2-25-88

In all weight classes, a field of 16 qualifiers have earned berths at the War Memorial Saturday. Included in the field are the last seven undefeated wrestlers in Section Three — Thorpe, Aubel, Howard, Lyman, plus 177-pound Mark Alivero, 23-0, of Jordan-Elbridge, 145-pound contender Jeff Mower, 28-0, of Mohawk and 250-pound second-seed Kevin Hewitt, 7-0, also of J-E.

The only class containing more than one unbeaten wrestler is 145, where Lyman and Mower are the 1-2 seeds.

Other No. 1-seeded wrestlers are Tojo Poole, 27-1, of Baldwinsville at 91 pounds, Tim Fera, 28-2, of Vernon-Verona-Sheriff at 105, Pat Fitch, 28-1, of Cicero-North Syracuse at 112, Paul Creighton, 29-1, of South Jefferson at 119, Doug Christofferson, 24-4, of Cortland at 126, Brian Collins, 30-2, of Cicero-North Syracuse at 138, and David Palmer, 27-1, of Canastota at 250.

Creighton hopes to succeed his older brother, Jim, as Section Three 119-pound champion.

Palmer's only defeat this winter was at the hands of Liverpool's Carni in a dual meet won by Liverpool. 2-25-88

Baldwinsville, regular-season Onondaga North champion, is the defending team champion of the sectionals. Coach Terry Dillon's Bees, who placed second with 108.5 points to Fulton's 162 at last week's Class A tournament, are longshots to repeat. Top contenders are Fulton and Class C champion Jordan-Elbridge, with Class B champion Vernon-Verona-Sheriff and Class D king Beaver River other title possibilities.

NOTES — Already a two-time state champion, highly touted 119-pound sophomore Troy Bouzakis of Pine Bush Central in Section Nine owns a career record of 95-0 as he prepares to compete in this weekend's Section Nine finals. Bouzakis, who won previous state titles at 91 pounds in 1986 and 105 in 1987, will be favored to win his third state crown here next week. He is aiming to become the state's first-ever five-time champion. ... Lightweight 112-pound J.P. Epifanio of Queensbury in Section Two, who has already won his sectional title, has won 166 matches and should break the state record of 167 set by Marty King of Canandaigua in the War Memorial in 1984.

Valley Central finds home is right place section 9 wrestling

FRANK CATIZONE
Record Correspondent

MONTGOMERY — Valley Central Coach Bob Zifchock is already preparing himself for a close shave.

And he has a right to.

There are five reasons why Zifchock may have to make good on a bet following Saturday's state intersectional championships at the Onondaga County War Memorial in Syracuse.

Zifchock revealed yesterday that he agreed to a four-part bet with freshman Jeff Duque at the start of the 1987-88 wrestling season. And after the Vikings' domination in yesterday's Section 9 championships, three parts have already been accomplished.

Valley Central, which established a school record by crowning five individual champions, convincingly defended its sectional team title with 151 points. That, coupled with the Orange County League dual and tournament banners, has a razor pressing even closer towards Zifchock's upper lip.

"The tournaments weren't even a close shave," said Zifchock. "But I may have one myself next week."

Zifchock will have to shave his mustache off for the first time since 1974 if VC gets just one wrestler into the state finals.

"There's five chances to lose my mustache," smiled Zifchock. "Jeff Duque made the bet with me before the season."

"But I'm just ecstatic the way the kids wrestled. We set a school record with five going to the states and this is the first time since Port Jervis reigned that a team has won two straight sectional championships."

Valley Central, taking advantage of the friendly surroundings of its home turf, just may be the most dominating team since the great Port years of the '70s, said Minisink Valley Athletic Director Frank Carrozza.

"They're on a comparative level," said Carrozza. "But it's really hard to say just how good they are until they get to the states. Port had most of its kids place at the state level in 1978. Valley Central, though, may have more state experience with this team. They're very close."

Valley Central, which established an OCL record with 265 points in winning its league tournament last Saturday, finished well ahead of Mid-Hudson Athletic League champion Rondout Valley, which had 100 points. Surprising Cornwall placed third with 85 points, and Pine Bush (84½) and Minisink Valley (63½) rounded out the top five.

Jeff Lewis, last year's state runner-up at 119 pounds, will be making his fourth straight trip to Syracuse. Lou Ruggirello will travel upstate for the third time. John Nickless will be making his second trip, and brothers Johan and Jeff Duque will each be making their initial visit.

Lewis captured his fourth sectional championship by pinning Monroe-Woodbury's Kevin Connelly in 3:43 of their 126-pound class. It was the 36th straight time the undefeated Valley Central wrestler hasn't been scored upon this season.

"He hasn't giving up any points all season," said Zifchock. "But it took him a little while to adjust to Connelly this time. Connelly was doing something different. But it was all over once Jeff figured him out."

Ruggirello manhandled Sam Sicoli of Pine Bush for a technical fall in 3:05 at 132 after building a 16-0 lead. Nickless pinned Dave Asher of Pine Bush in 2:43 at 250; Johan Duque defeated Kingston's Dan Dunham 6-1 at 138, and undefeated freshman Jeff Duque pinned Rondout Valley's Eric Koch in 3:09 at 98.

"Ruggirello just wanted to go out and dominate the match from the start after last week," said Zifchock. "He just dominated the entire match and applied relentless pressure."

"Big John (Nickless) is back and I'm so happy for that kid. He's back with the authority and confidence I wanted to see in him. Jeff Duque was right on Koch from the start and never let him breathe. Johan Duque has improved tremendously and has just turned the corner. It was his first time in the finals and his first championship."

Defending two-time state champion Troy Bouzakis, who was voted the tournament's most outstanding wrestler, manhandled Jimmy Duque of VC 9-1 to capture the 119-pound title. The win improved the Pine Bush sophomore's career record to 98-0.

"This was my hardest sectional championship," said Bouzakis. "I had to overcome an injury plus wrestle a very tough opponent like Jimmy Duque. But I feel a lot better since last week and feel that practicing this week has helped loosen my shoulder."

"I've been undergoing therapy and it has worked. But I hope it's even better by the end of the week. I have one of the toughest weight classes in the tournament. It seems like my weight class is always stacked."

Cornwall's Ken Wojekowski captured the 91-pound title with a 4-0 win over Rondout's Todd Fries. Jay Brewer of Cornwall upset defending sectional champ Todd Kramer of Goshen 4-3 at 112 and John Fuller of Port Jervis beat Kent Findley of Pine Bush 5-3 for the 167-pound crown.

"Fuller has improved tremendously since the start of the season," said Port Coach Brian Seeber. "He's come a long way. It was an example of how hard work pays off."

Rondout will have Doug Morse, Joe Petit and Jack Flynn all making their second straight trips to Syracuse.

Morse trimmed Chris Bell of Minisink Valley 6-4 at 145, Petit outmuscled Clinton Troncone of New York Military Academy 6-2 at 155 and Flynn pinned Cornwall's Mike Kroemer in 4:49 at 215.

Petit, who earlier in the day secured the 100th win of his varsity career, didn't have an easy time with Troncone.

"Troncone was in it from the opening whistle until the final buzzer," said Petit, who raised his record to 101-15-1. "It (100 wins) is something I've wanted to hit before the end of the season."

Mike Bucci of Red Hook-Rhinebeck defending his 177-pound championship and Dave Sherman of New Paltz advanced upstate at 105. Bucci edged M-W's Matt Ladka 4-2 in a rematch of last year's finals and Sherman outlasted Cornwall's Terry Rich 4-0 in overtime.

SECT. 9 STATE WRESTLING TEAM

DB C Coverage

Four Area Grapplers Headed To States

By MICHAEL ZABRODSKY

AMHERST — Four area wrestlers will represent Section 6 at the New York State High School Wrestling Tournament this weekend in Syracuse.

Bill Young of Randolph will wrestle at 126 pounds, Jamestown's Terry Green at 155 pounds, Paul Wendel of Southwestern at 177 pounds and teammate Tom Meyers at unlimited after winning their respective Section 6 crowns at Sweet Home High School Saturday night.

At 126 pounds, Young just dominated Rob Kearney of Williamsville North 11-4.

In the first period, Young scored seven points on a takedown and on two-point and three-point near falls. He allowed Kearney only two points via reversal.

In the second period, Young was limited to scoring just one point by an escape and Kearney was held scoreless.

In the third, Young had Kearney on his back scoring a three-point near fall to raise the score to 11-2. Kearney struggled back with a takedown.

"He is the first wrestler in Randolph's school history to go to states," Randolph Coach Doug Seamons said. "His upset (loss to Salamanca's Eric) Swiech last week gave Billy a lot of determination to come out and wrestle and to win this week.

"I think he has a chance to place at the states. If he keeps the same attitude that he had this week, he'll go far."

Green set a new school record in the 155-pound match by beating Tom Langdon of Allegany 3-1. The record is 36 wins in a single season by the Red Raider and at the state meet he will try to better that mark.

The action got underway with Green scoring on a takedown and there was no further scoring in the first period.

FINALS

- 91: Rob Jaquin (Royalton-Hartland) d. Jason Conklin (Alden) 7-0.
- 98: Bob Jackson (Sweet Home) d. Matt Dawson (Newfane) 13-6.
- 105: Nick Rastelli (Grand Island) d. Matt Lippert (Allegany) 2-1 OT.
- 112: Lou Rosselli (Royalton-Hartland) p. Kevin Abatessa (Lancaster) 2:54.
- 119: Nelson Colley (Royalton-Hartland) d. Dennis Brown (Cassadaga Valley) 6-0.
- 126: Bill Young (Randolph) d. Rob Kearney (Williamsville North) 11-4.
- 132: Marc Freda (Kenmore East) d. Tom Shifflet (Sweet Home) 9-8. 2-29-88
- 138: Brian McGill (Cheetowaga) d. Jason Caprio (Niagara Wheatfield) 11-1.
- 145: Ray Ryan (Allegany) d. John Georger (Clarence) 11-5.
- 155: Terry Green (Jamestown) d. Tom Langdon (Allegany) 3-1.
- 167: Ethan Bosch (Iroquois) p. John Wangelin (East Aurora) 1:32.
- 177: Paul Wendel (Southwestern) d. Chuck Gibson (Jamestown) 4-2.
- Hvy: Al Wooten (Niagara Falls) d. Bob Bandish (Sweet Home) 11-4.
- Uni: Tom Meyers (Southwestern) p. Chuck Nesbitt (Albion) :35.

The second period had Green scoring on an escape while Langdon scored on an escape in the third period.

"It was a low scoring match, but Terry was in control," Red Raider Coach Tom Simmons said. "He wrestled real good and looked great. One-hundred-fifty-five pounds has to be the toughest weight class in this tournament."

Two area wrestlers battled for the 177-pound crown. Wendel edged Chuck Gibson of Jamestown 4-2 for the right to compete in the state tourney.

Wendel scored all of his points in the first period on a takedown and a two-point nearfall. Gibson came back with a two-point nearfall in the second period and neither scored in the third.

"He's wrestled Chuck four times now and each time Chuck has improved," Southwestern Coach Walt Thurnau said. "Chuck neutralized a lot of P.J.'s moves tonight and as a result it was a low-scoring match."

"Chuck is a first year varsity wrestler and he wrestled well," Simmons said. "I'm very pleased with his performance tonight."

In the unlimited class, Meyers registered the fastest pin in the finals. He pinned Chuck Nesbitt of Albion in 35 seconds to earn a trip to the state tournament.

Meyers was leading 2-0 before he capitalized on a Nesbitt mistake and that was it.

"We were concerned because of Nesbitt's weight," Thurnau noted. "Tom took control because of his quickness. We're pleased."

In other action, at 119 pounds Dennis Brown of Cassadaga Valley was defeated by Nelson Colley of Royalton-Hartland 6-0.

Colley scored on a takedown in the first period and came back to score on a reversal and another takedown in the third period.

At 91 pounds, Rob Jaquin of Royalton-Hartland blanked Jason Conklin of Alden 7-0. Rob Jackson of Sweet Home earned a trip to the state tournament by beating Matt Dawson of Newane 13-6 in the 98-pound match.

Nick Rastelli of Grand Island beat Matt Lippert of Allegany 2-1 in overtime on a poor judgment call for the 105-pound title. Royalton-Hartland's powerhouse, Lou Rosselli, pinned Lancaster's Kevin Abatessa in 2:34 of the 112 match and Marc Freda of Kenmore East nipped Tom Shifflet of Sweet Home 9-8 in the 132-pound match.

At 138 pounds, Brian McGill of Cheetowaga crushed Jason Caprio of Niagara-Wheatfield 11-1 and Ray Ryan of Allegany beat John Georger of Clarence 11-5 in the 145-pound match. At 167, Ethan Bosch of Iroquois pinned John Wangelin of East Aurora in 1:32 and Al Wooten of Niagara Falls bested Rob Bandish of Sweet Home 11-4 for the heavyweight crown.

6 defending champs keep wrestling titles

By Donna Ditota

Before the first wrestler had grappled with the odds of winning a Section Three title Saturday, coaches had penciled Jordan-Elbridge's Rory Thorpe as an overwhelming favorite.

Thorpe, who had won a title last year at 167 pounds, swaggered into the tournament owning a gaudy 30-0 record and needing just one win to reach the 100-career-win plateau.

He reached the final with opponents having scored just two points against him all afternoon. Then in the championship match, he dominated Rolly Houghton of Carthage, streaking to a 12-0 lead before disposing of Houghton with a technical fall at the 5:18 mark. 2-28-88

In doing so, he not only became one of six champions to successfully defend their Section Three crowns, he also earned Most Outstanding Wrestler honors.

"He's been pretty consistent all year. I think he's paced himself well for these matches," J-E coach Mike Frood said. "He's been pretty much dominating everybody all year long. This is typical Rory."

JUST AS TYPICALLY, the soft-spoken Thorpe brushed off suggestions that he has become a dominating force in Section Three wrestling circles.

"I'm not going to let it get to my head or anything," said Thorpe, who finished with 103 career wins Saturday. "I'm just going to go out and wrestle one match at a time."

Thorpe will get that chance next Saturday, when Section Three's best square off against New York state's other sectional champions in the state meet. The event, like the Section Three match, will be held at the Onondaga County War Memorial Friday and Saturday.

Thorpe, who finished fourth at the state meet last year, will be joined by five wrestlers who have represented Section Three before.

Madison's Len Combs, Fulton's Rick Pawlewicz, Beaver River's Shawn Roggie, Sauquoit Valley's Ralph Howard and Watertown's Seamus Lyman all successfully defended their Section Three crowns, though most admitted to feeling the strains of being the favorite.

"THERE IS a lot of pressure," Pawlewicz said. "You're expected to do better than everyone else, but really you're just another person on the mat."

"Certainly there's pressure from other people to win again, but more than that, there's pressure from yourself," said Combs, who now has 122 career wins.

Combs won a 9-0 decision over Troy Grabow of Vernon-Verona-Sherrill at 98, while Pawlewicz shut out John Vitullo of New Hartford, 4-0.

At 112, Roggie got a reverse in the match's closing seconds to beat Dan Pawlewicz, 4-2, while Howard dominated Central Square's Jamie Coppola, 15-1, at 132.

Lyman, meanwhile, pinned Mohawk's Jeff Mower in the 145-pound finals. Just a sophomore, Lyman has already accumulated 82 career wins.

Other Section Three champions included 91-pounder Kurt Peavey of Madison, who pinned South Jefferson's Isaac Garvin, and Paul Creighton of South Jefferson, who scored a 5-2 decision over Camden's Dennis Albericc at 119 to earn his 122nd career win.

Also, South Jefferson's Rick Pierce, who beat Daryl Trew of Beaver River, 15-11 at 126, and 138-pounder Roger Howard of Indian River, who slipped past top-seeded Brian Collins of Cicero-North Syracuse, 4-2.

AT 155, Lowville's Mike Aibel notched his 138th career win with a convincing 14-2 win over Beaver River's Don Mattimore, while 177-pounder Mark Alivero of J-E scored a takedown in the final period to beat Indian River's Tom Lynch, 4-3. 2-28-88

At 215, Ron Vitullo avenged an 8-2 loss to Liverpool's Shane Carni in last week's Class A finals by beating Carni, 6-2. Vitullo scored an escape and a near fall in the match's final 30 seconds to rally from a 2-1 deficit.

Top-seeded Dave Palmer of Canastota, meanwhile, jumped out to a 5-0 lead, then held on for a 5-3 win over Madison's Mark Lewis at 250. Palmer's win was the 113th of his career.

Fulton took the team title with 93.5 points. The Red Raiders placed six wrestlers in the semifinals, and wrapped up the championship before the finals even began by scoring three third-place finishes in the consolation round.

"We wrestled really well," first-year Fulton coach Mike Connors said. "I wish Dan Pawlewicz could have gotten a win, but he wrestled well. All the kids wrestled as well as they could have."

Defending champion Baldwinville did not place a wrestler in the finals, and wound up a disappointing 10th, while J-E and Madison tied for second with 72.5 points each.

State Bid: Ryan, Young

By TOM ROOF
Times Herald Sports Writer

SYRACUSE — Even if they share nothing else in common, both Randolph Central School wrestling coach Doug Seamans and Allegany mentor Chuck Curley agree losing isn't always bad.

And they can use the progressions of Billy Young and Ray Ryan as a strong case in point.

Two weeks ago, Young lost for the first time this season when Salamanca's Eric Swiech beat him 7-5 in the Southern Tier Tournament finals, a setback Seamans believes "relieved much of the pressure of being undefeated."

Billy Young

And indeed, Seamans may have been right. Last weekend at the Section 6 state qualifier, Young breezed through the 126-pound weight class to become Randolph's first-ever sectional champ.

3-4-88

"I think losing has been a benefit," Seamans said. "It exposed his vulnerability and he worked on improving that. It also added a lot of pressure being undefeated with everyone shooting for you. But with that out of the way, he wrestled as good as I have ever seen him wrestle."

Ryan, meanwhile, has yet to lose this year and will cart a 31-0 record onto the mats when wrestling gets under way today at the 26th annual New York State Inter-Sectional Championships here at the War Memorial. But he, too, hasn't forgotten his last defeat, one that came during last year's Tri-County League qualifier that kept him from being a five-time league champ.

"He remembers," asserted Curley, who was two takedowns away last weekend from having three state qualifiers from Allegany. "He wasn't himself at the end of last season. He had the flu, was cutting too much weight, wasn't eating properly, but was still trying to work as hard as he likes to. But it was just too much for him . . . he was totally worn out and it took all the strength out of him."

"And then when he lost, he was very, very disappointed. But looking back, that's the driving force he had this year

N.Y. State Wrestling

. . . the denial he had last year."

ALLEGANY'S FIRST-EVER state representative, Ryan (146-18 career) is one of four unbeaten wrestlers at 145, two of whom are in his bracket — sophomore Seamus Lyman (32-0) of Watertown (Sec. 3), and senior Dave Robbin (32-0) of Arlington (Sec. 1). Both are returning qualifiers with Robbin placing fifth last year at 132 after losing in the semifinals, 7-

3, to eventual champ Tony Ferrara of Sidney.

3-4-88

Also back, but in the upper bracket, is Jim Hubert (35-0) of Queensbury (Sec. 2), a first-round loser at 145 last March and a favorite this year. Two other second-time qualifiers, Robert Bryan of Truman (PSAL) and senior Doug Morse (29-4) of Rondout Valley (Sec. 9) also return.

"If Ray stays within his program, he stands a very good chance of winning," Curley said. "He needs to stay with his singles, doubles, ankle-picks and bars. He's a tremendously quick wrestler, but if he becomes real cautious or gets away from what he's good at, someone's going to make it hard for him."

Receiving a bye in the first round, Ryan will meet the winner of a match between Canisius senior Mike Mazzara (25-6), the Catholic High School Athletic Association representative, and Section 7 champ John Goodeau (20-8) of Peru. A win there would put Ryan in the semifinals.

YOUNG (33-1), Randolph's all-time winningest wrestler with a 150-15-1 record, has landed in a loaded weight class that includes three-time state placewinner Darryl Page of Elmira Notre Dame (Sec. 4) and returning runner-up Jeff Lewis of Valley Central (Sec. 9).

Page (35-0) was a state champ at 91 pounds in 1985, placed second to Royalton-Hartland's Lou Rosselli two years ago at 98, and was third last year behind Pine Bush freshman Troy Bouzakis and Rosselli at 105.

3-4-88

But while Page is in the opposite bracket of Young, Lewis isn't. Second at 119 last year, Lewis (148-10 career) is 36-0 and has not been scored on this season.

Also back at 126 are returning qualifiers Jim McGonigle (25-5) of St. Anthony's (CHSAA), Keith Mason (27-3) of Peru, and Young's first-round opponent Jack Staracio (27-0) of North Babylon (Sec. 11).

"After losing at sectionals last year, Billy knows how it feels to come close," Seamans said. "Now, as a senior, he knows this is his only chance to be a champion, so he'll be giving it his best shot . . . which is what we've all come to expect from him."

"Ever since he came here from Seagertown (Pa.) in sixth grade, we knew he was going to be good. He had as much raw talent then as any wrestler I've seen. You could tell he was a cut above the rest."

In addition to Bouzakis (30-0, 98-0), a two-time titlist, Ferrara, Frank Fronhofer (91, now at 98) of Salem (Sec. 2), and Rick Sadwick (back at 155) of Hilton (Sec. 5) return as champions.

Wrestling begins today at 3:30 p.m. and Saturday at 10 a.m. with the semifinals and wrestlebacks.

Prospects Bright for Section 3

Strong Team Competes in State Meet

By NEIL KERR

Led by undefeated 167-pound class favorite Rory Thorpe of Jordan-Elbridge, a strong and experienced Section Three team figures to contend for team honors at the 26th annual State Intersectional Wrestling Tournament this weekend.

The tournament begins at 3:30 p.m. today at the Onondaga County War Memorial. Semifinals are at 10 a.m. Saturday, followed by afternoon wrestlebacks, 6:30 p.m. consolation bouts and 8:15 p.m. finals.

Thorpe, 34-0 and a fourth-place finisher at last year's state meet, has been working out with Section Three champion Mark Alivero to improve his strength and stamina.

"I'm ready," said Thorpe. "Last year, I was happy just to win the sectionals and make it as far as the states. This year, if I can keep total concentration in every match and not make mistakes, I might be able to win." 3-4-88

Thorpe is one of six wrestlers on the Section Three team who repeated their sectional titles.

Partly because of that amount of state meet experience, the team figures to challenge defending champion Section Eight and Section Eleven for team scoring honors.

The combined won-lost records of the Section Three champions are 447-16-1.

"This looks like the best Section Three lineup in the last four years or so," said sectional team coach Mike Frood of Jordan-Elbridge. "I see at least five kids who are capable of winning state titles. All of the other guys should be able to finish among the place-winners."

Frood pointed to Len Combs, 34-1, of Madison at 98 pounds; Rick Pawlewicz, 31-2, of Fulton at 105; Ralph Howard, 34-0, of Sauquoit Valley at 132; sophomore Seamus Lyman, 32-0, of Watertown at 145; and Thorpe as Central New York's chief hopes for individual state crowns.

Those five, in addition to 112-pound Shawn Roggie of Beaver River, are two-time sectional champions.

Last March, Combs took second at 91 pounds and Thorpe took fourth while the others failed to finish among the top six. All are rated among the top contenders in their weights this weekend.

Not since 1985, when George Korthas of Central Square earned the 250-pound title, has Section Three been able to boast of a state champion. 3-4-88

The remainder of the Section Three team are 91-pound Kurt Peavey, 34-3, of Madison; 119-pound Paul Creighton, 36-1, of South Jefferson; 126-pound Rick Pierce, 31-1, of South Jefferson; 138-pound Roger Howard, 33-1, of Indian River; 155-pound Mike Aubel, 35-0, of Lowville; 177-pound Alivero, 27-0, of J-E; 215-pound Ron Vitullo, 34-2, of New Hartford; and 250-pound Dave Palmer, 31-1, of Canastota.

Four 1987 state champions return. Much interest will be focused on sophomore Troy Bouzakis of Pine Bush, 98-0 for his career and already a two-time state champion. Bouzakis will wrestle at 119 pounds.

Also bidding to defend titles will be 98-pound Frank Fronhofer, 29-0, of Salem; 132-pound Tony Ferrara, 26-1, of Sidney; and 155-pound Rick Sadwick, 32-0-1, of Hilton.

Fronhofer was the 91-pound champion last March. The other two return at their 1987 weights.

A prediction for each weight class:

91 pounds — A potential all-Long Island final could develop with Doug Yerkes of Levittown Division favored to oppose Bill Burrell of Bayport for the title. If that showdown fails to materialize, Peavey of Madison could surprise Yerkes and move into the finals. Yerkes, however, is picked to beat Burrell for the title.

98 pounds — Look for a rematch involving last year's 91-pound finalists, Fronhofer of Salem and Combs of Madison. Lodged in opposite brackets, those familiar foes should collide again unless Don Ross of Sachem upsets Combs or Bob Jackson of Sweet Home upsets Fronhofer. Fronhofer, who beat Combs 5-1 last year, may duplicate that outcome Saturday night.

105 pounds — Pawlewicz appears capable of reaching the finals from the lower bracket. He must get past Yu Matsui of Shoreham-Wading River. From the upper bracket, James Vasaturo of Massapequa is favored to reach the title bout.

112 pounds — Four-time place-winner Lou Roselli of Royalton-Hartland is favored. In the same bracket, J.P. Epifanio of Queensbury has 167 career wins — one short of the state record set by Marty King of Canandaigua in 1984. Roselli has placed 3-1-2 at the meet the last three years and should defeat Epifanio en route to the finals. There, Ko Matsui, older brother of Yu, should be waiting. Roselli over Matsui for the crown with Epifanio third. 3-4-88

119 pounds — Bouzakis was New York's first-ever 8th-grader to win a state title. Aiming to become a five-time state champion, Bouzakis, who was named "Most Outstanding Wrestler" here in 1987, should get crown No. 3 Saturday. Bouzakis faces a tough quarterfinal with Lance Banfi of Sachem before opposing either Joe Amuso of Fox Lané or Creighton of South Jefferson in the finals. Bouzakis over Amuso Saturday.

126 pounds — Jeff Lewis of Valley Central, 36-0, has not allowed a point to be scored against him all winter. Lewis should muscle through the lower bracket, to face either four-time place-winner Daryl Page of Elmira Notre Dame or Ted Stachtariis of Plainview in the finals. Lewis over Stachtariis.

132 pounds — Defending champion Ferrara of Sidney is favored. Ferrara is expected to advance through the lower bracket, with either Howard of Sauquoit Valley or Chris LoPresti of Spencerport likely to earn the other berth. Ferrara over LoPresti for the crown.

138 pounds — Here, the top six competitors are all bunched in the lower bracket. From that group, Darrin Simons of Island Trees or 1987 runner-up Brian McGill of Cheektowaga should reach the finals. There, Peter Bashark of Suffern is the most likely qualifier from the other bracket. Simons over Bashark in the final.

145 pounds — Jim Hubert of Queensbury is the top pick at this weight, but a well-balanced field could produce an upset. Hubert should reach the finals from the upper bracket. Two-time Section Three champion Lyman of Watertown or Dave Robin of Arlington should emerge from a tougher lower bracket. Hubert over Lyman in the title match.

155 pounds — Sadwick of Hilton is picked to reach the finals. There, Kurt Lassen of Connetquot should be waiting. An upset is the prediction with Lassen edging the defending state champion in the title match.

167 pounds — Thorpe is the favorite. He was named outstanding wrestler of last week's Section Three meet and should advance through the lower bracket, though returning Keith Smith of Roy C. Ketcham figures to be a rugged opponent. In the finals, Thorpe should outscore Ethan Bosch of Iroquois. 3-4-88

177 pounds — A pair of 1987 place-winners, Adam Mariano of Conseqogue and T.J. Wright of Burnt Hills, are likely to advance into perhaps the most exciting title bout of the finals. This class has plenty of contenders, but it should be Mariano over Wright for first.

215 pounds — Mike Heller of Farmingdale, younger brother of 1980 state champion and former Penn State football lineman Ron Heller, is picked to reach the finals from one bracket. Meanwhile, the survivor of an opening match pairing Eric Strovink of Shoreham-Wading River and Jim Shear of Chenango Forks should also reach the finals. Strovink over Heller for the crown. 250 pounds — A pair of two-time sectional champs, Jeff Way of Peru and Geoffrey Fisher of Massapequa, are favored to advance from opposite brackets in ven, Suffolk County, is capable of Saturday's final title match with taking team honors. Led by Burrell, Ross, the Matsui brothers, Banfi, Lassen, Mariano and Strovink, Section Eleven occupies the favorite's role.

- OUT LOOK -

132 Pounds--Looks like a repeat title for Ferrara-4, who should muscle through the lower bracket handily. In finals, either LoPresti-5 or Howard-3 will give Ferrara a serious workout, though. (There are two LoPresti brothers here, and Mike was a 1986 state champ). Ferrara over LoPresti, 8-4.

N.Y.S. Wrestling

138 Pounds--Lower bracket contains the top 6 competitors, while winner of Bashark-Duque-9 opening match in other bracket should reach finals. From ferocious lower bracket, we see battle-worn Simons-8 emerging to win crown. Simons-8 over Bashark-1 in title match, 12-2. St. John 3 - Part Jeff, Johan Dugue 9.

145 Pounds--Returning Hubert-2 is favored in top bracket while veterans Lyman-3 and Robin-1 look like the cream of the crop in lower half. Lyman, a soph, will be a state champion by 1990, maybe 1989, possibly 1988. It should be Robin-Lyman winner. Hubert over Lyman Saturday night, 7-5. Kingston 4 was 155 Pounds--Sadwick-5 defends, but our crystal ball says, "Upset."!!! We see Sadwick losing, either to Aubel-3 in his own bracket or to Lassen-11 in the championship match. Looks like Lassen over Sadwick, 6-4. (Don't be sad, Rick. We will send 5 pizzas to the Hilton team if we're wrong). Pizza Hut..

167 Pounds--The "MOW" in Section Three, Thorpe, was 4th last year and looks absolutely unbeatable. Rory should roll through the lower bracket, while Bosch-6 advances thru upper bracket with close win over McCarthy-11. A crunching final should match returners Thorpe over Bosch, 12-4.

177 Pounds--An exciting title match showdown of mastodons should pit muscular mauler Mariano-11 against the Burnt Hills behemoth, T.J. Wright. Those are the top two, though Buccini-9, Farr-4 and Franz-8, among others hope to spoil the aforementioned title bout scenario. It won't happen. Mariano over Wright, 10-5. Maybe a pin...

215 Pounds--The crystal ball sees another fascinating title bout, with Mike "The Incredible Hulk" Heller-8 vs. Eric "The Giant" Strovink-11 in a Long Island collision. Shear-4 and Wooten-6 may surprise, but we see Strovink over Heller, 10-2. (Heller is younger brother of 1980 state champ Ron).

250 Pounds--Fisher-8 returns, should reach finals from lower bracket, vs returning Jeff Way-7. In final: Fisher over Way, 8-5. Section scoring: Eleven king. Over 8, 3, 4, 2, 1, 5, 6. ---

132 Pounds: (Upper Bracket): 1st round--Chris LoPresti (Spencerport-5) 35-0 vs. Rosheem Presley (D. # State wrestling tourney opens at War Memorial

By Donna Ditota
Staff Writer

Headliners include 6 repeat Section Three champs

They spent Wednesday afternoon sprawling on the wrestling mats at East Syracuse-Minoa High School before posing for pictures and shedding some sweat in an hour-long practice. 3-4-88

Today, the 14 assorted-size athletes will pull on identical gold uniforms and represent Section Three in the New York State wrestling tournament.

This weekend, 182 of the state's top prep wrestlers will gather at the Onondaga County War Memorial to begin the two-day state wrestlefest. Today's activities were set to kick off at 3:30 p.m. and include the preliminary round and tonight's quarterfinals.

On Saturday, semifinals should start at 10 a.m., with the consolation finals set for 6:30 and the finals for 8:15.

Section Three coach Mike Frood, who doubles as the Jordan-Elbridge coach, predicts a strong showing for his squad, but gives the overall team edge to sections Eight and 11.

Frood will guide a team headlined by six repeat Section Three champions. Included within that group are Len Combs of Madison (98 pounds), Rick Pawlewicz of Fulton (105), Shawn Roggie of Beaver River (112), Ralph Howard of Sauquoit Valley (132), Seamus Lyman of Watertown (145) and Rory Thorpe of J-E (167).

"I think we've gotten a real good draw this year. Generally speaking our kids are in good places," Frood said. "I like our returning sectional champions, in particular, Combs, Howard, Pawlewicz, Thorpe and Lyman. I think those five will have a real good shot at doing well."

Here's a look at some of the other favorites, gleaned heavily from Frood's expertise: 3-4-88

91 pounds — Section Eight's Doug Yerkes tops the list of favorites in this lightest of weight classes. Yerkes is a senior from Levittown Division High School who sports a 22-2 mark this season. Included among other strong contenders are Rob Jaquin of Section Six and Bill Burrell of Section 11.

Section Three's Kurt Peavey, from Madison, is also expected to fare well.

98 pounds — Spectators should see a replay of last year's 91-pound final, with Section Three's Combs and Section Two's Frank Fronhofer squaring off for the 98-pound title.

Fronhofer won the state crown last year, though some say Combs could beat him this time around. Others to consider include Don Ross of Section 11, a junior who owns a 30-0 mark.

105 pounds — This is another class where Section Three figures to fare well. Frood likes Fulton's Pawlewicz.

Pawlewicz, 31-2 this year, should see his biggest threat from Section Eight's James Vasaturo, a senior who sports a 22-2-2 mark. Section 11's Yu Matsui also comes highly regarded.

112 pounds — Lou Rosselli of Section Six finished second last year to "Most Outstanding Wrestler" Troy Bouzakis at 105, and returns to the state tourney looking tough to beat at 112. Section Two's J.P. Epifanio, he of the 167 career wins, could wreak havoc on Rosselli's plans, though, since both could meet before the finals. 3-4-88

Epifanio needs just one victory to tie the state record of 168 career wins. He should get it in his first outing Friday, but will have a tough time earning the mark outright should he face Rosselli in the next round.

In the upper bracket, Ko Matsui, brother of 105-pounder Yu, looks like the other finalist.

Roggie, a two-time Section Three champion, has a 21-4-1 mark this year.

119 pounds — Bouzakis is the clear-cut favorite here, and for good reason. The Pine Bush (Section Nine) sophomore has never lost a high school match; he is 98-0 and already has two state titles.

He should cruise to the final, where Section One's Joe Amuso or Section Three's Paul Creighton could await him.

Amuso, 150-23 career-wise, finished sixth at 112 last year, while South Jefferson's Creighton owns a 36-1 mark this season.

125 pounds — This one should pair Section Nine's Jeff Lewis with Section Four's Daryl Page in the final. Lewis, 36-0, has not had a point scored against him all season and was the runner-up at 119 last year.

Page, meanwhile, is 35-0 and a four-time Section Four champion who was third at 105 last season after winning the 91-pound state title his freshman year.

Look for Ted Stachtariis of Section Eight to also contend.

Section Three's contribution: South Jefferson's Rick Pierce. The Spartans senior is 31-1 this season.

132 pounds — Section Four's Tony Ferrara returns to defend his state title at 132, but Frood likes Section Three's Ralph Howard and Section Nine's Lou Ruggirello in the title match.

Howard, 34-0, hails from Sauquoit Valley, while Ruggirello, 33-1, attends Central Valley.

138 pounds — Brian McGill of Section Six finished second to Ferrara at 132 last year, and looks to be the favorite at the upper weight. The Cheektowaga senior sports a 33-1 mark, but should be tested by Darrin Simons of Section Eight in the lower bracket. 3-4-88

In the upper bracket, Frood likes Section Nine's Johan Duque of Valley Central, though Section One's Pete Bashark could surprise.

For Section Three, Indian River's Ralph Howard takes to the mats. Howard is 33-1 this season.

145 pounds — Unbeaten Jim Hubert from Section Two should be favored here. The Queensbury senior is 35-0 this year.

In the lower bracket a battle could be waged between Section One's Dave Robin and Section Three's Seamus Lyman. Robin, an Arlington senior, finished fifth last year at 132 and sports a perfect 32-0 mark this season.

Lyman, meanwhile, won his second straight Section Three title last week. Just a sophomore, he has already accumulated 82 career wins.

155 pounds — State champion Rick Sadwick of Section Five returns to defend his title in the same weight class. Sadwick is 32-0-1 this season, but could be pushed by Section Three's Mike Aubel in the lower bracket.

Sauquoit Valley's Aubel owns a 138-30 career mark and is 35-0 this year.

Whoever emerges from the lower bracket should be severely tested by Section 11's Kurt Lassen. Lassen, a Connetquot senior, is 33-0, and some feel he could emerge from this tourney with a state title in hand.

167 pounds — Section Three's Thorpe, 34-0 and last week's Most Outstanding Wrestler, should be a strong favorite in this class.

He should see his stiffest competition from Section Six's Ethan Bosch in the finals. Bosch, an Iroquois senior, earned the Section Six MOW. He is 35-1.

177 pounds — Junior Adam Mariano of Section 11 was runner-up in this weight class last year, and should be a strong factor here. The Comsewogue junior sports a 33-0 mark this season, but should be challenged by T.J. Wright of Section Two. 3-4-88

Wright, a Burnt Hills senior, owns 155 career wins and a 28-0 mark this year.

The Section Three entry, Mark Alivero of Jordan-Elbridge, is 27-0 this season.

215 pounds — Another Section 11 entry, this one Eric Strovink of Shoreham-Wading River, looks like a favorite, though Strovink may be tested in the lower bracket by Jim Shear of Section Four. Strovink is 30-0 this season, while Shear sports a 31-0 mark and has not had a point scored against him all season.

In the upper bracket, Mike Heller of Section Eight looks tough to beat; he's a Farmingdale senior with a 25-1 record.

Section Three's Ron Vitullo of New Hartford will compete here. Vitullo, a Spartans junior, is 34-2 this year.

250 pounds — Three-time state competitor Jeff Way from Section Seven looks like a contender along with Section Eight's Geoffrey Fisher.

Way, a Peru junior, owns a 15-0 mark this year, while Massapequa senior Fisher is 24-0.

From Section Three, David Palmer of Canastota carries a 31-1 mark into the tournament.

Eight from Section Three Qualify for State Semifinals

By NEIL KERR

Led by Lenny Combs of Madison at 98 pounds and undefeated Rory Thorpe of Jordan-Elbridge at 167, Section Three qualified eight wrestlers for the today's semifinals of the 26th annual state Intersectional Wrestling Tournament at the Onondaga County War Memorial Friday. 3-5-88

After two rounds of competition, the Section Three team has 81 points, trailing only Section Eleven of Suffolk County, which had accumulated 85.5 points.

Combs and Thorpe both won their opening pair of bouts impressively.

Combs, 36-1 and state runner-up at 91 pounds last March, pinned Section Ten champion John Filiatrault of Canton in 1 minute, 28 seconds of the opening period.

Then, in a rugged quarterfinal test, Combs came from behind and eventually scored another pin over Section Eleven champion Don Ross of Sachem.

Combs trailed 4-0 early in that match before rallying in the second and third periods, building an 11-7 lead before pinning his foe in 4:44.

"I got off to a bad start," said Combs. "Sometimes, it takes me until the second period to get warmed up."

Thorpe, 36-0 for the season, won his opening bout by pin in 2:41 of the match over John Fuller of Port Jervis. The J-E senior, fourth in the state at the same weight a year ago, then scored an 8-2 victory over Section Four champion Doug Anthony of Waverly in his quarterfinal match.

Joining Combs and Thorpe in the 10 a.m. semifinals are Central New Yorkers Kurt Peavey of Madison at 91 pounds, returning Rick Pawlewicz of Fulton at 105, Paul Creighton of South Jefferson at 119, two-time sectional champion Ralph Howard of Sauquoit Valley at 132, two-time sectional king Seamus Lyman of Watertown at 145 and junior Ron Vitullo of New Hartford at heavyweight.

"Our team is wrestling as well as they're capable of," said sectional team coach Mike Frood of Jordan-Elbridge.

"Sending eight kids into the semifinals is outstanding. I think at least five of them — maybe more — are capable of making it into the state finals and maybe becoming state champions. Whether or not we win the (sectional) team title will depend mainly on how well the defeated kids do in the wrestlebacks. We've emphasized all week that it's important not to give up after one loss.

"The section that takes the most thirds, fourths and fifth places usually ends up winning the sectional title."

While Section Three advanced eight qualifiers to the semifinals, Section Eleven sent 11 of its 14 members into the semis.

During Friday's opening rounds, three defending state champions advanced into the semifinals, but one upset took place in the quarterfinal rounds of the 119-pound class.

Two-time state champion Troy Bouzakis of Pine Bush suffered a controversial overtime loss, the first defeat of his scholastic career after 89 victories.

Facing Lance Banfi of Sachem, Bouzakis and his Section Eleven rival fought to a 2-2 tie in regulation and a 0-0 deadlock in the required three one-minute overtime periods.

At the conclusion, Banfi was declared the winner on overtime criteria. The criteria point involved a stalling warning issued to Bouzakis during the second extra session.

Most observers, including Frood, disagreed with the stalling call.

"That was a terrible call against Bouzakis," said Frood, himself a referee. "I would never have made that call. Or, if I had, I would have made the call both ways (against both wrestlers) because it isn't right for a referee to decide a match like that, involving wrestlers of that caliber."

Had it not been for the stalling call, Bouzakis would have been declared the winner because he had recorded the first and only takedown of the match, during regulation time.

Bouzakis, state champion at 91 and 105 pounds the last two years here, was bidding for his 100th career victory.

The sophomore owns a career mark of 99-1 as he enters today's wrestlebacks.

Sachem's Banfi, fully aware of Bouzakis' prowess, later commented to reporters, "I had no intention of becoming victory No. 100 for him."

Another trio of 1987 state champions — 91-pound Frank Fronhofer of Salem, 132-pound Tony Ferrara of Sidney and 155-pound Rick Sadwick of Hilton — all won their Friday matches and will compete in the semifinals today.

Fronhofer is at 98 pounds this weekend, in the opposite bracket from Combs, whom he defeated for the 91-pound title a year ago. Ferrara and Sadwick return at their 1987 weights.

Tonight's title matches are scheduled to begin at 8:15 p.m.

Of the remaining Section Three champions competing, 155-pound Mike Aubel of Lowville, 177-pound Mark Alivero of Jordan-Elbridge and 250-pound Dave Palmer of Canastota all won their first match, then lost in the evening quarterfinal round.

Aubel, unbeaten this year at 36-0 and with 139 career wins, dropped a hard-fought 11-4 decision to defending state champion Sadwick in the quarterfinals. Alivero was outmuscled by two-time Section Two champion T.J. Wright of Burnt Hills, 15-6. Palmer seized an early lead in his 250-pound bout with Bill Friburger of William Floyd of Section Eleven, only to lose a 6-4 decision. That result, in the final minutes of Friday's competition, enabled Section Eleven to move ahead of early team leader Section Three for the first time in the tournament.

The remaining Section Three athletes, Shawn Roggie of Beaver River at 112, Rick Pierce of South Jefferson at 126 and Roger Howard of Indian River at 138, all lost their opening matches and went directly into the wrestleback competition.

The state record for career victories — 168 — was equalled Friday when J.P. Epifanio of Queensbury won his opening match 4-3 over Joe Marinello of Massapequa. Epifanio, however, lost his second bout, to Lou Roselli of Royalton-Hartland. In today's wrestlebacks, Epifanio will have the opportunity to break the record, which was set by Canandaigua's two-time state champion, Marty King, in 1984.

NOTES — Twin brothers Yu and Ko Matsui from Shoreham-Wading River in Section Eleven both advanced impressively into the semifinals at 105 and 112 pounds, respectively. ... Lou Roselli of Royalton-Hartland, making his fourth trip to the state meet, advanced into the semifinals at 126 pounds, where he remains the favorite to win that weight class. ... Another four-time state meet qualifier, Daryl Page of Elmira Notre Dame, lost a quarterfinal bout to Ted Stachtariaris of Plainview at 126 pounds. ... If Combs of Madison and Fronhofer of Salem win their semifinal matches, the 98-pound class will see a predicted rematch of last year's 91-pound title bout, won by Fronhofer 5-1. ... Two more brothers reaching today's semifinals are Jeff and Johan Duque of Valley Central, at 98 and 138 pounds, respectively. ... Sophomore Bouzakis, who had been named "Most Outstanding Wrestler" of the 1987 state finals, can still become the first wrestler to be a four-time state champion if he comes back to win crowns in 1989 and 1990. ... Consolation bouts for third through sixth place are scheduled to begin at 6:30 p.m. ... Defending team champion Section Eight of Long Island, with 10 crowns in the past 25 years of state competition, got a weak start this year, lagging in ninth place with 33.5 points. That section advanced only three qualifiers into the semi-

with Spencerport's Chris Bannister in their 112-pound bout Friday. Bannister won 3-2.

Ryan Had Best Seat This Time

(Other story, page 15)

By TOM ROOF

Times Herald Sports Writer

SYRACUSE — Ray Ryan had one of the best seats in the house.

High, along the back row, its vantage point was such that cradles on Mat 1 and pancakes on Mat 4 could be digested at the same time.

The seat was cushioned, the fans were involved, and the concession stand was but steps away.

Only someone expecting to see the Ice Capades but finding themselves watching the New York state wrestling championships would have been disappointed.

But Ryan, the fan, was. So much so, that it hurt.

As a sophomore at Allegany Central School three years ago, Ryan came within a win of making the state tournament. Surely, he would go the next step the following year.

He didn't. Halfway through last season he contracted bronchial pneumonia, and was never quite the same. His strength, energy and quickness had left him. As much as he tried to regain his old form, the further away it seemed.

Maybe it was only appropriate then that when Ryan took his place at last year's state tournament, he was as far from the mat as possible.

But want a difference a year — and health — makes.

Ryan's seat Friday was matside.

"I HATED IT sitting in the stands last year," said the talkative senior, Allegany's first-ever state qualifier. "It hurt inside because I had figured all along I'd be here as a junior and knew I couldn't get that year back.

"It hurt because I knew I could win at this level."

Proving himself right thus far, Ryan made up for lost time in a big way in Friday's 145-pound quarterfinals. Showing little mercy for Canisius senior Mike Mazzara, Ryan (32-0) won, 12 seconds into the final period, 18-3.

"I felt real good out there," said Ryan. "I love using the cradle, that's one of my favorite moves. But last year, it wasn't there.

"I couldn't do a lot of things I'm doing this year because I wasn't strong enough. It's amazing, though, how everything comes back to you when you're feeling good."

Ryan, a Big 30 Defensive Player of the Year nominee in football last fall, will have his toughest tests today, however.

His semifinal round opponent is a two-time Section 3 (Central New York) champ. Sophomore Seamus Lyman (34-0) of Waterloo was a pre-tourney favorite to reach the finals. The other 145-pound semifinal matches Waverly (Sec. 4) junior Tom Kingston (33-6) against Section 8 champ, senior Alex Teran (29-1).

OTHER OBSERVATIONS from the 26th annual New York State championships at Onondaga War Memorial: 3-5-88

— Jeff Prescott's state record of 120 straight wins now looks to be good for at least a few more years.

Two-time defending champ Troy Bouzakis, a sophomore from Pine Bush (Sec. 9), was 99-0 before losing in the quarterfinals.

— How's this for a familiar name: J.P. Epifanio. Yes, folks, he's back for the fifth time. Now at Queensbury after transferring from Whitehall, Epifanio met and lost (7-2) to Royalton-Hartland's Lou Rosselli (153-8 career record) in the quarterfinals.

The last wrestler to beat Prescott (a loss which was avenged twice in state competition), Epifanio tied the state record for career wins (168, held by Canandaigua's Marty King) in the preliminaries with a 4-3 decision over Joe Marinello (Massapequa-8).

Interestingly, Epifanio's best state finish was the sixth he took in 1984, the year he beat Prescott.

— Jeff Lewis, the Valley Central (Sec. 9) senior who had not given up a point all season, was finally scored on. A returning runner-up, Lewis (37-0) beat Clifton-Fine's Fred Spicer, 5-1, in the 126-pound quarterfinals.

— Section 11 (Long Island), with 11 semifinalists, is the team leader in scoring with 85½ points after one day. Section 6, with seven in the semis, is fourth with 69½, and Section 5, with five, is fifth with 62 points. 3-5-88

— Allegany coach Chuck Curley was conspicuously missing from matside during Ryan's match. Was it nerves?

"No, nothing like that," he said later. "I let my assistants do it. They like that kind of stuff... besides, let them have the glory. I don't need it."

Tough loss for Johan

By FRANK CATIZONE

Record Correspondent

SYRACUSE — It was a one-shot deal.

Valley Central senior Johan Duque was making his first appearance at the New York State Public High School Athletic Association wrestling championships at the Onondaga County War Memorial.

And the 138-pounder, who was representing Section 9, had a shot at winning it all. A chance to give Valley Central its first state champion. 3-6-88

Duque gave it his all, but fell on the short end of an 8-3 decision to Jamie St. John of Section 11's Port Jefferson in last night's finals.

Still, it was an outstanding display by Duque and a memory he will cherish the rest of his life.

"I regret not winning it all," said Duque. "But I'm happy the way I wrestled throughout the tournament. I was the underdog and wasn't expected to be in the finals. I'm very pleased."

Duque, who finished his varsity career with an 87-31-2 record, ran up against a stronger opponent in St. John.

The Section 11 wrestler took 2-0 lead on a takedown with just eight seconds remaining in the opening period. An escape and stalling point increased his advantage to 4-0.

Duque finally broke the ice later in the period when he was awarded a technical point as St. John was guilty of grabbing his head gear.

"He was grabbing my head gear throughout the match," said Duque. "I wasn't able to move when I shot in on him because he kept grabbing at it."

Valley Central Coach Bob Zifchock also said St. John was grabbing the head gear.

"But that wasn't enough to take Johan down," said the VC coach. "St. John was a very strong kid and wrestled very well. But Johan has nothing to be ashamed of. He had an awesome tournament. He just got beat fair and square in the finals. There should be no shame on his part." 3-6-88

Duque hardly has anything to be ashamed of. He was the fourth seeded wrestler at his weight class in the state and St. John was ranked second.

"I still can't believe I got this far," said Duque. "My freshman through juniors years it was always I might get to Syracuse. But this was my senior year, and I wanted to make it.

"I have to give a lot of credit to Jeff Lewis, Lou Ruggirello, and my brothers (Jeff and Jimmy). Jeff (Lewis) helped me in practice with my balance and technique. And Louie helped me with my strength. My brothers were there for encouragement."

Then there's Coach Zifchock, who Johan Duque credits the most for his accomplishments.

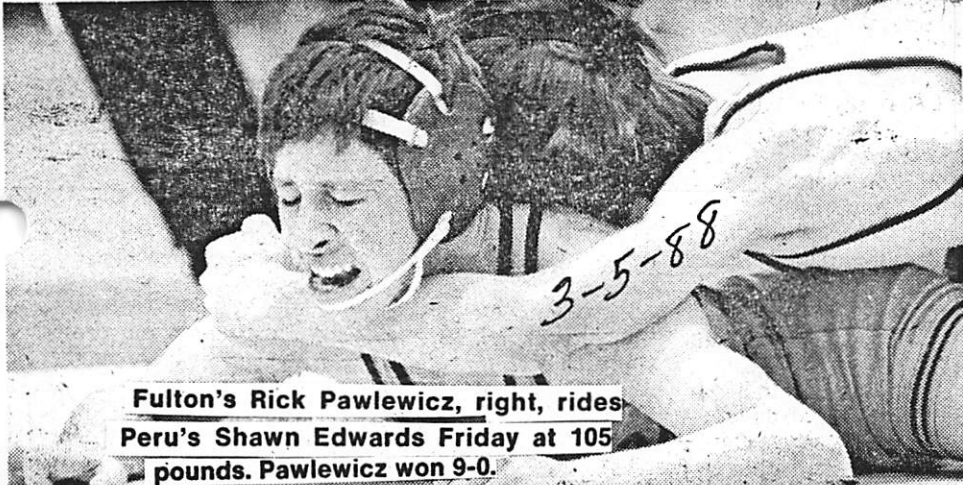

"He's unlike most coaches," said Johan. "Here's there to pat you on the back following each match whether you win or lose. He doesn't yell or turn his back on you. Instead, he sits there and talks, explaining what you did wrong or right."

Hopefully, Johan Duque is as good as a barber as he is a wrestler. Because he has the responsibility of shaving off he coach's mustache.

"It will come off whenever Johan wants to do it," said Duque. "We had three in the semifinals and he was the only one to make it. He'll be the only one doing the shaving."

It was a great career for Johan Duque. And despite the loss, he couldn't have been happier ending it with a silver medal dangling from his neck.

Cornell's Jerry Graziano locks up his match against SU's Vinnie Innes in the 126-pound weight class in at the Eastern competition.

Lehigh wrestlers grab Eastern lead; SU 2nd

Youthful Orangemen fare well

By Scott Conroe
Staff Writer

Andy Noel has been watching Lehigh University's wrestlers for a long time, first as a collegiate wrestler and now as Cornell's coach.

So he spoke from experience Friday, as he watched the first round of the Eastern collegiate tournament at Manley Field House.

"If I had to bet, I'd bet my house on Lehigh," said Noel. "Their kids expect to win this every year. Sometimes you do what you expect to."

Heading into today's 10 a.m. semifinals, 4:30 p.m. consolation finals and 6 p.m. championship bouts, it seemed the Engineers from Pennsylvania — who have been accompanied to this tournament by a large, vocal contingent of fans — were the favorites.

Syracuse University coach Ed Carlin had predicted a wide-open race between defending champion Army, Navy and Lehigh. But Navy struggled early, losing five of its first six preliminary bouts, and Army suffered some opening defeats in the upper weights.

SU, a young team, did very well on the first day. Eight of 10 Orange wrestlers advanced to the quarterfinals, giving SU the lead in the team standings after the first round.

But Lehigh took over after the quarterfinals and two rounds of consolation bouts, leading SU, 46-38. Only four of the Orange reached today's semifinals: junior Jim Fussell at 118 pounds, sophomore Darren Schulman at 142, sophomore Frank Ryan at 158 and freshman Mark Kerr at 190.

One of the victorious Orange in the first round was fifth-year senior Mark Muscarella, who won by technical fall, 18-0 in 4:52, over Penn's Henry Borroughs.

"This is my farewell," said Muscarella, who paid his dues over the years before reaching the starting lineup. "I've waited a long time for this."

Asked about Borroughs, "Muskie," as his teammates call him, said he usually knows only the opponent's name.

"I know names, but I don't research my opponent's parentage and high school career," said Muscarella. "Too many guys worry about that (their opponent's reputation)." He lost to Cornell's Jack Macko in the quarterfinals, but could bounce back to place.

Muscarella said Lehigh is the favorite, not just because of contenders such as Tom Toggas (158), Eyvind Boyesen (177) and John Epperly (126), but because the Engineers will come back from defeat to take valuable third places.

Young Can't Shake Nerves; Ryan Moves On To Semis

By TOM ROOF

Times Herald Sports Writer
SYRACUSE — Billy Young got rid of the jitters a little too late.

The Randolph Central School senior, making his first trip to the New York State High School wrestling championships at the Onodaga County War Memorial, suffered through what so many others have here in the past — the dreadful butterflies.

And, unfortunately for Young, the cure takes about six minutes — the time it just happens to take to lose a three-period match. 3-5-88

"I was scared, and so tight inside I just tired myself out," admitted Young after seeing his dreams shattered Friday with a 4-1 first-round loss to North Babylon's Jack Sparacio. "I was wound up in knots I was so nervous. I just wasn't myself out there."

Young, however, who entered the tournament with a 33-1 record and 150 career wins, bounced back in impressive style with a 4-0 decision over Section 7 champ Keith Mason of Peru.

Meanwhile, Allegany senior Ray Ryan moved into the semifinals with a slick 18-3 technical fall in 4:12 over Mike Mazzara (25-7), the Catholic High School representative from Buffalo's Canisius High School.

Ryan meets two-time Section 3 champ Seamus Lyman (34-0), a sophomore from Watertown, in the semis.

Young, who will need to win twice more to place, was scheduled to meet three-time state placewinner and former champ Darryl Page this morning. Page was a state titlist at 91 pounds four years ago.

Against Sparacio (31-0), North Babylon's school record holder in wins (95-12-2) and first two-time Suffolk County (Section 11) champion, Young found himself in a scoreless match until the third period. But a reversal and nearfall early in the period gave Sparacio all the cushion he needed to soak as much riding time as possible.

"Billy was too tight to react," said Randolph coach Doug Seamans. "He let the kid control him in the second period, and then in the third period should have just given up the escape instead of the reverse."

Young put Mason down with a single leg with 1:30 left in their consolation match, then locked on a bar in riding out the Peru senior.

"I just felt a lot looser the second match," said Young, who not only is Randolph's first state qualifier, but was the school's first sectional finalist. "I tried to comeback that first match but just couldn't do it."

RYAN IS one of seven Section 6 wrestlers in the semifinals. Also advancing were Royalton-Hartland's Lou Rosselli (35-0) at 112 and Nelson Colley (37-2) at 119, Jamestown's Terry Green (36-1) at 155, Iroquois' Ethan Bosch (37-1) at 167, Niagara Falls' Al Wooten (26-0) at 215, and Southwestern's Tom Meyers (33-2) at 250.

3-5-88
Bosch has a pair of pins, while Colley and Rosselli, two of three Roy-Hart qualifiers (Rob Jacquin lost in the first round) have also made it look easy. Colley won 15-0 in 4:28 over Luis Amaya (Far Rockaway-PSAL) and pinned Peru's Toby Prenovau (20-8) in 1:29. He met Section 11 champ Lance Banfi (32-0) this morning, who upset two-time defending champ Troy Bouzakis in the quarterfinals.

Bouzakis, a sophomore from Pine Bush (Sec. 9) who was shooting to become New York's first five-time champ, had a career record of 99-0 before meeting Banfi. The match ended in overtime criteria (2-2, 0-0) with Banfi winning in a referee's decision — a warning call for stalling in overtime costing Bouzakis his streak.

The tournament's three other returning champs Frank Fronhofer (Salem-2) at 98, Tony Ferrara (Sidney-4) and Rick Sadwick (Hilton-5) have made it to the semis. First-round results involving Section 5 and Section 6 wrestlers:

Coach Bob Zifchock of Valley Central congratulates Johan Duque after his semifinal-round victory yesterday at Syracuse.

7th-place finish

By FRANK CATIZONE
Record Correspondent

SYRACUSE — Section 9, paced by a foursome from Valley Central, had its best performance in five years yesterday during the New York State Public High School Athletic Association wrestling championships at the Onondaga County War Memorial.

The local wrestlers, capitalizing on the efforts of Valley Central 138-pound silver medalist Johan Duque, had seven wrestlers place among the top six to finish seventh in the standings with 99 points.

Section 11 (Suffolk County) crowned three individual titlists to run away with the team championship with 220 points.

Rounding out the top five were Section 4 (Southern Tier) with 197½ points, Section 3 (Syracuse Area) with 173, Section 2 (Albany-Schenectady Area) with 161½ and Section 6 (Buffalo Area) with 154.

Ethan Bosch of Section 6's Iroquois was named the champion of champions. Bosch pinned Rory Thorpe of Section 3's Jordan Elbridge just 43 seconds into their 167-pound final.

3-6-88
It was the first time since 1983 that Section 9 has had as many as seven place-finishers.

Jeff Lewis and Lou Ruggirello of Valley Central each took bronze medals, along with two-time state champion Troy Bouzakis of Pine Bush.

Doug Morse of Rondout Valley finished fourth, and Jeff Duque of Valley Central and Mike Bucci of Red Hook-Rhinebeck both placed sixth. Johan Duque dropped an 8-3 decision to Jamie St. John of Section 11's Port Jefferson in the 138-pound finals.

Lewis trimmed Ted Stachtariis of Section 8's Plainview 3-2 at 126 pounds, Ruggirello nipped Chris Saba of Section 2's Bethlehem 4-3 at 132. Bouzakis blanked Paul Stuart of Section 8's Freeport 5-0 at 119, to all finish third.

Morse dropped a 6-4 decision to Jim Hubert of Section 2's Queensbury at 145 pounds in the consolation finals.

Jeff Duque never got a chance to wrestle in the fifth-sixth place finals after pulling his groin during his consolation semifinal.

Bucci dropped a 4-1 decision to Johnson City's Steve Farr in the fifth-sixth place finals. It was the fourth meeting during the past two years between the two and the third straight win for Farr.

Johan Duque, the runner-up at 138, advanced to the finals by defeating Jeff Whitton of Section 10's Herman-DeKalb 7-3 in the semifinals.

The Valley Central senior, who trailed 2-0, used an escape, takedown and near-fall for a 6-2 lead after the opening period. The two grapplers exchanged escapes during the remainder of their bout.

Lewis, in the semifinals, dropped a heartbreaking 6-5 decision to Jack Sparacio of Section 11's North Babylon at 126. It was the first active points Lewis has yielded all season after going undefeated and unscored upon in 37 straight matches.

Johan Duque wins silver medal

"What a time to get sick," said VC Coach Bob Zifchock. "Jeff wasn't feeling too well and was running a fever this morning."

Lewis, however, didn't use his health as a reason for losing. 3-6-88

"I was gasping for breath in the second period," said Lewis. "But I just didn't wrestle as well as I should have. It's kind of tough when you're a senior and now have to wrestle for third place."

Lewis bounced back from the defeat to score an impressive 11-1 victory over Section 2's Christopher Terry of Whitehall in the consolation finals. The VC senior, who can place no lower than fourth, reached another milestone during his brilliant career as he raised his five-year varsity record to 150-11-1.

Jeff Duque dropped a 13-3 decision in the semifinals to Section 3's Lenny Combs of Madison in the 98-pound semifinals. He lost a 2-1 heartbreaker in the consolation semifinals as Rich O'Lena of Section 5's East Rochester scored a takedown at the final buzzer.

Pine Bush sophomore sensation Troy Bouzakis, Valley Central's Lou Ruggirello and Rondout Valley's Doug Morse all won three wrestlebacks en route to reaching the consolation finals.

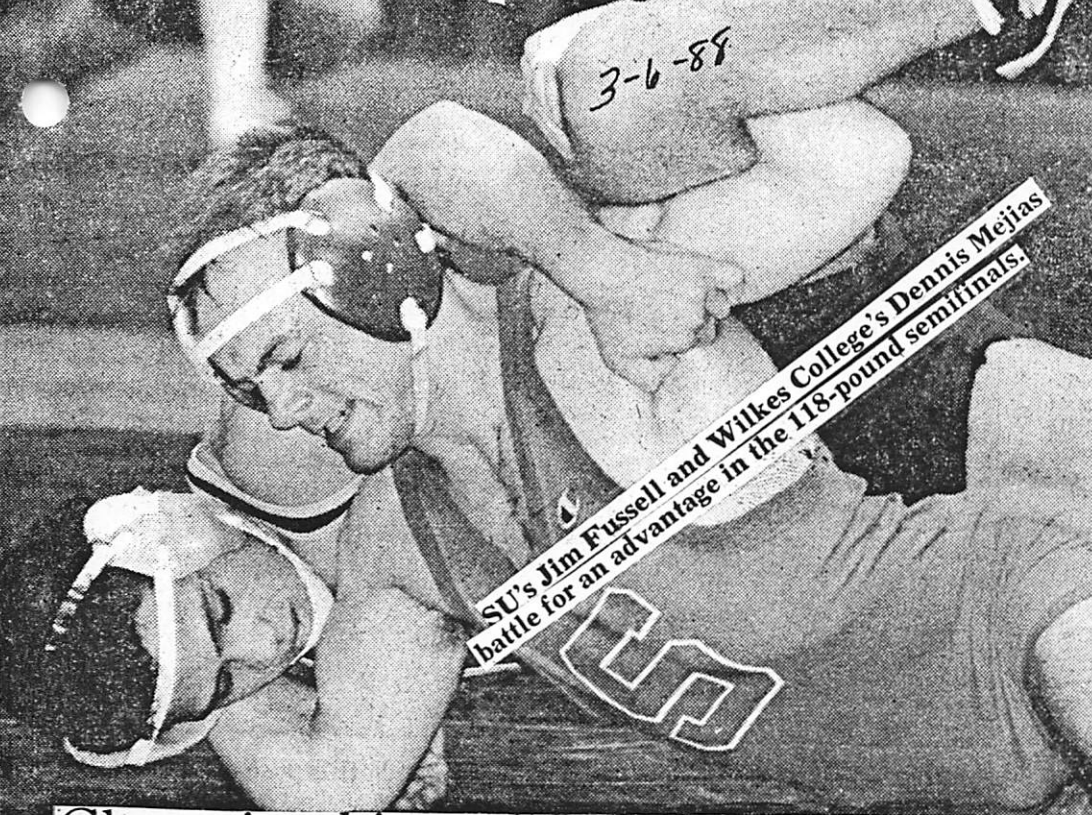

Bouzakis, a two-time state champ, registered the 100th win of his three-year varsity career by pinning Darrin Snyder of Section 10's Herman-DeKalb in 2:05 of their 119-pound second-round wrestleback.

Bouzakis whipped Section 7's Toby Prenoiveau of Peru 10-1 in his next wrestleback and then downed Joe Amuso of Section 1's Fox Lane in the consolation semifinals.

Ruggirello pinned Brian Jefferson of Section 10's Gouverneur in 2:25, defeated Corey Carter of Section 1's Ossining 6-2, and trimmed Christopher Terry of Section 3's Sauquoit Valley 4-2 to reach the 132-pound consolation finals.

Lehigh captures Eastern

SU's Jim Fussell and Wilkes College's Dennis Mejias battle for an advantage in the 118-pound semifinals a wild-card entry. Also for the Orange, Tom Ryan was fifth at 150 and Darren Schulman was fourth at 142.

"We're pleased, pleased, pleased," said SU coach Ed Carlin. "We just wanted to wrestle well. We did that."

Kerr reached the finals with a dramatic 11-7 semifinal upset of second-seeded Matt Ruppel of Lehigh, scoring a reversal and back points with eight seconds left. 3-6-88

Afterward, as his brothers lifted him to their shoulders for a family picture, the Orange freshman raising his right index finger in triumph. About 50 feet away, Ruppel lay on a mat, staring in anguish at Manley's ceiling.

Ruppel knew how badly his team wanted the tournament title. Lehigh, a perennial national power just a few years ago, has struggled recently.

"We had a tough year," said Epperly. "Coming in here, we really didn't say,

'OK, we're going to win.' But we were ready, peaking. Right now, it (the 5-11 record) doesn't really matter. We've won.

"I missed a lot of (the season) with an ankle injury. It feels OK now — after winning here, nothing could hurt that bad."

About 200 people made the 210-mile trek from Bethlehem, Pa., to cheer for the Engineers. They stuck out in the crowd of about 1,800 at the finals.

THE CROWDS AT Lehigh dual meets once as high as 3,000 and sometime 5,000 when Penn State or Navy came to town, have shrunk in the last couple of years. 3-6-88

"The students have been going to basketball, because the team is doing well," said Dr. John Lux, a retired Bethlehem dentist who started going to Lehigh matches in 1924. "We've always drawn townspeople and high school kids. But we've had two losing seasons. We'll do better if we can get some recruits. We'll host the Easterns next year, which will help." 3-6-88

Kerr was the only one of four SU semifinalists to advance. Fussell lost an exciting 10-7 battle to Mejias at 118. Frank Ryan fell to Toggas, 4-3, in a conservatively-fought bout. Schulman was defeated by McLaughlin, 11-9, at 142.

Championship crowns salve memory of the Engineers' worst season ever

By Scott Conroe
Staff Writer

The balm of a championship can soothe so many pains, even the anguish of a 5-11 dual meet season for a wrestling program used to national prominence.

Lehigh University, finally blending together as a team after injuries left it with its worst season ever, crowned three champions and captured the team title Saturday at the 84th Eastern Intercollegiate Wrestling Association tournament at Syracuse University's Manley Field House. 3-6-88

The Engineers piled up 126.50 points. Navy finished second with 86.75 and Syracuse, a young team not expected to contend this year, was a surprising third with 79.

SU FRESHMAN Mark Kerr could sympathize with Lehigh's injury problems. He missed most of the past few weeks with a bad back.

Kerr, the Orange's only finalist, lost a 5-0 decision to Navy senior Scott Kelly in the title bout.

The Engineers already had clinched the title entering the championship bouts. Their champs — John Epperly at 156, Tom Toggas at 158 and Eyvind Boyesen at 177 — and three other NCAA qualifiers just added to the pleasure of a team which had healed its wounds and peaked at the right time.

"Lehigh's kids expect to win this," said Cornell coach Andy Noel, who had two runners-up in Pat Waters (142) and Low-ville's Andy Rice (167). "Sometimes, you do what you expect to."

Toggas won the Fletcher Award for contributing the most points to his team's effort (61.75). Kelly received the Sheridan Award for aggregate pin (three in 8:34). Lehigh's Thad Turner was named Coach of the Year. William and Mary's Thierry Chaney, champ at 134, was named Most Outstanding Wrestler.

Lehigh's title marked the 26th time the Engineers have won it outright; they tied once. No other team is even close.

The other 1988 champions: East Stroudsburg's Jack Cuvo (118), William and Mary's Mark McLaughlin (142), Brown's Bob Hill (150), Wilkes' Craig Rome (167) and Army heavyweight Dave Bottcher.

Cuvo (who extended his season record to 39-0), Hill, Toggas, Rome, Boyesen and Kelly were repeat champions. Rome beat Rice in the finals, 5-4, on riding time. Bottcher defended champ John Devine of Navy, 5-1.

Boyesen defeated Columbia's Steve Hasenfus on criteria, after they'd tied twice, 7-7 in regulation and 3-3 in overtime. Boyesen tied the match in overtime with a takedown just before the buzzer, and won because Hasenfus had been warned for stalling in overtime.

LEHIGH AND Navy each had four finalists.

Besides Kerr, SU had three other NCAA qualifiers: junior Jim Fussell, third at 118; freshman Darin Farrell, third at 177; and sophomore Frank Ryan, who was fourth at 158 but was chosen as wrestling team title

No Clear-Cut Favorite in Eastern Wrestling at Manley

By MIKE FELICETTI

The Eastern Intercollegiate Wrestling Association Championships begin today at Manley Field House with no overwhelming favorite. Several EIWA coaches agree that of the 16 teams competing, as many as five — Navy, Lehigh, Wilkes, Army and Syracuse — have a legitimate chance of winning the title. 3-7-88

Preliminary and quarterfinal rounds are scheduled today at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m., respectively, with the semifinals and finals slated for 10 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Saturday.

Navy, 18-3-1, has beaten every EIWA team it has faced this season, including Army, Lehigh, Wilkes and Syracuse. Its only losses came to Penn State, 21-17; North Carolina, 18-16; and North Carolina State, 21-13. All three are nationally ranked.

The Midshipmen return two champions from last year, senior heavyweight John Devine and senior Scott Kelly, who wrestles at 190 pounds. Kelly, named the tournament's most outstanding wrestler a year ago, is 33-1-1 this season. Devine is 21-9.

But Navy coach Reg. Wicks is not overly optimistic. "You never know what's going to happen in the tournament," he said. "Last year, we were picked as the favorite, and Army came in and won the championship." 3-7-88

The defending champions lost to graduation five of their seven wrestlers who qualified for the NCAA championships last year. The top three finishers in each weight class at the Easterns qualify for the national championships.

The Black Knights may have the No. 1 seed in the heavyweight division — David Bottcher. Seedings were determined Thursday night. Bottcher, 26-2, pinned last year's heavyweight champion, Navy's Devine, earlier this season.

Army, 15-5, beat Lehigh and Syracuse, but lost to Navy and Wilkes. "The matches we lost this season were all determined by a one match swing," said Army coach Ed Steers. "This tournament is wide open, and we have as good a shot as anyone."

Wilkes, ranked 18th in the nation, has more victories (21) than any other Division I school, including wins over Army, Lehigh and Syracuse. Wilkes' only loss was a heartbreaker to Navy. "The meet was tied at five matches apiece when we lost by technical fall in the heavyweight match," Wilkes coach John Reese said.

The Colonels returned three wrestlers who placed in the Easterns a year ago: 167-pound champion Craig Rome; Dennis Mejias, who placed second at 118; and Ron Miller, who placed fourth at 134.

Teams receive points based on the order of finish in each weight class. Sixteen points are awarded for first place, 12 for second, nine for third, seven for fourth, five for fifth, and three for sixth. Points can also be earned in the consolation round.

Despite his team's success, Reese said he is wary of Lehigh. "There's not any real favorite, but Lehigh normally gears up for this tournament and does real well."

Lehigh's 5-11 record may be deceiving. Eight of its losses have come to teams ranked among the top 12, including defending national champion Iowa State and top-ranked Iowa. "We've lost to Army, Navy and Wilkes, so I guess we're fourth in line for the Eastern championship," Lehigh coach Thad Turner said. 3-7-88

Turner is counting on defending Eastern champions Eyvind Boyesson, at 177, and Tom Toggas, at 158, to repeat. Boyesson and Toggas are 19-12-1 and 10-8, respectively. "We need to have eight or nine guys place to win," Turner said. "Depth is the key."

Lack of depth is why Syracuse is considered a long shot. "They certainly have some very fine individuals, but I don't know if they have enough kids who will place," Reese said.

Jim Fussell, at 118 pounds, and Frank Ryan, at 158, figure to be seeded second, according to SU assistant coach Gene Mills. Fussell is 17-2-1, Ryan 16-4-1.

Mills said freshman heavyweight Rob Cole, 3-10, could be the surprise of the tournament. "There's nobody in his weight class that he can't go with," Mills said.

Cole, who joined the team late because he played football, showed signs of improvement toward the end of the season, losing 2-0 to Army's Bottcher and 4-2 to Cornell's Jeff Farrow, who could be seeded third.

Syracuse has lost 10 times this season, including meets against Army, Navy, Lehigh and Wilkes.

The best wrestler in the tournament is probably Jack Cuvo of East Stroudsburg. Cuvo, a junior, has a 59-0 career record. At 35-0 this season, Cuvo is the nation's top-rated wrestler at 118 pounds. "Cuvo is the EIWA's best chance for a national champion," Mills said.

Green Places Fifth, Meyers Sixth At State Wrestling

SYRACUSE — Terry Green of Jamestown and Tom Meyers of Southwestern placed fifth and sixth in their respective weight classes at the New York State Public High School Athletic Association Wrestling Championships Saturday. 3-7-88

Green, wrestling at 155, and Meyers, wrestling at 250, were the top local finishers representing Section 6. Bill Young of Randolph and Paul Wendel of Southwestern failed to place in the top six in the 126- and 177-pound weight classes, respectively.

Section 6, which had two state champions (Lou Rosselli of Royalton-Hartland at 119 and Ethan Bosch of Iroquois at 167), placed fifth with 154 points. Section 11 was first with 220 points.

Green, who celebrated his birthday with two wins on Friday for his 99th and 100th career victories, lost to eventual champion Rick Sadwick of Section 5 8-2 in the semifinal match on Saturday. In the wrestlebacks, Green lost to Chris Drimak of Section 4 12-4, but defeated John Pavlin of Section 2 6-4 to earn the fifth-place finish, the first Jamestown wrestler to place at the states.

Meyers, who received a preliminary-round bye and won via decision in the quarterfinals on Friday, was pinned in the semifinals by eventual champion Jeff Way of Section 7 in 3:33.

In the wrestlebacks, Meyers lost a tough 2-0 decision to David Palmer of Section 3 and then defaulted to Geoffrey Fisher of Section 8 because of a knee injury suffered earlier in the tournament. 3-7-88

Young, who split a pair of decisions on Friday, defeated Daryl Page of Section 4 4-2 in the wrestlebacks on Saturday, but lost to Christopher Terry of Section 2 2-0. Terry finished sixth in the 126-pound weight class.

Wendel, who split two matches Friday, defeated Don Snider of Section 10 9-6 in the wrestlebacks, but lost to John Franz of Section 8 7-4. Franz was the eventual third-place finisher at 177.

ALLEGANY CENTRAL School's Ray Ryan

Lyman won, 8-5, and Ryan wound up finishing fifth.

Disappointed Ryan

By TOM ROOF

SYRACUSE — Ray Ryan was trying his best not to walk away disappointed, and with a fifth-place finish Saturday at the New York state high school wrestling championships at the Onondaga War Memorial there was little reason to be. The Allegany Central senior, who came within four points of reaching the 145-pound finals, admitted coming so close was making it difficult. Still, Ryan did his best to put his state tournament experience into perspective.

(takedowns), but everytime I would get in on him he would just hip out... no one else has been able to do that. I'd say he's probably the best wrestler I've wrestled this year."

Lyman (35-1), however, was unable to work the same kind of moves on Waverly junior Tom Kingston (35-6), losing to the Section 4 champion, 12-3, in the finals. Queensbury senior Jim Hubert, a 4-2 winner over Ryan in the consolation semifinals, finished third.

"I don't think I wrestled a bad tournament," said Ryan, who wound up his scholastic career with a 149-20 record. "I feel I wrestled up to my potential but lost to some good kids. If I could have gotten a break in the semis, maybe things would have been different. But that's the way breaks go."

Young, whose first-round loss Friday put him in the wrestlebacks, won twice Saturday before being eliminated with a 2-0 loss to Whitehall's Christopher Terry in the consolation quarterfinals.

A sophomore already with over 100 wins (101-23), Terry won with a reversal with 38 seconds left. Earlier Young (35-3) had beaten three-time state placewinner Daryl Page, a senior from Elmira Notre Dame who as a freshman won the 91-pound state title.

PINNING HIS way through the tournament, Bosch was the runaway winner of the Most Outstanding Award. He needed just 43 seconds to dispose of previously undefeated Rory Thorpe (37-1, 105-15-1) of Jordan-Elbridge in the finals. Thorpe was one of five wrestlers making it to the championship round from Section 3, but for the third year in a row Central New York failed to get a winner. Rosselli, who won here at 98 in 1986, improved to 37-0 on the year and to 156-8 for his career. He won in the finals 5-1 over Ko Matsui, one of two brothers from Shoreham-Wading River to place. Also placing from Section 6 were Sweet Home's Bob Jackson, fifth at 98; Grand Island's Nick Rastelli, third at 105; Roy-Hart's Nelson Colley, fifth at 119; Jamestown's Terry Green, fifth at 166; Niagara's Falls Al Wooten, second at 215; and Southwestern's Tom Meyers, sixth at 250.

Section 5 had eight placewinners, including Hilton's Rick Sadwick, who beat Connetquot's Kurt Lessen, 4-4, 3-1 in the 155-pound finals for his second title. Spencerport's Chris Lopresti place second at 132, losing 8-0 to defending champ Tony Ferrara of Sidney.

In a championship round rematch, Salem's Frank Fronhofer topped Madison's Lenny Coombs for the second year in a row, 1-0, for the 98-pound title.

Garners national mat title

Former Baldwinsville wrestling standout Pat Conners of Cold Spring Rd. won the NCAA Division III National Wrestling Championship last Saturday night at Wheaton (Ill.) College.

Pat, a senior at St. Lawrence University, won his national title after a series of tough, close matches with four outstanding opponents. Conners, who was third in last year's NCAA Championships, followed in the footsteps of older brother Mike, who won the same title for St. Lawrence University in 1984.

Pat opened the tournament in the first seed with a 17-1-1 season record. He then proceeded to defeat Steve Lacher of Mount Union College, 4-2, Mike Gilmore of Lycoming College, 3-2, Greg Geisenhof of SUNY Binghamton, 8-7, and in the finals, Kip Crandall of Milliken College of Ohio, 3-2.

Conners, who is a very light heavyweight at 220 lbs., led his school to its first-ever national championship in Division III NCAA wrestling. The Saints defeated 52 colleges and universities and ended with a total of 71 team points, just 4 1/2 points ahead of New Jersey's Montclair State. 3-9-88

The Saints also placed John Cantry, second at 118 lbs.; Kevin Bishop, third at 134 lbs.; Dan Keating, third at 134 lbs.; and Brian Reed, sixth at 142 lbs. All received All-American status.

Pat's coach, John Clark, was named National "Coach of the Year" by a vote of all Division III coaches.

Pat is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Conners.

McArdell finishes fifth in nation

Todd McArdell, a senior at SUNY Cortland, and an outstanding wrestler while in high school at Baldwinsville, placed fifth in the NCAA Division III Wrestling Championships this past weekend in Wheaton, Ill.

Todd, a SUNY Conference Champion and New York State Collegiate Champion at 190 lbs., earned his All-American status through a rigorous 2-day battle in the tournament's most outstanding weight class.

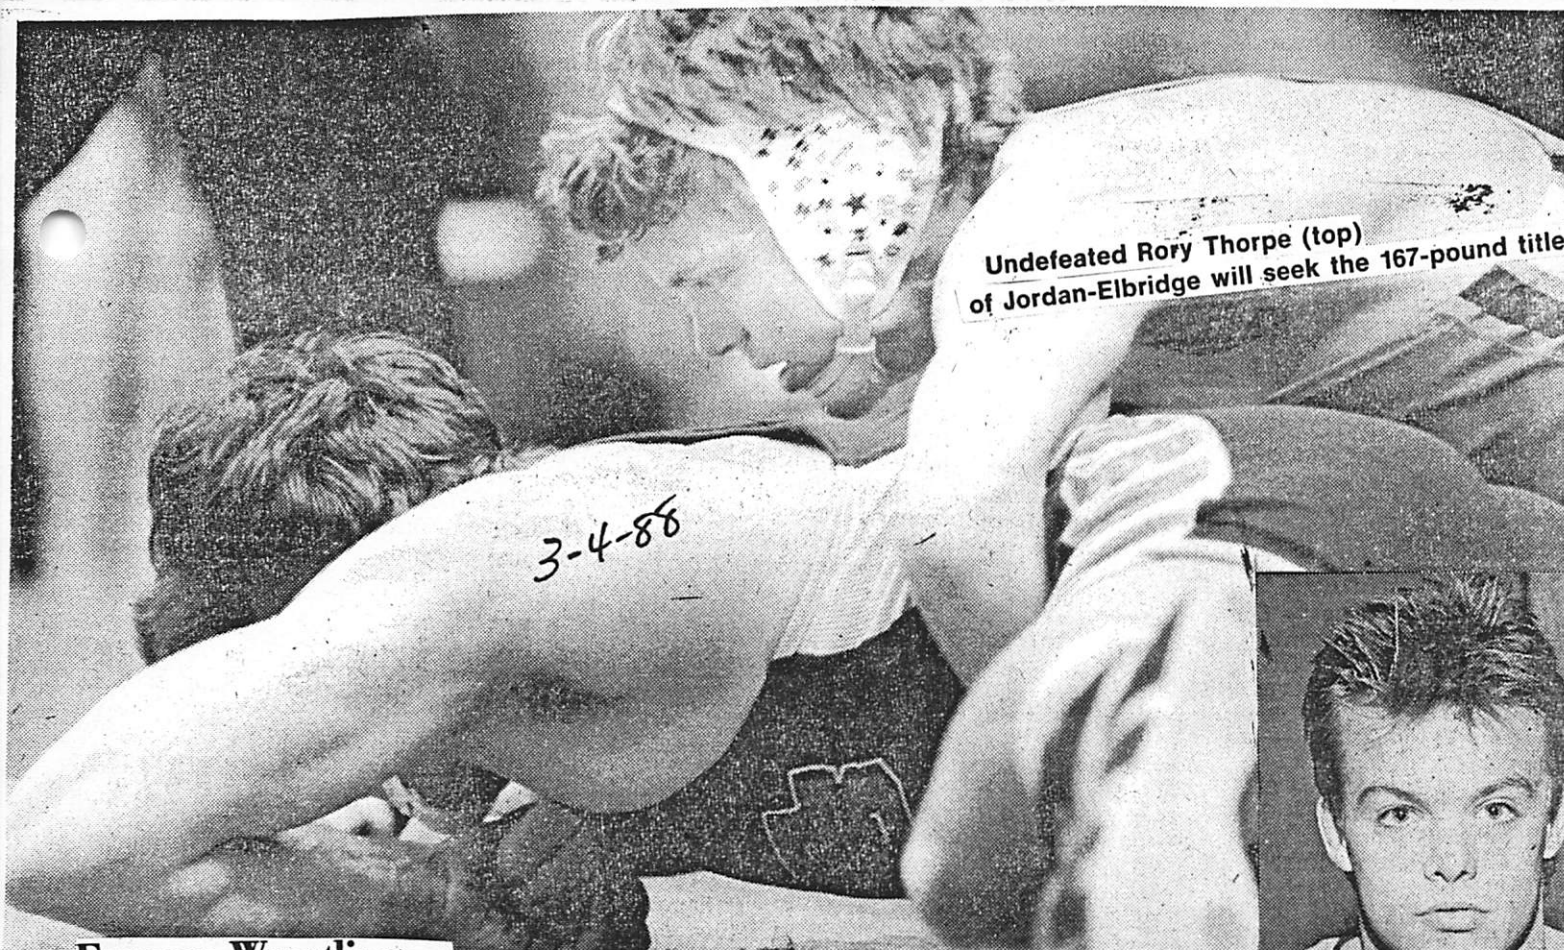

McArdell was seeded fourth with a season record of 30-2 and behind last year's NCAA Champion and 2 NCAA runners-up and a third- and fifth-place finisher from last year's tournament. 3-9-88

McArdell opened with a 5-4 decision over Larry Danko of Kings College in Pennsylvania, then dropped a 6-2 match to Tom Tuomi of Concordia Illinois College. In the consolation round, McArdell won a 12-5 decision over Tom Mahoney of Milliken College in Ohio, and then recorded a tight 3-2 win over Dean Gavin of Wartburg College. Last year's runner-up, Terry Schuler of Whitewater, Wis., upended McArdell 11-5 and in the battle for fifth and sixth, McArdell pinned Mike Fusilli of Ithaca College in 3:13. McArdell, who finished his collegiate career as one of Cortland State's most outstanding athletes, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter McArdell of Maple Rd.

Former Wrestling Champion Indicted In Stabbing Death

SYRACUSE (AP) — An Onondaga County grand jury has indicted a former state wrestling champion in connection with last month's stabbing death of a 19-year-old Syracuse man who was killed when he and his girlfriend interrupted a burglary at her family's Lysander home, a prosecutor said Thursday.

Senior Assistant District Attorney Michael Price said the grand jury voted Wednesday to indict James A. Matteson Jr. on charges of second-degree murder and first-degree burglary. The prosecutor said the grand jury investigation is continuing and additional charges are expected against Matteson.

Matteson was charged with killing John L. Fortino on Feb. 28 after the victim interrupted a burglary at the home of his girlfriend, Christine Angotti, 19. The murder charge voted on by the grand jury accuses the defendant of causing the victim's death during the commission of a felony burglary. 3-11-88

Matteson told police he broke into the Angotti home to confront Carmine Angotti, the owner of the Great Laker Inn in Oswego, about $4,000 Angotti allegedly owed him for cocaine. Angotti has denied the accusation and police have said there no evidence to back up Matteson's claim.

During the burglary, Matteson was surprised by Mrs. Angotti and a 17-year-old daughter. Matteson handcuffed the women and assaulted them before being interrupted by Fortino and the older daughter, police said.

Matteson, 24, a two-time state wrestling champion from Oswego, is being held without bail in the city-county jail in Syracuse.

Amityville's Bill Maisel, top, has a head lock on Watertown sophomore Seamus Lyman in their 145-pound match Friday night. Lyman won 7-1.

Clarion Still Best Mat Site

By TOM ROOF
Times Herald Sports Writer
CLARION — John Kriner is never one to mask his feelings. Perhaps, that is what makes the Port Allegany High School wrestling coach so quotable. But Kriner's latest brainstorm, splitting the District 9 wrestling championships into two sites, appears to be headed for a cold front.

The tournament has found a home at Clarion University, where it has settled into a comfortable, workable niche for the past 19 years. Kriner, however, wouldn't mind seeing a change.

"I think it could be worked out where Class AA would be held at one site and Class AAA at another," Kriner said. "And I'm sure there are schools capable of handling separate tournaments." The idea isn't novel. It's been considered by the District 9 athletic committee at least as many times as Tammy Bakker has shed tears on television. 3-15-88 But, says District 9 chairman John Aiello, it unlikely will ever go further than that.

"IT'S BEEN DISCUSSED, but there is no high school that could handle it," he said. "With 14 double-A schools, you'd have to limit the number of tickets to about 100 per school, and that would all but eliminate the adult spectator." Clarion, which typically draws a full house for both the district and Northwest Regional tournaments, seats 4,000. St. Marys Public and DuBois, having the largest facilities in the district, can seat about 1,400 each. The lack of seating alone, though, isn't the only drawback in separating the two classes. Just for starters, the district would need to double its workforce, which means adding more officials, scorekeepers, timekeepers, and site officials.

"Fact is," says Aiello, "the people here at Clarion couldn't treat us any better. We have a tremendous relationship. There's no rental and the college provides all the runners, timers, scorekeepers, security and cleanup... we don't have to worry about any of that, it's all taken care of by (Clarion athletic director) Frank Lignelli." 3-15-88

I Agree with John Aiello And Not with Old "Get my name in print" Kriner"

In return, the district gives the college the concession rights and allows it to keep whatever money is made from program sales, a sum that goes into the university's scholarship fund. "We've talked about the idea time and time again," Aiello added, "but with two sites, it's not so much the money as it is the inconveniences. You know there are a lot of spectators who want to see both the double-A and triple-A wrestlers at the same time. They like coming to one site and getting a chance to see both tournaments." 3-15-88 "And then you have the lockerroom facilities Clarion has to offer. What do we have here, something like eight lockerrooms? Where would you put all those kids at a high school? You certainly couldn't crowd them into two lockerrooms and that's what most schools have." Another advantage, noted Aiello, was Clarion's hotel accommodations. "There's not another town in the district that couldn't handle it," he said.

THERE HAVE been problems at Clarion, however, including one this year that resulted in a conflict when the school's women's basketball team earned the right to host the Pennsylvania Conference western playoffs. Wrestling was moved ahead so it would end by 7 o'clock each night and the gym needed to be cleared between sessions so the women teams could practice. "It was a fiasco, it disrupted the whole tournament," Kriner said. "It was a shame something like that has to happen." Aiello agreed, but added the district committee, well aware potential conflicts exist, would still work out other arrangements with Clarion before moving the tournament to another site. 3-15-88 "We worked it out where all we had to do was change our time schedule," Aiello said. "What we could have done was go without wrestlebacks since we only take two to regionals. But we didn't want to do that, we still wanted them for the kids. I guess, if worst came to worst, we would change the dates of the tournaments from Friday and Saturday to sometime during the week... even that would work out a lot better than going to another site."

Ray Ryan takes fifth place at state tourney

ALLEGANY—The average wrestler he's not.

What he is, is a hard-working 18 year-old who recently was the the fifth place finisher at the State Wrestling Tournament in Syracuse last month. 3-16-88

Who he is, is Ray Ryan, a senior at Allegany Central School. Ryan has accumulated a career record of 148-19 in the 145 pound weight class. But this past season was, admittedly, "the best as far as high school goes."

Ryan is the first wrestler from Allegany Central School to go to the State Tournament. "I felt I had to go. I had been a Section 6 finalist and felt it was the next best thing."

But Ryan knows who he owes his success to. Not just the long hours of hard work but also to his family and teammate's support. "Everybody has to have somebody behind them. The Olympic athletes have their country and my country was my family." At Syracuse, his family and friends were there to cheer him on, and that, Ryan said, "made a difference."

But the road was long on the way to the state championships. He qualified for the area at Portville Central and then traveled to Buffalo to compete in the regional qualifiers. From there, only the first place finishers go to Syracuse. He made it as far as the semi-finals before being defeated. 3-16-88

"When you get up there (States) everybody's good. I wasn't ranked in the state or anything. I think that they might have thought I was going to be a cream puff or something, but when the whistle blew, they knew different. I felt great the whole way through on the way there, ... took no prisoners."

Here is Ryan's play-by-play description of the match.

"In the semi-finals the match was closer than the score indicated, much closer (8-5). With 1:06 left the score was 6-5, Lyman. The difference at that time was a penalty point against me for grabbing his uniform. But it wasn't purposely done, it just happened and that changed the whole match after that. He wasn't trying to score, he was trying to hold on. I felt like I was chasing a scared rabbit in front of 8,000 people."

He ran the line and everytime I got close enough to score, he moved away. He didn't want to mix it up with me because I took him down in the first 20 seconds of the match. In fact, he didn't get a takedown on me until there were 10 seconds left in the match.

I took a desperate shot at a double leg takedown and he came around behind me for two points. 3-16-88

When I came off the mat, I felt I was the better wrestler, but he got every break there was in the match and that made the difference. A state championships everybody is so even that breaks determine close matches. There isn't much difference between first place and fifth place, believe me. In my case I felt that the penalty point in the semi-final match cost me a shot at the finals and maybe a state title. That's how close I was and that's what disappointed me. It wasn't that I didn't wrestle good because I felt I did."

Being from a small town and going to the "big city" was an experience in itself. As Ryan tells it, "the boy from farm country hit the big time."

"I was glad though that the 'bright lights' of Syracuse didn't effect me, because at first it slaps you in the face and says, 'Wake up. You're not in farm country anymore. You hit the big time.'

When I first walked into Onadauga War Memorial Sports Arena, it was like a dream and I realized that all the hard work really did pay off. It held about 10,000 people, there wre banners hanging from the rafters, four huge mats and a full house. At that time I walked around the mats and found them to be just like those at home and then I looked in the coach's chair and Eric Nannen, my private coach, and Chuck Curley, my school coach, were there. I looked into the stands and my family and relatives were there. 3-16-88

Moments after that the whistle blew and I went to work. My goal was to crack the top five in the New York State Rankings. They gave medals for the top six and I wasn't even ranked in the state, so I figured it was a good goal. Ryan was lucky enough to reach that goal. Not many high school wrestlers get that far, but Ryan was a heavily influenced young man. Not only by his coaches and older siblings, but by the main influence in his life, his father.

"My family support was the biggest thing. They were all behind me every step of the way. They were always there for me, especially my Dad. He taught me what a hard work was all about in life first, then in sports. there was nothing like a hard day's work with him because he always rewarded us (me and my brothers).

"You can only do so many things and do them well. And he always rewarded me. That's what kept me going through the hard times. heing. My Dad always told me if was always in the stands and I you were going to do waste the think everybody needs that time to do it, you might as well kind of person behind them in sports if they are going to be successful."

I can remember and we still do, walking into places after a day's work to get a Coke and something to eat and it didn't matter where, nobody ever looked at us funny. He just naturally built in me a sense of pride. It carried with me and I didn't forget it 3-16-88 and built me up mentally

When football and wrestling season started he sat me down and said this is it, your last chance, meaning that my senior year in sports was most important. I listened to him and he tore me down mentally when I needed to be

Wrestling finals on ESPN

Basically, it's more for less. More wrestling coverage for the fans; less money for the NCAA.

Bill Fitts, who will serve as executive producer for ESPN's two-hour coverage of the annual NCAA Wrestling Championships at Ames, Iowa, Saturday, March 19 (9 to 11 p.m., taped), promises highlights of all 10 bouts.

ESPN will work in conjunction with another outside production company in presenting same-day coverage of the 58th annual tournament from Hilton Coliseum.

Fitts said that Jeff Blatnick, who won a gold medal for the U.S. in the 1984 Olympic Greco-Roman competition, will be the analyst. Blatnick overcame a battle against leukemia prior to winning the gold medal.

"We are very familiar with Jeff's style," Fitts said from his ESPN office in Bristol, Conn., Tuesday. "He has done the Olympic Festival for us as well as the NCAA Division II and Division III tournaments."

Fitts, who has been in television for almost 35 years, has produced sports for CBS and NBC and has been with ESPN since March of 1980.

The NCAA finals on March 19 will start at 7 p.m. EST and ESPN's delayed telecast will start two hours later.

"It's going to be tricky," Fitts said, "but we'll be able to show parts of each bout. It's also possible that some of the bouts will still be going on while we're showing some on tape."

"But the good thing about our format is that we will be able to show exciting highlights. If we have a 1-1 bout, we'll automatically go to the third period."

"But if we have a 12-11 bout, wrestling fans across the country will see that one in its entirety."

Fitts said ESPN has presented NCAA Division II and III tournament action on a delayed basis (approximately a week or longer) for about seven years.

"So we do have experience," he said. "And we are committed to doing the national finals. There wouldn't be much sense in taping a lot of the semifinals and showing them even though lots of times that's where a lot of the action is."

Fitts said ESPN isn't all that concerned about the ratings for the March 19 event.

"Most of the audience will be wrestling fans," he said. "But you'd be surprised at the big numbers that cable companies generate. The America's Cup got big numbers last year despite 3 a.m. starting times from Australia."

"You'd be surprised at the number of people who just jump around the dial. They could jump in and pick up wrestling and see something they like."

Fitts said five cameras probably will be used to cover the action, including two of the hand-held variety.

"One will be on the clock and two will be what we call 'up' cameras."

"We'll be able to show slow-motion of a good takedown or reversal. What we want is to show a good angle of what's happening at mat level (the finals are contested on a raised platform a la the Olympics)."

"And the key is not to have any action blocked by the referee."

Fitts, in talking with coaches throughout the country, is aware of a wide-open team race which should help the telecast.

In 1986, ABC-TV presented several bouts live from the NCAA tournament in Iowa City during its "Wide World of Sports" program (late Saturday afternoon).

Last year, from College Park, Md., the NCAA Wrestling Committee juggled its 10-bout card to suit ABC's needs and presented several bouts on live television.

But, the NCAA Wrestling Committee, chaired by Bob Bubb of Clarion, thought that all of the juggling wasn't worth the little bit of exposure the network extended to its amateur wrestling viewers.

ABC, in turn, didn't renew its contract this year and ESPN, in turn, seized the opportunity.

"We're not getting the money we got from ABC," Bubb said, "but the exposure is definitely better. At least highlights from every bout will be presented."

"Now it will be up to each finalist to go out and put on a good show. Good, exciting wrestling will only help."

Districts: 'Time' For A Change

By TOM ROOF

Times Herald Sports Writer

District 9, which recieved a jolt last year when the Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association reduced the number of regional qualifiers from three wrestlers to two, has been dealt another blow. 3-3-88

Because of a conflict involving the Pennsylvania State Athletic Conference women's basketball playoffs, the district has had to shift its time schedule for this weekend's Class AA and AAA wrestling championships at Clarion University.

A major problem? No, but it could spoil the long hours D-9 coaches put in during their seeding meeting Tuesday night in Brockway. Wrestling will now start Friday at 10 a.m. (AA preliminaries) instead of 1:30 p.m., and the afternoon AA quarterfinals and consolation quarterfinals at 1:30, instead of 6 p.m.

On Saturday there will be no break as in the past — the AAA quarterfinals will begin at 10 o'clock (an hour earlier than normal), the AA semifinals at 11, the AAA semifinals and AA consolation semifinals at noon, the consolation finals at 3:30, and the championship finals at 5 p.m.

The problem is the time between when wrestling ends Friday, which should be approximately 4 p.m., and weigh-ins Saturday at 8 a.m.

"That's a long time for a wrestler to hold his weight," said Port Allegany coach John Kriner. "Especially now when you longer can weigh in Friday night for Saturday."

"I think what you might see is a lot of kids realizing they're not going to be able to hold their weight and come Friday see them at different weight classes than where they were seeded at. Again, because wrestling is being treated like a second-class citizen, we have the potential for some real problems."

Still, despite what will indeed be a "hurry-up-get-out-of-here" tournament, this weekend's championships should produce some lasting impressions.

IN CLASS AA, five returning champions, two other former titlists, and five 1987 second-place finishers are back. Heading the list is two-time champ Mike Stuart of Emporium, back at 119 and logging a 19-2 record. His stiffest competition is expected to come from second-seed Paul Tubbs (20-5-2) of Curwensville.

Also back are 1987 winners Bernie Norlin (18-3) of Johnsonburg at 112, Craig Girvan (20-4) of Clarion at 138, Brian Wetzel (19-1) of Curwensville at 155 and Tom Storey (21-0-1) of Coudersport at 185. Interestingly, only Girvan and Storey are seeded first, while Norlin, who won last year's 98-pound title, is sixth, and Wetzel, who at 138 last season, is seeded second. 3-3-88

There's a potentially excellent final at 185 between Storey and Ridgway sophomore and returning third-place finisher Gary Weber. The two met in a dual meet in early February with Weber (21-3-1) pulling out a 1-1 draw with an escape with two-seconds left.

Back after placing second last year are three-time regional qualifier Rick Kirkpatrick of Redbank Valley at 112, Brookville's Matt Park at 105, Port Allegany's Dale Budd at 167, Johnsonburg's David Sallack at heavyweight, and Smethport's Paul Rossi at 185. Budd (22-1), whose only loss (6-2) came to Storey, went on to place fourth and Sallack first at the Northwest Regionals.

Sallack, who boasts a 19-1 record — losing 5-2 to Weber — and Brockway's Mike Pisarchick (22-1) were champions two years ago.

Now, a few observations:
Best weight: 138 is loaded to the max, enough so that 19-match winners Eric Geyer of Ridgway and Pat Gregory of Smethport are seeded sixth and seventh, respectively. 3-3-88

Second best weight: 155 doesn't go as deep as 138, but how can you overlook a weight class with Brockway's Peter Varischetti (23-0), Wetzel, Johnsonburg's Scott Muroski (18-2), Brookville's Kyle Hetrick (17-2) and Kane's Rich Peterson (16-7)? Wetzel's only loss (4-2) came to Pisarchick. It's just too bad the district's request to get three qualifiers back doesn't take effect this year.

Most top seeds: Brockway, Smethport and Redbank Valley each have two top seeds, but Brockway has at least taken on the role of the early favorite with seven wrestlers seeded fourth-or-higher.

'Seeds don't mean everything: Only five wrestlers seeded first in last year's AA tourney met those expectations. AAA, with its small five-school field, did better with only one No. 1 seed not making it through.

Unbeaten wrestlers remaining in AA: Two. Varischetti and Ridgway junior Joel Parker, whose 10-0 record earned him the hot seat at 132.

AAA mat title up for grabs

The second season for the Class AAA wrestlers gets under way tonight when the District 6 tournament cranks up in Altoona's Field House.

The team race promises to be one of the most tightly contested in years as Bald Eagle Area, Lock Haven and Philipsburg-Osceola chase the crown while State College, Altoona, Huntingdon and Lewistown do their best to scramble the picture. And they will. Each of those four schools has at least two potential champions if not more.

Here's one man's unsolicited observations on each of the 12 weight classes. 3-4-88

98 — The seeding at this weight was a little strange. The top seed, Lock Haven's Pete Rinella, has two losses while the second and third seeds, P-O's Bart Mease and Lewistown's Shawn Ream, are unbeaten. And, Mease beat Rinella, 2-0, when they met in the dual meet. That avenged a 2-1 loss in last year's consolation. Look for them to meet in the finals again and look for it to be one of the best bouts of the night.

105 — State College's Rob Prebish won at 98 last year as a freshman. This year he's the second seed while Lock Haven freshman Brian Merrifield drew the top spot. One of Prebish's losses this year was to Rinella by an 8-4 count. The seeds should hold until the finals but watch out for P-O's Randy Curtorillo.

112 — This is a weight where the real battle will be for the second and third spots. State College's John Bove has been rock solid all season and is easily the class of this field.

119 — Lock Haven's Steve Krouse is the top seed but he spent the bulk of the season at 126. He was at 119 for his last dual meet, against Shikellamy, where he lost an 11-3 decision to Chris Derr. Huntingdon's Erik Shea dropped from 132 to 119 for the journey so it will be interesting to see which of these two handles the lower weight best. Krouse won the 98-pound crown in 1986 and bowed to BEA's Steve

Millward, 9-8, in last year's 112-pound finals. 3-4-88
126 — BEA's Doug Taylor, a champion at 119 in 1986 and a runner-up to Huntingdon's Jason Shea at 126 last year, is the top seed and one of only six unbeaten wrestlers in the tournament. Lewistown's Mike Lightner, the 119-pound champ last year, is the second seed in the only weight class with two former champs. Watch for Lock Haven's Corey McCaslin, the sixth seed, to make some noise at this weight.

132 — Another lock. Huntingdon's Jason Shea. If the seeds hold true, BEA's Brian Gates and Lock Haven's Brian Wilt should tangle in the semis in one of the better matchups.

138 — This is a pick 'em weight where any one of the top four seeds — Somerset's Andy Sullivan, Altoona's J.J. Rusnak, Lock Haven's Rob Bowes and BEA's Rob Lucas — could walk off with the title.

145 — This is an off year for what is usually one of the stronger weight classes. Altoona's Marty Rusnak has only one loss; everyone else has at least six.

155 — An interesting weight. Although he's seeded fourth P-O's Gary Sanker is a good bet here. Top-seeded Luke Sredy of Somerset was at 145 for the dual meet with P-O and drew with Ted Kephart.

167 — Central Cambria's Phil Delosh finished third at 185 a year ago. He's the top seed here but this is another weight where an upset is a good possibility. Keep an eye on the bottom bracket where BEA's Steve Dorman, P-O's Nick Sidorick, Hollidaysburg's Dane DeLozier and Altoona's Newt Holobinko will slug it out.

185 — A tough call. Look for BEA's Gary Heverly, the defending champion, to meet P-O's Scott Hoover, the third seed, in the finals. They've met twice already with the first match ending in a draw and Heverly gaining a 2-1 edge in the Centre County finals. 3-4-88

Heavyweight — The best field at this weight in years. Altoona's Doug Rosenberry is the defending champion and he has already pinned BEA's Skip Pighetti, the third seed. Lewistown's Dale Searer has not met Rosenberry or Pighetti this year.

Hollidaysburg's Rodger Hyle is 16-2. All of his bouts have ended in falls.

HIGH SCHOOL WRESTLING

8 Section Three grapplers advance to state semifinals

By Michael Buccia
Staff Writer

Action continues today at WM

Everything was expected of Rick Pawlewicz entering the New York State Intersectional Wrestling Tournament. Nothing was expected of Ron Vitullo. Pawlewicz, a tournament-tested senior from Fulton, has seen all this before. The pressure of the state tournament; the feeling of defeat after being beaten in the early rounds.

The senior appeared in the tournament last year and paid his dues, failing to place among the top six wrestlers in his weight class.

VITULLO HAS experienced none of this. The junior from New Hartford had never competed in a state tournament. Most thought he wouldn't this year, either, but he upset Liverpool's Shane Carni in the Section Three meet last weekend.

That Pawlewicz did what was expected of him and Vitullo once again surprised Friday, the first day of the state meet at the Onondaga County War Memorial, helps explain how Section Three entered this morning's semifinal round with an excellent shot at the overall team title.

Section Three was in second place before today with 81 points, just behind Section Eleven, which has 85.5 points. In all, eight of the 14 Section Three wrestlers made it to the semifinal round.

SECTION THREE hasn't won the state tournament since 1978, and hasn't even had an individual champion since 1985. The latter, at least, should change this year.

Pawlewicz, a 105-pound senior, was simply brutish against his two opponents Friday, beating Section Seven's Shawn Edwards, 9-0, then winning by technical fall over Section Six's Nick Rastelli in 5 minutes, 32 seconds.

He was scheduled to face Yu Matsui of Section Eleven in the semifinals, which began at 10 a.m. today.

The winners of the semifinal matches will compete in the finals at 8:15 p.m. Consolation finals are at 6:30 p.m.

PAWLEWICZ (33-2) didn't begin his year with such high expectations. He, like several wrestlers at Fulton, had to adjust to the teachings of a new coach after Wayne Bleau retired at the end of last season. The new coach was Mike Conners, a state champion himself while at Baldwinsville eight years ago.

"He started off slow like a lot of the wrestlers because of the transition," Conners said. "There were new coaching styles. And he went from somebody who had been like a father figure to him to a new coach. It took a while to adjust to it."

But he's wrestling super right now. He slapped those guys today. He wants to win this year. He's favored and he's handling it well."

Vitullo, a 215-pound junior, knows about slow starts, too. Last week, he trailed Carni. 2-1 before scoring five points in the final 30 seconds to pull out the match. On Friday, he fell behind Jack Flynn of Section Nine, 3-2, in the third period of their quarterfinal match. But he earned a point off an escape with about 10 seconds left, then delivered a take down as the buzzer sounded to win the match, 5-3.

That sent Vitullo (36-2) into the semifinals today against Al Wooten of Section Six.

"I knew I was tired," Vitullo said of his last-second moves. "I didn't want to go into overtime."

THE OTHER Section Three wrestlers to reach the semifinals were Madison's Kurt Peavey (91) and Lenny Combs (98), South Jefferson's Paul Creighton (119), Saugquoit Valley's Ralph Howard (132), Watertown's Seamus Lyman (145) and Jordan-Elbridge's Rory Thorpe (167).

The upset of the night came at 119 pounds, where Section Eleven's Lance Banfi was awarded a criteria decision over sophomore Troy Bouzakis of Section Nine in the quarterfinals. Bouzakis, a two-time state champion, had never lost in 99 scholastic matches.

TODAY'S STAR

2-27-88

Penn State wrestler Dan Mayo scored a 2-1 win over a Bloomsburg heavyweight 71 pounds larger than he to secure an 18-18 tie for the Nittany Lions. Mayo won on a stalling point with 34 seconds left. Mayo, a 177-pounder, also won at heavyweight against Lock Haven last week.

The preparation is history and Penn State will take a 14-5-2 record into the 13th annual Eastern Wrestling Tournament at Lock Haven University Friday and Saturday, with the top 39 wrestlers from the seven-team conference advancing to the 58th annual NCAA Championships at Iowa State University March 17-19.

Penn State, which concluded its regular campaign by tying Bloomsburg at Nelson Field House Friday night, 18-18, has won nine EWL titles, including the last six. The only teams to break Penn State's championship grip have been Cleveland State (1979), Clarion (1980) and Bloomsburg (1981).

Penn State and Lock Haven are expected to wage quite a battle for the EWL title, with Bloomsburg, West Virginia and Cleveland State next in line. Clarion and Pitt have some solid individuals, but not enough depth to crack the Top 5.

Penn State, it appears, will be hard-pressed to make it seven straight Saturday night at Thomas Field House, the site of its come-from-behind 21-18 victory over LHU Feb. 20.

The Lions, who were fortunate to beat top-ranked Oklahoma State (21-20) and LHU down the stretch, demonstrated some of the problems they had earlier in the season Friday night.

For one, they were giving up points late in the match. And, secondly, they were unable to complete the takedown when the match was on the line.

The Lions did have four freshmen — Mel Shabelski, Jeff Dernlan, Tim Wittman and Jason Suter — plus Rob Meloy, who only has wrestled 37 varsity bouts, in the lineup.

"It comes down to concentration," Coach Rich Lorenzo of Penn State said yesterday. "It has been a frustrating season. We had a good effort from eight guys at Bloom. And we need it from all 10."

"We're going to go with Ken Chertow at 118, Jim Martin at 126, Jeff Dernlan at 134, Rob Meloy at 142, Tim Wittman at 150, Sean Finkbeiner at 158, Dan Mayo at 177, Andy Voit at 190 and Marc Padwe at heavyweight. Mike Seckler and Jason Suter will go a best-of-three series for the 167-pound job in practice this week."

The Lions have a shot a placing four wrestlers in the finals if they wrestle up to their abilities. That list would include Chertow, Martin, Mayo and Voit. Finkbeiner certainly would help make things easier if he did the same at his new weight class.

Then there's LHU, which has better overall balance than Penn State.

The Bald Eagles, competing at home, have several big guns, namely undefeated Brad Lloyd at 177, Craig Corbin at 118, once-beaten Jody Karam at 167 and Jeff Husick at 126. Coach Neil Turner also has steady Thane Turner at 150, reliable Gary Chaddock at 142, Anthony Melfi at 134, John Barrett at 158 and Bill Freeman at 190. It will be LHU's balance vs. Penn State's quality.

That's why those thirds, fourths, fifths and sixths will be so important next weekend.

Bloomsburg, if it wrestles the way it did against Penn State, also has to be considered.

The Huskies were more alert and had more desire in four of the first five weights Friday.

Lorenzo still agreed yesterday with Referee Bob Pankake's penalty call that allowed Dan Mayo, 2-0 at heavyweight and 27-1-1 at 177-190, to beat Ippolite.

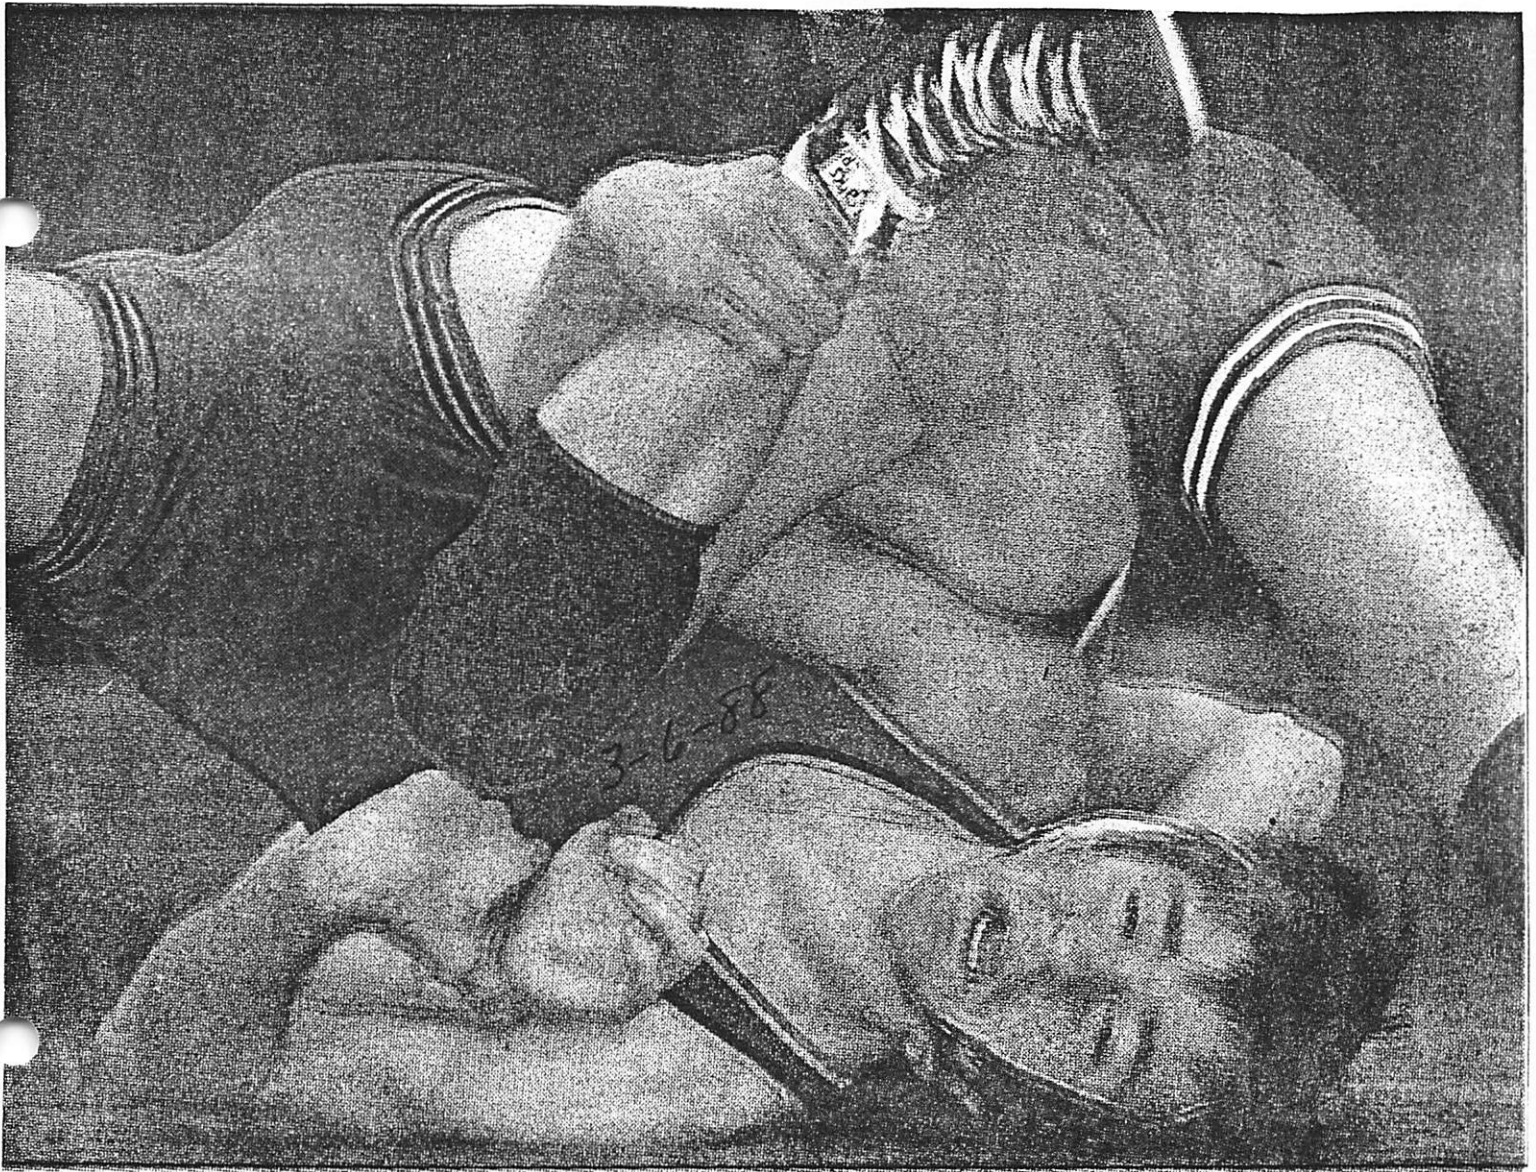

"It was a combination of two things," Lorenzo said. "Ippolite was blocking and not shooting. He wasn't doing anything on offense. Mayo was attempting doubles and duck-unders, but he couldn't budge the guy. And that was the difference."

"But I'm still upset with my guys. We're still not getting 100 percent from all 10 guys. I can't believe in a match like what we had Friday night that all 10 don't pitch in and help. So much (team and individual pride) is at stake. I would think all 10 could fight through the tough times."

One wonders if the Lion team will heed the coaching staff's beckon call. Time's running out and the freshmen starters no longer should be considered freshmen.

5 area champs lose in finals; Section 11 takes team title

By Michael Bucci

Mike Frood stood beside the wrestling mat at the Onondaga County War Memorial Saturday night in complete shock.

Shock at what he had just seen in the 167-pound title match between his wrestler, Jordan-Elbridge's Rory Thorpe, and Iroquois' Ethan Bosch. Shock at what had happened to Section Three wrestlers in the matches preceding.

3-6-88
A Section Three team which had sent five wrestlers into Saturday night's finals of the New York State Intersectional Wrestling Tournament came away — again — with no champions. And the fifth and final defeat came when Bosch got a hold of the previously unbeaten Thorpe and pinned him in just 43 seconds.

"I thought we'd get two or three (champions), to tell you the truth," said Frood, the Jordan-Elbridge and Section Three team coach. "I'm really disappointed that we didn't have a state champion. It's like anything. You're going to have peaks and valleys. We had a great day Friday and today we went a little down as a team."

The five title losses left the section without a state champion for the third straight year, but it still had 11 of its 14 wrestlers place in the top six. It also managed to place third in the team standings with 173 points.

Section Eleven, which had three state champions, finished first with 220 points, and Section Four finished second with 197.5 on the strength of four state champions.

Thorpe, a senior, came into his title match with a 37-0 record this season. But he was no match for Bosch, who was named the tournament's most outstanding wrestler.

"He just overpowered me," Thorpe said. "He just crushed me."

"We knew he was explosive," Frood said. "I told Rory if he's not careful (Bosch) could put him on his back and stick him. He's a pinner."

3-6-88
Section Three's night had taken a turn for the worse long before Thorpe stepped onto the mat. The trouble began in the second title match of the night.

This state tournament was supposed to be the one that Madison's Lenny Combs finally got the title he wanted so badly. Combs reached the state finals last year before losing to Frank Fronhofer of Salem High School. But he beat Fronhofer shortly thereafter and went on to beat him a few more times last summer.

That's why Combs, a senior, was confident when he advanced to the 98-pound title match Saturday night, where he again faced Fronhofer. But again, Fronhofer managed to beat the Madison wrestler when it counted most, scoring the lone point of the match on an escape in the second period.

Combs, who finished his season at 37-2, was too disappointed to talk after the match. 3-6-88

"His big goal this year was to win the states," Madison coach George Peavey said. "When you don't, when you don't meet your expectations, it's hard. You have to feel let down."

"Fronhofer wrestled a smart match. He took away what Lenny can do. Lenny kept attacking, attacking and (Fronhofer) kept blocking."

Two matches after Combs, Fulton senior Rick Pawlewicz saw his final chance at a state title ruined by a wrestler he had defeated earlier this season.

Pawlewicz had faced and beaten Doug Shaffer of Waverly at the Union-Endicott Dual Meet Tournament. But he fell behind early in the 105-pound title match and never recovered. Shaffer ended up with a 9-3 victory and the state title.

South Jefferson's Paul Creighton and Watertown's Seamus Lyman also lost in the finals.

Besides Fronhofer, Sidney's Tony Ferrara (132) and Hilton's Rick Sadwick (155) also won state titles for the second straight year. Other winners were Burnt Hills' Scott Hughes (91), Royalton-Hartland's Lou Rosselli (112), Nyack's Marcel Cooper (126), Port Jefferson's Jamie St. John (138), Comsewogue's Adam Mariano (177), Chenango Forks' Jim Shear (215) and Peru's Jeff Way (250).

Lowville's Mike Aibel, who lost in the second round on Friday night, rebounded through the consolation bracket on Saturday and reached the consolation final at 155 pounds. Aibel then beat Chris Drimak of Johnson City, 6-5, to take third place. 3-6-88

David Palmer of Canastota also wrestled back after a second-round loss to place third, beating Vestal's Ron Pickett at 215 pounds in the consolation final.

Section Three had four other place-winners. Madison 91-pounder Kurt Peavey, who qualified for the semifinals, lost two matches during the day but managed to place fifth. Indian River's Roger Howard also placed fifth after wrestling back through the consolation bracket.

New Hartford's Ron Vitullo had a difficult day. He reached the morning semifinals and lost by a point Al Wooten of Niagara Falls, 3-2. He then lost two more matches Saturday to place sixth.

Another Section Three wrestler, Sauquoit Valley's Ralph Howard, reached the semifinals, lost in overtime, then faded to sixth place.

3 teams race for AAA title

By RON BRACKEN
Times Sports Columnist

ALTOONA — As expected, it's a three-horse race for the District 6 Class AAA wrestling team championship and at the close of last night's quarterfinal round you could cover the three frontrunners with a blanket. 3-5-88

Lock Haven was in the lead with 51½ points, followed by Philipsburg-Oscoola with 46 and Bald Eagle Area with 44.

Individually, BEA has eight semifinalists, P-O seven and Lock Haven six.

State College has a pair of semifinalists and stands sixth in the team race with 25½ points while Bellefonte has one wrestler in the semis and is last with eight points.

"We're not as bad off as we could have been," said BEA Coach Dick Rhoades. "The three bouts we didn't get to wrestle in the first round (because of scratches) could have possibly cost us six points. But that's something we have no control over. 3-5-88

"We just have to keep wrestling tough and not let up. We won a couple of tight matches tonight where the kids just did what they had to do. They kept the pressure on and that made the difference.

"Brian Gates got behind (6-1) but he kept his composure, came back and got the takedown and a couple of nearfalls to get the win.

"And at 167 Steve Dorman got an escape in overtime and then hit that lateral drop and got the fall. That was a nice move.

"So all things considered, we're fortunate to be where we are. The kids went out and went for back points because we didn't want to fall too far behind Lock Haven. We had to keep them within reach."

BEA wrestlers advancing are Chris Gilham at 105, Keith Taylor at 112, Doug Taylor (who won his 100th match last night) at 126, Gates at 132, Rob Lucas at 138, Dorman at 167, Gary Heverly at 185 and Skip Pighetti at heavyweight.

P-O wrestlers who moved into the semifinals are Bart Mease at 98, Curt Dixon at 112, Joe Monoskey at 119, Rob Emigh at 132, Ted Kephart at 145, Gary Sanker at 155 and Scott Hoover at 185.

Jason Shea bests Best

Special to the Times

The super bout of the Class AAA wrestling finals — Hun-

"We wrestled pretty well," said P-O Coach Dave Caslow. "We won more than we lost. But losing to Bald Eagle Area at 105 (where Gilham downed Randy Curtorillo, 4-2) and 138 (where Lucas nipped Aaron Gustkey, 7-6) hurt us. Those were crucial matches and they could be a factor in the team race.

"But we did pick up a lot of back points. Our better kids went after them; they were wrestling for the team, especially in the first round. 3-5-88

"But I would say BEA is in good shape. They won some close matches and came up with some clutch performances."

State College advanced John Bove at 112 and Aaron Songer at 119. In the upset of the night, Bellefonte's Jim Thal knocked off second-seeded Rob Prebish of the Little Lions, 6-4, at 105. Prebish was the 98-pound titlist a year ago.

"Aaron wrestled a good match. He did what he had to do to win," said Coach Galen McWilliams. "He looked a little tired but he'll be ready tomorrow (today). And John wrestled well."

In the shocker at 105, Prebish scored the initial takedown but Thal escaped and took Prebish down for a 3-2 lead after the first period. Prebish went ahead on a reversal in the second period, 4-3. In the third period Prebish was warned for stalling and then penalized a point for stalling to tie, the score at 4-4. And with 13 seconds to go, Thal hit a shoulder roll from the bottom and came out behind Prebish for the reversal.

"The two stall calls threw Rob off his game," McWilliams said. "I thought he was going to ride Thal out for the win but once he was penalized to tie it up, then he couldn't let Thal out and go for the takedown to win it, not with 13 seconds to go.

"But you have to give Thal credit. He was pumped up; you could tell. He was going to take it to the wire if he could."

Thal, a freshman who was seeded seventh, was the only Raider to survive the quarterfinals.

"Thal's bout at 105 was the outstanding bout of the tournament for us," said Tribe Coach John Wood. "That was a nice match on his part. They had wrestled twice before this season and each time it got a little closer. Jimmy got to learn Rob's style. That roll was a nice move on his part.

"But overall, we just don't have the horses. Once we got to the quarterfinals and went against the better kids we just couldn't stay with them. Our kids wrestled to the most of their ability but it just wasn't enough. But I hope the younger kids learn from this. 3-5-88

"And Jeff (Ort) and Dave (McClenahan) still have a chance to come back and take thirds. That's what we came here for."

Today's matchups involving county wrestlers find Mease against Lewistown's Shawn Ream at 98; Gilham against top-seeded Brian Merrifield of Lock Haven at 105; Thal against Matt Meyers of Lewistown at 105; Bove against Dixon at 112 and Taylor against Rich Alvarez of Johnstown Vo-Tech; Monoskey against top-seeded Steve Krouse of Lock Haven at 119 and Songer against second-seeded Phil Elliott of Vo-Tech; Doug Taylor against Aldo Betta of Somerset at 126; Emigh against first-seeded Jason Shea of Huntingdon and Gates against Lock Haven's Brian Wilt at 132; Lucas against first-seeded Andy Sullivan of Somerset at 138; Kephart against Lock Haven's Justin Forney at 145; Sanker against top-ranked Luke Sredy of Somerset at 155; Dorman against Dane DeLozier of Hollidaysburg at 167, Heverly against Doug Miller of Somerset at 185, and Hoover against Travis Gardner of Hollidaysburg and Pighetti against second-seeded Dale Searer of Lewistown at heavyweight.

All of the top seeds survived last night and Prebish was the only second seed to fall. Cornell Thompson of Central at 105 was the lone third seed to lose while two fourth seeds — State College's Matt Leitzell at 98, Curtorillo at 105 — lost.

Huntingdon's Erik Shea, who had been seeded second at 119, scratched because of strained neck ligaments suffered in practice Tuesday. 3-5-88

Today's action starts at noon. The consolation finals are set for 6:30 with the title bouts going at 7:30. The top three finishers today advance to next week's Northwest Regional tournament.

Huntingdon's Jason Shea against standing wrestler. The Huntingdon senior, 33-0 this year and 111-9 in his career, turned on the power from the start, piling up two takedowns before hitting a four-point move for an 8-2 lead after one period. 3-20-88

Shea, showing superior strength and technique on his feet, stopped Best by a technical fall at the end of two periods in the 132-pound title bout. Shea led 18-3 when the bout was stopped. He was named the tournament's out-freshman Jeff Martin. Salone completed a perfect 36-0 season while Martin finished 31-5. 155 — Sophomore Ray Brunzer (35-0) won North Allegheny's second title of the night, defeating Ephrata junior Troy Minnich (32-3) by a 6-2 score. 167 — North Penn junior Chris Kwortnik easily defended his title, hanging a 13-4 loss on Dallastown's Matt Martin in the finals. Kwortnik scored all of his points in the first two periods. Kwortnik completed a 37-0 season and now has a stellar 103-1 record with another year remaining. 185 — Quakertown's John Hangey survived a late flurry by Nazareth's John Renner to win, 10-8. Renner had reversed and allowed Hangey to escape to make it 10-8 but couldn't get the tying takedown. Heavyweight — Erie Academy's Melvin Crosby scored two late takedowns to defeat West Hazelton's Tim Samec, 6-2.

Rob Weis in the third period to expand a 1-0 lead and go on to a 4-0 win. Moore, a sophomore, is now 72-0 in his career. 112 — Dave Foley of Bethlehem Freedom stopped North Allegheny's bid to make it two in a row when he took Mike Norton down to his back in the last 15 seconds to go up, 6-3. Norton reversed at the buzzer to set the final score at 6-5. Foley won the 105-pound title a year ago as a sophomore. 119 — South Western's Joey Wildasin blew open a 6-4 match when he took Shikellany's Chris Derr down to his back for a five-point move near the end of the second period to go up, 11-4. Wildasin, a runner-up a year ago, won 11-7. 138 — Penn Hills' John Dasta, who placed in his three previous appearances in the states, went all the way this year, using five-point moves in the final 20 seconds to wrap up a 7-1 victory over North Allegheny's Rich Catalano. Dasta finished the year with a 32-0 record; he was 131-6-1 in his career. 145 — A second-period takedown made the difference for Souderton senior Mike Salone in his 4-2 win over Warwick

Shea hit another four-pointer in the second before a takedown and three-point nearfall in the waning seconds of the second period gave Shea his 15-point margin. "I knew about a half minute into it that I had an advantage with my strength against him," Shea said. "That's what I wanted to do going in — use my strength against him and move at the same time, and I guess he couldn't handle it." Shea called the title a "great feeling," saying a championship was something he had thought about since he was a freshman. "The closer it got this year, the more I thought about it," he added. "This is great." Here is a roundup of Class AAA title bouts: 98 — Brad Sillimperi of Nazareth, a runner-up last year, went the distance, beating Jason Marks of Upper Perkiomen for the title. He took Marks down three times en route to a 7-3 victory. 105 — North Allegheny sophomore Ty Moore wrapped up his second title when he escaped and took down Erie McDowell's

Eagles have the lead

But St. Edward coach not satisfied

By PAT GALBINCEA
STAFF WRITER

Usually, a wrestling coach whose team is in first place in a tough tournament would be satisfied.

That was not the case with St. Edward coach Howard Ferguson entering last night's championship round in the Division I district at Mentor. 3-6-88

The Eagles were leading with 90½ points, but qualified only five wrestlers for the state tournament.

St. Ignatius, with 79 points and four state qualifiers, and Southview, with 76½ points and six qualifiers, are still in the title hunt.

Only three St. Ed wrestlers — Jason Hackett (130), state champ Alan Fried (135) and Bob Elbin (140) — reached the finals.

The Eagles were very fortunate that Mike Castellana (112) and Dave Leonti (119) lost to quality wrestlers, and came back through the consolations.

Others dropped like tenpins in a bowling alley, or lost Friday in the preliminaries and were eliminated early.

"I've got mixed emotions," said a visibly dejected Ferguson. "The five kids we're taking to Columbus are quality wrestlers, but we're not taking the large numbers we have in the past."

"If we're going to win an 11th straight state tournament, we're going to have to wrestle well in every match — with no mistakes."

Fried, the Eagles' best wrestler, got his toughest match of the year in the semifinals. He needed a third period takedown and back points to break open a close match with Mayfield's Bob Daher to win, 17-8.

And to show how rugged wrestling is at the notorious "Mentor Meatgrinder," Daher blew a 5-0 lead in a consolation final bout with Scott Stojetz of Lake Catholic, who got a double arm bar for a fall in 4:31.

DISTRICT WRESTLING

That means two quality 135-pounders, Daher and Nordonia's Mike Gillmor (third in the state last season), did not get out of Mentor.

The premier match of the afternoon saw Joe Collins (152) of St. Ignatius upend state champ Robert Taylor of Southview, 8-5.

Taylor spun behind Collins for a first-period takedown, but was called for stalling three times in the third period.

The final stall call, with 11 seconds left in the match, put Collins ahead, 6-5, and the Wildcats' wrestler got a match-clinching takedown at the buzzer. 3-6-88

"Taylor has limited moves," said Collins, "but he likes to back away, then shoot on you quickly. I like to work inside, so that that nullified what he does best. I expect to meet him again in the state finals."

The victory was no surprise to Collins, who beat the state champ twice last season.

Joe Collins' twin brother, Marty, (160) had no trouble in beating Southview's David Taylor (Robert's cousin) with a 19-3 technical fall in 4:00.

"Taylor just plain tried to outmuscle me," said Marty. "I didn't mind that, because I was as strong, and quicker."

In another surprise, state runner-up Paul Hamm (125) of Solon gave up a reversal to Southview's Billy Kopp in the final 29 seconds and dropped a 6-5 decision.

Kopp was the only one of six Saints' semifinalists to win.

And how tough was it for wrestling referees at Mentor?

"I am surprised by the fierce intensity the wrestlers are showing in each match," said official Stewart Segall. "Because of that, it's difficult to officiate. I'd say half the calls we made could be debated."

Roselle will be the chief

If you see Charlie Roselle breaking in a new pair of shoes or hear him singing to himself, it's because he's getting ready for next wrestling season. 3-20-88 Roselle, the colorful Chief Logan coach whose 28-year career (which included three years at the short-lived Penn Highlands jointure) makes him the old man in District 6, will be at the helm of the Chief Logan-Kishacoquillas jointure next year. The merger, which will be called Indian Valley, will produce an AAA program out of two long-time AA schools.

"I'm going to have to dance a little faster and sing a little better. I'm going back up with the big boys," laughed Roselle. "But I'm looking forward to it. I've got a lot of buddies up there (in AAA). That's where we started. It should be a fun experience." Maybe for them. Their opponents might not think so. Both the Kish and Chief Logan programs have been solid and the combination should be more than competitive on the AAA level. Roselle winced at the notion that the Warriors should be a powerhouse.

"Oh no, don't say that," he laughed. "Actually, we're not going to be that big. We'll probably have about 800 kids in the top three grades, which is about where the Chief Logan enrollment was 10 years ago."

This will be the second experience with a merger for Roselle and he thinks this jointure has a better chance of success than the Penn Highlands union which combined Chief, Kish, Lewistown and Rothrock in the early '70s. 3-20-88

"I think the makeup of the student bodies of these two schools makes it a natural," Roselle said. "I'm just a teacher and a coach, I've got nothing to do with the politics involved. But this is a nice mix of kids; psychologically it's a natural because both are more or less rural districts."

The Warriors, who will wear red and black ("I designed the uniforms myself; they'll be all black," smiled Roselle), are beefing up their schedule once they make the move.

"We'll be wrestling Bald Eagle Area, State College and Hollidaysburg," Roselle explained. "But basically the schedule is built around the Chief Logan schedule."

The Warriors will also have a nice anchor at the end of the lineup in heavyweight Joe Daubert, who has wrestled at just under 200 pounds this season. Daubert won his first state title yesterday, the last of the Mingoos to do so.

When Juniata's Dave Hart was upset in yesterday's 155-pound semifinals by Tony Minnich of Ephrata, it marked his first loss since his sophomore year. Hart won an AA title last year but the Indians moved up to AAA this time around.

North Penn's Chris Kwornik is on a pace which could net him close to 140 career victories. Kwornik, a junior, picked up his 100th career win in Thursday's preliminary round.

At the conclusion of Friday's Class AA quarterfinal bout between Mount Union's Troy Sunderland and Shane Bennett, which Sunderland won by fall in 4:48, the official working the match thanked Sunderland for not hurting his opponent.

Do not be surprised if before next season's tournaments get under way, the PIAA rescinds its decision to advance three wrestlers from each district tournament to the regionals.

People close to the situation say that the wheels are already turning to maintain the status quo. 3-20-88

Now if they would take a hard look at the makeup of the District 9-AAA field, we'd have some real progress.

Shaler's Mike Yuiska was handed his second loss of the tournament in the fourth round of the consolations by Susquehanna's Bob Williams. Trailing 10-6 in the final two minutes, Williams escaped and took Yuiska down to his back for an 11-10 lead. Yuiska escaped but Williams took him down to his back in the last 10 seconds for a 15-11 win.

'Boro Defends Mat Title; Six Scots Claim Crowns

EDINBORO — With six wrestlers pensburg's Tim Bowersox. But Hall, claiming championships, Edinboro who trailed 5-0 in the first minute, University easily defended its NCAA escaped his predicament and Division I Eastern Regional crown notched an 8-5 decision to up his Saturday on the Fighting Scot mats. record to 33-2-1.

The Scots, who also had one runner-up and one consolation winner, put 176 points on the board in out-distancing second place Slippery Rock, which finished with 89 points.

The winners at the 'Boro advanced to the NCAA championships set for March 17-19 at Iowa State University in Ames, Iowa. Also moving on will be six wild cards, which were to be selected last night by the East Regional coaches.

Sean O'Day, the talented 142-pound junior from Meadville, was named the Outstanding Wrestler in the two-day event. O'Day, 32-3 on the season, romped over Old Dominion's Mark Billups in the finals of their class, 16-5. 3-6-88

The other Plaid kingpins included Dave Rowan at 118, Dan Willaman (134), Terry Kennedy (150), Mike Flynn (158), and heavyweight Dean Hall.

Taking second place was 'Boro 177-pounder Eric Groenendaal. John Venesile notched a third at 126.

Fighting Scot coach Mike DeAnna was thoroughly satisfied with the performance of his squad, which will be well-represented at Iowa State.

"I'm very happy. I think we wrestled a nice tournament, and I think every kid, win or lose, put on a 100 percent effort, and that's all I can ask for," noted the mentor and former Iowa grappler now in his fourth season.

DeAnna also praised the triumphs of Rowan and Flynn, who overcame injury problems heading into the regional. 3-6-88

"For them (Rowan and Flynn), the key was concentration in overcoming their injuries. I think they stayed out of potential injury-type situations. They both wrestled a fantastic tournament, and if they use their heads, they can both place at the nationals."

Rowan, a senior leader who is now 33-2, scored a surprisingly easy 13-5 decision over Wayne Gibson of Old Dominion. Gibson is a healthy 25-3-2.

Rowan scored three pins in the affair, adding glitter to his title.

Flynn, a junior middleweight who is now 11-5, upended top seed Rich Castano of Old Dominion, 12-8.

Hall, the national heavyweight runnerup, had to rally from a near-disastrous pin at the hands of Ship-

Kennedy breezed past Campbell's Rob Sottile, 12-5. The junior is now 36-4-1 and owns the most wins on the club.

Willaman, also a junior, moved to 28-11 by topping Slippery Rock's Jack Bell in the finals, 6-3.

Groenendaal, a senior local product from General McLane, bowed to Ken Wilson of Slippery Rock, 11-1 in the 177-pound finale.

Jon Venesile lost to Dan Moody of Slippery Rock, the second seed, in the semifinals 6-6, 2-0 in overtime. A takedown which would have tied the match came just after the buzzer in OT. Venesile went on to capture third place with an 8-7 verdict over Jerry Williams of George Mason.

Freshman Rodney Wright finished fourth at 190.

Other champions included Moody at 126, Anthony Cox (167) of Campbell and Gordon Cooper (190) of Millersville. 3-6-88

Following Edinboro and Slippery Rock were Millersville with 72 points; Old Dominion (69 1/2), Campbell (61 1/2), George Mason (49 3/4), James Madison (45 3/4), George Washington (45), Wright State (32), and Kutztown (31).

Consolations key to win

LOCK HAVEN — Penn State won seven bouts and lost five in consolation action here yesterday in connection with the 13th annual Eastern Wrestling League Championships and ended up with one third-place finisher (Andy Voit at 190), two fourths (Rob Meloy at 142 and Tim Wittman at 150) and three fifths (Jeff Dernlan at 134, Sean Finkbeiner at 158 and heavyweight Marc Padwe).

Lock Haven, meanwhile, had a bad afternoon in the consolations, winning only one of 10 bouts.

Lock Haven had one fifth (Gary Chaddock at 142) and four sixths (Anthony Melfi at 132, Thane Turner at 150, John Barrett at 158 and Mike Mazza at heavyweight). 3-6-88

Voit, after being upset Friday night by Clarion's John Flaherty on riding time, came back to pin Perry Miller of Pitt in 2:54 and then defeat Dominic Black of WVU for third, 15-4.

Steve Millward, West Virginia freshman, finished fourth at 118. The former BEA wrestler moved out to a 7-1 lead and wound up beating Pitt's Brian O'Korn in the consolation semifinals, 13-2. But in the battle for third, John Supsic of Bloomsburg got the takedown and pinned Millward in 1:37.

Dernlan lost to Tony Reed of Bloom, 3-2, and then beat Melfi for fifth, 7-3, with a four-point move with 1:35 left. He bear-hugged Melfi to his back.

Meloy, leading Chaddock by 2-1 in the first period of their 142-pound match, pancaked his opponent and got the pin in 1:48. But in the match for third, Scott Collins of WVU beat Meloy, 8-4.

Wittman scored a takedown at the buzzer to beat Dave Wlodarz of CSU, 3-1. Coach Dick Bonacci protested the last-second move but was overruled by the committee.

Then in the match for third, Jim Akerly of WVU downed Wittman, a true freshman, 8-4.

Finkbeiner had two takedowns and a 4-1 lead over Frank McKeon of CSU, but a takedown with 1:07 left, a penalty point and two back points with 39 ticks to go won it for McKeon.

Then Finkbeiner beat Barrett for fifth, 6-4, scoring a takedown with 29 seconds to go. Barrett had beaten Finkbeiner earlier in the tournament on criteria.

After Voit came Padwe and he lost the first time around to Jeff Spinetti of WVU in overtime, 2-2 and criteria. The regulation score was 3-3.

Then Padwe had too much weight for Mazza and beat the LHU senior, 7-2.

In head-to-head Penn State-LHU consolation matches, the Lions had a 4-0 edge after going 0-2 Friday in championship bracket action.

LHU's lone winner in consolation activity yesterday was Chaddock, who beat Tom Kuntzleman of Bloomsburg for fifth, 11-6.

Family feud

By Bob McCray

Good fathers like to do things with their sons.

But for Cathedral Prep wrestling coach Ed Onorato, spending time with his son Tom the past two Saturday nights has been anything but fun. 3-7-87

Tom is a standout wrestler for McDowell High School, now a two-time District 10 and sectional champion. The past two Saturday evenings he has met Prep's John Canavan in the finals.

That meant that dad (Ed) was coaching against him.

"It's been tougher than before, really different," the Rambler mat coach admitted. "At least they both advance and that's what matters most," he added about his son Tom and his wrestler Canavan who will go on to regionals.

This is nothing new for coach Onorato. Last year, he had to work against sons Tom and Dave whenever Prep kids went up against them.

"It just doesn't get any easier," he admitted.

Tech Memorial's Tom Carr has guided many a grappler to district, regional and state titles in his 25 years as head coach.

He was rather frustrated Saturday night when 126-pounder Mike Toran was an overtime loser to Meadville's Barry Anderson. Anderson prevailed 2-2, 1-1 in overtime via criteria No. 5, most reversals (one).

Carr was upset that Toran allowed Anderson to escape with 17 seconds left in the second period of overtime.

"But they are only kids," the Centaur mentor admitted, adding he was just happy Toran managed a second place.

Last year, Toran won the sectional tourney but was not able to compete at districts.

McDowell's Mike Swift was all smiles after becoming the Trojans' fifth District 10 titlist of the night.

"Just like last year," he boasted about the five winners.

Jason Russo (98 pounds) was the most pleasant surprise, handing Meadville's Jeff Cervone his first loss of the season.

Heading to regionals, Swift is 27-1, Onorato 25-1-1, Len LoCastro 27-1, Rob Weis 27-2 and Russo 28-6. Swift won the 1987 Northwest Re-

Onoratos don't always enjoy the time they spend together

gional crown while Onorato placed second and LoCastro fourth.

Prep's Canavan was also fourth and Academy heavyweight Melvin Crosby third.

Prep's Jeff Liebel scored an impressive 5-3 championship win over Meadville's Kevin Pollard at 185. Pollard was third at last year's D-10 tourney and third at regionals.

Pollard had pounded Fort LeBoeuf's Jeff Sorenson 17-5 in the semifinals. Liebel is now 28-4.

LeBoeuf's Dan Chase continues to breeze past opponents. He pinned Academy's George Ollie at 3:01 for the 167-pound crown and registered a technical fall over McDowell's Jim Geary in the semis. The Bison junior is 27-0.

Strong Vincent coach Mark Brabender must think he's going through deja vu.

Last year, defending state champion Gary Zurn just couldn't get past LeBoeuf's Chris Keene. In '88, Mark Weindorf (105) has run into a similar hurdle in McDowell's Weis.

Weis beat him 8-0 in the sectional finals and then 5-1 for the district crown.

This area's most impressive Class AA performance came from Northwestern's Mike Garlick. He won the 105-pound title 8-2 over Mercer's Mike Menold. He was a 9-2 victor in the semis and moves on to regionals at 27-2. 3-7-87

Wildcat teammate Dennis Bonnell was awesome in the 185 consolation finals, blasting Grove City's Chris Bowman, 18-8. He lost 7-4 to Reynolds' Scott Slater in the semis; then pinned Cranberry's Joe Schosser. Bonnell is now 24-4.

Seneca had two wrestlers make the consolation finals before being denied. Freshman Kevin O'Sullivan came up just short, bowing 1-0 to Kennedy Christian's Chris Elliott (a defending district champion) in the third-place match at 112.

E.J. Morrison, third at last year's D-10 tourney and fourth at regionals, got caught and pinned by Eisenhower's Chris Dufopolus in the 126 consolation finals. Morrison made quite a comeback just to get that far, having undergone arthroscopic knee surgery in January.

Fairview's Joe Corbin (heavyweight) and Gabe Oros (138) each won two matches before bowing out.

Probably the most exciting championship match came in the Class AA 155-pound match, where Cochran's Aaron Martz got a takedown with five seconds left to edge Commodore Perry's Dennis Owen, 7-6. 3-7-87 Martz, who wrestled at Franklin last year, was injured a couple of times during the match and it looked like he might not continue.

Academy's Melvin Crosby has no trouble with Titusville's Pat Nosko, but he appeared frustrated that he couldn't pin him. Crosby now 24-0, was up 5-0 in the first period but that was only time he could put the Rocket on his back.

There aren't many wrestlers in northwestern Pennsylvania who can say they went the full six minutes with big Mel.

Regionals are slated this Friday and Saturday. The Class AA tourney will again be held at Altoona High School; the AA competition at Clarion University. The state championships are the following week at Hershey.

Penn State wrestlers win another EWL championship

By DOUG McDONALD
Times Senior Sports Writer

LOCK HAVEN — It didn't come but Penn State won its seventh straight Eastern Wrestling League championship here last night. 3-6-88

The Lions, with their backs to the wall Friday night, overcame a 14-point deficit (after the semifinals Friday) and finished the two-day tourney with 117.75 points, 21 more than Lock Haven, the first-day leader.

Bloomsburg, with seven qualifiers, had 93 points for third, while Pitt (89 and four), WVU (87.50 and six), Cleveland State (75 and five) and Clarion (58.25 and three) followed in that order.

Penn State crowned three champions — Ken Chertow at 118, Jim Martin at 126 and Dan Mayo at 177. Overall, the Lions will be sending nine wrestlers to the national tourney at Iowa State's Hilton Coliseum March 17-19. The top three finishers in each weight class advance to the NCAAs from the EWL along with nine wildcards.

Also advancing from Penn State will be Jason Suter (second at 167), Andy Voit (third at 190) and four wildcards — Jeff Dermlan (fifth at 134), Rob Meloy (fourth at 142), Tim Wittman (fourth at 158) and Sean Finkbeiner (fifth at 158).

Penn State, with 10 EWL team titles overall, wrestled 16 bouts yesterday at Thomas Field House and won 10 of them. In two days, the Lions of Coach Rich Lorenzo won 22 and lost 16.

Lock Haven, seeking its first EWL title, went 1-9 in the consolation rounds yesterday and 1-4 in the championship round for a dismal 2-13 mark. Overall, the Bald Eagles of Coach Neil Turner were 12-18 (after being 10-5 late Friday night).

In what was considered by many to be the feature bout last night, Mayo beat Lloyd by a 3-1 margin. A second-period takedown (ankle pick) with 33 seconds left broke the scoreless tie. Each wrestler then managed an escape and Mayo had his third EWL crown and Lloyd had his first loss after 32 straight wins. 3-6-88

Pat Santoro of Pitt, owner of a 42-0 record this season, won his second straight EWL crown and was named the tourney's outstanding wrestler.

"This tournament is so balanced," Coach Lorenzo said after the Lions completed their comeback. "It wasn't that Lock Haven collapsed. There was some great wrestling out there today. I was impressed with all seven teams.

"We got contributions from all 10 guys although we were disappointed with a few guys. It's too bad we're not taking Marc Padwe USA event in November by one with us. He's making great pro-quarter point)." gress."

Coach Turner blamed his team's sub-par performance "strictly on the matchups."

Turner continued: "We fought hard, but we came up a notch short. Today, Penn State was just the better team. We were paired with some tough guys. We were 4-0 in matchups against Penn State in the consolations and 3-1 in the championship bouts. And that's the way it should be decided."

The Bald Eagles will be sending five wrestlers to Ames, Iowa — Jeff Husick at 126, Lloyd and Bill Freeman at 190 plus champion Jody Karam at 167. Karam beat Suter, 7-5, to become LHU's 11th EWL champion and Coach Turner's eighth.

Other wildcard selections were Chris Mary of WVU (fourth at 134), Frank McKeon of Cleveland State (fourth at 158), Ernie Stone of Cleveland State (fourth at 167), Scott Brown of Bloomsburg (fourth at 177) and Gary Horner of Clarion (fifth at 177).

Chertow beat Corbin, 6-4, to escape and two penalty points made it 5-2 with two minutes left. The title was Chertow's first after a second and a third. He's also 10-0 since dropping to 118.

Martin raised his record to 36-1 when he pinned Husick in 4:25 with a half-nelson. He had a 2-0 lead and was riding Husick with a tough arm-bar when he switched holds. Martin, meanwhile, clinched the team title with his victory and raised Penn State's EWL individual total to 41.

At 167, Karam scored first with a takedown and held a 5-3 lead after one period. Karam then reversed and Suter escaped to make it 7-4. Another Suter escape ended the scoring in the last period.

Mayo picked Lloyd's anklepoint (Lorenzo refers to it as a head-and-heel) and maintained control for 16 seconds. Mayo chose the bottom position and escaped six seconds into the final period to end the scoring.

"It (the ankle pick) was there," Mayo said. "That has been my bread-and-butter. I thought I pushed him. It seemed like Lloyd was content with just keeping it close. This was a good confidence builder. I had heard so much about how good he was. But I worked my butt off in practice. The fans also were pretty rude to me the last time we were here. This is the third time we've been here this season. It's nice to get away with another win (the Lions won the dual meet last month, 21-18, while LHU won the Mat-Town

"You had two outstanding wrestlers out there," said Coach Turner. "Brad needs more matches like that one. It would be neat if we saw them again in the NCAA finals."

Added Coach Lorenzo: "I thought Mayo wrestled an intelligent bout. He's tough to score on. Plus, he controlled the action throughout. When he does that, he tough. Brad's style is to mix it up more. I think the difference was just in style. Danny's a gifted athlete and when he's on top of his game he's outstanding. When he wrestled Royce Alger (Iowa's standout 177-pounder), he allowed Alger to control things."

But Lorenzo couldn't say enough about the team's comeback.

"It was a great effort. When we lost Voit in the semis, that could have been an 11-point difference. But the kids battled back. Then we get four wildcards for a total of nine qualifiers. The coaches picked the guys they thought could score some points at the NCAAs.

"And we left some good kids at home — a Steve Millward (WVU freshman 118-pounder) is a good example. Look at what Mike Cole of Clarion did last year. He placed third in the nationals."

In other bouts last night, unseeded Al Utter of Pitt beat Guy Sako of Cleveland State, 6-4. He becomes Pitt's 13th EWL champion and the first unseeded wrestler to ever win an EWL title.

At 142, Santoro beat Dave Zahoransky of Cleveland State on a technical fall (19-4, 7:00), and Dave Morgan of Bloom beat Scott Hovan of Pitt, 11-4, at 150.

Then at 158, Michael Carr hit Mark Banks of Bloom with a five-second EWL move at the outset and won by 7-4, becoming only WVU's second EWL champ.

At 190, John Flaherty of Clarion scored two takedowns in overtime to beat Freeman, 6-0, and Golden Eagle teammate Kurt Angle, a freshman, beat Ron Ippolite of Bloom at heavyweight, 3-2. Ippolite had beaten Angle twice during the season.

Gutsy Rowan keeps rolling along despite ailing shoulder

WRESTLING

COLUMN

Dave Richards

Dave Rowan

3-7-88

IVE weeks ago, Edinboro senior Dave Rowan dislocated his right shoulder during a match at the Pennsylvania State Conference Championships. He popped it back into place — yow! — and continued, but moments later the shoulder gave way again. He was forced to default.

If Rowan was just an average wrestler, he would have undergone immediate surgery to repair his shoulder and been content to root his teammates on during their drive towards the NCAA Division I tournament. 3-7-88

But Rowan is good. Real good. He finished fourth at the NCAA finals last year and, at the time of his injury, was ranked No. 2 nationally by Amateur Wrestling News. Except for the default, he'd lost only once all season. He fully expected to contend for the NCAA championship in his final year.

He still does. Call it crazy, call it preposterous, but Rowan refused to call it a career. He's competing and he's succeeding although his shoulder could dislocate again at any time.

At Edinboro on Saturday, Rowan defended the 118-pound title of the Eastern Regional to automatically qualify for the upcoming NCAA tournament at Iowa State. He's 6-0 since the injury.

Edinboro Athletic Director Jim McDonald calls Rowan the most courageous athlete he's seen in his 26 years at the school. But actually, for Rowan, it was pretty simple. He'd come too far and worked too hard to quit. With the help of trainer George Roberts and graduate assistant Al Passerallo, he embarked on a grueling rehabilitation program.

"I said if there's a will, there's a way. I didn't want to give up," Rowan said. "There were some times where I really thought it was over, but I always had that burning saying, 'Don't stop.' And there were a lot of times I did stop and the trainer and Al would get me going.

"Al is just the greatest guy. He'd come knocking on my door and wake me up and say, 'We got to do this.' Because some days, it's like, 'Here we go again.' It gets boring and it's hard. You get frustrated. Al gets me all fired up and motivated. If it wasn't for him, I wouldn't be on the mat again."

Medically speaking, the problem is a torn staple from prior surgery which connected cartilage tissue to the bone. 3-7-88

"About two years ago, Dave had a chronically dislocated shoulder he had operated on," Roberts said. "The repair they did gave way at the PSAC so there was nothing keeping his shoulder from dislocating. Once it (the staple) is torn away, there's nothing to prevent the shoulder from displacing to the front.

"What we opted to do was put him through a very strenuous rehabilitative process in the hopes he could stabilize his shoulder with his own strength. There was no time to operate and rehabilitate it properly. What's happened is really kind of phenomenal. David is the only kid I know who could have pulled this off. He's done it on his own through a lot of hard work."

Rowan works four hours a day on rehabilitation. 3-7-88

"The trainer said the best thing to do is overcompensate by strengthening the muscles around the area," he said. "Not just the large muscle, but the smaller ones too, and we've been working on them like crazy twice a day. I do a lot of internal and external rotations with the pulley, and a lot of swimming."

"I put paddles on my hand and do swimming motions in the water to move the shoulder all the way around. I do weight training mostly to isolate that shoulder and get deep inside."

Opponents know Rowan has a bad shoulder, but he's managed to prevent them from taking advantage of it.

"I don't give the opponent a chance to do anything to me," he said. "I just pressure him so much he doesn't have a chance to get on top and crank on there, or bottle me up and try to turn me. I stay away from positions where I know it's vulnerable. 3-7-88

"It's like my one buddy says, 'Just get in and out.' I just try to pin the guy as fast as I can and get out."

Rowan pinned three of his four regional opponents, and whipped Old Dominion's Wayne Gibson in the final, 14-5. But the NCAA tourney will be a grind — three days of intense competition against the country's best.

"I'm still behind. I missed a whole month," Rowan acknowledged. "But my timing and everything is coming back now. I'm glad I had a lot of matches this weekend. For nationals, I'll keep working and just hope things keep going the way they are now. It's going to be a dogfight. In and out. I'll just have to get in there, and get out." 3-7-88

The shoulder has dislocated twice more since the first injury, but not during competition.

"It gets sore after I wrestle, but it's fine on a normal day," Rowan said. "Once it came out when I was sleeping, and that was scary. Another time we were stretching out before practice and it happened again."

Roberts remembers the sleeping incident.

"We got a call from him at his apartment at five in the morning," he said. "But that's very common. You get relaxed and get your arm up over your head and it dislocates during sleep. I'd say the chances of it happening in a match are about 50-50. Either it will or it won't."

"The worst that could happen is it dislocates again," Roberts added. "The damage that's there has already been done. Our agreement with Dave is if does dislocate at any point along the way, that it'll be the end."

Edinboro coach Mike DeAnna said Rowan is ready for that possibility. 3-7-88

"This is not an easy thing to work with physically, and it's especially difficult mentally. Dave knows his back is against the wall going against good competition. Psychologically, he's prepared himself to compete with these top-notch wrestlers even if there's a possibility the shoulder might come out.

"I'm so proud of Dave," he added. "He's just a real special kid."

Mike Flynn seconds that notion. The Scots' 158-pounder has endured an injury-plagued, illness-interrupted season himself. Like Rowan, he filed that in the past history department and won a regional title.

"Dave is an inspiration just totally," Flynn said. "It was only a month ago we thought he wasn't going to wrestle at all. He's in here at 6:30 a.m. and goes until the point of exhaustion. So you see what he does every day. He's just an inspiration to the whole team."

Rowan still goes through dark periods. The blackest followed the injury itself. 3-7-88

"I thought I was done and everything was just bad. It was like my life was going down the drain," he recalled. But once he realized it wasn't over; that he had another avenue he could take, he grabbed it.

"This is my senior year and I've worked ever so hard," he said, softly. "It just isn't fair for it to end like that. I just wanted to keep going. You know, when you work hard for something you just don't want it to stop."

DES MOINES, Iowa — Oklahoma State, which ruled college wrestling with an iron fist before 1970, is in a good position to regain the status it once enjoyed.

After qualifying meets over the weekend, the Cowboys have emerged as slight favorites for the team title at next week's NCAA meet in Ames. Oklahoma State qualified wrestlers in nine of the 10 weight classes in winning the Big Eight Conference championship Sunday.

That group includes two-time national champ and world freestyle champion John Smith, considered a shoo-in for the title at 134 pounds.

Oklahoma State has won 27 NCAA wrestling titles, more than any other school, but the Cowboys' last crown came in 1971.

Defending NCAA champion Iowa State, which was second to OSU in the Big Eight meet, also qualified nine wrestlers for the national tournament, as did Eastern power Penn State. The NCAA meet will be held at Iowa State's Hilton Coliseum March 17-19.

Arizona State and Northern Iowa each qualified seven wrestlers, while Big Ten champion Iowa has six qualifiers. Iowa had won nine straight NCAA titles before Iowa State stopped the string last year.

Smith, whose 85-match winning streak is the third-best in NCAA history, is one of five 1987 champions who are back to defend their titles. The others are Tim Krieger of Iowa State at 150, Royce Alger of Iowa at 177, Iowa State's Eric Voelker at 190 and heavyweight Carlton Haselrig of Pitt-Johnstown. Alger won his title at 167 last year.

In addition, Iowa's Brad Penrith was the national champion at 126 two years ago, but failed to repeat last year. He's ranked No. 1 at that weight this season.

If Oklahoma State would have one individual champion in addition to Smith, and the other Cowboy wrestlers performed up to expectations, they'd probably have enough points to win in a year when the scoring figures to be spread out.

Krieger, who has won 52 straight matches, is expected to win another title for Iowa State, but the same can't be said of Voelker, who is ranked second in a tough weight class.

For the Cyclones to repeat, Voelker will have to win again and they'll need a strong performance from Mike Van Arsdale at 167.

Iowa State also needs a top six finish at 134 from Jeff Gibbons, who was third last year, and from at least one other wrestler, perhaps Joe Ghezzi at 142.

Arizona State, which was second to Oklahoma State in the final Amateur Wrestling News rankings, had a strong dual meet team but isn't expected to be as strong as Oklahoma State, Iowa State and Iowa in the NCAA format.

The Sun Devils' top wrestlers are Mike Davies, ranked third at 190, and Chip Park, who is No. 5 at 126.

Penn State is led by second-ranked Ken Chertow at 118, No. 2 Jim Martin at 126 and No. 2 Dan Mayo at 177. Martin's only loss this season was to Penrith, while Mayo has lost only to Alger.

To win the title, Penn State will have to get some wrestlers to the finals. The Nittany Lions had eight over All-Americans last year, but Martin was their only finalist and they finished third, 36 1/2 points behind Iowa State. Northern Iowa, Lock Haven, Michigan, Edinboro, North Carolina State and Bloomsburg should make up the second tier of teams in the final standings.

Referees turning in whistles

They don't do it for the money and they certainly don't do it for the recognition.

Unfortunately, some of them are deciding not to do it all.

Wrestling officials are dwindling in numbers, almost in direct proportion to the number of wrestlers who are participating in the sport. 3-10-88

"When I was wrestling at Clearfield we would have 90 wrestlers competing for two teams, varsity and JV. That will never happen again," said Norm Palovcsik, a state titlist for the Bisons in 1968, who is now an assistant principal at Bald Eagle-Nittany and one of the officials who is getting out of the game after 17 years.

Now the turnout for wrestling at most schools is in the high teens to low 20s. Programs like Bald Eagle Area, Philipsburg-Osceola and State College are the exception with turnouts in the high 30s.

The result of the small numbers is abbreviated junior varsity meets, four or five bouts. And that removes the training ground where younger officials once gained experience and exposure. Instead most schools are paying the varsity official a few more dollars to handle the handful of JV bouts.

"The junior varsity situation is bad," said Palovcsik. "Kids don't want to be involved if they're not the number one guy. They don't have the pride of being part of the program. There are too many tangible things to be achieved by getting a job. 3-10-88

"This is a problem time for officials. I see an awful lot of people who are decent, hard-working, good officials, hanging it up and that concerns me.

Officiating across the board is suffering. I think the athletic directors and the school boards had better do something to make it more attractive, financially."

Currently the average fee for a varsity official runs between $35 and $45 which is low considering time, travel and abuse incurred.

"Officials are getting too much verbal and physical abuse," said Tom Muir, a former official who recently left the PIAA to become assistant superintendent at Tussey Mountain. "It's a societal attitude. Schools and families have been reluctant to teach the athletes that they are responsible for their own actions. If they're not taught that, we're not allowing them to mature properly.

"And I think the loss of officials is symptomatic of that. I've heard too many officials walk out of a gym saying, 'I don't have to put up with that. Why should I put up with it?' 3-10-88

"I think administrators are going to have to get directly involved with athletic events. And it's a long-term situation. What these people have learned (about attitudes toward officials) is not going to be easily unlearned. Students are going to have to be programmed on sportsmanship, how to act during events. And administrators are going to have to take charge, make sure that the abuse is not going on."

Naturally, there is always going to be some verbal abuse directed at the person in the striped shirt. It comes with the territory and the good officials accept it. But with the veteran officials, who have learned how to ignore the taunts, getting much of the JV work which used to go to the younger men, the available pool of qualified officials is shrinking. Prospective officials are withdrawing from the game.

"I'm sure no official is working for the money," said Tom Elling, a former coach and official who now is involved with the selection of officials for the District 6 tournament. "They're in it for their interest in the sport. But the guys I came up with had a lot of self-confidence and pride in their work. Now I don't see that as much. A lot of younger officials don't seem to have a presence on the mat, they let the crowd rattle them. And I think some people see that and decide they don't want to get involved in officiating."

"There are two wrestlers and an official out there on the mat and the negative reinforcement you get is pretty apparent," Palovcsik said. "I fought the decision to get out for a long time, but this year I realized officiating is just not as rewarding as it used to be."

Two Area Matmen Gain 'AAA' Semis

ALTOONA — Big 30 wrestlers battled a meager .222 in the Pennsylvania Northwest Regional Class AAA Tournament here Friday. 3-12-88

Only two of nine area wrestlers got by first-round opponents to reach today's semifinal round.

St. Marys Public's 112-pounder Shawn Whitaker (16-3-1) went into overtime before besting John Bove of State College (D-6, 24-3), 7-7, 7-4.

Also advancing was St. Marys' Bill Wittman (105), who pinned Lewis-town's Matt Meyers (D-6) in 4:40.

Doug Taylor (28-0-1, Bald Eagle Area-6) defeated Dave Cousins of St. Marys, 6-4, at 126 and Doug Rossenberry (29-1), whose only loss came last week against Dale Sorenson in the District 6 finals, handed Bradford High's Tim Schuster a 24-second pin in a heavyweight match.

In another heavyweight bout, Troy Marin of Meadville pinned St. Marys' Scott Merritt in :45.

St. Marys' Randy Agosti defaulted to Lock Haven's Brian Wilt in a 132-pound match. 3-12-88

Charlie Bay, Brian Keane and Guy Distrola, all of Bradford, also suffered first-round losses.

Bay was edged by Lewistown's Shawn Ream, 5-3, in a 98-pound match. Keane was handed a 16-1 technical fall by Central Cambria 167-pounder Phil DeLosh.

Jeff Sorenson (Fort LeBoeuf) defeated Distrola, 6-4, in a 185-pound match.

Rough night for local athletes

ALTOONA — It was a good night for District 6 at a rough night for Centre County at the Northwest Regional AAA wrestling tournament here.

For while District 6 pushed 21 wrestlers through last night's quarterfinal round, only four were from Centre County. 3-12-88

Bald Eagle Area moved three wrestlers into this afternoon's semifinals — Doug Taylor at 126, Rob Lucas at 138 and Gary Heverly at 185. Philipsburg-Osceola's Bart Mease was the only other survivor from the county's 13-man contingent. District 10 counted 17 survivors last night while District 9 was way back with only 10 semifinalists.

"We lost a couple of tough ones tonight," said BEA's Dick Rhoades shortly after heavyweight Skip Pighetti lost one of those tough ones, going down by fall while trailing District 10 champion Melvin Crosby, 7-6. "If Skip hadn't been caught, it's hard to tell what would have happened. And Brian Gates gave up one big move to (Meadville's Brian) Midkiff and that cost him (a 14-10 decision). He had Midkiff on the ropes at the end.

"But I was happy for Robbie Lucas. He lost to (Erie Prep's John) Canavan, 7-2, in the Manheim Tournament. We told him all week that Canavan was going to see a different Rob Lucas this time around."

Lucas, who topped Canavan, 4-2, will meet Clearfield's Jon Barr this afternoon.

Taylor, who defeated Dave Cousins of St. Marys, 16-4, will meet Lock Haven's Corey Meslin while Heverly, who breezed past Andy G... of DuBois, 13-0, will take on District 10 champion Jeff Lieble of Erie Prep.

In the consolation bracket, Chris Gilham, who lost to Rob Weis of Erie McDowell, 9-3, will meet Lewistown's Matt Myers while Gates will take on Randy Agosti of St. Marys and Pighetti will go against Tim Schuster, of Bradford.

"I was proud of our kids tonight," Rhoades said. "They were all aggressive. Now they all have to go out and wrestle to the best of their ability today if they want to go to the states."

Mease wound up deadlocked at 2-2 with Gary Bell of Ft. LeBoeuf at the end of regulation in their 98-pound bout. But the Mountie senior pancaked Bell for five points to start the overtime period and had no trouble from that point on. 3-12-88

P-O's Curt Dixon lost a tough bout to Len LoCastro of Erie McDowell at 112 and Scott

Hoover fell to Kevin Pollard of Meadville, 8-5, at 185.

"Of our three kids Curt wrestled the best match," said P-O Coach Dave Caslow. "That was the bout of his life. LoCastro tried to dominate him early and Curt had to earn his respect. Before the match was over he had more than earned it. I'm just as proud of him as I can be.

"Bart and Scott both looked sluggish. Bart passed up a chance at that pancake in regulation, but he hit it beautifully in overtime."

"Scott got beat in open facing. He likes to tie up and Pollard tackled him from far out. That was the biggest difference in the match.

"But I was impressed with the District 6 wrestlers tonight. They were aggressors and showed a lot of ability. I felt all year it would be that way. I had a lot of confidence in the wrestlers from our district. They're a pretty seasoned group."

Dixon meets State College's John Bove in a consolation bout this afternoon, while Hoover gets Bradford's Guy DiStrola.

Bove was one of three State High wrestlers to fall last night. He lost in overtime to Shawn Whitaker of St. Marys, the District 9 champion, 7-4 in overtime. Bove, who suffered a mild concussion in the bout, was penalized for stalling to send the bout into overtime. In the overtime period, he took Whitaker down in the second period for a 2-1 lead, but in the third period he was taken down twice and turned for a pair of back points.

State's Aaron Songer dropped a 12-5 decision to Nick Pendolino at 119 and will meet Mat Dinger of Punxsutawney this afternoon while Porter was pinned by Dan Chase of Ft. LeBoeuf in 3:41. He will meet Brian Keane of Bradford this afternoon.

Bellefonte's Dave McClenahan was beaten 8-2 by Bryan Warner of Titusville and will take on Altoona's Mead Simington this afternoon.

Lock Haven, which advanced six wrestlers, leads the team race with 15 points while Meadville and Erie McDowell are tied with 10 points. BEA, Lewistown, DuBois and Erie Academy have eight points apiece.

Today's action begins with the semifinals at 12:30. The consolation finals are scheduled for 7 tonight with the title bout to follow immediately.

St. Ignatius clings to one-point lead

By PAT GALBINCEA
STAFF WRITER

COLUMBUS — It's hard to believe two things about the Division-I race in the 51st state wrestling tournament at St. John Arena. First, it's hard to believe that 10-time champion St. Edward is totally out of the race.

It's also hard to believe the team title was still up for grabs entering last night's championship round.

St. Ignatius retained a one-point lead over North Olmsted, 65 1/2-64 1/2, while Lorain Southview was still in contention with 58. St. Edward's chances to win an 11th consecutive title and 83rd straight tournament were ultimately crushed when Bob Elbin (140) had to default because of an injured knee on Thursday night after leading Kyle Marks of Upper Arlington, 5-0.

Elbin's misfortune appeared to demoralize the remaining Eagle wrestlers on Friday, though coach Howard Ferguson discounted that.

"No program can stay on top forever," said Ferguson. "Iowa won nine straight NCAA titles until they were stopped last year.

"Big Mike Milkovich set the standard for Northeast Ohio's dominance in wrestling when he won 10 state titles, and we kept that standard alive. I feel proud of that.

"We didn't win this time because there are so many quality teams and quality wrestlers in our area," added Ferguson. "But all five of our state qualifiers are juniors, and we'll be back next year, stronger than ever."

And what an irony it will be if North Olmsted, coached by Tom Milkovich — Mike's son and a technician without peer — wins the state title.

North Olmsted would have been in the lead had sophomore Bret Machovina (145) not lost a 7-4 heartbreaker in yesterday's consolation rounds.

Machovina was coasting past Steve Hanneman of Dublin, 4-1, when he got caught in a headlock in the third period.

This put Machovina in a consolation bout for fifth place, and he applied a reverse half nelson on Ken Cardaman of Maple Heights at 4:43 for four valuable team points.

The Eagles had Kraig Kasler (160) and heavyweight Rich Frimel wrestling in the finals, and Keith Smith (103) wrestling for third.

"Regardless of the outcome tonight, this is the best thing that has happened to Ohio wrestling," said Milkovich. "It's been a wide open tournament, and that creates excitement for the fans."

With three finalists in twins Joe (152) and Marty Collins (160), and Mike Buddie (171), St. Ignatius was in the best position to dethrone St. Edward. 3-13-88

"Actually, we can control our own fate," said Marty Collins, who celebrated his 18th birthday Friday. "If Joe beats Robert Taylor, we eliminate Southview. If I beat Kraig Kasler, we eliminate North Olmsted."

Last weekend Collins edged Kasler in the finals at the Mentor district, 7-6.

"I don't plan on having that close of a match with Kraig this time," said Collins. "He's the type who normally wins the close matches. Besides, I want our team to win the state championship."

This is one story Mike Abdo would have wanted to write.

The late Times Herald sports editor loved to reminisce in print following the passing of one of his buddies.

And Mike had few closer buddies than Bob Connell.

As the photo at right shows, Connell, topping Abdo with Arab headgear, had a way of bringing his friend into the spotlight... and vice versa.

Unfortunately for Connell, Abdo passed away in July of 1983, depriving the long-time Portville Central football coach of his most qualified eulogist.

At noon Sunday, Connell, 63, also passed on... victim of a heart attack that struck him last week.

One reason he and Abdo got along so well was that they were so similar; sometimes feisty, frequently funny, always animated.

The other trait they shared was a unique ability to work hard... all the time.

For 17 years, Connell was the head football coach at Portville and during those years, (1963-79) his teams won two-thirds of their games (90-45-5).

His 1965 squad went 7-0-1, and a decade later his 9-0 '75 team earned him Big 30 Coach of the Year honors.

Only three times, before health problems forced him to resign, did Connell field losing teams at Portville.

But it wasn't so much his record as his personality that made Connell special.

In a time when many coaches are plastic, he was genuine — colorful and outspoken. Connell, even during his coaching career, for a number of years had a Sunday morning radio show on WMNS.

His opponents marveled at Connell's ability to juggle such an off-beat avocation with the time demands required of coaching.

Even after he "retired", Connell couldn't stay away.

Diabetes and heart problems notwithstanding, he served as an assistant under current Portville coach Kevin Curran.

Curran picked his mentor's brain and was quick to credit Connell's input for the school's recent football success.

"I learned so much from him," Curran explained, "I couldn't have asked for a better teacher... or friend."

Budd 'Blossoms' Into

Regional Champ

By TOM ROOF

Times Herald Sports Writer

CLARION — Port Allegany High School's Dale Budd has come full bloom.

After "coming close" in seasons past, placing as high as second in last year's Class AA Northwest Regional Wrestling Championships, Budd captured the 167-pound title here Saturday to advance to this week's state tournament.

And all it took, said Port Allegany coach John Kriner, was a summer of seasoning. 3-14-88

"Dale wrestled all summer in freestyle tournaments, going as far as the junior national championships in Iowa," said Kriner, "and I strongly believe that's a big reason Dale is where he's at today.

"That exposure not only put him on a lot of (college) lists, but it made him so much more sure of himself when he goes out on the mat."

Port Allegany's first-ever regional titlist, Budd was one of nine Big 30 wrestlers to qualify for the PIAA Class AA state championships, booked for Thursday, Friday and Saturday in Hershey.

Also advancing were Johnsonburg's Bernie Norlin, second at 112, and David Sallack, third at heavyweight; Ridgway's Gary Weber, third at 185; Coudersport's Tom Storey, fourth at 185; and four Brockway wrestlers, runners-up Scott Carr (132) and Ed Miller (167), third-place finisher Mike Pisarchick (145), and fourth-place finisher Pete Varischetti (155).

In a rematch of District 9 finalists, Budd (28-1) parlayed three takedowns into an 8-4 decision over Miller (23-6). Just a week earlier, Budd, whose 14-4 rout over District 10 champ Brad Boyd in the semifinals put him in the championship round, beat Miller 5-2.

Budd's win Saturday wasn't flashy, which may have cost him the support he needed to win the tournament's Outstanding Wrestler award, but it was workmanlike. All the scoring was done in the first two periods with Budd remaining in control for the last two minutes.

"Dale has a variety of moves he's good at," explained Kriner, "but at this level he stayed with the basics, keeping with the moves he has had greater success with and is most comfortable with. But his match against Miller wasn't his best and he knew it." 3-14-88

Norlin, meanwhile, lost 5-1 to Hickory's Kyle Cheza (28-1-1), last year's 105-pound state champ. 3-14-88

NORLIN, WHO will be making his first trip to states, was hit with two stalling Pa. Regional Wrestling points and trailed 3-1 before making a desperation takedown attempt in the final seconds. 3-14-88

"Bernie has a lot of leverage because of his height, making him a good mat wrestler, but his weakest area is on his feet," said Johnsonburg coach Scott Anderson. "There are some things we can work on with him this week, but I think most importantly this tournament showed Bernie that he has the ability to wrestle with the best.

"He had a great tournament. He beat two good kids and wrestled tough with a state champ."

Norlin (23-4) advanced to the finals by parlaying four takedowns and three near-falls into a 19-4 technical fall in 5:59 over District 10 runner-up Steve Tingley (26-9-1) of Lakeview in the semifinals.

In addition to Carr and Miller, Brockway also placed Pisarchick and Varischetti, giving the Jefferson County school its most-ever state qualifiers.

Carr (26-4-1) lost 7-2 to District 6 runner-up Jim Bowser (27-1) of Richland, whose brother Eric won his second regional crown with a criteria decision over Mount Union's Clayton Rice at 126.

ALSO DEFENDING his title was state champ Troy Sunderland (31-0) of Mount Union, who copped the tournament's Outstanding Wrestler award after destroying District 10 titlist Drew Perman (30-3), 18-6, in the 145-pound finals.

The title was the third for Sunderland, who won 18-9 in the quarterfinals and then buried D-9 champ Pisarchick (29-1), 20-5, in the semis. 3-14-88

"A lot of people ran away from him, and that shows you why," Brockway coach John Bernardo said. "Mike is no slouch, but Sunderland just played with him."

In another District 9 final rematch, Weber executed an arm-drag for a takedown with 25 seconds left to edge Storey, 4-2, for third place at 185. A sophomore, Weber (27-5-1) tied Storey (28-1-1), 1-1, during the regular season then lost to the Coudy junior 3-1 last week.

In placing fourth, Storey became Coudersport's first state qualifier since Roger Dunn in 1984.

Westmont-Hilltop won the team title, followed by Hickory and Brockway.

Wrestling at it's best

Mentor district dominates state

By PAT GALBINCEA
STAFF WRITER

Once again Northeast Ohio upheld its reputation as the nation's hotbed of high school wrestling at the 51st state tournament in Columbus.

A record 45,728 attended St. John Arena over the three-day tournament to witness wrestling at its best. 3-14-88

But despite the fact this area produced 16 individual champs, plus two team title winners — St. Ignatius in Division I and Chanel in Division II — not everyone was happy.

Many of the area's Division I wrestling coaches said the toughness of the Mentor district tournament took its toll on their team's title chances to win the state.

On the surface, the rest of the state may question their grumbling because the top six teams in Division I came from the Mentor "Meatgrinder".

"But you know what? The survivors of the Mentor district killed everybody at the state tournament," said Tony DiGiovanni, Solon coach. "But the fact that I could get only three kids out of Mentor really hurt our chances to win the team title."

How tough are the Mentor survivors? "The facts speak for themselves," said DiGiovanni.

There are five districts that feed wrestlers to the state tournament — Mentor, Dayton, Massillon, Toledo and Upper Arlington. 3-14-88

Here's how each district fared at the state tournament:

Mentor (4 qualifiers per each weight class) — 18 of 26 possible finalists, 10 champs, 34 of 78 possible state placers.

Dayton (4 qualifiers) — 3 finalists, 12 place winners.

Massillon (3 qualifiers) — 1 finalist, 13 place winners.

Upper Arlington (3 qualifiers) — 1 finalist, 9 place winners.

Toledo (2 qualifiers) — 1 finalist, 10 place winners.

"With figures like these, no wonder the Akron and Toledo area coaches don't want any part of us when we suggest to combine districts," said DiGiovanni.

Another interesting note is that the Division I finalists at 130 pounds, Mike Richner of Riverside and Edgar Rodriguez of Southview, placed third and fourth at Mentor, respectively.

Rodriguez upset district champ Scott Petche of St. Joseph in the semifinals, 6-5. Rodriguez put Petche on his back for a 5-0 lead, but survived a scare when Petche took him down after the final buzzer.

"I was half asleep out there when he nailed me on that upper body throw," said Petche, a sophomore who wound up placing third. "Once you're behind, 5-0, on a good wrestler, it's hard to come back and win. I was two seconds away from possibly winning the state title."

(Seniors unless noted)
TOM MANNING, 112 pounds, Willoughby South: For the past three weeks, he took opponents down early and put them on their backs for big leads ... says "I try to do that in all my matches."

SHAWN NELSON, 112, North Royalton: Junior won his second state title ... has won 60 straight matches over last two years. 3-14-88

TOM NEIKIRK, 119, Cardinal: After a so-so junior season, last year's Class A state champ at 112 got hot again in Columbus and demolished four outstanding opponents.

BILLY KOPP, 125, Southview: Got key reversal against previously unbeaten Audie Atienza of Maple Heights to earn 3-2 victory ... bounced back from injury-plagued junior year.

JEFF LETZNER, 125, Highland: One of Northeast Ohio's most underrated wrestlers ... fundamentally sound, unbeaten in 35 matches.

MIKE RICHNER, 130, Riverside: A "surprise" state champ after placing third at Mentor district ... has ability to counter upper body throws, and rides well on the mat. 3-14-88

ALAN FRIED, 135, St. Edward: The best junior wrestler in the state ... won second state title after placing third as freshman.

JIM BARTO, 140, Solon: A fast-moving, active and aggressive wrestler ... excellent takedown skills ... made no mistakes in Columbus.

JOE ANDRASSY, 145, Nardon: A two-time state champ who finished second as a sophomore ... avenged loss to Stow's Lee Wilson at Mentor district with cradle pinning hold.

JOE COLLINS, 152, St. Ignatius: Knocked off state champ Robert Taylor of Southview for fourth time in two years in finals ... strong upper body tie keeps foes on defense.

MARTY COLLINS, 160, St. Ignatius: Joe's twin has same style, but is a more polished mat wrestler ... celebrated 18th birthday Friday.

JUDD SMITH, 160, Cuyahoga Heights: Finally won elusive state title after finishing second twice ... a raw talent who also excels in football and track.

MIKE BUDDIE, 171, St. Ignatius: Made a tough weight class in Columbus look easy ... will be back next year ... throws 90+ mph as baseball pitcher.

DAVE DUMKE, 171, Columbia: Beat his good friend Ed Drobnick of Cuyahoga Heights for the Division III title ... wrestled each other four times throughout season, with 2-2 split.

RICH FRIMEL, heavyweight, North Olmsted: Long arms enable him to cradle opponents for pins or back points ... will attend Ohio State on football scholarship. 3-14-88

JEFF SCHERMA, heavyweight, Chanel: Agile and in excellent condition ... was third in the state last season ... Firebirds' lone champ on Division II state title winning team.

Can Port Allegany's Budd Keep 'Streak' Going?

By TOM ROOF

Times Herald Sports Writer

So far Dale Budd has lived up to his coach's pre-season urging. Now, if he can hold on for one more weekend, the Big 30 will have another state champion — and Port Allegany High School its first.

Port's 167-pound stud, Budd (28-1) is being tabbed as one of the favorites to challenge for a title this week at the Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association Class AA state wrestling tournament. 3-16-88

But even if Budd should fall short, he already has followed a pattern both he and head coach John Kriner discussed as far back as last November.

"Simply we said let's do one better this year than we did last year," Kriner said. "And he has. Last year Dale placed second in every tournament he was in. This year, he's been first. Now, we just have to wait and see how much further he can go."

The only tournament Budd failed to do well in last year was the state championships, where he lost twice in a row after winning his preliminary round bout 12-0.

Kriner contends, though, Budd has a better shot this time around.

"He's much more experienced," Kriner said of Port's first Northwest Regional champ. "He's been to Sweden with the Big 30 team, been at Iowa for the junior freestyle nationals, and has worked at wrestling all summer. He's more sure of himself now than at anytime I've known him."

Budd will be one of 10 Big 30 wrestlers competing in the state's 51st annual tournament, set for Thursday, Friday and Saturday at Hersheypark Arena in Hershey. 3-16-88

Also making his second trip will be Johnsonburg heavyweight David Sallack (26-2), third in last weekend's Northwest Regionals.

Budd will meet second-time qualifier Eric Schultz (31-1), a senior from Fort Pa. State Wrestling

Cherry who placed third in the Southwest Regional, in Thursday's opening round. Also in Budd's bracket is returning 167-pound third-place finisher Tom Socker (29-0) of Palisades, whose only loss in last year's tournament was 5-1 to eventual state champ Jerry Marks of Southern Columbia. It's an attractive matchup that could take place in the semifinals.

Sallack, who was eliminated in the second round of the consolation wrestlebacks last year, has drawn Southcentral champ Martin Buzas (26-2) of Milton, Hershey. 3-16-88

Seven other Big 30 Class AA wrestlers will be making their initial visits to Hershey — Johnsonburg's Bernie Norlin (23-4) at 112, Brockway's Scott Carr (25-4)

1) at 132, Mike Pisarchick (29-2) at 145, Pete Varischetti (28-3) at 155 and Ed Miller (23-6) at 167, Coudersport's Tom Storey (27-2-1) at 185, and Ridgway's Gary Weber (27-5-1) at 185.

While Brockway qualified four, its most ever in a single season, it's only half of what North Schuylkill is sending. The state's top-ranked Class AA team proved its ranking wasn't merely a tribute to its past tournament success by advancing eight wrestlers.

Coach Joe Cesari's team had six champions in the Southeast finals, including unbeaten son Mark Cesari (32-0) at 138.

THE ONLY Big 30 Class AAA qualifier is St. Marys Public's 112-pounder Shawn Whitaker (19-4-1), who will meet Canon-McMillan's Dana Pinson (32-2) when the large school preliminaries get under way at 4:30 p.m. 3-16-88

Storey has the toughest draw of all area wrestlers, however, getting paired in the first round against Marks (34-0). The three-time Northeast Region champ boasts a 129-8 career record and is one of 10 defending champions returning to Hershey.

Other returning Class AA winners are Dave Warnick (24-1-1) of Meyersdale at 105; Kyle Cheza (28-1-1) of Hickory at 112; Lee Todora (32-0) of Salisbury at 132; and Troy Sunderland (31-0) of Mt. Union at 145.

Returning Class AAA winners are North Allegheny's Ty Moore, 32-0 this year and 68-0 for his career, at 105, Freedom's Dave Foley (27-4) at 112, North Penn's Dan Finacchio (30-2) at 119 and Chris Kwornik (33-0) at 155, and Juniata's 155-pounder Dave Hart (28-0), a Double-A tittist last year.

Also back are three-time Class AA runner-up Bob Simpson (33-0) of Warrior Run at 119, and 1986 Double-A champ Eric Bowser of Richland at 126. 3-16-88

The Class AA tournament begins at 9 a.m. Thursday and will run through Saturday with the finals set to start at 3 p.m. The Class AAA finals will be Saturday night at 8 o'clock.

Three Big 30 wrestlers have won PIAA titles — Emporium's Don Horning in 1984, and Kane's Duane Blankenship and St. Mary Public's Tim Wittman in 1986.

Tiger train could be stopped

Mat miscellanea... Can anyone stop the North Allegheny express? We'll find out beginning this afternoon. 3-17-88 Actually the Tigers showed some signs of vulnerability last weekend in the Southwest Regional when only two of their wrestlers — sophomores Ty Moore at 105 and Ray Brinzer at 155 — won titles and remained unbeaten. Two other Tigers — Matt White at 185 and heavyweight Brian Piotrowski — were handed their first losses.

Moore is now 68-0 for his career, which saw him win the 98-pound title at Hershey last year.

North Allegheny, which was ranked No. 1 in the country by Amateur Wrestling News, has six wrestlers competing in Hershey. Which is two less than North Schuylkill has in the AA tournament. North Schuylkill, which was ranked first in the state among AA teams, crowned six champions in the Southeast Regional at Allentown.

John Dasta of Penn Hills became only the sixth wrestler in history to win four Southwest regional championships. Dasta, who has not fared well in the state tournament, won the 138-pound title Saturday night. The last wrestler to win four regional titles was Manuel Pihakis of Canonsburg in 1952. Dasta, who went 29-0 this year, is 127-6-1 for his career. He finished third in the state at 126 two years ago and was fourth last year at 132.

There are 10 champions returning to Hershey to defend their titles. 3-17-88

In addition to Moore, the other champions in the AAA field are Dave Foley of Bethlehem Freedom, who is at 112 after winning at 105 last year; Dan Finacchio of North Penn, last year's 112-pound winner who is now at 119; Chris Kwornik of North Penn who is back at 167; and 155-pounder Dave Hart, who won an AA title last year.

In the AA field are Dave Warnick of Meyersdale at 105, Kyle Cheza of Hickory at 112, Lee Todora of Salisbury at 132, Troy Sunderland of Mount Union at 145 and Jerry Marks of Southern Columbia at 185. Warnick won at 98 last year while Cheza was at 105, Todora at 126 and Marks at 167.

Bob Simpson of Warrior Run, who is 33-0 this year, will be trying to break a three-year run of frustration in this tournament. He has been a runner-up in each of his three previous appearances in the tourney, a record which is doubtless unmatched and probably unenvied. 3-17-88

He will go against Wendell Morgan of Mount Union this morning.

One wrestler who has a chance to equal Simpson's record is Williamsport's Tom Best, who has been a runner-up in each of his two previous appearances in the finals.

When Altoona's Doug Rosenberry lost in the heavyweight consolation finals at Altoona Saturday night it wiped out District 6's lone remaining PIAA placewinner. Rosenberry was fourth a year ago.

State College's Rob Prebish, who was fifth at 98 last year, was unable to get out of the districts this year.

It should be interesting at 119 where Finacchio will meet Shikellamy's Chris Derr in the second round, assuming each wins his opening match this afternoon. The two met in the semifinals of the Manheim Holiday Tournament where Derr prevailed, 13-10. Derr went on to lose by fall to BEA's Doug Taylor while Finacchio wound up having to settle for fifth place.

Shaler's Mike Yuiska, perhaps the most publicized wrestler heading into the tournament, set what is believed to be a national record when he pinned two opponents in an aggregate time of 14 seconds in a holiday tournament. One fall came in six seconds, the other in eight.

PSU not ready to concede

“I don't think our kids are ready to concede the title to Oklahoma State,” Coach Rich Lorenzo of Penn State said the other day in his Recreation Building office.

“Most people seem to be picking Oklahoma State to win. But if it (the upcoming NCAA Wrestling Championships at Iowa State) goes like the dual meet season, it's going to be pretty tight.”

“Some people seem to think Oklahoma State and Arizona State will be tough. But I think we have as good a shot as they do.”

“Iowa State will have a big advantage, being the home team. They're the defending champions. And before that, it was Iowa for nine years in a row.”

“But Iowa State backed it up last year at Maryland. And you can't overlook Iowa. They have six quality wrestlers.”

“We have five returning All-America wrestlers plus quite a few guys who finished only fourth or fifth in the EWLs,” he said.

Penn State and Iowa State were the only teams to beat OSU this season, the Lions edging the Cowboys when neither team was at full strength last month in Rec Hall, 21-20.

OSU then came back to win the Big 8 title at Norman, wrestling the best it has all season, according to Coach Joe Seay.

In sizing up Iowa, Lorenzo said the Hawkeyes will be tough with Steve Martin at 118, No. 1 Brad Penrith at 126, Joe Melchiorre at 134, John Heffernan at 158, No. 1 Royce Alger at 177 and heavyweight Mark Sindlinger.

“Heffernan has been hot and cold this year, but he's a tough customer,” Lorenzo said. “Iowa has three or four potential champions.”

But Lorenzo, who has guided the Lions to a pair of third-place finishes (1984 and 1987) in the last four tries, says luck is involved.

“They talk about the luck of the draw,” Lorenzo said. “There is also conflicts in style. Last year, Sean Finkbeiner had a nice draw until the final day. He met a lot of guys who liked to wrestle upper-body and chest-to-chest with him.”

“But on the last day, he met Jimmy Jordan of Wisconsin and Vince Silva of Oklahoma State, and those guys kind of frustrate Sean, with their penetration, single-legs, etc.”

“We also stress, though, that each wrestler controls his own destiny.”

Lorenzo likes the idea of all wrestlers who lose to a quarterfinalist to be eligible for the consolations.

“It used to be all wrestlers who lost to a semifinalist were eligible,” Lorenzo said, “but they just changed that a year or two ago. And I think that's great. It gets all the best kids back into the tournament. And the PIAA has done the same thing with the high school kids.”

“I remember Peter Yozzo of Lehigh a couple of years ago. He lost before the quarterfinals and was knocked out of the tournament. Last year, he won the NCAAs.”

Amateur Wrestling News, the Oklahoma City-based organization, in its pre-tournament publication, picks Penn State to have three second-place finishes — Ken Chertow at 118, Jim Martin at 126 and Dan Mayo at 177 — and an overall fifth-place finish.

“I think they'll get seeded second,” Lorenzo said. “It will be interesting to see where Andy Voit is seeded. I won't be surprised if he's seeded ahead of John Flaherty (the Clarion senior who beat him in the EWL semis at LHU March 4 and then downed Bill Freeman of LHU for the title the next evening).”

Voit, a fourth-place finisher in the '87 NCAAs, had been working on a nice winning streak and apparently had regained his winning ways, before losing to Flaherty.

Before that semifinal match, Lorenzo was concerned with a conflict in styles even though Voit had beaten him in the dual meet, 6-3.

“I'd have to say it's one of the most wide-open NCAA meets I can remember,” Lorenzo continued. “Lots of teams have legitimate shots, not just four teams.”

“Edinboro will be strong. The same with N.C. State and Michigan. It all depends on how the cards fall.”

MAYO

Martin, meanwhile, said he was in awe of the NCAA tourney his first year.

Then after placing fourth (he lost to Ed Giese of Minnesota in the match for third) he didn't feel so badly.

“At first, it was kind of strange. I never really knew what happened that first time around,” he recalled.

“Now I'm a junior and I want to do nothing but win the title. You have to take 'em one at a time. There are still a lot of guys around who are capable of beating me. But I'd have to say the biggest difference now is my goal. As a freshman, I was just happy to place. Now it's to go all the way.”

Brad Penrith of Iowa will be the top seed at 126. He's 36-2 on the season. Against Martin this season he's 1-1-1. The win for Martin came at the Midlands, 10-5. The draw (8-8) came at the National Wrestling Coaches Association meet in early February at Cedar Falls, Iowa, and Penrith's win (9-4) came several days later in the dual meet at Iowa City.

Coach Rich Lorenzo of Penn State said that Martin wrestled out of character in their last meeting.

Roadblocks

Lions hoping for easier path in this year's tourney

By DOUG MCDONALD
Times Senior Sports Writer

Don't mention Billy Kelly's name to Ken Chertow.

Nor Ricky Bonomo's to Jim Martin.

Or Rico Chiapparelli's to Dan Mayo.

All three have been roadblocks to Penn Staters Chertow, Martin and Mayo in recent NCAA Wrestling Tournament competition.

Kelly, wrestling for Iowa State, beat Chertow as a freshman in 1985, at the Myriad Convention Center in Oklahoma City. Chertow had trouble getting off the bottom and went 0-1 in the NCAAs.

Last March at Maryland, Kelly beat Chertow in overtime, 4-4, 2-1, of the quarterfinals. Kelly eventually placed second, one notch ahead of Chertow.

Bonomo, meanwhile, beat Martin in the last two NCAA tournaments en route to national titles. Bonomo of Bloomsburg won the first of his three crowns in 1985. Last year, he beat Martin in the finale at Cole Field House, 8-4.

And Iowa's Chiapparelli edged Mayo in the '87 NCAA semifinals, 3-2. Rico went on to win the title while Mayo finished third.

This weekend, Chertow, Martin and Mayo won't have to worry about that particular trio; they've used up their eligibility. But that doesn't make the NCAA tourney trail at Ames, Iowa, any easier.

Chertow, Martin and Mayo, no doubt, will be seeded second at 118, 126 and 177, respectively, when competition in the 363-man tourney begins tomorrow at Iowa State University.

“I'm more confident than I was three years ago,” Chertow said at Monday's practice. “I've put too much time into this sport. I've got to win Saturday.”

“I've paid my dues (six to eight years of hard work). Now it's time to cash in. I've had a good week of practice.”

“The key is to maintain good intensity throughout. If I have to ride, I can ride. If I need a takedown, I'll get the takedown. And if I have to get off the bottom, I'll explode for the escape.”

The top seed at 118 likely will be Jack Cuvo of East Stroudsburg, who has been Amateur Wrestling News' No. 1 man in recent months.

Chertow is 10-0 since dropping to 118 and has his sights on winning the '88 NCAA title Saturday night.

“Jimmy was trying to wear down Penrith,” Lorenzo said, “and as a result he was out of position a number of times. Jimmy has to wrestle his own match and just do his thing. Instead of wearing Penrith down in the third period, Martin got behind and never got close.”

Mayo, meanwhile, has learned a lot over the years. His first NCAA tourney appearance resulted in a 2-2 record. That was the season after he suffered an ankle injury which ended his freshman season abruptly in January.

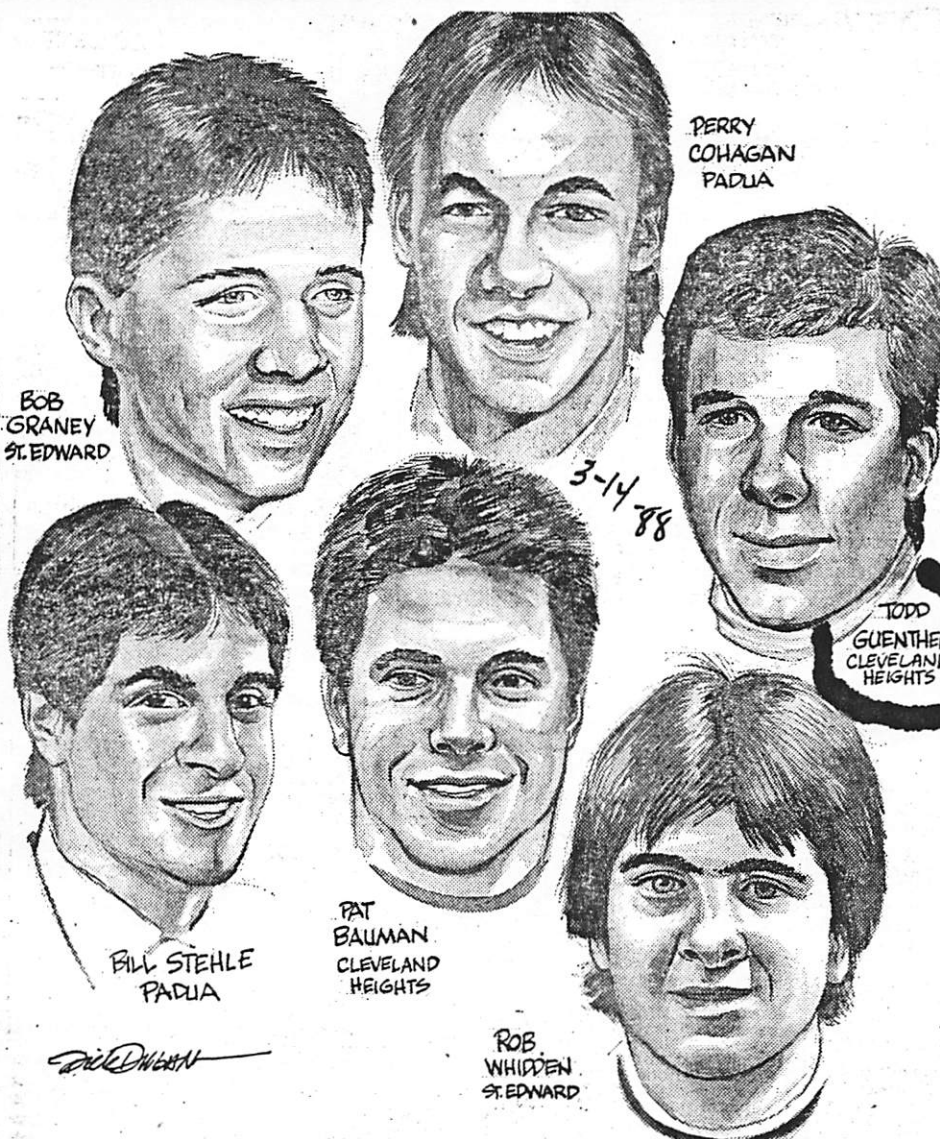

Then last March, he went 5-1 and wound up third. “I was a bit too cocky my sophomore year,” Mayo said in the wrestling room Monday. “I thought I could place and I didn't. But I've learned since that you must take each bout at a time. There's always somebody out there who can beat you.”

“I'm confident now. I'm as ready as I'll ever be. I'll be going for it.”
Royce Alger of Iowa will be the top seed at 177. He beat Mayo in their February dual meet at Iowa City, 6-5.

Observations and opinions...
Breaking down the number of PIAA qualifiers by districts in the Northwest Region, it shows that District 6 had 17 qualifiers, District 10 had 15 and District 9 had four.

Now, tell me again how it's fair that next year each district will advance three wrestlers to the regionals. 3-15-88

In District 9, where there are only five schools in the AAA field, the wrestler who draws a bye in each weight needs only to win one bout to move on to the regionals.

Meanwhile, with the addition of the Indian Valley jointure (between Chief Logan and Kishacoquillas) to the District 6-AAA tourney there will be 14 wrestlers chasing three regional berths.

Logic would seem to indicate that Clearfield and DuBois be brought into the District 6 field while Punxsutawney, St. Marys and Bradford be assigned to District 10. Then each of those district tournaments would send four wrestlers to the regionals.

Logistically it makes sense. From a competitive standpoint it makes sense, particularly since both Clearfield and DuBois wrestle a schedule top-heavy with District 6 teams.

Maybe that's the problem: it makes too much sense.

But if the best District 9 could do is send a heavyweight with a 4-5 record to the regionals as a runner-up, what would we have seen if the third-place finisher would also have qualified.

There is no way the PIAA can justify that.

The match between Altoona's Doug Rosenberry and Erie Academy's Melvin Crosby in the Northwest Regional heavyweight semifinals Saturday is destined for classic status in the years to come. 3-15-88

Normally, by the time the heavyweights take the mats in the semifinals the fans are heading out for something to eat.

Not this time. They stayed and what they saw was something not all that far removed from what you might see in the WWF on any given telecast.

Except this action wasn't staged. When these large bodies went flying there was no guarantee where they were going to land. At one point Rosenberry

State's top wrestlers chase dream

By RON BRACKEN
Times Sports Columnist

The finest scholastic wrestlers in the state will convene in Hersheypark Arena today in pursuit of a dream. All but 24 of the 384 are going to be disappointed when they leave.

Six Centre County wrestlers will be among the dream-chasers today in today's PIAA tournament, all of them in the Class AAA field. Bald Eagle Area will have a four-man contingent in the tournament — Doug Taylor at 126, Rob Lucas at 138, Gary Heverly at 185 and Skip Pighetti at heavy-weight. Joining them will be Philipsburg-Osceola's Bart Mease at 98 pounds and State College's Aaron Songer at 119.

It will be Taylor's third trip to Hershey. For the others it's the maiden voyage.

The AA competition gets under today at 9 a.m. while the AAA preliminaries are scheduled for 4:30 this afternoon with a consolation round to follow at 8:30. Tomorrow finds the AA quarterfinals at 9 a.m., the AAA quarterfinals at 2:30 and the AA semis at 8 p.m.

On Saturday the AAA semis are at 9 a.m., the AA consolation finals at 1:30 with the title bouts at 3. The AAA consolation finals are scheduled for 6:30 p.m. with the championship matches set for 8.

Taylor, the Northwest Regional champion, is 30-0-1. He'll meet Mike Fure of Hershey, who is 21-5-1. If he wins that one he'll be up against highly touted Mike Yuiska of Shaler. Lucas, a regional runner-up who is 21-9-1, goes against Greg Stefanowski of Neshaminy, who is 27-2-1. Heverly, also a regional runnerup with a record of 25-5-2, is paired with Shane Ott of Muhlenberg, who is 23-2-2 while Pighetti, who was third at the regionals and is 30-3-2, meets unbeaten Bill Murray of Quakertown, who is 33-0.

"We haven't worked the kids real hard this week," said BEA Coach Dick Rhoades. "If they're not in shape now they'll never be. We just don't want to get anyone banged up. We just want to get them down there and have them in the right frame of mind.

"What it takes now is for the guys who are hungry, who want to do well, to set goals, to see how many steps up that victory podium they can get. But they've got to have some luck and they've got to be intense. They've got to wrestle each match as if it was their last one.

"At this stage every matchup is tough. Everyone there is one of the top 16 in the state and it doesn't matter if a kid is undefeated or has two or three losses, he's tough or he wouldn't be there."

The Taylor-Yuiska matchup, if it comes about, has been the subject of speculation for a while now. Last year the two met in the quarterfinals and Yuiska posted an 18-3 technical fall. This year he's lost once, on an illegal slam.

"We watched the tapes of last year's match," Rhoades noted. "There were a couple of times when Doug turned the wrong way and once where he was in deep on a single leg (takedown) and didn't finish it right away which gave Yuiska time to react. But Doug has been wrestling better this year than he did last year. What he has to do is keep it close. Yuiska hasn't been tested yet and Doug has had several close matches. And a lot of times, until a kid has been tested, you don't know how he's going to respond. I've had people say it's too bad they wouldn't meet until the finals but you've got to wrestle when it's scheduled. I know we're not conceding anything to him."

This will be Taylor's third trip to Hershey. He has not placed in either of his other two appearances there. But the experience has been helpful.

"Doug's been through it before, he knows what to expect," Rhoades said. "That's one nice thing about having Skip go this year. He'll get a taste of it and that should help him next year. And it's nice to see Rob and Gary going because they've worked hard during their careers and now they're being rewarded for it."

Songer, the third-place finisher in the Northwest Regional with a record of 24-7-1, will meet Dan Krutules of Keystone Oaks. He's 18-4.

"It looks like we got a good draw," said State High's Galen McWilliams. "We could very easily have drawn a champion. Right now we just have a sketchy view of the guy. But it helps if you can find out what his big move is. If you get caught in a five-point move at this level it's tough to come back. So you have to stay out of that big move and then it's up to who is the better wrestler."

"Aaron is in great shape and I have a lot of confidence in him. If he wrestles well he could do well in this tournament. Once he got over that flu at the beginning of the season he's been competitive with everyone. There hasn't been anyone who has dominated him.

"We've had good workouts this week. We worked on some things we saw last week. His riding has been good and he's been doing well on his feet. We worked on getting out from the bottom and on getting out of legs. We feel he'll be in there against anyone. But it's important to win that first match. Not too many kids who lose in that first round come back to place."

Mease, a regional runner-up who is 22-1-2, has drawn Rian Youwakim of Northampton, who is 26-5.

"Bart's had a good week" but he's been bothered by a problem with one of his big toes," said P-O Coach Dave Caslow. "But his attitude has been great. You just don't hear complaints coming from him. He's unique, a fun person to be around. And no matter what happens down there (at Hershey), he's a winner."

"It is a tough situation for him, being the only one (from P-O) going to the states. All of his buddies are out, fat and sassy; they're free. They can do things they haven't been able to do for months.

"And he has never been to the states. But my approach — and it's something (former P-O champion) Mark Sidorick helped me with — is to put the blinders on and block out the distractions. When you go down there it's the big show, with all of the hype surrounding it. And you can't let that distract you. You can't think about what happens if you fail."

Tourney was a good one

Observations and opinions.... For what it's worth, in one man's opinion the just-concluded District 6-AAA wrestling tournament was one of the best in years, especially the finals in which there wasn't one dull bout. 3-8-88

And how could you argue with the selection of Lewistown heavyweight Dale Searer as the tournament's outstanding wrestler? The heavyweight field had more good individuals in it than anytime in recent years, and Searer emerged with the title by knocking off defending champion Doug Rosenberry of Altoona in the finals. It was an impressive showing for the Lewistown senior who used a headlock with great effectiveness throughout the tournament. That's something you don't usually see among the big boys.

The most impressive newcomer to the tournament was Lock Haven freshman 105-pounder Brian Merrifield, who pinned his way to the title. His three falls came in an aggregate time of 5:23.

Two months later Auburn football coach Pat Dye is still taking heat for going for the tie against Syracuse in the Sugar Bowl. 3-8-88

Dye, who has been nicknamed Pat Tie, offered this rebuttal: "I have the Sugar Bowl trophy right here and all it says is Auburn 16, Syracuse 16. It's doesn't say anything about a tie."

That's what the man said.

Shikellamy won the District 4 Class AAA title over the weekend, qualifying eight wrestlers for the Northeast regional tournament. The Braves had five champs — Tom Michaels at 98, Brad Herb at 112, Chris Derr at 119, Marc Brouse at 155 and Jeff Walter at 167. 3-8-88

Wrestlers pin hopes on states

Six Centre County Class AAA wrestlers will begin competition in the Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association state championship Thursday at Hersheypark. 3-14-88

The preliminary round begins at 4:30 p.m. The Class AA preliminaries begin at 9 a.m., but Penns Valley's Kevin Butler (112 pounds) and Scott Rossman (167) were eliminated from competition at the Northwest Regional at Clarion over the weekend.

Four Bald Eagle Area wrestlers and one each from State College and Philipsburg-Osceola will vie for titles and places in the three-day Class AAA tournament. 3-14-88

P-O's Bart Mease will kick things off for the local contingent. He'll meet Northampton's Rian Youwakim, the Northeast Region runner-up with a record of 26-5.

Next up is State High's Aaron Songer at 119. He'll meet Dan Krutules, who is 18-4 and is the Southwest Region runner-up from Keystone Oaks.

Bald Eagle has the next four local entrants. Doug Taylor, the only countian to win a Northwest Regional championship over the weekend, will face Mike Fure, who is from Hershey and is 21-5-1. Fure won third place in the South-

BEA's Rob Lucas placed second at 138 over the weekend and will face Neshaminy's Greg Stefanowski, who is 27-2-1 and is the Southeastern Region runner-up.

At 185, BEA's Gary Heverly will meet Muhlenberg's Shane Ott, who is 23-2-2 and is the Southcentral runner-up.

And, at heavyweight, BEA's Skip Pighetti will meet Southeast Region champion Bill Murray of Quakertown. Murray is 33-0.

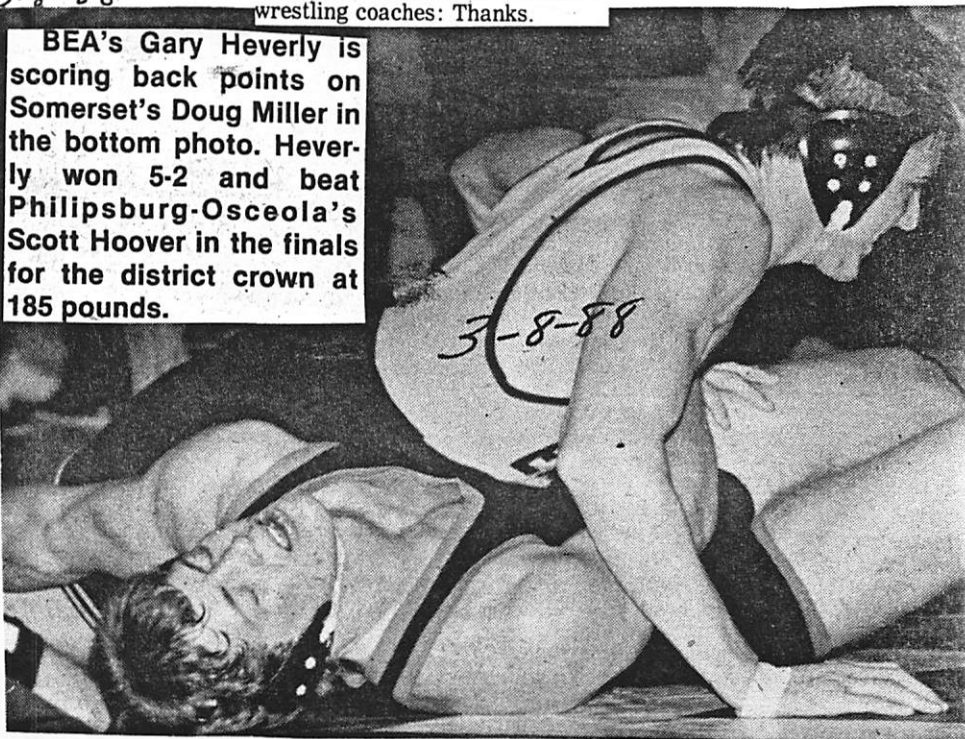

The top six placemen will receive medals.

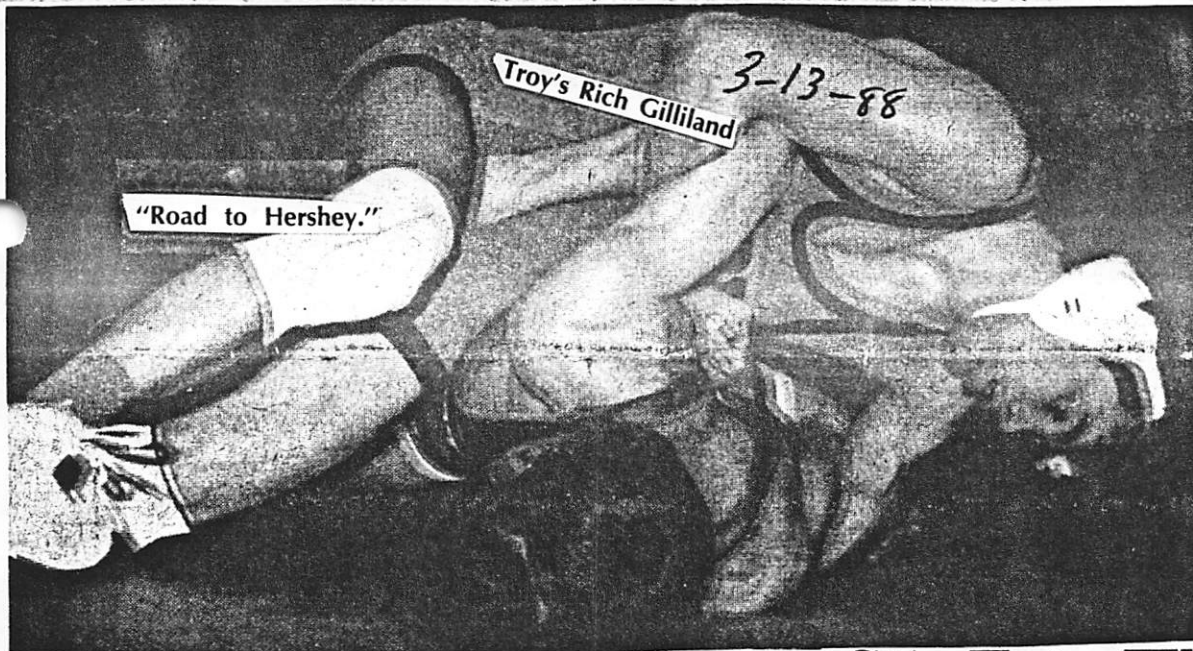

Consolation rounds will be held after each preliminary round on Thursday. Class AA consolations begin at 1 p.m. and Class AAA at 8:30.

Action begins Friday at 9 a.m. with the Class AA quarterfinals; the consolation round begins at 11 a.m. Class AAA quarterfinals are at 2:30 p.m., and consolations are at 4:30. Class AA semifinals and third-round consolations are at 8 p.m. and fourth-round consolations begin at 10 p.m. 3-14-88

Six Erie Wrestlers Advance To Finals

ALTOONA — A total of six Erie wrestlers were victorious in the semifinal round of the Class AAA Northwest Regional Wrestling Tournament at Altoona High School Saturday.

The half dozen grapplers moved into Saturday night's championship matches and are guaranteed a trip to the state finals with the top three wrestlers advancing. 3-13-88

■ McDowell featured three winners via decisions including Rob Weis at 105, Len LoCastro 112, and Tom Onorato 138. Weis decisioned Bill Wittman of St. Marys 9-5, LoCastro topped Sean Witaker also of St. Marys 7-6, and Onorato had to go overtime against Lock Haven's Rob Bowes. Onorato and Bowes deadlocked 1-1 in regulation, with Onorato winning 2-0 in the extra session.

■ Academy had two winners in George Ollie at 167, and heavyweight Melvin Crosby. Ollie recorded a fall, while Crosby was forced into overtime. Ollie pinned Dane Delozier of Hollidaysburg in 4:48, with Crosby battling Altoona's Doug Rosenberry to a 1-1 standoff, before scoring 3-2 in OT.

■ Tech's Rob Miller was a victor at 155 with a 10-8 decision over Luke Sredy of Summerset.

Losing semis matches, but still with a chance to advance via wrestle backs, are Strong Vincent's Mark Weindorf (105), McDowell's Mike Smith (145), Cathedral Prep's Jeff Liebel (185), and Fort LeBoeuf's Dan Chase (167), and Jeff Sorenson (185).

■ Meadville had two winners and a loser in the semis. Nick Pendolino, at 119 pounds. and

Andy Thal going off the mat

Last weekend, while his son Jim, was wrestling in the District 6-AAA tournament in Altoona, Andy Thal was officiating the District 4-AA tournament in Williamsport.

As a result, he missed his son's upset of defending champion Rob Prebish in Friday night's quarterfinals. That won't happen again.

Thal, who has been an official for 20 years, is hanging up his whistle.

"I felt a sense of obligation to be there (at the District 4 tournament). I've been doing it for a great number of years," he said. "My body was there but my mind was in Altoona."

"I don't want to miss anything else. My parents were always there when I was wrestling and it was important to me for them to be there."

"Now that my son is wrestling I want to spend time watching him. That is the main reason I'm getting out of officiating. The roads are also getting longer; I don't enjoy the travel as much. But there comes a time when you have to step down. And it's a thrill to watch my son wrestle. I never thought it would affect me the way it has.

"I still enjoy officiating, but I always said I wanted to get out of it while I still felt I was doing a good job."

Thal, who wrestled for Bellefonte from 1957-59, has seen two of his dreams come true during the course of his career.

"I always thought it would be great to officiate the District 6 Journalment at the Jaffa Mosque (in Altoona) and I got to do that," he said. "And I always thought it would be great to do the state championships in Rec Hall. In 1977, the last year they were held there, I got to do that. Those were two of the most memorable experiences I had. I remember walking out on the floor at Rec Hall and thinking that I had to be pretty lucky to be there."

There was one night, however, when Thal would have liked to have been anywhere else. Let him tell it.

"I was doing a dual meet between Hollidaysburg and Lewistown," he remembered. "It was during the 185-pound bout. I coughed and my upper plate flew out. I saw them going and thought, 'My God, there goes my teeth.' They hit the mat, bounced once, I picked them up, wiped them off, put them back in and never missed a beat. Of course, the Hollidaysburg people still kid me about that and Dick Tressler (Lewistown's coach) has never let it die, either."

Across his 20-year career Thal has seen literally thousands of wrestlers, from state champions to kids who have not been able to stay off their backs. But there is one who stands out among all others.

"Jimmy Martin," he said about Penn State's 126-pound All-American without having to reflect much. "In all of my years I have never been around a more humble kid than him. I did the (District 4) sectionals and districts all four years he was there. He's a unique individual, so good and yet so modest."

Thal, who officiated between 25 and 30 meets a year, said that one of the things he'll miss about it is the camaraderie with the wrestling coaches, fans and wrestlers.

"Meeting the coaches, the wrestlers, making friends with the fans — that's one of the things I'll miss out of it," he said. "I'll miss that quite a bit. It's always been a friendship thing with me."

"But there have been nights when I've stood out there on the mat and asked myself, 'Why am I taking this?' I think people still get out of line too much."

"Now, with my son wrestling, I can understand where they're coming from. But I always knew that was someone's son out there on the mat and they loved him very much. But from now on when his son's shirt, Andy Thal will be happy out there on the mat, someone

Six Big 30 Wrestlers In Semifinals

By TOM ROOF

Times Herald Sports Writer

CLARION — Six Big 30 wrestlers, including returning runner-up Dale Budd of Port Allegany High School, reached this afternoon's semifinals in the Northwest Regional Class AA Wrestling Championships at Clarion University.

Budd, who placed second last year at 155, ran his record to 26-1 Friday with a 9-1 win over Ligonier Valley senior Greg Puschnigg (23-5) in the 167-pound quarterfinals. The District 6 runner-up, Puschnigg placed fourth a year ago at 155.

Also advancing with first-round wins were Johnsonburg junior Bernie Norlin (22-3) at 112, Emporium senior Mike Stuart (21-2) at 119, Brockway seniors Scott Carr (25-3-1) at 132 and Mike Pisarchick (27-1) at 145, and Brockway junior Ed Miller (22-5) at 167.

Thirteen other Big 30 wrestlers lost their opening-round matches Friday but still have a chance to wrestle back for third and fourth place. The top four finishers will advance to next week's state championship in Hershey.

Stuart, a three-time district champ who last year lost in the semifinals to eventual state runner-up Casey Koch, pulled off one of the night's many upsets. With a first-period takedown and near fall, Stuart fashioned a 4-3 win over returning champ and District 10 runner-up Jim Mulligan (27-3) of Saegertown.

Mulligan was one of three 1987 regional champs to lose. Also falling were 98-pounder Jeff Brinker of Saegertown and heavyweight David Sallack of Johnsonburg.

Brinker (25-6) lost 11-5 to Youngsville sophomore and District 10 champ Terry Lucas (29-3), while Sallack, who won last year at 167, found wrestling at heavyweight too much to handle.

After wrestling at 185 for much of the year, Sallack moved up to heavyweight for last week's District 9 tournament where he won his second title in three years.

Friday, however, he could do little with 265-pound Tin Ronan of Moshannon Valley, losing 3-2 when he gave up a takedown with 1:05 left.

"David had the unfortunate luck of wrestling the biggest heavyweight at the tournament in the first round," said Johnsonburg coach Scott Anderson. "But he's not done yet."

THREE OTHER RETURNING champs, meanwhile, survived their opening bouts.

State champs Kyle Cheza (26-1-1) of Hickory, whose only loss was 11-1 to Royalton-Hartland's Lou Rosselli, at 112 pounds and Mt. Union's Troy Sunderland (29-0) advanced, as did Cranberry's Jim Say (30-1) at 132. Sunderland meets Pisarchick in today's semifinals.

Coudersport's 185-pound junior Tom Storey suffered his first loss of the season, losing 7-6 to District 6 runner-up Damon Mazoff (25-2) of Moshannon Valley. Storey (25-1-1), whose only previous blemish was a 1-1 tie against Ridgway's Gary Weber, fell behind 6-4 in the second period when Mazoff came up with a reversal and near fall.

Weber also lost Friday, one of four Ridgway qualifiers dropping into the consolation wrestlebacks.

"I think they all had a bit of the first-year shock," said Ridgway coach Gary Gerber. "None of them opened up, they just weren't aggressive."

FOLLOWING ARE the quarterfinal round results involving District 9 wrestlers (school, district identification in parentheses):

- 98: Beaujon (Westmont-Hilltop-6) 5-1 Gregory (Smethport-9); McKay (Mercer-10) 2:12 Miles (Ridgway-9).

runner-up his senior year. He had turned down several scholarship offers to attend Penn State, where he made the team as a walk-on by beating out Peter Horst, a PIAA Class AA champ who Lorenzo recruited out of Schuylkill Valley.

Penn State won the EWL team title, its seventh, with Lock Haven placing second and Bloomsburg third.

WITTMAN WON'T be the only former Big 30 wrestler in Ames, Kane graduate Jack Bell has also earned a spot for the second time.

Now at Slippery Rock, Bell placed second at 134 pounds last weekend in the Eastern Regionals held at Edinboro University.

A defending regional champ, Bell (22-11-2) advanced to the finals before losing 7-3 to Edinboro junior Dan Wilaman (30-11-1) though earning a wildcard berth.

Bell, a two-time Northwest Regional champ, captured titles in 1985 and '86. The NCAA tournament will be held Thursday through Saturday at Iowa State University.

Wittman's Storybook Isn't Over

Former St. Marys Public High School state wrestling champ Tim Wittman has continued his storybook freshman season at Penn State.

A walk-on for coach Rich Lorenzo's top-10-ranked Nittany Lions, Wittman has won a spot at next week's NCAA championships in Ames, Iowa.

One of nine Penn State wrestlers to advance to the NCAA tournament, Wittman received a wildcard berth by placing fourth in the 150-pound class at last weekend's Eastern Wrestling League championships at Lock Haven. In the EWL tourney, Wittman (8-4) lost to former two-time Pennsylvania state champ Scott Hovan of Pitt, 6-5. He then defeated Clarion's Brian Burk 14-2 in the consolation quarterfinals, and Cleveland State's Dave Wlodarz, 3-1, in the consolation semifinals. He lost 8-4 to West Virginia's Jim Akerly to finish fourth.

Wittman won a PIAA Class AAA state title as a junior in 1986 and was a

York state high school champion, he became the 47th Big 30 wrestler from Section 6 to place in the state event.

The first was Bill Pruzinowski of Cattaraugus who finished fourth in 1964. The Big 30 has now had a state placefinisher every year since 1970 with the exception of 1981, when Olean High's Len Anzvine, the only area qualifier that year, failed to place.

After the shutout in '81, the Big 30 has had 17 qualifiers and 14 placewinners.

Six Big 30 wrestlers have won New York state titles — Cattaraugus' Bert Nagel (1966), Pioneer's Keith Stearns (1975) and Kyle Grunwald (1976-77), and Olean High's Chris Leichtweis (1978), Clar Anderson (1979-80) and Jeff Prescott (1985-86-87).

BROCKWAY, the top-ranked team in the Times Herald wrestling poll, finished ranked 10th in the Pennsylvania state Class AA poll.

Brockway (15-2), the District 9 'AA' team champ, was the only District 9 team ranked. North Schuylkill (District 11), with a 20-1 record, was the top-rated 'AA' team, followed by Line Mountain (Dist. 8, 18-1), Westmont-Hilltop (Dist. 6, 16-0-1), Moshannon Valley (Dist. 6, 16-0) and Hickory (Dist. 10, 15-1).

District 7 power North Allegany (20-0) and District 10's Meadville (13-0) were the top two ranked teams in the Class AAA poll.

THE CLASS AA Northwest Regionals, being held this weekend at Clarion University (story, page 16), will be in for an overhaul after this year.

"The way I see it," said tournament director John Aiello, "is that both District 6 and 10 will request four qualifiers next season. And I anticipate that to happen, which would give us an 11-man-bracket and bring us back to the setup we originally had." The three extra wrestlers would add a session on the two-day tournament, with a pigtail round Friday afternoon. The region would still qualify four wrestlers for the state championships.

Sudden death for local AA wrestlers

By FRED KAVELAK
For the Times

CLARION — The double-elimination format for the PIAA Class AA Northwest Region Tournament gives life to wrestlers who suffer a first-round losses. 3-12-88

So it's sudden death today for three area hopefuls who return to Clarion University's Tippin Gym.

District 6 champ Scott Rossman and Kevin Butler of Penns Valley and Chris Myers of West Branch all stumbled in the opening round last night.

Rossman's defeat was a shocker for Rams' fans, because the senior 167-pounder didn't display the style that carried him to a 27-1 record.

Chris Harvey of Grove City took him down in each period for an 8-4 decision, limiting the Ram to a first-period reversal and two escapes.

"I'm more than a little irritated," Deisher said. "Two times Kevin lost points because the referee wasn't letting him get set in the top position. And I don't think it was a case of Kevin not being ready. I felt there was a little bit of inconsistency in the way he called that particular situation."

"Kevin went for the headlock at the end, because had been warned for stalling. He had it pretty tight, but the kid slipped it. Kevin wrestled a lot better than he did in districts, though. He was more aggressive."

Myers, a junior 126-pounder, drew District 10 kingpin Todd Donatelli of Hickory. And Myers surprised Donatelli with the initial takedown.

Myers, however, managed only one escape the rest of the way, while Donatelli was finishing double-leg takedowns three times to win 8-3.

"We worked all week on our feet, and we felt that we could have done better," West Branch Coach Gary Miller said. "That kid wrestled a smart match, and I think he really shook Chris up the way he was snapping and moving."

"He had Chris on defense, and Chris isn't a counter wrestler. You have to win two bouts to go to Hershey. Now, we have to win our two tomorrow (today)."

Deisher echoed those sentiments.

"Kevin and Scott knew coming in they had to go. Now, they've got to come back hungry and ready to go. It's single-elimination now."

Nine of the East Section's 19 qualifiers advanced to help District 6 match District 10 with 20 semifinalists. District 9 has eight title contenders.

Moshannon Valley has four, including heavyweight Tim Ronan, who bumped off Johnsonburg's David Sallack 3-2. Sallack won region honors at 167 last year.

Other Black Knight winners were Paul Dipko at 138, Justin O'Shea at 145 and Damon Mazoff at 185. Mazoff handed Coudersport's Tom Storey his first loss in 27 bouts, 7-6, by

"He was way too tight," Penns Valley Coach Jeff Deisher said of Rossman, one of the pre-tourney favorites. "He's a better technician than he showed tonight. He wrestled flat-footed. 3-12-88

"He was so concerned with stopping the other kid, he left his offense at home. He was more worried about losing than he was about winning, and he's too good an athlete to do that. If he quits doubting himself and goes out and wrestles his kind of match, he'll be okay."

Butler's loss was a real heart-breaker.

Johnsonburg's Bernie Norlin slipped a headlock at the edge of the mat for a takedown with two seconds left to edge the Rams' 112-pounder with an 8-7 decision.

Butler took charge early with a pair of takedowns for a 4-1 lead, but the District 9 champ hit a headlock for four points in the last 10 seconds of the middle period to tie the bout at 5-5.

With 39 seconds left, Butler reversed to take a 7-5 lead. Norlin escaped 10 seconds later and then dropped the Butler's record to 17-6 with his late takedown.

Johnsonburg's Sallack Will Know Soon If Decision Right

By TOM ROOF

Times Herald Sports Writer
CLARION — He made his decision look easy a week ago. Now, Johnsonburg High School senior David Sallack is about to find out if indeed he made the right choice.

3-10-88

After wrestling at 185 and heavyweight throughout the regular season, Sallack pulled a switch by choosing to compete at the higher weight at last Friday and Saturday's District 9 Class AA championships. And he breezed, recording a 8-5 win over Kane's Rod Smith in the finals for his second district title in three years.

3-10-88

He'll be trying to maintain his momentum this Friday and Saturday at the Northwest Regionals at Clarion University with an eye at a second state tournament appearance. But as a 190-pound heavyweight, Sallack (23-1) won't be one of the big boys this time around.

"Wrestling at heavyweight was a decision we made together," said Johnsonburg coach Scott Anderson, who also advanced district champs Bernie Norlin at 112, and Butch Barber at 138. "We felt the opportunity to be a state placewinner was better at heavyweight. I guess, though, we'll find out if we were right or wrong over the next couple of weeks."

The top four finishers from the 'AA' showcase, which will get under way at 7 p.m., and from the Class AAA regionals in Altoona will advance to the Pennsylvania state championships next Thursday, Friday and Saturday in Hershey. Sallack made it that far a year ago after winning the 167-pound regional title, but failed to place.

"David has come up through the ranks," said Anderson. "He knows how to wrestle while a lot of heavyweights don't have the diversity he has to do a lot of things because they have always been heavyweights."

3-10-88

"He'll have to make a tradeoff, though. He'll be giving up size, but he'll be a lot quicker than most heavyweights. He'll just have to wrestle smart because obviously there are some things you can't do with a 270-pound kid."

Sallack, whose lone loss this year came to Ridgway's Gary Weber, 5-2, at 185, led Johnsonburg in pins with 15 and is the school's career win leader with a four-year record of 83-15-1. His opening round match Friday is against Moshannon Valley behemoth Tim Ronan (24-2), who was upended in the District 6 finals by Chief Logan's Joe Daubert (19-1).

3-10-88

"This will be Dave's third time at regionals and I expect him to go quite a ways," said Anderson of his talented heavyweight, who bench presses 350 pounds. "If you don't have the right mental attitude you're not going to wrestle well. But Dave, Bernie and Butch have all been here before and experience like that helps."

Sallack will be one of seven former regional champs returning, joining defending titlists Jeff Brinker of Bald Eagle Nittany at 105, Kyle Cheza of Hickory at 112, Jim Mulligan of Seagertown, Eric Bowser of Richland at 126, Jim Say of Cranberry at 132, and Troy Sunderland of Mt. Union at 145.

3-10-88

Cheza (36-1) and Sunderland (28-0) were both state champs last year and Bowser (26-0) a 'AA' state titlist two years ago but placed sixth last year after losing in the semifinals.

MAT MATTERS: The final Big 30 poll will be announced next Thursday. In all, 19 Big 30 wrestlers will be competing in the Class AA regional tournament and 10 in the Class AAA event. Wrestling on Saturday will start at 12:30 p.m. at both sites with the consolation finals set for 6 p.m. and the championship finals approximately an hour later. The Class AA tournament also features a state runner-up, 119-pounder Casey Koch of Bald Eagle Nittany. Following are the quarterfinal round pairings involving area wrestlers:

Taylor 126-pound king

By RON BRACKEN
Times Sports Columnist

HERSHEY — It was a night of deliverance for Bald Eagle Area's Doug Taylor and his coach.

Taylor, who had twice been disappointed in his trips to the PIAA Class AAA tournament, buried the ghosts of losses past when he breezed past Jeff Barnes of Yough, 12-2, to win the 126-pound title last night. 3-20-88

The win gave BEA Coach Dick Rhoades his first champion since Al Fisher won the 145-pound crown in 1973. In the intervening years he had four wrestlers reach the finals but come up with the silver medal while someone else took the gold.

But last night Taylor, who has been superb on his feet throughout the tournament, took Barnes down four times and was never in trouble in the match.

"I felt really good tonight," he said. "I really had my head cleared for this match. People had told me he (Barnes) had a good barrel roll (takedown) so I wanted to stop that. I think I'm strongest on my feet and I thought if I could beat him there I could win." 3-20-88

Taylor beat John Harmon of Dallastown in the semifinals, 10-4, but Harmon got the initial takedown.

"That was an eye-opener," Taylor said. "The coaches had helped me come down off cloud nine after I had beaten Yuiska Friday. I was glad that match was Friday and I didn't have to wrestle again that day. That was really a big hurdle for me. It was tough for me psychologically, because he really beat me bad down here last year.

"But the coaches told me that win wouldn't mean much if I didn't win the next two matches."

Taylor, who finished the season with a 34-0-1 record, took Barnes down with :20 left in the first period. He chose the bottom position in the second period and came out with only 32 seconds gone and then took Barnes down to go in front 5-0 after four minutes. "In the third period he allowed Barnes to escape, took him down, tilted him for three, gave up an escape and then took him down for the clincher." 3-20-88

The win was the 109th in a career which began when he was, well, young.

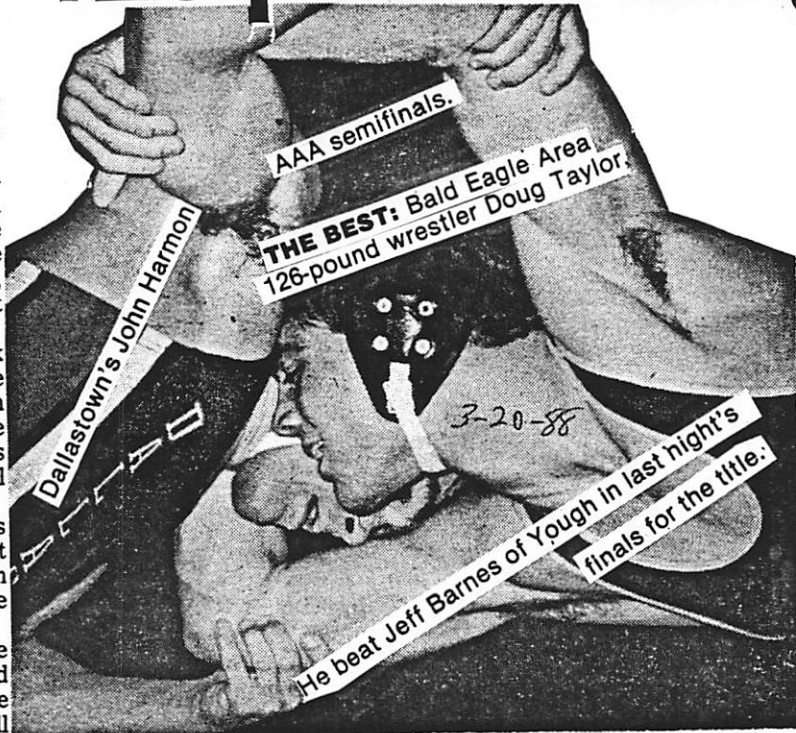

"I've been wrestling as long as I can remember," he said. "I didn't join the Bald Eagle Wrestling Club until I was in fourth grade but I was on the living room floor forever. I wrestled my first match at the Lock Haven YMCA and I think I got taken down right away in that match, too. But I think I pinned the kid."

With his gold medal around his neck and the bracket sheet in his hand, Taylor was looking forward to a rather modest celebration once he left the arena.

"I'm going to call Domino's (Pizza)," he smiled.

But his smile was no wider than the one Rhoades wore.

"It's been a long dry spell," he said, referring to the string of runners-up. "We had a lot of almosts but we couldn't get over the hump. But it's nice to see someone who has put so much work into it get rewarded. Doug has been super in the wrestling room and he's been a tremendous leader for us. He's just a super kid." 3-20-88

"He's been super all year. During the season he rose to the occasion when he was wrestling someone tough."

Taylor, too, pointed out that the strong competition helped him on the tournament trail.

"Wrestling the schedule we do really helps when you get into tight matches," he said. "When you've been in them all year long it makes a difference."

In his four matches here no one came closer to Taylor than six points.

"He had a real good tournament," Rhoades said. "He was aggressive, he was in control and he didn't make any mistakes. He got the job done." 3-20-88

"In the finals we wanted him to let Barnes out in the third period but he was reluctant; he doesn't like to give away points. But he's been tough on his feet.

"I think the difference in him this year compared to the past two is that he was more confident and he was hungrier this year. As a sophomore his goal was just to get here. Last year he wanted to place but he didn't. He knew this was his last time around.

"You know, he doesn't show a lot of emotion out there. But one of his strong points is that he gets a little hot; he has determination. And when you combine that with his ability, it's a winning combination. He keeps his composure. He never gets too high. Even after that match tonight he walked off like it was any other match."

But it wasn't.

"That was the greatest feeling in the world," Taylor said. "There's nothing like it."

Except maybe a Domino's pizza with pepperoni.

Other BEA placewinners

Taylor's teammates — 185-pounder Gary Heverly and heavyweight Skip Pighetti — finished fourth and fifth, respectively. 3-20-88

Heverly dropped a 9-0 decision to North Allegheny's Matt White in overtime in the battle for third. An escape with :11 left in regulation allowed Heverly to tie it up at 4-4 but in the first overtime period White took Heverly down and turned him for two back points. A reversal in the gave him a 6-0 cushion.

Heverly finished his career with a record of 29-7-2.

Pighetti rolled over Cary Palmer of Bensalem, 12-5. Pighetti had five takedowns on his way to a medal. He wrapped up his junior season with a mark of 34-5-2.

Mayo places 2nd at 177; 6 Pa. wrestlers win

By DOUG McDONALD
Times Senior Sports Writer

AMES, Iowa — Dan Mayo of Penn State improved his standing by one over last year, but still he came up short of his goal — winning an NCAA wrestling title.

Royce Alger of Iowa beat Mayo in the showdown of 177-pounders at the 58th annual NCAA Tournament here last night, 6-4. Alger beat Mayo, runner-up at 177 a year ago at Maryland, by one point in the dual meet at Iowa City last month.

"He just beat me at my best position (bottom)," Mayo said in disgust after the bout. "I think the warning also changed things. He does a lot of pushing and shoving with that underhook, which makes it look like he's doing something."

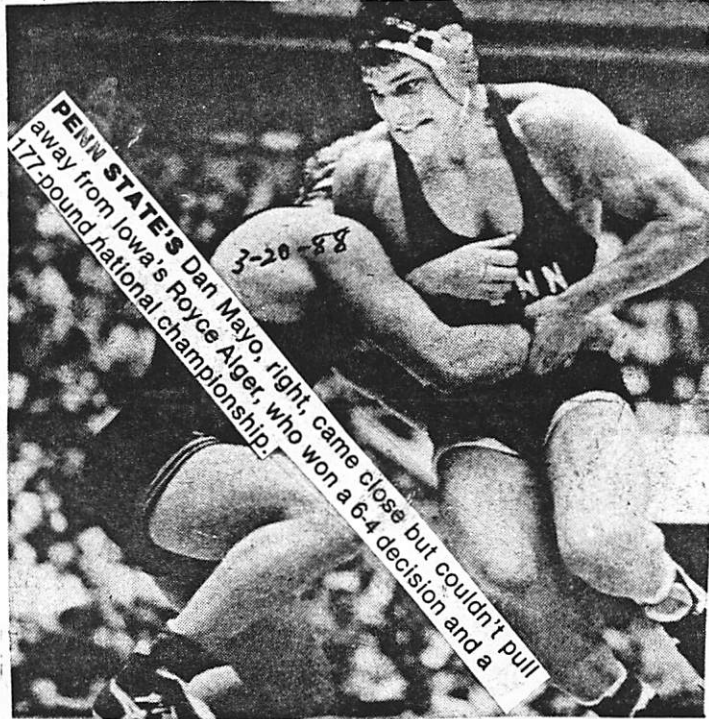

Mayo was warned for stalling 27 seconds into the bout. But in the second stanza he escaped early and scored a double-leg takedown with 1:36 left. Alger escaped six seconds later and then five seconds into the last period to make it 3-2. Six seconds later, Mayo was hit with a stalling point to make it 3-3. Then a takedown with 1:42 made broke the tie. Alger was penalized for stalling with 23 seconds to go, but he finished with 1:36 time advantage and Mayo finished the year at 34-2-1. The dual meet score was 6-5 and Mayo also opened that match with a takedown.

"Danny didn't handle the situation well at all," Coach Rich Lorenzo of the Nittany Lions said. "Alger's tough. Give him credit. We wanted him to ride Alger. But when we cut him loose twice after only a few seconds, I knew we were in trouble. If Alger has a weakness, I think it's on bottom. Alger won it fair and square. We didn't break him down at all. His style is frustrating. It makes the other guy shoot."

Coach Dan Gable of the Hawkeyes thought Mayo was more aggressive tonight than he was in the dual meet.

"The bout was similar," Gable said in reference to the dual meet. "Mayo scored first there, too. He made three or four nice attempts. But the key tonight was catching Mayo out of position for that one takedown."

Koll ends career in fine fashion — on top

By DOUG McDONALD

AMES, Iowa — A throw that Rob

Koll used to perfection in high school, the hip toss, was just what the doctor ordered last night as the North Carolina senior pinned Joe Pantaleo of Michigan in 1:14 for the NCAA

KOLL

Koll went right after Pantaleo. He finally caught the Big 10 runnerup near the edge of the mat.

"I had to rotate my hips to keep him in bounds," Koll said. "I figured I could throw him. He came in once. I couldn't believe when he came in again. He needed a heavy wind to get him back."

Meanwhile, Coach Bill Lam of the Tar Heels was beaming from ear to ear because Koll became his second NCAA champion. C.D. Mock won for UNC in this same arena (his victim was Don Reese of Bloomsburg) six years ago.

"He went out like he should," Lam said of Koll, who was the top seed. "I'm happy for him and I'm happy for his dad and family."

"When he got hurt, we weren't sure just how far he could go. We knew he wouldn't be flashy (because of the injury). But he just kept improving. That's just the type of kid he is."

"He's tough from all three positions. Nobody has ridden him. And he can ride like a bandit. And when he doesn't pin, he has riding time."

Coach Koll, who watched Andy Matter win two NCAA titles for the Nittany Lions in the 1970s, likens his son to Matter.

Informed of that comparison, Lam said with a grin: "But Rob's tougher."

championship in the 158-pound weight class.

Koll, former State College High wrestler, finally captured the gold medal in front of 11,819 fans at Hilton Coliseum on the campus of Iowa State University.

It was Koll's 21st fall of the season and his 38th straight victory against collegiate competition.

Koll received the championship trophy from his dad, Bill, who won three NCAA titles for Northern Iowa (formerly Iowa Teachers) in the late 1940s. Bill Koll also coached Penn State in the 1960s and 1970s.

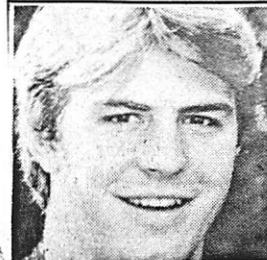

A senior, Koll had to overcome lots of obstacles to win his first NCAA title. After placing seventh once and third twice, Koll started the '88 NCAA event on a downer, suffering ligament damage in a Thursday bout against Army's John Rippley. But he battled back despite a heavily taped knee and a patch over his right eye to score the biggest victory in his career.

"When I stuck him, that's when I knew I was the champion," Koll said. "And it was the old hip toss, something I've been using since high school. But I feel good."

The Koll family was well represented last night in the town where Coach Koll beat John Fletcher 40 years ago in the Olympic Trials. The Fletcher Award is still presented at the annual EIWA Tournament to the top scorer.

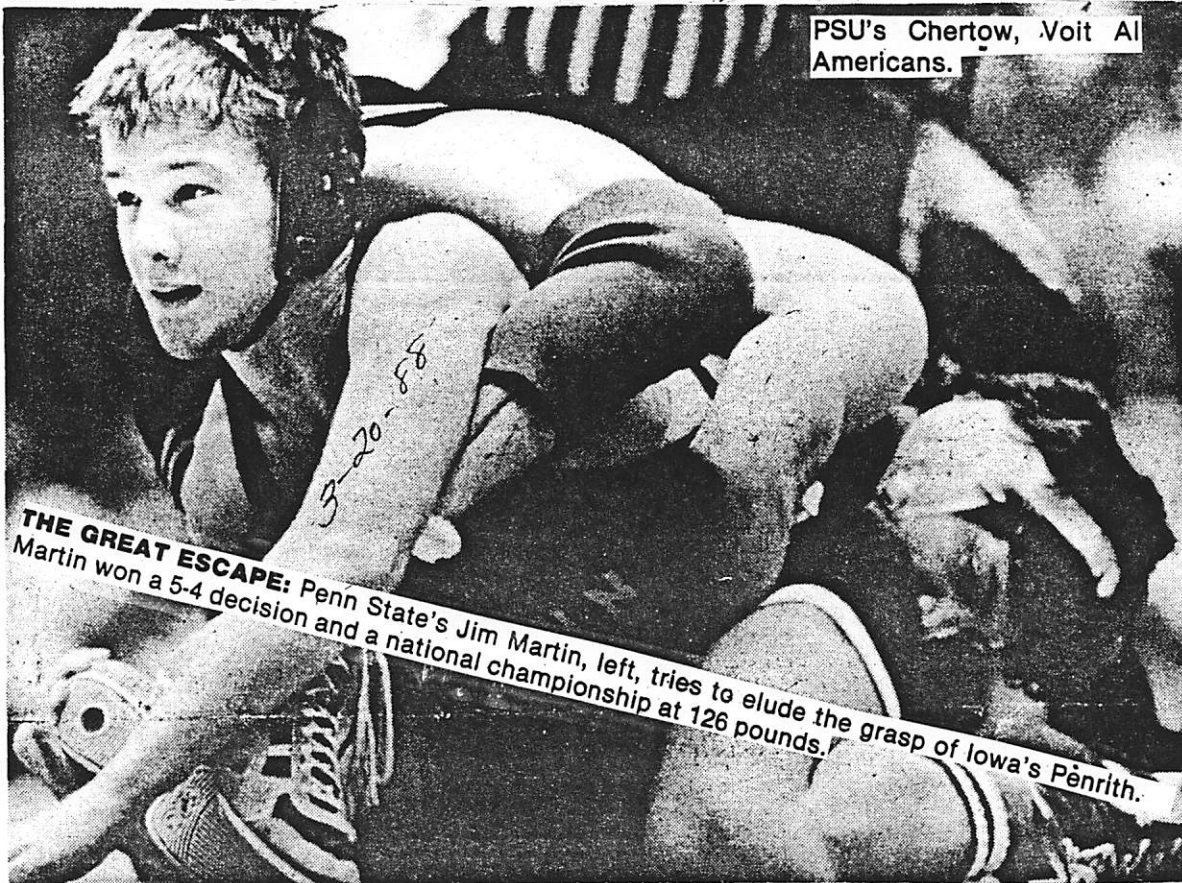

A "Koll's Korner" banner hung from one end zone of Hilton Coliseum and behind it were brothers, sisters, a niece, fiance, mom, etc.

Gold medal for Martin

PSU's Chertow, Voit All Americans.

THE GREAT ESCAPE: Penn State's Jim Martin, left, tries to elude the grasp of Iowa's Penrith. Martin won a 5-4 decision and a national championship at 126 pounds.

By DOUG McDONALD
Times Senior Sports Writer

AMES, Iowa — Jimmy Martin must have thought he was walking through a receiving line here last night.

After beating favored Brad Penrith of Iowa for the 126-pound wrestling title at the 58th annual NCAA Championships, Martin had to weave his way past one section of fans filled with athletes and coaches. 3-20-88

"There is justice," said one fan after Martin beat Penrith, 5-4, giving Penn State its first national title since Carl DeStefanis (118) and Scott Lynch (134) won at the 1984 tourney in East Rutherford, N.J. 3-20-88

Coach Bobby Douglas of Arizona State, the leader of the '88 NCAA champions, had a big smile as he patted Martin on the shoulders. Members of the ASU Sun Devils did the same. Coach Stan Abel of Oklahoma also extended his hand to Martin.

It was Martin's victory which knocked Iowa out of any chance of overtaking Arizona State. Also on the receiving line was Fletcher Carr, ASU assistant coach, former Kentucky head man and ex-Pennsylvania schoolboy athlete. 3-20-88

Asked if beating an Iowa wrestler made it any sweeter, Martin said: "It didn't matter much to me because we were out of the team race. I certainly wasn't too optimistic. It was looking kind of bad at one time. I needed the big move."

Penrith, who was 1-1-1 against Martin this season prior to last night, scored first with a take-down and rode the junior from Danville for 1:21.

Martin deferred and Penrith, a three-time NCAA finalist, took bottom. Martin rode Penrith for 1:50, but the Iowa senior reversed, reducing Martin's time advantage to 17 seconds.

Martin, bothered by sore ribs, an injured neck and a sore knee, then reversed 33 seconds into the final period and turned Penrith with 21 seconds left for two back points, tying the score. The difference was a 1:11 time advantage. 3-20-88

"I wanted to go even in the first period," Martin said, "but I didn't. I lost my concentration a few times. I also hit my head. On his first takedown, he was in front of me before I could react. I didn't want to tilt him. I would have preferred to turn him with legs, but there wasn't much time. I didn't have much choice. I knew I had riding time. I just had to ride him 10 to 20 seconds."

Martin, who started the day with a three-mile run about 10:30 a.m., also received excellent help from trainer Bill Buckley, who provided padding and lots of tape throughout the tourney. Martin was injured in his first bout when he beat Gary Roberts of New Mexico, 13-6.

"It all boils down to attitude," Buckley said, "and he brought plenty of that with him."

Martin, who finished the year at 41-1-1, also drew praise from Penrith and Dan Gable, Iowa's coach.

"I was still trying to get out," Penrith said, "but I couldn't get out of the legs. I had a rib injury, too. If you're not sore from this tournament, you haven't wrestled a lick. But he beat me fair and square. I wish him the best of luck again next year. He's a great kid. He had that tight waist and I couldn't turn."

Gable thought that Penrith tried to ride his lead out.

"He had a 4-0 lead (actually, it was 5-0 with time advantage). He was on the bottom, protecting his lead, and it cost him. I felt the better wrestler didn't win, but the better competitor did. Martin hasn't been dominating, but he wins. He's a great kid."

Coach Rich Lorenzo of Penn State couldn't say enough about Martin, either.

"He beat a great opponent tonight," Lorenzo said. "Jimmy was very patient and won it on persistence. He didn't like finishing second (like last year at Maryland) or fourth (in '86 at Iowa City)."

The win boosted Martin's career total to 112-8-1. Meanwhile, the loss put Penrith's record at 41-3 and snapped his winning streak at 23.

Martin's victory also gave the Lions four more points and a total of 71.50, good for fifth place in the overall standings.

TOSSING and TURNING Wrestling's In Fulton Blood

By MICHAEL BUCCI

FULTON — The imaginary scrapbook in Mike Merritt's mind leafed back through 15 years of wrestling, past memories of two state championships and those yearly show-downs with Baldwinsville, to one snowy evening in early February of 1971.

Ah, yes. Watertown. That yellowing page still, after more than 200 Fulton wrestling matches, possesses the clearness of crystal. After a storm postponed the match for a day, Fulton took the team and a couple busloads of fans to Watertown for a meeting with the Cyclones, a team unbeaten in four years and 50 straight matches.

Watertown went ahead 17-13 after eight matches, before Fulton's Greg Stevens defeated Willard Corbett, who was unbeaten coming into the match. Then Merritt won, and Fergus Murphy and finally heavy-weight Walter Glod, and Fulton had itself a 25-17 victory that sent half of the crowd home happy.

That's right, half. 1-24-86

At least that's the scenario according to Merritt and then-coach Angelo "Buck" Godici. Of the record 1,500 fans that packed the Watertown gym the evening of Feb. 3, they are sure at least 750 were Fulton supporters.

"We filled our half of the gym," said Merritt, now a maintenance mechanic still living in Fulton. "That was a well-publicized match. Everybody knew about it. I can't ever remember people being so excited for a match. And when we won, everybody was so shocked. That's what I remember most. And the fact that there was so much student support."

In Fulton, support for wrestling was born some 27 years ago, when current Athletic Director Don Distin took 25 wrestlers into their first-ever scholastic season and managed to win half of the Red Raiders' dual meets. Through the ensuing decades, Distin and a handful of other head coaches nurtured the Oswego County team into a perennial winner and two-time state champion. And the crowds, the now overwhelming support, have grown right along with the team.

Chuck Merritt had little time to speak on Wednesday. The 39-year-old iron worker returned to his Fulton home at 6:30 p.m., and now was hurrying himself out of the house so he could make an 8 p.m. varsity match in East Syracuse. Sandwiched be-between matches with state-ranked Baldwinsville last Saturday and this Saturday's 8 p.m. home meet with Canastota, the ES-M trip was the breather on the schedule.

Still, Merritt didn't want to miss it.

"I'm a fan now," said Merritt, whose son, Jeff, won the 155-pound sectional title two years ago for Fulton. "If you go to the matches half the spectators are like me, they either wrestled or they had sons or nephews who wrestled. Now they just keep going back because they love the sport."

Chuck, Mike's older brother, was the first of the Merritt clan to wrestle for Fulton when he competed from 1960-64. The former heavy-weight twice was runner-up in the sectionals. Mike followed six years later at 167 pounds. And then came Jeff, who did what his father and uncle each failed to do.

Chuck joked about how he and Mike couldn't win the sectional title, so he had to tap into another bloodline to breed a sectional champion. But his words go even further in explaining this village's love affair with its wrestling team.

In Fulton, the wrestling bloodlines run deep. And they've endured throughout the nearly three decades of the program's existence.

For the Merritts, the father-brother-son connection only scratches the surface. The bloodline extends to Greg and Gary Hartranft, Chuck's brothers-in-law, who wrestled for Fulton from 1965-67. It extends to Ron Cotton, a heavyweight in the late '70s, and now to Randy Cotton, the undefeated heavyweight on this year's team. Not every wrestling family branches out this much, but one gets the idea.

"I coached many of the fathers of the boys that are wrestling now," said Godici, who had three sons involved in the Fulton program.

B'ville's Arcaro Dies at 54

By NEIL KERR

John Arcaro, the long-time Baldwinsville High School football and track coach, died Wednesday morning of a heart attack. The death of Arcaro, one of the most well-respected coaches in the Syracuse area, was greeted with shock by many of his former athletes, including former nationally ranked distance runner Don Paige. Arcaro was 54.

Arcaro coached at Baldwinsville from 1955 to 1986. One of his most famous students was Paige, who was coached by both Arcaro and Chuck Wiltse before attaining national and worldwide success at Villanova University.

"I knew John for almost 20 years, and I never once saw him depressed," Paige said Wednesday afternoon from Philadelphia. "I'm sure he had his problems like everybody else, but he was always the same — a fun-loving, easygoing, easy-to-like sort of person. He spent so much time helping other people. For example, he bought me my first pair of running shoes when I was a high school freshman. I never forgot that. A great man in my life has gone away."

Paige became the world's No. 1-ranked 800-meter runner in 1980, and won the U.S. Olympic trials that year. The United States team, however, boycotted the 1980 Olympics, which were held in Moscow.

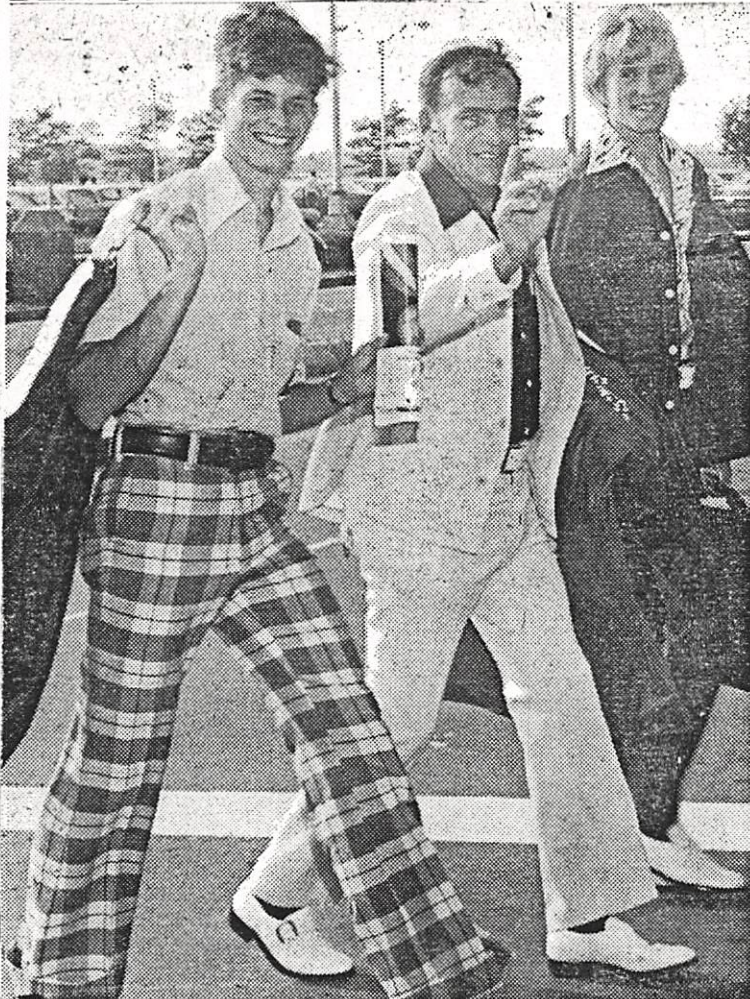

Arcaro's chief rival in the local coaching fraternity for the past 23 years was Oscar Jensen, track coach of Liverpool High School.

"John was a great, great motivator," Jensen said Wednesday of the longtime Baldwinsville resident. "He had a way of taking average athletes and making them perform better than they thought they could. More than once, I had a team which should have beaten his team, but didn't. That's because he would have his kids super-psyched to beat us."

Early in his career, Arcaro was an outstanding football halfback and track sprinter, first at Elmira Southside High School and later at Cortland State. Arcaro was a four-year letterman in both sports at Cortland State, graduating in 1955.

record before Leo Johnson took over the program in 1964. He also had a brief stint as basketball coach, and was the Bees' varsity football coach from 1962 to 1979.

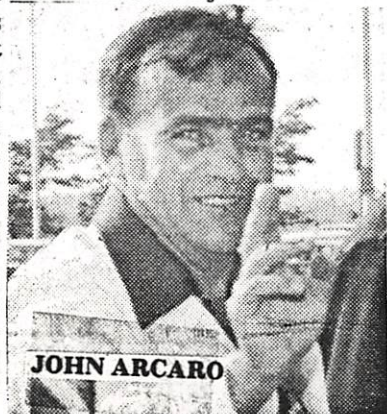

More recently, Arcaro has served as Section Three football chairman and as chief assignor of wrestling officials. He was also the driving force behind long-sought construction of a nine-lane synthetic running track at Baldwinsville, which was named Jim Pelcher Stadium.

That track, opened in 1981 and named in honor of the late Baldwinsville basketball coach, has been the site of the state meet the last four years. Before 1981, the Bees' track teams dominated the Onondaga League North with a dual meet record of 258-23, all away meets.

"I have a vivid memory of John Arcaro," said Section Three track chairman Tom Wells. "Do you remember the finish of the girls' 3,000-meter race at the State Meet last June at Baldwinsville, when Auburn's Denise Bushallow caught (Baldwinsville's) Terry Mero inches from the finish line? Both runners were totally exhausted and both were worried about possible disqualification for bumping. I'll always remember that it was John Arcaro who grabbed both those girls by their shoulders and walked them around the track, comforting and encouraging them."

Services for Arcaro, who is survived by his wife, Doris, his son, John Jr., and his daughter, Kathy, will be conducted at St. Mary's Church in Baldwinsville at 10 a.m. Saturday.

John Arcaro was remembered by his friends Wednesday as a colorful, easy-going and fun-loving coach, someone as outgoing as he was concerned about the kids he taught and coached for 32 years at Baldwinsville's Baker High School.

Arcaro, 54, died Wednesday morning of a heart attack. He had reported to school, where he taught physical education and coached track, as usual earlier in the morning. But he returned home shortly after because he wasn't feeling well, Athletic Director Leo Johnson said.

Arcaro was then taken by his daughter Kathy to his doctor, Robert G. Wedemeyer. A family friend who answered the phone at the Arcaro home Thursday said Arcaro was stricken at the doctor's office and died shortly thereafter.

Arcaro's death hit home throughout the Syracuse area and especially at Baker High, where he coached indoor and outdoor track, football, wrestling and even basketball over the years.

"We'll miss him. Oh, we'll miss him," said Baldwinsville boys' basketball coach Don Kasmer, a longtime friend of Arcaro's who worked as an assistant football coach under him for 18 years. "He just loved kids and he loved to work with kids. All his time was spent with either someone or something affiliated with athletics. You could see that by the various committees he worked on all year. Guys like that just pass through once."

To Baldwinsville's students, Arcaro was someone who always was smiling, always was upbeat, said junior Bruce West, who ran track for Arcaro the past three years.

West said the students at the school were visibly shaken when they heard the news of Arcaro's death.

"Everybody was just crying in the halls," West said. "We couldn't believe it happened. Everybody looked on him like a father. He was never really tough (in practice). He just told you what to do and you just did it because you wanted to."

The jolt of Arcaro's death also reached beyond Syracuse, to athletes he had brought along through the years. One of them is Don Paige, who became a world-class runner.

Paige said when he first joined the Baldwinsville program as a freshman during the 1971-72 school year, he didn't have any running shoes. So Arcaro bought him a pair.

"He wanted to make sure I had something decent to wear," Paige said by telephone Wednesday from his Pennsylvania home. "I thought, 'If this guy has that much faith in me I should go out and train hard.'"

Paige went on to star at Villanova University and set a world record at 1,000 yards and an American record, which he still holds, at 1,000 meters. He also made the 1980 U.S. Olympic team. He said he will attend Friday's wake and Saturday's funeral services.

Ironically, this was to be Arcaro's last year as coach and teacher at Baldwinsville. He already had submitted his letter of intent to retire in June, Johnson said. Another longtime friend, Section Three Executive Director Otis Sennett, said the two had talked about retired life several times in recent months.

Even in retirement, both Sennett and Johnson knew it would have been tough to get Arcaro to slow down. After the 1979 football season, Arcaro resigned as football coach, in large part, he said then, because of heart problems. But he continued to keep a busy schedule.

This year, he was coaching indoor and outdoor track, was the Section Three football chairman, the assigner of Syracuse-area wrestling officials and even officiated a few wrestling matches.

"His doctor told him to slow down a few times," Johnson said. "But that wasn't his way. He wasn't going to slow down. If he had any free time at all he'd go and watch his kids play sports."

Arcaro's daughter, Kathy, is the all-time leading scorer on the Le Moyne College women's basketball team. Her father never missed one of her games, friends said. Le Moyne postponed its women's game with William Smith Wednesday night when college officials learned of Arcaro's death.

As a coach, Arcaro wasn't looked on as a perfectionist. He was successful in every sport he coached and loved to win, and yet, his friends say, he always managed to have fun. Everyone, it seems, has a favorite John Arcaro one-liner or bizarre story.

For Kasmer, it was a day several years ago, when a private plane made an emergency landing right in the end zone of the Baldwinsville football field. Kasmer said Arcaro, standing on the sidelines, quipped: "God, the plane and the pilot probably will score more than we will this season."

For Bruce Quimby, Jamesville-DeWitt's current athletic director and varsity football coach, it was when he was quarterbacking the Arcaro-coached Baldwinsville football team in 1973. At the time, Arcaro had a big rivalry with then-J-D coach Carl Bjork, and felt his team had been embarrassed by Bjork's in 1972. The Bees' coach was determined to get revenge the following year.

Quimby said the week before the '73 game, Arcaro told his team it was going to build a big lead against the Red Rams, then back itself up against its own goal line, and finally, turn around and kick a field goal — for J-D.

"We practiced this all week," Quimby said. "That was the highlight of the week. It was a psych-up thing for us. Baldwinsville was intimidated by J-D and he wanted us to calm down."

Arcaro never pulled off the stunt during the game, but his team did win and ended up as co-champions of the old Onondaga League North Division that year. Overall, friends say, track probably was his most enduring love. It was the sport he stayed with for his entire tenure at Baldwinsville. And, after years of success, he was named Coach of the Year by the National High School Athletic Coaches Association in 1981. Arcaro's most intense track-coaching rivalry was with Liverpool's Oscar Jensen. Over the years, Jensen said, no one beat his team more than Baldwinsville and no one beat Baldwinsville more than Liverpool. "Given though he was laid-back it was kind of deceptive," Jensen said. "He gave the impression that he didn't know what was going on at a track meet. But he certainly did know what was going on.

"He always got the best out of his kids. To be a good coach you have to have the ability to motivate kids and get them to respond to you. He did that."

Outside of coaching, Arcaro had an uncanny knack for getting things accomplished. Johnson said Arcaro was instrumental in bringing the New York State Inter-sectional Track Meet to Baldwinsville for what will be its fourth year this spring. He also was the driving force behind the construction of Baldwinsville's James Pelcher Stadium.

Before the stadium was built, Arcaro-coached teams never had a home meet, and practiced on the road and in the school's parking lot. Yet his dual-meet record for all those away meets was 258-23.

When the stadium opened in 1981, Arcaro treated it with reverence. No one else could cut the stadium grass, Johnson said, because Arcaro was afraid it wouldn't be done right. He used his own tractor, not the school's, and bought flowers for the stadium.

TWO DOWN, ONE TO GO. Olean High School senior Jeff Prescott will be seeking his third straight New York State wrestling title this weekend at the state championships in Syracuse. Prescott, who boasts a 158-17 career record and has won a state-record 116 consecutive matches, is shown here with his two championship medals and the state's Outstanding Wrestler trophy he won at the 1986 state tournament.

Nemesis To Test Prescott's 116-0

this year have gone the distance with an 18-11 win over East Rochester's Steve Marcoccia in the finals of the Jamestown Community College tournament the closest he's come to losing. "He really hasn't been put in a tough situation," Myers said, "and that could hurt. But Jeff wrestles hard for six minutes and it's going to take an awfully good kid to beat him. He isn't the type to take a one- or two-point lead and sit on it."

INDEED, WITH a loaded 112-pound weight class, Prescott will need to be at his best. In addition to Epifano, five other 1986 state qualifiers return — fifth-place finisher Joe Amuso (34-2) of Fox Lane (Sec. 1); junior Jimmy DuQue (31-2) of Valley Central (Sec. 9), whom Prescott beat 18-2 in the first-round last year; junior Mark Provost (28-0) of Beekmantown (Sec. 7); Strycharz (25-1), an 8-4 loser in the finals to Hilton's Dave Pitoni; and two-time runner-up, senior Shannon DeRouchie (26-1), of Messena (Sec. 10).

Amuso, DuQue, Provost, and Strycharz all are in the same bracket with Prescott. DeRouchie should walk through the decidedly weaker upper bracket and, barring an upset, should meet Prescott in the finals for the third straight year. Two years ago Prescott won that match 13-1 and last year posted a 15-0 technical fall in 5:23 that helped him earn the tournament's Outstanding Wrestler Award.

IN ADDITION to Prescott, four other 1986 state champs will be back to defend their titles — 105-pound freshman Troy Bouzakis (28-0) of Pine Bush (Sec. 9), Royalton-Hartland 105-pound junior Lou Rosselli (32-0), Lancaster 215-pound senior Joe Zito (36-0) and Williamsville South 250-pound senior Bill Schoenle (18-1), all of Section 6.

Bouzakis (62-0 career), at 91 last year, was the first eighth-grader to win a state title. He is up to 105 this time around and is in the same bracket as Rosselli, who has fashioned a 117-7 career ledger with 70 straight wins. Also at 105 is 1985 state champ Daryl Page of Elmira Notre Dame who lost 2-2, 4-0 in overtime in last year's 98-pound finals to Rosselli.

PRESCOTT, who needs one win to break Clar Anderson's Western New York record of 158 victories, currently boasts the eighth longest all-time consecutive win streak in the nation (See accompanying graph). He is one of two active wrestlers among the top 12, the other being Danny Knight of Clington High School in Iowa.

SYRACUSE — There couldn't have been a more intriguing first chapter in what should wind up as a storybook finish to Jeff Prescott's high school wrestling career.

3-6-87

The mystery of 'Whatever happened to J.P. Epifano' is about to unfold.

A junior from Whitehall (Section 2), Epifano is back in the New York State championships this weekend after missing the past two tournaments.

So, what's the big deal? For those who need their memory rattled, Epifano is the last wrestler to hand Prescott, Olean's two-time state titlist, a defeat.

That 9-8 decision, coming after Prescott led 7-3, came in the opening round of the 1984 state meet when Prescott was a freshman and Epifano an eighth grader. Since then, Prescott has engineered an incredible state-record string of 116 straight wins and has literally breezed to two state tournament titles.

3-6-87

Now, guess who Prescott's first-round opponent will be this afternoon when the 25th annual New York State Public High School state championships get under way at the Onondaga County War Memorial. That's right, Epifano.

"IT'S REALLY an incredible pairing," said Olean High coach Jim Myers, who was reluctant to say whether his 112-pound standout still wants revenge. "All I know is that Jeff has been looking forward to getting up there and is glad he doesn't have a first-round bye.

"I don't know if there's going to be any revenge motive or not. That loss came a long time ago and Jeff has obviously proved himself since then. It's a match Jeff, obviously is going to have to win, though."

3-6-87

Epifano (29-2) has come close to returning the past two years, but as a freshman failed to make weight at 91 pounds for the Section 2 qualifier and his season came to a halt despite a 30-0 record. Last year, at 112, he lost in the sectional finals 7-2 to Shenendehowa senior Joel SanPedro, who then bowed 8-7 in the state quarterfinals to eventual runner-up Mike Strycharz of East Meadow (Sec. 8).

Boasting a career record of 133-18 with 13 of those losses coming as a seventh-grader, Epifano has lost this year only to 105-pound state qualifier Dennis Brown (28-1), of Herman-DeKalb, and to 119-pound qualifier Ray LaChase (34-0), of Spencerport.

Prescott, meanwhile, is four wins shy of going 40-0 for his third consecutive undefeated season and becoming only the sixth New York wrestler to win three state titles. Three of his matches

(UPPER BRACKET)
(First Round)
Shannon DeRouchie (Messena-10) 26-1 vs. Mike Reese (Elmira Southside-4) 28-2
Charles Sortino (Brockport-5) 32-3 vs. Jim McGonigle (St. Anthony-CHSAA) 25-1
(Second Round)
Eric Kaufman (East Hampton-11) 29-1 vs. DeRouchie/Reese winner; PSAL champion vs. Sortino/McGonigle winner.

(LOWER BRACKET)
(First Round)
Jeff Prescott (Olean High-6) 36-0 vs. J.P. Epifano (Whitehall-2) 29-2; Mike Strycharz (East Meadow-8) 25-1 vs. Mark Provost (Beekmantown-7) 28-0; Joe Amuso (Fox Lane-1) 34-2 vs. Mark Woodward (Fulton-3) 33-0
(Second Round)
Jimmy DuQue (Valley-9) 31-2 vs. Prescott/Epifano winner; Provost/Strycharz winner vs. Amuso/Woodward winner.

Knight, last weekend, became the seventh Iowa wrestler to win four state championships and the first Class-8A wrestler to go through four years of varsity competition unbeaten. Boasting a career record of 126-0, Knight tied former Iowa standout Jeff Kerber for fifth on the all-time consecutive win list with a 22-second fall in the state finals.

Third Title

But Prescott Coasted

Over Tough 'State' Road

By TOM ROOF

Times Herald Sports Writer

SYRACUSE — Jeff Prescott handled a delicate situation the best way he knew how here Friday and Saturday at the Silver Anniversary edition of the New York State high school wrestling championships.

On the mat.

The subject of a controversial bracket move, Prescott fought off three returning qualifiers to become only the sixth wrestler ever to win three New York state titles.

In besting Eric Kaufman, of Long Beach (Sec. 11, Long Island area), with an 18-2 technical fall in 4:48 of the 112-pound finals, Prescott (40-0) joined Dan Hunt (West Genesee), Mark Iacovelli (Ithaca), Bob Bury (Calhoun), Al Palacio (Long Beach) and Jon Cardi (Burnt Hills) as a three-time titlist. 3-9-87

Interestingly, Prescott and Kaufman, who entered the match with a 32-1-1 record on the season and a 106-11-1 career mark, were originally in the same bracket. With a Prescott win in the opening round, they would have met in the quarterfinals.

But because the bracket contained two-time returning runner-up Shannon DeRouchie, who was paired against Prescott in the preliminaries, Prescott was dropped to the decidedly-tougher lower bracket.

That switch brought on a mild uproar from bottom bracket coaches and sectional chairmen, who felt DeRouchie should have been the wrestler switched. While they, rightfully, were looking out for the best situation for their own representatives, it was the OHS senior who ended up with the tougher title path.

OLEAN COACH Jim Myers explained, "The reason they gave (to move Prescott) was because Jeff was on the line closest to the bottom bracket. They wanted to stay consistent with what they did in the past, but what they ended up doing was putting Jeff in a bracket with a returning runner-up, a fifth-place finisher, a couple of other returning qualifiers, and another kid from Fulton (Mark Woodworth) who was undefeated."

Myers, though, who was willing to make an appeal, said Prescott offered no argument.

"It didn't matter to him," said the coach. "He felt he wanted to go against the best and that you had to beat them all anyway, whether it was early in the tournament or in the finals."

In extending his state record victory streak to 120, he never trailed in his four tournament matches. In fact, Prescott, who won previously at 98 and 105 pounds, got stronger as the tournament went on.

"There was so much on the line, I was really kind of nervous my first two matches," he said of wins over Whitehall's J.P. Epifanio, 12-1, and Valley Central's Jimmy Duque, 11-1. "I was a little tight, I was rushing things too much and didn't open up."

On Saturday, however, Prescott was at his best in pinning Joe Amuso (36-2) of Fox Lane (Sec. 3) in 4:42 to advance to the finals.

Against Kaufman, Prescott got an early takedown and then filled the East Hampton senior three times to take a 9-0 lead by the end of the first period. He build that margin to 16-2 in the second period and nearly had a pin when Kaufman got caught on his back trying a fireman's carry.

Making his first state tournament appearance, the Cornell-bound Kaufman had some mixed thoughts about the championship match.

"Prescott's real good, but I think he's a little overconfident in himself, a little cocky. What's makes him so good is that he doesn't let up, but he's mostly good with tils."

East Hampton's first Suffolk County champion, Kaufman admitted being nervous. 3-9-87

"I don't think I wrestled as well as I could," he said. "I'd like to have that match over again, I don't know if I'd win, but I was not as loose as I could have been. I was too conservative. I thought more about Prescott and what he could do than what I could do."

LAST YEAR'S Outstanding Wrestler, Prescott finished second in the voting this trip, 10 points behind in the balloting to 105-pound champ Troy Bouzakis (32-0) of Pine Bush (Sec. 9).

Only a freshman, Bouzakis won his second state title and improved to 66-0 in his short career by fashioning a 9-5 win over last year's 98-pound champ Lou Roselli of Royalton-Hardland (Sec. 6). Bouzakis also topped 1985 titlist Dave Page of Elmira Notre Dame, 15-0 in 4:00, in the semifinals.

The only other Section 1 wrestler, besides Prescott, to win in the finals was senior Dave Grabbenstatter, who became Amherst's first state champ by edging sophomore Adam Mariano of Comsewogue (Sec. 11), 6-3, in the finals. A USA greco-roman and freestyle champ, Grabbenstatter ended the year with a 39-0 record and a 120-17 career mark.

Cheektowaga junior Brian McGill (37-1, 139-23), lost 7-2 in the 132-pound finals to junior Tony Ferrara (35-4-1, 115-21) of Sidney (Sec. 4). 3-9-87

Defending 250-pound titlist Bill Schenle of Williamsville South placed fourth, losing to the late Mittel of Bellamyville, and last year's 177-pound champ Joe 245 of Lancaster failed to place.

Also placing from Section 6 were Caughner junior Todd Carson, third at 98; Royalton-Hardland junior Mark Baehr, fourth at 126; and Lockport senior Lennox Gillon, third at 138.

Section 8 (Nassau County) accumulated 174 points to win the team title, its 10th, while Section 4 (Binghamton area) was second with 169 1/2 points and Section 6 third with 160. Section 5 placed sixth with 128 points.

Section 5 got championships from Spencerport senior Tom Billone (37-1-1, 117-16-2) at 126 and Hilton junior Rick Sawick (39-2-1, 75-24-1) at 155.

Haverling's Tim McKee was third at 98, Waterloo's Shawn Knisely fifth at 153, Brockport's Charles Sorfino third at 112 and Spencerport's Randy LeChase, third at 119.

No More Anderson 'Shadow'

By TOM ROOF

Times Herald Sports Writer

SYRACUSE — If he hasn't already, Jeff Prescott will get a chance this weekend to step away from the shadow of Clar Anderson.

Not that the Olean High School senior minds being placed in such elite company. After all, Anderson did win a pair of New York state titles and was the winningest wrestler in Western New York when he graduated from Olean in 1980.

Now, though, comes an opportunity for Prescott to stand alone.

Gunning for a couple of marks even his boyhood idol (Anderson) never achieved, Prescott will be seeking his third straight state crown when the 25th annual New York State Public High School Athletic Association state tournament gets under way this afternoon. 3-6-87

Winning here as a sophomore at 98 pounds and as junior at 105 after placing third as a freshman, Prescott carries into the two-day showcase a state-record streak of 116 consecutive wins and a career win-loss record of 158-17 — a win total that matches Anderson's WNY best.

Olean head coach Jim Meyers, who has coached five different state qualifiers, including Anderson, says it's tough not to make comparisons. But added that it might be time Prescott steps in his own direction.

"CLAR, JEFF and Chris Leichtweis (1978 state champ) are the same type of wrestlers," Myers said. "Those three set their sights on a goal and would work very hard toward it."

"Jeff, though, has always followed Clar, kind of patterned himself after him. But Jeff's a senior now and it's probably time he stops looking up at what Clar has done and take a good look at what he's done and what's best for him." 3-6-87

PRESCOTT, otherwise, has stepped away from the crowd — which, not coincidentally, herds toward the 112-pounder whenever he's on the mat.

Indeed, Prescott, whose last loss came in the quarterfinals of the 1984 state tournament to J.P. Epifano of Whitehall (See related story, page 1 and elsewhere this page), draws attention. 3-6-87

The subject of a feature article in Wrestling Masters magazine earlier this season, Prescott has been heavily recruited by several Division I colleges, including second-ranked Penn State, No. 11 Clarion, and improving Lock Haven, which this past week just missed making the Top 20.

Prescott is looking to become only the sixth wrestler to win three state titles, which would place him in the company of West Genesee's Dan Hunt (1972-74), Ithaca's Mark Iacovelli (1975-76), Calhoun's Bob Bury (1976-78), Long Beach's Al Palacio (1980-82), and Burnt Hills' Jon Cardi (1982-83).

And while he's a heavy favorite,

Myers has yet to see the state's 1986 Outstanding Wrestler take a return trip for granted.

"I haven't seen any letup from him at all," said Myers. "He's working as hard as ever. The states have been something he's been shooting for all year and he's looking forward to it. And I think he's especially looking forward to his first match (against Epifano). 3-6-87

"Jeff's pretty confident he's going to win again," Myers added, "but he's not overconfident. He knows they'll be close matches and he'll have to wrestle well. And if there's any pressure there, from the streak or from having everyone expect him to win, he's not showing it. He's handled it well."

SEVENTEEN Section 6 wrestlers have won state titles since 1964, but only two, Anderson and Prescott, have qualified for the state tournament four times (Anderson was third as a freshman but failed to place his sophomore year). Falconer's Rod Waddington, meanwhile, qualified five times but placed as high as second only once.

Two other Big 30 wrestlers, Pioneer's Mike Arnold (1972-74) and two-time titlist Kyle Grunwald (1975-76), advanced three times each. The only other three-time qualifiers from Section 6 have been Cassadaga Valley's Jim Beichner, Newfane's Calvin Swanson, and Royalton-Hartland's Lou Rosselli. 3-6-87

"You have to be a little lucky sometimes," Myers admitted, "but Jeff has a lot more than luck going for him. Just the fact that he walked through the tournament last year with technical falls over two returning runners-up shows that. He can go with the best of them if he doesn't make a mistake."

Prescott: 'You Can't Expect To Repeat'

By TOM ROOF

Times Herald Sports Writer

SYRACUSE — For months now, Jeff

Prescott has been battered by talk about how he's a strong favorite to win a second straight New York State high school wrestling championship.

But the Olean High School junior, whose last loss came in the state tournament two years ago, isn't taking anything for granted. 2-28-86

"You can't expect to repeat," Prescott said as he prepared for today's opening of the two-day event. "I'm up a weight class, and that makes a difference. Everyone at the state tournament is a winner, and you have to take one match at a time."

Prescott's open-mindedness shouldn't be perceived as a lack of confidence, though. He just prefers not to look too far ahead.

"I feel I'm ready physically and mentally," he said. "I wrestled at 112 most of the year and I think that has gotten me more prepared. The thing is, I can't start thinking ahead. I just got to wrestle my style, that's all there is to it."

Prescott, who won at 98 last year after placing third as a freshman, is 36-0 and one of three undefeated wrestlers vying for the 105-pound title. And while he is the favorite, nothing's for sure.

His toughest competition is expected to come from three other returning place-winners: 91-pound runner-up Brian Darling (29-2), a senior out of Jordan-Elbridge; Amsterdam's Mike Thomas (27-0), fifth last year at 105; and Massena's Shannon Derouchie (25-2), who lost to Prescott, 13-1, in last year's championship finals. 2-28-86

"I'm more confident this year, but I'm not any more relaxed," said Prescott, whose third Section 6 title last Saturday was his 76th straight win and 118th career victory. "The one thing I always wanted was a state championship. Now I got it on my mind to be a three-time state champion. It's a long shot, but I have to take 'em one at a time."

MEANWHILE, 215-pound Salamanca junior Jess Wilson will be making his first trip to the New York state championships, which get under way at 3:30 p.m. today at the Onondaga County War Memorial.

While he boasts the state's winningest record at 38-0, Wilson finds himself in an exceptionally tough weight class. Back are place-winners Ron Ridenhour (29-0) of Ossing, fourth last year at 177; Robert Murphy (31-0) of Chaminade, fifth at 215; and Randy Cotton (30-0) of Fulton, who was fourth at 215.

Also among the 215-pound qualifiers is Rob Cole of Union-Endicott, who Wilson bested, 9-8, in the finals of the Williamsville North tournament.

Dunsmore Loses At State Qualifier

Big 30 Wrestling

BROCKPORT — Bolivar Central School senior Mike Dunsmore advanced the furthest of the six Big 30 area wrestlers in the Section 5 state qualifying championship tournament, losing in the 145-pound semi-finals Saturday at Brockport State College. 2-24-86

Dunsmore, a senior with a 120 career wins, was eliminated, 6-3, by Class B champ Jeff Howard of Wayne, who lost in the finals to Brighton's Greg Lechner. Dunsmore, who won a Section 5 Class D title to make it to Saturday's qualifier, wound up the year with a 32-3-1 record.

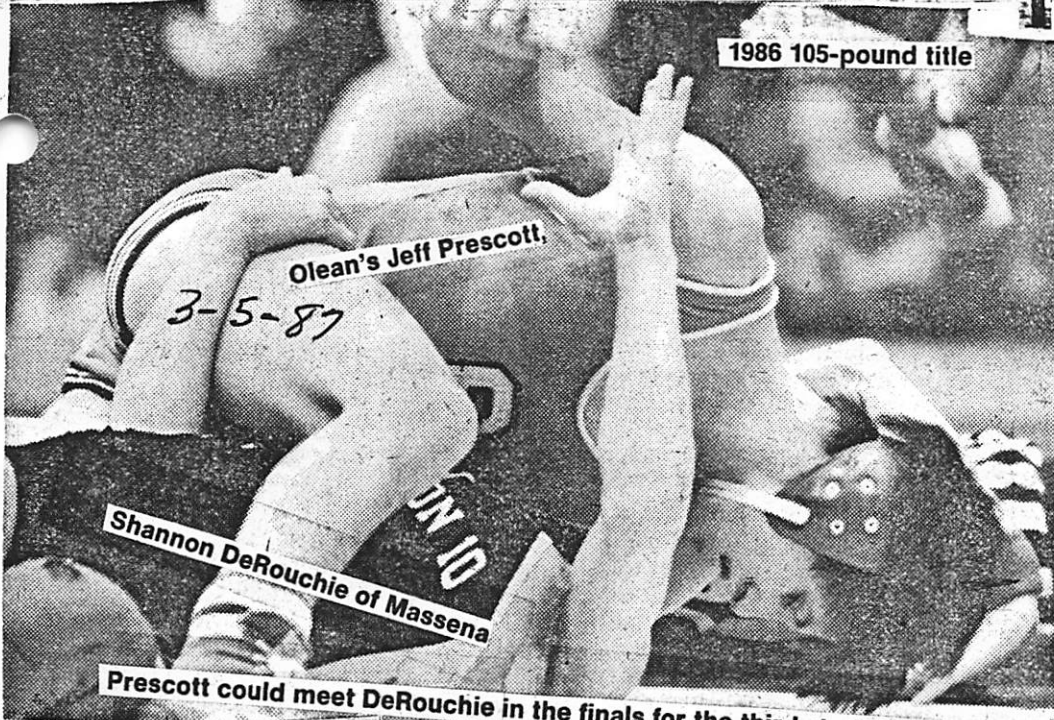

Bolivar's only other entrant, 177-pounder Terry Appleby, finished with a 18-14 record after losing by a technical fall in 3:59 in a pre-quarterfinal-round match to eventual second-place finisher Gary Hively of Addison.

Neither of Alfred-Almond's Class D champions, 215-pounder Scott Weeks and 250-pounder Clint Hadsell, made it past the quarterfinals. Weeks (24-2) lost to Class A third-place finisher David Currie of Greece Olympia, 5-2, and Hadsell (23-1) was pinned in the first period by Batavia's Joe Amico, who placed third in the Class B tourney. 2-24-86

Also bowing out early were Wellsville's Jim Kling at 105 and Ike Fanton at 177. Kling (20-6) was ousted in the quarterfinals as he was pinned with five seconds left in the first period by Class D runner-up Dale Chapin of Campbell. Fanton (22-10) was pinned in 1:46 in the pre-quarters by eventual champion Todd Mirabella of Brighton.

Prescott Keeps On Rolling

By NEIL KERR

With the state record for most consecutive victories to his credit, Jeff Prescott of Olean High School seeks to add his name to the list of three-time state champions in the 25th annual New York state inter-sectional wrestling tournament this weekend. Two days of wrestling begins at the Onondaga County War Memorial at 3:30 p.m. Friday.

Prescott, whose consecutive win streak is at 116, can become the sixth wrestler to win three straight state titles. The Olean senior, who is being recruited by Lock Haven State, Clarion State and Penn State as a collegiate 118-pounder, is trying to join Dan Hunt, Mark Iacovelli, Bob Bury, Al Palacio and Jon Cardi as three-time state champions.

Prescott, 36-0 this season, knows it won't be easy. "I've seen defending state champions go back to Syracuse and lose," he said, referring to 1984 state champions Treavor Erney of Maine-Endwell, Rick Brzozinski

3-Time Champions

- Dan Hunt, W. Genesee 1972-74
- Mark Iacovelli, Ithaca. 1975-77
- Bob Bury, Calhoun..... 1976-78
- Jon Cardi, Burnt Hills. 1981-83

of West Islip and Phil Consiglio of North Rockland.

Ironically, Prescott will open his bid Friday for a "triple crown" by facing the last wrestler to defeat him in scholastic competition — J.P. Epifanio of Whitehall Central of Section Two. In 1984, at the War Memorial, Prescott built an 8-3 lead over Epifanio, then lost 9-8. Then, in the Saturday wrestle-backs, Prescott defeated Epifanio and finished third at 91 pounds. 3-5-87

Since then, Prescott hasn't relaxed once, especially when he's leading, which is most of the time. Prescott has since won state titles at 98 and 105 pounds.

Prescott's victim in the state finals each of the last two years has been Section Ten champ Shannon DeRouchie of Massena. Prescott beat DeRouchie 13-1 in 1985, and by a technical fall last March. DeRouchie may try again Saturday, because the Massena senior is likely to advance through the opposite bracket and could again face Prescott. 3-5-87

Winning again won't be easy. Also in Prescott's bracket are returning state meet wrestlers Epifanio, Joe Amuso of Fox Lane, Mike Strycharz of East Meadow and Mark Woodworth of Fulton.

Nonetheless, Olean coach Jim Myers is optimistic. "Jeff has wrestled all of his regular-season matches, except for one mid-season tournament, at 119 pounds in order to get tougher competition," said Myers. "He either won by pin or by (15-point) technical fall in 33 of his 36 matches. The other three wins, all against real good kids, were by scores of 18-11, 20-7 and 15-4."

Wrestling In Fulton's Bloodline

Godici and the Merritts look with pride on the attendance past Fulton teams drew. But even they acknowledge today's overflow home and away crowds surpass those of past decades. Two weeks ago in a match against Liverpool at Fulton's G. Ray Bodley High School, the gym was filled to standing room capacity for the junior varsity match.

Bleau and Distin refuse to take such support for granted, partly because they know much of it comes from winning.

When Bleau went 22-18-1 his first three years coaching in the mid-70s, Distin said the crowd sank to as low as 300 to 400 fans for home meets. Since then, Fulton has won all but 12 of its 139 dual meets, and the packed gyms have returned.

It should stay that way for awhile. Bleau has developed a feeder program in his 12 years at Fulton, one that extends from pee wee teams to junior high. There's new wrestlers, new talent. But in many cases, the same enduring bloodlines.

"We were just talking the other day about how it won't be long until we see the same names in the lineup," Mike Merritt said. "The Angelers, the Haydens, the Farfaglias, the Jacobsons. All those same names are starting to come through again."

And all those relatives will be there to watch them.

CANASTOTA — The heritage of this tightknit Madison County community is succinctly symbolized by three structures all within one mile of New York State Thruway exit 34, which drops you off right in the middle of the village.

Straight ahead is a small showcase honoring boxers Billy Backus and Carmen Basilio, two village natives whose hearts and tenacity led them to world titles.

One-half mile north is the plant of Isadore A. Rapasadi and Sons Inc., one of the several family companies that have battled to overcome some disastrous crops recently to maintain the village's world-wide fame for potato and onion farming.

And an equal distance to the south is Canastota High School, where on any given winter night upwards of 1,000 people — about 20 percent of the village's population — may gather to watch a powerful high school wrestling team that was No. 2 in the state last year and is looking to stake a claim as No. 1 this year by beating rival Fulton on the road Saturday.

"There is a lot of competitiveness here," said Jim Giufre, a former co-coach of the team and whose cousin, Sam, a 1982 graduate of Canastota, is the winningest wrestler in Red Raiders' history with 121 career victories. "There's really not much to do in our area. When there's a sporting event, they do come out in numbers."

There were not a lot of high school wrestling teams in the area in 1938, when Bill Sharpe, a former Cornell University wrestler, started a program at Canastota.

"Part of my job (at the school) was to assist wrestling," recalled Sharpe, 72. "Hell's bells, I liked it. I'm accustomed to it."

And he wanted to bring that familiarity to the village 26 miles east of Syracuse.

"He's always been interested in athletics," said Sharpe's wife, Martha. "He figured wrestling, the kids couldn't get hurt like they could in boxing, and any boy could participate."

Nine boys were on that original team. Sharpe said they "tried hard," but Martha said he had to "teach them everything he knew" about the sport.

Sharpe, a member of the state Wrestling Hall of Fame, also laid the groundwork for wrestling teams in Rome, Oneida and Chittenango. But it was at Canastota — where he coached the team for 30 years — that he made his imprint.

"Bill created an esprit de corps," said Mike Milmo, publisher of the Canastota-Bee Journal, the local weekly newspaper. "He's just a very strong-willed individual who impacted on young men."

The sport hit a nerve in the village almost immediately, and it was not long before wrestling matches drew crowds equal to or surpassing those of the more traditional sports, such as football and basketball. But locals say it has been within the last five or 10 years that the sport has grown in popularity to the point where overflow crowds fill the gymnasium for many matches.

There's no mystery to why the sport has remained popular. Everyone loves a winner, and this district, one with an enrollment of 922 in grades seven through 12, has provided plenty of winners.

One state champion, 12 section champions, scores of class champions and three 100-career win wrestlers have strolled through the school's corridors. The team was Section Three champion in 1981 and last year, has won 28 straight matches, seven consecutive Tri-Valley League titles and is 10-0 this season.

"I think it's the community in general," said co-coach Jack Romagnoli, a former Red Raider wrestler, explaining the team's success. "Most of these parents are poor, they worked for everything they've achieved. That's reflected. Canastota has always been overachievers. Look at what they (other schools) have to pick from. Unbelievable."

It takes a genealogist, not a roster, to track the history of the sport in the village. Everybody wrestles. Fathers. Sons. Brothers. Cousins. Each team wrestles not only for itself, but for relatives who have been there.

"Sometimes it's adverse pressure, but I don't feel they feel pressure to perform as well as their brother did," Romagnoli said. "They just want to be part of the tradition."

Junior Tom Gleason, the team's 145-pounder, said the pressure to carry on the tradition does not bother him. As a youngster he said he looked up to the varsity wrestlers, and now he wonders how the village children view him.

"If you have something on your shoulders, you have to work that much harder," he said.

They start them young in Canastota. Doug Palmer, treasurer of the Canastota Pee Wee Wrestling Club, said about 125 children, ranging from 6 to 14 years old, take part in the free program every year.

"It is one of the few programs that a kid in our community can start at that age level," he said.

The students apparently remember what they're taught. When those same pee wee wrestlers try out for the school teams — which many invariably do — Romagnoli said they are already well-versed in the basics. Those skills are reinforced by Romagnoli, who said he makes sure his team is one of the best-drilled in Section Three.

"When I get then on the varsity level, they know the fundamentals, they know the heritage. It makes my job a lot easier," he said.

And in the end, the wrestlers say all the hard work pays off. Senior Bob Duffy, a 119-pounder who recently joined the 100-career win club, said the experience of being a Canastota wrestler matched the dreams he had about being in such a position when he was a pee wee.

"It's been great," he said. "It's even more exciting than I thought."

Technically, it's not a pin

But grabbing a 15-point lead is worth a 6-point victory

The only question people are asking about scholastic wrestling's new rule that awards a team six points once its wrestler grabs a 15-point lead during a match is "Why wasn't it done sooner?"

The "technical fall" ends a match just as a pin does. It's smart, safe and compassionate — a word foreign in today's microwave-oven society that wants results and nothing more.

1-12-86

"I realize the object of the sport is to pin," said Canastota Coach Jack Romagnoli. "But to send some kid out there and tell him not to get pinned, and then get rewarded for losing 22-0 isn't useful. If a guy proves he can dominate by that much, then he deserves the six points just like a pin."

Now, you don't see those embarrassing 29-2 jobs, as Fulton Coach Wayne Bleau has had to watch a few of his wrestlers administer.

"It takes away the embarrassment, but it's also made a lot of our guys more aggressive and offensive-minded," Bleau said. "They're looking to pile up as many points as possible as quickly as they can. They're not spending those two or three minutes trying to get the pin."

Bleau's 215-pounder, Randy Cotton, hasn't had to worry of such things this season while racking up 11 pins, a win because of a disqualification and just one technical fall. But he's noticed the difference in his teammates. There's more emphasis on technique.

It makes you work harder," Cotton said. "Guys just don't coast. You don't see a hold like the half nelson as much now." But you see a lot of tilting, a move designed to collect back points, a procedure Cotton describes as "chopping your guy down and elevating his back on to your hips and then rolling his back on to the floor, getting off and then doing it again."

"Some people think it's a cheap move. But more freestyling (wrestling) is coming into high school, so it's becoming more like college, and having a lot of moves is important."

1-12-86

Cotton's teammate, senior 138-pounder John Howard, suffered only the 11th loss of his career last weekend at the Union-Endicott Dual Tournament in a 6-4 decision to Vestal's Joe Markham. "I decided to go underneath (instead of starting the third period on top of his opponent) because I didn't think anyone could hold me down that long. But I wasn't in as good shape as I have been and I spent too much time trying to

Last week, before an Elmira crowd of about 100, Elmira Heights junior varsity wrestler Chris Cassada, 15, became the first high school girl to wrestle in New York state. The 132-pounder was pinned in 2:58 by Campbell High eighth-grader Bruce Hallock, who appears to have survived a potentially devastating experience. Hallock told a Binghamton newspaper that he wasn't concerned about holds, that all he had on his mind was impressing enough to earn a promotion to the varsity. "Coach (Kevin Rosko) told me to wrestle her like she was a guy." Cassada, who had to jump to 132 after failing to make weight for the 126 class, had kept statistics for Elmira Heights the past three seasons. Her brother, Dave, now graduated, was one of the top wrestlers in Section Four last season.

New York state wrestling chairman Reed Hawke said the Section Three Tournament, scheduled for Feb. 15, has been moved from the Utica War Memorial to Auburn High School. "Their facilities just weren't ready," Hawke said. "We'll lose a little on capacity, but Auburn's a huge place. I'd say it seats about 2,000 to 2,500 people, but we'll jam in everyone. They'll be sitting on the floor if they have to."

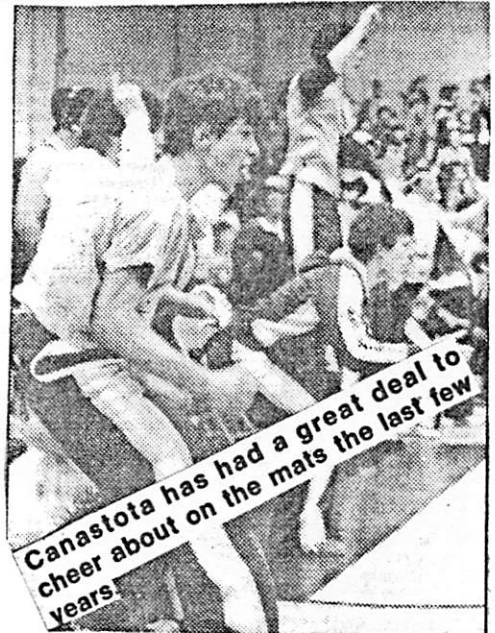

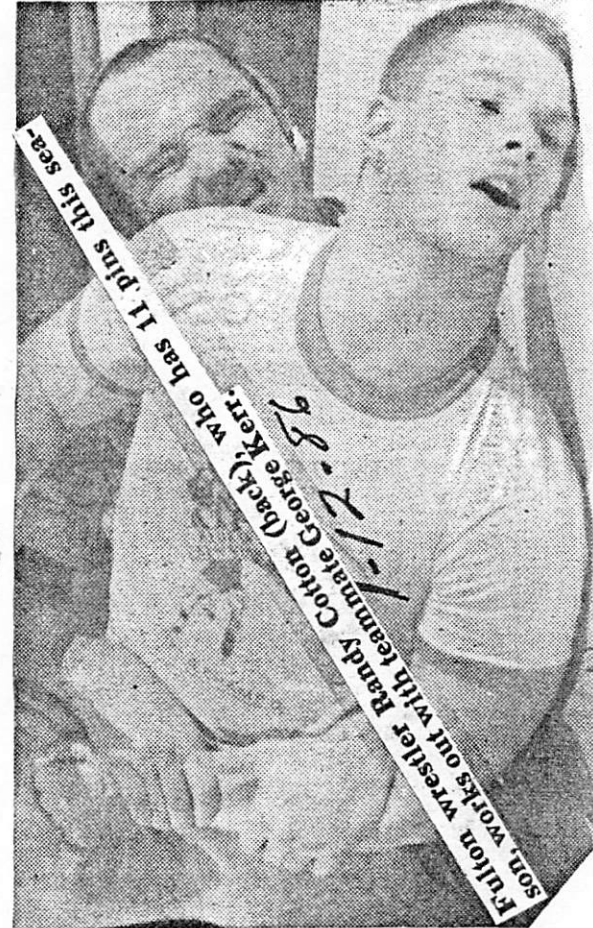

If you think the Liverpool boys swim team is going to go in the tank after losing to Fairport in what amounted to the state's regular-season championship, think again. Coach Frank Woodward has a tradition to uphold and Jeff Van Buren, the state's defending champion in the 100-yard breaststroke, has a time to beat.

"We're concentrating on winning some key meets around here and then winning the sectionals," Woodward said.

"Not winning a sectional would be unheard of in Liverpool. We went all out for Fairport as far as training and tapering. And we got right back into it. The Monday after we got together and talked. Well, I talked. Even though they don't keep team scores at the state meet, we want to get the most points of any team there."

The magic number for Van Buren is 58.23 seconds, the state record in the 100 breaststroke held by former Liverpool swimmer Scott Henry. Van Buren's best is a 59.91 from last year. His best this season is 1:02.1, right on schedule. "I set a four-year schedule," Van Buren said. "If I get it, I'll be ecstatic. If I don't, I don't."

By the way, if Van Buren's list of college choices (Hamilton, Colgate, Boston College, Villanova, Hobart and St. Lawrence to name a few) don't strike you as swimming hotbeds, it's because they're not. "I'm looking more at academics," Van Buren said. "I'd like to major in something like marine biology. That way I could put together my love for the water with studies and I'd like to keep swimming, too."

Olean Tops Bees; J-D Cages Falcons

Talented Clar Anderson took "MOW" honors and led Olean High of Western New York to first place, with 196.5 points, in the Baldwinsville Holiday Wrestling Tournament Friday night. Anderson was superb, pinning three victims and winning, 16-4, over 1978 New York State 105 runnerup Joe Labbate of East Syracuse-Minoa in the title bout.

Baldwinsville, with only a single champ in heavyweight Bob Deneve, was second with 184.5 points, losing its own tourney for the first time. Peru, with three champs, placed third.

Olean boasted other champs in George Pancio at 126 pounds and Kurt Stephen at 167 en route to the title. Coach Mike Foster's team, with the longest dual meet win streak in the Empire State (52, 5-0 this year) entered the meet as the No. 3-ranked team in the state mat poll, Baldwinsville was No. 2.

"Give Olean credit," said a sad, hoarse Bee coach Leo Johnson later. "They came here with a mission—to beat us—and they did the job."

WINDSOR TOURNAMENT: Canandaigua, the team that had won the North Syracuse "Bill Andersen" wrestling tourney a week ago, scored 199 points and had three champions to win the prestigious Windsor tourney. Favored Sherburne-Earlville was runnerup with 180.5, Sidney third with 110 points.

Switching to basketball, Syracuse's unbeaten powers protected their ledgers, Bishop Ludden (5-0) winning over St. Francis (see related story) and coach Jim McGrath's Jamesville-DeWitt Rams (7-0) defeating Fowler, 84-68, for first place in the F-M Tournament. Sanford Savitz tallied 12 of his 23 points in the final hectic period as the Rams surged away from a 53-50 lead after three.

Bob Bjork also had 23 points, Steve Andreatta grabbed 10 rebounds and added eight markers for the defending Section Three Class AA kings. Fowler is 5-2.

Host F-M (3-4) held off Utica Free Academy for third place, 64-61, as Pete Savage handled the rebounding duties and netted 16 for the Hornets. All-State soccer whiz Dave Axenfeld added 18 points for the victors, UFA slipping to 2-6.

The All-Tourney team was composed of F-M's Savage, J-D's Bjork and Jamie Frank, Fowler's Lonnie Johnson and UFA's Kelvin Hayden. Frank was MVP.

In other tournays:

EAST SYRACUSE-MINOA: Steve Malecki (MVP) netted 16 points and helped Henninger (5-1) roll over Baldwinsville, 85-52, for first place. James Baines adding 22 for the champs. Host ES-M (4-3) won the consi, 76-49, over Depew as Chris Asterino scored 15. The All-Tourney squad included Baines, Malecki and James Williams of the Knights, Jeff Hourihan and Mike O'Connor of B'ville, plus Asterino.

ONEONTA: Despite 30 points by Dwayne Dean, Bishop Grimes (3-5) fell to Cooperstown, 80-65, and finished last in the Yellowjacket tourney. Oneonta won the affair, 62-59, over Ellenville in a three-overtime thriller.

CENTRAL SQUARE: Favored New Hartford (5-1) showed the strength of Utica-area hoops this season with a 78-50 thumping of North Syracuse in the title game. Ron Evans, Andy Van Slyke and Scott Manzman all earning All-Tourney laurels. The host Redmen placed third via a 59-55 win over West Genesee as Mickey Smith netted 20 and also made the all-star team. Rigo Tarolli had 14 points for WG and made All-Tourney, as did Scott Fitzgerald of the Northmen (2-5). Evans was MVP.

ROME FREE: State-ranked Rome Free (8-0, No. 8) blasted Utica JFK, 106-56, for first place. Nottingham salvaged third place with a 64-53 win over Belleville (Canada) as Eric Curry led the 2-4 Bulldogs with 17 points.

PORT BYRON: Onondaga League squads Weedsport and Port Byron both lost, Weedsport falling to Union Springs (6-0) by 72-57, in the title game, the Panthers losing to Southern-Cayuga, 65-55, for third place honors. Roger White had 15 to lead 4-3 Weedsport, Dwayne Watson swished 26 in defeat for 1-6 Port Byron.

MORRISVILLE-EATON: Travel-weary LaFayette (3-2) survived three flat tires on its bus during the lengthy day to salvage third place, 54-36, over Cazenovia as Jim Marziale netted 13 points. Host Morrisville-Eaton won the affair, 62-55, over Madison.

WATERTOWN: Powerful Beaver River (7-0) rallied in the final stanza to beat Watertown, 60-55, behind the play of tourney all-stars Rob Giordano and Brian Widrick (19 points). The Rivermen, 18-2 and 17-2 the past two winters, loom as a Section Three Class B power to reckon with, as a 35-game Frontier League streak indicates. Watertown (4-2) placed John Lamont and Corey Doe on the All-Tourney team, Lamont netting 22 in defeat. Carthage creamed Massena, 81-42, for third.

JORDAN-ELBRIDGE: Little Onondaga Central of the OHSL South upset J-E, 66-63, for tourney honors as Joe Daniels netted 14 points and was awarded "MVP" accolades. Anthony Grady (20) and Gene Miller (16) joined Daniels on the all-star team, with Jeff Eamer of Hannibal Bob Mott and Bill Snyder of 3-5 J-E, plus Kevin Bush of 1-6 Tully. It was 6-1 Hannibal over Tully, 51-45, for third place. Mott of J-E scored 29 in a losing cause, the Eagles leading until a cold spell in the final period, when OCS outscored the hosts, 24-13.

OSWEGO: The host Buccaneers crushed Bishop Cunningham, 79-50, in a cross-town rivals title game. Fulton (4-2) took third place, 72-54, over slumping Auburn
